JOHNSON BLOCKS VOTE Committees' Size Is Senate Problem

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate was called on to do something today about a plan to boost the size of 10 of its major committees and assure Republican control of all 15. GOP Leader Taft of Ohio, who is pressing for approval, pointed out yesterday the Senate could not begin to function until committees were set up. And this, he added, cannot be done until their size is determined.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, blocked a Senate vote on the GOP plan when it was rushed to the floor Wednesday.

All day yesterday Republican and Democratic leaders conferred in an effort to reach agreement. Sen. Case (R-S.D.), one of the plan's authors, told a reporter he was hopeful something would be worked out in time for approval today.

The GOP committee plan in the Senate has a two-fold purpose:

1. To assure a Republican majority of one on each of the Senate's 15 regular committees. Under present Senate rules, GOP control of several would be jeopardized under the existing lineup of 48 GOP members, 47 Democrats and one Independent, Sen. Morse of Oregon.
2. To give more desirable committee assignments to freshmen and other senators with low seniority.

As presented to the Senate Wednesday, the plan would have added two members each to 10 major committees, and cut down five minor ones by two each.

It also would have permitted 18 Republican senators to serve on a third committee. This is the device which would give the new majority party control of all of the groups.

However, Johnson told a reporter many Democratic senators did not consider the plan fair. The Democrats would insist on some revisions, he said.

One Democratic objection that Republicans indicated they might meet was the section which would trim the government operations committee from 13 to 11 members.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), who headed the committee in the previous Congress, said it would be extremely busy this year with investigations and expected reorganization plans, and that its size should not be cut. Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) is to be the new chairman.

Valley Approves Financing Plan To Secure Water

WESLACO, Jan. 9 (AP)—Directors of the Lower Rio Grande Authority yesterday approved a plan for financing the largest water supply project in the history of the Valley.

The directors recommended adoption of a fiscal agency proposal to issue 20 million dollars in revenue bonds to pay for construction of a 71-mile gravity canal from the planned Anzalduas Dam across the Rio Grande in Southern Hidalgo County to irrigated areas below Brownsville. All water districts below Donna would be served with water from the canal instead of from the river.

The recommendation now goes to the full conference of the Lower Rio Grande Authority meeting in Harlingen, Jan. 16.

If the conference, made up of one representative from each of its 20 member districts, approves then the entire proposal will be submitted to landowners. The plans call for each landowner to pay $3.25 per acre per year to pay off the bonds. Districts would collect from individual water users.

The authority was created by the state legislature to distribute Texas' share of the waters impounded by the $5-million dollar Falcon Dam now nearing completion in western Starr County, and the Anzalduas Dam. The Anzalduas Dam, a joint project between the United States and Mexico, will store water released from Falcon then divert it into twin Texas and Mexico canal projects. The Mexico canal project has been completed. The Texas canal cannot be built until the dam is finished. The United States has appropriated 1 1/2 million dollars to start Anzalduas construction.

The Anzalduas gravity canal replaces a reclamation bureau proposal in 1950 for a 117-mile canal direct from Falcon Dam to Brownsville. The proposal was rejected in a farmers' referendum. The new project was designed by Valley engineers and is being planned and financed without government assistance.

John Carr of Chicago, representative of the authority fiscal agency, urged the directors to include the $500,000 cost for the 7,800-acre site of Anzalduas Dam in the revenue bond issue since the government will not build Anzalduas until the site is donated.

Charges Dismissed

GOESBECK, Jan. 9 (AP)—A District Court jury here yesterday acquitted Edward Ray Kitchens, 17, of charges of murder with malice. Young Kitchens was charged in the July 4 death of Ray Foley, his brother-in-law.

Wins Biggest Turkey Contest

Tom Bingham of Aubrey, Tex., had to sit down in order to hold his dressed turkey that won the biggest turkey contest sponsored by the National Turkey Foundation during its convention in Dallas, Tex. The big bird weighed in at a whopping 68 and one-half pounds to far outweigh the others entered. The runner up was one from Kansas City, Mo., that weighed 57 pounds. Dressed turkeys from 12 states were represented in the contest. (AP Wirephoto).

Prosecution Sums Up Case In Dorothy Smith's Trial

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
TOKYO (AP)—The prosecution in the U. S. Army court martial trial of Dorothy Krueger Smith contended today that the evidence showed both motive and premeditation in the knife slaying of her husband, Col. Aubrey Smith.

Lt. Col. W. H. H. Jones summed up for the prosecution. Then the trial recessed until tomorrow, when the defense will review its case.

Mrs. Smith, daughter of Gen. Walter Krueger of World War II fame, is charged with fatally stabbing her husband in the bedroom of their Tokyo residence about midnight Oct. 3. She pleaded innocent.

Not once during the five days of testimony did the defense seek to disprove the charge. Instead, it sought to prove that Mrs. Smith was mentally unbalanced. She did not testify.

Conviction on the charge of premeditated murder carries a penalty of death or life imprisonment. But if the court decides she was temporarily insane it can acquit her and make recommendations for her care.

Jones concluded his one hour and 45 minute summation: "What is the motive? "Please examine these facts in sequence—these things Mrs. Smith was quoted as saying about her husband:

"He told me I had been a detriment to his career. He told me he was being shanghaied (transferred) from his job as a result of my behavior. He told me he was sending me back to the United States. Before that happens, I'll kill him."

The star defense witness, Brig. Gen. Rawley E. Chambers, chief psychiatrist of the U. S. Army, was recalled by Prosecutor Jones, who asked him:

"In your opinion was Mrs. Dorothy Smith in the grip of an irresistible impulse when she plunged a knife into her husband's side?"

It is my opinion that she was," Chambers replied.

He testified previously that he was Mrs. Smith's physician when the Army couple was stationed at San Antonio, Tex., and had observed a mental derangement at that time.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Cuba's consul in Los Angeles, Dr. Juan Manuel de la Puente y Lopez, succumbed to a heart attack yesterday. He was 58.

It's Really Simple To Prevent Holdup

BALTIMORE (AP)—A gunman walked into a laundry yesterday and demanded money.

"No money," replied operator Tom Dry with Oriental calm.

"Give me that box," the bandit ordered, pointing to a cigar box on the counter behind Dry.

"No box," said the laundryman, turning and walking into the back room.

The gunman turned and walked out the front door.

"PAY DAY"

You expect your pay-day to come regularly. And the "pay day"—when you pay your bills—should be just as regular. When the courtesy of credit is extended to you, there is an understanding that your account is payable by the 10th of the month.

Your credit standing—a vital part of your "good name"—is partly established by the promptness with which you meet your obligations. Make it a point to meet them on time.

You'll find that consistent payment of bills helps smooth your budget, makes your whole financial plan easier for the year. Once you "get behind", it is never as easy to "catch up." For your own interests, be punctual on your own "pay day."

Confessing and Following Christ

SHOWING HOW FALSE IDEAS OF TRUTH AND DUTY MAY MISLEAD

Scripture—Matthew 16.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

IN OUR efforts to confess and follow our Lord, our lesson today shows how false ideas of truth and duty may be misleading and may persuade to the very opposite of what we strive to achieve.

This is as true today—even more so—than it was in Jesus' day when He pointed out this danger to His disciples.

The conservative Pharisees and the modernistic Sadducees came to Jesus on a mountain in northern Palestine, and tempting Him, asked for a sign from heaven.

Christ's answer was marvelous and crushing to these hypocritical men who always asked, not for information, but with the sole purpose of tripping Jesus and giving them an excuse to injure Him.

"When it is evening," said Christ, "ye say, it will be fair weather; for the sky is red."

"And in the morning, it will be foul weather today; for the sky is red and lowering. O ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky, but can ye not discern the signs of the times?"

Further the Lord said, "A wicked and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given unto it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas."

And He left them and departed. When Jesus and the disciples arrived on the other side, they found they had forgotten to bring food, and Jesus said to them, "Take heed and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and the Sadducees."

This puzzled the disciples and they reasoned that Christ's words alluded to the fact that they had no bread. But Jesus, reading their minds, reproved them and reminded them of the 5,000 He had fed with five loaves and a few fishes and the 4,000 who had been plentifully fed from seven loaves, as we have read in previous lessons.

Then they realized that Jesus meant that they should beware of the doctrines of the Pharisees and Sadducees, which might act as a leaven to nullify their faith.

When they had come into the land of Gennesaret, they went to the synagogue of the town.

And in the morning, it will be foul weather today; for the sky is red and lowering. O ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky, but can ye not discern the signs of the times?"

Further the Lord said, "A wicked and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given unto it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas."

coasts of Caesarea, Jesus asked His associates what men said of Him: "Whom do men say that I the Son of man am?"

"Some say that Thou art John the Baptist, some Elias and others Jeremiah, or one of the prophets." "But whom say ye that I am?"

And Simon Peter answered and said, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."

Jesus said, "Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but My Father which is in heaven."

Then Jesus said something that has been a disputed passage ever since. "And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build My church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

"And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven."

One authority, whom we prefer to quote and accept says, that the rendering of the verse should be: "Thou, Simon Barjona, art Petros, a man of rock, worthy of thy name Peter, because thou hast made that bold, good confession; and on the truth thou hast now confessed, as on a rock, will I build My church."

Jesus warned His disciples that they should tell no man that He was the Christ; the time was not ripe.

From then on Jesus began to show His disciples that He must go to Jerusalem, must there suffer, die and be raised again. Peter could not believe that could happen, remembering how people loved and worshiped Him and brought their troubles to have Him make them whole.

When Peter chided Christ for His warnings, Jesus said, "Get thee behind Me, Satan; thou art an offense unto Me; for thou savorest not the things that be of God, but those that be of men."

Christ told His followers that if they would come after Him they must bear His cross, even if it cost them their lives.

"For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?"

AT BIG SPRING CHURCHES

Laymen Will Lead Services Sunday In A Number Of Big Spring Churches

Several laymen will be guest speakers at morning and evening worship services in Big Spring churches Sunday.

PRESBYTERIAN Elder G. T. Guthrie of the First Presbyterian Church will bring the morning message at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

At First Presbyterian the pastor, Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, has selected as his morning topic, "Every One Over Against His Name," with the text Nehemiah 3. "Joy and Peace" will be the evening subject.

FIRST CHRISTIAN The Rev. Clyde Nichols will deliver the Sunday morning sermon on "What Must I Do to Be Saved?" from Acts 16, and the choir will sing "Wonderful Grace of Jesus." "Your Place in the Plans of God" will be the evening subject.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE "The Foundation of Stewardship" will be the morning sermon subject of the Rev. H. W. Stroman, pastor, who will speak in the evening on "The Second Coming of Christ."

CATHOLIC Masses will be conducted by the Rev. Williams J. Moore, OMI, at 7 and 9:30 a. m. at St. Thomas Catholic Church. Rosary will be recited at 5 p. m.

Aggressive Sales Program Mapped By Philip Morris

A "bold selling plan" backed by the strongest advertising support ever given one brand of cigarettes, will mark Philip Morris' merchandising plans for 1953, the opening session of a seven-state regional sales meeting of the cigarette company's staff was told Thursday in Dallas. Jack S. Prokop, newly-appointed regional sales manager, read a message from Alfred E. Lyon, chairman of the board of Philip Morris, predicting 1953 would be the "best year in Philip Morris history" and noting a "decided upward trend in Philip Morris sales toward the close of 1952."

At the meeting were the company's representatives from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Wyoming, Nebraska, Kansas, and Colorado. In attendance from the New York national headquarters were Harry W. Chesley, vice president in charge of coordinating sales, advertising and sales promotion; Ray Jones, vice president in charge of sales; Robert Larkin, sales promotion director; Roger Greene, advertising manager; George Harris, Dunhill sales director; George Wetsman, assistant to the president; Robert Bragan, and Thomas Santacrose of the Blow advertising agency.

THIEF ROBS STORE WHILE PROPRIETOR'S BACK TURNED

Automatic candid camera snaps thief in action. Police have clues to identify.

"Small-time crook playing for peanuts," someone says, tossing aside the newspaper. But small-time crooks often become big-timers. And even "peanuts" are important.

Too many times somebody's back has been turned while this young fellow (and others like him) have been growing up. Too many times somebody has overlooked petty offenses, remarking, "Boys will be boys." Too many times these little misdemeanors have mushroomed into serious crimes.

A young person who learns through home and church "to love the Lord thy God . . . and thy neighbor . . ." will not even want to commit such deeds against his neighbors. If his mind and heart are filled with the goodness of God, he will want to show that goodness and kindness to others.

Don't turn your back on youngsters. But turn your feet and heart toward the Church, and take these young folk with you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Morocoans Want Independence Now

By DANIEL DE LUCE

RABAT, French Morocco, Jan. 9 (AP) — Gen. Augustin Guillaume looks calmly from his palace at sunset over the capital of a hot land in cold revolution.

At this hour, bitter Moroccan nationalists are at home plotting the future over sugary glasses of mint tea. Their white villas cover Rabat's hillside to the lacy edge of the Atlantic.

Sultan Sultan Mohammed Ben Yusuf, a confident fatalist who has reigned but not ruled for a quarter-century, waits for the next political gambit. His high-walled palace is a few blocks from that of the French resident general.

A man of eight languages and subtle intelligence, Augustin Guillaume has spent 25 years of his long military career in Africa. The colonial authority over Morocco which he inherited last year is a kind of a buggy whip in a proposed age.

Standing on his carved stone balcony, polite host to the newest of an endless procession of inquisitive foreigners, he interposes casually: "A wonderful country, Morocco, with difficult problems. Everything is not perfect. We can improve things."

The French have been supreme in Morocco since 1912. They edged out the German empire in the first colonial scramble. They held on in Africa when their own country was overrun in 1940-44.

When Morocco fell under French sway, it was juggling along at a donkey's pace just as the 20th century began to whiz. Although they had to stop and fight two world wars, the French have poured in money and technical skill to bring Morocco out of the Middle Ages.

The primary motive may have been to enrich Frenchmen. But the land itself prospered. Skyscrapers arose in mud-walled villages, oil was found, miners began tapping some of the world's richest deposits of phosphates, manganese, lead zinc.

The last fiercely independent tribes deep in the Atlas Mountains capitulated to French guns and rules by 1934. For nearly a generation this country approximating the size of California has been in military terminology, pacified.

Plenty of prosperity has rubbed off on Morocoans. But not power. The Sultan has more than eight million Muslim subjects, but only a shadow government. The French, number 335,000 boss the works.

For Moroccan nationalists, they have a pat formula: Let's reform the archaic structure of the sultanate first, then talk about autonomous rule, or something like it, later.

The nationalists stubbornly reply: "Independence first. We'll do our own reforming."

Their own Moroccan leaders have been getting richer in the French-ruled boom, and the Sultan, for his "sovereignty," is spending a million dollars on his sixth birthday. He owns more land and has amassed more wealth than anyone in his realm.

The nationalists concede great physical achievements under French rule, but this does not silence their clamor that Frenchmen have exploited more than they have developed, suppressed more than they have enlightened.

They complain that 2 1/2 million acres—20 per cent of the total cultivated land—are owned by less than 5,000 Frenchmen while millions of Morocoans scratch tiny plots with wooden plows.

They indignantly compare the French ban on nationalist parties with the unhampered legal right of French Communists to engage in political activity and ask who a danger to whom.

Nobody can come up on the French side with a definite timetable for graceful and gradual transition of power. Few officials can imagine any type of independence for Morocco that would not retain "indestructible ties" with France.

The Morocoans talk in terms of all or nothing, which is not conducive to agreement either. But they claim that the "democratic, independent Morocco under a constitutional monarch" which they envisage would protect valid French interests.

Poster Girls And President-Elect

March of Dimes poster girls, Pamela, left, and Patricia O'Neill, of Raleigh, N. C., and the nation's new President-elect, Dwight Eisenhower, urge nation-wide support of the National Foundation For Infantile Paralysis fund campaign. Pam and Pat were stricken with polio but both have fully recovered. They're pictured on this year's March of Dimes posters. This year's fund campaign is being emphasized as a result of the record polio epidemic of 1952 in which 55,000 persons were stricken. At the beginning of 1953, 58,000 polio victims of former years still were undergoing treatment with vital help from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

NO TROUBLE AT ALL

'Snookering' Okay In Louisville Parks

By HARRY PADGETT
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 9 (AP) — Snookering is no sneak proposition in Louisville parks. It is triple-police-protected.

Snookering? That's necking in a parked automobile. Police Chief Carl Heustis invented the word.

Louisville, with 1,955 acres of roughly wooded parks and 23 miles of paved parkways winding through them, is made to order for snookering.

Here you can park—and be romantic—in a park all night long, if you wish.

This Gateway City to the South is especially proud of one record: Louisville has not had one instance of murder, molestation, major robbery or other crime in its parks in the memory of Parks Director Bill Moore or Police Lt. Christian Choche, who has headed the park police detail almost seven years and has been a policeman for more than 30.

"We're in favor of romance," says Chief Heustis. "We believe that our system of allowing snookering in the city's parks and providing police protection is the reason Louisville does not suffer lover's lane crimes."

Oldtime officials cannot recall how long the park-and-pet privilege has existed, nor how it all began. More said he thought it dated from the horse-and-buggy days.

In each of the five major parks — Seneca, Iroquois, Cherokee, Shawnee and Chickasaw—an area is set aside for parking. Iroquois, the largest, boasts the most popular precinct—a place called Look-out Peak. It is on a high hill overlooking Louisville's downtown area.

Chief Heustis says snookering gets triple protection this way:

1. Uniformed officers from the special park detail, which Lt. Choche heads, patrol the parks.
2. Regular uniformed policemen tour the parks in their prowl cars just as they patrol the other parts of their districts.
3. The crime prevention bureau of the police department maintains a vigil in the parks. The bureau personnel, both men and women, make tours of the parking spots in teams of two or three.

Despite the police blessing of snookering, there is no lack of morals or encouragement of such, Moore emphasized.

"The parking is a privilege, and a healthy one, which we feel is justifiable," he said.

He explained there is a sense of supervision ever present in the

Knife-Fork Club Plans For Dinner Session Wednesday

Notices have been sent to the membership announcing the next dinner session of the local Knife and Fork Club, next Wednesday evening at 7:30. Reservations are to be returned to the secretary, Mrs. Moree Sawtelle, by noon Tuesday.

Speaker for the occasion will be Hawthorne Daniel, widely known author and world traveler, who is to discuss "Ten of the Greatest Figures of the Past 5,000 Years." Author of 23 books, Daniel's most recently published volume is the current, "Judge Medina: A Biography." This is the life story of the federal judge who presided over the difficult and long drawn-out trial of the eleven Communist leaders.

Daniel has lectured widely through this country and Canada, and has traveled extensively throughout the world. He was educated at Annapolis, Iowa State College, New York University and Columbia University, has been newspaper reporter and magazine editor.

He was an officer overseas in World War I, served as a war correspondent in World War II, and has traveled extensively throughout the world. He was educated at Annapolis, Iowa State College, New York University and Columbia University, has been newspaper reporter and magazine editor.

Riding THE GRUB LINE With Franklin Reynolds

Harvey Fryar, who with 18 years of expert tax accounting and auditing experience, is taking care of the income tax returns for members of the Howard County Farm Bureau, reports that most members are finding it possible to get in on schedule and that he is "managing to keep pretty busy."

Fryar says, however, that if any member cannot find it convenient to come in on schedule, and he says he knows some of them can't make it on time, that he will be glad to meet them at night, by appointment, if necessary.

Appointments can be made by telephoning 3480 and making the appointment with Mrs. Mae Wolfe, Cecil Leatherwood, the Bureau's president, or Fryar himself.

"Our plan is to give the members the very best service we can," Fryar explains, "and we want to make it as convenient as possible for them."

Attention is also called to the fact that the new location of the office of the Farm Bureau is at 117 1/2 Runnels to which it was moved several weeks ago.

Why retail meat prices stay so high in spite of the drop in live cattle prices is of considerable concern right now to the consuming public as well as the cattlemen.

The reason, in view of complicated circumstances, isn't easy to find, but it apparently stems, in a large measure, from OPS regulations, with which the packer and retailer find it impossible to comply in trimming and cutting carcasses and at the same time giving the consumer the benefit of the lower prices for cattle on the hoof.

Such regulations as are imposed on the beef industry, according to the experts, instead of helping the consumer hurt him deeply.

Wesley Hardenbergh, president of the American Meat Institute, warns that it must not be assumed that the OPS regulations will be allowed to die, but that the cattle-of the Midland Police Department, who has a farm four miles south of Midland is seeding permanent grasses on retired cropland. . . One of the most promising Midland County crops, according to Ben Osborn, SCS work unit conservationist, are the Austrian winter peas that were planted in cotton middles last September during a field day demonstration.

Earl Cooper, Big Spring feed dealer, says that some Texas feed dealers who were afraid the government's drought disaster area hay program would hurt their business when it was announced last fall, now say that instead of hurting it has helped them.

Generally, however, the dealers are still critical of the plan on the grounds that it was a misrepresentation and has gotten some stockmen deeper in the dry hole.

When the program was first announced last fall it was fairly generally understood that it would be carried on through the drought emergency, or at least through the winter months. Then, even well before the arrival of the first day of winter, it was announced the program was being discontinued.

Stockmen who had believed the program was going to be continued to help them through the winter held on to stock they would otherwise have sold and have now been obliged to go out and buy feed on the usual market. This is the boost the discontinuance of the program has given feed dealers.

The reason of "no more funds" was given for the ending of the program, notice of which came in November.

There is a possibility that more funds may be made available by the new administration, but there is no definite indication of this.

Jess Jenkins, work unit conservationist, with the Lamessa unit of the Soil Conservation Service, is calling attention of farmers and ranchers in that SCD to the fact that those who are planning on planting grass should make arrangements for the seed now.

Later, he says, the seed will be scarcer and higher in price. He is also suggesting that those anticipating making such plantings pool their requirements and buy in 100-pound lots since they can get it cheaper that way.

Texas May Owe N.M. Slice Of Panhandle

DALLAS, Jan. 9 (AP)—A new member of the Texas Legislature says Texas owes New Mexico a 16-mile deep slice of the Texas Panhandle but he doesn't want to prove it. He is Rep. J. B. Walling, Wichita Falls, who discovered a 2,650-acre surveyor's error in West Texas recently. State officials earlier in the week had upheld Walling's claim that an 1875 survey of Loving County was inaccurate. The ruling left legally vacant a strip of land a third of a mile wide and 12 miles long and another one-fifth of a mile wide and 18 miles long. Walling got the right to buy or lease 991 acres, plus a mineral interest in the rest of the disputed area.

Yesterday, while stopping off here en route to Wichita Falls from Austin, he modestly admitted that producing oil wells were in sight of some sections of his claim. And he told of another error he said he found in the two-year study of West Texas land surveys. "My findings, which were double-checked by a second surveyor, indicate the Texas-New Mexico boundary is 16 miles out of place," he said. "The only way it could be proved would be to dig in the sand out there to find an old bottle a surveyor buried as a marker in 1875. I'm sure not going to try to find it. I'd never be elected to public office again in Texas if I did." Walling started his study of state land office records while he was working on a master's degree at the University of Texas. He also had a job as a legislator's secretary. When the legislature was over and school was out, he went to Loving County with borrowed money and hired a surveyor. "I've spent about half my time since then in West Texas," he said. "I told the local ranchers what I was up to, and they were on good terms with me because whatever I proved would establish once and for all the disputed boundary lines out there. "The survey proved that the old time surveyor had never gone into the field at all, but just put marks on a map in his office. We uncovered two narrow strips of unclaimed land. One was along the eastern edge of the county and one along the Southern boundary." Walling filed claim to all of the land but some land owners who thought the land belonged to them

Charges Are Due Against Pair In Knife Slaying

AMARILLO, Jan. 9 (AP)—Two young men, one an airman absent without leave, were to be charged here today in the grisly slaying of a 60-year-old taxicab driver. Police identified the men whom they said hacked Harry Gibbs to death as Joseph Paul Lucas, 20, an AWOL airman from Amarillo Air Force Base, and Earl George Robertson, 21, a plumbing company employe here. Lucas is from Tamaque, Pa., police said. The break in the case came less than eight hours after Gibbs, torn and bleeding, staggered to a South-east Amarillo home's back door shouting, "Help me, help me, I'm bleeding to death!" Robertson, police said, reported to them soon after Gibbs died that he had been cut on the hand by two men that attacked him. Lucas' arrest followed quickly. And police finally broke them down after hours of grilling. Both signed written statements in the presence of Bill Feathers, Amarillo newsmen, and Dist. Atty. H. C. Pipkin said the pair would be charged today. Police said Robertson was cut on the hand during the melee the pair said followed their attempt to rob Gibbs. They said Robertson apparently beat the cab driver as Lucas repeatedly knifed him. One of Lucas' wild slashes hit Robertson, they said. Gibbs—stabbed 28 times in the back and six times in the chest and abdomen—was the third taxicab driver to be stabbed in Amarillo within the last two weeks. The other two lived. His death was the second fatal stabbing and beating this week. The other victim was a filling station attendant. Victor T. Smith was found dead early Tuesday at the service station here where he was employed. He had been clubbed over the head at least nine times and stabbed repeatedly. Officers surmised he attempted to resist a robbery. Wednesday night the same filling station was robbed. Gibbs and Smith were dead when police arrived. One of the other cab drivers attacked was critically injured and is still unable to tell of the assault.

Former Presidential Advisor Succumbs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles E. Merriam, 78, former professor of political science at the University of Chicago who also served in several government agencies, died yesterday at Hilltop Hospital in nearby Rockville, Md., after a long illness. Associates said Merriam had been an adviser to Presidents Theodore and Franklin D. Roosevelt and that he introduced the late Harold Ickes to the latter.

The Democrats Could Be Called A Stubborn Bunch

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—There are lots of laws that need passing in Maryland, but the State Legislature can't get started. Here's the problem: Two days ago 123 members of the House Delegates and 29 senators from all over the state came to Annapolis to get together, make a few speeches and pass some laws—just the way they do in other states. Everything seemed to be going along well enough at first. Then the Democratic senators, 18 of them, excused themselves from their Republican colleagues and met in a caucus. The purpose of this meeting was to pick out a good Democrat and put him over as president of the Senate. It takes 15 votes to elect a Senate president and there are 18 Democrats. All they had to do was agree on a man, have everybody vote for him and they couldn't lose. The trouble started in the caucus. Nine of the Democrats wanted to keep Sen. George Della of Baltimore as president. He's had the job since 1951. But nine others said what the Democratic party in Maryland needs is new leadership because it lost the last two state elections. So they voted for Sen. C. Ferdinand Sybert. The Democrats voted 39 times. And 39 times the vote came out 9-9.

Hoover To Ride Ahead Of Cabinet Members

WASHINGTON (AP)—Herbert Hoover, most recent Republican to occupy the White House, will ride just ahead of President-elect Eisenhower's incoming Cabinet in the Jan. 20 inaugural line of march. The ex-President's car will be flanked by that of Chief Justice Fred Vinson.
