PUBLIC SERVANTS NOW MASTERS

John W. Davis, the distinguished lawyer who was Democratic candidate for President in 1924, recently gave an excellent example of the plight of the taxpayer when it comes to fighting the growth of bureaucracy. There are at latest estimate, some 644,000 federal employees, whose salaries are paid through taxation. Yet, as Mr. Davis pointed out, no person in the country has ever had an opportunity to vote for more than five of these. The only national officials whose names reach a ballot are the president, the vice-president, two senators and one representative and this list, so far as practical considerations are concerned, could be reduced to four, inasmuch as the vice-president's name is coupled with the president's, and he wins or loses in company with his chief.

The hundreds of thousands of civil servants who came to the positions they hold without the expressed wish of the electorate, do much to determine our destinies. They are instrumental in making laws, in prohibiting rights, in raising taxes. The same thing is true, to a somewhat lesser degree, in other units of government beside the federal. The nation is today staggering under a vastly expensive army of bureaucrats which it never asked for.

It is of course impossible to vote for every government worker. But our elected officials owe the public a serious responsibility—the responsibility of seeing that bureaucracy is kept to an absolute minimum. They owe it to those who send them to office to keep government efficient and economical—hold strictly to the business of governing, and not to venture into fields that are properly the province of the private citizen.

That ideal of public service, followed by elective officers of all kinds, would go far toward solving the tax problem—a problem that is engaging far-sighted and thinking mind today.

Making Sign Language-Learner

Howard Sanderville, seventy-year-old Blackfoot Indian, and probably the greatest living authority on what ethnologists regard as one of the most remarkable systems of communication known to man, has been brought to Washington by the Smithsonian Institution to complete a sign language dictionary which was left half finished by the death of Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, veteran Indian fighter and peace-maker. The sign Mr. Sanderville is making in the photograph means "you."

NOTICE:

My class in expression and dramatic art will be opened with the beginning of school, with regular class periods and individual instruction at my home. Classes this year will be limited in number and applications are being received now. Organization of a Radio Club, with monthly broadcasts by pupils from the San Angelo radio station and possibly one or two broadcasts during the term from San Antonio, will be a feature of this year's class activities. If interested, please phone 242 as soon as possible.

Advertising space in all a newspaper has to sell. The regular publication of a newspaper depends upon its advertising support and the degree of support it receives determines what kind of newspaper it is. Read the advertisements. Tell the advertisers you read them. Pay from advertisers in your newspaper who are doing their share toward making your paper possible. Both the Stockman and its advertisers would be grateful for your cooperation and encouragement.

SCANDALS By THE TOWN GOSSIP

Two more Goose-Eggs at the hands of the Del Rio Cowboys and the grand total of the Ozona Giants is .000000000, quite a goodly number, don't you think? One nice thing about the last two games though—we didn't have any of the so-called talent from San Antonio in the fracas. You know folks, T. G. can stand to sit in the stands and see our home boys boot one now and then—I know it isn't costing me anything—but well we went go into that. Suffice to say that we are minded of the old adage about it being better to have loved and lost etc. I had much rather go out and see our home folks lose a good stiff game than not to have been able to have seen a ball game of any kind. So we want to take time right here to tell the boys, Kyle, Cox, Russell Bros., Greer, Brown, Weaver, James, Dorley, that we are for them and want to commend them for their sportsmanship and stickability in face of criticism and stiff opposition and am sincerely glad to be able to live in a place which has produced a Home-Grown bunch of good clean

Just one more dirty dig and we are through razing the boys for this season: In the game last Sunday a stranger in town strolled over to the baseball park and seeing that the game was already in progress asked a boy, "What's the score?" The boy answered, "Forty-four to nothing." "Do you think the home team will win?" asked the stranger. "It don't look any too good," said the boy. "Our side ain't had a chance to bat yet." It has just come to our attention that Mr. Joe Davidson recently sold a bull from his herd for the nice sum of $1500. While we felicitate Mr. Davidson on being able to dispose of his bull at this figure, yet we cannot but feel rather badly when we reflect that it will take just exactly One Hundred and Fifty weeks for us to sell ours for that amount. I guess its just the age in which we are living.

We told C. J. Watts yesterday that there was just one honest way of making a living. Of course he naturally wanted to know, "How's that?" To which I replied, "I thought you wouldn't know." You can imagine how red his face was. We were talking to a young lady in San Angelo one day last week and she asked me if I happened to be acquainted with Ed Bean and mentioned the fact that she had been stepping out with him. I asked her how Ed treated her to which she replied, "Very reluctantly." Conjuror: "Now, my lad, you hear your watch ticking inside the handkerchief; are you satisfied?" Youngster: "More than satisfied. It hasn't been going for a year."

Leaders Confident Of United States Participation In Centennial

WICANA, Texas, August 1.—(Special to The Stockman) The centennial celebration of 1936 is regarded as a certainty if the views are adopted by both the House and the Senate. Senator Tom Connally is chairman of the committee of the National and Senate which will visit this fall to determine the degree and nature of Federal participation in the big Texas event.

Another member of the joint committee is Representative Fritz G. Lanham of the Fort Worth district.

"I am convinced that the Federal government has a definite part, and a part that it should accept, in the Texas Centennial of 1936," Senator Connally said.

"The romantic history of this State is very closely linked with the march of the American flag from the Alleghenies to the Pacific. Of greater importance to the Union was the annexation of Texas than even the Louisiana Purchase, because it opened the way for the quick acquisition of territory all the way westward to the Pacific.

"Again recent arrivals from the United States won the Texas victory at San Jacinto. They created the provisional government and wrote the Declaration of Independence at Old Washington. The entire history of Texas from the days of the colonists is so closely interwoven with the history and destiny of the Federal Union that there can be no separation of the two.

"The Texas Centennial is the greatest step forward yet undertaken by an American State. It at once pays honor and reverence to the fathers and mothers who established a great civilization here, and looks forward to the further development of this mighty empire. Its vision is so far-fetched, its plans so comprehensive, and the determination of its hard-working Commission so marked, that a description cannot be given in the English language.

"Texas is entitled to the very biggest celebration that may be prepared and staged in the time intervening before the Centennial year. The vastness of the State, the unparalleled history it has, the resources developed and those awaiting developing call for big events, big men, big plans, large execution."

FARM PURCHASING POWER INCREASES 25 PER CENT

COLLEGE STATION—Farm purchasing power on the average throughout the United States has been 25 per cent higher during the first nine months in which benefit payments have been distributed through the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act than in the corresponding period of the previous year.

This is the conclusion reached by L. H. Bean, economic advisor to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, following a study of the prices farmers receive for their products, compared with the cost of commodities they buy. Cash income, including benefit payments, during this nine month period increased 38 per cent but this increase was partially offset by an increase in the cost of commodities farmers buy.

Benefit payments on production adjustment contracts contributed nearly one-fifth of the net increase of 25 per cent in purchasing power. For the first four months of 1934, the net increase in farm purchasing power was 28 per cent over the first four months of 1933.

Mr. Bean's study also shows that the purchasing power of the farmer increased somewhat more than the purchasing power of the country as a whole during the first four months of 1934. During this period, the total national money income, including the distribution of emergency funds, was about 20 per cent higher than in the corresponding period of 1933, but the cost of living for the country as a whole increased eight per cent, leaving a net increase of 12 per cent in the national purchasing power. The net increase in farm purchasing power was 28 per cent for the same period.

University Regents Endorse Ethics Code For Staff Members

Austin, Texas, August 7.—Endorsement of the University of Texas Board of Regents has been given to the proposed "code of ethics" to govern the relations of staff members of that institution with members of the Texas Legislature and with other state officials and authorities, and the code is thereby rendered effective. This "code" stipulates that no employee of the University shall without the knowledge and approval of the President, who, with the Board of Regents, is the only channel through which recommendations concerning the administration of the institution should reach State authorities, initiate or promote any legislation affecting the University or its various departments.

The code specifically bans the promotion by any individual employee of any recommendation "concerning his personal advancement, the advancement of his department, or the advancement of any other individual or department," and states that an employee of the University who invites a member of the Legislature or a State official to call upon to discuss policies affecting the University in any way is "under obligation of honor to inform the President of the nature of such discussions."

These regulations have been imposed upon the faculty by its unanimous vote of the general faculty before being submitted to the Regents.

Sixty Per Cent Of Felons In Texas Bear Tattoo Marks

FT. WORTH, Aug. 1.—State Prison Manager Lee Simmons Thursday wondered if there is a psychological or sociological reason for 60 per cent of the inmates of the Texas penitentiary wearing tattoo marks.

Is there a similarity between the type of mind that seeks tattoo marks and those who commit crime? Does it have some significance from the standpoint of criminology?

Simmons will carry his study further to attempt to answer those questions.

"Not so long ago I began taking notice of the number of tattooed men entering prison," Simmons said. "For no reason at all, other than curiosity, I began watching new arrivals, and then I made a sort of casual check of old-timers."

"I think I am safe in saying that at least 60 per cent of our prisoners are tattooed with some kind of mark."

"Some forearms are decorated with initials, with flowers, with butterflies, names and landscapes. Then, too, there's the favored heart and arrow and the highly popular knife blade slotting thru the skin."

"Frequently there is a full-figured ship across the chest."

"And so I became interested. I decided to learn, if possible, what it's all about, why more than half our men are tattooed."

"Understand, I don't mean to imply that tattoo is any mark of criminal inclination, for many a young fellow, in an unguarded moment, has patronized the needle."

"But that fails to explain the 60 per cent in the prison population."

There must be a psychology of some kind behind it, Simmons contends. He hopes through checking and rechecking to find out.

The Personality Of a Store

Goes a Long Way Toward Determining Its Appeal to Customers

Had you ever thought of a store as having personality? No doubt you have many times, consciously or otherwise, noted the different atmosphere in different stores. There are stores that are drab and ugly, with dirty and uncouth clerks, a jumbled, piled appearance to stock and a general depressing appearance. Another store presents a bright, clean, orderly appearance, showing some thought and planning in displaying merchandise, and the clerks are neat, courteous and anxious to serve you.

Which store would you choose to do your trading? All things else being equal, you would no doubt choose the last described. But, no doubt, again, you would choose it even if the first had a slight advantage in price or service.

We have tried to build up a pleasing personality to our store. We believe we have succeeded—we know we have price, courtesy and service on a equality with anybody. Won't you visit us and see for yourself?

Modern Mankind Distinguished By Use Of Hammers

LONDON—New evidence that the first clear distinction of modern mankind was the use of stone hammers instead of the stone knives and spearheads preferred by their ancient rivals, the Neanderthal ogre-men now entirely exterminated, was reported in a recent address to the Royal Anthropological Institute, in London, by Dr. L. S. B. Leakey, known for his discoveries of ancient human remains in East Africa now acknowledged to be the oldest bones of the modern type of man yet discovered.

These African finds confirm the theory that men of modern type lived in the world for thousands of years side by side with the squat, brutish and perhaps cannibalistic Neanderthal race, dim memories of which may be responsible for the world-wide tales of man-eating ogres. One physical difference between the two species seem to have been that the Neanderthals always had thick bony ridges just above their eyes; giving them a kind of perpetual frown but probably designed by nature merely to protect their eyes from injuries by blows.

Mrs. Margaret Ellis and Miss Ann Pace are expected this week end for a visit with Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Tandy. Mrs. C. M. Tandy, Dr. Tandy's mother, will accompany them back to her home in Abilene after a visit here with her son and family.

THE SMALL CITY...

A Pacemaker of Progress

More and more the signs point to the greater importance of the small and medium-sized community.

We are proud of the part electric power is playing in laying the groundwork for this greater progress and prosperity.

Gone is the day when the larger metropolitan centers had a monopoly of power supply, the first essential of industrial growth and development.

Widespread networks of transmission lines have given the smaller communities the same high-grade electric service as the larger cities have.

On this firm basis, industries are increasingly recognizing the advantages of location in small communities.

This trend will react most favorably to West Texas, the "Land of Opportunity"—efficiently, dependably and inexpensively served by the West Texas Utilities Company.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule... and adds only a small amount to your total bill?
