Red Jet Plane Figure Is Now Set At 8,000

PARIS & New information has boosted Allied estimates of Russia's jet plane strength to 8,000 aircraft—3,000 more than American military Intelligence agents figured only a few weeks ago.

This was revealed last night by a top-ranking U. S. Army officer, who said the new information was picked up recently by American agents. These reports said the Russians had stepped up their jet production considerably.

The size of the Atlantic Allies' combined jet fleets is a military secret but it is believed to be a great deal less than the Soviet Union's. To counter the Russians and their satellites, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization hopes to build eventually an Air Force of 4,000 planes.

The informant said the Russians are believed to have a total of about 20,000 "Algh quality" warplanes of all types and an air force of half a million men.

The Soviets, he added, also have stepped up their sirbase of the State Advisory Council

Indirection Not The Proper Way To Gain Congressional Pay Raise

new Congress was by Senator Dirksen (R-III), proposing to create a civilian comstudy and report back to Congress its findings on proper pay scales for senators and representatives.

This step was suggested in letters to members of both houses by the National Committee for Strengthening Congress, privately sponsored. This group would have the bipartisan civilian comm back to the presiding officer of House and Senate, suggesting the new wage scale. By a gimmick inserted in the original legislation creating it the com-mission's report would automatically become the law of the land unless each particular house vetoed it insofar as it applied to itself.

The ingenious device of 'egislation by somersult is not included in the bill intro-duced by Senator Dirksen, but the pos-sibility of its inclusion by amendment is not ruled out. It should be inserted, and the legislation pass, we would have an example of legislation by indirection that would put Rube Goldberg's most intricate mechanical contraptions to shame.

proposed this to Congress should revise its name in the interests of clarification. Why not call it the National Committee for Strengthening Congress by Pulling Rabbits Out of a Hat?

Our national law-makers haven't had a alse since 1945. In that year Congress voted each member a $2,500 tax-free ex-pense allowance. The following year i voted itself a raise from $10,000 to $12,500 in salary, keeping the tax-free allowance intact—a total of $15,000. In 1951 it made the allowance taxable, "ffective December 31 last. But it hedged this by allowing each member a $3,000 income tax deduction to offset the cost of living in Washington. Effect of this was to save the average congressman about $870 a year on his income taxes.

Selection Of Taylor May Indicate Possibility Of A New Offensive

President Eisenhower, Shyear-old Lt. Gen. Maxwell Davenport Taylor, a native of Keytesville, Mo., will relieve Gen. James A. Van Fleet as commander of the Eighth U. S. Army and all its associated international units in Korea. The retirement of General Van Fleet had been foreshadowed for months. He is expected to be named by President Eisenhower to a key spot in the United

General Taylor, a scrapper, was the first man to parachite into Normandy as leader of the 101st Airborne Division. Some think in view of his reputation as an apostle of the offense, his selection to lead in Korea may be a prelude to new maneuvers there to break the stalemate. Some experts point out that a limited offset the expected heavy losses. The Reds are strongly entrenched in depth, but might be outflanked from the sea, or euchered out of position by parachute drops. They argue that a U. N. defense line running from Pyongyang to Wonsan or Hungram could be held by only two-present line. Such a line could conceivably be held by an expanded South Korean Army, leasing U. S. and other foreign troops to go home except for adequate reserves to backstop the ROKs.

Such a plan would serve the purpose of denying the Reds control of most of Korea, and force them to maintain a costly force there until they got sick and tired

It would be no worse for the U. N. than driving the Reds across the Yaluand then having to maintain huge armies along that line to prevent their return.

The present battleline is probably the from the U. N. standpoint, that could be imagined. The slant of the hills is against our forces and in favor of the Reds. The Pyongyang-Wonsan or Pyong-yang-Hungnam line would at least equalize

It will be, as Van Fleet himself says, a magnificent Eighth Army he turns over to General Taylor. To his outstanding service in Greece, Van Fleet has added brilliant leadership in Korea. He has richly earned retirement, and the nation owes him a debt of gratitude case may be in the light it throws on the application of the ancient principle, well wn already to the Romans, that, as the Bible puts it, no man can serve two masters. This principle has been recognized for centuries in the law of the Englishenacted in statutes. The one which Mr. Wilson has had to meet was first enacted, so I am told, in 1863 and re-enacted in

While the rule against conflicting interests is, one might say, a self-evident moral principle, its application to concrete cases is not always, perhaps not often, self-evi-dent. The Wilson case revealed more clearly than ever before the complexities of ap-plying the law. It was shown during this mean merely that a man can qualify for ic office by meeting certain preci objective specifications. For the specifications cannot always be spelled out pre cisely. The rule necessarily includes question of his subjective attitude towards the principles and the significance of the

> Mr. Wilson's stock prevented him from qualifying for Secretary of Defense under the letter of the law, as the lawyers in the Senate understood that law. But what troubled the Senate was whether Mr. Wilson understood fully the spirit of the law. Nobody thought that Mr. Wilson would do one thing rather than another as Secretary of Defense in order to augment the profits of General Motors or the value of his shares. Texas Does Things Big As Large Crowd Pays To See Train Wreck

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are soloh those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald.—Editor's Note.

The not-so-long-ago crash of a train into the Washington station brings to mind that what was probably the wreck witnessed by more people than any other in the history of the world occurred in Texas, at a point near the town of West, between Waco and Hillsboro.

More than 30,000 people witnessed that wreck, the head-on collision of two Misouri, Kansas and Texas (Katy) Railway trains, traveling with throttles wide open, and the only persons who were injured were those standing some distance from where the two giant steam locomotives came together in a terrible crash

This was truly one of the great train wrecks of history

The year 1896 had its months of bleakness and depression, and September 15, that year would have been, indeed, an ordinary and gloomy day in that part of the state but for the excitement of this train wreck. Behind each of the locomotives was a string of six wooden coaches such as were in service then. The tops of two opposite hills were about a mile apart, according to track measurement. Down those hills toward each other roared those two trains at full speed to meet in the valley below.

A reporter for the Dallas Morning News who witnessed the spectacle wrote of it: "Words break and bend in an attempt to describe it. It is a scene that will haunt many a man. A crash, a sound of timbers torn and rent, then a shower of splinters. Then followed a swift silence. Then the boilers exploded and the air was filled with flying missiles from the size of a postage stamp to half a drive wheel falling indiscriminately on the just and the unjust, the rich and poor, great and small."

The two locomotives had gone right through each other. A pair of heavy trucks weighing a ton or more were blown 300 yards. A smokestack was found almost half a mile away. A woman was when her skull was broken by a piece of flying iron. An iron bolt was driven through a man's leg. Another bolt and washer was buried in a man's brain, and most of another man's head was cut away by a flinging brake chain. There were a few other lesser njuries, and all the injured were among the people who witessed the crash.

Nobody on either train got a single scratch-because there wasn't anybody on either train!

Business wasn't so good with the Katy that summer, but the Katy had an enterprising general passenger agent, one Crush, who amazed the railway's officials when he told them he could sell 20,000 tickets on the basis of a train

"What good are locomotives," he argued, "if there isn't enough business to keep them in operation? What good are coaches if there aren't any passengers? Give me a couple of trains and I'll stage the Dtrain wreck anybody ever saw, and I'll guarantee 20,000 people will buy tickets for the event!" Crush under-estimated his / crowd by more than 10,000 in spite of the hard

The railread officials agreed, the site was selected, the track was built, and Crush, with glowing and glaring posters, thoroughly advertised the big wreck all over Kansas, Missouri, Texas, Okiahoma Territory and Indian Territory. The newspapers gave him their full co-operation and many and wonderful were the stories colorfully written in circus language that described how the two trains would fly at each other and destroy each other in the

The location selected for the wreck was named "Crush" in honor of the promoter. Five hundred laborers were put to work building a station platform at Crush, Whole batteries of lemonade stands were set up and large restaurants were built for the occasion. Pipes were laid and five tank cars filled with drinking water were connected with 100 faucets. Fancy women, gamblers and bootleggers came in by the scores and set up business in the thickets.

The inevitable situation developed so fast that Crush got a constable to appoint more than 200 special deputies to help cope with it. At that time the crowd was described as the biggest that had ever been assembled in Texas, and maybe it

The Dallas Morning News reporter said he arrived about 10 o'clock that morning and that there were already 10,000 people at the scene. During the next two hours more special trains arrived at the rate of one every 12 minutes. More than 30,000 people were there by dinner time and most of them had brought along bottles or picnic baskets, some of them both, About the middle of the afternoon the two elaborately painted locomotives touched noses at the point where the impact would probably come later. They were photographed and then backed up to the tops of their respective hills where they stood for almost two hours while Crush and his special deputies tried to get the people back from the tracks. Everybody wanted to get up close so they wouldn't miss anything, just like crowds

Along about 5 o'clock Crush figured things were pretty well under control and he raised his hat—the appointed signal The engineers opened their throttles, down their whistles and jumped-and so did those locomotives. To add to the fun torpedoes had been placed all up and down the tracks in both directions. The whole thing must have been as thrilling as the gathering of a tornado. Nearer and nearer they roared, whistles shricking, torpedoes popping-every human nerve on edge, some turning their faces away at the last second from the greatest spectacle of the age they had come so far to see-and then minute it was all over, all, that is, except for the picking up of the dead and wounded

But everybody had had a helluva time and the Katy had sold more than 30,000 special-rate excursion tickets in a depres-

However, these businessmen have, none of them, been trained in the political operations which are normal to American life. The difficulties that C. E. Wilson encountered could have been avoided had he prepared himself to meet the tupe of stioning characteristic of a Congressional committee. The law stands and he should have known it and been adequately prepared to meet it prior to his hearing before the Armed Services Committee, It is often difficult for a man who has managed a super billion dollar concern to realize that once he accepts a government post, he is subordinate to a $12,500 a year member of Congress. If he cannot accept that stipulation, he will fail in whatever he undertakes in public life.

The more effective a man has been in business, the more competent he has been in management, the more difficulties he will face in government. And the reasons are so obvious that it is difficult to understand why the business men, who are usually so flexible, do not grasp the psychology of the situation.

Ours is a representative republic, the core of authority being vested in Congress, which gets its power from the Constitution and from the people. It was never intended that Congress should be subordinate to the President or to his cabinet. The Congress exists and functions by its own right and expects to report back to the people, every two years for a Representative and every six years for a Senator.

Therefore, a member of Congress, in either House, is most concerned with public opinion and those who have had considerable and prolonged tenure in Congress have developed great skill in assessing public reactions. Their major concern is what the reactions to their conduct and their voting record will be in November,

It is this longer view that controls their present reactions to immediate situations. Whereas the businessman may know about finance and production, the politician is likely to add into that equation the factor of public sentiment. For instance, the law that was passed to prevent dishonorable men from getting government jobs to feather their own nests and strengthen their companies does not apply to Mr.
Wilson morally or psychologically, but two years from now, in a campaign, the issue
may be that members of the Senate permitted violations of the law in the interest

The Eisenhower administration starts Such a campaign argument might be each of these cabinet officers and all the other top officials - some 600 of them will have to appear before Congressional committees to testify in favor of or against legislation, to explain the operations of their departments, to defend policies pursued. This will be a novel experience for many of them. A Congressional committee is not a board of directors. On such committees will be not only the friendly Republicans but the antagonistic Democrats.

The success of this administration will, in a measure, depend upon how effectively these men appear to the public in the circumstances of a Congressional hearing. They will not be protected by expensive counsel and public relations men. They will not be premitted to believe that a good job done is a criterion for courteous consideration. The Democrats will be working to win the campaigns for 1954 and 1956 and the cabinet members and their associates will have to be very fast on their feet, as it were, to make the grade. There will be no "Yes, Sir!" attitude in Congressional committee.

It is an advantage to this country that the top men of management should transfer their services to the government. They can accomplish a great deal in developing efficient and competent administration. They can save the country billions of dollars.

But they will have to learn to adjust their minds from business management to government management, which is altogether different. They are entitled to a grace of time to make such an adjustment

Truman Doubts Russians Have Good A-Bomb

By CLARENCE A. JOHNSON KANSAS CITY, Jan. 27 UP-Fo mer President Truman said today there was some doubt in his mind that the Russians had developed a workable A-bomb.

"I've said that time and time again," he told this reporter. "Some people disagree with me about it but that is their right. On two occasions while he was in the White House, Truman announced Intelligence reports of nuclear blasts inside Red territory. He added that his belief does ute let down our guard.

"Keeping up our strength is the best thing we ever did," he added referring to continuing research on A-bombs.

"I'm hoping we can prevent another world war. There will never be a winner in another all-out world war. It would mean the destruction of civilization." Asked for comment on the Pres-

The barbecue committee of which E. F. (Blackie) Pryor is chairman, met last week and worked out plans for the barbecuing of plenty of mutton and beef. Those fine ladies of Glasscock county are being asked to bring enough potato salad for everybody, and that probably means barrels of it.

The auctioneer will be Dub Clark of San Angelo, who has sold the stock the last two years. There

The judging wil start at 10 a.m. on the football field at the school. The judges will be L. M. Hargrave of Texas Tech, assisted by E. L. Tiner of Big Spring, area supervision of vocational education. Sixty lambs will be judged and five steers.

It will also be an opportunity for visitors to see one of the finest FFA barns in Texas, an outstanding example of what boys can have when they want something bad enough and are willing to do most of the work themselves. They didn't ask the school officials for a stock barn - they asked only an opportunity to provide one for them-selves. It's well worth a trip to Garden City just to see that barn. And here is one of the most important things about the Glasscock County show - Don't forget that those lovely girls of the Senior Class will again be selling cakes, pies, coffee and cold drinks in the school's lunch room. Don't fail to go in and see them and if you feel like spending a whole dollar for a cup of that delightful coffee, just go right ahead and do it. It will be all right. The ladies of the community are going to cook the cakes and pier for this sale, and the proceeds will go toward paying the expenses of the annual trip the Garden City Seniors take each year.

> Competition begins with the search for oil.

Competition

lowest prices

The U. S. oil business is one of the most highly competitive industries in this country and, for that matter, in the world. Every time you buy a gallon of gasoline or a quart of motor oil, there are at least 100 companies that would like you to buy from them.

Your purchase stimulates competition far beyond the service station driveway where you make it. It stirs scientists to find more oil for your use. It urges production men to produce oil more efficiently and economically and with less waste. It extends through low-cost transportation pipe lines to refineries that seek better ways to make more and better petroleum products to compete for your business.

Is this competition a good thing?

It certainly is. It's a good thing for you because you get the best petroleum products in the world at the lowest prices. It's a good thing for the country because it stimulates the continuous development and conservation of a vital natural resource. And it's a good thing for the oil business: competition keeps the industry strong, vigorous, progressive.

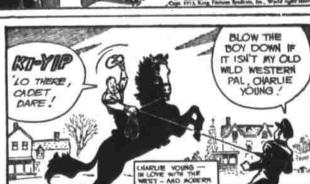

Competitive refineries never let a day pass without trying to find a better way to make more and better petroleum products for your use.

Your service station dealer competes in product quality and service with all the other dealers in your neighbo

At 8 p.m., the HCJC Jayhawks take the court in Odessa against Larry McCulloch's Odessa JC Wranglers in a crucial West Zone basketball test for both teams.

If the Hawks win, they will have gone a long way to winning their third straight Zone title. If they lose, it appears Odessa and Ama-rillo will fight it out for the conference crown.

The Big Springers are favored but the Wranglers are due to be hard to handle. They're playing at home, for one thing. For another, Coach McCulloch will be able to field his strongest team this year. HCJC will carry a 14-3 wo record into the game. Odessa has won only six of 13 starts. The Hawks have averaged 73.8 points a game, the opposition only 59.8. Coach Harold Davis of HCJC will field an all-sophomore outfit, composed of Bobby Williams, Casey Jones, Charley Warren, Dick Glimore and Bobby Maines.

Should HCJC win, two Odes-sans may play a major role in turning the tide in Big Spring's favor. They are Jones and Lonnie Muse, a first line reserve.

The sophomore from Dallas now has 285 points. He's got guite ways to go to shade Bill Fletcher's all-time HCJC scoring record. Bill ran up the astonishing total of 448 points in 29 games when the Hawks reigned as state champions in 1950-51.

Williams still has at least 11 games to play, however, and the Hawks aren't figuring to miss the opportunity of competing in the TJCC Tournament at Denton or the Region IV Meet at Amarillo, which will provide Williams with added opportunities.

Prior to the outing with McMurry, the local collegians had been averaging 71.4 points a game, in 16 games. Their 112-point effort against the Papooses, however, upped that average to 73.7.

NEW PASS INTERFERENCE RULE WILL HELP The NCAA's decision to charge the pass interference rule in football, which was largely overlooked due to the furore caused over the ban of platoon-system football, should meet with approval just about everywhere. A lot of cheap touchdowns were being scored under the old statute. An official was qualified to a call a pass completed on the spot of the foul, even if it was around the five-yard line. It's difficult to define interference on pass reception, though some of it is obvious. The potential receiver and the fellow trying to knock down the pighide actually have equal rights to the ball.

However, even if the defender interferes, there is no assurance whatsoever the receiver will have caught it. How many times have you seen a man in the clear muff an easy catch? Every receiver has done it at one time or another."

The new rule seems to do everyone more justice. It states the passing team, in event of interference, is to be awarded only enough yardage to make a first down, rather than automatic penalty

A first down should help the attacking team, but the challenge Is still there. It's still up to the offense to propel down field. More interference plays will be called in the future, no doubt, for the officials realize that the monkey has been taken off their

Grand Jury Still In Session Today

The Howard County Grand Jury is in the second day of its session today, and District Attorney Elton Gilliand reported that operations were going as scheduled.

The grand jury is investigating charges which have been lodged against 30 people for 22 alleged erimes. Charges against 19 individuals were investigated Monday.

Gilliland stated that all items which he has listed for grand jury consideration will probably be tak-en up today. The jury will then meet Wednesday to consider other matters.

The grand jury was to have con-sidered murder charges against Francisco Flores and Eloy Hernandez this afternoon, Gillilan
