Where Two Jets Fell

One T-33 jet trainer crashed into a house in the 100 block of Oak Street (above) near the northeast boundary of Webb AFB, while another plunged to the ground below US 80 at the north end of a runway (below) following a mid-air collision at 9:10 a.m. today. An instructor and two cadets were killed instantly.

Mid-Air Collision Kills Three Men At Webb

A Webb Air Force Base pilot-instructor and two aviation cadets were killed instantly at 9:10 a.m. Monday in the mid-air collision of two T-33 jet trainer planes. Names of the dead are 1st Lt. Julio P. Mendez Jr., 1202 Lamar, Big Spring; A-C Jimmie R. Walker, Albuquerque, N. M.; and A-C Charles R. Perrault, Minneapolis, Minn. The accident occurred as the two planes were turning onto the final approach before landing to the south over U. S. 80 highway. Because landing traffic on the runway was too congested for the planes to land, both ships prepared to "go around." According to witnesses, the rear plane overtook the plane coming up from beneath and collided with it. One of the planes, carrying instructor and cadet, crashed just east of the Morales Restaurant, inside the boundary to Webb AFB. The other jet crashed into a vacant lot approximately 1,500 feet west of the main road to Webb AFB and a portion of the wreckage damaged a small vacant house. The people who had occupied the house had moved out Sunday afternoon. Frank Morales, owner of Morales Restaurant, located near the north

AT FORT WORTH SHOW

Sue White's Steer Open Class Winner

FORT WORTH (AP)—A summer yearling owned by Sue White, 17, of Big Spring was named champion in the open division Hereford steer judging today at the Southwestern Livestock Exposition and Fat Stock Show. The reserve champion was shown by Circle T ranch of Boulder, Colo. It also was a summer yearling. Miss White's steer was reserve 4-H Club champion at the American Royal Livestock Show in Kansas City and was champion summer yearling at the Chicago International Livestock Show. Other results in the open class of Hereford steers included: Junior yearlings—third, C. J. Frost Jr., of Waka, Texas.

Big Spring Couple Is Reported Missing

A Big Spring couple were reported missing today between San Angelo and Galveston. Peace officers all along the route from here to Galveston were alerted Sunday to be on lookout for Mr. and Mrs. Ike Mayer. They left San Antonio, Tex., Friday for John Sealy Hospital, Galveston, and have not been heard from since, police said. Local police, who broadcast the alert, said Mrs. Mayer, daughter of Mrs. Zora Harrison, 202 State, probably was driving the couple's automobile. Mayer, who is ill, was a passenger and was being taken from San Antonio to the Galveston hospital.

Waters Cover One-Sixth Of Netherlands

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP)—Mountainous new tides rolled in upon Europe's battered coasts today, bringing fresh peril to lands which already have counted more than 850 dead in a week end of hurricanes and flood. The toll may pass the 1,000 mark when all bodies are recovered. Towering waves pounded through ancient dikes at 70 places and covered a sixth of Holland with salt water, bringing the country's worst disaster since the 15th century. The death toll according to the best available count mounted to 464. Britain counted 338 dead, 248 in floods, 132 in the sinking of the ferry Princess Victoria and 15 in the disappearance of a British trawler. Belgium had 17 drownings.

All three countries mustered every effort—Army, Navy, relief workers of all kinds—to save thousands threatened by death or disease and to aid millions more whose homes were destroyed. Property damage was in the millions of dollars. The Thames River burst its banks at four new places today under the pile-driving force of the afternoon high tides, spreading more desolation. Hospitals at King's Lynn and Tilbury were flooded in part and isolated. Scores of bodies floated among vast seas of debris on Britain's beaten coasts. There were corpses on rooftops of abandoned homes. One man paddled to safety on a table.

Canvey Island 25 miles down the Thames estuary from London reported at least 100 drowned and 500 missing. Snow began to fall there, adding to the misery of the flood victims.

A fleet of small boats made trip after trip into flooded Canvey, called "the island of death." Families huddled on rooftops awaiting rescue. They were taken to nearby Benfleet, a town of 17,000 that began to resemble a war refugee center. Many families were wiped out or broken. Sobbing mothers searched for their children. Homeless tots clutching toys scanned faces for sight of parents or other kin.

Meteorologists said a million to one combination of wind and tide caused the great storm: A tiny cyclone developed in the Northeast Atlantic late last week and a belt of warm air stretching from Africa to Iceland began moving eastward. Air from the high pressure belt fed the cyclone which developed into a big storm center. At the same time, the warm air front pushed the storm east into the North Sea. The storm, at full strength, arrived at the moment when spring tides were at open flood.

The North Sea is tapered—open at the top, and hemmed in by an extensive valley system at its southern tip. The storm ripped at the surface of the waters, driving them against the southern bottleneck just as the tides were pushing against low lying land. The waters poured into the estuaries, and crumpled man-made dikes and sea walls.

The storm in the dikes in Holland were so big ferry boats could be driven through them—and one was. Up to 1,500 square miles of land were flooded. At Stellendam, in south Holland, 70 persons were reported dead, out of a population of 11,919.

Sunday's 90-mile winds were reduced to 22 miles an hour today, but temperatures found zero added to the sum of human misery. Many crops of winter wheat were damaged, along with thousands of acres of rich soil.

In the Belgian port of Antwerp about 150 yards of docks crumbled into the Schelde estuary. Another 130 yards collapsed in the city proper. But the Belgians, not as badly hit as their Dutch neighbors, sent small boats to evacuate stranded Dutchmen.

The danger to the Netherlands remained great. Gale winds which combined with abnormally high

Famed Educator Speaks Tonight At C-C Banquet

Chamber of Commerce members at their annual banquet this evening will hear one of America's seven most famous educators.

Dr. Kenneth McFarland, guest lecturer for the Reader's Digest and educational consultant and lecturer for General Motors Corporation, will deliver the principal address at the annual C-C Membership Meeting.

The event will get underway at 7:15 p.m. in the Settles Ballroom. More than 300 persons are expected to attend.

Dr. McFarland is due to arrive in Big Spring this afternoon. After flying from his home to Abilene, he will come here in company of J. C. (Jake) Roberts, district highway engineer.

McFarland, also educational director for the American Trucking Association, is a native Kansan. He graduated from Pittsburg (Kans.) State College, Columbia University and Stanford University.

He was an outstandingly successful school administrator for 24 years. He designed and established the McFarland Trade School in Coffeyville, Kans.

The 1951 edition of Lincoln Library lists him as one of the seven most famous American educators, past and present.

The widely-traveled and popular guest speaker has earned the title of "America's No. 1 Air Passenger." He maintains offices in the heart of the nation, at Topeka, where he lives with his family on a 140-acre "town and country" ranch—half inside the city limits.

Congress Invited To Disavow Secret Demo 'Understandings'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower announced today he is ordering the U. S. Seventh Fleet to stop shielding Communist China and, in a surprise move, he invited Congress to disavow any Roosevelt-Truman "secret understandings" which permit enslavement of people anywhere.

At home, the new Republican President cautioned against tax cuts until a balanced budget is in sight and gave his blessing to the end of all price and wage controls when present authority for them expires on April 30.

Eisenhower said the present effect of the Truman order neutralizing the Chinese Nationalist island of Formosa is to protect the very Chinese Reds who are killing American soldiers in Korea.

Eisenhower spoke out in a State of the Union message which brought him before a joint session of Congress for the first time since he took office.

It was a far-ranging 8,500-word address in which the Chief Executive took "individual liberty" for his theme and—

1. Said near-balance of the budget, and with it the prospect of tax cuts, won't come in the immediate future. He pointed out to the "inherited burden of indebtedness and obligations and deficits" which he said threaten to crash through the present public debt ceiling of 27 billion dollars.

2. Predicted that with the end of controls some prices will go up and others will come down.

3. Said in emphatic terms this country has "incontrovertible evidence that Soviet Russia possesses atomic weapons." Former President Truman had stirred up a controversy by expressing doubt in a recent interview that the Russians had a workable A-bomb.

4. Promised all action within his power to wipe out race segregation in the District of Columbia and in the Armed forces. Beyond that, Eisenhower indicated he would try "through friendly conferences with those in authority in our states and cities" to seek civil rights progress.

5. Announced a new system of checking the loyalty of federal employees, together with a series of studies and surveys designed to end "waste and incompetence" in the Postoffice and other departments.

"Our people," Eisenhower said, "have demanded nothing less than good, efficient government. They shall get nothing less."

He asked Congress for a good bill of legislation—"corrective action" on the Taft-Hartley Act, for one thing, and an extension of the Government Reorganization Act.

Eisenhower's most important announcement—freeing Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalist on Formosa to strike at the Communist-held China mainland—came as something of an anti climax. Word of it had leaked in advance and Gen. Douglas MacArthur among others commended it warmly.

With soldierlike bluntness, the new President stated his view of the fleet's "neutralizing" mission: "This has meant, in effect, that the United States Navy was required to serve as a defensive arm of Communist China."

Truman issued the order on June 27, 1950, two days after the start of fighting in Korea. He directed the Seventh Fleet to protect Formosa against Communist invasion and to assure that the Nationalists did not attack the mainland. The explanation was that the order was designed to keep the Chinese Reds out of the Korean War.

Since 1950, Eisenhower recalled, the Reds have entered the war and, with Russian backing, he said, have turned down every peace overture from the United Nations.

"Consequently," Eisenhower said, "There is no longer any logic or sense in a condition that required the United States Navy to assume defensive responsibilities on behalf of the Chinese Communists, thus permitting those Communists, with greater impunity, to kill our soldiers and those of our United Nations allies in Korea."

"I am, therefore, issuing instructions that the Seventh Fleet no longer be employed to shield Communist China. This order implies no aggressive intent on our part."

Eisenhower disclosed another move in the Far Eastern conflict—immediate increased attention to

WANTS CONTROLS OUT

Tax Cut Must Wait For Spending Slash

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told Congress today tax cuts must be deferred until "we show we can succeed" in reducing federal spending, and he advocated letting wage-price controls lapse April 30.

Addressing a joint Senate-House session to deliver his first State of the Union message, Eisenhower devoted most of his 8,500-word prepared speech to domestic problems.

The President set forth the new administration's program in that field in broad outline, coupling it with a pledge to "initiate at once effective programs of security" to bar "the disloyal and the dangerous" from federal jobs.

Among other things, Eisenhower called for amendment of the Taft-Hartley labor law but did not suggest any specific changes. He left that to the Labor Department and the Senate and House labor committees.

The President also declared he plans to use "whatever authority exists in the office of the President to end segregation in the District of Columbia (Washington), including the federal government, and any segregation in the armed forces."

On a broader scale geographically, he deplored discrimination against Negroes and other racial minorities, but made no mention of the Republican party's platform pledge to enact federal legislation "to further just and equitable treatment in the area of discriminatory employment practices."

As he did during the campaign, Churchill said "much of the answer" to civil rights problems lies, not in legislation, but "in the power of fact, fully publicized; of persuasion, honestly pressed; and of conscience, justly aroused."

The new chief executive said an important problem at home—in the overall fight for world peace—is to achieve adequate military

Churchill Says No Deal Made On U. S. Visit

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told an uneasy British Parliament today he made "no formal or informal commitments" with President Dwight Eisenhower during their meetings last month.

The British leader also said Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will make a statement about the island of Formosa tomorrow—a statement that is expected to express Britain's deep concern at a reported change in American policy toward the island on which Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Chinese army is based.

Churchill was pressed by opposition laborites—including ex-Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison—to say whether he had discussed the future status of the disputed island with Eisenhower.

In the minds of most legislators were reports that the new American administration has decided to de-neutralize Formosa, thus leaving Chiang's forces free to raid the Red Chinese mainland and other Communist-held islands.

Morrison asked: "Does not the prime minister realize there is widespread public anxiety about this matter? XXX Both the late (Labor) government and this (Conservative) government have declared themselves against the spreading of warlike operations in the Far East."

The British leader sidestepped this and several other questions.

Mystery Covers Disappearance Of Ship Steward

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Disappearance and probable murder of the chief steward aboard a freighter now aground in Mexican waters provided a sea mystery today.

Radio reports from the ship's master, at least those made public by the Coast Guard and the owners, gave only enough detail to make the case a puzzler.

Capt. H. T. Hallman of the 438-foot SS Fairhope reported that the steward disappeared some time Thursday night. The ship left San Pedro, Calif., at 1:30 p.m. Thursday en route from Yokohama, Japan, to Mobile, Ala., by way of the Panama Canal.

The skipper said there was blood in the steward's quarters, indicating foul play. An owner's representative in Los Angeles said there was no known indication of an accident or suicide.

The ship is owned by Waterman Steamship Corp., of Mobile, Ala., whose president, Capt. Norman Nicholson, identified the missing steward as Carl Thurmond of Sibley, La.

The Fairhope went aground, Friday night on one of the San Benito Islands 270 miles south of here in Mexican waters. The Coast Guard reported its crew of about 40 was in no danger, since the ship was in shallow, calm water protected by a cove.

The Coast Guard cutter Morris and a salvage tug, the Viking, out of San Pedro, got there yesterday.

Navy Pilots Learn To Fly Transport

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Sixteen Navy pilots and flight engineers began a three-week course today on how to fly the Navy's new ocean-hopping transport, the RTVL.

The Navy said the program at the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. here marks the most extensive initial flight training on a new plane to be conducted by a plane-producing company at the point of manufacture.

The RTVL, a military version of the Super Constellation on order by 13 commercial airlines, has a speed officially listed as "approaching 400 m.p.h." First delivery of the military craft for operational use is scheduled for early April.

Dulles Talks Europe Unity With French

By TOM MASTERSON

PARIS (AP) — U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles met French leaders today with a spate of questions about France's reluctance to push for European unity.

The French, worried over President Eisenhower's reported decision to withdraw the U. S. Seventh Fleet's neutralization of Formosa, also were expected to ask some questions about this. They are worried that this may spread fighting in the Far East.

French Foreign Office sources have said Foreign Minister Georges Bidault certainly will bring up the matter during his talks with Dulles and U. S. foreign aid chief Harold Stassen.

Dulles and Stassen, who are making a flying 10-day tour of seven European capitals, were well prepared for the all-day session with the French, including President Vincent Auriol, Premier Rene Mayer and Bidault.

When they flew in from Rome yesterday at noon, they hurried into briefing sessions with American officials and military leaders stationed in Europe. The meetings lasted well into the night.

The French admittedly are worried that the new policy toward Formosa might mean the United States is thinking of putting Chinese Nationalists into the Korean War.

In this event, the French fear Red China might send troops to help the Communist-led Vietminh fighting the hard-pressed French forces in Indochina. The Chinese Reds already are helping the Viet-

Cinemascope Is New Color Movie Device

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Twentieth Century-Fox is converting at once to a big new photographic and sound system, so realistic, a spokesman says, "a guy in the eighth row can kiss Marilyn Monroe."

The device is called Cinemascope. It creates a third-dimension illusion, the studio announced yesterday, and presages an era "as far-reaching as the transfer from silent pictures to sound in 1927."

Fox's method permits filming in color and projection on a screen 2 1/2 times ordinary size "so as to give almost lifelike animation to the players. This creates the same feeling of audience participation as attendance at a performance by living players on the speaking stage."

Screens especially developed for extra brilliance may be any length desired to fit any theater. The screen used in tests at the studio is 64 feet wide and 25 feet high and curves inward to a depth of five feet at the center.

"A theater like New York's Roxy would use one 80 feet long," the studio said.

"Cinemascope is a simple, inexpensive color film device which simulates third dimension to the extent that objects and actors seem to be part of the audience. Its stereophonic sound imparts additional lifelike quality as it moves across the screen with the action."

"Cinemascope will be made available to all studios, producers and theaters in the United States and to producers and theaters throughout the world as soon as additional equipment can be manufactured."

Fox announced the first Cinemascope film in color, "The Robe," based on Lloyd C. Douglas' novel, goes into production Feb. 16, with world-wide premiers planned for Oct. 1.

Meanwhile, three-dimension production is spreading through other studios.

Producers Bill Pine and Bill Thomas are shooting "Sangaree" in a two-camera, 3-D system developed by their releasing studio, Paramount. It requires viewers to wear polarized spectacles to get a three-dimensional effect. So does the Natural Vision system, first used with the film "Bwana Devil," which drew $212,000 worth of business in a four-week run here at Christmas.

Warner Brothers is shooting "House of Wax" in Natural Vision.

Columbia starts "Fort Ticonderoga" in the same system in a week. MGM, with a similar system of its own, starts its first 3-D film, a Western, in three weeks. Universal-International is working on a system of its own.

Fox says Cinemascope requires no spectacles for viewers. The method needs only one standard camera and projector, with special lenses to create wide-angle scenes.

Cinemascope, now on public view in New York City, uses three cameras and three projectors.

Men In Service

Private John W. Cline, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cline of Garden City, has been selected to attend the 5th Armored Division's Motor Maintenance School, Btry. A, 58th AAA Bn. At camp Chaffee, Ark.

The intensive 10-week course is divided into three phases. Private Cline will receive a basic knowledge of motor mechanics theory plus shop safety awareness in the first phase.

During the second phase Cline will be trained in vehicle repair and maintenance. In the last phase he will perform actual repairs on all types of Army vehicles.

Before entering the army Cline was employed by the Cook & Riley Construction Co. He is a graduate of Garden City High.

Both men served with the First Marine Division in Korea. There were 2,233 Marine and Navy veterans returned aboard the ship. They were to be processed at Marine Barracks on Treasure Island.

President Joins The Presbyterian Church In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Presbyterian Church has two prominent new members — President and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The presidential couple were among 50 persons admitted yesterday to the Connecticut Avenue church where a number of other presidents have worshipped in past years.

The Rev. Edward L. R. Elson, church minister, said Eisenhower was unable to join a church before because he "has moved from one Army post to another" in his military career. The President is "a man of simple faith, who is sincere in his religious doctrine," Dr. Elson added.

Senate Prepares To Probe Rackets At Waterfront, Ports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Commerce Committee has set up machinery for its planned investigation of racketeering on the New York-New Jersey waterfront and ports of the East, Gulf and West Coasts.

Committee Chairman Tobey (R-NH) appointed a seven-man subcommittee Saturday, with himself as chairman, and chose Downey Rice as counsel. Rice served with the old Kefauver crime investigating committee.

Tobey said the Justice Department

ment has pledged full co-operation. He said he will ask the FBI for some "top-notch investigators" to help Rice.

'Just Anxious' Is Barkley Word After TV Debut

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Not scared . . . but anxious," Alben W. Barkley made his debut last night as a professional news commentator on the NBC television network.

The former vice president twiddled with his thumbs but there was no hint of uncertainty in his voice, instrument of thousands of speeches in his 75 years. Without script, he rolled off stories and quips.

Appearing with him on the first of a planned series of weekly 15-minute programs called "Meet the Veep" was the veteran commentator Earl Godwin.

Barkley's only comments on current affairs were a prediction that the Korean War would be ended satisfactorily and a plea that the Democratic party give President Eisenhower a chance to fulfill his campaign promises.

Lawmaker Suggests Wire-Tapping To Get Spies And Traitors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.) has urged Congress to "unshackle" the hands of federal agents in their efforts to track down spies and traitors by okaying wiretapping in some instances.

Evidence obtained by wiretapping is now illegal in federal courts. Keating is author of a bill to allow the FBI and other U. S. investigative agencies to intercept telephone calls in the interest of national security.

"Invasion of privacy is repugnant to all Americans," he said in a statement yesterday, "and it should be. Nevertheless the safety of our nation and its people must be paramount."

County 4-H Girl Takes Top Spot In F-W Show

FORT WORTH, (SC) — In the junior division class for Hereford steers weighing under 825 pounds at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show Saturday, the entry of Joyce Robinson, Howard County 4-H Club girl, placed first.

Fourth place in the same class went to the steer of Edgar Allen Phillips of Big Spring; seventh to James Shorter, and twelfth to Benjie Jo Bissard, student in the Stanton High School.

In the junior class for Hereford steers weighing from 825 to 925 pounds, the entry of Sonny Choate of Big Spring placed sixth.

The entry of Franklin Williamson of Big Spring placed seventh in the class for junior Hereford steers weighing more than 925 pounds, and the entry of Leonard Smith, also Big Spring, placed ninth in this class.

FORT WORTH (SC)—Selection of the grand champion steer was the No. 1 attraction at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show today. Selection of the various breed champions to compete with the junior champion began early this morning.

Another feature of the judging program was selection of the grand champion lamb. Other judging events: Palomino horse halter classes, Hereford cattle, Corriedale, Shropshire, Suffolk, and Cheviot sheep, poultry and turkeys and dairy judging.

Yesterday a judging team from Oklahoma A&M walked away with top honors in the general judging contest for senior agricultural colleges. The team scored 4,340 points. Texas Tech was second high team. Tech also won first in judging of hogs and quarter horses. Dawson Coleman of Tech was high man in the quarter horse contest.

Winners in yesterday's horse show included:

Shetland Pony roadster performance class, over 42 inches tall and not exceeding 46 inches—Larry N's Golden Dude, Larry N Stables of Winters and driven by Frank H. Kelley of Colorado City.

Jimmy Moore, 19, of Post, Tex., world champion all-around Junior cowboy and other American Junior Rodeo Association champions collected their awards last night.

Other world junior champions recognized with awards included: J. L. Stewardson, 18, San Saba, Tex., calf roping; Lovie Rice, 19, Big Spring, Tex., optional roping; Bill Watts, 18, Andrews, Tex., optional race; Moore, bronze riding; Don McDonald, 18, Fluvanna, Tex., bull rider; Rice, bulldogging.

Results of the rodeo last night included:

Calf roping—First, Lew Tugman, Vinard, Tex., 22 seconds; second, Bill Mullins, Lewisville, Tex., 24.9.

Cutting horse contest — Skeeter, owned and ridden by Phil Williams, Tokio, Tex., 221 points; Soap Suds, owned by Guy Warren, Cranfills Gap, Tex., ridden by Punched Oglesby, 218; Rocky Red, owned and ridden by Earl Albin Comanche, Tex., 217; Slim, owned by George Glascock, Cresson, Tex., ridden by Guy Harrell, 208. Brahma bull riding—Bob Maynard, Smithfield, Tex., (only rider to qualify).

Harry Plumbly, right, leads Big Spring Barber Shop singers through a number at one of the group's practice sessions, held each Saturday evening. Organized a few weeks ago, the local chapter of the Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America will participate in the annual SPEBSQSA meeting in Abilene March 21. The chapter will start radio broadcasts soon and plans a big area show here next fall.

Final Juror Is Sought Today In Mary Jean Parsons Trial

By ARNO ADAMS

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—Wrangling, temper thinning lawyers sought the final juror today from the third venire to be called up for the trial of Mary Jean Parsons, charged with murdering her bridegroom.

A week of heated trial preliminaries had exhausted two panels of prospective jurors—an original 300-men venire and a special call-up of 75 additional men. Late Saturday the sheriff was sent out to pick up 40 more prospects off the street.

The proceedings were marked by Judge Arthur Tapp's reversing his ruling on how additional jury prospects be picked up. The defense moved for a mistrial, and the state charged the court had committed a legal error that could nullify the outcome if appealed to a higher court.

Tipp's reversal, the state said.

Eisenhower's Son Is Back In War Zone

SEOUL (AP)—Maj. John Eisenhower returned to the Korean battle zone today after watching his father inaugurate as President.

Young Eisenhower cut short his leave—ordered by former President Truman—to return to the U. S. 3rd Infantry, in which he is an intelligence officer.

Fire Rips A Farm

DAWSON, Tex. (AP)—A barn, five tractors and 750 bales of hay were destroyed when fire raged through the J. C. West farm near here late Saturday. The blaze began when a spark ignited spilled gasoline on a tractor.

Talbott Called Back For More Questions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators had some more questions today for Harold E. Talbott, automobile and aviation executive selected by President Eisenhower to be secretary of the Air Force.

Talbott, already cleared for Senate confirmation by a 14 to 1 vote of the Senate Armed Services Committee, was called back before the committee for another public quizzing.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said he wanted to ask him about two congressional reports.

One questioned the high price of automobile parts to the government prior to 1951. The other criticized World War I aircraft production and negotiations by a Dayton, O., company which Talbott headed in 1917.

Barring unexpected fireworks which might induce the committee to reverse its previous vote, Talbott's name was due to come up for Senate confirmation later today or tomorrow.

He is the fifth member of a group of top-flight business executives picked by Eisenhower to head the Defense Department and its branches.

Four of them, including Talbott, were persuaded by the Senate committee to get rid of large stock holdings in corporations with defense contracts.

Charles E. Wilson, former General Motors president, is the new secretary of defense. Roger M. Kyes, former G. M. vice president, is under secretary. Both have been confirmed.

Up for expected confirmation today are Robert T. Stevens, former textile executive, as secretary of the Army, and Robert B. Anderson, Texas oil man, as secretary of the Navy. Anderson testified he held no financial interests that might conflict with his new post.

15 Week End Deaths Occur On Highways

By The Associated Press

Week-end violent deaths in Texas totaled 21 Monday with 15 of them blamed on traffic accidents.

Five persons died Saturday night when a violent thunderstorm swept the Houston area with powerful winds, hail and hard rain. Four died in traffic accidents during the height of the storm and the fifth was electrocuted by a snapped power line.

Robert Smith Named

DALLAS (AP)—Robert J. Smith, president of Pioneer Air Lines, has been named a member of the Dallas Federal Reserve Bank board of directors to fill the unexpired term of Secretary of the Navy Robert B. Anderson of Vernon. Smith also was appointed to the position of deputy chairman of the board, which was held by Anderson. The term expires Dec. 31, 1954.

Chemical Plant Due

HOUSTON (AP)—The Gulf Alkali Corp. of New York City and Houston announced plans yesterday to build an 8 million dollar chemical plant near Baytown. The plant will manufacture caustic soda, chlorine and dry salt.

Hollywood Urged By New Cardinal To Stress Virtue

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Hollywood has been urged by James Francis Cardinal McIntyre to glamorize virtue rather than evil.

Addressing more than 1,200 movie capital Catholics at the second annual communion breakfast of the Hollywood film industry yesterday, Los Angeles' new cardinal said:

"There is too much glamorizing of that which is wrong and sometimes it is deliberately done. Glamorizing evil over virtue never succeeds. When an individual of evil repute is glamorized the effect is the same.

"In your industry we see signs of recognition of these facts. May the influence of your work continue."

Loretta Young spoke for the industry.

"We are all sinners," she said, "and the one big difference among sinners is that some are sorry. Our true billing will be made in the front office of Heaven, and if we were to get a sneak preview we might be in for quite a jolt."

Nobody's Getting Excited Over Measure To Bring Ohio Into Fold

When people get to probing around in the history books looking for information, they sometimes turn up surprising things. For instance, the State of Ohio is fixing to put the big pot in the little one this year in celebration of its sesquicentennial of admission to the Union. Naturally a lot of research was necessary, and somebody stumbled on a shocking state of affairs: Ohio was never admitted to the Union, in 1803 or any other time. Somewhere, somehow, there was a slip of the cog-wheels of statecraft, and the final acts of the drama of admission were omitted. So, although Ohio has furnished seven Presidents, and taken a big dish in national affairs for generations, it's just an outsider, waiting to come in, as far as the records are concerned. Soon as this situation was revealed, Rep. George H. Bender introduced and pressed to action a bill formally admitting his beloved state to the Union. It must of necessity be an ex post facto thing, bearing the date of March 1, 1803, when everybody had supposed Ohio had first achieved statehood. Nobody is worrying about his particular piece of retroactive legislation being challenged in the courts. With respect to the admission of states, Congress can do pretty well what it pleases. The Constitution merely says "new states may be admitted by the Congress into this Union," without specifying the details of the transaction. So if Congress wishes to extend the belated hand of welcome to one of the nation's great commonwealths, all it has to do is pass Rep. Benton's bill, or a reasonable facsimile—attach a box top to it, and the deed is done. But a hundred years or so from now somebody may undercut this act of Congress and repudiate the whole thing. That is what happened to Texas in the tide-lands case. The Supreme Court held in effect that the plain English language of the article of annexation did not mean what it said. Court decisions for a hundred years had indicated clearly that Texas and other states owned their tide-lands.

Down With Doilies, A Plague To Menfolk Who Can't Handle Them

We have been thinking some of organizing a society of embattled menfolk to attack one of the most ubiquitous and shattering minor annoyances of the age. We speak, of course, of the tidy and its untidy habit of dropping off their arms to the floor. The thing is variously called tidy, dolly and antimacassar, but by the time it has fallen off the chair arm for the tenth time in a single evening, which it frequently does, you can throw the dictionary away and fall back on your own imagination. Usually these things are merely laid on the chair or sofa arm without fastening, and the occupant is expected to watch out for it. Many a man gets his major exercise from bending over and picking doilies off the floor. For some obscure reason, the womenfolk don't seem to have much trouble with them, and that may be the reason they have such small sympathy for men who spend half their time bending over to pick 'em off the floor. That is where man makes a mistake, of course. Leave 'em lying. First thing you do on sitting down, sort of slide your elbow across the arm-rest and brush the thing off. Pretend not to notice its fall. If you once form the habit of trying to keep it in place, you're sunk. They come in all sizes, colors, and degrees of fineness, from the faintest of lace concoctions to monk's cloth, but they have one characteristic in common, one disease—dropsy. It is next to impossible to pin them on so they'll stay pinned; usually the sitter either gets a pin jabbed into his elbow, or the thing wrinkles up into a wad. Man and boy we have fought a losing battle with antimacassars, tidies and doilies for two generations now, and we are no nearer winning the contest than when we started. Only a streak of mule stubbornness drives us on. They were originally designed, of course, to keep hair oil from soiling the upholstery. Since most hair dressing in the old days was maccassar oil, they were dubbed antimacassars. Later on they came into use on chair arms as well as headrests, and from there civilized living went into a decline.

Washington Calling—Marquis Childs Dulles Is Not Telling West Europe It Must Produce Any Miracles

WASHINGTON—What a Republican secretary of State is now setting out to do is exactly what a Democratic secretary of State would have been undertaking if the outcome of the election on November 4 had been different. That is important to remember as John Foster Dulles comes up against the formidable facts of life at home and abroad. Those facts, to put it another way, are the same tough facts that a Democratic President and a Democratic secretary would have had to meet. What appears to have shocked Europe in Dulles' initial speech was his statement that if it is not possible for France, Britain and Germany to move closer together, then American policy must be re-examined. That statement may have been too blunt. But nevertheless it has back of it the basic fact of much of congressional opinion, both Republican and Democratic, and in all probability much of public opinion. No purpose would be served by glossing over this reality at the present moment when both time and patience are running out. If it is unwelcome in Europe, this may be, in part at least, because of the interval of six to nine months when there was a vacuum in American policy.

Dulles is not telling Western Europe to produce overnight a miracle of political federation. As a realist he knows that is impossible. What he was saying was that there must be evidence of progress toward the goal if support is to be forthcoming from Congress for American participation in the European defense program. Ratification of the European army pact would be a tangible piece of evidence. It may be true that the idea of federation has been overold in this country. It may also be true that a Democratic Congress would have been less demanding. This last, however, is debatable, since many Southern Democrats have been expressing the same kind of impatience reflected in the statements of key Republicans. But it is a grim situation that Dulles faces and not a theory. The grimness—the race against time with the burden of a dead past that stands in the way of any and all change—is evident in every corner of the globe. The outcome of that race is most acutely and immediately in doubt in the Middle East, in the Dulles speech. Just before he took off on his European survey tour the new secretary was warned of the explosive potentialities building up in Egypt. He was told that there the margin of time for establishing a stable middle-ground government is ominously narrow. Mohammed Naguib, the premier, has done much to consolidate his position in Egypt. From the beginning he has had the assistance and encouragement of American forces exercised discreetly in the background. But in view of the fierce tide of nationalism Naguib cannot establish a stable government that has a chance to endure without a broad concession by the British. Either a compromise is agreed to or time runs out and the fanatic Nationalists sweep into power on a wave of riot and ruin. Not far in their rear will be the Communist devourers ready to profit from chaos. To estimate the margin of time in weeks or months would be foolhardy. But Dulles was told that the fanatics are attracting many supporters around the focus of a "Liberation Party" which has one goal—to drive the British out. In Iran the margin of time has been longer than the prophets of doom had anticipated. But this does not mean that a stalemate can be maintained indefinitely. Democrats responsible for foreign policy in the recent past, and especially partisans of Dean Acheson, have been waiting for Dulles to come up against the cruel hurdles in the way of anyone trying to make sense out of the contemporary world. They have been waiting with the memory so recent of the campaign oratory and its over-simplifications and easy promises. Dulles himself indulged in that kind of campaign oratory. These eager watchers fully expect the new secretary of state to take a fall. They are prepared to say, "We told you so, we knew that you couldn't do it either." Such a fall, however, would not involve merely the fortunes of an individual or, for that matter, of a party and an administration. So much more is at stake.

Korean Hill Now Named For Lighter

NEWARK, N. Y. (AP)—A manufacturing firm here has been notified by the Marine Corps that a hill on the Korean battlefield has been named after the cigarette lighter it makes. The name (Ronsen hill) was put on maps after a leatherneck went on several lone patrols to relieve the lost lighter his girl gave him before he left the states.

The Fellow Who's Always Complaining Can Often Make Your Troubles Lighter

NEW YORK (AP)—The optimist gets too much credit in this world—and the grouch doesn't get enough. When the going gets really rough, who wants as a companion the fellow who always chirps, "There's a bright side to everything." He's downright depressing. Give me the guy who insists no cloud ever had a silver lining. He's more fun to be with in a long haul. Nobody really trusts a man who has a smile that won't rub off, no matter how bad his troubles. You begin to feel that he just doesn't have common sense. He is a like a punch-drunk fighter jumping up and down in a brain-fog saying, "Look, Mae, he didn't hurt me."

Whenever I feel depressed I go to an old friend and ask: "Tell us, do you see any reasons for general optimism?" "Why, of course not," he says, scowling. "There never were any reasons—there never will be." As he is a happy and balanced man, this lifts my spirits immediately. And I leave him feeling sure the world is better than I thought.

Chiang Can't Undertake Large Raids For A While

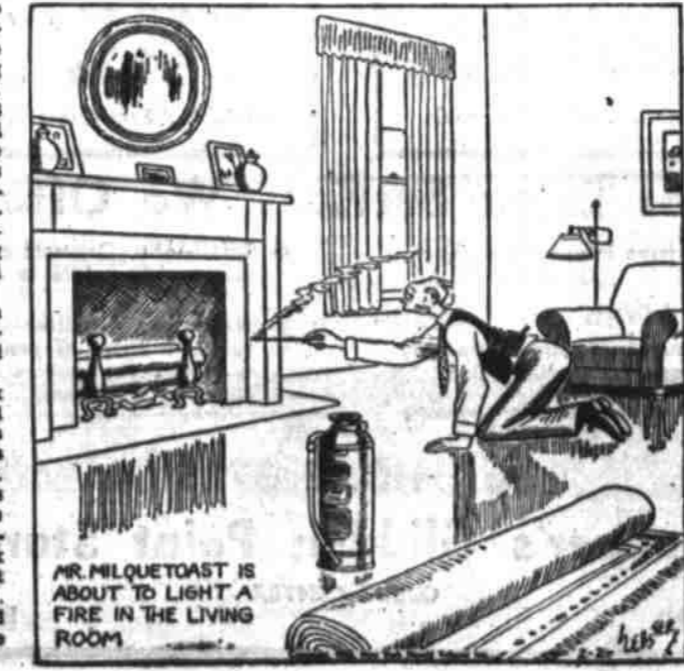

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower reportedly will tell the U. S. Seventh Fleet to let the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa attack the Chinese Communist mainland. This would not prevent the fleet from blocking any attempt by the Communists to raid Formosa. Such a White House order to the fleet would be official blessing to something which has been going on anyway for more than a year on a small scale: While Chiang Kai-shek's main body of troops is on Formosa his forces have been making commando-like raids on the mainland from 30 islands off China's coast. Even with the fleet pulled aside it's doubtful Chiang could increase the size of such raids for some time. He delegates to the United Nations, Dr. T. F. Tsaiang, says large-scale operations against the mainland could not be made for a year or two, and they could be done then only with American help. At the same time an Associated Press reporter on Formosa wrote over the week end that the Communists at present do not appear capable of invading Formosa, which is separated from the mainland by 90 miles of water. He said they could make air raids on the island and that Chiang, who has some planes, could do the same to them. And the Nationalists who have some small boats, could help the U. S. blockade the China coast if a blockade should be undertaken. "On Formosa Chiang has at the most 600,000 troops, not all of them ready or equipped for a full invasion of the mainland. He probably couldn't attempt it, when ready, without U. S. help. The unanswered question, even with the issuance of a White House order to the Fleet, is the unpredictable one: How deeply can Chiang get involved in fighting the Chinese Communists without getting the U. S. more deeply involved? The most immediate effect of this reported first get-tough effort of the Eisenhower administration may be more psychological than anything else. It will give the Chinese Communists, who have been concentrating their forces and attention on Korea, something else to worry about. Since they don't know whether this is just the first of a series of American moves to end the Korean War, they can't tell where the next will hit them. The purpose of this, or any series of similar decisions, would be to put pressure on the Communists to quit fighting. When the North Korean Communists invaded South Korea in June, 1950—no doubt with the help and blessing of the Chinese and Russian Communists—no one knew where they would strike next. So when he decided the U. S. should intervene on the side of the South Koreans, former President Truman announced: "I have ordered the Seventh Fleet to prevent any attack on Formosa. As a corollary to this action I am calling upon the Chinese government on Formosa to cease all air and sea operations against the mainland. The Seventh Fleet will see that this is done." But that was at a time when Communist China had not yet itself intervened in the Korean War. Since then Chiang's men may not have made raids on the mainland from Formosa but have from islands near the China coast.

This Day In Texas

By CURTIS BISHOP
The Texas story of a fabulous family had its beginning on this day in 1828 when Francis Stillman and his son arrived at Brazos Santiago. The occasion was important to the Texas story for another reason. The ship "Albion" was the first American steamship to chug up the waters of the Rio Grande. Francis Stillman died in 1838 but his son, Charles, displayed the same business genius. He operated a steamship line, was primarily responsible for the organization of Brownsville and became one of the first Texas millionaires. Trading in Baghdad during the Civil War and just afterward supplemented his wealth. Two of his early associates in the steamship business also earned wealth—Captains Richard King and Mifflin Kennedy. Stillman moved to New York after the Civil War and died there in December, 1875. He was near 90 years old. He was born in Connecticut in April, 1785. A third generation of Stillmans prospered in proportion. James Stillman was president of the National City Bank of New York and when he died in 1917 he left a fortune of some 200 million. The Stillman family continued to own property in Brownsville until 1922.

Switzerland Is Learning As A Result Of Watch East And West

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald.—Editor's Note.
For a nation that has sat in the stands and watched during the last two great wars, Switzerland is working hard to develop battle muscles. According to reports from that mountainous country, the Swiss are getting ready to defend themselves in a war they think is bound to occur between the Russians and the Americans. Furthermore, the reports say, the Swiss are sure the Muscovites and her satellites are bound to lose the massive struggle. Swiss confidence that the Soviets will be defeated if they pit their strength against Western might is based on the "1000 days theory," according to Sidney Taylor, a writer in Berne, Switzerland. That theory assumes the deadline for the Russians to succeed in such an attempt passed more than a year ago. At the end of two more years—roughly 1,000 days in all—a re-armed West will be so strong that it need not fear attack, Taylor writes. According to the writer, the Swiss are able to shrewdly assess world conditions through a system in which private Swiss citizens in various portions of the world segment reports on legations and embassies, a system peculiarly Swiss. From lessons gained in the Korean struggle, in which the Swiss government has been careful to remain officially aloof, Switzerland is placing emphasis on light brigades, anti-tank and anti-aircraft defenses. Swiss expenditures for arms are the highest in history, which indicates that the Swiss feel they're going to have to fight this time, though they've always been carefully neutral in the past. They do not expect a direct attack but rather an attempt by an enemy from the east to outflank the Rhine defenses. Present plans call for the Swiss Army to fight as close as possible to the frontier, in the hopes of sparing a large part of the population the hardships of enemy occupation. The army would have to fall back, it is theorized, but, as it did so, mountain sides would cave in and villages would blow up, loosening avalanches of snow and stone and torrents of water. —TOMMY HART

Today And Tomorrow—Walter Lippman Reduction Of The Soviet Empire Is A Necessary, Feasible Policy

Mr. Dulles' speech on Tuesday evening was not a declaration of policy by the new administration. That can come only later and perhaps it will not come at all in resounding pronouncements. The speech was rather, so it seemed to me, like the conversation when guests at a banquet are still drinking their tomato juice and Coca-Cola before they take their seats at the table. That may perhaps be the reason why it was written in the pseudo-lowbrow language, and why it ignored, so it seemed to me, the famous maxim of Franklin P. Adams for editors, writers, and orators, that the average man is a great deal above the average.

The fundamental conception of the Eisenhower-Dulles foreign policy is, however, laid down once again in this speech. It is that the Muscovite empire is too big for the peace and welfare of this country and its allies and friends, and that a global truce, a condition of co-existence, cannot be attained unless the range of the power exercised from Moscow is reduced—in Eastern Europe and in China. Mr. Dulles was at great pains to reassure this country and the world that the administration is not thinking of bringing about this reduction of the Soviet empire by a war of liberation. While he was unquestionably speaking the truth, speaking with complete sincerity, the uneasiness will continue until President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles are able to show, or at least to indicate, how such a tremendous objective might be achieved without resort to a major war.

The indications which have been given to the public thus far have, I regret to say, done much more harm than good in the way of creating confidence that their purposes can be achieved without a world war. For the public has been allowed to suppose that they think that the Stalinist empire can be made to disintegrate by propaganda and subversive activity—that these are the chosen instruments of the administration in realizing its aims. In this conception, which I believe to be largely a misunderstanding, there is a frightening naivete, a dangerous simple-mindedness, which grossly over-estimates the power of propaganda and subversive activity and grossly under-estimates the powers of a modern police state. Until the disparity between the objectives of the administration and the means allegedly proposed to carry them out cease to be as great as they appear to be now, the administration will not command confident support.

It is reasonably clear, I think, what that danger is. It is the constant and recurring danger of the resistance and the revolt of the satellites along the lone opened up by Tito. We can now say, I think, that the Soviet conquest of Eastern Europe was never fully consummated, that the nationalism of the people of Eastern Europe is so deep and so enduring that even Moscow-trained Communists, even the very agents of the Kremlin, come under its spell and are infected and assimilated by it. They may be Communists, as Tito is, but the national spirit is stronger than the Stalin ideology and there is an irresistible tendency for the Communists in Poland to become Polish, not Russian Communists, for the Czechs to become Czech and not Russian Communists, and so on for all the satellites. This national feeling is provoked and aroused by the crude and brutal exploitation that the Russian empire imposes upon its satellites. They are treated not as comrades in the world revolution but as conquered colonies of Russia. This is what drove Tito into rebellion and that is what keeps the whole of Eastern Europe in a state of barely suppressed rebellion, which requires repeated purging and terrorism to keep it under control. The real problem, therefore, is not how to incite the rebellion, which, if it is to be powerful, must be native, but rather how to open up choices when rebellion is ripe by which movements of independence can become reasonably safe and advantageous.

Wrong 'Taxi'

DETROIT (AP)—A 40-year-old car washer lured up to a police scout car, got in and ordered, "The Clinton Hotel." Instead he got a free "taxi" ride to jail where he was charged with drunkenness. Later in court the judge gave him his choice—$10 or 10 days.

Uncle Ray's Corner Rocket Exploring: Passing Moon

Judging by letters which have come to me, the interest in rocket travel has grown during the past year. Some persons hope that they will make a rocket trip to some other planet in the solar system, or at least to the moon! Such trips are likely to take place within the next hundred years. As we gain more knowledge of atomic power, we should be able to move rockets at speeds almost past present dreams. It seems likely to me that a rocket will reach the moon within the next 10 years; perhaps it will carry cameras instead of people, but if it circles the moon and gets back to the earth, the trip will be a great event in the story of the human race. Right now, without the help of rocket trips, we have a good deal of knowledge about the solar system. In imagination, at least, we can go far and wide through space. Let us suppose that we decide to make a journey. Our rocket is a big one, with a length of 1,500 feet and with as much ocean liner in the early part of the trip our speed will average about 10 miles a second, but soon after we pass the moon we shall go several times that fast. In our rocket are 50 persons—you and I, and 48 others. The others include five astronomers: Professor Stebbins, Professor Huffer, Dr. Jones, Professor Skilling and Dr. Richardson. Away from the earth we shoot, and in only six hours we are near the moon. This little world, the earth's companion, has a diameter of 2,160 miles. That is a little more than one fourth of the earth's diameter. While we are close to the moon, we gaze at the surface through the window of our rocket. Each window has a "pane" made of transparent plastic one foot thick. We can see through this material very well. On the moon we see craters in vast number, and Dr. Jones remarks: "About 30,000 of those craters have been counted. Many of the holes are more than two miles deep!" In a few minutes we leave the moon behind. Onward our rocket goes, in the direction of the bright planet Venus. Fred Gloria Christie Wed In Church Ceremony Sunday To George Young Fred Gloria Christie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sampson Christie of Garden City, became the bride of George Young of Farwell Sunday afternoon in the Garden City Baptist Church.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Young of Farwell.

Dr. Bill Marshall of Plainview, president of Wayland College, officiated in the double ring ceremony before an archway of roses and greenery.

Ludén Gutierrez of Costa Rica and a student of Wayland accompanied Ernestine Thornburg who sang "O Promise Me." The Wayland BSU Choir sang "Anywhere With Jesus" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Randell Sherrod of Big Spring gave his sister-in-law in marriage. She was attired in a bridal gown of white satin fashioned with a tight-fitting bodice with sweetheart neckline and a full skirt extending into a train. The long close-fitting sleeves ended in points over the hands and were fastened with tiny self-covered buttons.

Her veil of white net hung from a headress of white satin caught at either side with tiny white flowers. She carried a white Bible topped with pink carnations. A pearl necklace and earrings were her only jewelry.

Mrs. Sherrod, attending her sister as matron of honor, wore a white gown of satin and net and carried yellow carnations.

Bridesmaids were Barbara Lu Currie of Texas Tech, who wore a floor length dress of white satin with full skirt of white net scattered with daisies and a corsage of white carnations; Barbara Godwin of Amarillo in white taffeta and net; and Catherine Williamson of Snyder, also in white.

Oscar Harrell of Vega served as best man, and groomsmen were Milford Grisham of Plainview and J. B. Sudders, Farwell. Ushers were Paul Young of Floydada and Henry Young of Odessa, brothers of the bridegroom.

Mildred Young, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl and Donnie Young, the bridegroom's brother, was ring bearer. Charlyn Lockett and Lillian Young, sister of the bridegroom, lighted the tapers.

For a wedding trip to Vance and to Carlsbad Caverns, the bride selected a pink linen dress with pink accessories. Upon their return the newlyweds will live in Plainview where they are students at Wayland.

The bride was valedictorian of her graduating class at Garden City and is a junior at Wayland. She is a member of the BSU Choir, does mission work at the Mexican mission in Plainview and is employed in the Wayland print shop.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Bovina High School and is also a member of the BSU Choir and a volunteer worker at the mission. At a reception at the parsonage following the ceremony, guests were received by the couple and their parents. The table was laid with an ecru lace cloth over pink satin and centered with an arrangement of pink carnations in a crystal bowl and pink candles.

Mrs. Paul Young, Betty Crenshaw and Violet Thornburg presided at the table, and Evanelle Gibson of Lamesa was in charge of the bride's bouquet.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding and reception included the bridegroom parents and children and Roy Young, Farwell; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Young and daughter, Floydada; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Christie and daughters, Barksdale; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hartley and daughters, Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Christie, Shreveport, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Young, Odessa; Roy Harris, director of the BSU Choir and 40 members of the choir from Plainview.

SPECIAL EGG SALAD
Ingredients: 5 hard-cooked eggs, 1/4 cup coarsely chopped celery, 1/4 cup chopped or ready-diced almonds, 1/4 cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons cream, 1/2 teaspoon salt, freshly-ground pepper, lettuce, ripe olives, paprika.
Method: Peel eggs and slice thin crosswise. Add celery and almonds. Blend mayonnaise with cream, salt and pepper. Pour over egg mixture and toss lightly. Arrange in lettuce cups. Garnish with ripe olives and sprinkle of paprika. Makes 4 servings.

Whipped Cream Cake

1 cup heavy cream
3 egg whites
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups cake flour (sift before measuring)
1 1/4 cups sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
Whip until stiff the heavy cream. Whip until stiff but not dry the egg whites and salt. Combine the two mixtures and fold in 1/2 cup water and the vanilla. Sift twice the flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt. Fold the sifted ingredients into the whipped cream mixture—a small amount at a time. Bake the cake in a greased 9 inch tube pan in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, about 1 1/4 hour.

Baking some cream puffs for dessert? Here's a new way to fill them: Put about a teaspoon of sweetened whipped cream in each puff, add some well-drained canned peach slices, and then add more of the whipped cream. Sprinkle the tops of the cream puffs with confectioners' sugar.

Tax Consultants Propose Breaks For Working Girls

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

The working girl has found unexpected allies in two California tax consultants who have proposed to alter some of the income tax rules which have been infuriating her for years.

These two knights in shining armor, Glenn Graves and Hugh McMahon of San Francisco, have proposed in letters to their senator and congressmen that secretaries, stenographers and other women of the office be permitted to deduct beauty costs from their income tax, holding that it's just as important for an office girl to look her best to hold her job as it is for professional glamor girls such as stars of stage, screen, radio and TV.

They also think a working mother should be allowed to deduct the wages and keep of domestic help, babysitters and outside care and education of children.

This latter point is one which already has been brought up in Congress, with conspicuous lack of action, and one on which most of the women's organizations in the country are firmly united.

The income tax laws state clearly that a deductible business expense is one which is necessary to one's means of livelihood. Such things as entertainment of customers, upkeep of car used in business, office expenses and so on are called legitimate deductions. But the internal revenue boys so far have refused to admit that the cost of a nurse, babysitter or nursery school is an expense necessary to the income of a working mother.

Let's take a look at the economic status of the average stenographer. Let's say her salary is $50 a week. The average may be slightly lower in small towns.

Sally Stenog takes home only $30.15 of her $50 salary, after Uncle Sam takes a bite of $10.10 for income tax and 75 cents for social security.

She spends a minimum of $1 a week for carfare, at least $2.50 at the beauty shop, average of $5 a week for lunches, and probably $1.50 a week for cleaning and pressing—keeping her clothes neat is another $10 a week, which must come out before she starts to pay her room rent and board. Or she has $29.15 left for living expenses.

Out of this she must buy clothes, which cost her more than if she stayed at home.

You can see that our Sally can't indulge in no riotous living.

Now suppose Sally is married to a young man who just getting a foothold in the business world, making perhaps $75 a week, and suppose, as usually happens, the young couple has a baby.

Before she can go out and take a job to aid the family income Sally will have to pay for someone to take care of the baby. If she hires a full-time nurse or housekeeper, the cost will be more than she earns as a stenographer, probably. If she compromises on a day nursery the cost will be at least $10 a week, perhaps more.

Add to that the fact that the amount she can add to her husband's income will put the family in a higher income bracket.

A job in this case would be a luxury, and would cost Sally and her husband more than it would for her to stay at home.

So she thinks it's high time somebody, like the chivalrous tax consultants, started helping heaven protect the working girl.

the development of additional Republic of Korea forces. This was in line with his campaign demand that Korean troops replace other U. N. forces in the front lines as soon as possible.

He said his foreign policy, in general, will envision "all peaceful methods and devices — except breaking faith with our friends."

"I shall ask the Congress at a later date to join in an appropriate resolution making clear that this government recognizes no kind of commitment contained in secret undertakings of the past with foreign governments which permit this kind of enslavement."

Eisenhower spoke with extreme gravity on the subject of finance. "It is important," he said, "that all of us understand that this administration does not and cannot begin its task with a clean slate."

Wryly, the President interjected: "Permit me this one understatement: To meet and to correct this situation will not be easy."

He summed up what he described as "the grand labors" of his administration in these words: "Application of our influence in world affairs with such fortitude and such foresight that it will deter aggression and eventually secure peace."

2. "Corrective action" to amend the Taft-Hartley labor law. Eisenhower said the Labor Department was making some specific recommendations and he'd send them along later.

3. Amendment of the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act to remove what he called discrimination against some groups of aliens.

4. Extension of the Old Age and Survivors Insurance law to cover millions of citizens who have been left out of the social security system.

TAX

strength "within the limits of enduring strain upon our economy."

"A balanced budget is an essential first measure in checking further depreciation of the buying power of the dollar. This is one of the critical steps to be taken to bring an end to planned inflation."

"Reduction of taxes will be justified only as we show we can succeed in bringing the budget under control. As the budget is balanced and inflation checked, the tax burden that today stifles initiative can and must be eased."

"Until we can determine the extent to which expenditures can be reduced, it would not be wise to reduce our revenues."

"That amounted to waving a danger flag in the face of such members of Congress as Chairman Reed (R-NY) of the House ways and means committee, leader of a move to cut income taxes July 1—six months earlier than scheduled expiration of the law which authorized an 11 per cent increase."

"Disinflation with them is wholly unjustified. I am convinced that now—as well as in the long run—free and competitive prices will best serve the interests of all the people, and best meet the changing, growing needs of our economy."

"He predicted the end of the curbs 'will result in individual price changes — some up and some down,' but said 'a maximum of freedom in market prices as well as in selective bargaining is characteristic of a truly free people.'"

Eisenhower also recommended that controls of materials and end products be ended June 30, except in case of critical materials needed for defense production.

FLOOD

tidies to cause the floods continued to whip the waters over hundreds of miles of sand dunes and connecting dikes which had held back the North Sea for centuries.

A great army of British troops and civilians rushed by land and sea and air to snatch survivors from possible death in new tides.

The Dutch Weather Bureau warned that high winds today would continue to threaten the broken dikes. In Britain, the forecast was for fresh winds tending to "moderate slowly."

The money cost of the week-end disaster — one of the worst in Europe's peacetime history — ran into uncounted millions of dollars.

Breaching Holland's historic dikes in countless places, the flood waters poured inland as much as 40 miles at some points. Hardest hit were the provinces of Zeeland and Northern Brabant, in Southern Holland, the Frisian Isle of Texel, and the island of Walcheren, at the mouth of the West Scheldt.

A few successful flights have received wide publicity, but the public seldom learns about the many rockets which do not fulfill predictions.

Why is it so difficult to go much higher than we have been? It is because the engineers have caught up with the scientists and have almost exhausted our store of basic knowledge.

Thus present plans for space travel and designs for space ships are based on a meager store of scientific knowledge and a large amount of speculation. There is a place for speculation if it is clearly labeled "speculation" and if its purpose is to stimulate interest.

Gulf Oil Well Fire Continues Defying Fighters

By ROY STEINFORT
Via Ship-to-Shore Radiophone

ABOARD A PATROL BOAT IN THE GULF OF MEXICO (AP)—Fire-fighters prepared today to blast out the flames of two burning offshore gas wells that have defied them for more than a week.

Myron Kinley and Mansel Rake, oil and gas well firefighting specialists from Houston, planned to set off a dynamite charge expected to put out the geysering flames much as a man would blow out a candle.

Rake, who almost lost his life in the battle last week, was ready to place 70 pounds of dynamite wrapped in asbestos near the flames, a conventional method of fighting oil and gas well fires. The concussion of the explosion was expected to do the rest.

Heavy seas halted the dynamite attempt yesterday when workers could not clear away wreckage around the wells 10 miles off the Louisiana coast. The melted, twisted metal and debris had to be pulled away before Rake can get close enough to place the dynamite.

Once the flames are out, the process is to put a cap on the pipes bringing the seeping gas from a pocket 10,000 feet below the Gulf's surface.

British Begin Check Into Ferry Disaster

DONAGHADEE, Northern Ireland (AP)—The British government started an inquiry today into the sinking of the ferry Princess Victoria in the Irish Sea with a loss of 13 lives.

Weary Coast Guardsmen and lifeboat crews had recovered 73 bodies when darkness forced them to quit last night with no hopes of further survivors.

Only 44 of the 176 persons who set out on the 36-mile crossing from Stranraer, Scotland, to Larne, Northern Ireland, Saturday morning lived through the disaster.

Not one of the more than 30 women and children aboard was among the rescued.

The inquiry into the cause of the sinking was announced by a spokesman for the state-owned British railway system, which operated the ferry.

The 2,694-ton vessel was only 35 minutes out of Stranraer when a towering sea, blown up by a sudden gale, smashed to the deck a door of the compartment where she carried cars and trucks.

The ship quickly took on tons of water and went out of control, drifting toward the Irish coast, while lifeboats and rescue ships bucked mountainous waves in response to her radioed SOS.

There was some confusion about the crippled vessel's position, and precious time was lost searching for her along the Scottish coast.

The Princess Victoria rolled over and went down five miles off this little Irish port less than seven hours after the first big wave hit her.

The waves had carried away some of her boats and washed oars from others. Without oars, persons who got into boats were forced to sit and drift helplessly while the icy waters swept away screaming men, women and children. Many jumped into the sea just before the ferry rolled over and sank.

A member of the crew, Angus Nelson, 42, said Capt. James Ferguson deliberately went down with the ship.

"I was in one of the last lifeboats to get away," Nelson told reporters. "Suddenly the Victoria heeled right over. As she went, I had a last glimpse of the skipper clinging to the bridge with one hand, his other at a salute."

Groundhog Lodge Has A Gala Fete Planned

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM
QUARRYVILLE, Pa. (AP)—For the first time in its long and illustrious history the Slumbering Lodge of Groundhogs has one of the clan in the White House. No wonder the members have whipped up something super for today.

This, of course, is Groundhog Day. It's the day when a lot of people watch little holes in the earth for woodchucks to pop out to see if winter is over. A lot of others poke fun at that and go right on believing the official weather reports, no matter whether the groundhog sees its shadow or not.

The tradition: If the groundhog sees its shadow, six more weeks of winter; if it doesn't, then spring is around the bend.

The news, when it came, was not good. The official club bulletin said that the groundhog saw his shadow at 8:17.50 a.m. (CST), he scudded back into his burrow. The six-weeks-of-winter prospect, however, didn't interfere with the official observance.

In the xxx 4th graf

In the lodge's view, few honors are higher than nomination to the brotherhood dedicated to peeping up Feb. 2. A man can't get into the lodge simply because he wants to. He must be chosen. Even then he may not come safely through the screening.

Officers said President Eisenhower, then a general, made the grade two years ago. In so doing, he joined scientist-philosopher Albert Einstein and a company of more than 100 doctors, lawyers, teachers, businessmen and farmers in this picturesque Lancaster County region of Southeastern Pennsylvania.

Starting their sorties before dawn, the lodgemen plainly relished the prospect of traveling for miles in all directions, mainly on horseback, but soot from time to time the better to spy on the groundhog.

The findings of the all-day survey are compiled by the secretary-treasurer - historian for the lodge archives. It's esoteric stuff, strictly top secret, stored up for future books on groundhogery.

Bland and beneficent, Charles Hess, hibernating governor, confided: "The outcome of today's daring innovation may be so sensational as to make all our earlier efforts seem like child's play."

He meant the master project—the avowed intention to shoot a rocket, with two groundhogs aboard, to the moon.

Let Hess continue: "This is our supreme tribute to science, our grand gesture to the only member we've had who became U. S. President. The idea is to be sure that, when the first scientists land on the moon, groundhogs will be there, as they were on our own planet from the beginning."

All fantasy? An elaborate spoof? Well, if skeptics scoff and stay-at-homes are satisfied to taste adventure by proxy, say on TV; if the prosaic, pooh-pooh; the whole thing as playacting, and unyieldingly practical persons find the groundhog no more than a rather funny, often bad-tempered animal—if so, the Slumbering Lodge reports that's because such people need more imagination, need to be stirred by something better than bare facts.

Public Can See Variety Show At Webb AFB

Three o'clock tomorrow afternoon will mark the opening performance of the roadshow "Stars on Parade" in the Webb Air Force Base gymnasium.

Webb officials have extended an invitation to all persons in the Big Spring area to attend the spectacle, either for the afternoon matinee or the evening performance at 8:00 p.m.

Admission prices for the show are $1.00 for adults and $.50 for children under 12. Tickets are on sale now at Elmo Wasson's, Lee Hanson's, Melinger's or they may be purchased at the door for the same price.

This production in the first joint military-civilian entertainment venture undertaken since the reactivation of Webb a little more than a year ago and the sponsors are hoping for a large turnout.

The base has been declared "open" to the public so that anyone desiring may attend the show.

Admittance to the base may be obtained by stopping at the main gate and informing the air policeman on duty that you would like to attend the variety show. The air policeman will direct you to the base gymnasium where the show will be held.

Two Red Jets Downed By UN In Korea Fight

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN
SEOUL, (AP)—U. S. Sabre jets tangled with Russian-built MIGs along MIG Alley today. Pilots reported shooting down two Red jets, probably destroying another and damaging two more.

It was the 15th straight day of dog fights in far Northwest Korea. The Air Force said today's battles ranged from an altitude of 8½ miles down to 500 feet.

The flashing air battles came after U. S. Superforts and fighter-bombers struck Red positions Communist battle front today. The Air Force said it was the biggest B-29 strike on Communist bunkers and gun positions in a year.

Far East Air Forces reported 10 of the big bombers dumped 100 tons of high explosives on the Reds. Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers followed up the raid early today.

At least 17 bunkers and five gun positions were reported smashed.

The Eighth Army said the sharp-tongued fighting broke out on the Western Front near shell-battered old Baldy Hill. Allied troops withdrew from an outpost position after a two-hour night assault by 80 Chinese, but reoccupied the hill before daybreak without resistance.

Elsewhere only sporadic patrol clashes were reported.

The Eighth Army said Allied tanks completed a three-week bunker busting shoot on the Central Front—from the Kumha ridges to Whitehorse Mountain—and that tank crews reported hitting a total of 1,000 bunkers. The army said more than a half-mile stretch of Chinese trenches were destroyed.

Texas Traffic Death Toll Lower In 1952

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Safety Council reported yesterday that the traffic death toll in Texas in 1952 was one per cent lower than the 1951 total. The national total was a gain of 2 per cent over last year. Fort Worth showed a decrease of 38 per cent in traffic fatalities for the year. Dallas had a decrease of 14 per cent and Houston 3 per cent.

SMU Seeking New Grid Coach

Rusty Russell Departs Staff

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS (AP)—Southern Methodist University, which never has fired a football coach, was looking for one today to replace H. N. (Rusty) Russell, who resigned under pressure after two losing seasons.

Russell, third Southwest Conference coach to quit in less than three months, stepped out last night with the simple statement that "it is too big a job to coach football and have to answer criticism at the same time."

Russell had been paid off by the university and indicated it was in full for the three remaining years. Dr. E. D. Mouson Jr., chairman of the faculty committee on athletics, said the committee regretted Russell's resignation.

The committee is expected to start considering a replacement for Russell immediately. The cry for a new coach at SMU began in the middle of the 1950 season when the Methodists, then rated No. 1 in the nation, were beaten by Texas in a game that saw SMU do little except pass. It was lack of a versatile offense and an inept defense that got the "wolves" on the SMU coach.

In 1950 Southern Methodist won six games and lost four. In 1951 the record was three victories, six defeats and one tie. Last fall, the Methodists won four games, lost five and tied one and finished third in the Southwest Conference race—the highest they had placed in the league in four years.

Russell said he hoped to continue in coaching but thought it was too late to make a connection for next fall.

There have been reports that Doak Walker, SMU All-America of 1947, 1948 and 1949 now with Detroit in professional football, was to succeed Russell, who coached him in high school and college, as mentor at SMU. But Walker said he had not been approached and indicated he wouldn't take the job if it was offered to him.

Walker will be in his fourth season of pro football next fall. Shortly before Russell announced his resignation, Herman Crowley, assistant coach, resigned with the statement that he had accepted a job teaching and assisting in coaching spring sports at Crozier Tech High School here.

Other coaches—McAdoo Keaton and Herman Morgan of the varsity and Tom Dean of the freshmen—have one-year contracts that are up June 30. Dr. Mouson said the new head coach would be given a free hand in recommending his staff.

Matty Bell, whom Russell succeeded as coach—Bell now is SMU athletic director—said "Rusty is a fine gentleman. He is a great sportsman and teaches boys to play football in a clean and honorable manner. In the eight years he has been connected with SMU he has made many great contributions to our football here and in the nation."

Russell started as a high school coach in 1922, serving at Granger, Temple, Masonic Home (Fort Worth) and Highland Park (Dallas) compiling an outstanding record. He went to SMU as assistant to Bell in 1945.

Russell said in his opinion the criticisms of his coaching were not justified and he pointed out that he had had some of the toughest schedules in the nation and that his teams had been riddled with injuries, especially the past season.

Otis Douglas resigned as coach at Arkansas in November after three poor seasons. Bowden Wyatt of Wyoming succeeded Douglas. Dutch Meyer quit as coach at Texas Christian in December but it was voluntary. He was succeeded by Abe Martin, his chief assistant, and now is athletic director at TCU.

Spring training had been scheduled to start Thursday at SMU but Bell said it was being postponed until a new coach is named.

Linksters Head For El Paso

EL PASO (AP)—Golf's touring crack shots start moving into El Paso today to try for the first chunk of a $65,000 nugget put up for them to battle for in Texas this year.

Chances are that Texans will grab off most of it—at least the tour this far would indicate it.

A Texan has won each of the six tournaments held this year. Lloyd Mangrum, who got his start in Dallas but plays out of Niles, Ill., has won three tournaments. Tommy Bolt of Houston, by way of Maplewood, N. J., has taken two. Jimmie Demaret of Houston, who registers from Kiamasha Lake, N. Y., has grabbed first money in the other one.

Bolt only yesterday captured first cash in the Tucson, Ariz., open with a 15-under-par 265.

The golf brigade comes to El Paso to play in $10,000 Open Tournament starting Thursday. Then it will be on to San Antonio for the Texas Open, also a $10,000 event, and after skipping a week, the $20,000 Houston Open.

The golfers return to Texas in May when they shoot for the biggest prize—the $25,000 Colonial National invitation at Fort Worth.

It's the biggest year in Texas golf with Houston doubling its cash and Fort Worth adding $5,000. This despite the fact that Hartline cancelled its $10,000 Rio Grande Valley Open scheduled for the third week in February. The boosts by Houston and Fort Worth more than offset the loss of the Valley's $10,000.

Mangrum leads the money winners for the year with $8,811.66. Bolt has won $4,766.66 and Demaret $2,310.83. Jack Burke of Houston, also playing out of Kiamasha Lake, N. Y., has earned $2,400. And there are several other Texans in the tour who have been breaking into the cash-winning circle.

Mangrum isn't coming here and Demaret also may not play in El Paso but all the other top men of the tour are due, including Cary Middlecott of Memphis, Tenn., the defending champion, Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C., the national champion, didn't play at Tucson but is due to resume the tour here. Skee Riegel of Tulsa is starting the winter tour here.

Quarterback Club To Meet Thursday

Officials of the Big Spring Quarterback Club have called a meeting for 7:30 p. m. Thursday. This convale will be held in the Study Hall of the High School.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

When Bob Harrell and Andy Everett departed Miller High School to accept contracts to teach football at San Angelo, it brought to 13 the number of coaches who have quit that Corpus Christi school in the past two years.

Head Coach Grady Hester started the exodus in 1951 to become superintendent of schools at Weslaco. Charley Junzmichael, Al Forman, Roy Wallace and Pete Blunzer were assistants who quit with Hester.

After Harrell moved in from Lamesa, five more Miller aides—Fred Taylor, Monroe Northcutt, Keith Harsbarger, Sam Stovall and Martin Stuart—departed the staff, for one reason or another. Then Marshall McCleary beat a retreat at midterm this year for a job at Junction.

The life of a coach, it would seem, isn't much longer than that of a kamikaze pilot.

BAUMAN NOT SO TOUGH

There's talk Joe Bauman will return to the Longhorn League. Bauman is the super-dreadnaught who crashed out 50 home runs for arisia last season.

Hack Miller of Our Town isn't staying awake night fretting about Mighty Joe. He says Joe can be pitched to and, for evidence, points to the Lubbock club's record against him in 1946, when Jack masterminded the Hubbers and Joe powered 44 home runs for Amarillo.

"Of those 44, Joe hit only one off Lubbock. We tied him up, by pitching him up here," says Mack, sweeping his hand across his chest about letter high.

Hack, incidentally, is recognized as a pretty good basketball referee. He may do some officiating, if he's around here next winter.

ENID, OKLA., OUT

Pecos isn't the only city in the country which has frowned on professional baseball.

Enid, Okla., rejected a chance to take a club in the KOM League after a radio announcer, had offered to field a team there.

Unless another city in the KOM area asks for a franchise soon, the league is liable to fold. Only five teams are ready to go as members of the circuit.

The Big State League, which gives the fans Class B baseball in keeping with its station, will put the bite on fans for that privilege this season.

The admission fee was 75 cents last year. This year, it's being jumped to 90 cents.

Frank Hill, who pitched some fine ball for Roswell a couple of years ago, will toil for the Wichita Falls Spudders in 1953. He was with Raleigh in the Carolina League last year, where he won seven games, lost six.

In 1950, Hill copped 24 games for Roswell. He was with Terre Haute prior to his stay with Roswell.

Maybe you missed it

Cecil Smith, the old San Antonio mauler, has again been rated at ten goals by the US Polo Association.

Lakeview Competes In Negro Tourney

The Lakeview (Colored) School boys' basketball team of Big Spring journeys to Colorado City this evening to compete in a double elimination tournament.

Winner of the meet will represent District 21-B of the TIL of Colored schools in the regional tournament at Midland Feb. 17.

Lakeview's first round foe will be Sweetwater, a favorite to win the tournament. Other teams in the tournament are Hamlin and Colorado City.

Forsan Beaten In Tournament Finals, 41-32

FORSAN — Albert Oglesby of Forsan was named to the Water Valley All-Tournament basketball team last week end.

In girls' play, Ann Green of Forsan was also honored. Others on the boys' all-star squad were George Demere, Water Valley; Marlin McCutcheon, Broote; Bill Peacock, Barnhart; and Jack Pardee, Christoval.

The girls' all-tournament team consisted of Peggy Abbott, Water Valley; Gloria Lizzo, Miles; Romonda Goodwin, Water Valley; Kay Munn, Water Valley; and Charlotte Southerland, Sterling City.

Christoval won the boys' championship by defeating Forsan in the finals, 41-32. Water Valley grabbed the girls' title by nudging Sterling City in the last round, 25-18.

The Forsan girls lost out in the semi-finals to Water Valley, 39-23. The Forsan boys moved into the finals by sideling Water Valley, 57-49. In that game, Oglesby scored 19 points for the Buffs.

Three Y Games On Tap Tonight

YMCA Industrial League basketball teams resume play at 7 o'clock this evening in the Junior High Gymnasium.

The opening contest pits Vic Melinger's Flers against Dibrell's Sporting Goods. At 8 o'clock, Knott squares away with Western Auto. An hour later, Coca-Cola tangles with Phillips Tire Company.

Yearling Teams Visit Snyder

Seventh and Eighth grade basketball teams of the local Junior High School visit Snyder this evening for two games.

On Thursday night, Eighth and Ninth Grade quintets visit Midland for games with Cowden Junior High.

Baseball Bill Of Fare

Three of the parties who sat in on Sunday's Longhorn League business meeting here stopped long enough to grab a bite to eat but they continued to talk baseball. They are, left to right, Patsy Allen of Roswell, A. D. (Shadow) Ensey of Odessa and Big Spring's Bill Frank.

Lamesa Baseball Problems Due To Be Solved Shortly

Group Awaiting A. C. Gonzales' Arrival There

Directors of the Longhorn League, who met in formal session at the Settles Hotel here Sunday, were informed that Lamesa—barring unforeseen circumstances—would function as a part of the league.

A. C. Gonzales, who has signified he will move his Pecos franchise to Lamesa, was unable to attend the Sunday session but indicated in a telegram to League President Hal Sayles he will go to Lamesa this week to complete arrangements for operation of the team.

A Lamesa delegation—consisting of J. D. Dyer Jr., chairman of the Sports Committee of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce; Sports Writer Jim O'Brien; George Norman Sr., president of the Dawson County Fair Association; and Chamber Prexy Skeet Noret—attended the meeting and Noret, speaking for the group, announced they were awaiting Gonzales.

Noret indicated closing the deal should only be a formality, since Lamesa already has a baseball park and is prepared to lend Gonzales the co-operation he will expect.

After Noret had addressed the executive committee, it was decided to set Feb. 15 at a deadline for the arrangements to be worked out.

A schedule was accepted by the directors and will be released to the newspapers Sunday, Feb. 15.

George Hine, publicity man for Hardin-Simmons University and former statistician for the Mountain State League, was named league statistician.

It was decided home clubs would furnish batting practice balls for visiting teams. Since home teams are more diligent in retrieving their own balls, it was thought a greater saving to each club would result. The seven clubs represented at the parley pronounced satisfactory progress in the book of box seats, fence signs, score book space and season tickets.

Artesia, represented by Earl Perry, reported 132 season duets had already been sold there. The objective is 200.

Over 100 boxes have been sold at Carlsbad. The Carlsbad park will have 146 boxes, according to Pat McLaughlin.

League President Sayles was authorized to approach the WT-NM League with the idea of hiring baseball clubs like Max Patkin and Ed Hammond to appear in the two leagues' 16 parks. It was thought, under such an arrangement, that the clowns' services could be guaranteed at a cheaper rate.

A Longhorn League Beauty Contest, in which girls of each town would participate, was discussed but no decision was made regarding its promotion. Allen Ingram, representing San Angelo, stated his club would like more time to consider the idea before deciding on it.

Tommy Bolt Grabs Top Cash In Tucson Golf Tournament

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Relentless, almost faultless golf gave aggressive Tommy Bolt of Maplewood, N. J., the championship in the $10,000 Tucson Open yesterday and added $2,000 to his bankroll.

The temperamental Tommy went over par only once during four days of play. Sixteen birdies gave him a 72-hole total of 65-68-66-66—265 for the par 70, 6,402-yard El Rio Golf and Country Club course. He showed no signs of his famous temper when he accidentally touched the ball on the ninth fairway and penalized himself a stroke.

Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., a veteran who may soon be out of a job for the first time since 1934, almost made a strange dream come true as he fought back on the final nine holes to come within one stroke of the winner and collect $1,400.

Harper said about a month ago a friend of a friend dreamed he (Harper) had won the 1953 Tucson Open. The friend said his pal had had other dreams come true. So Harper hopped on a plane and flew out here to play in his first tournament since last August despite a painful arm injury.

"The dream was the whole reason I came," he said. "It almost came true."

Harper shot three 66s and one 68 for a total of 266, better than the 267 total that won for him here in 1950. He said the Portsmouth City course, where he is pro, is the site of a proposed high school and will be closed.

Cherry Middlecott of Memphis, Tenn., and Tony Holguin of Midlothian, Ill., the Spanish-American winner of the Mexican Open in 1949 and 1950, finished in a third-place tie. Each won $920.

Lloyd Mangrum, Niles, Ill.; Jerry Barber, Lacomada, Calif.; Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y.; and Jack Harden, El Paso, Tex., got $555 apiece for total of 270.

BLUHM IS WINNER

Two-Day 'Dimes' Meet Attracts 84

The March Of Dimes campaign benefitted to the extent of $84 from the MOD Golf Tournament conducted at the Munny Course here over the week end.

That many entry fees were paid in the two-day carnival. Each linkster paid $1 for the privilege of competing. Pro W. O. Maxwell, Jr., said the course would have had its problems taking care of a bigger field.

Bobby Bluhm's 69 stood up as the best score in the March Of Dimes Golf Tournament held at the Munny Course over the week end. Bluhm was competing in the scratch-to-6-stroke handicap group.

Bluhm fired his round Saturday. Red McCullough trailed with a 72, a stroke ahead of D. A. Brazzell. All got prizes.

In the 6-10 handicap group, Bill Phillips finished first with a 72, followed by Jack Smith and Odie Green, who tied with 74's.

In the 10-14 handicap group, Richard Pachall posted a 68, followed by J. L. Robertson, who had a 69 and Billie Dillon, who had a 70. Among those given a handicap of over 14 strokes, L. P. Smith was first with a 74, followed by Kay Bartlett with 81 and Winston Choate with 85.

A quartet composed of Bud Pickett, J. L. Robertson, Glen Burgess and Jack Smith fashioned a low-ball score of 58 — 15 under team play.

In the contest where entries sought to drive nearing the pin on No. 10, D. A. Brazzell copped first place by placing his drive within 3 feet 4 inches of the hole. Pat Autry was second with a tee shot that approached within 7 feet 4 inches of the pin.

Mrs. Dillon had the most one-putt greens — ten — to win that event while Gil Barnett won another prize of having the most two-putt greens — 15.

Bob Sheridan, Brandeis University basketball player, is the son of the tournament policeman.

Michigan State's best record in basketball was the 16-1 mark posted in 1931 under Coach Ben VanAlstyne.

TIL Asks NCAA For Waiver Right

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Inter-scholastic League is awaiting word from the NCAA rules committee on a requested option to the new limited substitution rule for high school football teams.

Dr. Rhea Williams, league athletic director, said yesterday that the TIL executive committee is hoping for a quick decision from NCAA rules chairman Fritz Crisler of Michigan so it can ask high schools to vote on the two systems—limited substitution or two-rotation.

He was not optimistic the NCAA would allow the option, although it would apply to high schools only.

Williams said the committee would poll the schools on the two systems if the option is provided. "If not we'll probably go along with the NCAA rules as they are," he said.

Letters, telegrams and telephone calls from coaches indicate "about a 60-40 division in favor of liberal substitutions—closer than I thought it would be," Williams reported.

Cincy And Braves Ready Offers For Ralph Kiner

NEW YORK (AP)—If Ralph Kiner, the National League's home run king for the last seven years, leaves the Pittsburgh Pirates he will, in all probability, don the uniform of either the Cincinnati Reds or the Boston Braves.

Out of the wave of reports circulated during the major league meetings here over the week end came these two definite facts concerning a deal for the 30-year-old slugger:

1. The Reds have offered Pittsburgh five players, valued by Vice President Gabe Paul of Cincinnati at $300,000, for Kiner.

2. The Braves have handed Branch Rickey, general manager of the Pirates, a long list of players whom they are willing to include in a deal for the home run hitter.

There were other reports the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Philadelphia Phillies also were interested in Kiner, but they were denied by top club officials. And still another had Wid Mathews, personnel director of the Chicago Cubs, offering $200,000.

The offers of the Reds and Braves fit in with Rickey's pattern of disposing of top-notch players just a little past their peak and rebuilding with younger talent. Rickey, the pastmaster at double talk, declined to say what players

Highlights Of Ike's Message To Country

WASHINGTON — Key quotations from President Eisenhower's message to Congress today on the State of the Union:
The grand leaders of this (administration's) leadership will involve:
Application of our influence in world affairs with such fortitude and such foresight that it will deter aggression and eventually secure peace;
Establishment of a national administration of such integrity and such efficiency that its honor at home will ensure respect abroad;
Encouragement of those incentives that inspire creative initiative in our economy, so that its productivity may fortify freedom everywhere; and.

Encouragement of those incentives that inspire creative initiative in our economy, so that its productivity may fortify freedom everywhere; and.
Dedication to the well-being of all our citizens and to the attainment of equal opportunity for all, so that our nation will ever act with the strength of unity in every task to which it is called.
The free world cannot indefinitely remain in a posture of paralyzed tension, leaving forever to the aggressor the choice of time, place and means to cause greatest hurt to us at least cost to himself.
This administration has, therefore, begun the definition of a new, positive foreign policy X X X governed by certain fixed ideas. . . .

burden of our inheritance of debt and obligations; (4) Check the menace of inflation; (5) Work toward the earliest possible reduction of the tax burden; (6) Make constructive plans to encourage the initiative of our citizens. . . .
Unless budgeted deficits are checked, the momentum of past programs will force an increase of the statutory debt limit.
Permit me this one understatement: To meet and to correct this situation will not be easy.
Permit me this assurance: Every department head and I are determined to do everything we can to resolve it.

Civil and Social Rights
Our civil and social rights form a central part of the heritage we are striving to defend on all fronts and with all our strength. A cardinal ideal in this heritage we cherish is the equality of rights of all citizens of every race, and color and creed. . . .
I propose to use whatever authority exists in the office of the President to end segregation in the District of Columbia, including the federal government, and any segregation in the armed forces.
In this manner, and by the leadership of the office of President exercised through friendly conferences with those in authority in our states and cities, we expect to make true and rapid progress in civil rights and equality of employment opportunity.

Natural Resources
The best natural resources program for America will not result from exclusive dependence on federal bureaucracy. It will involve a partnership of the states and local communities, private citizens and the federal government, all working together. This combined effort will advance the development of the great river valleys of our nation and the power they can generate. . . .
Statehood should be granted promptly (to Hawaii) with the first election scheduled for 1954.

Thieves Active Over Week End; So Are Vandals
Thieves, vandals and hit-and-run drivers were active again Saturday night and Sunday.
John Whitting, 1406 Wood, reported a prowler entered his home and stole approximately $10 from a billfold. Nothing else was molested in the Saturday night burglary.

Thieves Active Over Week End; So Are Vandals
A window was reported broken, with an attempt made to pry open a door, in a trailer house owned by Jessie Jack Tucker. The incident occurred Sunday and police were furnished with description of a young woman believed to have damaged the trailer.
A young Latin American was taken into custody by police and transferred to Juvenile Officer A. E. Long after he was reported to have broken about 15 windows. He is being held in juvenile ward at county jail and probably will go before the Junvenile Court Tuesday. Value of the property destroyed was pegged at $42.

Thieves Active Over Week End; So Are Vandals
Lt. Paul G. Hanson Jr., 208 E. 19th, reported a motorist who failed to stop struck a swing in front of the Hanson home Sunday morning. Property damage was estimated at $85 and Hanson said he believes front of the car also was damaged.
Mrs. W. D. Fairchild, 412 Mesquite, reported theft of about $300 worth of mechanics' tools from a pickup parked at the American Drive-in Saturday night.

Husband Of Former Resident Dead In Automobile Crash
Maj. Samuel E. Hammer, whose funeral was held at San Marcos Air Force Base on Jan. 20, was the husband of a former Big Spring resident. It has been learned here.
Maj. Hammer, who married the former Jo Ann Switzer, was killed in an automobile accident near San Marcos Air Force Base on Jan. 18.
Maj. Hammer, a native of Wichita, Kan., was residing in Lockhart and stationed at San Marcos at the time of his death. He served in World War II in the China-Burma-India theater and flew 201 combat missions. He held the Silver Star with one cluster, the Distinguished Flying Cross with two Oak Leaf clusters, and the Air Medal with three clusters.
He was supervisor of the Liaison Army Pilot Training program at San Marcos.

One Is Hospitalized After Crash Near C-City On Sunday
COLORADO CITY — One person was hospitalized and two others suffered less serious injuries in a traffic mishap 12 miles south of here Sunday.
Samuel Ramirez, 51, of Post, was in Root hospital with neck injuries and a cut on the side of the head. His son, Polonia Ramirez, 16, suffered a contusion but did not undergo treatment. Shaken up were John Ramirez, 18, another son; and Carmeluis Saldivar, 24, son-in-law.
The younger son and his father were in a 1947 Mercury with a 1948 Chevrolet in tow. The lead car apparently struck loose gravel and the vehicle in two jackedknifed. The cars then skidded to a stop striking a cutover and turning over. Highway Patrolmen Dan Nowlin and Ed Allen investigated.

Hearing Is Today On Conant Nomination

By JOHN CHADWICK
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee called a hearing today on President Eisenhower's nomination of James Bryant Conant, retiring president of Harvard University, to be U. S. high commissioner for Germany.

Newsmen and the public were barred.

At the same time the committee was awaiting word on whether it will be given access to secret information on Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, a long-time friend and associate of Eisenhower, who has been nominated for under secretary of state.

The committee declined to disclose in advance of its hearing on Conant's nomination who the witnesses would be. Chairman Wiley (R-Wis) said several persons or groups had asked to be heard in opposition.

A 1952 speech Conant made has been interpreted by some Roman Catholic organizations as an attack on parochial schools, and several senators have reported receiving letters protesting his appointment.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), a committee member, predicted that both Conant and Smith would be confirmed by the Senate "with little trouble."

No date for a hearing on Smith's nomination has been set but it may be held tomorrow. He is the retiring director of the Central Intelligence Agency and during World War II was Eisenhower's chief of staff.

The Foreign Relations Committee asked the government Loyalty Review Board Friday for testimony Smith gave it in the case of John Paton Davies Jr., a State Department career officer now serving as political adviser to U. S. occupation authorities in Western Germany.

The loyalty board recently cleared Davies of disloyalty charges. Smith has said publicly he regards Davies as a loyal and efficient officer. While Smith was ambassador to Moscow, Davies served under him.

The foreign relations committee's request for Smith's testimony before the loyalty board apparently put up to Eisenhower an issue that former President Truman often had to meet—whether to give congressional committees access to secret investigative files.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), the majority leader, said he believes a method will be found to let the committee have the information it wants. But he said it presented a "delicate question."

Taft suggested Eisenhower might let Smith bring before the group and read a copy of the testimony he gave the loyalty board.

Truman, with few exceptions, turned down requests of congressional probes for access to files of investigative agencies, contending that to do so would disrupt their operations.

Taft said he felt some less restrictive policy should be worked out by the White House, although he indicated he did not agree with some senators that Congress should have free access to secret files.

Crime Probers To Offer Solons New Legislation

AUSTIN (AP) — The Legislature's crime investigating committee will have some new legislation to recommend soon.

Its chairman, Rep. Fred Merdith of Terrell, said today he planned to call a meeting of the committee sometime this week to start whipping their report into shape.

Today marked the beginning of the first heavy week of work for committees in both House and Senate.

Public hearing was scheduled at 2:30 p. m. on a bill by Rep. A. D. Downer of Center to repeal the election code provision allowing cross-filing of candidates.

Placing of Gov. Shivers' name on both the Republican and Democratic tickets last fall made some people angry. Others thought the procedure was quite all right. A lively hearing on this issue was anticipated.

Another controversial bill was set up for airing at 7:30 p. m. tonight. It was Rep. Fisk's proposal to prohibit the state parks boards from building hotels, lodges or motels.

The crime investigating committee will "definitely have some recommendations, and we'll pose some problems, too, that will need further study," Merdith said.

The committee, created by the House in 1951, has held hearings on Galveston gambling, Panhandle bootlegging, prostitution, juvenile delinquency, gambling and narcotics.

Bills dealing with sale of narcotics to minors and drunken drivers already have been introduced in the legislature.

A public hearing on a DWI (driving while intoxicated) measure will be held tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. before the House committee on criminal jurisprudence. It would make a jail sentence and a fine both mandatory on a DWI conviction. The jail sentence is up to the judge under present law. The proposed measure, by Rep. Anita Blair of El Paso calls for jail sentence of 15 days to two years and fine of $50 to $500.

Poll Taxes Way Down In Mitchell County

COLORADO CITY, Feb. 2.—At Colorado City, Martin Dobbs, Mitchell County Tax Assessor and Collector, attempted to stay open to catch the last stragglers among poll tax payers.

At 9:11 Saturday night, he closed his doors, and reported 1,571 polls issued, with the figure including 10 exemptions.

According to Dobbs and Mrs. Herman Parsons, chief deputy, the total number of polls issued last year was 2,506.

Perry Mervin Thurmon was fined $100 and costs of court today by County Judge R. H. Weaver after he pleaded guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated. Thurmon was arrested Sunday.

Nationalists All Set To Raid China Coast

By ROY ESSOYAN
 HONOLULU (AP)—Vice Adm. Ma Chi-chuang, Nationalist China's chief of naval operations, said today the Chinese Navy is ready to stage commando-type raids on the Communist China coast if President Eisenhower releases the U. S. Seventh Fleet from guarding Formosa Strait.

"We are always ready," he said. "But he said systematic major attacks on the China coast were 'a question of time.'"

"I cannot say how long it would take to organize a major attack," he said in an interview. "It is not purely a Navy matter."

Ma passed through Honolulu en route to Washington. He was accompanied by Maj. Gen. Chou Yuhuan, commandant of the Chinese Marine Corps.

Ma said he was "very pleased" with President Eisenhower's reported decision, but that there was "no relation" between it and his trip to Washington.

"It's purely coincidence," he said. "The reports reached us after we left Formosa."

"In principle, I am very pleased."

He said he knew of "no prior discussion" of the reported plan.

Ma would not reply directly when asked if Nationalist forces were in a position to attack the China coast without U. S. air and naval support.

"The United States and China have a common aim in fighting communism," he said. "If the Chinese Navy had more strength, we would have more confidence."

Farmer Dies After Fighting 17 Policemen

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP)—A farmer who thought he was being persecuted by "law enforcement men" died yesterday in a four-hour gun battle with 17 policemen.

The bullet-pierced body of C. D. Burgoyne, 47, was found in his three-room farm home near the Southern Oregon community of Riddle. More than 2,000 rounds of pistol and rifle ammunition were fired, Sheriff Cal Baird reported.

Near the body, Baird said, was a notebook in which this entry had been written under the date of Dec. 31:

"My resolution for the year 1953 is if possible to shoot to kill any person or persons that try to molest me for the purpose of injuring my mind or body and this resolution is especially written as by acts of the past by law enforcement men—Damn them to hell!"

Burgoyne had been taken into custody several times in the past for mental hearings, Baird said.

Burgoyne recently had been accused by neighbors of firing a gun in the direction of a child and of trying to run a man down with a horse.

The neighbors had sworn out a complaint and deputies arrived at Burgoyne's home early yesterday to arrest him. The gun battle ensued.

2 Scouts Safe After Searchers Hunt For 6 Hours

Two weary youngsters walked into the M. M. Edwards ranch house southeast of town early Sunday night to end a search that had been in progress for about six hours.

The boys, Verbon Riggsby and Leo Brooks, had become separated from a group of Boy Scouts who were making a hike between Moss Lake and Signal Mountain. The Edwards ranch is some five miles east of the point where the two youngsters had strayed from their course. They had doubled back to a tank where Young Brooks had left his shirt, and then were unable to pick up the trail of the remainder of the troop.

Other members of the party, under direction of Scoutmaster Harold Bishop of Troop No. 15, started an immediate search at about 1 p. m. Subsequently, the sheriff's department and an Air Force plane joined in the search.

The boys reached the ranch house at about 7 p. m.

"We just kept walking when we found out we were lost," they said. Riggsby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Riggsby, while Brooks is the son of Mrs. Mary Smith.

Two Texas Airmen Aid Flood Victims

HUNSTANTON, England (AP)—Names of two Texas airmen were mentioned prominently in reports of the heroic rescue work done by U. S. airmen in the North Sea floodwaters here.

Capt. Gerald Wethermon of Electra, Tex., commanded the 6th Air Rescue Squadron, nucleus of rescue operations. He fought the wind and waves in a fragile rubber dinghy until he collapsed from exposure and was taken to a hospital.

Another given credit for playing a big part in the rescue work was First Sgt. Maurice Cherry of San Angelo, Tex.

Wethermon joined the Air Force in 1940. During World War II he flew 50 missions in Italy. From 1946 to 1949 he flew B-29s in Japan. His mother, Mrs. D. G. Wethermon, is a long time resident of Electra.
