

Ward's Add Fresh Fuel To WLB Fire

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—Fresh defiance of War Labor Board directives came from Montgomery Ward and Company today as it regained from the army control of properties which were seized in seven cities by the government more than nine months ago after a prolonged dispute with a CIO union.

As the army yesterday prepared to relinquish its control of the huge mail order house, effective Thursday, Sewell L. Avery, board chairman and central figure in the controversy with the union and the government, announced abolition of compulsory membership of union membership and check-off of union dues.

These were the principal issues by the CIO Mail Order, Warehouse, and Retail Employees Union in contract negotiations. Ward's refusal to obey WLB orders embracing them precipitated two seizures of the company by the government. The last seizure, on the late President Roosevelt's order, was on Dec. 28, 1944, and its legality still is in dispute before the U.S. supreme court.

When the army took control the maintenance of union membership and check-off of union dues were inaugurated. Avery, in his announcement yesterday termed them "illegal requirements."

Preceding the last seizure, the WLB had ordered Ward to put into a contract them under negotiation a maintenance of membership clause, but Avery refused. He maintained the WLB orders were merely advisory and were not binding.

Likewise, Avery has contended that seizure of the properties was illegal. When the government first took control for two weeks in April, 1944, Avery refused to surrender his office to department of commerce officials and he was carried to the street by two soldiers.

Jap Communists, Socialists May Join Strength

TOKYO, Oct. 19 (AP)—Japanese communist leaders asked the socialist party today to join in a united front against the Shidehara government, which they said "has no ability to cope with the present situation."

The socialists did not reply immediately. Further talks between the groups were set for tomorrow. Tolters, a workers' organization, but the National Federation of strongly denounced the communist suggestion at the first tollers' mass meeting since the surrender.

Meanwhile, Foreign Minister Shigeru Yoshida told his first press conference the chief task of Premier Kijuro Shidehara's cabinet was to carry out terms of the Potsdam conference as smoothly and as rapidly as possible "to demonstrate our good faith through deeds."

The tollers drew a capacity audience at their first mass meeting. After four of their leaders attacked the communist plan for one-front opposition to Shidehara, they affirmed support of the imperial institution, said Domei agency.

Domei reported that the cabinet today discussed a portion of the democratization instructions General MacArthur gave Shidehara when he assumed the premiership, and decided to call a special meeting of the ministers concerned.

Elsewhere on the homefront, Domei said, more than 2,600 Nipponese navy officers and men were being investigated on suspicion of misappropriating war materials, and the number of Japanese repatriated since the war rose to nearly 35,000.

Allied headquarters, which has been recovering hidden wealth in gold, silver and precious gems from Japanese chicken coops, barns and thermos jugs, froze the jewelry, precious metals and securities of Japanese nationals being repatriated. As they come back home, headquarters said, civilians are being given with them only 1000 yen, officers 500 and enlisted men 200. Any currency, gold, silver, precious metals, jewelry, securities and financial instruments they may have above the amount allotted to them will be taken up by occupation authorities.

yesterday said that wage increases given by the army to some employees will not be reduced. Similar increases will be given to others, with boosts extended to the union if officials agree after negotiation.

Samuel Wolchok, union president, said the union would ask Wards to hold public negotiations, and he asked that Avery participate. He said that the army withdrawal without payment of $785,089.70 in back wages was a "serious and gross miscarriage of justice."

Violence Flares In Little Tokyo

By SPENCER DAVIS
PEIPING, Oct. 17 (Delayed) (AP)—A crowd of Chinese attacked Japanese civilians in the Little Tokyo district of Peiping last night in the first outbreak of violence here since the surrender of Nipponese forces.

Three deaths were reported. Other Japanese were beaten and stoned.

The outbreak followed similar disturbances at Tientsin, where homes were entered and several hundred Japanese were beaten four days ago.

Local police re-established order quickly in Peiping and there were no recurrences. The Japanese were warned to stay in their quarters and streets normally crowded with both civilians and soldiers of Nippon were nearly deserted.

An angry little mob of jeering, screaming Chinese school children, buzzing like bees, charged three Japanese girls into the Pekin hotel grounds prior to last night's clash while astonished American marines and soldiers in the hotel looked on. The mob broke up as quickly as it formed when marine military police reached the scene.

There was no immediate explanation for the outbreak here. Some observers attributed it to exuberance the townspeople have shown at the arrival of Chinese national troops from Hankow and a belief that their oppressors of the last eighty years soon would be disarmed and eventually shipped home.

The assassination yesterday of the president of Korea's chamber of commerce at Tientsin was reported today. There were no details.

The assassination marked a new outbreak of violence in the former treaty port, where martial law was declared after Chinese crowds assaulted several hundred Japanese civilians. The outbreak was quelled by municipal police and U.S. marines advised the Japanese to remain in their quarters.

The feeling against the Koreans was marked and it was feared the assassination might provoke others.

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ
BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 19 (AP)—Col. Juan Domingo Peron will be permitted by the army to run for president next April 7, a reliable source reported today as a stunned populace dazedly accepted his swift return to power.

But the army, patently the power behind Peron and President Edelmiro Farrell, was reported to have stipulated further that the government must remain impartial in the elections, giving no direct aid to Peron.

This version would explain a number of puzzling circumstances: The presence in the capital, un-molested, of Adm. Hector Vernengo Lima, a Peron opponent who served briefly in the past week as navy minister; and the fact that the army stood idly by and permitted the streets to be dominated by Peron demonstrators.

As for Gen. Eduardo AVALOS, leader of the Oct. 9 movement, who had taken Peron's post of war minister, one report said he had patched up his differences with the strong man after quitting the war ministry.

Midnight brought an official end to the 24-hour general strike which had paralyzed the capital and left it in the hands of marching demonstrators—many of them youngsters below voting age who professed allegiance to Peron because their apprentice schools had been formed by him.

It was estimated the strike had been 95 per cent effective. In the capital three persons were wounded in a battle between Peron supporters and a group which shouted "Death to Peron." In Cordoba eight were wounded in a gun battle.

Truman, Cabinet Discuss Policy Of Wage-Prices

News Of Agreement May Be Deferred Until Monday

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—President Truman discussed wage-price policies with his cabinet today, but there was no immediate announcement on the results.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said that a statement on policy and new machinery to deal with labor disputes probably will be deferred until Monday.

President Truman told his news conference yesterday that he would have a statement after the cabinet meeting. He did not specifically say that it would be made today.

Ross said the scope of the president's statement would depend upon the cabinet's discussion.

Present administration policy is to allow wage increases only to correct any inequalities and where no compensatory price increases result. Administration spokesmen, however, have leaned recently toward more liberal wage policy while holding the line against price spirals.

Ross also told reporters the president is not ready yet to announce his selection for chairman of the labor-industry conference convening here Nov. 5.

Both labor and management want the answers to these key questions:
1. Will wages go up? If so, how much?
2. Will prices increase? Again, how much?

Michigan Officials Move To End Strike

By The Associated Press
Federal and Michigan state officials moved today to end a strike of 2,000 CIO utility workers as emergency crews stayed on the job to maintain electric service to some 2,000,000 consumers.

John W. Gibson, special assistant to Secy. of Labor Schwelbensch, was en route to a meeting in Lansing, called by Gov. Harry F. Kelly in efforts to settle the walkout. Union leaders were to attend but it was not known immediately whether representatives of the Consumers Power Company would be present.

Foremen of the struck Consumers Power Company, which services scores of communities in heavily industrialized lower Michigan, joined with non-strikers in staying in plants and sub-stations. The situation was described as "normal" by company spokesmen but union leaders said it appeared unlikely the emergency crews could continue to maintain regular service. Detroit was not affected by the walkout, which started Thursday after breakdown of negotiations for wage increases.

Meanwhile, across the country new and continuing labor disputes kept about 457,000 workers idle, including the 216,000 soft coal miners in six states who have until Monday to obey back-to-work orders from John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president. Some of the miners, however, went back to the pits yesterday.

One of the country's major stoppages, the walkout of 35,000 AFL Longshoremen in New York harbor, was ended after 18 days, but still smoldering was the bitter fight between an insurgent group and Union President Joseph P. Ryan.

In Hollywood, the AFL Screen Actors Guild urged "immediate termination" of the AFL Movie Workers strike, in progress since last March over a jurisdictional dispute. Producer and union representatives continued efforts to settle the controversy, which affects from 3,000 to 7,000 workers. Picketing continued at studio gates yesterday. Strike leaders have insisted that all strikers must be rehired before the walkout will be ended.

The four-day strike of more than 200 AFL bakery workers in 10 plants in Spokane, Wash., and one at Coeur D'Alene, Ida., over a wage dispute ended yesterday. A federal conciliator said the union agreed to resume negotiations, and issues will be submitted to arbitration.

CIO Textile Workers in Washington reported that 9,300 CIO workers were on strike at 11 plants in North and South Carolina and in Texas. The 8,000 CIO United Steel Workers at the Crane company in Chicago remained on strike after staging a sitdown demonstration in the plant Wednesday over issues that union leaders said were the result of grievances.

Picked Up
Innocente Castillo, reported wanted in Menard on a draft evasion charge, has been picked up by local officers and lodged in the county jail.

Indictments Served Formally To Nazis

NUERNBERG, Germany, Oct. 19 (AP)—The most massive criminal indictment in history was served formally today on 23 Germans who must face a four-power international military tribunal in trials for their lives at Nuernberg next month.

The 24th defendant, Martin Bormann, apparently still is at large and probably will be tried in absentia.

The indictments were served on the defendants—politicians, militarists, industrialists and other functionaries in Hitler's Nazi regime at 7:15 a. m. Central Standard Time.

Maj. Anthony Neave, a British lawyer, gave copies of the 24,000-word accusation to the men in their carefully guarded cells. He explained to all exactly what their rights were.

The defendants have 30 days in which to prepare their defenses. The survivors of Hitler's regime, which sought at the cost estimated at 10,000,000 lives to dominate the world, were charged individually and collectively with conspiring to wage war—a crime against humanity.

In addition to the individuals, the prosecution will attempt to establish the responsibility of seven Nazi organizations—the German general staff and the high command, the German cabinet, the leadership corps of the Nazi party, the SS or elite guard, the Gestapo, the storm troopers and the SD or secret service.

The indictment charges a common plan or conspiracy to overthrow the treaty of Versailles, rearm Germany and aggressive war. The defendants are accused of crimes against peace and of planning and waging war against 12 countries.

Moreover, the Nazis were accused of waging total war and "deliberate" attempts at extermination of racial and national groups. Mass murders were charged in Russia, Poland and the Balkans.

The defendants also were accused of complicity in crimes against humanity in countries which the Nazis occupied, and piracy on the high seas.

House To Revise Smith-Connally Labor Act

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Congress moved swiftly today toward consideration of new anti-strike legislation.

The house military committee prepared to take the first step—revision or repeal of the Smith-Connally war labor disputes act.

The measure binds the government to conduct strike votes if unions give 30 days notice.

Chairman May (D-Ky) said the military group will hold a final hearing (10 a. m. EST) on the repeal bill and probably approve it, at least in part, sometime during the day.

Rep. Arends (Ill), house republican whip, told a reporter that "if possible" new anti-strike legislation will be attached to the repeal. If not, he added, it will be submitted soon in the form of new legislation.

A similar view was expressed by Rep. Robertson (D-Va). The two are leaders of a bi-partisan move for some type of bill to curb strikes and labor unrest.

The exact nature of the new proposed legislation has not been determined, but the two said it could be simply worded and "easy to handle."

Robertson said he particularly wanted a provision to make unions and employers "mutually responsible" for keeping contracts. Arends agreed on this point and suggested these others:

1. Make work stoppages illegal in public utility, food, fuel and similar services.
2. Deny unemployment compensation to all persons on strike.
3. Make national labor organizations responsible for the activities of their local groups.

May said he is not sure how fast the committee will go, but that he believes it definitely will repeal the section which requires the government to conduct strike votes.

The Imperial Wishes—
Jap Orders To Kill Prisoners Now Held In MacArthur's Files
By DUANE HENNESSY
TOKYO, Oct. 19 (AP)—Written Japanese army and navy orders that called for the killing of Allied prisoners of war on the slightest provocation were captured in combat and are held in files at General MacArthur's headquarters, it was learned today.

These orders made such an impression on the troops that one member of the Japanese 53rd infantry regiment reminded himself in his diary, now in MacArthur's files: "Kill as many prisoners as possible. If the situation allows, make them work."

The commander of the No. 50 Sasebo detachment, of which units are known to have killed an Australian civilian, issued this order for the humiliation of prisoners: "Natives have a strong sense of hero worship. Making white people work before their eyes and Whose Fido Can Cook?

Man's Best Friend, They Say, Can Sing And Dance And Hire A Taxi

By JACK RUTLEDGE Associated Press Staff

Any time now someone is liable to come up with a dog that can cook.

Many things have been claimed for man's best friend but Bill Roberts of Goldthwaite is said to have a dog named Mack that can sing.

On top of that, Mack can dance, too.

Mack is half Spitz and half fox terrier, eight years old. And Bill Roberts, who carries the mail between Goldthwaite and Caradan, has taught Mack to carry a tune.

The dog stands on his hind legs, points his nose to the sky, and with Bill leading, joins in the melody.

ty, crated him up and put him on a train.

But Mickey didn't like crates. He chewed his way out, escaped from the train at Fort Worth. Three weeks passed. Then one day Mrs. Harry Sapey of Fort Worth, who often visited the Martyns in Lubbock, was shopping for groceries and felt a tug on her dress. It was Mickey. He had recognized her.

Mickey is home now, a little tattered at the edges but healthy and happy.

Reserves Oppose Odessa Saturday

George Worrell, Don Webb and other members of the Big Spring high school football "B" team invade Odessa Saturday for an afternoon argument with the Bronco reserves at Fly Field.

Victors over Herleigh by a 12-6 count last week, the local second-stringers—most of whom have two years of eligibility left—are looking for bigger game to fell.

The Big Springers will be able to field an eleven with a bigger weight average than the first stringers. The line stacks up at about 161 pounds per man, the backfield at 158.

Odessa will repay the visit by coming to Big Spring on Nov. 2.

BLEACHER COLLAPSES WICHITA FALLS, Oct. 19 (AP)—Five persons were injured last night when a temporary bleacher collapsed at the rodeo performance of the annual Wichita county fair at Iowa Park near here.

The crowd remained calm and as soon as emergency squads had treated the injured and rushed them to Wichita Falls, the rodeo continued.

Angeloans Trip Lakeview, 19-6, In Rough Bout

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 19 (AP)—San Angelo's Black Sheep Herders, using all the available football talent that could be recruited along the banks of the Concho river, turned back the Lakeview (colored) Lions of Big Spring, 19-6, before a good crowd here Thursday night.

The Angeloans used their high school squad during the first two periods and a part of the third but, when that failed, sent a combination of soldiers and ex-colleagues into action to repulse the Big Springers.

Two Alabama State college players, a Prairie View college product and both of the coaches got into the fray before the bout was completed.

The Lions scored within three minutes after the third quarter got underway, big Claude Tucker passing to Harry Dooley for the score. Dooley went 43 yards for the score.

Next week the Lions go up against Lubbock in a game at Big Spring. The tilt will be played either on Friday or Saturday.

Real Wealth Paid To Win This War, Bromfield Claims

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19 (AP)—America paid a tremendous price in real wealth to win the second world war, Louis Bromfield, novelist who gained fame as a farmer, told the national conference of the friends of the land, a conservation group, here.

Real wealth Bromfield defined last night as consisting of such things as trees, earth, health, the ability to create and to work. "The cost of the war in real wealth to this country was tremendous," the novelist asserted. "Our soil was overworked in accelerated production, mineral ores and oil were used at a great rate and forests were cut five times as fast as they could be replaced."

"Agriculture is the foundation of the economy in every country except one—England. And England is in great trouble because of the poor balance between agriculture and industry. "Ninety per cent of United States farmland needs soil conservation treatment to protect it from erosion, to maintain fertility and to put it to its most efficient use, R. H. Musser, Milwaukee, Wis., regional conservator of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, declared at the opening session of the two-day meeting.

Alfalfa, seeded a year ago last September as a trial by Ira De-ment, district cooperor of the East Knot conservation group, continues to grow as a dry land crop. Seeded in rows about 36 inches apart, the crop has survived several severe drought periods and shows promise as a soil improving and grazing crop, according to C. R. Donaldson, in charge of the SCS office in Big Spring.

Approximately four miles of terrace lines were surveyed on the C. B. Lawrence farm located in the Luther conservation group. The terraces will be built by R. D. Parker with the use of a whirlwind terracer. SCS technicians surveyed the lines for Lawrence who has previously constructed several miles of terraces in partially applying his conservation plans.

Conservation plans were approved by district supervisors for Smith Brothers ranch located in the County Line conservation group, and for the R. H. Unger farm located in the Soash conservation group.

This Is A Spiritual Matter Tokyo Man On Street Indifferent To Truman's Election Proposals

TOKYO, Oct. 19 (AP)—The man in Tokyo's rubble-bordered streets glances with scant favor on President Truman's proposal that the Japanese should be permitted to vote on whether Emperor Hirohito keeps his throne.

Of 21 persons interviewed at random, only seven favored such a ballot. The others thought either Hirohito or another of the imperial line should remain enthroned and the emperor system be retained.

A civil policeman, who hesitated until he was sure his name would not be used, said he thought the emperor should retire in favor of Crown Prince Akihito.

A brawny middle-aged blacksmith favored changing to Akihito "as things couldn't be much worse than they had been."

The prince also got the vote of

Montanan Killed In Garden Rodeo

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—Homer Cook, 27-year-old cowboy of Livingston, Mont., was killed by a wild horse at last night's performance of the rodeo in Madison Square Garden before 15,000 persons who were unaware of the tragedy.

Cook, a veteran of the European campaign, was on furlough near a chute when the horse came rearing out. Its hooves struck him in the chest and he died in the first aid room of an internal hemorrhage. His wife and three-year-old daughter survive.

James Walden, 22, Marietta, Okla., was critically injured in the bareback bronc riding contest. He suffered a brain concussion and possible internal injuries.

Two other contestants, James Schumacher, of Phoenix, and Curley Hatchell, Alpine, Tex., were cut and bruised in the bull-riding contest. They required hospital treatment.

Nitany Claims Middies' Line Not Up To Par

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—Johnny Adams of the Washington Redskins has a leather gadget sewn to his jersey and hooks his thumb in it to keep from inadvertently slugging an opponent. That might be a tip for Col. Red Blaik, whose army gridders have incurred so many penalties for illegal use of hands that the whole coaching staff is complaining about the way the new rule is interpreted. . . . And tip: Penn State's linemen reported after last Saturday's tussle with Navy that the Middies' wall this year doesn't begin to stack up with last year's. . . . Del Webb, one of the Yankees' owners, plans to build a hotel in Reno soon. . . . No, he's not going to divorce Larry MacPhail.

The Hollywood, Fla., Country club is trying to sign Sammy Sneed as playing pro this winter. Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Leo Diegel and Johnny Farrell have held the job previously. . . . Miami fans are excited about Lightweight Fidel Rivera, the "Mexican jumping bean" who bounces around the ring like a frog with a hotfoot until he sees a chance to bounce a right off his rival's chin. . . . One of these days someone likely will get onto Fidel's timing and he'll get bounced right over the ropes.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With ANGUS LECESTER Reading the crystal ball for the week's football winners:
Midland 13, Big Spring 7. The Bulldogs haven't won a game this year, but have managed touchdowns in three of their adventures. The Steers haven't scored a touch in their last four starts. Precedent will be shattered on two counts.
Odessa 14, Amarillo 7. Rated No. Seven by the AP writers in a poll of the state's strongest teams earlier in the week, as against No. Five for the Sandies, Odessa should be able to reverse that order this week.
San Angelo 7, Lamesa 0. The Bobcats might be able to do better.
Abilene 7, Lubbock 6. The improved Eagles are playing on the Westerners' home grounds but should be able to uphold District Three prestige.
Army 55, Melville PT 0. The Cadets warm up for their collision with the Duke Blue Devils next week.
Holy Cross 20, Brown 7. The Crusaders look strong enough for this hurdle.
Colgate 10, Columbia 0. The Red Raiders on the rampage.
LSU 13, Georgia 7. Solely on the Tigers' victory over Texas A. & M.
Indiana 35, Iowa 0. One of the best teams in the Big Nine, this Indiana crew.
Nebraska 12, Iowa State 0. Nothing in Iowa State's record would warrant a vote for the men of the corn country.
Oklahoma 19, Kansas 6. Or maybe more.
Minnesota 14, Northwestern 7. Chance for an upset here. Lynn Waldorf's job is at stake.
Marquette 6, Great Lakes 0. Very close but the Sailors have displayed no scoring punch.
Missouri 27, Kansas State 0. Why not?
Navy 40, Georgia Tech 12. Easy pickings, but the Pennsylvania Quakers mean trouble next time out.
Notre Dame 31, Pittsburgh 0. The Pittsburghs don't have it this year. The Notre Dames have.
USC 40, Pacific 0. Another case of haves and have-nots.
Purdue 13, Ohio State 12. Watch Cecil Isbell and his overhead game.
UCLA 14, St. Mary's Pre-Flight 7. If the Trojans can defeat the Sailors, the Uclans should be able to negotiate for a win.
Rice 7, SMU 0. The Mustangs have yet to prove they can get out of their tracks.
Alabama 20, Tennessee 7. Too much Gilmer.
Baylor 14, Texas Tech 0. The Bruins are improving by leaps and bounds.
Texas A. & M. 6, TCU 0. A home crowd might inspire the Frogs to the heights.
Texas 13, Arkansas 6. Close, maybe, because the Hogs are playing before a friendly crowd.
Tulane 6, Auburn 0. The less said the better.
Illinois 12, Wisconsin 0. The Illini to win one.
Fourth Air Force 10, Training Command 0. Watch this boy, John Strzykalski.
Villanova 14, Detroit 0. The Lions are sad apples this semester.

Those dietarians of the horse-collar, the Big Spring high school football Steers, had the nocturnal petrol aflame last night unraveling the knotty problems of applied gridiron science presented them by Professors John Dibrell and Conn Isaacs.

Tonight at 8 o'clock in the Longhorn arena, they make a concerted effort to apply force to theory as they do battle with the Midland Bulldogs.

The homecomings have fired blanks their last four times out. Tonight they are bent on slapping down the aura of appendages of the alopecoid invaders and thereby do a recovery act that will make parting such sweet sorrow for the attending manswarm. (Next week they take to the road for four weekend appearances, not returning to action before a home crowd until Nov. 22.)

Aye, the heat is on this evening for the resident eleven. The guests are not the thimble riggers the Odessa Broncos or the Lubbock Westerners, previous foes of the Steers, are—but they'll do, what with such stalwarts as Dunny Goode and Wilbur "The Fox" Yeager helping with the chores.

The Midlanders' pedigree has been acceptable in other years and there's no reason to suspect they're not again on the prowl for bear.

Flattening the locals has become a popular pastime for West Texas teams this autumn. In recent collisions, the opposition has added insult to injury by applying the calcimine.

On a couple of occasions, the Herd couldn't have bought a triumph had they bargained with all the sovereigns in that little banking institution on Threadneedle street.

Last week against the Lamesa Tornadoes, the Steers appeared to have had their confidence presurized a few degrees. However, when final inventory was run, Big Spring stock was still selling short, Choc Sanders' gang having hit the grit on the tail end of a 6-0 decision.

What green goods are apparent along Main and Third are riding on anyone but the host team. It's not that the hard-nosed gentry crown on seeing the Big Springers cop the duke but rather they've grown cold after watching our hopefuls crawl off the canvas so many times.

In short, the Longhorns' station in the business world isn't up to par. Tonight's rite could very well improve conditions along all fronts and saturate the followers with new hope. At any rate, the cautious hol polloi have quietly bedded down to wait and see what happens.

Expected to prove a hot potato at the party is the Steers' Gerald Harris, a Johnny-come-lately who went under fire as a fullback last week and blossomed out as a capable side-de-camp to the ding-dong kid, Hugh Cochran. If Jerry displays as much improvement tonight as he did a week ago, then the Bulldogs' pennant could well be flying at half-mast after the rhu-bar.

The Midland line might list to portside but its 163-pound average has quite a pull in weights. With rocks in their jeans, the seven lads who man the positions up front for the Steers couldn't influence the avoiddupis lever to do better than 151 pounds on the average.

Comparisons of the secondaries favor the Midlands, too. Whereas the ordinary Steer weighs something like 150, the average visiting back carries 158 or thereabouts—and he carries it well.

Most Unbeaten 11's In Action

Twelve of the fourteen undefeated, untied teams in Texas schoolboy football have game tonight with Amarillo at Odessa and Marshall at Highland Park (Dallas) in the headliners.

Bucks, Illini, Tide And Herd Are Favored

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—That the technical name for a football is "prolate spheroid" and that it will take many crazy bounces was reaffirmed last week with a record 37 correct selections and 10 incorrect ones.

(Average to date, 128 correct, 31 incorrect for .805).

This week's forecast:
Purdue-Ohio State: Despite the moans that Paul Sarring Aus and Dick Fisher, Buckeye wins, are injured the Ohioans will win this crucial Big Ten title contest—Ohio State.

Georgia Tech-Navy: Remember that 17-15 Georgia Tech upset victory in Atlanta a year ago? Navy remembers it too—and Tech will remember Saturday night for a long time.—Navy.

Tennessee-Alabama: Harry Gilmer and the Alabama pass carrying department will pull the Crimson Tide through this one.—Alabama.

Louisiana State-Georgia: Charlie Trippi, the recent ex-sergeant, will be the scoring surplus for the Bulldogs.—Georgia.

Notre Dame-Pittsburgh: The Irish will show Mr. Clark Shaughnessy how the T-formation really should be played.—Notre Dame.

Pacific - Southern California: The Trojans, with ease, will regain their winning ways following that upset to San Diego Navy last Saturday.

Northwestern - Minnesota: They call them the Golden Gophers. They play football like starved Tigers.—Minnesota.

Oklahoma A & M - Utah: The mountain scenery won't interfere with the Aggies' football tricks in any way.—Oklahoma A & M.

Washington-Oregon State: The teams had almost identical scores at Oregon's expense. The home field should decide.—Oregon State.

Kentucky-Vanderbilt: Kentucky hasn't had time to recover from that 48 to 6 pasting by Georgia a week ago.—Vanderbilt.

Indiana-Iowa: The lightweight Hawkeys to get some tremendous bumps.—Indiana.

Auburn-Tulane: Coach Carl Voyles has had two weeks in which to prepare a defense for Tulane's sputtering T-attack.—Auburn.

Texas-Arkansas: Ralph Ellsworth, who resigned from the Navy Academy this week, makes the Longhorns the southwest title favorites.—Texas.

Illinois-Wisconsin: The Illinois machine has been stabilized.—Illinois.

Colgate-Columbia: Gene Rossides' long passes will nullify Colgate's superior weight in the line.—Columbia.

Wake Forest-North Carolina State: (Night). After having met Army and Duke, Wake Forest will find North Carolina State easy.

Melville Torpedo Boat Base-Army: The Navy closes the Melville school Saturday noon. The Melville players will wish they could have disbanded at the same time.—Army.

Finishing the others in a hurry: East-Holy Cross over Brown, Harvard over New London Subs, Boston College over Coast Guard, Tufts over Boston University, Rutgers over Rhode Island, NYU over CCNY, Penn State over Bucknell, Kings Point over Lafayette, Muhlenberg over Lehigh, Temple over West Virginia (Friday).

Southwest-Tulsa over Nevada, SMU over Rice, Texas A & M over Texas Christian, Baylor over Texas Tech.

South - Maryland over VPI, William & Mary over VMI, North Carolina over Cherry Point, Richmond over Guilford, Miami over Florida (Friday).

Midwest-Iowa State over Nebraska, Oklahoma over Kansas, Missouri over Kansas State, Denver over Drake (Friday), Michigan State over Wayne, Oberlin over DePaul.

Far West-St. Mary's Pre-Flight over UCLA, Washington State over Oregon, Colorado over Colorado College.

Sellout Crowd Due At Fort Worth Clash Between Frogs And Aggies

Associated Press Sports Editor
The Southwest conference forged deep into its championship race this week with four teams making their start and with sell-out crowds due for two of the games.

More than 20,000 will jam into Texas Christian's stadium at Fort Worth tomorrow to see Texas A. and M. open the campaign against the twice-tested Horned Frogs.

At Little Rock they will be hanging from the rafters with 14,500-capacity—watching unbeaten Texas begin its drive against Arkansas.

The other conference game won't draw a sell-out but it is expected to attract Southern Methodist's largest crowd of the season as the Mustangs and Rice Institute open at Dallas. Ten thousand are due to turn out.

Baylor's Golden Bears, licking their chops from an upset victory over Arkansas, will swagger out to Lubbock to play thrice-beaten Texas Tech of the Border conference with standing room only at Tech stadium. Nine thousand are expected to see this one.

Texas, Southern Methodist, Texas Christian and Baylor will be the favorites but not in positive tones.

Baylor should be ripe for an upset. The Bruins played inspired ball last week against the Razorbacks. The natural letdown and a trend toward cockiness in the face of Tech's poor record may settle to the Bears' disadvantage.

Your correspondent hit just two out of five in the guessing league last week which isn't even fair, so timidly we venture the following on Saturday's games anticipated attendance in parentheses:
Texas vs. Arkansas at Little Rock, 2:30 p. m. (14,500)—a tight one but Texas has the guns and the ammunition for a one-touchdown victory.
Rice vs. Southern Methodist at Dallas, 3 p. m. (10,000)—this ought to be a dilly of a ball game with both teams scoring often and with the Methodists scoring most.

Texas A. & M. vs. Texas Christian at Fort Worth, 2:30 p. m. (20,000)—Texas Christian in a photo finish, say a field goal or a touchdown margin.
Baylor vs. Texas Tech at Lubbock, 8:15 p. m. (9,000)—thinking about an upset but taking the line of least resistance: Baylor by two touchdowns.

Big Nine Rule Is Under Fire

By JERRY LISKA
CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Western conference today was confronted by growing criticism against its stern rule designed to protect collegiate stars from the golden lure of professional football before they finish war-interrupted campus careers.

A two-ply development brought into the open a long-brewing scrap between the conference whose code is a model of most leagues throughout the college realm and well-heeled pro football sponsors.

The first was the purported signing of Elroy Hirsch, Wisconsin's famed "crazy-legged" halfback, by the Chicago club in the proposed All-America conference. The marine star, now stationed at El Toro, Calif., still has two years of Badger competition remaining, but not if he has signed with the Chicago pro team, as owner John Keeshin claims.

Then yesterday, a Notre Dame veterans' spokesman protested in a letter to Gen. Omar Bradley, Veterans Administration chief, that the Big Ten code was "prejudicial" to GI athletes.

The spokesman, Philip Callen, president of Notre Dame's veterans' club, contended that the rule was first made public last summer after many GI athletes made professional commitments without forsaking plans to finish college studies before joining the play-for-pay ranks.

Although Big Ten Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson issued a memorandum last July 23 asserting that the conference eligibility committee ruled ineligible any candidate for a conference team who offered his services to a professional football team, "either presently or as soon as he is through with college football" league officials insisted it was merely a reiteration of an old rule.

Wilson explained that the new version was based on "many years of practice regarding professional baseball.

The disputed rule already has cost Notre Dame, which abides by Big Ten rules, its stellar center and captain, Frank Symanski, and Ohio State's defending champions a brilliant fullback in Gene Fekete. Both were ex-servicemen who previously agreed to play pro football when they finished college.

Callen's contention that the rule worked a hardship on servicemen athletes because of its "retroactive" principle was expected to provide some merry debate when the conference holds its winter meeting here Dec. 6-7-8.

Thus far, Big Ten officials have not expressed themselves on the subject. But one spokesman said "at least a dozen" cases may come up for review at the winter meeting.

Capacity Crowd Due At Odessa

ODESSA, Oct. 19 (AP)—A sell-out crowd of 10,000 is expected here tonight when Odessa's Bronchos clash with Amarillo's Golden Sandies in one of the state's top football games.

Odessa expects to enter the contest as underdog since the Bronchos will be outweighed some eight pounds to the man and also have run into the injury jinx. End Rex Partridge, Tackle Pat Evitt and Guard Tommy Tucker came out of last week's Abilene game with ankle hurts and Partridge and Evitt are doubtful starters tonight.

Amarillo is in top physical condition and probably will start the same eleven that has gone through five games undefeated. Odessa is unbeaten in four games.

Old-Timer Has Lots Of Bowling Credit

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 19 (AP)—W. H. Babcock is a couple of strikes to the good before he even rolls a ball in the Seattle grand-father's bowling tournament.

The rules operate something like the army's point system. The granddads are credited with one pin for each year of age over 50 and three for each grandchild. His eight grandchildren alone give Babcock a head start of 24 pins.

Bill Leftack, defending champ, has 15 pins worth of descendants.

Build On A Foundation

With The News

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR. AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The house committee studying the control of atomic energy was told yesterday that there are two schools of thought on the subject, one favoring production for peaceful ends and the other wanting more bombs "so we can blast the hell out of Russia before Russia blasts the hell out of us."

First it must be said that the witness, Dr. Leo Szilard of the University of Chicago, was by no means advocating such a policy against Russia, but was bringing into the open what he considered a dangerous attitude. Also, there seems to be as many schools of thought about atomic control as there are thinkers. But the point is that the scientist considered it worthwhile to bring up the Russian angle.

As a matter of fact, it is extremely doubtful if you could find anyone who would advocate use of the atomic bomb against Russia, or anyone else, today or any given day. But it must be admitted that Dr. Szilard was describing a vague current attitude of fear and distrust of Russia which is complicating relations with our wartime ally. It is an attitude which may as well be looked at for what it is worth. There is some indication that reluctance to discuss it openly in the past has heightened its appeal to some people.

Some years ago Russian leaders were talking about the necessity for cramming the ideas down the throat of the rest of the world. Except that they established rather tenuous liaison with communist parties in other countries, they did little if any more about it than the capitalist democracies have done and are doing to promulgate their ideas abroad. But the world became much afraid.

Then Russia, with a great war on her outskirts, got the idea that the neighbors who weren't with her were against her, and began occupying strategic territory in Finland, along the Baltic, in the Balkans and Poland. It was a year or two before Cordell Hull's warning to Argentina, Spain and other neutrals that those who did not stand with the United Nations were considered as against them.

During and since the war Russia has taken the attitude that, regardless of worldwide peace efforts, she had to first look after spots which might directly trouble her. Whether a charge of imperialism can be made to stick in this question is at least debatable, just as there have been many debates over the United States' war with Mexico, and such incidents as the occupation of Nicaragua and Haiti.

To talk about going to war with Russia now, because of certain acts which violate the western conscience, is to condemn the long view without giving it a chance. When we are inclined to pop off about things thatirk us today it is just as well to remember that the Russian attack on Finland in 1939, no matter how regrettable, took on an entirely different hue in 1941 when Russia was holding the Germans back from world conquest.

A group of distinguished people, meeting at Dublin, N. H., has reviewed the world situation in the light of tremendous changes and has concluded that nothing short of a world federal government will preserve the peace.

These people go further; they declare that already the United Nations machinery is outmoded and insufficient.

The doctrine of a world government is nothing new. Men have dreamed of it for generations. Its possibilities have been explored, but all of this has been in the realm of theory.

Ostensibly, there is a big gap between things as they are and things as they should be. They improve mostly by the process of steady and gradual infusion of parts of things as they ought to be. In short, it is a process of evolution.

The proposal to junk the United Nations machinery virtually amounts to revolution as opposed to evolution. There are times when revolution is the only means which long overdue reforms and changes may break over the dam and spill into tumultuous realization. Usually, this condition is accompanied by confusion and chaos until order is restored.

The matter of international relations is a ticklish one. We have only to look back a short distance to recall the throes through which the United Nations charter passed before it was produced. It represented a series of compromises calculated to meet the inevitable reservations which individual nations raise. The fact that these reservations are real and continuing was emphasized again in the recent London conference.

While the ideal of a world government with limited powers may be desirable, it is difficult to understand, in the light of practical consideration, how the proposal can be made to discard what we already have gained for something which is only remotely attainable. It seems that perhaps the best hope of a strong world federation to preserve peace would be through means of building a solid foundation in understanding and cooperation first through the United Nations organization. If this can be made to work, nations then would come nearer entering into a world federal government. Without this trust and confidence, we might have a world government with the key members missing.

A Gentleman

We pass on a brief description of a Gentleman picked from a trade placard:

"A Gentleman is a man who is clean inside and out; who neither looks up to the rich or down to the poor; who can lose without squealing; who can win without bragging; who is considerate of women, children, and old people; who is too brave to lie, too generous to cheat; and who takes his share of the world and lets other people have theirs."

This is not an apology for Russia. It is just to point out that few nations, like few people, ever are in position to pass absolute judgments on others; that the Russians are sensitive, still resentful of past ideological encroachment, and that talk of "blasting hell" out of them can only handicap sincere people everywhere in their search for international solutions.

Bridge

With The AEF: "Angel Of Colombo" Tries To Reunite Refugees

By G. MILTON KELLY (Substituting for Hal Boyle)

COLOMBO, Ceylon. (AP)—The foresight and generosity of an Englishwoman is making possible pathetically joyous scenes of reunited husbands and wives as thousands of refugees separated by the Japanese invasion of Malaya begin rebuilding their lives.

The refugees call Mrs. Joy L. Donald the "angel of Colombo." When residents of the peninsula fled in panic before the invader, Mrs. Donald realized the difficulties they would encounter when they tried to reestablish contact with their families. She built a program of care for repatriates which has become a cooperative operation financed by the British government.

Mrs. Donald's information service provides liberated prisoners and internees with word of their loved ones, and sometimes relatives of dislocated persons wait here for their reunions. Witnesses wept at one such scene in which a British couple, who had lived in Singapore but who had been without knowledge of each other since the city's fall and the husband's internment, met by chance in a barracks. Each had visited the repatriation center expecting months of painful search.

The husband had come ashore from a prisoner of war ship transporting a liberated group to England.

His wife, who had escaped the Japanese and had been a refugee in Australia, had come to Colombo hopeful of getting word of him.

The two faced each other dazedly on the steps of the barracks for many moments before they embraced, weeping.

Far too few of the stories, however, have happy endings. During the frantic days when tens of thousands of refugees drifted through Ceylon from Malaya and many persons fled Ceylon in fear of invasion, Mrs. Donald wondered how these frightened people ever would be reunited.

There was no government agency recording the refugees' movements. Mrs. Donald, with two other Colombo women, set out to make a record. Daily from morning to dark they sat on a jetty, penciling in notebooks as complete a record possible on each transient refugee. Mrs. Donald hired a typist to transcribe the notes and index the names. She kept a file of more than 10,000 cards, each bearing a case record which was kept up to date. These she turned over to the Malayan government.

Hollywood—

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — But for the grace of a Dame called Fortune, Ann Dvorak might be writing this fate me, instead of vice versa. Fate might have decreed that I would be a movie star (don't laugh) and that Ann would be the interviewer.

Ann, like a lot of successful people used to be in the newspaper game.

"Yes, I used to work on a newspaper—it is very nice work," she said, none too convincingly. She explained that after she left school she got a job at one of the Los Angeles dailies.

"My mother was an actress and my father was an actor," she said, "and I decided that was not for me. I was going to try something different. And I did—for a while."

Then I gave it up to be a chorus girl. I got a job at MGM. When I got to be assistant dance director, I gave that up. I decided I was going to be an actress or nothing. I got my first role in "Scarface" and that was that." She has stayed at the acting job ever since.

One of the hazards of making westerns, aside from getting kicked by a horse, is that most of them are made in the San Fernando valley.

This may be pleasant for some industries, but not for sound pictures. In recent years the valley has become a beehive of all kinds of air activity. Aircraft factories are situated there, as well as Army, Navy and commercial fields.

"All kinds of planes would appear overhead just as we were about to make an important scene," Ann explained. "The best kind were the jet propulsion jobs, because they would go by in a hurry. But nearly all of them took delight in buzzing the set. It reminded me of the times at Warner Brothers when the studio would send up a balloon to warn planes away from the outdoor sets. That only attracted them like a magnet. Whenever there was a particularly bothersome plane, we always said it was George Brent."

It seems that Mr. Brent, an accomplished pilot, was having constant trouble at the time.

They Placed Welcome Mat For Marines Invading Guam

By MARTHA COLE

TEMPLE, Oct. 19 (AP)—When the marines stormed the beaches of Guam Aug. 21, 1944, the welcome mat was out.

Actually, there were signs along the beaches: "Welcome, Marines, to Guam." Each was signed UDT. Those were the navy's underwater demolition teams, the men who went into battle days and sometimes a week before D-day, who cleared obstacles the Japanese had built to rip holes in American landing boats, who fought clad in nothing but swimming trunks, a gask on their faces, a knife in their belts and charges of TNT tied to their backs.

Speed and organization were the things that mattered, says Lt. Harry Q. Cole, 26, of Temple, one of the officers in charge of UDT No. 6 at Guam.

"We didn't consider nerve; that's automatic," Cole said.

The UDT men, carried aboard a converted destroyer, brought with them maps and charts of the landing beaches. They had spent an entire month at the naval demolition base at Moai, territory of Hawaii, staging mock invasions on beaches duplicating as nearly as possible their assignment.

"The closest call I ever got," Cole said, "was at Guam about D-day minus three. Three gun emplacements ashore were spattering fire around us. I swam back to the rubber boat to the walkie talkie and called our destroyer for fire support. Sixty of our planes swarmed overhead, but they dropped larger bombs than we expected and frag was mighty close. All we could do was stay under water while it was on."

Bombardment usually kept the Japanese from rebuilding the obstacles the UDT men had destroyed. At Guam, however, the men who had cleared "Red Beach" one day and "Blue Beach" the next, went back to "Red Beach" to find all obstacles had been rebuilt.

"The Japs and we had been working all day within 200 yards of each other, and neither one of us knew it," Cole related.

When the war ended there were about 2,460 men in UDT, all volunteers. Prerequisites were first of all motivation, excellent physical condition and ability to swim two miles.

The most Cole had to swim was four miles once when he and a few of his men were left behind by their ship. Three other men, he said, spent six and a half hours on the beach at Guam and swam eight miles before they were picked up. Even then they had a hard time convincing a destroyer crew they were of the U. S. navy.

The UDT men were a tight clan. They knew they had a tough job and gloried in it. Cole wasn't at Okinawa but he related with pride how the teams there blew out 3,600 pillboxes before the invasion.

The "pappy" of the UDT men is Comdr. Draper L. Kauffman, USNR, who organized the work. Their favorite story, Cole said, was how Kauffman ran into a marine on reconnaissance before D-day on Tinian and was almost choked to death before he could prove his identity.

And the biggest thrill of a lifetime, Cole said, came when their work was finished a few hours before H-hour of D-day and the fleet opened a path for the little UDT launch and Admiral Turner's flagship dipped its flag in salute for the men who were expendable.

Army Favors Footballers In Discharges

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Here are the inside reasons why soldier resentment flared last week when Senators Russell and George of Georgia induced a docile secretary of War to discharge Sgt. Charlie Trippi, ace football player, so he could go back to the University of Georgia.

Sergeant Trippi had exactly 41 points—29 of them for service (all of it in the USA) and 12 points for one child. He had taken a business administration course at the University of Georgia, and typed 35 words a minute at the time he entered the service.

In the army, a clerk typist only has to write 25 words a minute to qualify, and today the chief bottleneck in discharges is clerical help. Many soldiers with 70 points or more have had to stay on in the army in order to help speed others through the line.

Despite this, football star Trippi was released on the ground that he was "surplus," under army regulation 615-365, paragraph 3B on "Discharge of Surplus Enlisted Personnel." In other words, Trippi was declared "surplus" despite the fact that he was a qualified clerk and despite the fact that clerks are badly needed at Drew Field, Fla., where he was stationed.

Actually, Drew Field has a slow record for the release of men. Men with 70 points were supposed to be discharged beginning Oct. 1, but up until Oct. 13, only one man with 70 points had gotten out. Things moved so slowly that the War department queried Drew Field as to why they weren't releasing 70-point men, and the one single, solitary 70-point man discharged before Oct. 13 enabled the field brass hats to reply that they were releasing men in this category.

Meanwhile, men with 70 points are still working in the Drew Field separation line pushing the discharges of others because of the shortage of clerical help, while Typist Trippi, with 41 points, goes back to play football—thanks to the secretary of war and the two senators from Georgia.

Note—Hundreds of air force gunners have been taken off flying status, although gunnery is about all they have been trained for, and are now sweating through close-order drill. They, more than many others, are surplus, but they don't get out to play football. On the other hand, war department officials say that Secretary Patterson was indignant that a soldier should be kept in the army just to play football. It happens that other members of the Third Air force team at Drew Field were star footballers, never sent overseas, but kept in this country. The navy as well as other army camps also have built up virtual professional football teams. Secretary Patterson believes this should end.

Secret Service in Missouri The summer white house in Independence, Mo., is going to be empty all winter, but four secret service men have just flown to Independence to guard it. The house belongs to Mrs. Truman's family. . . . It should be noted that the secret service also guarded some of Roosevelt's grandchildren even when scattered in various parts of the USA. . . . A secret service man also was attached to young Coolidge when he was a student at Yale. . . . Mrs. Roosevelt never wanted nor had secret service men on her trips. . . . All last summer, secret service men were housed in a small double garage just east of the Truman home. Now that winter is setting in, a small building will be constructed, equipped with heating, to protect the four new agents. . . . Departing S. S. men expressed appreciation for hospitality and kindness afforded them by the Trumans, the Wallace-Inlaws, and the townsfolk of Independence. However, they frequently referred to the presdent's home state as the "State of Misery."

Atom Control

The atom control bill, now before congress, was shrouded in such strict secrecy that at first the War department didn't want the provisions of the bill published. Brass hats merely wanted to refer to the bill by number. Finally they got cold feet on such ultra-secrecy and agreed to publicity. . . . The atom bill sets up a nine-man committee composed of $1-a-year men drafted from big business, to control future development of the atom. When Truman was in the senate, he was vigorous in his criticism of $1-a-year men working on important war jobs yet at the same time carrying on private business at home. . . . Friends say, however, that Truman let the army send the atom bill up to congress without studying it. . . . Many congressmen don't like the idea of the Duponts, Union Carbide & Carbon, plus other big business representatives controlling the atom's future. If properly developed, the atom would eventually replace electric power plants, gasoline, coal, etc., in which big business representatives have a great investment.

WACs and Soldier Mail

The congressional-army double play, whereby 400 WACs are detailed to answer GI mail sent to congressmen, is still going strong. Some congressmen have stopped sending their soldier mail to the War department, but the total volume hasn't decreased much. The adjutant general's office is still transferring WACs to Washington to handle congressional political mail, despite the fact that the WACs enlisted to relieve soldiers for active duty, not to release civilians from the army's employ.

The girls are now working overtime two nights a week, have had all their three-day passes and furloughs cancelled, just to take care of the back-log of 80,000 letters which have poured in on the War department and congress protesting against unfair demobilization practices.

The War department now gives virtually no individual attention to congressional queries. Instead it has set up electrical typewriter machines which feed a special tape, much like that used on teletypes. This tape contains a prefabricated form reply for every possible query. The WACs only type in the name and address of the legislator and his constituent. As a result, writing to the War department is now about as helpful as tossing stationery and stamps down the drain.

War department chiefs have rigged up scores of form replies, some very tender when it comes to words, but rather cold when they come off an automatic electrical typewriter with a general's signature, forged by two WACs specially trained for the purpose. Perhaps the corniest is one form reply which reads like this: "The eagerness with which the men of the army, and their loved ones, await their discharges is appreciated by the War department. It is our objective to do a fast and effective job of getting our military personnel back to civilian life and (fill in name) may be assured that we are exerting every effort in accomplishing this task."

Note—Lieut. Col. B. L. Wolfson, head of the enlisted correspondent section, and his fellow officers have tried speed-up devices on the WACs assigned to the letter-writing job, but the girls don't enjoy speeding up for benefit of politics.

Capitol Chaff

President Truman refused to clear Henry Morgenthau's book, "Germany Is Our Problem," while Morgenthau was still in the cabinet. It contained too much dynamite. Now Morgenthau is out of the government and has published the book anyway—with the dynamite. . . . Congratulations to Gen. Arthur Esterbrook of Santa Ana, Calif., for permitting his enlisted men to give him their gripes face to face and for speeding up discharges. If there were more generalists like Esterbrook, there would be more men wanting to stay in the army. . . . Atom-bomb scientists have adopted two grim slogans. They are: "Victory in the second world war is our last victory," and again "World War Two is either the last war or the next to the last—after that the lights of the world will go out." . . . President Truman is beginning to lose political support for the first time from democrats. They want more action on both labor and foreign affairs. . . . Administration leaders believe the best solution to the strike situation is the bill proposed by Senator McMahon of Connecticut making labor unions follow the same formula as the railway labor act—in other words submit their dispute to a mediation board before paralyzing an industry with a strike.

The Nation Today—
Indictment Of War Criminals Shows
Something New In History Of World

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Diplomatic
News Editor
(Substituting for James Marlow)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP) — When Adolf Hitler was coming into power, he hit upon one really stunning idea. It was this: When he wanted to commit a crime he would make it a big one. He would make it so big that no one would believe it.

And since no one would believe it, Hitler would not be caught or tried or punished for it.

The formula was as simple as that, and Hitler got away with it for about 24 years.

In fact, it was a good working theory for a man like Hitler until yesterday.

But yesterday the world's conscience went to work with a vengeance.

Yesterday the Allied war crimes court met in Berlin to begin the trial of the 24 top men who helped start Germany's war.

Nearly all the old gang were there except Hitler, who has died or disappeared, and a few who wiped themselves out, like Himmler and Goebbels, because they couldn't face the music.

The court opened by receiving an indictment of this old Berlin crowd and the German militarists, industrialists and financiers who backed and boosted them.

This indictment is something new in history.

The indictment makes the Nazi war plan clearer in some respects than it ever has been before. It takes Hitler at his own value as the master liar, cheat, fraud, plunderer, torturer and murderer of all time.

It shows how he and his associates drew on these qualities to prepare for war.

They thought even if they lost the war the allies, especially Britain and the U.S., would be softened and forget the whole business—pretty much as it was after World War I.

They had the whole theory of sovereignty on their side. This meant that the state, or the head of a state, could do no wrong.

The only law for Hitler was German law, and he made that himself. How could he get in trouble? Or the men around him, since they were acting on his orders?

But that is not the way it is working out. For the Nazis now stand accused of the betrayal of Austria, the double-cross of Czechoslovakia, and rape of Poland and all the rest of the war.

Odell Jameson To Hold Meeting Here

DR. ODELL JAMESON

The Baptist pastor, who baptized more people than any other minister in his denomination last year, is coming here for a two weeks meeting starting Monday.

He is Dr. Odell Jameson, pastor of the Forrest Avenue Baptist church in Dallas, a former classmate of Rev. James Roy Clark, pastor of the East Fourth Baptist church where services will be held at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for the next two weeks.

Dr. Jameson's church has 2,000 members and its activities surpass even the nationally known First church of that city, said the Rev. Clark. Formerly Dr. Jameson held pastorates at Houston and Austin.

Date for the meeting was set more than a year ago by Dr. Jameson, said the East Fourth pastor. Music will be conducted by the Rev. Coley Arender, director of music at East Fourth Baptist.

B. Reagan's Record Recognized At Dinner Affair In His Honor

Contributions to his community over nearly a half century were recognized at a dinner affair given in honor of B. Reagan by the Buffalo Trail Boy Scout Council at the Settles Thursday evening.

Although the affair was arranged by the Boy Scouts, Mr. Reagan's activities in other fields were recalled at the dinner, attended by 50 people from all over the council area.

Charles Paxton, Sweetwater, council president, presided and lauded the honoree as a scout worker. Recounting that scouting in Big Spring stemmed from conversations in the Reagan home, Paxton declared that "it takes a rugged character to continue active in the work for all these years after his own family interests had been served." He had high praise for Mr. Reagan's presence at scout meetings and his influences for good. Paxton presented Mr. Reagan with a statuette of a Boy Scout.

From the moment a mustached and frock-coated young man arrived here to be school superintendent in 1898, "B. Reagan did everything his hands could find to do for the upbuilding of his community... and in days when it was not popular, he had the courage to speak for what he thought was right," said Judge James T. Brooks, in reviewing "this good man's" record of citizenship.

Shine Phillips, who came here in the same year as Mr. Reagan, laughingly recalled the tribulations he had given his boss when he worked under Mr. Reagan for 17 years. "In that time," said Phillips, "I never heard him speak a cross word to one of his employees."

"Mr. Reagan has been on the right side of every moral issue in the 14 years I have known him," according to George W. Dabney, who told of the honoree's contributions as a churchman. Many would like to have the fortune that Mr. Reagan has given to his church and charities, he added. For 40 years B. Reagan has been teacher of the Friendly Bible class at the First Christian church, where he also is an elder.

Responding, Mr. Reagan gave credit for any achievements to Mrs. Reagan, acknowledged feeling mention of their daughter, Lucille, who gave her life as a foreign missionary, and said simply: "When I arrived in Big Spring I had $10 (borrowed) and a family. I've always had to work, but it was good for me. I'm sorry I haven't done more."

The dinner followed a meeting of the executive board of the council. Music was furnished by the "Gulley Jumpers" of Troop No. 2.

Feed Shortage May Become Problem

Projected shortages of high protein ingredients may make feeding an acute problem during the autumn unless steps are taken to make best use of available supplies, H. M. Neel, local dealer, was told at a regional meeting of Purina dealers in San Angelo this week.

Among recommendations made to circumvent an acute shortage of protein supplements, said Neel, were these:

Market broilers and fryers hatched since June, cull laying flocks close, not to expand broiler operations now, make sure of three months feeding supplies, feed grains heavily to turkeys; make maximum use of fall pastures, hay and silage for milch cows, limit protein feeding as much as possible while pastures are good; feed protein supplements preferentially to brood sows and fall litters, limit amount of supplement to heavier hogs, and take advantage of good pastures.
