NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS: The National Whirligig

WASHINGTON By George Durno Done— There is a rumor going around that Prof. James M. Landis is packing up his bags and heading back to Harvard.

Nowhere— Last you should never have met the gentleman, Prof. Landis was the guiding spirit behind the writing of the Securities Act.

Moans— The moans from Wall street deterring Landis to a bill. If the law required publicity for everything standing back of a stock or bond issue he was going to see they got it.

Bonanza— But don't try to convince a lot of Washington lawyers the Securities Act hasn't flopped.

Gore— Robert H. Gore, who has undertaken some rather startling innovations in government as Governor of Puerto Rico, began 'back with his departures from accredited form.

After the food had disappeared there was the usual round of speeches.

Governor Gore was called upon. To the astonishment of everyone present, he rose and made a straight-from-the-shoulder address.

FORD

The model T served its day. It was supplanted by the Model A. We don't believe a 4-cylinder car will come back. It didn't with "FLOATING POWER" and now the V-8-40 two years in advance in the low price field. THE TREND IS TO THE EIGHT. In 1926 there were 10 chassis model 4-cylinder cars. In 1933 there are 3. In 1926 there were 56 6-cylinder cars. In 1933 there are 38. Ford has always pioneered. Others have copied design and followed. Look at all three for there is a difference in every feature.

Merchants Display Taste And Discretion In Selecting Costumes And Millinery For Day And Evening Wear

Style and beauty combined to make "Heads Up" an unusually attractive entertainment Friday evening for men and women. Style drew out the women; and they were well repaid. Never before has Big Spring put on a Style Show in which the models demonstrated with more grace and naturalness; and never before have styles been more striking and showy.

Four different appearances showed as many different winter costumes for various hours of the day.

Models for the Fashion were: Mrs. Anna Pauline Jacobs and Eva Mae O'Neal, Mrs. Harry Johnson and Mrs. Tracy T. Smith. Those for Albert M. Fisher were: Misses Mary Alice Wilke, Jeanette Pickle, Marie Faulbon, and Madesta Good. For J. C. Penney Co.: Mrs. Shine Phillips, Misses Maurine Leatherwood, Mary Louise Miller, and La Verne Stewart. For La Mode: Misses Pauline Hubbard, Lucille Rix, Alta Mary Stalcup, and Mrs. Arthur Middleton. For Victor Mellinger: Mrs. J. T. Allen, Bill Turpin, and R. L. Weatherford. For Hollywood Shoppe: Misses Maxine Thomas, Lola Bell Stewart, Mmes Charles Badwick, A. Schwartz, and Tommy Jordan.

Two stores displayed juvenile styles. Representing Mellinger's were Joan and Joyce Beens and Marilyn "Toodles" Keaton. Representing Penney's were: Janice Slaughter and Marjio Thurman. Three stores demonstrated men's wear. They were: Elmo Wasson, Mellinger's and Penney's. Elmo Wasson and Clyde Angel represented Wasson's store. Cecil Neel and Glenn Queen appeared for Mellinger's. Collins Huggins and Cleo Luper presented men's wear for J. C. Penney Co.

Nelly Don Show
Albert Fisher displayed only his popular Nelly Don line. He did this partly because it is one line that women look forward to for styles in popular-priced garments and because most of his New York merchandise has just now begun to come in. Nelly Don makes dresses for every hour of the day but nothing for evening wear, so Albert Fisher showed no evening gowns. In the Nelly Don presentations were clever mannish type suits, double-breasted and broad-shouldered, dresses with hand-carved trimmings and in the new Fex red, dark blues, handsome fur trim-at winter parties. Janice and Marjio were as eagerly looked forward to by mothers and school girls as any models on the stage. Victor Mellinger's mannequins displayed a striking versatility, showing that this store can out fit men, women and child for any occasion of the day or evening. The smart riding habit drew most applause. The model wore boots from the famous Kirkendall boot-makers who make both men and women's riding boots. Even the youngsters appeared in boots. The Beens twins and Marjio Keaton almost stole the show as they modeled to suit themselves, with Mrs. Turpin's expert management. They wore the cunning little Kate Greenway frocks of the Wohlne carried by Mellinger's only. The twins were darling in an all-white ensemble, white coats, white knitted caps and white boots, also in dotted Swiss frocks. The men who modeled the popular Curlee suits for Mellinger's showed business suits and and top coats at their best and completed the ensemble in a natural, easy fashion.

La Mode

The La Mode displayed popular-priced merchandise on four very attractive models. Their coats revealed the attractive use of fur combined with utility models for the business woman and everyday wear. Particularly striking was a brown striped afternoon frock of that popular new material that every woman must get acquainted with and one that insisted on a second look. An eel gray afternoon costume was also up-to-date in every respect.

Episcopal Women To Resume Auxiliary Work

There will be an important meeting of Saint Mary's Woman's Auxiliary Monday at 3 p. m. at the Parish House. All women of the church are urged to attend this meeting and take part in arranging for an informal indoor picnic dinner for the men and women of the church. The guests of honor will be the Rev. Dr. Richard W. Trappell from National Council headquarters, 281 Fourth Avenue, New York City. The church dinner will be for adult members and will be served in the Parish House at 7 p. m. Wednesday night, September 13.

Hollywood

The Hollywood models showed two unusually attractive coats. One was a double-duty coat in black with cocoa squirrel trim. The fur collar was removable so that it could be worn as a neck-piece with dresses and the coat worn as a sports coat. Another black coat used caracul for trim. Both had square shoulders and high collars that mark 1933 fashions. In the sports dresses an eel sheer wool crepe dress with black taffeta sleeves, trimmed with rope effect around the top of the sleeves, was especially intriguing. The Hollywood Shoppe for its afternoon dresses did not confine itself to one style but showed dresses for many occasions.

Evening Wear

In the evening dress display all but one of the Hollywood models appeared in black. The exception was an egg-shell satin. The black dresses presented an interesting range, including a shiny satin, a dull flat crepe and a luscious velvet with a sequin collar, all of them showing off particularly well by contrast.

Elmo Wasson

Elmo Wasson and Clyde Angel displayed single-breasted and double-breasted models, both looking so well that the wives were hard put to decide between them. They appeared in blue business suits, grey and blue single-breasted overcoats and a gray all-around belt overcoat. And when the girls came forth in their low cut evening gowns, Elmo and his model showed the correct tuxedo and the especially correct accessories, that go with bare shoulders and evening wraps, and dinner parties. The style revue closed with all the models who presented evening wear on the stage together. Stunning velvet gowns in blue and black with sequin trimmings, other in pink crepe with rhinestone nailheads and sequins, white hammered satin, blue ruffled crepe, black taffeta with stiff little hair braid ruffles on the skirt and shoulders the lovely new waffle crepe, evening coats with epaulet shoulders, coats of lapin and of velvet and of bengaline—the closing picture the models made was of style and beauty at its height.

But who wants to drive 30 miles an hour

The Ford V-8 will go 80 miles an hour. But how many people wish to drive 80 miles an hour? Hardly any. The speed is there for another purpose. If a car is to be alert and comfortable and economical at 50 or 60 miles an hour, it should be capable of going faster than that.

A car, like a man or a horse, should have reserve power to do ordinary things well, without showing strain or effort.

When you drive at your usual moderate rate, and yet to keep up that rate your car runs at nearly its top speed, you are not getting an easy ride and your engine is not doing an easy job. It is wearing itself out.

That is why the Ford V-8 is built to precision standards and engineered to do 80 honest road miles (not speedometer miles) an hour — so that it might go 60 or 70 miles an hour all day with the utmost ease, and with no strain on car or driver. Let us add, and without excessive use of gas and oil.

It is the margin between what you have and what you use in an engine that makes for comfort, longevity and economy.

It is much safer and far more economical to run 60 or 65 miles an hour in a car built to do 80, than it is to run at the same speed in a car built to do 65 or 70. There will be no excess noise — no overheating — no heavy laboring — no straining mechanism — because there is power in reserve.

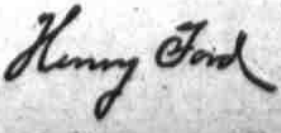

The benefits to the customer of having a Ford V-8 able to do 80 miles an hour, are numerous. In the first place, such a car must be extra strongly built. It must have a better steering gear. It must be perfectly poised and balanced. Its wheels, springs, axles, frame and brakes must be of the finest strength and design.

In the second place, a car thus built for the higher speed ranges proves most alert in the lower speed ranges. In traffic it is not speed you want so much as quickness. You want instant response and quick acceleration. The high speed reserve of the Ford V-8 gives you that.

The advantages of a high speed car are not in the speed alone. You may never drive at high speed. Few people do. But to make speed possible, the car must be built to last longer, to run smoother, and to use less fuel.

Everything must be up to the 80-miles-an-hour standard to give you superlative performance at the lesser speeds.

Bovines Make Poor Showing In Friday Scrimmage

Steers Team Outlook Dark In Practice

Makeshift Combination Of Exes Win From Young Hopefuls

The Big Spring High Steers ain't what they used to be!

A makeshift combination of 1932 Bovine stars proved this at Steer Friday afternoon out scoring the high school gridsters 12 to 0 in a forty-minute scrimmage. Bristow's young hopefuls were outclassed all the way leading for only two first downs against the "Exes" and displayed little or no talent at protecting their zones from a wild passing attack that resulted in both touchdowns.

Howard Schwarzenbach and Livan Harris formed the scoring combination upon both occasions. Buntary receiving passes that resulted in touchdowns gains of 18 and 47 yards respectively.

Captain Bob Flowers of the Steers shone on the defense as recruit after recruit was rushed into the contest by Coaches Bristow and Brown. George Neel, peppy tripple-threat quarterback, was injured in the second quarter and was carried from the field.

The "Exes" lineup included Elmer Dyer, Howard Schwarzenbach, Fred Koberg, Fred Townsend, Bill Gurdon, Ralph Duval, Cotton Clover, W. H. Coats, Truman Smith and Livan Harris.

Some hundred spectators watched the scrimmage.

Afternoon, Evening Duplicate Clubs To Be Organized Next Week

Mrs. Ashley Williams announces that she will take reservations for membership in duplicate clubs, one meeting in afternoon and one in the evening, until Thursday. Both clubs will meet Thursday, the afternoon club at 2:30 and the evening club at 8 o'clock.

Due to ill health, Mrs. Steve Ford will not take part in the organization of these clubs. The meeting place for both will be at the Crawford ballroom. Mrs. Williams will lecture each meeting and

Woodrow Armstrong Leaves For Tulane

Army's gone! That big Comhoma boy left late Friday night for Louisiana where he will enter the fall session of Tulane University.

Woodrow will be the first Big Spring boy to enter Tulane, and school officials are confident he will make an enviable record in all branches of his work. Armstrong came here two years ago and lettered at tackle on the Steer team both seasons. He was very popular with the student body.

He took work during the summer in order to complete the necessary number of credits to enter college.

Westerners Train Daily

Rufus Ryan Only Regular Returning To Ranks Of Club

LUBBOCK—Coaches Chapman Huffman are putting their string of Lubbock high school Westerners through daily workouts for the approaching football season.

Only one of the candidates was a regular last year, Rufus Ryan, recently named captain of the 1933 force, is the only returning regular. He was quarterback last year, but probably will be shifted to half-back this season. Rayburn Hale, reserve quarterback, taking the signal calling position. Big Edgar Doherty, tackle; Raymond Billings, halfback and Weymond Newton, fullback or end, are others who have had experience in the reserve corps.

The high school season opens on the night of September 22 when Obie Bristow brings his Big Spring high school Steers here. Class A teams make up the schedule for the 1933 season, Chapman departing from the usual custom of engaging his warriors in Class B competition prior to the start of the conference season.

Lubbock will play the Sweetwater Mustangs at Sweetwater the first week in October.

entirely cover the Culbertson system. The clubs will meet on alternate Thursdays until eight meetings have been held. Then they will engage in a tournament with members of the Foran club and

Colorado To Tackle Class B Grid Teams

Big Jim To Send Wolves Against Roscoe On September 22

COLORADO—The Wolves are to have their first game of the new year in contest with the Roscoe Plowboys at Conrill Field, September 22. The Plowboys, strong Class B club, is expected to give the Conrillmen something to worry about during the pigskin melee.

The following Friday, September 29, the Wolves will engage Roby Lions on the home grid. Roby, too, is a strong Class B team. October 6, 20 and 27 and November 24 are open but Coach Conrill stated Wednesday afternoon that he was confident that games would be scheduled for those dates.

October 14 the local club will engage McCamey at McCamey. The following week, November 4, the San Angelo Bob Cats, among the strong clubs in West Texas, are to be engaged at stadium of the Comcho City outfit. Armistice Day will find the Wolves playing the Bull Dogs in Midland.

Nov. 18 the Wolves are to go to Sweetwater for a game with the Mustangs. Thanksgiving they will play the Steers at Big Spring.

Conrill has been giving his men strong work-outs during the past two weeks. From the letter men returning from last year and several other recruits, some of whom wore the Wolf uniform a year ago, Big Jim is hopeful of building a fairly good team.

Midland Golfers Make Plans For Tournament

MIDLAND—Country club golfers will meet Monday evening at the club house to discuss plans for the approaching handicap tournament.

About 30 were in last year's tournament, which was won by Frank Day, now of Amarillo.

The J. Estler, together with a medal. The cup must be won three successive years before permanent possession is allowed.

NEAR SENSATION IS PREDICTED IN NEAR FUTURE BY AUNT

Aunt Della, here visiting her niece, Mrs. Joe Peaberry, is a philosopher with a shrewd, practical twist, Joe reports. It seems Thursday the old lady was talking to Mrs. Peaberry and said:

"Now, I don't want any foolishness when I die. I want to be buried in my black silk, but you just take out the back and you can make a new dress with it."

"Why, Aunt!" exclaimed Mrs. Peaberry. "You don't want me to do anything like that. Why, when you go walking up those golden stairs, you don't want everybody turning to stare at you!"

"They won't be staring at me," chuckled the philosopher. "I buried your Uncle Ed without any pants."

YOUR HEALTH AND MINE

By Doc Gillingsby

Dear Doc: Please give a brief discussion of dandruff and oblige a fellow sufferer.—Egg Knob.

Dear Egg Knob: The word "dandruff" is taken from two Greek words, "dando," meaning friend or friendly, and "truffo," meaning barber. That is to say, in the vernacular, "the barber's friend." Advice to sufferers, therefore, comes in giving a solemn warning to stay away from barber shops. Dandruff is sometimes treated by dipping the subject in kerosene, but this practice can not be recommended to doctors having but small practices and few patients to spare.

Dear Doc Gillingsby: What would your advice be to a young physician, just out of medical college, starting to set up shop?—Enthusiast.

Dear Enthusiast: Set up a plumbing shop.

Dear Doc Gillingsby: My mother-in-law, who has been visiting us for the last six weeks, imagines she has sickness or something and wants me to bring home a bottle of medicine. What would you advise I buy?—Harried.

Dear Harried: I am not allowed to publish names of poisoners.

RIFTED LUTE HEARD

"I admit I am foolish sometimes," said Doc Gillingsby Tuesday evening. "I admit I am a little bit wound up a brisk set-to with his wife over some point of disagreement. After all, remember we had monkeys for ancestors."

"I am not complaining about that," snapped the other half. "What I am complaining of is your ancestors had monkeys for descendants."

AUNTY BELLUM'S Question Box

Dear Aunty Bellum: I am a young man, just 32, and I have studied a barber course by correspondence and now feel capable of shaving the most particular, etc. Yet you see I have not had a chance to try my skill, etc., for none of my friends will hear of the idea or even come near if I have a razor in my hand. I am bitterly despondent. How can I express it?—Broken-Hearted Jim.

Dear Broken-Hearted Jim: Oh, I understand. You'd like to scrape an acquaintance.

Dear Aunty: What is the population of Ireland?—Inquisitive Elmer.

Dear Inquisitive Elmer: Irish.

Dear Aunty B: In going to a formal dinner, which fork should a gentleman take first?—Apprehensive Taxpayer.

Dear Apprehensive Taxpayer: If you're a gentleman, you won't take any forks at all.

Dear Aunty: What do you think of raising rabbits on corn stalks?—Pete.

Dear Pete: I think it's all right. I'd hate to say what the rabbits would think, though.

Readers, those who have followed Aunty Bellum's advice are happy to have the skins clean. It's understandable.

Henry is having an awful time naming his cow. He wants to name her Emma after an aunt, but he afraid Emma will visit them and will get mad. Then he wants to name her Josie after another aunt, but is afraid that she will visit, and the cow will get mad.

Among the Sick

Henry Walter, since winning a cow in a raffle, has had the worst luck possible. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, just as Henry crossed the street in front of his house, the cow would moo and Henry nearly lost a leg in frantic bounds across the street thinking it was the horn of Joe Peaberry's new Defenceless Six. Then Thursday he needed his nerves as he started across, and when the moo came refused to budge. Only that time it wasn't the cow.

Mrs. Henry J. Query, housewife of Allbad, N. M., has a parrot that has not sworn since June 29, 1905! (Answer: At which time it died, and was stuffed.)

Joe Pinchpallet of Willing, Va., has driven three cars in the last seventeen months without being out a cent for repairs! (Answer: Joe took three other people's cars.)

LOCAL MOTORIST HAS NEAR CALL

Joe Peaberry, developing into quite a motorist since he acquired his Defenceless Six, is being treated at home with rest, quiet and lots of fresh eggs this week. It seems Joe was spinning along the countryside last Saturday afternoon, when he found his path blocked by a junk wagon. The wagon jogged along the road was narrow and Joe became impatient. He looked. The driver paid no attention. Joe clapped his hand on the horn and honked a full three minutes.

The junk wagon driver turned his head glumly.

"All-right, boss," he said. "I'll call for that tomorrow."

Generally, however, Joe is fast developing into the philosophical type of driver. Wednesday he was brought word that his wife, out driving the machine, had plunged through a bridge railing and into the river. "That's all right," said Joe. "That engine was getting pretty hot anyway."

Blow-Proof!

RIVERSIDE TIRES

have LATEX WELDED CORDS (100% PURE LIQUID RUBBER) which prevent Cord Separation . . . the cause of blowouts

Do you know this? An average size tire goes round 395 times every minute at only 35 miles an hour! Think what happens when you drive at this speed—or faster! Friction develops scorching heat inside your tires! In many tires other than Riversides this heat separates cords! It weakens the tire, forms internal blisters! When you hit a rock or a bump . . . BANG! A blowout!

You need the added protection Riversides give you! Riversides' Cords—the heart of the tire—are made from extra strong, long staple, premium cotton. Every cord in every ply is dipped in LATEX—100% pure, liquid, virgin rubber. This welds the cords into a super strong unit! It gives Riversides the strongest tire carcass made! It prevents cord separation . . . the cause of blowouts!

Why We Save You Money

Of course Riversides are made in one of America's largest and best tire factories. BUT—they come direct to us—minus the manufacturer's selling and general overhead expense. That's a saving. The second saving comes from Wards low cost method of distribution. These two reasons explain why we sell high quality tires for less. It's simple to figure out for yourself why Riversides are better in quality, mileage, and safety than any other tire at the same price.

*RIVERSIDE TIRES

will not blow out under normal road conditions during the life of the tread if they are kept properly inflated in accordance with the specified air pressure.

Wards Unlimited Guarantee

For your protection every single Riverside tire is guaranteed by Wards to give service that is satisfactory to you. No time limit! No mileage limit! A tire has to be extra good—has to be extra safe to be backed by the strongest tire guarantee ever written!

FREE TIRE MOUNTING

For The Love of Eve by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Eve Bayless, pretty assistant to Earle Barnes, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, secretly marries Dick Radner, a construction superintendent. Dick opposes her continued employment and pleads for a home but Eve is determined to go on working.

The same day Eve learns that she is to be sent to New York by the store and must leave that night. She does not tell Dick this news until they are at dinner. He sees her aboard her train.

In New York Eve meets Freda Carter, dress buyer for Bixby's, who introduces her to Theron Reese. Reese is much attracted by Eve. He answers her by trying to kiss her in a taxi. Eve leaves him without even saying good night.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IV

Eve sat at the desk in her hotel room until nearly dawn, writing a letter to Dick. After her unpleasant experience with Theron Reese in the taxi she longed for the safety and contentment she always felt in Dick's presence. In the letter she did not mention any of her companions except Freda Carter. Freda left the next evening after a day in which she and Eve were extremely busy. They dined together and Freda asked Eve to call at her apartment after she returned to Lake City.

For the rest of the week Eve devoted herself to work but in spite of this preoccupation she was worried. No word had come from Dick. Pride would not allow her to call him by long distance, though she hungered for the sound of his voice. Each night she wrote him a long letter, pouring out her love.

After Freda's departure Eve felt the need of companionship and called on Irene Prentiss. They had been classmates in high school. Freda had gone to New York immediately following graduation and now, after five years of marriage, was still working in the office of a financial magazine where she had begun as stenographer. Today, however, she was assistant editor of the journal.

Irene appeared with several galley proofs in her hand. Eve thought she looked tired and a bit worn. Irene seemed glad to see her but explained that it was press day. Eve realized she should have telephoned to learn when it would be convenient for her to call. Evidently New York business offices were not so informal as those in Lake City.

They went to lunch together but it was a hasty meal at a nearby restaurant. Irene wore a dark fur jacket that Eve admired. "It's really dyed bunny," the other admitted. "The difference between this and the sable I coveted went into stocks. I'm playing the market, darling, and it's the most exciting thing I ever did. I didn't need much to start, I pyramid. You must let me give you some tips!"

Later she invited Eve to ride home with her for dinner and at five o'clock they met. Eve was immediately thrown into a seething mass of humanity homeward bound via the subway.

Ellsworth Prentiss, Freda's husband, was an instructor in a private school and each afternoon arrived home an hour or so before his wife returned from the office. He usually started preparations for their dinner.

The Prentiss apartment consisted of a luxuriously furnished living room and a spacious sleeping room with all its furnishings in pairs—twin beds, two chests of drawers, a slipper chair and sturdy arm chair, two night stands, two reading lamps. There was a cozy yellow and blue kitchen and here Prentiss had set the table for three. Irene explained that for "special guests" they used the gateleg table in the living room. Eve, however, was accepted as a bosom friend. She enjoyed the simple meal of boiled potatoes, broiled chops, creamed carrots and lettuce and an icebox dessert.

The two girls cleared the table and stacked the dishes. Then they left Irene's husband before the fire, poring over a magazine, and went out to a concert. "I'll never be famous," Irene said as they walked down the quiet street. "Probably I'll never be Eve from worry, either, but there's one thing I'm thankful for—good old Ell. Get yourself a good man, Eve, if there's one to be found these days!"

Eve resisted the temptation to tell even Irene that she had let her work take her away from her husband on their wedding night. The remainder of the week passed swiftly and Eve was glad if she wanted to be home and could hardly wait to be on her way. At last she was at the station, homeward bound. She felt the tremble of excitement she always experienced at railway stations. It was silly, she knew, but she worried when she learned her berth was on the last coach. Suppose it should be detached somehow from the long train! She must not fall Dick now.

But there he stood, waiting for her as she alighted in Lake City Sunday morning. He kissed her regardless of onlookers. There was that familiar sense of strength about him. Oh, how good it was to be back!

Dick tucked her into the roadster and whisked her away from the crowded thoroughfare to the boulevard along the lake shore. He had reserved a suite at the Maramar, one of the most attractive of Lake City's apartment hotels. Eve was enchanted with the rooms. Through narrow French windows she looked out over the idle, wintry lake.

"Dick!" she cried. He caught her in his arms and held her close. Then she tried to tell him how much she had worried all week, fearing he would not forgive her having run away.

"Do you mind awfully that your wife is going to continue working?" she asked hesitantly.

"I mind—yes," Dick answered, "but I told you last week how I feel about it. From now on it's up to you."

Eve felt uncomfortable. She was not quite sure what attitude she wished him to take in this matter. "You didn't write," she accused him.

"I didn't run away from you," he reminded her. "And—it was silly, I suppose—but I couldn't bring myself to address a letter to my wife as Miss Eve Bayless. Besides, I was having too much grief on the job last week to find time to write in the daytime. Evenings I spent looking at apartments."

"Well, the last I saw of you you seemed to have pretty lively consolation!" Eve said pointedly.

"What do you mean?"

"I thought perhaps your time was taken up with your friends."

Eve had not meant to refer to the young man and girls Dick had met at the station the night of their marriage. She waited now, expecting an apology or at least an explanation, but none came.

"Who was he?" Eve's voice was pitched a note too high but she managed to keep it steady. Dick did not answer her question. He was simply being exasperating; making her be explicit. Very well!

"Who was the man you met at the station?" she repeated.

"Joe Casper."

"I've never heard you mention him. Is he a friend of yours?"

"He's the timekeeper on the job." "And the girls—who were they?"

"They answered to the names of Peggy and Babe."

"I didn't know you liked that sort of girls."

"What sort?"

"Oh, the kind who picks up a strange man and lets him call her by her first name right from the start!"

"So that's it! Well, you're wrong. Those girls are harmless enough. Casper's engaged to Peggy if that reassures you."

"Where did you go after you put me on the train?"

"To the Merry-go-round," Dick answered frankly. The Merry-go-round was Lake City's best known night club.

Eve considered this. "And suppose the girls went too?" she asked.

"Yes—of course," Dick answered obviously irritated.

"A perfect frame-up!" Eve accused.

"Now, see here, Eve!" Dick exploded, "it was entirely an accident that Joe happened to see me there. I didn't know I was going to the station at that time and you know it!"

"But the fact remains that on our wedding night you went out to have a good time with someone else!"

"Well, what did you expect me to do go home and cry?"

"But you had all those evenings!" Eve sputtered. "I suppose you were too busy with Joe Casper's friends—"

"And that will be that!" Dick said with emphasis.

Silence. Then, with head high, Eve went to the bathroom to bathe her eyes with witch hazel and repair her complexion.

When she reappeared she smiled at Dick wistfully. He held out his arms and she slipped into them. Eve whispered coquishly, "Just how did my darling spend his evenings last week?"

With a snort of impatience Dick withdrew his arms, turned and walked to the window. Then he said, "Looking for an apartment, of course."

"This one is perfect," Eve assured him. "I'm sure we'll never tire of it!"

Dick was silent. Obviously something was wrong. Eve made another attempt.

"It was a terrible thing for me to do, I know, she conceded. "I don't believe any girl ever had such a situation to face on her wedding day. I'm sure no one ever had so unsatisfactory a honeymoon." Dick turned and her penitent expression quite melted him.

"That wasn't our honeymoon," he answered huskily. "We're beginning our honeymoon now."

But the little quarrel marred the happiness of Eve's homecoming. It erected a barrier of resentment and distrust between them that did not disappear.

Under The Dome At Austin

By GORDON K. SHEARER

AUSTIN (UP)—The Texas senate which spent many weeks of the regular session of the 43rd legislature in a battle with Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson over confirmation of her appointees, will pass up on a new list of appointees at the special session.

Appointments made since the regular session and due for confirmation or rejection are:

Member and chairman of the state highway commission, John Wood of Timpan.

Member state board of control, Henry C. Meyer of Rockdale.

State banking commissioner, E. C. Brand of Sweetwater.

Member state board of education, Ghent Sanderford, Belton.

Commissioner to assist the court of criminal appeals, Charles G. Kreuer of Bellville.

State auditor and efficiency expert, George Simpson of Corpus Christi.

A winter concentration camp for many of the unemployed is one of the projects under consideration by the state rehabilitation and relief commission. Facilities for such a camp near Palacios have been investigated by a commission representative.

A popularly accepted political myth is the Fergusonos do not call special sessions of the legislature. Records disclose when James E. Ferguson was governor he called three special sessions. Governor Ferguson called one during her former term.

The 41st legislature (1929-30) had five called sessions called by Governor Dan Moody. The longest continuous session was the regular session of the 43rd legislature which opened January 10 and ended June 1, this year.

Frank Lanham, who was chairman of the state highway commission in Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson's former administration, called upon the governor here recently.

Lanham had the highway department start bituminous road toping, now widely in use. Then was subject of attack.

"I was just eight years too soon," said Lanham laughing. "An engineer employed by the highway department then testified that it was like putting wall paper on a road, now, they have caught up with the idea. Most of the highway work is of that type."

"But they are still eight years behind me," said Lanham. "Highway construction has been improved and there are still better methods I could tell them about."

Lanham, a paving contractor before his appointment on the highway commission, is a son of former governor S. W. T. Lanham, and a brother of Congressman Fritz Lanham.

The Temple-Belton "one track" highway was another road experiment of the former Ferguson administration. It uses a concrete strip for wheel tracks. Differing elevations were to keep the wheels on the concrete strips and thus throw all the road wear on a strongly constructed small area.

State reclamation engineer, A. M. Vance, Austin.

Moyer, who does not look to be with ten years of his 72, has temporarily taken over the portion of the board of control work that was handled by Adrian Poole of El Paso whom he succeeded.

That part is budget preparation and supervision of eleemosynary institutions.

Moyer has received many congratulatory messages on his appointment.

"I got one brickbat too," he said. Then he displayed a telegram from F. J. Chudej of Austin, former president of the Ferguson Forum Publishing company. Chudej had been mentioned as possible appointee to the place given Moyer.

Chudej complained while the Bohemians had been loyal to the Fergusonos through all campaigns appointments were going to the leaders of German-Americans who could not be trusted.

Ferguson in the past. He mentioned specifically Meyer and Judge Krueger.

"But I can take it on the chin I congratulate you," was Chudej's final word.

The office term of H. T. Kimbro of Lubbock, member of the state industrial accident board, expires during September. Should his successor be determined, that appointment would also go to the senate during the special session of the legislature for confirmation.

The Mayor of Havana, speaking Oard English, responded. His remarks were not so direct but clear enough to those who followed the speech. Several months later he became Governor of Puerto Rico. Cuba cleaned house with the aid of American Ambassador Sumner Welles.

Clash—

Some of the insiders are wondering whether there may not be a final repudiation to that disagreement between General Hugh Johnson and Dudley Cates which forced the latter out as Chief Deputy Administrator of NRA.

Both Johnson and Cates are protégés of Bernard M. Baruch. All three got their start back in Mexico. There are those here who say Cates' views on non-unionization of industry fit in with Baruch's better than do Johnson's.

Baruch is now vacationing in

Notes—

What has become of Alice Roosevelt Longworth? Her bon mots used to make page one about once a week but the daughter of T. R. seems to have dropped completely from sight. Lawrence Richey, who was Herbert Hoover's most confidential secretary during the latter's long years in public life, is having himself a swell secretary during the latter's long years in public life, is having himself a swell time "just playing around" without interruption.

Aside from a little casual work on the Hoover Memorial War Library, Richey is spending most of his time fishing and entertaining friends at his fish camps, of which he has two. Prof. Landis may be inveigled by President Roosevelt to come here permanently under Executive Order and administer the Securities Act. It has been reported persistently the President would have it in one man's hands rather than the Federal Trade Commission.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

Consumers—

From now on the fate of the Blue Eagle is largely in the hands of the consuming public. New York regards organization job as practically completed although there is a lot of mopping up to be done. Even its critics admit it was a darn good job under the circumstances. Capital and labor are still making faces at each other over the open-shop issue but for the present this is more of a sham battle than a knock-down and drag-out fight. Credit expansion to meet code costs is a vital problem yet unsolved but the betting is heavily odds on that the government will find a way to cut that knot.

That leaves one major question as the keystone of the whole recovery arch. Has enough new purchasing power been created—and WILL IT BE USED—to offset the additional costs which industry has assumed? If so old man depression is licked. The answer is up to Mr. and Mrs. Consumer in person. Especially Mrs. Consumer. Nobody else can spend their money for them.

That's the urgent motive for the national "Buy Now" campaign. It's the reason why banks are hesitant about making loans to cover increased costs. They would ladle out credit fast enough if they were sure the loans would be covered by fresh sales volume. The whole of industry is waiting with bated breath for the verdict.

If course the re-employed will buy. But for some time their purchases will be confined to necessities. That will help a few industries only. The rest are dependent on those who have been able to buy all along but have thought it more prudent to hang fast to their money.

So when General Johnson talks about the necessity for consumer cooperation he isn't kidding. The public can feel confident that their government will do its best to protect them from profiteers. That won't be any simple job—human nature being what it is—but New York thinks that F. D. R. and General Johnson can do it if anyone can.

Unfreezing—

The need to swell purchasing power to make NRA work has given great impetus to the move for Government action of unfreezing deposits in closed banks. There has been a marked change in New York sentiment on this subject just in the last week. Several staunch conservatives have privately added their voices to the demand that at least a portion of the deposits be thawed even at the risk of straining the government's credit. The actual mechanics as to how it can be done are not yet clear but you can expect important action along this line before the end of the month.

Public Works—

Insiders will tell you that Administrator Ickes is having a harder time making public works loans than you imagine. The reason is that borrowers are required to accept the NRA philosophy without reservation and many of them can't see any profit in it for themselves if they do.

Public works loans are being used to pave the way for a more general adoption of the thirty-hour week. This has been made a primary condition of quite a few loans. It is extremely significant as an entering wedge. Borrowers have also had to adhere to wage scales approved by Secretary Perkins and the Federation of Labor and to pledge themselves to purchase material only from those who have qualified for the Eagle.

You can see why the proposition doesn't appeal to those who have nickels in order to build up profits.

Open Shop—

The open-shop argument was referred to above as a phantom at present. This doesn't mean it will remain so. Quite the contrary. Henry L. Harriman and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce are in deadly earnest about preserving the "merit system." The A. F. of L. is just as keen to break it down.

But the point is that the government has no intention of letting NRA get sidetracked by open-shop hostilities. Industrial and labor leaders alike who find their pet controversy more absorbing than the Blue Eagle's success are likely to be given the bum's rush. The wisest heads on both sides are simply digging trenches now for the real battle later.

Buy Now—

Colloquy between the owner of a motor truck fleet and an NRA official: "We can't put our men on an 8-hour day. They might have to knock off by the side of a road in the wilds of New Jersey."

"That's all right. Put two men on each truck. They can alternate driving and sleeping and it will help employment."

"But we can't do that either. Our trucks aren't built that way."

"No, K., go buy some new trucks. That will help the cause along too." The truck man's final remarks are censured in the interest of pure reading matter.

Sport-Lines

BY TOM BEASLEY

Collier Farris, sports editor of the abbock Journal, says that a football team, no matter how tough, is nothing if not smart.

That's one proverb that Obie Bristow is learning more about with each passing day. Also, over a hundred fans who saw the Steers scrimmage with a makeshift squad of "exes" Friday realized the same thing. The new team just doesn't know the combination.

As far as material goes the big mentor has more than ever before, about fifty good hefty prospects but all green. It's a little early to put the finger on the team, however, as the boys are showing some progress. Obie won't be caught napping, not by any means, even if he does have a light inexperienced team. Nine backfield men will return next year, and most of them for three years. You might say it's a freshman team and this season will only be a training period in their pigskin career.

Barney Thurman has been shifted from a prospective back to guard duty. The extent of George Neel's leg injury has not been determined, but he may be through for the season. Neel is a quick little ball toter but won't do any blocking.

The Steer coach is attempting to match a game at Wink for Saturday. No definite arrangements have been made.

The Lubbock scribe furnishes an interesting story on Bristow: "For their first game the Westerners meet a team coached by a gent who delights in pulling tricks, or who takes great pleasure in seeing his gridsters execute stunts calculated to baffle the opposition. That's Obie Bristow, the Big Spring mentor. The Steers come to Lubbock to open the season two weeks from tomorrow night. That's how close the season is. And Obie is sure to try some tricks in the opening game. He is reported to have quite a bunch of veterans back this fall who already know the stunts."

"One of Obie's pet tricks is the eight-man defensive line. He pulled that on Amarillo one time and the game was half over before the Sandies happened to remember that forward passes are not illegal, and that they might work a few such against an 8-man forward wall. They did, completed three or four and beat Big Spring before the Steers knew what had happened."

"Bristow has another favorite play he pulls occasionally, much to

Man Jumps On Running Board Of Car In Indiana And Beats Texas Girl

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Mrs. James Earthman, 23, Houston, Tex., was suffering from severe scalp wounds after she was beaten by a young man who jumped on the running board of her automobile.

The attack occurred shortly after Mrs. Earthman and her husband arrived here from their home en route to the world fair.

As she turned a corner, Mrs. Earthman told police, a young man jumped on the running board, pressed a revolver against her head and ordered her to drive on. They went about four blocks until they reached a railroad elevation. The assailant ordered her to stop and started beating her on the head with her weapon. He then jumped from the car and fled. Mrs. Earthman said.

not accept such a bond and notified the company to that effect. The present audit, which was ordered recently by the court on Acuff's request, shows a discrepancy in excess of $1,700 in unremitted taxes.

First trouble in the office arose October 29, 1932, when an auditor discovered unpaid accounts due the county and school districts.

There was a total of $903.97 in unremitted funds which should have been included in the January report and a receipt to the county.

In addition there was $839.97 due school districts in unremitted funds and in commissions. The difference in commission was due to a misinterpretation of the law which allows only one half of one per cent fees for collection of school taxes, whereas Acuff had contended it to mean the collector was entitled to one per cent.

Acuff was told to pay the shortage and square his accounts. On October 21 he told the auditor it was not convenient to cover it at that time and the court took no action until the 27th. Then it instructed him to pay the county and school districts by November 1.

On that date the time limit was

The chagrin of officials and the opposing team. It's an offensive play featured by the center carrying the ball. The teams line up, signals are called, a fake movement made and the next thing you know, the ball totter is well on his way down the middle. And you don't remember having seen the center pass the ball back to a backfield man. As a matter of fact, he doesn't. But try and prove it. It works like this:

"The team comes out of a whirling huddle close to the line of defense and quickly takes its place according to position. But the regular center stays in the backfield. The quarterback crouches over the ball. Signals are called in rapid-fire order and the team starts. When everybody wakes up, the quarterback, in possession of the pigskin is across the goal line (thumping his nose at the opposing team, or somewhere between the scene of the play and the pay-off stripe. The baffled officials scratch their heads. They never saw the center pass the ball back. Yet the quarterback has the spheroid. And quarterbacks are still eligible to carry the mail. The center, who is not eligible to carry the ball, certainly doesn't have it so what's a poor official to do? There are numerous other tricks in Bristow's books, and you may see some of 'em pulled at the Texas Tech field on the night of the 22nd."

There will probably be several deceptive plays during the game but we doubt very much that they will have originated with the coach. In fact, the plays will likely be a surprise to him. "It's a chink the backfield will be a deceptive one," Obie said.

American Nun May Be Made Catholic Saint

CHICAGO (UP)—At a solemn tribunal in a wing of Columbus hospital, with a setting of shrouded sisters, high-backed chairs and religious ornaments, secret testimony is being taken daily in anticipation of elevation to sainthood of Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini.

If Mother Cabrini is named a saint, she will be the first American citizen to receive that honor from the Roman Catholic church. She was founder of the order of Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart of Jesus and died in 1917.

The hearing was ordered by the apostolic see. The chief requisite for sainthood is proof that Mother Cabrini performed two miracles following her death. Two witnesses, Sister Graziosi, of Seattle, Wash., and little Peter Smith, 12, of New York, will testify to miracles by Mother Cabrini.

If the congregation, cardinals and pope pronounce the testimony authentic, Mother Cabrini will be known as "Venerable." Then, in a separate performance in St. Peter's in Rome, beatification will be pronounced.

Two more miracles must occur after beatification before canonization is complete. Sister Deifina will testify that in 1925, after she underwent a major operation and extreme unction had been administered, Mother Cabrini appeared to her in a vision. She recovered in a few days.

Peter Smith will tell the tribunal that at his birth in 1921 a nurse accidentally washed his eyes in a strong solution. Blindness and pneumonia followed. After prayers were said asking Mother Cabrini to intercede, the boy's sight returned.

More than a month later, on August 18, a petition asking release from the $17,362 county and the $10,620 state bond was filed with the county clerk.

According to law the office of the tax collector was then officially declared inactive until an unless another bond were furnished within 20 days.

Told Saturday that his office must be declared vacant, according to a member of the court, Acuff told the court he could blame no one but himself for "my carelessness and negligence."

Through the present audit now being run on county books (the part affecting the collector being complete) shows a discrepancy of $1,700, there will be $1,300 in excess fees due March 1, 1934 which has already been collected.

After the tax collector and sheriff's department were separated by act of the Texas legislature in 1930, Acuff was elected in 1931 to the office.

He was one of the most popular county officers ever elected. When other offices were drawing a bevy extended to the 2nd and then again to the 5th when the full amount was paid.

However, the action which led the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company to come off Acuff's bond was a tardy filing of a report due the state.

Instead of filing the January report when it was due February 15 the collector delayed until the latter part of March.

March 23 County Attorney James Little and the bondsmen were notified jointly by the state comptroller that the report had not been submitted.

Previously the court had discovered an error in an excess fee report submitted by the tax collector and accompanied by a check covering the amount due.

He was shown the error and made a substitute report which showed an additional $700 due the county, which amount he was instructed to pay.

This he did by check drawn on the tax collector's fund instead of his personal account as it should have been drawn.

A check for $832.28 in automobile license fees was then taken from the county treasurer's office by the tax collector and held up until May 15 when it was paid.

July 6 the bonding company, through its agent, L. S. Patterson, notified Acuff it was withdrawing as bondsmen.

More than a month later, on August 18, a petition asking release from the $17,362 county and the $10,620 state bond was filed with the county clerk.

of candidates, Acuff went unopposed and was accorded one of the largest votes in 1932 ever given by the Howard county electorate. Miss Robinson, who accepted the appointment as tax collector to succeed her former employer, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walker Robinson, former residents of this county. In tendering her the appointment, Judge Debenport said that the court's only wish was that she vindicate the court's action in placing this responsibility upon you.

Dallas Man Says He Was Abducted And Taken To New Orleans And Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn., (UP)—Carl Bobo, 38, was en route to his Dallas home after kidnapers, having apparently mistaken him for another man, released him 30 miles from here.

Bobo, employe of a Dallas bakery, said three men abducted him on a busy Dallas street, drove him to Shreveport, New Orleans and Baton Rouge and held him captive for eight days.

Questioned for more than an hour by detectives here, Bobo stuck to his original story. The three men picked him up at Elm and Akard streets in Dallas on the afternoon of Aug. 21, he said. Throughout the southeastward ride, he was not harried, but was repeatedly told to "shut up," he told detectives.

One troop changed its meeting night last week. Troop No. 5 now meets on Thursday evening instead of Friday. Meeting starts promptly at 7:30 p. m. and adjourns not later than one hour afterwards.

Troop No. 1, oldest troop in the state from point of continuous registration, is contemplating changing its meeting night after convening on Friday for a quarter of a century. Tuesday evening is the day in mind.

Big Spring troops are planning some inter-troop competition arranged along the lines of the annual council jamboree.

Area Executive A. C. Williamson, "Chief" to the boys, was in Big Spring briefly Friday. He reported that a new troop had been organized in Barstow and one in Stanton. Others are reregistering and prospects for the council getting a President Roosevelt award look good.

All Big Spring troops are working toward getting a troop President Roosevelt award, earned much the same as was the President Hoover award.

TROOP MEETINGS

TROOP "O. 3"—The troop had its regular meeting Friday night with a very good attendance. Meeting was opened with the Scoutmaster's Benediction, after which games were played.

Those present were Scoutmaster Jack Cummings, Halbert Woodward, Tommy Higgins, Aaron McGee, Bobby McNew, Jim Brigham, Wayne Burch, Jack Hatch, Harry Blomshield, John Blomshield, Elmer Dorsay Jimmy Meyer, J. B. Bronstein, Austin Burch, Lewis Coffee, Harold Plum, Jack Cook.—Reported by J. B. Bronstein.

TROOP NO. 4—Members of the troop held their usual meeting Friday night and all were present but two.

Pastor Woodie Smith of the East Fourth Baptist Church which sponsors the troop paid a short visit. There were also three other visitors: Clinton Hall, Paul Kasch, and Barney Thurman.

After a business meeting a few games were played.

The troop is saving funds to buy some new flags.

Attending were J. L. Andrews, Weldon Bigony, Garrett Patton, Morris Burns, Billie Danner, Frank Wentz, Lee Wright, Billie Wright, Bruce Phillips, Vorda Taylor, Truman Cairns, Arthur Kasch, H. C. Tarzen News

There was a stinging at the Tarzan school house last Sunday evening.

Mr. Martin and others here remember the man accused of kidnapping Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man, as being a rather quiet, peaceable cow-puncher who was a good bronc "buster." Most of the time he was in this vicinity he lived on ranches and was not seen much in the city. While living in Ector County he did not get into any trouble. His wife and little daughter were with him.

However, Bailey did run afoul of the law in Colorado, and it is believed that this was the beginning of his long career in crime which has now led to a cell in the Oklahoma City jail under a double guard. Mr. Martin moved his cattle from Colorado in the late summer but Bailey remained in Sugar City, Colorado, a town near the ranch where the cattle had been kept. While there Bailey is alleged to have gone into bootlegging. As a result of this he had an altercation with a Sugar City constable. Shortly thereafter he left Colorado and went into Kansas.

As Bailey now sits in the Oklahoma City jail under heavy guard, the jail's exterior is flood-lighted at night so that if any of his confederates are daring enough to attempt a delivery a battle in the shadows would not be possible.

Plague Kills Gray Squirrels SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UP)—Hordes of gray squirrels, said to be the last of their species in this state slowly are dying of starvation amid rich feeding grounds. Fish and Game Commissioner Forrest J. McDermott blames a mysterious malady which attacks their eyes and blinds them so they are unable to hunt for food. Biologists of the University of California have been studying the plague for three years, but have been unable to determine the cause or type of the disease.

Mrs. D. Moseley has left for a visit in El Paso.

CLEAR LIGHT AND SHARP OUTLINES

THIEVES work under cover of darkness. Shady characters go about their business in half-light. Honest men walk boldly at midday, for they have nothing to fear.

Shoddy merchandise cannot be advertised. It would ruin the reputation of its sponsors. The half-way good is not worth an advertisement in these pages. The merchants of this community and the national manufacturers, who advertise to you, are glad to come out in the open for all to see. So confident are they of the quality of their goods, that they are ready to talk to all the people about that quality, staking their business future on the validity of their claims.

You will find their messages helpful, their descriptions of merchandise interesting, their news of style authentic, their prices fair. These days, as never before, your dollars will buy more—more durability, style, comfort, more happiness—if you read and heed the advertisements of reputable advertisers in these pages!
