

Woman Slain Near Van Horn Identified Sweetwater May Withdraw From District Football Race

San Angelo Attempts To Withdraw Protest After Taking Game From Ponies

Elimination Of Sweetwater Would Throw Local Team In Tie With San Angelo For District Championship

Indication Friday morning was that the Sweetwater high school football team would withdraw from the District Three football race. Such action would leave Big Spring and San Angelo high schools tied for the district championship. However, Big Spring has played ten games, the limit set by Interscholastic League rules for competition prior to determination of the district championship. Local school officials expressed the opinion that in case of withdrawal by Sweetwater Big Spring and San Angelo would decide the championship by the flip of a coin.

WASHINGTON
By George Burne

Exits—

Just in case it hasn't been made clear to you elsewhere a complete "new deal" is being taken place in the U. S. Treasury Department. That means all of the lads who subscribe to what are popularly known as Wall Street ideas on money and finance are being tossed out of their jobs. Just as the royal subjects can be found to replace them.

When President Roosevelt and Acting Secretary Morgenthau get through with the Treasury an organization will remain that is 100 percent in accord with the administration's monetary policy.

Leaks—

It may sound like rank heresy for one newspaper reporter to say Morgenthau was not trying to muzzle the press with his unfortunate anti-talk order while many others of the profession are insisting that was his motive.

Nevertheless, it's true. The new Treasury boss was only trying to seal up what had become a veritable sieve of information leaks to Wall Street brokerage houses.

Morgenthau concedes he approached the problem in a rather amateish fashion. Astute administration publicity men are ironing out the injured feelings of the Treasury correspondents as best as they can.

President Roosevelt first discovered that all was not going well in the Treasury Department under the regime of Woodin and Acheson (the latter being in control because of the former's illness) when he found that New York financial houses were far better informed than was the public through the press.

A quiet investigation disclosed that a closely knit ring of subordinates was as out of line with the administration's gold manipulation policy as was Dean Acheson. The White House moved swiftly to remove the gnawing from its breast. Among other things it was decided that news should emanate through the newspapers and not the unfriendly gentlemen of Broad and Wall.

Safeguards—

Henry Morgenthau, Jr. was put into control of our national finances with one definite charge. It was that January 1 should come and go with no undue wobble in the banking structure.

Money Battles That Made History

No. 1—'Sound Money' Issue From Time Of Hamilton.. Jackson.. Bryan

EDITOR'S NOTE: The monetary program which unhitched the United States dollar from gold started an argument which is hardly new. Today the controversy that Americans are witnessing is one that has been stirring since colonial days. This is the first of four articles dealing with high points of this historical background.

By CARL C. CRAMMER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Again discordant notes of the call to battle are sounding in the rival camps of the "inflationists" and the "sound money" advocates.

The resounding resignation of Prof. O. M. W. Sprague from the treasury, with the declaration that he plans to fight the "drift to unrestrained inflation" may prove to be the opening gun in a new warfare that has been waged behind the scenes for months as a result of President Roosevelt's monetary policies.

Many Famous Battles

It may prove another of the famous money battles which stud American history from colonial days—battles which usually have cut through party ranks and which often have been on a sectional basis.

In Alexander Hamilton's time the issues were the "doctrine of discrimination" and "assumption"; in Andrew Jackson's day the fight was over the United States bank. The monetary rebellion in Massachusetts after the Revolution; it gave birth to the Greenback party about 1876 and later to the Populist party; it introduced William Jennings Bryan, his "cross of gold" speech and the "16-to-1" coinage of silver issue. And there was the march of Coxe's army about the same time.

Agrarian Districts Heed From

Unrest with the rise and fall of the value of the monetary unit has been a feature of almost every serious financial stringency, usually most vocal in agrarian districts.

And now President Roosevelt has declared for a policy of "experimentation" with the "sound money" group warning that previous experiments always have ended in disaster and that the gold standard is the best system yet found.

President's Program Safer

In successive steps the president has gone off the international gold standard, acted against gold hoarders, cancelled the gold clause in public and private securities, rejected the pleas of the European "gold bloc" for stabilization, moved toward an international silver agreement, and initiated his gold purchase policy to depreciate the dollar and lift commodity prices.

133,689 Texans Given Jobs During First Week Of Civil Works Drive More Families Get Aid In October

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, civil works administrator, said the latest available count shows Texas put to work 133,689 unemployed during the first week of the civil works drive. The total quota of 143,000 is yet to be filled. Oklahoma's quota of 101,000 jobs has been filled. No more employment will be provided there.

Steers Beat Colorado 12-0 In District Final

Obie Bristol's black and gold grid warriors rattled through their final scheduled game of the '33 season here Thursday afternoon by sweeping aside Jim Cantrell's red and black Colorado Wolf pack, 12 to 0, in an interesting but non-spectacular exhibition. It was the final district game for the local team because the ten game limit has been played, however, should Big Spring win the toss with San Angelo, a bi-district game would be played with Bowie of El Paso.

None of the Bovines played out the season in a blaze of glory, and performance was good only in spots. Graves and B. Flowers put up a good battle, at times. The Wolves were far from a set-up and opened the game by completing two passes for twenty-two yards that took them to the local twenty-one yard marker before they were checked.

Were it not for numerous injuries, Cantrell's charges would doubtless have made a different record. Red Church, captain and right tackle for the Wolves and hailed as one of the best in the state, was injured and played a very irregular game. The regular Wolf quarterback, Ray Morrison, quit a few days ago and two of the backfield men were playing with broken hands.

Stagner, however, proved to be the main cog in the visitor's offense. He carried the ball 23 times for 70 yards, an average of a little more than two yards to the play. But nine times he made no gain and he lost twenty yards on seven plays.

Money Battles That Made History

No. 1—'Sound Money' Issue From Time Of Hamilton.. Jackson.. Bryan

Resignation of Prof. O. M. W. Sprague (left) from the treasury department is explained by his opposition to the monetary policies of the Roosevelt administration. The dollar question which has split him apart from such advocates of currency experimentation as Prof. George F. Warren (center) and Alexander Hamilton, Andrew Jackson and on into the Bryan era when "free silver" and "16-to-1" were campaign slogans over which men and parties argued and fought.

Cooking School Questions Answered By Mrs. Warren

The following recipes were requested at the Daily Herald Free Electrical Cooking School conducted last week by Mrs. Ethel J. Warren.

- Sweet Milk Griddle Cakes
2 cups soft wheat flour.
3 tbs baking powder.
3-4 tsp salt.
2 tbs sugar.
1-4 cup milk.
1 egg.
2 tbs melted butter.
Sift flour once, measure and sift again with dry ingredients. Beat eggs, add milk, and mix slowly with flour, beating until smooth. Add butter. Cook cakes at once.
- Dumplings for Chicken
2 cups soft wheat flour.
4 tbs baking powder.
1-2 tsp salt.
1 tbs shortening.
3-4 cup milk.
Sift and measure flour. Add salt and baking powder and sift again three times. Cut in shortening with pastry blender, or two knives. Add milk and mix. Turn in flour-sifted board and roll and cut with smallest biscuit cutter. Arrange closely together in a well-greased steamer over rapidly boiling water. Cover tightly and allow to steam 15 to 18 minutes. Serve immediately on a hot platter surrounded by stewed chicken, with chicken gravy poured over all. Delicious.
- Refrigerator Cookies
2-4 cup butter.
1-2 cup light brown sugar.
2 eggs.
1 tsp vanilla.
4 cups flour.
1 tsp cream tartar.
1 tsp soda.
1 cup pecans.
Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Sift flour, measure, add cream tartar and soda, mix again three times. Add part of flour to butter mixture. Mix well. Add egg unbeaten and mix well. Add another portion of flour and second egg. When all is thoroughly mixed, add vanilla and broken nuts. Shape into rolls and wrap in waxed paper. Store in refrigerator several hours. When firm, slice one-fourth inch thick and bake as needed on greased baking sheet 8 to 10 minutes at 400 degrees.
- Refrigerator Rolls
2 cups boiling water.
1-2 cup sugar.
1 tbs salt.
3 tbs shortening.
2 eggs beaten.
2 cakes yeast.
1-4 tsp sugar.
1-4 cup lukewarm water (sifted before measuring).
8 cups of bread flour (sifted before measuring).
Mix boiling water, 1-2 cup sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm.
Dissolve yeast cakes in 1-4 cup lukewarm water with 1 tsp sugar. Add to first mixture. Add beaten eggs. Beat in one-half of the flour, using a large wooden spoon. Add remaining flour and beat again until smooth. Do not knead. Cover and place in refrigerator to have on hand. Shape in any style rolls desired. Grease tops of rolls well and let rise to double in bulk before ready to bake. If kept at a low temperature, this dough will keep for a week or ten days.
- Devil's Food Cake
2-4 cup cocoa.
1-2 cup milk.
3-4 cup sugar.
1-2 tsp vanilla.
1-2 cup butter and boil to a thick syrup. Let cool and add vanilla.
2-4 cup butter.
1-3 cup sugar.
2-4 cup milk.
3 eggs.
3 cups cake flour.
1-2 tsp soda dissolved in 4 tbs water.
Cream butter and sugar. Add beaten yolks, then soda and water. Sift flour and measure and add alternately with milk. Add chocolate mixture. Fold in beaten whites. Bake in two layer pans 7 by 11 inches at 350 degrees.
- Never Fall Chocolate Frosting
4 tbs butter.
1-3 cup cocoa.
2-1-2 cups powdered sugar.
Enough hot coffee to moisten.
Mix butter and cocoa. Add sugar and coffee, beating until smooth and of right consistency to spread. Add 1-2 tsp vanilla, if desired.
- Cocoa Cream Pie
1-2 cup cocoa.
1-2 cups sugar.
1-4 cup corn starch.
2 cups milk.
3 eggs yolks.
1-4 tsp salt.
1 tsp vanilla.
Mix cocoa, corn starch, and salt. Add milk, and stir until well mixed. Cook on low heat, stirring constantly until thick. Add beaten yolks and cook 1 minute. Cool and add vanilla. Pour into baked crust and top with following meringue:
- Meringue
3 eggs whites.
1-8 tsp salt.
6 tbs sugar.
Add salt to egg whites and beat until very stiff. Add sugar slowly and continue beating until mixture has appearance of marshmallow. File lightly on pie by spoonfuls.
- Breakfast Orange Juice
Cooked Wheat Cereal Cream
Soft Cooked Eggs Coffee
Graham Toast Lanchon Crackers
Vegetable Soup Sugar Cookies
Grapes Tea
Dinner
Chicken and Spaghetti
Mashed Turnips
Date Buns Butter
Cranberry Jelly
Baked Custards Cream
Coffee
Chicken and Spaghetti
(Using Leftovers)
4 tablespoons bacon fat
3 tablespoons chopped onions
3 tablespoons chopped celery
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup tomatoes
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika
2-3 cup diced chicken
2-4 cup cooked spaghetti
Heat fat in frying pan. Add and brown onions and celery. Add flour and mix well. Add rest of ingredients, cook 2 minutes. Serve plain or poured over toast.
- Date Buns
1 cake compressed yeast
4 tablespoons lukewarm water
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon fat
4 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
3-1-2 cups flour
1-2 cup chopped dates
Crumble yeast, add water and let stand 5 minutes. Heat milk to boiling point, add salt, fat and sugar and cool until lukewarm. Add yeast mixture, egg and flour. Beat 3 minutes. Add dates. Cover and allow to rise in a room of 72 degrees temperature until dough has doubled in bulk. It will require about 3 hours. Break off bits of soft dough and shape into buns 1-2 inches in diameter. Place side on greased pan and allow buns to double in size. This will require about 2 hours. Bake 15 minutes in moderate oven.
- Cranberry Jelly
4 cups berries
1-2 cups water.
2 cups sugar.
Boil berries and water until berries are soft. Press through strainer. Add sugar and boil 2 minutes. Pour into glass dish. Cool and chill.
- Roast fowl in uncovered pan at 300 degrees to 325 degrees until tender.
Note: Always wash fowl well before stuffing.
- How To Keep Cornbread From Sticking To Sides Of Pan
To keep corn bread from sticking to pans of any kind, always use an unsalted shortening to grease pans. Do not preheat pans before pouring in batter. Do not use too high a temperature in baking; 425 degrees is correct.
- White Fruit Cake
4 cups cake flour.
1 tbs baking powder.
1-2 tsp soda.
1-2 tsp salt.
1-2 lb. each of crystallized orange peel, citron, lemon peel, pineapple and cherries finely cut.
1 lb. blanched almonds.
1 lb. Sultana raisins.
1 cup butter.
1-1-2 cups sugar.
1 tbs lemon juice.
10 egg whites stiffly beaten.
Sift flour, measure and sift again three times with baking powder, soda, and salt. Prepare fruit and sift 1 cup of the flour over fruit. Cream shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add remaining flour to mixture, a small amount at a time. Add lemon juice, floured fruit, and nuts. Fold in beaten egg whites. Line tube pans or small bread pans with well greased paper. Pour in mixture. Bake 2-1-2 to 3 hours, 250 degrees, increasing heat to 300 degrees last 10 or 15 minutes. Makes 6 lbs. cake.
- Pineapple Filling for Cake
1-2 cup sugar.
6 tbs flour.
8 eggs yolks.
1-8 tsp salt.
1 cup grated pineapple (drain off juice).
2 tbs butter.
1-4 cup milk.
2 tbs lemon juice.
Mix sugar, salt and flour. Add milk and pineapple. Cook over low heat until thick. Add yolks slightly beaten and cook 1 minute. Add butter and cool. Spread between layers of cake. May be used as a filling for pie.
- Note: All fillings made of pineapple are more or less sticky.
- Baking Angel Food Cakes
Bake in ungreased tube pan in center oven, 325 to 350 degrees, from 50 minutes to 1 hour and 10 minutes, depending on size of cake.
- Dressing for Wild Duck
2-1-2 cups stale bread crumbs.
1 cup canned corn.
2 tbs chopped green pepper.
3 tbs powdered celery leaves.
1-4 cup melted butter.
1-2 tsp salt.
1-8 tsp pepper.
Combine ingredients and stuff fowl.
- Apple Dressing for Duck
3 cups stale crumbs.
2 tbs melted butter.
3 small onion minced.
1 large sour apple sliced.
1 tsp salt.
1-4 tsp pepper.
Rub outside and inside with juice of 1-2 lemon. Mix ingredients and stuff fowl.

Mrs. Obie Bristow Gives Luncheon

Mrs. Obie Bristow entertained with an unusually attractive luncheon Wednesday honoring her friend, Mrs. Sidney Van Zandt of Fort Worth, at her lovely home in Washington Place.

A Mexican luncheon was served after which the guests played bridge.

The honoree was present with a Mexican drawnwork scarf and the highest scores, Mrs. Marchbanks with a Mexican drawnwork handkerchief.

The luncheon guests were: Mmes. Glen D. Gullik, Alfred Collins, Lindsey Marchbanks, Rance King, Lindsey Van Zandt; Misses Maryon Hutto and Elizabeth Northington.

An average of 331 containers of food per family this year compared to 239 last year have been put on pantry shelves of 17 members of the Vial Station Home Demonstration club in Parker county.

Canning 12 cull hens per day for 7 days along with her regular house hold duties, Mrs. O. A. Blankenship of Brady Home Demonstration club in Potter county netted $372 per day for her work. She sold 234 cans of boned chicken from the 84 hens.

In spite of bad weather conditions many 4-H club boys in Howard county made from 2000 to 2500 pounds of mulo heads per acre in their demonstrations this year. One boy picked one bale of cotton from one acre.

Health Is half of success

Few men achieve their goal with out vitality and drive. And so many are held back from their best by a common ailment: constipation. It dulls energy, often causes head aches, sleeplessness. It takes the vim out of your day's work.

Correct constipation by eating 4 delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines and vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it becomes a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than using pills and drugs—so often harmful.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN also has iron for the blood. At all grocers. In the red and green packages. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"I said in the beginning, and now repeat, that we want tax money, not prisoners. But if people insist on willfully evading the tax, we must provide for them that we now have a law under which heavy penalties can be obtained and made to stick."

Penalties have ranged from a two-year prison sentence, suspended during good behavior, to 45 days in jail and fines of from $500 to $250. Numerous of the remaining cases will be tried in December.

The war on offenders is proceeding on a wide front, according to

J. W. McReynolds, chief of the comptroller's gas tax division. In addition to the felony charges, dozens of misdemeanor penalties have been obtained and several suits have been instituted for substantial amounts in back taxes, he said.

Three pleas of guilty were taken last week at Focke, a felony case was on trial at Longview, and extra agents have been returned to the East Texas field to redouble the supervision there, he added.
Comptroller Sheppard, pointing out that the savings to taxpayers already exceed 7 per cent of last year's income, again appealed to the citizenship to report suspicious circumstances and assist his force in stamping out the gasoline boot-licker wherever possible.

Mrs. Ben Grayson and daughter of San Angelo were Thanksgiving dinner guests of Mrs. Jack Franklin.

CHAPTER I

The hotel manager glanced up at a moment at the weathered man beside the registry desk, then suddenly recognized him.

"Why, how do you do, Mr. Tennyson? I didn't know you at first, you've changed so. Glad to have you with us again, sir."

His tone implied that a man who had been down in the far North hunting wolves by plans over the snow wastes of the Great Barrens, was lucky to be back in Edmonton alive.

"Mr. Desplaines is with you, I suppose. Would you like something nice, a three-room suite?"

"Make it one room," Curt bade, for he had less than fifty dollars and his partner had nothing. He signed for himself and Smash Desplaines. "By the way, Lacie, will you ask the desk clerk to phone around to the other hotels and find out where A. K. Marlin is staying? Superintendent Martin of the Mounted Police. He was to get in from Vancouver yesterday."

"He and Miss Rosalie are right here with us, Mr. Tennyson. This reminds me—Lacie turned over a letter from the mail this morning—the superintendent asked me to hand you this when you registered if you're having conferences with him. He'll give you a room near his suite."

Curt ripped the envelope and read Martin's letter. It was brief, but telling.

"As I wireless you at Fort Resolution, Rosalie and I'll be in Edmonton for several days; and I'd like to see you as soon as you come in from Great Slave. I hear that the Consolidated Minerals have offered you a job. Don't tie up with them definitely till you get in touch with me; I've got a proposition of the utmost importance to talk over with you—A. K."

Curt frowned uneasily as he read the note again. Just what was this "proposition"? Hardly a bid for him to rejoin the Mounted Police—A-K surely knew he would never go back into the Force. "Utmost importance"—when A-K said that, it meant something extraordinary.

With a slight limp, his relic of a war-time crack-up, he crossed the lobby to the elevator where a bell boy was waiting with his key and suitcase.

A number of people, loitering over their morning newspapers, looked up, saw him, followed him with interested curious glances. His rough flying clothes and the goggles helmet in his hand told them he was an aviator. Thirty-two or three, he was only medium tall but as hard as steel as a range wolf, with lean jaw, thin aspic lips and hawk-sharp gray eyes.

Exposure to summer sun and winter woolly-whipper weathered his face almost as dark as an Indian's. There was a quiet power about him which set him off from other adventurers of the North who occasionally appeared in the capital for a day or two. They were usually brawny, robust, like him; he was poker-faced and silent, with an air of cold aloofness that repelled people.

Upstairs in his room, Curt glanced out the window into the hotel court where the golden June sun lay like a benediction over the flower beds and promenade; and he marveled at the contrast between this world of today and his world of yesterday.

Today an elite hotel, snowy linen, a swimming bath, servitors at the beck.

After his year of absence he had looked forward eagerly to visiting the city again, but now that he actually was back he felt disappointed. The city jarred on him.

That average beautiful land, with its mountains and blue lakes and too-lose freedom, had become his home, and it drew him back like the arms of a loved one. After his harsh years aboard and his seven months in the Mounted, he had come into sunlight happiness, down north. Though he had been in Edmonton only an hour, he already wished he were in his plane again and heading down the Athabasca, Slave and broad Mackenzie to the moose-ox parties and white-wolf mountains of the sub-Arctic.

Curious to know that A-K wanted of him so urgently, he bathed and shaved, changed to his "civilian" clothes and stepped down the corridor to the Marlin suite.

At his knock he heard a quick ripping of paper; the door opened an inch or two; he had a glimpse of Rosalie Marlin, her eyes still heavy with sleep, the candleabra behind her shimmering in her lovely auburn hair. He had caught her in smiling negligee—she checked, a powder puff in her hand, a dressing robe flung hastily about her shoulders.

The pretty frown on her face vanished instantly when she saw who had knocked. "Curt!" she cried opening the door wide. "You! Flye minutes ago! I was dreaming about you, and here you are!" She flung her arms about him and stood tip-toe for his hug and kiss. "When did you get in? Why didn't you wireless us you were coming? Why didn't you give me a ring just now, so you wouldn't catch me like this?"

"Was mean of me," Curt admitted, patting her disheveled hair. "I'm almost afraid of you, you're like a breath right out of the North!"

"You—!" she held her off at arm's length and surveyed her. "I wonder how you—"

"I'm almost afraid of you, you're like a breath right out of the North!"

"What's the matter?" she asked, her eyes wide.

"Nothing," Curt said, "I'm just a little out of breath from the North."

"You're not out of breath from the North, you're out of breath from the North!" she said, her eyes wide.

The Silent Squad had worked on it all winter, he had worked on it himself, the Commissioner had sent two squads from Ottawa, but nobody had got anywhere with it. When he thought of the brilliant job that young Tennyson used to turn in, of his uncanny skill, of how they all used to depend on him in hopeless cases, he felt that Curt stood at least a chance on this search, where the others had long since thrown up their hands and quit.

"Curt," he glanced around and lowered his voice, and then plunged directly into the business—"What I wanted to see you about is this: Over at Vancouver there was a man called Farrel, a speculator and promoter of the shady type. He gave out that he was an Englishman, but he's not. He's a Russian, and his real name is Karakhan, Igor Karakhan. I'll give you a bit of his background; Lord knows it cost us enough work. During the Soviet Revolution in '17 he got out of Russia and went to—"

"Germany," Curt supplied lamely. He had glanced up with academic interest at the mention of Karakhan's name. Now he smiled at A-K's sudden start. "In Berlin, in 1920," he went on, coolly taking the story away from Marlin, "Karakhan had a hand in that Engelmeyer money-printing scandal. In Paris he swindled his fellow-emigres on a confidence game and then cleared out for Moscow."

"Wait a minute!" A-K gasped. "Why, you must know the man! Where—when—how under heaven did you get this data on him?"

"From the Justice Department of the States. I used to trade information with them."

Marlin leaned back, looked at Curt with amazed eyes. "Well, I thought you were pulling something out of the bag that'd be new to you, and then you begin telling me things about it! D'you know what Karakhan did in the Argentine?" he demanded, as though he expected to stump Curt.

"Yes, I know, A-K. And I know what he did afterward, too. The League of Nations investigators got hold of him after his, so he skipped south to Mexico and ran whisky to Los Angeles. The States nicked him, for two schooners and he came on to Vancouver. I was keeping tab on him there when I burned out and resigned."

Marlin did not speak till the waiter had refilled their water glasses, and withdrew. "Then I've got a departmental report on him here, but there's no use showing it to you; you know as much about him already as our men who've worked nine months on the case."

"Let me see it!"

Marlin handed over a ten-page dossier.

CHAPTER TWO

The eight of his old officer sent a warm glow through Curt. During those seven years with the Police, Marlin had been his first friend, a kind of second father to him. His engagement to Rosalie seemed a fitting climax to the understanding friendship between her father and himself. He had never seen Rosalie, but she was a girl of a different type. She was a girl of a different type. She was a girl of a different type.

CHAPTER THREE

Curt glanced at the snaps, two of them full-length; and studied one enlarged but photo. He had seen the Russian personally on half a dozen occasions, but not close enough to observe him very well. He was struck by the intelligence and dynamic power of Karakhan. A man of forty, tall and commanding, he did not look Russian at all; his handsomeness, features had nothing of the usual Slavish broadness. His dark eyes, staring straight into Curt's, were smiling a faint sardonic smile. Except for a lustful expression about his mouth, he gave no suggestion of the crime trail that he had tracked across two continents.

CHAPTER FOUR

"Wish we were stepping out together. You and me, we could bust this man's town wide open. That wouldn't be my trick at all compared to flying over the Thelon Barrens and swooping down at wolf packs with a machine gun. We'd start at one end of Jasper Avenue and roll the old street up into a tight curl, like a pine shaving! And when Curt shook his head. "All right, then. But snakes!—I wish you'd come along."

CHAPTER FIVE

Curt swore to himself that when he got through with the Karakhan business he was through and done and would not allow himself to be entangled any deeper.

"I'm not 'still a Mounted," he denied. "I'm taking this to pay back a little fraction of what I owe you, A-K, and because—well, I guess I'm part wolf-hound and can't resist a good chase. If I run that fellow down I'll be worth half a dozen Consolidated jobs."

CHAPTER SIX

Baldwin flushed slightly. "Miss Mathieson and Karakhan were together a deal here in town and—uh, too trips up the coast."

Curt noticed the flush and the hesitation. He wondered what Baldwin's reluctance to talk about her meant. Was he holding something back?

CHAPTER SEVEN

"Is she still here in Vancouver?"

"Yes, Miss Mathieson is here. She's a beauty shop down on Kirk street."

"Do you know her well enough to get me a date for this evening?"

"Oh, let her alone, Tennyson. I've covered that lead. She doesn't know anything important. That's what she's too cagey to tell her anything about herself. He didn't tell anybody."

CHAPTER EIGHT

"She won't date with a stranger?"

"Try her, won't you? By the way, better use a fake name—Rialston will do, Curt Rialston. And I'm a flyer with the Consolidated Minerals."

Baldwin was willing enough to cooperate, for he felt confident that nothing would come of it. Picking up the phone he called a number 6-11-11.

CHAPTER NINE

"Helen?" Baldwin was speaking. How are you? Glad to hear that. I say, Helen, are you free this evening? Why I ask, I've a friend here in town, Curt Rialston, an aviator with a prospecting company. He's facing a lonesome evening, and I wondered whether you wouldn't step out to dinner with him—Beg pardon? . . . You don't care to? But I wish you would, girl; he's rather a close friend of mine and I believe you'd like to know him. . . . You'll phone me later? Better make it yes, now, Helen. He's entirely a gentleman, you understand, otherwise I wouldn't have suggested this. Please. . . . You will? That's mighty sweet of you! . . . He set down the phone. "Seven o'clock at her shop, Curt. If you pick up anything new from her, I'll turn in my commission and get a job as a traffic cop."

CHAPTER TEN

Early the next morning Curt and Smash checked out at the hotel, ate breakfast, and taxied toward the gray wet dawn to Cooking Lake.

At a private party Curt's trim amphibian was rocking on the waves. A three-place cabin plane, and Curt and Smash had carried him and Smash all over the Keewatin Barrens, up and down the waterlogged Mackenzie country, and westward into the unknown Arctic Rockies.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

Across long "dry hope" where a kinking motor would have meant a fatal crack-up, it had taken hours, unflinching, so that they had come to look on it as one of their, a silent partner.

While Smash pumped the pontoons dry, Curt stripped the canvas hood from the radial and inspected. Shoving away, they climbed into the cabin, cranked the inertia starter and stood out into the lake. At the controls, Curt skimmed the north two miles to warm the motor, veered around into the light wind, and gave the plane the gun. Dancing down lake, he reached speed, rocked the stick and jumped the ship into the air.

CHAPTER TWELVE

He circled once for altitude, passed over Edmonton, a mile above the still-sleeping city; and headed west, toward the snowy Selkirk and the Pacific coast.

As he flew along, his eyes were on the horizon over the plane's nose, but his thoughts went on beyond that horizon to the weeks and months ahead. He wondered where the Karakhan hunt would take him; and what the varied fortunes, but A-K and others like him, stuck with the Mounted. A-K had given forty long years to the Force, and now he did not even own a home for himself.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

Somewhere in the city a chime sounded, breaking into Curt's reverie. He glanced at his watch, saw it was time for him to leave with Rosalie; and stepped down the corridor to the Marlin suite.

Marlin looked up from the table where he was working. "Rosalie's down in the lobby meeting some friends, Curt," he said kindly. "She'll be back in a minute." He laid his pen aside. "Curt, Rosalie told me the details about that Consolidated offer. If I'd known them beforehand, I wouldn't have mentioned this Karakhan matter at all. Of course you'll take that offer. It pays quite decently and you'll enjoy the work; but this other is just charity."

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

Curt winced. A-K's very kindness and generosity hurt him all the more. He suddenly realized that if he refused Marlin and went back north he would come near to losing his own self-respect. He had always thought of A-K when affection and admiration, as a stern old Roman; but in those moments, as he saw how tired A-K was and how much his shoulders had stooped in the past year, a great wave of sympathy swept through him. "I've got to go," he said. "I've got to go."

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

At a familiar voice speaking their names, he and Curt looked around. Smash Desplaines was coming into the breakfast room. He was freshly shaved and his red hair was cropped close; but his muddled flying goggles were pulled caustically out of the bag that'd be new to you, and then you begin telling me things about it! D'you know what Karakhan did in the Argentine?" he demanded, as though he expected to stump Curt.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

No. 2354. W. B. Currie vs. J. T. Bell, et al. In the District Court, Howard County, Texas.

The State of Texas to the Sheriff or any Constable of Howard County—GREETING: YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED by making publication of this Citation in some newspaper published in the County of Howard once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, you summon J. T. Bell, whose residence is known to be as above stated at the next regular term of the District Court of Howard County, to be held at the Court House thereof, in the City of Big Spring, on the first Monday in January, A. D. 1934, the same being the first day of January, A. D. 1934, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 21st day of November, A. D. 1933, in a suit numbered on the Docket of said Court, No. 2354, wherein W. B. Currie is plaintiff, and J. T. Bell and Winnie Bell are defendants; the nature of plaintiffs demand being substantially, as follows, to-wit:

Suit on promissory note dated the 19th day of September, 1927 being for the sum of $2,500.00, payable to the order of Burton-Lingo Company at Big Spring, Texas, in seven installments, the first six being for the sum of $295.00 and the seventh for $280.00, payable on or before 6, 12, 18, 24, 30, 36 and 42 months after date, after deducting interest at the rate of 8% per annum from date until paid, providing for 10% attorney's fees in case same is placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, by legal proceedings or by the probate court, whereby the defendants became jointly and severally bound and liable to pay Burton-Lingo Company or order the said money in said note specified together with all interest and attorney's fees thereon and thereby they became liable to pay and promised to pay W. B. Currie, who is the legal owner of said note.

Suit is also brought for the foreclosure of a certain Mechanic's and Materialman's Lien executed on the 19th day of September, 1927, in favor of Burton-Lingo Company on Lot Number 6 in Block No. 33 in the town of Big Spring in Howard County, Texas, the said Mechanic's and Materialman's Lien was executed to secure the payment of said note and has been a valid and subsisting lien since the execution thereof and at this time is a valid and subsisting lien and is of record in Volume 5, Page 197 Mechanic's and Materialman's Lien Records of Howard County, Texas, and W. B. Currie, the owner of said note and said lien has a right to have same foreclosed. Plaintiff sues for the amount of said note now due, including interest and attorney's fees, amounting to the sum of $3,000.00 and for foreclosure of said lien and also alleges that said Mechanic's and Materialman's Lien is in the possession of the Defendant J. T. Bell and gives notice for same to be produced by him at the trial of such cause, and secondary evidence will be brought to prove the contents thereof.

HEREIN FAIL NOT, but have you before said Court on the said of the sound money campaign given the Rockefeller forces the break for which they have been waiting. They will fly the New Deal flag at their masthead. You haven't heard the Chase complaining about monetary policies and you won't.

Allies

Most of the banking community will string along with the Morgans—partly because the magic of the name is still potent and partly because of private expressed distaste for Rockefeller methods. The Stock Exchange crowd is less untidily, the Morgan spell but its leaders are mostly inclined to play traditional leadership on the nose. Also there will be some pretty important industrial backing in this army.

But don't get the idea the Rockefeller will be without allies. Watch the Du Ponts. They have successfully avoided the path of New Deal storms and there is no love lost between them and the Morgans. They also have ambitions. John J. Raskob is more in the picture than is generally supposed. It is no accident that he visited Warm Springs while his erstwhile candidate Al Smith was sounding off about the "baloney dollar."

A Rockefeller-Aldrich Chase Standard Oil-Du Pont-General Motors setup—however informal—could make giant money combinations of the past look like pygmies.

Whirligig

post Insurance Corporation becomes operative. On a somewhat restricted basis it is designed to guarantee your bank deposits against what happened to them last March.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has been attempting to subscribe to preferred stock of many banks, largely to strengthen the capital structure of the weaker institutions so they can become eligible for the protection guarantee.

Small banks have feared to enter into the scheme. They said it would be an admission of weakness which might start runs.

When the large banks approached to act as bell-wethers their reactions was that the government was trying to get a hand-hold on their operation by becoming a stockholder.

Dovetailing into this situation is the administration's effort to thaw out a number of the banks that have remained frozen since last March's monetary holiday.

Compromiser of the Currency J. E. T. O'Connor has been working valiantly on this liquidation which would re-open your dormant accounts.

But here again a fer of the motives of the R. F. C., which is handling the direct refinancing, enters into the picture.

Mr. Smith

At this point, Tom K. Smith should be re-introduced. You will recall him as the St. Louis banker whom Morgenthau made personal adviser on banking problems.

Smith has been working night and day all this week to get a true slant on the deposit insurance and liquidation situations. A report to the new Acting Secretary may be expected by Monday.

Morgenthau is seeking an accurate slant on his new problems. When he finds out what is impeding the administration program you may look for some short cuts to positive action.

Censor-Hound

One fellow got tossed into a tough spot as a result of the Treasury flare-up over press censorship. That was Louis Ruppel, Deputy Commissioner of Narcotics.

Until last March Ruppel was a New York newspaper man who had traveled with Mr. Roosevelt since the pre-vention days when everybody rode a lower berth. Morgenthau asked him as an old friend to step in and pry some of his erstwhile colleagues off the Treasury's neck.

Lou crossed his fingers prayerfully and went to the assistance of Herbert Gaston, assistant to the Acting Secretary in charge of publicity.

Notes

It would appear that the Department of Justice is interested in some of the New Dealers who live at the hotel here known as Democratic headquarters. Just who the sleuths frequenting the lobby are is a bit of a mystery. Quite a few officials live in the hotel and so do a whole lot of politicians, turned lobbyists.

More than a month ago we reported that Comptroller of the Currency J. E. T. O'Connor had brought on a personal publicity man at his own expense. Now O'Connor's friends rise up to prove that Kenneth Hayes, former San Francisco financial writer, is on the regular Treasury payroll. Today open the most critical month in the Roosevelt administration in many respects.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin Chase—The New York-Washington sound money fight is setting the stage for a huge civil war in New York itself. The stake will be financial leadership of the metropolis and all that goes with it in the way of power and prestige.

On one side Rockefeller interests with the Case Bank as spearhead. On the other the Morgans battling to hold their place in the sun and still powerful despite rebuffs. The feud between them is due to pass from sniping to a major engagement. You might think the Morgan revelations would have cramped the Chase's style. Not at all. Aldrich's finale to the Chase hearing is planned to leave a sweeter taste in Washington mouths and so fling a hot gauntlet in the teeth of New York's financial overlords.

FREE WHEELING IN THE TUBERCULOSIS MOVEMENT

By Dr. H. E. Kleinschmidt, Director, Health Education National Tuberculosis Association.

Steadily, for more than a quarter of a century, the number of deaths from tuberculosis has grown less. In 1900 the death rate from this disease was 202 per 100,000 population. This rate has declined on an average of about 4-1-2 points each year so that in 1930 the rate was 71 per 100,000 population. Until the beginning of the depression this favorable trend was attributed by health officers mostly to a steadily rising plane of living and the American people. Other factors, of course, were given due credit, but what could be more logical than to assume that tuberculosis, a disease known for centuries, should decline with the rise in wages, better housing, more abundant food and more leisure time?

But suddenly our prosperity buckled a swing or something and spun off into the most desperate depression this country has ever seen. No wonder that from various quarters one heard the prediction that the tuberculosis death rate would rise. Actually a strange thing has happened. During the four years of depression deaths from this disease have continued to decline. There stands the record of the past four years. It gives us no inkling of what may happen in the future but it is a strange phenomenon. How can we account for it? Have our previous teaching been wrong or is there something unusual about this particular depression?

Of all the explanations offered the one which seems most probable is that the momentum of the tuberculosis movement has been carrying us through just as the free wheeling device on the auto enables the car to speed on for some distance with a minimum consumption of gas. Thirty years ago tuberculosis was permitted to run its course almost unimpeded. Then in 1904 a few courageous doctors dared to challenge the old enemy. That set in motion the popular movement which since then has built in this country more than 600 sanatoria, established diagnostic clinics in nearly every community, mobilized an army of public health nurses and broadcast knowledge about tuberculosis to the remotest corners of the land. Thanks largely to the money derived from the sale of Christmas seals the movement gained power year by year. Once going, even the drastic economics of these recent times could not, apparently, stop the good effects.

How long the tuberculosis movement can continue on free wheeling no one knows. Certainly it can not be indefinitely. In an emergency the American people can do great things. Health departments and sanatoria have continued to function with meager funds. Cheap food, low wages and the loyalty of employees have enabled them to do so. Some doctors and nurses have worked on for nothing more than board and lodging. But that can not go on. Sooner or later sanatoria if not properly supported will have to close their doors. The patients will be thrown back on their helpless communities soon to die. Well people compelled to live with them will be in danger of getting the disease. Without the watchful care of the public health nurse the control of the spreader will relax and more disease will follow. And so with the other measures necessary to keep a controlling hand over tuberculosis. On an up grade free wheeling is no good whatever.

Health is won by long-time planning. Tuberculosis does not kill immediately. Nor can it be kept down by occasional spurts of energy. Only by steady progress can we hope to overcome it.

The object of tuberculosis associations is to keep the tuberculosis machine running—powerfully and smoothly. Least momentum must be regained. The end of the hard journey to the place where every family can be assured of safety against tuberculosis is not yet in sight. If we roll back now our children will have to re-travel much of the hard earned progress won in the past, and in the meantime many of them will sacrifice their lives. Harsh economy must no doubt still be practiced but when health is at stake penny pinching is expensive business and leads only to more expense. A quick pick-up in the order of the present day, Christmas seals stimulate health work of all kinds and furnish the power to carry on the fight against tuberculosis. The campaign is being launched in Big Spring under the direction of Dr. Lee Rogers, chairman of Howard County Health Association.

Facts About Your Chamber Of Commerce

"THIS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE STUFF"

There are three interesting attitudes displayed toward chambers of commerce. First, there are a few people in nearly every community who look upon it as the essence of Rabbitry. Second, there are a considerable number who know that the chamber of commerce is some sort of business organization, but who pay very little attention to it, and really don't care anything about it. Third, there is the group, always limited, who know what the chamber of commerce is, understand its purposes and contribute of their time and means to further the work it is doing.

We used the phrase a moment ago "in nearly every community"—and that itself is significant of the position occupied by the chamber of commerce in this country. Sixty years ago there were not more than 50 chambers of commerce in the country and these were entirely in the large cities. Today there is hardly a town in the United States with a population of over 5000 that does not have a chamber of commerce.

If fifty million Frenchmen can't be wrong, surely a million businessmen of America can not be seriously misguided in their continued support of an organized business movement that has displayed the virility and utility shown by the chamber of commerce movement. The chamber of commerce—not always perfect, sometimes mistaken, but ever zealous and alert to deal with problems that affect the whole community—has come to be an essential institution that merits the support of every forward looking citizen. Big Spring Colorado

Brilliant Runs Big Spring won over Colorado by virtue of two brilliant runs by Hare and Neal in the first quarter and Hare's thrilling 50 yard gallop to score after intercepting Priestor's pass. He shook off two Wolf tacklers and sprinted down the west sideline behind a bevy of interferences.

In Class B Lamesa burst the Matador bubble in convincing fashion, 25-0. Midland found Crane a tough nut to crack and left the field on the little end of a 14-7 score. Roscoe whipped Roby, 13-6, while Snyder was beating Stamford 28-0.

Thanksgiving Grid Clashes Prove Spicy

Thanksgiving Day classics proved out of the most appetizing grid dishes presented football fans in several seasons.

While the Big Spring high school Steers were spanking the Colorado Wolves 12-0, San Angelo Bobcats were battering the dope bucket in soundly whipping the Sweetwater Mustangs, Kingfishes of District 3, 12-0.

It was a big day's work for the Bobcats of Harry Taylor, and presumably brought them the district crown. But San Angelo pulled what seemed an ace on the Mustangs before the game in producing what a Bobcat authority believed irrefutable evidence that Captain Holbert of Sweetwater was ineligible.

San Angelo then over the game, and authority decided to drop the matter. However, the ace turned out to be a joker because Big Spring has an iron in the fire.

The district duds will see the matter through in a meeting here Saturday evening when a district champion is certified. San Angelo may go unquestioned with the crown, or a flip of a coin may settle the dispute over the title.

Ahlens left no doubt as to who is the Oil-belt champion by outplaying Cisco 20-0 for the flag. It was Frank Cogdell, Eagle halfback, who brought defeat to the Lobos.

His remarkable snatching of passes brought Ahlens her first two touchdowns. Each time he effected seemingly impossible catches and raced once 32 and another time 5 yards to score. A Lobo fumble and two successive smashes at the line accounted for the remaining counter.

Ranger recovered from the shock of having been ruled out of the district race sufficiently to score one touchdown against the stubbornly fighting Breckenridge Bucks.

Wichita Falls Coyotes raced to a 38-0 victory over Electra for the District 5 crown and the right to meet Highland Park of Dallas in bi-district play. The Dallasites beat Sherman 19-0.

By losing out to a stubborn Cleburne eleven, Corsicana stayed in the District 11 race. The Tigers' 19-13 win enabled them to meet Waco Saturday night in Waco for the title.

Greenville won the District 9 championship by smothering Marshall under an avalanche of touchdowns, 38-0. Greenville will tangle with Tylar for the bi-district championship.

Brownsville won the 16A pennant with a hard-fought 12-6 victory over Harlingen. The Eagles will meet Corpus Christi in a bi-district scramble.

Port Arthur beat the Royal Purple of Beaumont a football lesson, 18-0, to win the District 14 flag.

Children Form Greatest Asset Of Nation, Declares Director Of Education For Child Health

By Louis Strachan, Director, Child Health Education, National Tuberculosis Assn.

We have been told countless times since 1900 that this Twentieth Century is "the Century of the Child." When we come to analyze that claim we find it would be nearer the truth to say that in this twentieth century we have discovered the child, and that the home, the school, and the community in which the child lives and moves and as his being, have each felt a new sense of responsibility, and have had a new vision of their assets and liabilities, in relationship to the lives of the children within their midst.

Early in this twentieth century, the National Tuberculosis Association was founded. In those days very little was known about tuberculosis in children; the urgent need that faced the association then was the provision of hospital beds for the grownups suffering with tuberculosis, and nursing service to care for those who were forced to remain in their homes. Today we know that there is a very serious tuberculosis problem in childhood. It is estimated that in 25 out of every hundred children in this country tuberculosis infection is present. Thousands of these children are apparently in the best of health; no physical signs of the disease have put in an appearance. The only way to find out whether or not infection exists, is to administer the tuberculin test, a harmless skin test—our great tuberculosis detective! The children who react positively to this test are then X-rayed to find out the degree of infection that has taken place and those who need it are given the benefits of protective care. All that the watchful care of the doctor, a little extra rest, and extra feeding, some of them, just rest and the watchful care of the doctor. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" is an old adage with which we are all familiar, and yet so frequently we do not follow its sound advice!

The discovery and care of these children is one of the important activities of tuberculosis associations.

Whatever else the voters may have on their minds, they at least sent a roll of thunder crackling along the horizon in the recent municipal elections...

No one party and no one issue triumphed. Instead, it seems that the electorate arose once more with blood in its eye and swung a heavy club.

New York gave Tammany Hall a terrific defeat. Pittsburgh elected a democratic mayor and Cleveland elected a republican.

In addition, the 18th amendment got its final blow and within a month it will have ceased to be law.

What does it all mean? Chiefly, it means that the voters still are on the warpath.

The profound dissatisfaction which blew the lid off a year ago has not died down. People are tired of empty promises and mediocre performance.

For the municipal elections simply reaffirm a temper that was made evident a year ago. There is a grim earnestness to this temper that no one can fall to notice.

It rather looks as if the American people are perfectly willing to go out of their way to trade only with dealers who fly the Blue Eagle.

Double-Barred Cross Of Christmas Seal Has Interesting Background

The history of the double-barred cross, which is now the emblem of the world-wide tuberculosis movement, goes away back to about three hundred years after the time of Christ.

Later all this region passed into the hands of the Mohammedans. In the eleventh century the Christian nations such as France and England organized expeditions known as "The Crusades," to recover the Holy Land from the Mohammedans.

When he fought his way through to Jerusalem he saw the double barred cross. He liked it and adopted it as his emblem.

During the world war one of the divisions of the American Army which was quartered in that part of France took the Lorraine Cross as its insignia.

In 1906 the National Tuberculosis Association adopted the double-barred cross as the symbol of the campaign against tuberculosis.

In 1913, finding that some people drew the cross one way and some another, the national association set up certain rules so that all tuberculosis crosses would be exactly alike.

Every Christmas Seal bears this symbol. This is one way in which the anti-tuberculosis Christmas Seals can be told from commercial seals and other seals.

Boxing-Wrestling Mogul Says Stalling And Rough Stuff Must Be Stopped

AUSTIN (UP).—State boxing and Wrestling Commissioner Jack Flynn instructed inspectors to end "stalling" by boxers and "rough stuff" by wrestlers.

"We have too many referees who do not know what it is all about," Flynn wrote the inspectors. "There is entirely too much stalling and hanging-on on the part of some of the boxers, not only in preliminaries but in semi-finals and finals."

He called for referees "big enough to throw boxes out of the ring or disqualify them if they do not try to fight."

President To Speak

Nat. M. Washer, president of the State Board of Education, will speak to the teachers of Texas at their fifty-fifth annual convention in Austin, November 30-December 2.

Oldsters Cry, Then Laugh As They See Play

They laughed; they cried; they laughed some more—the 200-odd oldsters who were willing to admit they were 60 or over in order to attend the matinee party given for them Saturday morning at the Ritz Theatre by J. Y. Robb and the theater management.

The picture was "A Lady For a Day," with May Robson in the star role. The comedy was Walt Disney's nationally famous "Three Little Pigs" a story that these guests had told their children and grandchildren many times over. In short it was a perfect form of entertainment.

Most of the guests were men. They enjoyed the trials of Apple Annie, the mother-chorine, no less than the women. And they laughed at the jiggling pig trying dance on a ladder with a fiddle in one hand.

When they left the theater there was not one word of criticism. Nobody could remember when he or she had seen a better show; it made you feel good all over; it was a picture you wanted all your friends to see; and wasn't May Robson perfect? The men didn't comment so much but they had the same sort of expressions on their faces and it didn't take a mind reader to know they were equally stirred.

Oil Workers Organizer To Appear Here

G. H. Runyan, representative from the International Association of Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers, has called a meeting of workers in the petroleum industry Monday 7:30 p. m. in the court-house.

Runyan will speak in behalf of organizing a local for workers here "take advantage of collective bargaining as set forth by the National Recovery Act."

A local is to be organized at Colorado December 1, he said, after a meeting in that city.

He is organizing this district for the association, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

Theodore Rahuts, dine-and-dance place proprietor of Gary, Ind., lost his Blue Eagle on October 6, after it was charged that his wage scales and working schedules did not conform to the NRA demand.

Rahuts went to the compliance board, demonstrated finally that he was paying more than the minimum allowed, and got his Blue Eagle back.

He had operated without it for just one month. And during that month, he says, his business fell off 50 per cent. As he put up anew the six Blue Eagles that decorate his windows, he said, "Oh, boy, am I glad to have 'em back!"

Announcement:

Under the Bankers' Code as adopted and approved by the President it is necessary for the banks in each district to agree upon, and adopt, a uniform schedule of Service Charges. The three banks in Big Spring in conformity with this requirement have adopted Service Charges according to the schedules that follow.

THIS SCHEDULE GOES INTO EFFECT DECEMBER 1st, 1933

1. Active Accounts

(a) Accounts with average daily balances below and including $50.00, with 5 checks or less, a minimum monthly service charge of 50 cents; each check in addition to the 5 free checks, 3 cents. Balance of $50.00 and under, with only one check per month, not considered active, and are exempt from 50 cent service charge.

(b) Accounts with average daily balance above $50.00, and not over $100.00, 1 check free for each $10.00 balance; each check in addition to the free checks, 3 cents, with minimum charge of 50 cents for additional checks. (NOTE: Non-taxable counter receipts are counted as checks).

Exceptions. Accounts of Churches, Lodges, Municipalities, and Charitable Organizations. Debits covering amount due will be made on or after the 18th of each month.

(NOTE: As the above schedules permit one free check against balances of less than $50.00, we feel many of our customers by observing this provision will benefit thereby as our old schedule, now in operation, provides for a service charge on all accounts averaging less than $50.00 that are checked upon).

2. Large accounts of much activity will be analyzed according to a uniform schedule suggested by the Bankers' Association and unless compensating balances are carried in these accounts, a fair charge will be made for handling them.

3. Bill of Lading, etc.

On each outgoing draft, with or without bill of lading attached, representing sale of produce, cotton and sundry products, a minimum charge of 25 cents per $100.00 to carry item for eight days, then additional charge to equal exchange, covering time exceeding eight days.

4. Non-depositors

On all out-of-town items cashed for non-depositors, a minimum rate of 25 cents per $100.00. Minimum charge for handling any item, 10 cents—except that drafts or checks issued in quantities for small amounts, such as cream checks or drafts, may be handled for a minimum of 3 cents per item for amount of $5.00 or less and 5 cents up to $20.00 and one-fourth of 1% above that amount.

5. N. S. F. Charges

A minimum charge of 25 cents for each check drawn against a checking account and returned because of insufficient funds.

6. Overdrafts

Where one or more checks per day are paid against overdrafts, a minimum charge of 50 cents, plus interest for time O. D. is allowed to remain. (Note: optional with banks).

7. Past Due Notices

For each past due note notice, minimum charge of 25 cents.

8. Collections—to and from outside points

(a) Drafts. 25 cents per $100.00, minimum charge of 25 cents. Items may be returned without attention unless accompanied by 25 cents presentation fee.

(b) Bill of Lading, Drafts. 25 cents per $100.00, with minimum charge of 25 cents.

(c) Notes. 25 cents per $100.00 with minimum of 25 cents, from non-depositors. On installment notes and contracts, each payment considered complete transaction.

9. Credit Service Charges
