A Chance For Real Service

The so-called "Monopoly" committee in Washington is currently preparing to turn its attention to another question which, it is claimed, puzzles many government economists. The committee wonders why, with billions of dollars of idle savings in the banks, investment in private enterprises has been so sluggish in this country.

In the particular case under consideration, it isn't exactly in the nature of guesswork to hazard an answer before the committee even gets to work on the question. Surveys of investors during the past few months have produced reasons for non-investment that make all-too-good sense to unbiased observers.

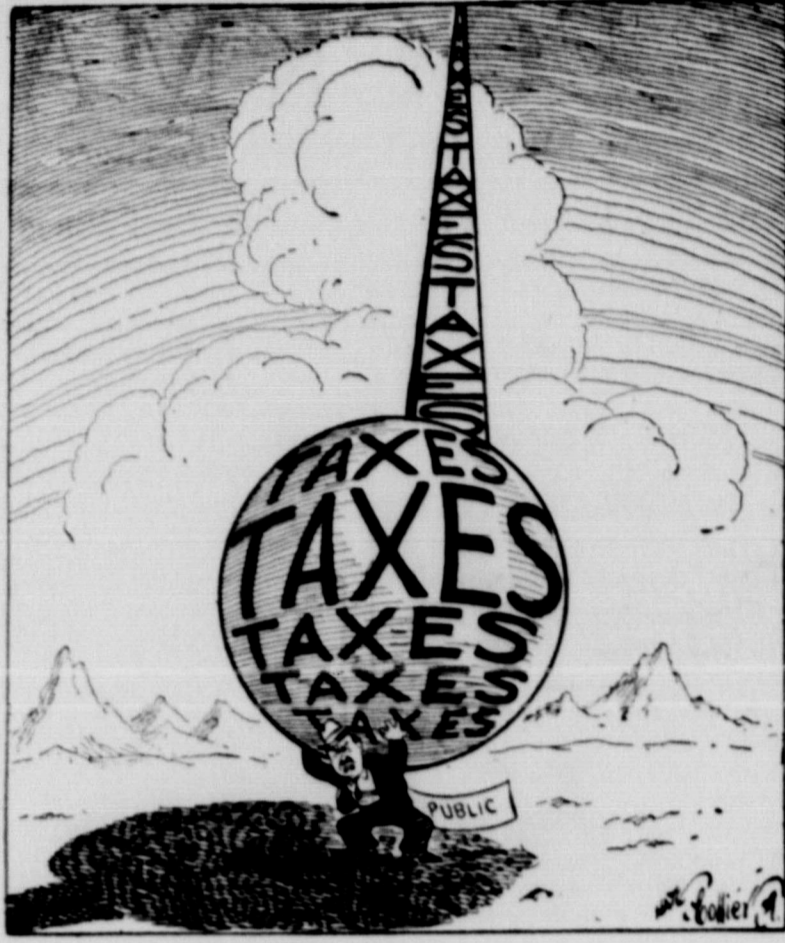

Investors who have the money have maintained in answering these surveys that they aren't putting their funds to work productively because they fear governmental action on two fronts: legislation and taxation. The large majority say that they are worried over existing laws and existing taxes harmful to business, and just as much concerned about the possibility of future laws and taxes.

If Senator O'Mahoney and his probing colleagues dramatize these truths for public and official attention, they will perform an invaluable service for the nation. If, however, the real reasons for non-investment are not made clear, the committee will merely have added a few more closely-printed pages of testimony to government's sum total of words without constructive action.

THE WORLD OF TOMORROW (?)

Deserving "Dan"

"Uncle Dan" Roper wasn't out of a political job for long. Nor has he been off the pay roll, except during one horrible interlude when the Republicans turned him down, since that day 37 years ago when he entered the Legislature in his native state of South Carolina. Daniel Calhoun Roper seems to have what it takes, his latest feat of legerdemain being recorded when he pulled a rabbit from his hat in the form of a presidential nomination as United States Minister to Canada. "Uncle Dan" was a mere youth in 1892 when he started his political marathoning. He was elected to the state legislature, served two years and then went to Washington as clerk of the Senate committee on interstate commerce. He shifted from there to the Census Bureau and in 1913 was appointed First Assistant Postmaster general. In 1917 he was named Collector of Internal Revenue, but resigned three years later to practice law in Washington, such employment coinciding with a Republican administration which didn't need his services. But in 1933 he was back again, this time with the appointment as secretary of commerce, a post he held "in splendid isolation" until he resigned last December to make way for Harry Hopkins. Now he bobs up with the Canadian assignment. This is not to say that Mr. Roper has not been a worthy public servant. His tenure of the commerce post was his only unfortunate experience, then only because the President employed him merely as a vocal Pollyanna to tell the world that prosperity had turned the corner when facts were quite the contrary. Residence in Ottawa in an environment of flattering dignity and of not too onerous responsibility should help him forget the doleful days. Political loyalty, like other virtues, has its own rewards.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Icing the Dose

Thanks to information in a report by Dr. Harold Tangl, University of Budapest lecturer, the Journal of the American Medical Association has been enabled to advise members of the fraternity how to instruct patients who shrink from ill-tasting doses. Briefly the method is—rub the tongue with ice and gulp. Time out of mind physicians have argued, cajoled and almost threatened ailing persons who take a long whiff through the nose or a tiny taste through the lips and resign themselves to their pains rather than swallow the prescribed dosage. A genius invented sugar and chocolate covered pills, and there are many shapes of capsules to help patients who stare at a spoonful of something good for them, but hard to take. Many concoctions are camouflaged by flavors good enough for candy, but a patient only slightly ailing can taste right through them. There are two general classes of dose-takers. Some try to sneak it past their tongue in little trickles, suffering less displeasure per moment, but continuing the face-making ordeal longer. Some, without benefit of ice, go at it heroically and get it over with in one gulp. The latter are half-right.—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

How Much Longer?

After six years, an emergency gets pretty tiresome to people without political jobs.—Toledo Blade.

Hear and See All

It is marvelous to watch this new generation that does its home lessons of an evening, with the radio buzzing in its left ear; and still more marvelous that so many of our young seem to do creditably in school, according to their reports, and still lose neither the thread of half a dozen dynamic serials nor a syllable of Charlie McCarthy. It inclines one to a view that this next generation has not one consciousness, but two, the one reached through the eye, the other by way of the ear, and each absorbing, digesting and retaining, independently of the other. Their elders, brought up in a simpler day, can assimilate the printed page, or radio's spoken word, but not at one time. Faint music, perhaps, as an obligato to one's newspaper or a bridge game, but not a second line of thought that the radio drama or comedy program provides. Television is here, and will, of course, be the supreme test of the multiple receptivity of the high school mind. Just now, it is hard to see how the student at home can keep an eye on a moving picture and another on the algebra examples, and do justice to both. With his ears and eyes occupied, another of his remaining three senses must be brought into play, and presumably it would be that of touch. The only solution we see from here is textbooks in Braille, not exclusively for the blind, but also for our much occupied young scholars in the evening.—Detroit News.

In the Right Direction

A congressional committee has concluded an exhaustive study of the social security taxing system and has made several commendable recommendations for changes.

One of the recommendations vitality affects the pay envelopes of more than 30 million workers, for it concerns the amount of taxes that are extracted from wages. At present workers have 1 per cent of all their earnings turned over to the government for a so-called social security fund even before the wages are paid. And the present law calls for an increase in that rate next January 1, to be followed by additional increases until the tax reaches 3 per cent.

On this point, the committee has recommended that the 1 per cent rate be "frozen" for the time being, and any increase be postponed until 1943.

This action is a wholesome indication that some congressmen, at least, are becoming aware of the dangers of too heavy taxation, which takes purchasing power out of the hands of the public. It is to be hoped that the house and senate will approve these recommendations, but it is to be hoped even more that revision of the existing system will not stop there.

The farmer, the industrial worker, the housewife and the businessman are burdened with unprecedented taxes that have been levied to pay the extreme high cost of running the present complicated federal government. Until this tax burden can be lightened—and the expenses of government reduced—there is little hope of a real recovery.

Behind The Scenes In American Business
By John Craddock

NEW YORK, May 15.—BUSINESS—Settlement of the controversy between operators and miners of bituminous coal, which caused a six weeks' shutdown, brought a deep sigh of relief to the business world last week. A more optimistic viewpoint on business prospects for the summer months was expressed in many quarters, by retailers, salesmen, manufacturers, and professional economists. Because it will mean increased purchasing power in rural areas, the recent upward trend of commodity prices was seen as a forerunner of livelier trade activity. So far, wheat, oats, tin, cotton, silk and soy beans have touched new 1939 highs. In industry, purchasing agents are relaxing their extremely cautious buying policies of last month when European tension was at a peak. Gasoline sales and prices are rising. New orders for lumber are exceeding production. Cigarette consumption is gaining. Heavy airline traffic this spring may encourage the opening of more routes soon. One such project being considered is a line between Kansas City and New Orleans which Kansas City Southern Railway would operate.

Non-Stop Air Mail Service Inaugurated

Non-stop delivery and pickup airmail service was inaugurated last Friday for 55 towns between Wilmington, Del., Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and through Ohio and West Virginia. Above photo, taken at Catesville, Pa., shows how mail is picked up with a grapple as it hangs in a bag suspended on a free rope between two 40-foot poles.

brush which is inserted into the revolving handpiece . . . Increasing demand for sweet potato starch as result of aggressive research and promotion work of national farm chemurgic council of Columbus, Ohio. . . Sale of sheet music by drug stores . . . A new low-priced adding machine said to have 2,000 less parts than conventional models and weighing well under six pounds . . . A minnow trap made of a material called lumarit that is so invisible under water fish are in it and trapped before they know it . . . Virtual elimination of open backs and sharp reduction in number of open toe models in women's fall shoes.

GROCERIES—Sharp increases as reported by both chain and independent stores in retail sales of grocery products, unusual in this industry where demand is highly inelastic since people eat about the same quantity of food every day. Trade leaders credit the rise to aggregate selling methods arising from so-called producer-consumer campaign. So far this year there have been campaigns to sell more oranges, butter, eggs, dried fruit, beans and canned peas, crops in which large surpluses overhanging the market threatened ruination for growers. Based on the original success in 1936 of 37,000 chain stores in moving a surplus of California peaches which had forced growers' prices below the cost of production to $15 a ton, these drives to bring producers and consumers closer together have been increasing in frequency and scope. Organized on a nation-wide basis by growers' representatives and chain stores, cooperation of independent dealers in these drives is always sought too. The next producer-consumer campaign gets underway for dairy products June 1.

AUTO SALES—How much business has improved this year is indicated by automobile factory sales. In the first four months 1,414,776 cars were sold, a gain of 56 per cent over the period in 1938. These auto dollars trickle into the hands of hundreds of producers, bringing many regions a bit nearer to prosperity. For example, auto makers buy $1,000,000 worth of diamonds a year for drilling and grinding metal. One plant uses 2 1/2 bars or soap and a gallon of liquid soap for every 10 cars made. It takes five Angora goats to provide enough mohair for the average sedan. About 500 pounds of sand is used in the molds made for casting each automobile engine block. The rag man gets a break too, one plant alone buying 120,000 yards of gauze and 1,200 pounds of ticking annually for washing and polishing cars.

HEADLINES IN NEW YORK—Heavy construction rises 25 per cent in April over '38 month . . . Military preparations spur new developments in aircraft engines . . . Steel prices reduced in Detroit area . . . Santa Fe believed likely to resume regular dividend on preferred stock . . . Net income for utilities this quarter may reach 8-year peak . . . April fertilizer sales up 19 per cent over year ago . . . Reductions made on war risk insurance rates for American cargoes . . . Chicago grain prices soar as five local elevators containing 4,000,000 bushels are destroyed by fire . . . Long term mortgage homes favored by speakers at National Association of Mutual Savings Banks' convention.

REAL CONCERN

"I admire Dr. Thomas immensely," said Mrs. Jinks. "He's so persevering in the face of difficulties that he always reminds me of patience sitting on a monument." "Yes," replied the husband, "but what I'm becoming rather alarmed about is the number of monuments sitting on his patients."

Relief For Hay Fever Sufferers Promised by U. T.

AUSTIN, May 17.—University of Texas biologists have found a new way to bring relief to hay fever and asthma sufferers.

Molds—minute organisms flying around in the air, particularly in common house dust—have been found to be a cause of hay fever, asthma and other respiratory allergies almost to the degree of pollen, arch enemy of the hay fever victim.

Dr. Marie B. Morrow and E. P. Lowe of the University, and Dr. Homer Prince of Houston, former staff member of the University School of Medicine at Galveston, have the cooperation of 21 allergy specialists in ten states in the use of the mold extracts they make for therapeutic treatment.

Each cooperating physician collects specimens of molds in his locality and forwards them to the university laboratory.

Isolating each variety, Miss Morrow and Lowe the specimens in culture, identify them, produce large quantities, and dry and store them. They send some of the stock to Dr. Prince in Houston, who prepares extracts and send them to the cooperating physician. He in turn uses them for both skin tests and therapeutic treatment.

in a bind fog. My eyes won't focus and my brain refuses to function on any one thing long enough for me to do it. My brain just rambles, and I stumble around, trying to follow it. It's virtually impossible for me to remember what I got up for.

Sometimes, I can't remember at all. That always makes me feel better. Because then I can go back to bed with a clear conscience and sleep awhile longer.

I gain nothing by this, of course. For I've still got to get up. But those moments in bed after one awakens and knows he should be getting up are incomparable bliss. You know how it is. A stolen watermelon always tastes sweeter.

But, eventually, I have to come out of it. It's the conventional thing to do. And for the same reason, I must wander about, befuddled of brain, searching for torturous implements of toilet.

Did you ever try to shave with a toothpaste lather on your face. Did you ever brush your teeth with shaving cream? Did you ever come to yourself, using your only clean shirt as a bath towel?

If not, you have no way of understanding the cold, sullen rage that besets me on awakening, after having been up and prowled about the house for some 30 minutes.

I hate people at that time of the day. I hate their customs and conventions that demand that I look at and scrape the same unbeautiful and sleep-wrinkled face every morning. I hate myself. I hate the world. I—Well, I'm just hard to get along with when I get up in the mornings.

And nothing makes me madder than for some imbecile in the next apartment to bounce out of his bed into the middle of the floor, where he starts doing his getting-up exercises to a vigorous "Hum! Two, Three, Four!" cracking brawny muscles and joints until they can be heard all over the house, then winding up with a sprint down the hall to the bathroom, where he sings and splashes water and lets the whole world know that he's feeling like a million new and shiny dollars, fresh off the mint.

I don't feel that way in the mornings. I feel all down and out and just barely do give a damn. And some morning I'll lose my ragged temper and set out to waylay some noisy bathroom songster and forget who I'm about to murder and hit myself over the head with the boot I've carried along to use as an instrument of death.

I wish mornings never did come.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Peters were in Dallas this week.

Woman: "Your Honor, my relations have always been pleasant it is his relations that are the old grouches."

"Have you a letter opener?"

"Yes, my wife."

Newsman View New Low Priced Car

A new low-priced, two-cylinder car, designed for a top speed of 50 miles per hour and a fuel consumption of 50 miles to the gallon, was recently previewed by newspaper men at the Indianapolis speedway. The car, which will sell for a $350 top price, is only 16 feet long, weighs 525 pounds, has a gas tank of four-gallon capacity and the crankcase holds only two quarts of oil. The engine is of a light aviation four-cylinder type, while an aviation-type suction blower, part of the flywheel, provides air cooling.

From Shanghai to Texas Greetings Across the World

There's nothing like an amateur radio station to cure homesickness, especially if one has come all the way from Shanghai to Texas State College for Women. These two girls from China, Misses Jacqueline Terry and Alice Bryan, find that it's a simple process to radio a message to the folks at home and hear from them the next day. Any student in the college can send messages to receivers in all parts of the world, and Amateur Operator Travis Tittle reports a rushing business.

Artificial Flies for the Nation's Critical Anglers

With the old-fashioned worm fishing becoming a thing of the past, thousands of fishermen are using various kinds of flies to attract their prey. Here workers are busy in a Freeport, Maine, factory, one of the country's largest, turning out flies made from the feathers of bright-colored birds imported from all parts of the world. The feathers must be correct as to color, size and weight for the fish they are meant to lure. Feathers shown include peacock, ostrich, kingfisher, African jungle cock, Mexican macaw and game cock feathers.

Capitol Comments

By Nugent Ezekial Brown

AUSTIN, May 17 (Special).—Sunday was Mother's Day—and it was a big day in the Hall of the House of Representatives! Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, in a great tribute to our mothers, delivered in that incomparable radio style of the chief executive, was greeted by an overflowing crowd of people from many towns scattered over the state, particularly throughout central Texas. So long as our civilization honors our mothers, just that long will we be great.

Departmental Appropriations. The house began work only last Friday on the 308-page bill for departmental running expenses of the state, which totals over 29 millions. Even with this big total, an average reduction of about 10 per cent was made in most of the higher salaries. Many department heads were scrambling over the week to get to friends in the house who would help them back a raise here and there. Agricultural Commissioner J. E. McDonald's salary was cut by the committee from $4200 to $3600 but was raised back in debate and action on the floor Friday afternoon. This will set a precedent that will likely be hard to overcome.

The department of labor does not and will not attempt influence legislation nor guide appropriations. They say "the legislature makes the law and furnishes the money—we carry out those laws." The labor department was expected to be given a duplicate of the appropriation of two years ago, causing many to believe that the best politics now is not to play politics at all but trust to the fairness of those who make the laws. The attitude of this department is certainly refreshing as practically all other departments were busy over the weekend putting pressure on members to help boost their appropriation in the face of a policy of rigid economy.

Hard-Working Legislators. This session of the 46th legislature, soon to end, will go down in history as one of the hardest-working groups ever assembled in the capitol for legislative purposes. The average citizen must remember one thing before passing censure too quickly on the members; and that is, working out a tax plan that will raise 20 to 30 million dollars extra is one of the biggest problems ever faced by any legislature. Failure of the S. J. R. sales tax-natural resources resolution to get the required 100 votes in the house last week does not mean that the majority of the members are not trying to get a tax bill through. In fact, the house now has two more tax bills for consideration, brought out of committee Thursday. The senate is expected to be forced to consider a purely tax bill before the session is brought to a close. Although the members now work for $5 per day, yet they will likely stay two or three more weeks in an attempt to work out the big problem of paying the social security obligations.

Big Bend Park Bill Signed. The Big Bend park bill, to enable sponsors to set up a plan to buy needed acreage whereby the park may be offered the national park service, was signed by the governor last week in the presence of Senator Winfield, Representative Cauthorn and others. This plan, it is believed, will bring into realization the greatest playground park of the whole southwest. Incidentally, it will be near the great McDonald Observatory which was dedicated a few days ago at its location in the Davis mountains. And the appropriations for all state parks will include salaries for keepers of all of them, very essential to proper maintenance of our growing system of parks.

Loan Sharks Still In Open. No bill regulating loan sharks had yet come before the house at end of the week. It begins to look as though some unaccountable delay is being experienced on this subject. It is well known that the loan shark crowd has plenty of money (blood money) which has been spent on high-powered lobbyists to get such bills delayed. Members were warned this week to look out for a joker in an amendment to a loan shark bill which is being held in readiness if and when the matter comes up in the next few days. The joker is that "loan brokers" would be exempt from the bill to regulate loan sharks.

Short Shorts. Heads of state teachers colleges mingled with others in Austin over the weekend, hoping for last minute additions to their appropriations. At this weekend, nothing further had been done toward enacting the board of public welfare bill into law and nothing further had been done to "clean" out the present administration of the old age setup here. Marvin Hall, the state fire insurance commissioner, keeps sending out press releases about certain towns having their insurance rates reduced; we wonder why he doesn't also send out reports on those towns which have their rates raised now and then. One Navarro county representative James E. Taylor of Karnes brought the charges against the pensions union director a few days ago, then another Navarro county representative, Mr. Pevchman, went on the bond of Jan Anderson to get him released from jail. Editor Meister in his Youkman Herald calls attention to the fact that members of the senate and house have "reserved" parking spaces about the capitol building. Just let your readers know, Mr. Meister, there is no law to keep you or anyone from parking in those same "reserved" spaces. The "cops" on duty will admit they have no authority to stop you.

OUT, PROBABLY. Sally—When you refused him your consent, Dad, did he go down on his knees? Dad—I didn't notice where he lit.

All of the essentials of comfortable living are embodied in this home which was valued at $4,000 by the Federal Housing Administration and built with the aid of a $3,500 insured mortgage. ### Now Is Time To Repair Fireplace Warm weather is the time for the home owner to consider his fireplace, even though the temperature may lessen his interest in anything that creates more heat.

Late spring and summer, when the fireplace is not being used, are excellent times to correct any faults. If a fireplace smokes consistently, it should be examined. Unless there is a hill or clump of trees higher than the chimney causing a down draft when the wind approaches from that direction, the situation can be remedied.

Some of the causes of a smoking fireplace are a flue that is too small, one that has not been started directly over the center of the fireplace, or one that contains sharp turns clogged with lumps of mortar. Other possible causes are too high an opening, no smoke shelf, an inadequate smoke chamber, a damper that does not fit the opening, or a chimney not high enough to clear the top roof ridge.

CEDAR CLOSETS

A properly constructed cedar closet affords adequate protection against one of summer's unwelcome guests—the moth.

Winter blankets, furs, clothing, and other articles subject to the ravages of this pest may be safely stored in cedar closets.

The entire surface of the closet, including the inside of the door, should be covered with three-eighths of an inch of aromatic cedar lining. It is preferable to line the floor with 13-16th of an inch, but three-eighths-inch can be used. The door should be tight fitting and close against felt gaskets. The lining may be placed directly over plaster if care is exercised in nailing it to the studding. Face nailing is suggested, but blind nailing may be used if desired.

The corners should be fitted with quarter-round cedar molding. Cedar shelving may also be used with added effect. The more aromatic wood employed, the better the check against moths. A further precaution is to clean any article thoroughly before storing.

Work Is Used To Give French Effect

The quaint charm of New Orleans and Mobile homes may be easily recaptured by persons modernizing old houses through the use of cast iron second floor verandas and other ornamental ironwork.

Attractive designs which authentically reflect the old French influence are now being offered for sale and may be obtained to meet practically any specification. Models are manufactured for use on both large and small homes. Many old homes are architectural masterpieces adaptable to the New Orleans design, and, by adding a cast iron veranda and making other changes, it is often possible to achieve the effect at comparatively little cost.

TESTS FOR SOUNDNESS

Alternate wet and dry conditions tend to render unsound the structural and other wooden members in a building.

The ends of joists embedded in masonry foundation wall may become unsound if the walls of the basement are damp and poorly ventilated.

As a result of a leak in the roof eaves, similar damage to other parts of the building may occur, such as loosened or deteriorated siding.

A simple test will help determine whether structural reinforcements are necessary; the wood may be tested by jabbing it with the point of a penknife. If it is soft and spongy or very brittle, it is likely repairs are necessary, promptly. Badly deteriorated parts should be replaced and the basement of the building should be kept properly ventilated to prevent further deterioration.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q. Will cutting additional windows in an old house weaken the walls?
A. Not necessarily. It will depend greatly upon where the windows are to be placed and what structural members are affected. Care should be exercised to see that no bracing members are cut if so, that adequate substitute reinforcement is installed. Where studs are removed, bridging must be provided over the opening and additional studs installed at the sides of the opening to carry the load adequately.

Q. What causes mold to form in cellars, and what will get rid of it?

A. Mold comes from excessive dampness and lack of proper ventilation. Open the windows night and day during fair weather and keep them closed during warm weather or rainy spells.

Q. What is considered ample closet space?

A. A minimum of one closet for each bedroom should be provided, as well as an entrance coat closet and a closet for cleaning equipment. In addition, there should be linen closets and kitchen closet storage space.

Hitler Takes One-Day Census

The first definite check on Jewish emigration from Germany will be supplied from statistics collected in the Reich's one-day census last Wednesday, May 17. About 750,000 volunteer workers canvassed 22,000,000 households, 3,500,000 farms and 5,500,000 business places, also checking employment and business conditions. Family statistics as finally completed will reveal duration of marriages and, for the first time, "Aryan" and "non-Aryan" origin, as well as religion. The census will thus for the first time reveal the number of potential emigrants from Greater Germany.

sion of May 10, 1893. On that date the commissioners recorded the following order:

"It is ordered by the Court that whereas County Judge Chas. E. Davidson requests permission to be absent from the county on a bridal tour and it being the wish of this court to discourage celibacy and to encourage matrimony, it is ordered by this court that said request be and the same is hereby granted."

The roster of commissioners at that time included the names of M. S. Westbrook, L. B. Cox, Calvin Graham and F. M. Boykin. John C. Perry was the county's sheriff and Frank Olney the county clerk.

The marriage took place in what was then the school house, with the Rev. L. B. Lovelace, minister of the Methodist church, officiating. Bridesmaids were Misses Mary Bryant and Mary Brockman and the best men Ned Friend and Prof. E. W. Martin. The little flower girls who dropped rose petals in the path of the bride were the little Miss Alice Odom, now Mrs. Bright Baggett, and Miss Nell Henderson, the late Mrs. P. L. Childress. Others in the wedding party were Misses Beulah Hammons and Katie Noyes.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Ozona Hotel, and the newlyweds left on a wedding trip, the first two days of which were consumed in journeying to the distant city of San Angelo.

The Prof. E. W. Martin who was one of the men in the wedding party was the father of Miss Margaret Martin, now teaching in the Ozona schools, and the minister who performed the ceremony, Rev. L. B. Lovelace, was the grandfather of Boyd Lovelace, who recently moved to Ozona as salesman for the West Texas Utilities Co.

Ten Saddles Stolen From Eldorado Ranch

Officers had made very little progress in the investigation of the theft of ten saddles taken Monday night from the Rector Henderson ranch northwest of here, according to a report from sheriff O. E. Conner, Wednesday.

Schleicher county officers are joined by Texas Rangers Levi Duncan and R. E. McWilliams in search of the guilty persons. It is thought that more than a single individual is involved, presumably someone familiar with the ranch.—Eldorado Success.
