ONE THING and THEN ANOTHER
By FRED GIPSON

SAN ANGELO.—It is in the wee dead hours of the night when I wake up, and I've got a dirty taste in my mouth, like maybe I'd been sleeping with it open and some wet rats had crawled in and bedded up. And my frame of mind is dirtier.

And way off out yonder somewhere, an old hound dog howls a mournful song to the blackened outdoors. And when an old hound dog howls like that, I'm always depressed. And I immediately start thinking.

I think of old and bitter loves, long gone now, married and with children. I think of young and more bitter loves, washed up, yet still vivid in my mind. I think of loves I've laughed at and passed up, while seeking the non-existent Great Love.

I think of the time I accidentally shoved a rock off the stone fence at home and it fell on my little sister's hand and made the blood come and Papa got mad and wore out a peach sprout on the seat of my pants, while I howled and tried to tell him I didn't mean to do it.

And I think of that bicycle Mama never would let me buy. And I think of what a hard go I had of it in school, working too many hours, trying to make a living, so I could attend classes I never had a chance to study for. And I think of my unfulfilled longing for travel.

Miss McKissack To Get County Subsidy Check

Court Moves To Keep Available Services Of Nurse

In order that the services of a registered nurse might continue to be made available to residents of Ozona and Crockett county in case of emergency, the Crockett County Commissioners Court in session early this week passed an order for payment from county funds of $30 a month to Miss Zoella McKissack, R. N., in order to make it possible for her to remain in Ozona to continue her practice.

"It appearing to the court that Miss Zoella McKissack, a registered nurse, has been a resident of Ozona for several years and her services have been available to residents of Ozona and Crockett county at current wages for such employment," the court's order read.

"It now appears that while she would like to remain here, the improved health condition of the community has so reduced her income that she may be obliged to move away. It appearing to the court that a resident nurse is desirable that she may be obliged to leave, and that Miss McKissack is an excellent registered nurse, and as an inducement for her to remain in Ozona, the court votes her $30 per month as a premium for her to remain in Ozona." The order was made effective until further action of the court.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wilson and Carroll, Jr., are to leave Friday, for San Angelo, where Mr. Wilson has accepted a position with Concho Drug company.

Prompt Payment Of Tax Bill To Earn Discounts

County Allows State Cuts On County, School Taxes

Through action of its Commissioners Court, Crockett county has caught step with the state in promoting prompt payment of property taxes through the discount system.

Under a law passed by the recent legislature, discounts ranging from 1 to 3 per cent are to be granted for prompt payment of taxes. This act, of course, applied only to the state's share of taxes. But under recent action of the local Commissioners Court, the same discounts are to be granted on prompt payment of county and school taxes.

The discounts are 3 per cent if paid before November 1, 2 per cent if paid before December 1, and 1 per cent if paid before January 1. The discounts do not apply to first half tax payments but do apply in the same order to the second half payment if paid 90, 60 or 30 days before the final due date, June 30.

County To Seek Information On Bond Assumption

Court As Committee to Ask Conference With State Board

Puzzling and reported conflicting provisions of the road bond bill, H. B. 688, passed by the recent session of the legislature, came up for attention of the Crockett County Commissioners Court in session Monday, and the court decided to send a committee to Austin in an effort to get more light on the provisions of the act as relates to affairs of this county.

From press reports, the local court stated the case mildly when it wrote in its minutes "it appearing that the bill passed by the last legislature, known as H.B. 688, is more or less ambiguous so far as Crockett county is concerned." A recent Austin dispatch referred to the bond bill as "one of the most ambiguous, unintelligible measures by the recent legislature." "Several sections seem to conflict with one another," the writer said, "and the layman, reading the bill without a lawyer's frills of mind, certainly can't understand what it intends to do. Perhaps Jerry Mann will be able to explain it to the 6,167,000 Texans who do not have a law license."

The law seeks to have the state assume the lateral road bond indebtedness of the various counties of the state in addition to the already assumed bonds for state highways.

Members of the court, Judge Charles E. Davidson, Commissioners Kinser, Owens, Black and Miller, County Surveyor Bill Conklin, and County Clerk George Russell were named as a committee to call on the Board of County and District Road Indebtedness at Austin.

New music including contest, 1940 band, and miscellaneous pieces arrived the first of the week and each department has been practicing daily since then. The director has hopes of getting one or two new bass horns.

Band practice begins at 8 o'clock and lasts until 9 o'clock

On the Bright Side

Propaganda coming in a flood by radio and press releases from the embattled European powers in the present conflict, conflicting announcements of gains and losses, lies that usually emanate from war fronts, keep the American people in somewhat of a daze and becloud the actual happenings in the various action zones.
But a very real fact is apparent to West Texans in the resulting sharp advances in products of the ranches of this section. Seven-cent lambs, 34-cent wool and 50 and 65-cent mohair—and still going up—that's news that West Texas ranchmen know is real.
There's not one in the industry, of course, who does not regret the cause of the rise in prices—the human misery which has and will result from the ambitions and blood lust of a small circle of misguided maniacs. Better would it have been that prices for the products we sell had risen as a result of improved world economic conditions, governments that concentrated their efforts toward betterment of the human lot rather than plunging the world into a holocaust whose disastrous consequences no one yet can predict. Better now that a general rain had strengthened the position of the ranchmen so that prices would rise as a natural economic consequence.
But since nothing would satisfy the power-drunk Nazi regime but war, West Texans can look on the bright side to a well needed and deserved prod toward prosperity.

The president's threatening statement about what this country would do in case of an invasion of Canada seems untimely to say the least. There is now apparent very little threat of an invasion of our neighbor, and until there is, such talk is calculated to be purely inflammatory and a threat to our already precarious position as a neutral.

Do Your Buying At Home!

Europe Lines Up for Second World War

Map shows lineup of nations under present European alliances. Poland, France and the British empire are aligned against Germany in the conflict, with Italy and Russia listed as "doubtful." Spain, hitherto considered pro-Nazi, is expected to remain neutral as a result of the Nazi-Soviet non-aggression pact.

Keep Your Shirt On

The stunning sense of disbelief that invaded the mind of the average American when the headlines screamed WAR was probably, in the long run, the best possible reaction. The European "war of nerves" had been going on for so long that many people in this country were beginning to conclude that it was going to be perpetual. Then, when the shocking blowoff finally came, all Americans found themselves suddenly faced with the painful necessity of adjusting themselves to a whole new world of values. And, from the point of view of the welfare of the United States, which ought to be the first consideration of all real Americans, it is a good idea to suspend judgments and decisions till a very careful and very general inventory is taken.
Observers and the general public are agreed on one thing, at least: if we have the well-being of the American system at heart, we ought to "make haste slowly" in deciding where we stand and what problems we are going to face in the course of the next year or so.
As far as the European war is concerned, no one but a crystal gazer would try to hazard any predictions at the present moment. The free press of this country and its broadcasting facilities, one of the finest examples of the benefits arising from the system of private enterprise, can naturally be depended upon to give us the most truthful possible account of the news, as far as the truth can be sifted from the welter of distortion and downright lying that is usually characteristic of foreign government-controlled sources of "information."
Beyond that, the best advice for Americans at the present juncture is not to believe too much, not to emotionalize too much, and not to lose sight of domestic problems in the excitement of what is happening abroad.

Challenged

What is happening in Europe is seemingly remote from the United States. But it is not a drama unconnected with the fundamentals of American life. The developing concert of totalitarian powers which is threatened; the extending sway of dictatorships over a steadily increasing area, all this is a portent and a warning. No nation espousing democratic principles can pretend indifference to a trend which, for years, now, has been moving steadily against continuation of democratic ideals. The issue, properly seen, is not the sovereignty of Danzig, the status of the Polish Corridor, not even the continued existence of Poland as an independent state. The onward march of party dictatorships, whether they call themselves Nazi, Fascist or Communist, is, as the dictators frankly assert, a menace to the very concept of democracy. The scope and character of that challenge—for America — grows steadily more clear.—Washington Post.

Speaking of propaganda, a radio commentator quoted an unnamed "Republican big wig" as saying that FDR's handling of America's foreign policy since the European war had nullified all the gains made recently by the Republican party on the strength of the domestic policy, and granted that the president's actions had greatly strengthened his chances for a third term. Imagine a politician, "little wig" or "big wig," making such a statement.

Merchandising Hate

Thus far the most interesting findings of the Dies Committee concern the "success story" of William Dudley Pelley. Pelley is chief of an organization called the Silver Shirt Legion. He claims the distinction of being the first man in the United States openly to approve of Adolf Hitler's Nazi anti-Semitic program. The committee hasn't yet succeeded in serving a subpoena on him, and through its investigators and the testimony of other witnesses it has developed a wealth of information about his activities. Pelley has organized racial hatred into a large and lucrative business. He has sold memberships in his anti-Semitic organization. He has sold subscriptions to his Jew-baiting publications. And the money has rolled in—more than $200,000 in the last seven or eight years, according to records studied by the Dies Committee. One thing the committee is still trying to learn is whether Pelley has paid income taxes on all the money. What happens to Pelley is incidental. But the Dies Committee is doing a real service by exposing the mercenary basis of his Silver Shirt movement. This country seems to need such exposures frequently, and we can venture to hope that as a result of them the American people some day will become smart enough not to give their dollars to promoters who have nothing but hatred to sell.—New York World-Telegram.

While you wade through the European propaganda in an effort to sift out the truth, don't overlook the same sort of stuff being fed out by the political parties in this country.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By John Craddock

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—BUSINESS—First American reaction to the European war was a concerted rush to spend money. Orders from all over the country poured into Wall Street pushing stock prices way up. Housewives besieged food stores lugging home large quantities of staples. Wheat, corn, cotton and other agricultural commodities joined in the frantic upswing. Buying of stocks was based on a belief that American industry will receive a strong shot in the arm since America's defense program is certain to be greatly intensified, which would mean big government orders for industry. Excessive buying of foodstuffs occurred largely because of recollections of scarcities and high prices that developed between 1914 and 1918. This is the most ready explanation as there is no actual shortage in any of these necessities of life at present.

SUGAR—Of all foodstuffs, sugar was the major concern of housewives who last week flocked to the stores to buy as a protection against war conditions and rising prices. Some stores, it is reported, had to post signs saying, "No More Sugar." Others, which last week were selling five pounds for 25 cents, marked up the price to 30 and 35 cents a bag. Reassurance was given to consumers, however, by John A. Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company, who told newsmen that instructions had been sent to all of the divisions of the company throughout the United States that the buying policy of the company is to be strictly adhered to, that is: (1) No speculative purchases of any commodity are to be made. (2) Buying, as in the past, must be on the basis of merchandising needs of the company. (3) No retail sales were to be priced above the basis of A & P's normal profit. . . . Meanwhile sugar men insisted that available supplies at refineries are ample to meet requirements. This was backed up by a department of agriculture statement. The retail shortage occurred last week, it was explained, only because wholesale distributing channels were temporarily unable to cope with the suddenly increased demand.

FACTS AND FORECAST.—Revealing glimpse of the way things really are with the people of Germany, uncensored, is found in the just-published book by C. V. R. Thompson, noted English writer who is U. S. correspondent for the London Daily Express, "I Lost My English Accent." He tells of his visit to Munich at the time of the 1938 pact. No butter was served in the hotel dining room. The bread was synthetic. ("After eating a sandwich I felt as though I had been through a sandstorm.") He managed to get an orange, but it was served in a velvet-lined box and cost $1.50. Only shirts he could buy were rough, gritty, as synthetic as the sawdust bread.

On the other hand, for those who want to know how things may be for us if this country becomes involved in the war, another book just published ("What Will Happen and What to Do When War Comes") is a very informative document. Five experienced American newspapermen have set down their conception of what will happen to your property, your job, your business and, finally, your life. It is a grim picture they portray, but nevertheless a capable analysis of probabilities.

THINGS TO WATCH FOR—In refrigerators of tomorrow, a compartment for storing a week's supply of quick-frozen foods. . . . New process for lining steel pipes with cement so they can carry highly corrosive liquids. . . . New names for Pullman cars in a recent car-naming contest the company received 780,808 suggestions. . . . A glass jar so impervious to temperature changes that it can be dipped into ice water while red hot without cracking—soon to be announced. . . . National Donut Week, beginning October 9; effort will be made for first time to establish this spelling, leaving out the "ugh". . . . Heat insulated fountain pens — composition barrel prevents air expanding and the flooding of ink due to the warmth of the fingers.

Down His Alley

A Scot lover, wishing to know his fate at once, telegraphed a proposal of marriage to the girl of his choice. After spending the day hanging about the telegraph office, he was finally rewarded, late in the evening, by receiving an answer in the affirmative. "If I were you, I'd think twice before marrying a girl that kept me waiting all day for an answer," said the telegraph man. "Na, na," retorted the Scot, "the lass who waits for the cheap night rates is the lass for me."

SEE now many public benefits brewing has helped create in only five years! How can the brewing industry preserve these benefits for the people and itself?

The answer, brewers realize, lies in with the distribution of their mild, wholesome beverage through responsible retail outlets. Obviously, the brewers can enforce no laws. But they can —and will—cooperate with all law enforcement authorities to the end that retail beer outlets give no offense to anyone.

May we send you a booklet giving interesting facts about beer, and discussing the brewers' self-regulatory program? Address: United Brewers Industrial Foundation, 19 East 40th Street, New York, N. Y.

"SCHOOL DAYS, SCHOOL DAYS!"

... Remember that? And the next line, "Dear old golden rule days?" ... Well, that's the line we want to talk about. ... For at this time of year, with the youngsters on their way to and from school, the Golden Rule is a pretty good thing for motorists to keep in mind. ... Whenever you see a group of boys and girls crossing the street ahead of you, whenever you see a school-crossing sign, whenever you see a school-bus slowing to a stop, remember that somewhere, some other motorist may be meeting your own children in like fashion: shift your foot from the accelerator to the brake—slow down—stop if a stop is indicated. ... The safety of those children is actually in your hands: they are absorbed, they are careless from their concentration on the moment, no telling when one of them may dart right out into your path. You, the adult motorist, must think for them when they're thoughtless, must see for them when they're looking the other way, must make your own alert attention take the place of their young distraction. ... Slow down for children—it will give you a whole lot of satisfaction every time you do.

Police Cite Rules For Pedestrians In War On Accidents

AUSTIN, Sept. 13.—Department of Public Safety officers today prepared to combat pedestrian deaths with renewed activity as schools opened over the state, shopping increased and pupils gatherings became more numerous.

Recalling that the pedestrian death list rose disastrously to 291 from last September to June while 1,335 others were seriously injured, state police warned that a repetition of that toll is likely unless walking precautions are taken. Seventy-four school age persons were injured fatally when struck down by vehicles in that period. This, safety officials pointed out, shows the need for pedestrian drills among students, more precaution on the part of parents and increased pedestrian and driver vigilance.

Preliminary to its autumn, winter and spring campaign for pedestrian safety state police offered rules for the walking public, violations of which have caused the greatest number of deaths and injuries. The rules are:

1. Cross only at intersections and then only when the signal light favors you and vehicular traffic has cleared.
2. Look in all directions while crossing streets and highways.
3. Discharge passengers at curbs and have them alight from the side of the vehicle nearest the curb. Discharge school children at the curb on school sides of streets so they will not have to cross streets.
4. Do not stand off of curbs but remain on sidewalks.
5. Face oncoming traffic when necessary to walk on streets or highways.
6. Pedestrians should carry flashlights at night to warn approaching vehicles of their presence.

W. M. Puckrus, Denton, Texas, says: "I have had my Servel Electrolux for 5½ years, and have never been out one penny for service or repairs. I prefer Servel Electrolux to any other; and as I have the upkeep of 6 ELECTRIC REFRIGERATORS, I feel I am qualified to make this statement."

And Mrs. Jess Prewett, Keller, Texas, says: "I've had mine 6 years, and have never had one thing done to it." Sounds like it must cost a lot of money, doesn't it? How would you like to get one free? Well, Mrs. H. C. McMillan of Nocona, says, "I have saved enough on groceries to almost pay for my Servel Electrolux—and I don't see how I ever kept house 50 years without it."

And Mrs. Stella Williams, of Stamford, has actually kept books on her savings. She says: "Each month it puts in my pocket $2.25 which I save in leftovers. (Which she used to throw out). I save about $2.00 a month buying week-end specials (bar-gains); because they keep perfectly in my Servel Electrolux for a whole week. I save $1.20 a month on milk alone, that used to sour; and save a $4.30 ice bill besides."

Say, that's $9.75 a month! Is your husband too hard-headed to see what these figures mean? If he is, better haze the critter into our store next time you're in town, and leave him to us. He'll never miss the little down payment; and he'll be the biggest cheer-leader you've got, when you get him on that ice-cream diet. But come in now—don't throw away another $9.75 this month.

Ice cream every day! Shucks, he'll DEMAND it, when he finds it costs practically nothing with a Servel Electrolux (gas refrigerator) in the kitchen. You'll keep that big ice tray full of ice cream, or frozen salad, or something all the time. There's a dilly you can stir up in 10 minutes, with whipped cream and pineapple and pecans.

Mrs. Leonard McNutt, of Tuxedo, Texas, says: "It sure is ideal for our country home; gives us ice, cold water, ice cream, frozen salads, fresh vegetables and fresh meats, EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR."

FRESH MEAT! Out on a ranch is where Servel Electrolux really makes friends. You don't need electricity—it runs on kerosene (oil), butane or natural gas. Just a tiny gas or kerosene flame—but it makes ice! Hard to believe, isn't it? But come on in and we'll show you—no wheels, belts, gears, compressors. No moving parts at all, in its whole freezing system. The ONLY automatic refrigerator with no moving parts. Nothing to wear! Nothing to make noise. Nothing to lose efficiency, and pile up big repair and operating bills.

- NO MOVING PARTS in its freezing system

TEXAS OUT-O'-DOORS

Birds are being given considerable credit for the lack of grasshoppers in West Texas this year. Hordes of hoppers destroyed crops last year, but large flocks of Swainson's hawks and horned larks, as well as thousands of burrowing owls moved in on them and destroyed many of the pests, according to word received by the executive secretary of the Texas game, fish and oyster commission from his game managers in the affected areas.

Not only did birds destroy vast numbers of grasshoppers, but one game manager observed a flock of Swainson's hawks numbering more than 1,000 feeding on mature hoppers last week and also scratching and digging around in the ground. After the flock flew away he checked the large field closely and was unable to find any egg pods. Thus is shown another good reason why the wildlife of Texas should be protected and why it is worth millions of dollars to landowners as well as sportsmen, the executive secretary pointed out.

Natural enemies of rattlesnakes continue to take their toll. The latest incident to come to the attention of the game department was reported by P. W. Krauter of Medina county, who recently observed a coachwhip snake crawling very slowly in a circle. Approaching closer, Mr. Krauter saw the snake make a quick movement. It grabbed a three-foot rattler about midway of its back and shook it, apparently breaking the rattler's back. After the venomous snake was dead, the coachwhip snake ate it.

Some of the early settlers of Texas must have been very conscious of, and possibly grateful for, the wild game found in the Lone Star State. Witnesseth names of some communities: Turkey, Quail, White Deer, Antelope, Antelope Gap, Badger, Beaver Dams, Buffalo, Buffalo Gap, Buffalo Springs, Crow, Deer Creek, Deer Park, Dove, Eagle, Eagle Flat, Eagle Lake, Eagle Pass, Goose Creek, Swan, and Crane.

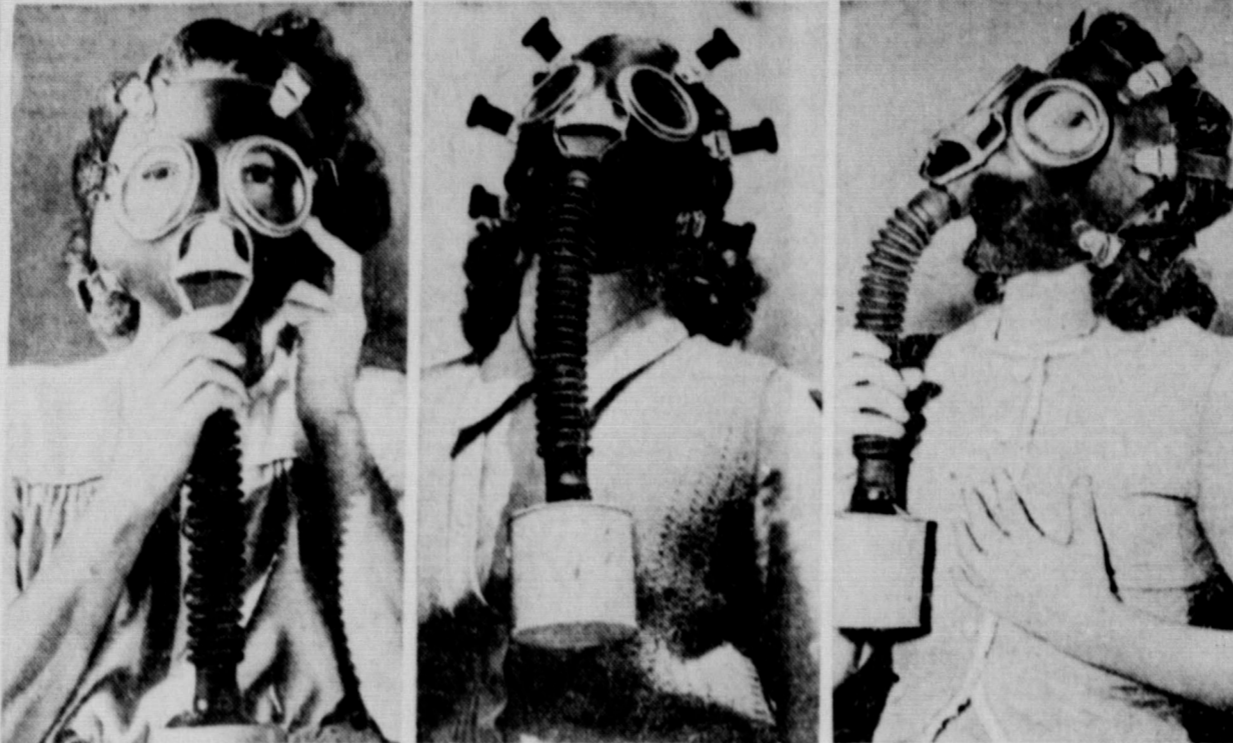

Educational activities of the game department continue to broaden out and with excellent effects in the campaign to conserve and restore game and fish in Texas, the executive secretary points out.

Demonstration of three different types of quail shelters were prepared for farmers attending a meeting at Hallettsville. More than 1,000 farmers attended and many indicated they would build shelters on their respective land.

The game department will have an extensive exhibit of live game birds and animals at the state fair at Dallas. The Fayette county planning board is arranging a wildlife exhibit for the joint county fair and American Legion celebration Nov. 11. An educational exhibit of wildlife was staged at the Tom Tom festival at Lavaca. The game department's color motion pictures of game birds and animals are being shown extensively and are booked weeks ahead.

Girl Rescued Alive From Crocodile An Oldtimer From Africa Tells How

TULARE, Cal.—Tales of South Africa spun by G. S. Oettle, retired British South Africa Railway official, while he visited a cousin here, are remembered as the best adventure stories told outside of fiction.

A favorite told by Oettle was his experience in helping to resuscitate a girl who had been held captive by a crocodile.

Crouching on a river's edge filling a container with water, the girl sweetheart of Oettle's native boy, was seized and carried off by a crocodile.

Calculating rapidly how far the huge reptile had pulled her, and where she had been carried under water, the boy dove under a nearby rock ledge, found her there and brought her to the surface.

When the crocodile returned with others for an expected feast, the party opened fire and killed two.

When the girl regained consciousness after two hours, she said she was so frightened when the crocodile seized her arm that she chapparral and cedar from their lands could aid the quail crop by leaving numerous brush piles, rather than burning them. Many farmers and ranchers are doing that, it is reported by game managers of the game department and birds are moving in rapidly.

A grey fox, not satisfied with the two rats he had captured and was carrying away, pilfered a squirrel from Dr. C. M. Hall of Hico, he reported to the game department last week. Dr. Hall shot two squirrels and before he could reach them a fox came along, added one of them to the rats he was carrying and scampered away to his den in the hills along the Bosque river near Hico.

McCulloch county's state game warden recently observed a large number of vultures scratching up turtle eggs out of a large sandy beach on the San Saba river and eating them.

There is an efficient use of space in this small home, with its skillful planning reflected in the living room-dining room arrangement. Here the dining space becomes part of the living room after meals. The bathroom may be reached without passing through either of the two bedrooms, while the kitchen has a rare and highly desirable feature in its large bay window. This home was valued at $7,000 by the Federal Housing Administration and was built in Ohio with the aid of a $6,200 mortgage insured by the FHA.

These stag parties are quite the thing—but maybe the Zocahs in San Angelo want the boys from out of town to come stag for Saturday night there was Jack Baggett, Johnny Henderson, III, Taylor Deaton, Martin Harvick, Phillip Schneemann, Shorty Colquitt, Beecher Montgomery, J. K. Colquitt, Max Schneemann, P. C. Perner, Elie Bright Baggett and Ray Boyd.

Joy riding is something attached to us like a bad habit that you deplore but find awfully hard to give up. Some "Sunday Drivers" were Gem Ella Dudley, Mary Frances Bean, Lorraine Townsend and Dorothy Hannah.

Also seen driving around were Mary Alyce Smith and Catherine Childress with two Sonora products—Junior Schwiening and Curt Allison, Jr.

Earle Cloutier and Tarzan Taliver were seen down town Saturday with their new playmate—a huge, venomous vine garroon. It seems they were having quite a time getting someone to hold it for them.

"Hospitality String" Is Declared a Myth

AUSTIN, Sept. 6.—Legend to the contrary, Dr. Walter P. Webb, University of Texas author-professor, today reported he can find no Texas version of the famed "Hospitality String," which purported to exist throughout the West.

Writing for the current issue of "The Southwestern Historical Quarterly," which he edits, the University professor of history described the legendary string thus:

"Though an overnight guest or traveler was not permitted to pay for his lodging, he was free to leave some useful article on the Hospitality String which hung from a rafter.

"A Wyoming woman recalls one in her mother's parlor which had on it a pipe, wooden spoon, buttons, brooches, a cigar and screw-driver.

"In my own reading," he added, however, "I have found no mention in Texas of the Hospitality String or of the Welcome Wagon that was inquired about in an earlier issue."

Before a man can become a gang leader he must have a certain number of murders to his credit, and he is usually a man of such powerful physique that no members of the gang will dare to challenge him.

England Moves Rare Books To Safety In Face Of War Threat

AUSTIN, Sept. 13.—England sped to remove her rare book and manuscript collections to safety a full week before war flared on the Polish front, a University of Texas scholar, now in London, has written his colleagues here.

Dr. Harry Ransom, assistant professor of English, who left the campus in July to spend a year abroad, found British museum authorities gathering up great cases of materials to transfer them from London's danger zone, and reported British sentiment "united" as contrasted with the 1914 split.

Letters he wrote August 25 to Drs. R. A. Law and R. H. Griffith here reveal that British newspapers were then printing no inflammatory propaganda.

"This week has provided a great change of England's self-possession into magnificent courage," he told Dr. Griffith. "I make no sense of claims and counter-claims about munitions; but if spirit has anything to do with waging war, Hitler is sure of a sad awakening when he undertakes to fight Great Britain."

Unintentional Admission

A father was censuring his son for staying out late. Said he: "When I was your age, my father would not let me stay out after dark."

"Gee, dad, your old man must have been an awful crab," said the son.

"What! I had a better father than you have."

Houston as the biggest financial institution in the South. It is one of 12 such banks in the United States, all of them holding approximately 40 per cent of the farm mortgage debts in the nation.

"The insurance companies and other competitive lending institutions would now be talking 8 to 12 per cent interest rates if it were not for the Federal Land Bank and these local associations," Mr. McAnelly declared. The average interest rates for farm and ranch mortgage loans was 9 per cent when the federal-sponsored land bank system was inaugurated, whereas National Farm Loan Association mortgages are now available at 3½ per cent by virtue of Congressional subsidy of the contract rate of 4 per cent.

"Your National Farm Loan Association is worth 5½ per cent in interest savings to you today and when the competitive loan companies seek to induce you to change your loan they are attempting to break down this system which has made it possible for farmers and ranchmen to get low interest rates over a long period of time and ultimately to get out of debt," the Federal Land Bank vice president declared.

Fred Gipson--

I think of the war. I know I'll have to go. I can see myself shot all to pieces, my life wasted.

I feel mighty sorry for myself. Then I remember the time I twisted the Little Brother's arm until he cried, because he wouldn't drive home the cows, so I could go swipe a watermelon. And I remember the time I threw rocks at the little Coats girl and then lied about it.

And in swift succession, there marches across my mind all the sordid events and experiences of my life, many too cheap and repulsive to put into print.

And I squirm and twist and tumble and roll in bed, with the thoughts of the miserable existence I've led.

"Did man ever have more on his conscience?" I ask myself. I shut my eyes and try to forget it all and go back to sleep—and get wider and wider awake and get more and more depressed and feel meaner and meaner by the minute.

When thoughts of suicide begin to enter my mind, I know it's time something was done, so I start desperately to counting sheep. But counting sheep reminds me of food. And I get up out of bed to search the room for it.

Of course, searching for food in a hotel room is a very futile thing. But I search, nevertheless. I turn on the light and dig into my suitcase. I remember having dropped a chocolate bar in it about a month ago.

I don't find the bar. But I do knock the suitcase off the table. And the wobbly-legged table tips over, too. And I'm caught off balance and step into the middle of the pile and fall flat on my face. And the resulting crash brings excited sleepers to doors all up and down the hall.

But at the time of my fall, I see an apple roll out of the overturned suitcase, along with a shoe and some dirty underwear and a couple of fishing corks. I'm digging it out from under the dresser when the landlady knocks and sticks her head inside my door.

"Just looking for an apple," I tell her. And I hold up the apple for her to see.

But she doesn't. She just slams the door and leaves. And I remember that I'm sleeping in my shorts and nothing else.

I sit on the bed and eat my apple and contemplate the work of cleaning up the heap in the floor. And I immediately get sleepy. I don't wake up until 10 o'clock the next morning.

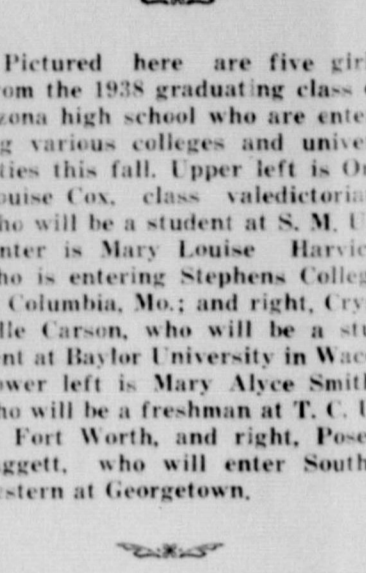

Which just goes to show it wasn't my conscience keeping me awake. I just needed food and exercise and excitement.

Grips Are Packed And Ready - - - Ozona Sends Quota Of 29 Students To Various Colleges and Universities As Annual Trek Back to Campus Begins

By C. MAYE DUNLAP

Thousands of girls and boys are rushing madly around this week pecking in suitcases, trunks, boxes and what-have-you to see if they have forgotten that brown belt with the silver buttons or if the picture that takes the place of honor on the dresser has been packed so the glass won't get broken. For it is off-to-school-must-go time and Ozona is going to be well represented in colleges and universities this fall when 29 students leave for their respective schools.

T. C. U. is beginning its classes the fifteenth, Catherine Childress, a speech major, has transferred her credits from Incarnate Word college in San Antonio to the Fort Worth school this year.
