BACK IN STYLE

In a recent book entitled "The when people support the government, they control government, but when the government supports he people it will control them."

For nearly 20 years the prophets of central authority have sought to obscure this truth. Now here is a growing realization that reedom can exist only when the individual is responsible for his wn welfare, and that the degree of dependency upon government is an accurate measure of freedom

The new awareness of this danger is well exemplified in the polcy recommendations adopted by he American National Cattlemen's Association at a recent meeting in Denver. Despite price drops which have severely affected the nations meat producers, they recommend unequivocally the discontinuance of support prices on all agricultural commodities, and, in the interim, immediate amendment of the law to place supports on corn and other feed grains on a flexible basis to be Agriculture.
