Dedication Of Liberty Statue Set April 28

Work is progressing rapidly on the foundation for a replica of the Statue of Liberty which will be erected on the city hall lawn facing East Third street.

At the same time, Nat Shick, public relations chairman for the Buffalo Trail Boy Scout council, said plans were in the making for dedication ceremonies on April 28. The ceremonies probably will be witnessed by some 800 to 1,000 Boy Scouts from throughout the 17-county council, Shick advised.

The dedication has been set down as a feature of the annual Scout Roundup.

Shick, as chairman of the council's public relations committee, said the Statue of Liberty replica here, the statue is being presented to the council by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Good as a memorial to their son, Jake Good, who died in 1928.

The concrete base already has been completed on the city hall lawn, and work is moving forward on the pedestal, which will be constructed of Austin limestone.

Hearing On City's Budget Set Tuesday

Local citizens will have an opportunity Tuesday to approve or disapprove the city's budget for the 1950-51 fiscal year.

A public hearing on the proposed budget will be held at 5 p. m. Tuesday, just prior to the city commission's first meeting of the year which began April 1.

The 1950-51 budget, which was approved by the city commission March 28, calls for expenditure of $585,481.60 of an estimated total of $589,207.33 to be available for appropriation. This would leave an unappropriated balance of $3,725.73.

Water and sewer departments would share in $214,892.85—largest single chunk of the proposed expenditures. Public safety stands to rank second in the size of appropriation with $155,496.50 earmarked for the police and fire departments if the budget receives final approval.

General government, including administrative and maintenance costs, communications, travel, and similar expenses is allocated a total of $65,834.25, according to the proposed budget. Streets and alleys would benefit from $98,811, health and welfare would receive an outlay of $88,842, and parks and playgrounds would be the object of $15,718 if the budget is accepted. The city warehouse operations would be carried on by a $7,088 appropriation.

Funds for the year's operations are calculated to include $214,892.85 from general fund revenues, $25,000 to be transferred from the waterworks construction fund, $54,900 to be transferred from the parking meter fund, and an estimated cash balance of $35,900 on hand at the beginning of the year.

Contract has been let for construction of a $25,000 concrete horseshoe stadium for the Big Spring Rodeo Association. The plant is due to be completed in advance of the annual show dates, probably early in August. Plans call for a bowl which may help reduce the dust nuisance. It also will leave the bulk of level ground near Ellis Homes for parking area. When finished, the stadium ought to be about tops for rodeos.

So far plans for a community center are being considered. See THE WEEK, Page 6, Col. 5

Kansas City Bar Looted Under Noses Of Police

Cover-Up Hinted In Theft Next Door To Tragedy Scene

KANSAS CITY, April 8. (AP) — A brazen tavern burglary next door to the scene added fresh woes to police seeking slayers of Politician Charles Benaggio and his henchman, Charles Gargotta.

With two policemen guarding the First District Democratic Club where the two were executed gangland fashion early Thursday, thieves broke into an adjacent bar and stole $600, two wrist watches and some liquor last night.

The tavern is located at 720 Truman Road, the big crosstown thoroughfare named for the President. The place where the two Charlies fell and died in pools of blood is 718 and 716 Truman Road.

The Kansas City Star said that in view of the wide publicity given the Benaggio slaying, thieves must have been aware the Democratic Club would be under guard. This, the paper said, "led to the conjecture that the theft may have been a cover-up for some more devious purpose." Police had no comment.

In St. Louis, the Star-Times reported Binaggio had tried to make political peace with President Truman in the last few weeks of his life. Three Kansas City men, who the newspaper said participated in the plan, stoutly denied any knowledge of the maneuver.

In its copyrighted article, the Star-Times said a committee of five had been set up to bring peace to the feuding Democratic factions in Kansas City and put up a compromise candidate in the senatorial primary this year. For this peace Binaggio was to retire.

The paper named the committee as Floyd E. Jacobs, chairman, James M. Pergand, Henry McKeel, Tim Moran and George A. Clark.

Jacobs, a lawyer here who has not held a political office since 1916, declared "I have never heard of the committee."

Pergand, a political rival of Binaggio's crowd and nephew of late Kansas City boss, Tom Pergand, said "It is ridiculous."

Clark called the story "absolutely ridiculous."

The newspaper said the peace plan failed because the President said he would stand by his avowed senatorial candidate, Emory W. Allison of Rolls. The other candidate who was supposed to have left the race was Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., of St. Louis.

INSECTS, DUST ADD TO DAMAGE

Extended Drouth Imperiling Wheat Crop In Southwest

KANSAS CITY, April 8 (U) — Southwest's winter wheat crop is in doubt.

Drouth has it by the throat, rain is "a" must. If a good soaking one doesn't come soon it looks black across the plains known as the nation's wheat basket.

What experts doubt that even an average crop could be harvested if the crop was given every break in the weather from here on in.

Wheat farmers as a rule are generally pessimistic. They lose the crop two or three times a season on paper before harvest time but actually it does look pretty bad this time any way you take it.

Southwest has had the driest January, February and March on record. In Texas virtually no rain has fallen in the Panhandle and the South Plains since last fall. In Oklahoma it's dry and the wheat outlook is poor.

Add to this an insect infestation, greenbugs, the brown wheat mites and cutworms. And the damage grows. Wheat on the Southwest has deteriorated rapidly in the last three or four weeks.

A winter drouth is the main cause. Most experts concede that only a good rain or two within the next few days can save what is left of the crop.

Dust storms already have whipped up and whirled out of the Southwest but there still isn't a dust bowl like the one back in the thirties. The story simply is that there isn't enough moisture now for a decent sort of a crop.

The drouth is general over Texas except in extreme East Texas. A few counties in North-Central Texas have enough subterranean moisture to make something of a wheat crop—maybe 10 to 15 bushels but certainly nothing like 50 bushels of the best years.

Ferdie J. Deering, editor of the Farmer-Stockman at Oklahoma City, recently toured the high plains of Oklahoma and Texas. He reported that only a good rain soon could save the crop in the Panhandles of Texas and Oklahoma.

But, he added, there's no dust bowl yet such as in thirties. He said it would take two or three more dry years before the Southwest likely would be confronted with another dust bowl.

The worst of the dust storms in West Texas and Oklahoma, a government expert says, should be over in another week. Louis P. Merrill, regional director of soil conservation at Fort Worth, says land damaged from the dust storms has not been severe although nearly a million acres in Texas and Oklahoma have suffered moderate damage.

Driller Admits Fatal Shooting

MONAHANS, April 8. (SC) — A 57-year-old retired oil field driller told officers here Saturday he shot his tenant after a prolonged drinking bout.

Police are holding Alexis Davies for further questioning in the fatal shooting of Joe Henderson, also 57, a truck driver for the Earl Fitch Drilling Co. about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The killing occurred in the house which Davies had been sharing with Mr. and Mrs. Henderson for the last four months. Davies is unemployed.

Sheriff W. B. McNeerlin said charges of murder would probably be filed against the retired driller Monday in Justice J. B. Jordan's court.

In a verbal statement to McNeerlin, Davies said he shot Henderson in the right chest with a blast from a shotgun following an argument.

JAILER OVERPOWERED

Officers Hunting 2 Cooke Jail Escapees

GAINESVILLE, April 8. (U) — Two husky prisoners overpowered a jailer and broke out of the Cooke County jail here today.

About 50 officers, aided by bloodhounds, hunted the men tonight between here and the Red River.

The escapees—Lawrence Edward Byron, 22, of Fort Worth and Franklin Perkins, 30, of Gainesville—fled first in a commandeered taxicab, then stood after the cab hit a telephone pole.

Byron was held on charges of burglary and kidnapping an Era community farmer, Herman Tatum last Nov. 17. Perkins was held under a burglary charge.

Sheriff Emory Hays headed a posse which included Texas Rangers, highway patrolmen and officers from other North Texas counties and from Oklahoma. The bloodhounds were brought from Marietta, Okla.

Jailer Ben Butler said he had opened the door to the jail's bullpen about 3 o'clock this afternoon to remove trash when the men attacked him. Butler said Byron held a knife and Perkins had a club made of a bottle covered with a sock.

Butler said Byron held the knife on him while Perkins called a cab. The pair tried to force the jailer into the cab with them but left him when he resisted.

The cab driver lost control of the car, and it hit a telephone pole on the Era community road. The police dispatcher here said a police car in close pursuit also crashed.

The escapees were last seen racing across a field. The cab driver and the officers were unharmed in the crash.

Ex-Auditor Is Given Suspended Sentence

LEVELLAND, April 8. — J. Warren Peery, former Hockley county auditor, received a five-year suspended sentence in 72nd District Court here Friday after pleading guilty to a charge of converting public funds.

Judge Charlie Sullivan of Big Spring presided at the trial in place of Judge Dan Blair who disqualified himself.

BRISK TRADING REPORTED IN CITY

New Toggery To Mark Easter Here

The Easter Parade is due to bring out an attractive array of new toggery in Big Spring today.

That forecast is based upon Saturday reports from several local business establishments which told of brisk retail trading activity during the past two weeks.

Although some exceptions were noted, pre-Easter shopping generally was regarded as "slightly above normal" for the season in Big Spring.

Shopping trends for the Easter season turned heavily in favor of women's and children's clothing, which is the usual course. Men were buying spring clothing too, but few were inclined to invest in complete outfits especially for Easter.

If a leading type of merchandise should be cited, women's and children's shoes probably would rank near the top. Millinery, long a favorite of women purchasers at this time of year, came in for its share again, as did other accessories, such as purses, bags, etc.

Heavy sales of complete Easter ensembles also were reported at women's apparel shops, and many of the purchases were made well in advance of Easter.

Throngs of shoppers crowded Big Spring streets Saturday, but some reported that peak sales for the Easter season might have been reached several days earlier.

Many of the Saturday shoppers came in simply to pick up merchandise that had been purchased earlier but required alterations, it was explained.

And those who shopped early probably acted with wisdom, especially women who sought dresses, because selections had diminished by Saturday.

"Good sales" of gift merchandise also were reported, although

M'Carthy Changes His Tune In New Attack On State Department

Bells Of Easter Encourage World

By The Associated Press

Joyous Easter bells ring out a message of hope today to a world beset by fear.

Christian millions throughout the world commemorate the long-ago event that symbolizes the triumph of life over death—the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the tomb.

Holy Year pilgrims to Jerusalem and Rome, sunrise worshippers on American hillside, secret celebrants of solemn discouraged in Communist countries join in the commemoration.

Easter parades on New York's Fifth Avenue and other great streets of the Western world provide an after-church display of 1950's brightest spring fashions.

Cold and windy weather was forecast over the northern half of the country, with rain or snow in parts of the Middle West, Texas and the Gulf states were expected to have fair and mild weather.

A few scattered showers were indicated for the Southern Rockies and most of the Pacific Coast.

The Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America declared in an Easter message that "Our American faith in democracy has its historic roots in faith in God."

"No great civilization of mankind has ever yet been built on an atheistic basis," said the council, representing 27 denominations.

"There is no reason to believe that a materialistic philosophy can provide an enduring foundation for society today."

In Rome, an Easter throng of more than 500,000 was expected to fill the great Basilica of St. Peter's and the square before it when Pope Pius XII celebrated pontifical mass (3 a. m. CST) and gave his blessing to the city and the world.

Other great cities rang out their message of a risen Christ in the Arab-held old city of Jerusalem, where the epiroth, annual Holy Fire ceremony was enacted on the traditional site of Jesus' tomb.

Varied observances were on the Easter calendar.

Easter fires burned in hills around Fredericksburg, Tex.

Some 75,000 persons are expected at sunrise services in Miami—35,000 in the Orange Bowl Stadium. Congregations of 25,000 at the Garden of the Gods near Colorado Springs and 15,000 at the Park of Red Rocks, near Denver, were expected.

In the Wichita Mountains near Lawton, Okla., 100,000 were to watch scenes from the life of Christ portrayed by a cast of more than 2,000 in a natural amphitheater.

A huge rugged cross atop Hot Springs Mountain was the center of a sunrise service in Arkansas.

Senator Fails To Make Usual Spying Charges

Retraction Seen By Lattimore As Solon 'Bleats Like Lamb'

WASHINGTON, April 8. (AP) — Senator McCarthy, in a new attack on the State Department, today omitted his specific charges of spying and communism, and the Department's spokesman said he was now "bleating like a lamb."

And Owen J. Lattimore declared that the Wisconsin Republican senator's speech amounted to a retraction of his accusation that Lattimore is the top Soviet secret agent in the State Department.

In a public speech at Passaic, N. J., where he did not have the immunity from suits which surrounds remarks in the Senate, McCarthy noticeably softened his charges against Lattimore and two State Department employees.

For example, he said that Lattimore, Johns Hopkins University Far Eastern expert, is "selling our State Department" a program "identical to the plans in the platform of the Communist party."

Tonight John E. Pennington, the State Department's security chief, issued a statement saying: "Senator McCarthy raised a lion when he wore the cloak of congressional immunity. Now he discards his immunity, strikes the pose of a hero and bleats like a lamb."

"When he dropped his cloak of immunity, he also dropped the substance of his first charges."

Those accusations were made originally in two speeches on the Senate floor, one last February and the other a little more than a year ago; and before that committee where he also had immunity.

Pennington did not refer at all to Lattimore, who the Department says has never been employed by it.

Lattimore spoke up for himself, declaring in a statement that McCarthy's speech today was "a retraction of his libelous and fantastic accusations."

"Again the Senator wobbled," the charges are false, and he is fraudulently trying to hide behind his senatorial immunity while pretending to come out in the open.

Mistreatment Of Latin-American Here Is Denied

Claims that a young Latin-American had been mistreated by an officer were denied here Saturday by Sheriff R. L. Wolf and Deputy Bill Finley.

Representations that Clarence Yanes had been jailed and struck on the cheek had reached the Governor, in turn, Neville G. Perrowe, chairman of the Texas Good Neighbor commission, said the matter had been called his attention.

The alleged incident occurred March 29. Yanes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Yanes Sr., said he had been jailed and roughed without reason. He said he was at a window talking to a jail inmate when an officer approached and ordered him to get away from the window.

Later, he said he went to the courthouse in search of Sheriff Wolf to invite him to address his scout troop. There, he said, he ran into the officer again, was struck on the cheek, and was jailed. Yanes is a Boy Scout troop leader.

Deputy Finley had a different version. He and Wolf said orders had been issued that there could be no standing outside jail windows. Marljuna cigarettes and "red jackets" had been passed through, precipitating serious trouble with prisoners, according to the sheriff. Finley said that Yanes had ignored the order to leave, talked back and was scuffed.

A few minutes later, he said, Yanes showed up at the county attorney's office and was arguing. Finley said that he then grabbed him and took him off to jail. Yanes was released shortly afterwards.

STATEMENT RELEASED

City School Revenue Nears Budget Mark

Receipts of the Big Spring Independent School district for the current fiscal year already have exceeded estimates. Additional receipts from both of those sources will be forthcoming, however, between now and the end of the fiscal year.

Elsewhere, there are four instances where receipts already have exceeded estimates. Topping the list are current tax collections, which are $17,961.35 above the estimated total. The budget was prepared on the basis of $270,000 total collections, while actual tax payments have reached $287,961.11. Payments represent approximately 94 percent of the roll, a new high for the district.

Others that are above estimates include transportation receipts, $2,368; miscellaneous local funds, $358.72; and property sales, $635.19.

Totals for the period show receipts amounting to $279,936.44, compared to estimates for the entire year of $281,750.00.

Disbursements to date total $255,526.21, against a total estimate of $249,708.67 for the year. Disbursements already include $118,708.87 for the year. Disbursements already include $116,095.83 from the building fund and $29,500.83 from the interest and sinking fund expenditures at $410,929.83, or $85,129.01 below total '50 total receipts for the period.

GI Recalls Death March Began On Easter Sunday

By ROBERT L. MOORE
LEXINGTON, Va., April 8. — Tomorrow is an anniversary—more ways than one.

To men and women, it is Easter Sunday. The anniversary of the day Christ arose from the dead. To a child, it is white bunnies and yellow chicks, baskets, eggs and pretty flowers. To a girl, it is a new dress, a dainty hat.

To the historian tomorrow marks the date Lee surrendered to Grant not too far from this Virginia Valley village. The place was Appomattox. The year was 1865.

To the German of the Nazi era tomorrow is the ninth anniversary of the day the little sawed-off fusilier with the comic mustache sent his enemy into Norway.

But to a guy named Joe—Joe Bergstein—listed—

"Yeah, April 9 That was the date. It was 1942. Of course I'll never forget it. The Japanese had captured the Bataan garrison. We started on a long march—10 miles. The longest 10 miles you ever traveled I was only one of a lot of American GIs. The Japanese told us we were going to San Fernando of the Philippines. I don't know if we were going to San Fernando or if we were going to the Philippines. I don't know if we were going to San Fernando or if we were going to the Philippines. I don't know if we were going to San Fernando or if we were going to the Philippines.

of being buried along the way. Eight years ago today, I can safely say that if we'd known what tomorrow would bring I doubt that any of us would have stopped fight-

TERRIBLE MARCH

"The march was terrible. Six days without a single bite of food, little or no water. Torture, beatings and humiliation. Our destination was Camp O'Donnell on Luzon. Hundreds never got there. I was lucky."

Joe Bergstein flipped the pages a physics book at Washington and Lee University. His head was lowered as he spoke. You wondered how a fellow like Joe could survive the infamous Death March of Bataan. Joe is a little guy. Weighs only 130 pounds, 28 pounds more than when he was liberated. He stands five feet, seven inches. He's married, has a couple of kids. His home is McKeesport Pa.

"I almost didn't finish that march," Joe admitted. "I owe my life to an American soldier I don't know his name. I wish I did."

"We had some a-mung way. No water, no food just flogging. Finally I dropped to the ground. Sure, I knew they'd shoot me but I didn't care any more. When you get that way, you're pretty tired.

"Then, some big rugged GI came along and hauled off and kicked me in the seat of the pants. It made me mad, awfully mad so mad, I got up trembling with anger and kept on marching."

"I'd never seen that GI before. I never saw him again."

But to Corp. Joe, the death march was a fraternity picnic compared to what followed a few months later—a boat excursion to Formosa.

"We traveled 600 miles in 38 days," Joe said. "There were 750 prisoners crowded into a hatch just a few square feet larger than your master bedroom. For food we had a little rice, very little water."

"There was no ventilation. No sanitary facilities. Many died of suffocation. All of the men suffered from dysentery and malaria. There was no place to lie down. We stood on top of a pile of coal. We stood and squatted with our knees under our chins in shifts all of those 38 days."

After Formosa came the Japanese copper mines at Hansoka in Northern Honshu Island.

"They didn't get enough copper out of those mines to make an ash tray a day," Joe said. "The work in the mines was horrible."

happened to me."

The Japanese needed electrical engineers. They asked for volunteers.

Joe Bergstein lost no time offering his services although he was no engineer, never had any formal training in electronics. He just wanted to get away from those copper mines.

"All I knew," Joe said, "was what I'd learned as a telephone signman in the U. S. Army. I knew a guy could get himself shocked making contact with a live wire."

The Japanese put Joe to work. They handed him a rusty old electric generator and told him to take it apart.

"The bolts were too rusty to be removed," Joe said. "So I asked them for a chisel and hammer. I chiseled the bolts off. This impressed the Japs. Joe Bergstein became an electrical engineer right then and there. They sent me to an electric motor warehouse."

That was where Joe made at least one discovery.

"I decided that the efficiency of an electrical motor is a thing of rare beauty," the slightly-built, wiry little fellow explained. "You know, those things have very little friction; a revolving armature hardly touches anything. They oughta last a hundred years."

the Veterans Administration and advised him to go to college. The big hitch was that Joe couldn't get into Washington and Lee because he lacked mathematics courses on his high school transcript.

But, thought Joe, if he could become an "electrical engineer" by knocking the bolts off a generator with a hammer and chisel, maybe he could get some mathematics without normal training. And he did. He bought algebra, trigonometry and geometry textbooks, studied at home through the summer of '47. When autumn came Joe passed Washington and Lee's entrance examinations.

Now, he's a junior. Dr. Hinton says of Joe:

"Joe fell down a bit one semester when he only made the dean's list. The rest of the time he's been honor roll. He's an honor student all right, and one of the sharpest men I've ever taught."

How does Joe stack up as an electrical engineer? Dr. Robert W. Dickey, head of the department of physics, can answer that one.

"He was awarded a departmental scholarship in physics last year for exceptionally outstanding work," said Dr. Dickey.

Dr. Felix Welch, head of the mathematics division says that "when Joe misses a class, I don't have anybody to help me work the really tough problems."

Periodically, Joe visits the VA Hospital at Winston-Salem, N. C., for treatment of a few remaining symptoms of amoebic dysentery. The malaria Joe contracted on the death march is about gone. So are the worms. American doctors found after Joe's release from imprisonment.

The tip of his left ear has one prominent scar—where he caught a shovel against his head. A Japanese prison guard planted it there because Joe couldn't understand the Japanese language and, therefore, didn't respond to the guard's orders to walk on him.

That doesn't matter to Joe, either. Nothing matters except this engineering business and that wife and those two kids of his. Joe isn't mad at anybody. Not even the Japanese.

Dr. Felix Welch, head of the mathematics division says that "when Joe misses a class, I don't have anybody to help me work the really tough problems."

Bataan and Formosa and the copper mines don't matter to Joe any more. Mentally, Joe suffered no harm. Physically, he's recovering.

Haley Finds Travel Can Jar Man Out Of Provincial Views

By J. EVETTS HALEY
ABOARD THE S. S. WASHINGTON TO LE HAVRE—We took off which is to say embarked—on a cold gray morning from the pier at the foot of Twenty-first Street on New York's west side. With a brass expenditure of energy—that is for this day and time—the bold little tugs maneuvered us into the middle of the Hudson, and then left us to the skillful navigation of the clean-cut young men on the bridge and the temperamental whims of the merchant marine in the engine rooms below.

The gay strains of the orchestra died out as the players tucked their instruments under their arms and trooped off to the forward lounge, while a large contingent of sad-faced old Germans wiped their eyes and said a final farewell to their grown children on the docks. Bright corsages on well-dressed women were crushed as everybody lined the rail and soberly watched what Stanley Walker so aptly termed "Manhattan's high minarets" glide past.

Some walked to the starboard rail and gazed wistfully at the Statue of Liberty as we drifted out of the harbor. A psychologist would probably have seen some subtle meaning in the action of an Oriental who was still furiously waving at this significant figure after we were miles away. Soon the gentle roll of the ship indicated that we were out upon the Atlantic, and the shore line slowly receded beneath the horizon to impress everyone with the fact that he had left the home of the bonus and the brave.

Behind we left a cold, and cheerless city. For days the people of New York had been feeling the pinch of the coal shortage. Winter had returned with vengeance, just as the heat on trains and in public buildings had been drastically curtailed. Some schools were closed, power generally was cut, and the garish brilliance of Time Square had given way to modest darkness. Still her jostling mobs flowed up and down the dusky streets working hard to have a good time, and women who came to the theatres in mink wrapped their coats closely about them as they sat in the boxes.

As the coal piles progressively followed the falling thermometer, New York had ordered a sharp reduction of temperatures in public buildings. And in the perverse way of people crowded in large cities, tenants were phoning violent protests against landlords to the public health department, instead of concentrating their fire on the political party at Washington that refused to invoke the law that would alleviate their troubles.

What gross perversions in equity these efforts at "social progress" bring: enforcement of laws to prevent people who have coal from having fires, and lack of enforcement of laws that would assure coal to those without! How fortunate is Texas with her balmy skies, her reservoirs of gas, and her tolerant attitude toward men who are willing to work.

It is the writer's first but not too enthusiastic venture away from land. Within the narrow limits of our home range, water is a scarce substance associated with windmills and sucker rods—not a commodity that covers the major portion of the globe. Thus as the way farers about me circled the ship in vigorous walk by the promenade deck, in choppy steps that came from familiarity with boots instead of boats, I drifted along with the drags.

When I was at last convinced that we were completely circumscribed by water, and thus cut off from close communion with cows, I sat down in a deck chair and gazed upon the outer rim of an apparently peaceful world. As with cowpunchers moving herds across the open but inscrutable face of the Staked Plains, I was soon lost with reflections that came with plenty of space.

Curiosity about people and places seems to have kept much of the so-called civilized world on the move since recorded time began. Those who like to travel are fond of saying that it is elevating and broadening. If this were really true it would seem that the surest way to progress would lie in perpetually prowling around.

This Texan is suspicious of all such formulas for the cultivation of the mind and the uplift of the world. The validity of the dictum would seem to depend somewhat on the tastes and the capacity of the person doing the prowling. Yet my friends had insisted that nothing would so quickly disabuse a man of his provincial ideas as travel—another reason for any Texan to be suspicious.

While I wandered about engaged in this speculation, the wind got under the starboard side of my hat. I have worn out lots of good boots chasing battered and blown cowboy hats, but I soon found that this diversion of the High Plains had definite limitations on the High Seas. So I started for the stateroom to leave my hat.

Outside my room I bumped into a courteous and business-like gentleman not allergic to conversation, and we hit it off at once. We soon disposed of the ubiquitous weather and began taking the people home to pieces. It turned out that my companion was a well-travelled gentleman who had been born in England, had been naturalized as an American, and loved his adopted land with a burning passion.

I quote him carefully and correctly:

"You know we have the greatest country in the world but we are giving it away. I don't see how long it can go on. We have just finished one terrible war and what I wonder now is if we won't soon have to fight a greater one. And the next one will finish the world."

"England is following the same policy of appeasement that Chamberlain did with Germany. Hitler was bad but Stalin is worse. All I can see is that the United Nations has done its job and now we can go without getting into a fist fight," he declared.

And so his pointed observations flowed on until obviously it was time for one of us to move. But he did not drop his top coat casually across his arm and go up to the library to read the financial news, as may be generally suspected. He merely wrung out his mop and went back to scrubbing the deck. For the man who had just conducted this sensible seminar on world policy was our steward, Abe Goldberg, member in good standing of the National Maritime Union, with twenty-six years at sea. I began to suspect that my friends must be right.

For jarring a man out of his provincial views, this travel was certainly the stuff.

More than three thousand miles from New York we came to anchor in the approach to Southampton harbor, in a fog so thick that the sea could not be seen straight down from the rail. With day, every one placed the decks impatiently as we lay like a dead duck in the peaceful waters of the Channel.

At last the fog began to lift and we who for the first time had come so far to look upon this austere but ancestral isle strained our eyes through the gloom.

As we watched the curtain slowly lifted, and the sun come through. Dimly the coast, shorn of all its harshness, was mirrored in the placid waters of the bay, while the ugly chimneys of Southampton were still lost in the slowly ascending fog. There, before us, like a Plains mirage in soft and subdued colors, was the coast of England. How could this austere land appear so fantastically beautiful?

In the eternal quest of the human race for a better world, and in our anxiety for hopeful signs, could this final reflection from the Atlantic augur a brighter day for this sturdy nation that originally advanced the world so far on the road to freedom, only to drift from its moorings in search of the welfare state? Could this be the significance of the election returns?

Muny Airport Area Is Photo-Mapped

Two cameramen from the Ohmann Photography company of San Antonio set up headquarters at Municipal airport Friday for photo-mapping the surrounding area.

They are to make serial photographs of farm land in Howard, Martin, Glascock, and part of Scurry county, for the Department of Agriculture, airport spokesmen indicated. Photographs of the area will be taken from a twin engine Beechcraft operated by the party. The project is expected to require about six weeks. When completed the photographs will be matched and mounted to make a giant aerial picture of the four-county area.

High temperatures, as contrasted to those on the eastern seaboard, drew comment from Henry King, movie director, when he put in at Municipal field Friday.

King and a companion, enroute to Los Angeles, remained overnight in Big Spring. They were flying a Beechcraft Bonanza.

Big Spring received national publicity last week when pictures of the new airport terminal building and explanatory stories appeared in Southern Flight, an airport operators journal.

The Big Spring layout contained pictures of the new terminal and the radio antenna tower, as well as an article about operation of the Municipal field. Revenue from airport business provided the city's share in the cost of the $65,000 structure, the story said.

The antenna tower, supporting some 20 aeriels which would otherwise have been mounted on the terminal roof, also drew favorable comment.

Traffic by Air Force, Navy, and civilian aircraft was steady, but not exceptionally heavy at any time during the past week. Airport attendants said there was just an "average" amount of business. Local flyers were inactive during the week.

State Health Dept. Officials Making Inspections Here

Two representatives of the State Health department have been conducting inspections of local food and dairy establishments during the past week.

C. T. Clanton, state Dairy officer, has been making a survey rating of local milk producers, covering sanitation and bacteria content.

E. H. Timmons, state food and drug officer, has made a spot check of bakeries, cafes, grocery stores, and similar concerns. The pair were assisted in inspections by C. W. Mason, sanitarian for the city-county health unit.

JESS SLAUGHTER

Slaughter Files For Office Of County Sheriff

Jess Slaughter said Saturday that he would be a candidate for the democratic nomination for the office of sheriff.

A veteran peace officer as well as a long-time resident of Howard county and Big Spring, Slaughter said that talks with many people who know how he stands on the question of law enforcement had led him to announce, "I believe there is a job to be done," he said, "and I believe that 16 years of experience as a peace officer, including sheriff, gives me the knowledge of how to get it done."

"If the people honor me with this trust, I will work hard at the job. I would like to see it possible at some future date to put the office on a 24-hour basis. Of course the sheriff is on call at all times, but I would like to see the office itself open constantly. I would do my best to secure only the most competent individuals as deputies."

"In addition, there would be no case beneath the dignity of the office if they involve law enforcement. For instance, it would be my purpose to follow through on hot check cases which had been filed duly and legally. In other words, I believe law enforcement is a pretty broad term and requires someone with experience and understanding and purpose to help bring it about."

Slaughter has been a Howard county resident for about 50 years, having a background in ranching and business as well as a peace officer. He is a veteran of World War I, is married and in a property owner. He and Mrs. Slaughter have two children, both of whom are grown.

Slaughter said he would appreciate the support and influence of all Howard county voters at the primaries next July.

Colorado City Man Is Awarded Wings

COLORADO CITY, April 8 — Frederick D. Yost, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burl Yost of Colorado City, has been awarded his wings as an Air Force pilot, the Air Force Training command announced today. He was also commissioned as second lieutenant in the AF.

Lt. Yost entered cadet training in March, 1940, completing the 13 months of training early in April. He flew B-25 "Billy Mitchell" bombers at Reese field, Lubbock, as part of the advanced training just completed.

Second Grand Jury Session To Be Held On Monday

Grand jury for the January term of 118th District Court will go into session for the second time at 10 a. m. Monday.

The 12 members of the grand jury, who held their first session at beginning of the term, were called back to consider several complaints that have developed during the past three months. The current term of court continues until the fourth week in June.

District Attorney Elton Gilliland said Saturday that a substantial number of complaints would be submitted for investigation, but it was hoped that the grand jury could complete its work in one day.

Youngsters enjoy making their own candy. Make it the way they do. Melt a package of semi-sweet chocolate pieces over hot water and then stir in two cups of corn flakes, some raisins and some chopped pitted dried prunes. Drop the mixture onto waxed paper with a teaspoon so as to make small rounds.

HIGHLIGHTS ON KBST

'Resurrection' Is Easter Day Feature

"Be not faithless but believing." This is the Easter Day message of ABC's dramatized Biblical series, The Greatest Story Ever Told today at 4:30 p. m. over KBST. For the fourth successive year, the drama to be presented on the special Easter broadcast will be "The Resurrection."

Opening with Christ's crucifixion, the story captures the anticipation of both His followers and enemies to His prophecy of resurrection after the third day.

A stone is placed before the entrance of His tomb and soldiers are instructed to patrol the grave. And on the third day, thunder rumbles in the cloudless sky and the stone rolls from its resting place before the tomb.

Christ appears before Thomas and tells him: "Because thou has seen Me, thou hast believed. Blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed. Go you and teach all nations to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

"ROBERT SHAW CHORALE" The Easter Sunday broadcast of the Robert Shaw Chorale—last in a series of five Lenten and Easter music programs on KBST today at 6 p. m., will feature the 30-voice chorale under the direction of Robert Shaw singing Bach's "Christ Lag In Todeshaenden." Presented by ABC public affairs in cooperation with the Protestant Radio Commission, the series' first four broadcasts featured a fourpart performance of Bach's "St. John Passion."

"COLD WAR" "Do We Have An Alternative to the Cold War?" This will be the question up for discussion when ABC's America's Town Meeting is broadcast from Charlottesville, Va., Tuesday April 11, at 8 p. m. The program is on KBST.

Participants on the broadcast will be Marquis W. Childs, author and nationally syndicated columnist for United Features; Clarence Street, president, Federal Union, Inc., member of the board of the Atlantic Union Committee and author of "Union Now," and Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R. Vt.), member of the Senate banking and currency committee.

Figures Show Most Saving Bonds Sales Are In E Class

Practically all U. S. saving bond sales during March were in the E class, figures showed Saturday.

Reports for the month reflected $58,669.75 in E sales, said County Bond Chairman Ira L. Thurman. The F & G total was only $500. Monthly total was $59,169.75.

Total sales for the year amounted to $436,081.50, of which $182,437.50, or about 42 per cent, has been in E bonds.

Thurman called attention to the impending Independence bond drive. It will start on May 15 and continue to July 4. No quota has been announced for Howard county as yet.

MOODY WAR VET SHOT TO DEATH

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., April 8. (AP) — A Moody war veteran was found shot to death near an outdoor theater today less than 24 hours after this quiet university village was shocked by the slaying of his pal.

Len Broughton Smith, 30, former student at the University of North Carolina had been widely sought since the shooting Friday of studious George Lequep Bennett, Jr. Bennett was a 22-year-old university senior.

Police Chief W. T. Sloan said Smith apparently committed suicide. Smith, a quiet spoken veteran of the South Pacific campaign, was described by his mother, Mrs. Naomi Smith, of Arlington, Va., as a "war casualty".

Informed of Bennett's death and told that police were looking for her 30-year-old son, she said, "I was afraid this would happen". She said her son had shown "mental abnormalities" since his six years' service in the Air Force. She said her son had entered a mental institution last year but had left without treatment.

Police filed a murder warrant against Smith after someone pumped five bullets into Bennett in his room two blocks from the university campus. Officers said

Bennett and Smith had quarreled several days ago after Smith had accused Bennett of taking a rifle from him.

Smith, the son of a former mathematics professor at the university who died last summer, had been doing painting work in Chapel Hill since leaving the university several months ago.

Stock Market Hits New High In Bull Move

NEW YORK, April 8. (AP) — The stock market, advancing today for the sixth time in a row, hit a new high for the current bull move.

The week's rise added more than $1,500,000,000 to the value of all stocks. Not since October, 1948, has the market advanced so much in a single week.

At the closing bell the Associated Press average stood at 76.1, a peak since August, 1946—and not far from a 20-year high.

Buyers focused on specific groups. Chemicals, motors and aircraft were favored today.

Chrysler continued a solo it started earlier in the week and jumped 1 1/2 to 68 1/2, a new 1949-50 high and a gain of 4 points on the week.

Buying was inspired by fresh hopes that the strike, under way since January, would end.

Radio Corp., the most active stock, advanced 1/2 to 19 1/2. Directors voted an extra dividend of 25 cents a share Friday.

The bull market is close to winding up its ninth month. The rise started back in mid-June when the price line curved up after cracking to a 4 1/2-year low.

Not once in the long advance has there been more than a minor interruption.

The Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks today broke through its 1946 high and reached a top since October, 1930.

The AP average of 30 industrial closed today a little bit under its 1946 high which in turn is a high

MOST GO TO SCHOOL CHILDREN

Surplus Foods Distributed In Texas Fill 1,000 Freight Cars

DALLAS, April 8. (AP) — Picture a train pulling 1,000 freight cars—a train almost 10 miles long.

Each freight car is loaded to the top. Most of them carry potatoes or apples. But there is plenty of butter, cheese, dried eggs, dried milk, canned peaches, beans and tomatoes, and even honey.

That's approximately the total of "surplus commodities" which Uncle Sam has distributed in Texas since July 1, 1949. Of the 998 cars distributed in that period, 354 carried Irish potatoes and 223 were apples.

Most of the commodities were accumulated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture under federal price-support programs.

Most of them, too, went to the state's school lunch program, under which 40,000 Texas children get a daily meal virtually free. However, some of the food goes to welfare agencies and to state institutions such as state hospitals at Wichita Falls, Waco, and San Antonio, and tuberculosis sanitariums at San Angelo, Mission, and Tyler.

When market prices of certain commodities fall to a certain level the government is obligated to step in and buy at that price. When the department can do it without "depressing the market" it waits for a propitious moment to sell the commodities back into the market.

But often it cannot do so. Much of the surplus food thus accumulated is distributed through the school lunch program to needy persons or to non-penal state institutions.

For the school lunch program, some of the food represents outright purchase rather than price-support accumulations. Congress set it up that way to make the school lunch program a good one.

The program is administered in Texas by the Agriculture Department's Production and Marketing Administration. John J. (Johnny) Slaughter, a business-like government career man, is area field supervisor at Dallas for PMA's food distribution program.

Texas is the only state in the union whose legislature did not designate a state agency through which PMA could channel surplus foods.

"What makes the program work in Texas is the volunteer help of the distributing agents scattered over the state," according to Slaughter. "Without their help it would be very difficult to get this food where it should go."

These "distributing agents" are most often county superintendents. They have a direct interest because the bulk of the surplus foods is used in the school lunch program.

The distributing agents, each of whom is responsible for several counties, are:

Charles M. Rogers, superintendent, Amarillo independent school district; T. N. Porter, business manager, Austin public schools; Only Greer, county superintendent, Jefferson County school board; Beaumont; Harley H. Blake, Brown County superintendent, Brownwood; Charles Deskin D. Snow, Nueces County superintendent, Corpus Christi; Charles Hicks, Milam County superintendent, Cameron; J. C. Watson, Navarro County superintendent, Corsicana; Lynn B. Davis, business manager, El Paso public schools; G. H. Stow, Tarrant County superintendent, Fort Worth; J. Hall Sheppard, Harris County superintendent, Houston; Roy Boyd, Lubbock County superintendent, Lubbock; T. J. Wilroy, Angelina County superintendent, Lufkin; William Woodruff, Lamar County superintendent, Paris.

Bryan Dickson, San Angelo superintendent; J. E. Batson, McClellan County superintendent, Waco; B. H. Dinmore, Wichita County superintendent, Wichita Falls and Moyné Kelly, executive director, board of state hospitals and special schools, Austin.

The law clearly sets out that (1) no such food shall go to an agency or organization aimed at private profit; (2) such food shall not be distributed in competition with sales of the same commodity by private parties.

In principle, recipients of surplus foods agree not to reduce their expenditure for food because of receipt of the donated commodities. In other words, the surplus food is not to reduce the market demand and is to supply a need which otherwise would not be met.

In most cases, the agency receiving the food must pay only the cost of shipping it from where it is stored.

Besides the school lunch program, the surplus foods go to state and local public welfare agencies, private welfare organizations engaged exclusively in welfare work, and public institutions such as the state hospitals, tuberculosis sanitariums and state schools.

Here is a break-down on commodities distributed in Texas since July 1, 1949:

Apples, 223 carloads; canned green snap beans, 4; creamery butter, 58; peanut butter, 14; cheese, 35; dried eggs, 15; honey, 17; non-fat dry milk, 27; canned peaches, 63; fresh peaches, 55; Irish potatoes, 354; sweet potatoes, 25; canned tomatoes, 21; canned tomato paste, 7; canned apricots, 4; canned corn, 28; raisins, 1; cabbage, 13; and frozen turkeys, 17.

Ranchers Given $8,271 Damages In Pipeline Suit

MIDLAND, April 8. (SC)—Damages amounting to $8,271.32 were awarded Glenn Allen and Earl Vest, Ward and Winkler County ranchmen, Friday in a pipeline right-of-way condemnation suit.

Judge R. Ewing Thomason announced his decision in the case of El Paso Natural Gas Company against the two ranchmen which was tried in the U. S. District Court at Pecos last month.

The court awarded each ranchman $4 a rod for the length of the pipeline across the ranches in addition to the $10 per acre for the 44 acres actually occupied by the right-of-way.

Quads Born To Alabama Woman

LOUISVILLE, Ala., April 8. (AP)—A white Alabama farm wife was "kinda tickled and disgusted too" when she gave birth to quadruplets today.

But Mrs. Mackie O'Neal Singleton, 33, was only slightly less flabbergasted than her tenant farmer husband, also 33, said Dr. R. O. Norton, who delivered the four squirming girls.

The Singletons already have six children, the youngest four-year-old twins.

THE WEEK

Three men leaped from the car, dragged Thurmann, dumped him in the gutter. He got up, dashed in front of the trio's car. They tried to run him down. Thurmann clung to the front fender until he could shove out of danger.

Mrs. Thurmann, who watched the whole thing, called police. The officers arrived. They handed Thurmann a citation for having an expired driver's license. No sign of the hit-run car.

Flying Bixbys Have Still More Trouble

TOKYO, April 8. (AP)—Engine trouble broke up the Flying Bixbys' attempt to beat a world-circling speed record and brake trouble landed them in the mud on their way home yesterday.

Bob and Diana Bixby buzzed in from Calcutta in their speedy twin-engine Mosquito, a model which was one of the fastest bombers in the late war. They had averaged about 330 miles an hour en route.

Then, as the wife prepared to put the plane down at Tokyo's Haneda Airport, she and her husband heard a bang. They thought the hydraulic line to the brakes had snapped.

Later they found that a valve in the air brakes had frozen in the high altitudes and had not thawed when they came in. The brakes were as good as ever a few hours later.

In any case, they came in as slowly as possible. The plane rolled the length of the runway and wound up in mud half a foot deep. There was no damage.

Engine trouble at Calcutta Monday forced them to give up the idea of beating the late Bill Odom's around-the-world record.

So, as Bixby put it, "we're in no hurry now. We're going to stay and see the town."

Bixby disclosed they flew over Communist China without official clearance. They crossed at night and the trip was uneventful.

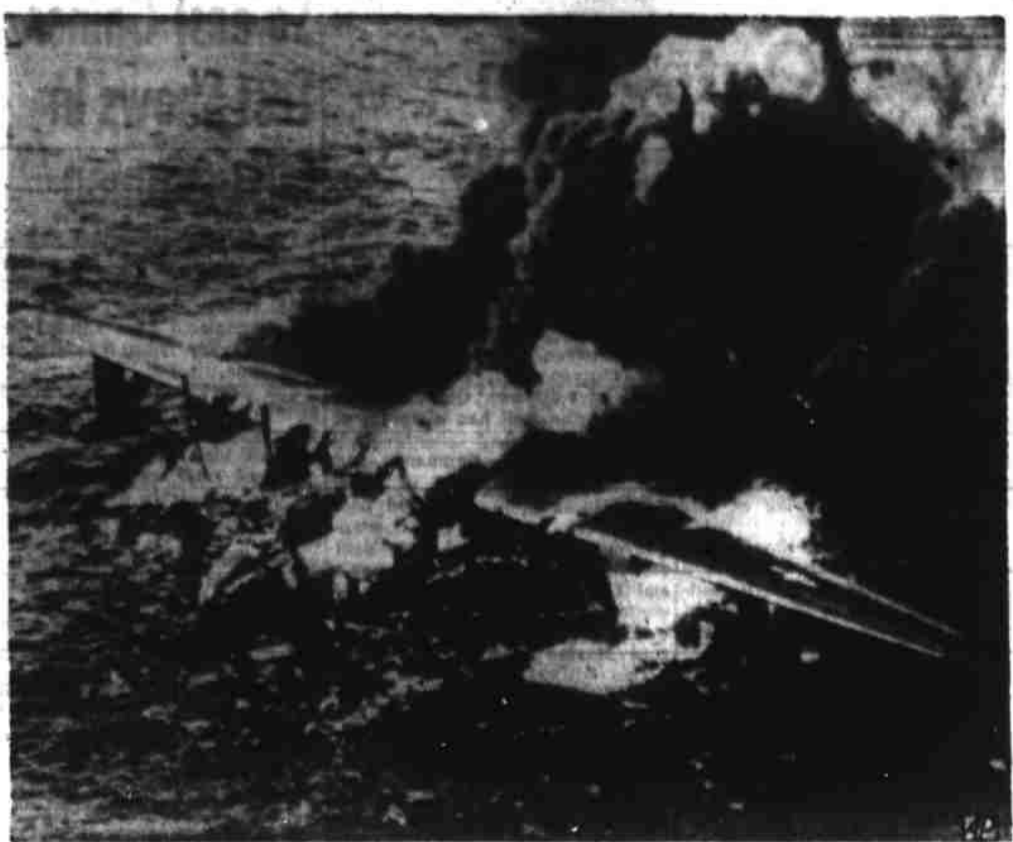

He said that whether he and his wife make a second assault on the record will depend "on how the airplane is."

After taking a good look at Tokyo they will leave early Monday for San Francisco by way of Midway.

Are Too Many Homes Being Built In U. S.?

By T. E. Applegate
AP Staff

NEW YORK, April 8. — There are cries of concern today that we are building too many homes in this country.

They are heard but faintly through the clamor of builders' hammers putting together houses at an unprecedented pace for early months of the year.

Sober analysts raised the question: Are we overbuilding?

No ready answers are available. The problems involve such factors as the efficiency of high construction costs, easy financing and gains in the total number of families to be housed.

From an overall standpoint we're still catching up with shortages induced by war conditions, high marriage rates and increased incomes.

The government's Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates that during the 1940's nearly 1,500,000 more "nonfarm" households were added to the nation's population make-up than there were new dwellings started.

So considerable demand is still here. And home buildings go ahead on an amazingly high level, right on top of the record of 1,025,000 new dwelling units started in 1949.

Even before the normal spring upturn got under way in March, dollar volume of residential construction contracts, as reported by F. W. Dodge Corp. for 37 eastern states, was hitting a rate close to double that of early 1949.

But in the midst of all this activity, the buyer's market is reported definitely here, in most regions, in houses for sale. The renter also may be getting into the driver's seat, but more slowly.

A nation-wide survey just completed by the Dow Service, publishers of daily building reports, finds the housing shortage all but disappeared, and "talk in many areas of the distinct possibility of overproduction of rental space."

Myron L. Matthews, Dow vice president, says the home buyer can now get his greatest bargain since the war, and has the builder in "a definite squeeze between costs and sales prices."

Here is how Matthews views the situation: the home building industry did such a job in convincing people it would produce homes in the $7,500-$10,000 class that now, faced with rising costs, it finds it practically impossible to pass high material or labor prices on to the home buyer.

This tends to spur the spring building boom which also is fed by unusually favorable weather in some regions and belief that construction costs will remain fairly stable.

What lies ahead?

A United States Commerce Department report sees high-level residential activity for "a considerable period although probably not extending beyond three years," assuming favorable business conditions.

The 50th market survey of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, covering 470 cities, reports "the supply of single family dwellings has now caught up with demand, except in the lowest cost bracket, in two-thirds of the cities." And the rental housing supply is found to be "under less pressure than it was a year ago."

Rental construction accounted for 28 per cent of the total new dwelling units started last year, but the NAREB notes that this activity

"made slowest progress in the sector where other housing gained most—in the lowest-cost brackets." The reason, it said, was that a rent freeze is still on, except for new construction, in 82 per cent of the reporting cities of over 100,000 population.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York in its April review states that "banking opinion is that new apartment rentals are too high and this type of housing is fast reaching the saturation point in some areas."

Overbuilding is not cited as an immediate danger in the Commerce Department report. It said: "Because the net additions even in a boom year are only a very small fraction of the total supply of housing, it takes an extended period of overbuilding to push the vacancy ratio up to the point where it is a serious deterrent to further construction."

This vacancy rate was listed at 2.5 per cent in the housing census of April, 1947, last accurate count.

Certainly there is no apparent let-up in sight at the moment in the building boom. Two of the most active areas in the country are Los Angeles County, California, and Long Island, in the New York metropolitan area.

Richardson To Address Local Knife, Fork Club

An evening of adventure is in store for members of the Big Spring Knife and Fork club when they gather for dinner Monday evening, April 17, when Lt. I. E. Richardson, USNR, will be the guest speaker.

The meeting will be in the Settler's ballroom beginning at 7:30. "Rich" Richardson, who this time is omitting the war from a recital of his experiences, has led that kind of exciting life that many men dream about but few enjoy. He has been world traveler and has been witness to intrigue in strange places. In his lecture, "Tales of Insanity, Intrigue and Adventure," it will be his civilian rather than his military experiences which Lieut. Richardson will emphasize.

However, he had a colorful career during World War II and the days immediately preceding it, and will, during the question and answer period, devote attention to any phase of his picturesque life. Richardson is the author of "American Guerrilla in The Philippines". Club officials stress that his talk will be one of adventure rather than a discussion of world problems.

NEW REEF POOL DEVELOPING—When the wildcat Barnsdall No. 1 W. L. & R. G. Wilson hit prolific pay in the Canyon reef recently, it touched off a wave of development. The discovery, indicated by double circles, is almost on the Borden-Howard line, being 660 feet out of the northeast corner of section 16-25, H&TC. It completed for 1,502 barrels per day, flowing 802 barrels of 45.9 gravity oil through half inch choke from 7,429-52. It had a gas oil ratio of 1000-1 and the top 17 feet of pay was cased off. Barnsdall staked a south location, its No. 3 Wilson, 1,320 feet south of the discovery in Howard county. It also located No. 12 Wilson, a west offset. As last week closed, Tidewater Associated Oil Co. staked a north offset, its No. 1 Morgan Coates. It will be 960 feet out of the southeast corner of section 13-27, H&TC. Hearing by the state railroad commission on the Barnsdall and Pacific Western application for discovery allowable and new pool designation has been set for May 31.

Reinecke South Offset Makes Heavy Flow After Acidizing

Acidizing has strengthened flow substantially for the Livermore No. 1 Whitaker Saturday as this south offset to the Reinecke discovery looked as a 4,000-barrel possibility. Flowing through open two-inch choke, No. 1 Whitaker flowed 996-24 barrels of oil in six hours. Casing pressure was 1,250 pounds. Shut-in tubing pressure was 1,325 and flowing tubing pressure was 255. Gas-oil ratio was 1,100-1. This venture, 660 feet from the west and north lines of the southwest quarter of section 29-25, H&TC, had topped the reef at 6,731, or 24 feet high to the discovery Livermore No. 1 Reinecke. Before treating with 3,500 gallons of acid, it had averaged 139.8 barrels per hour on a two-hour tubing test. Livermore No. 2 Whitaker, one location south of the No. 1 and 660 feet out of the southwest corner of section 53-25, H&TC, flashed at 2,070 feet. Livermore No. 3 Reinecke, east offset to the discovery and 660 feet from the east and 667 from the north lines of the south-half of the northwest quarter of section 53, drilled plug from 2,350 feet of seven-inch and cased to 2,000 feet. Three quarters of a mile to the northeast and in the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of the same section, C. H. Sweet No. 1 McNeill was below 5,528 feet. While Castleman & O'Neill staked two more locations south of its No. 1 Griffin, which pushed Reinecke production 1 1/4 miles west and slightly north. While Castleman & O'Neill staked two offsets, P. R. Rutherford of Houston staked his No. 2 T. L. Griffin, which will be a direct north offset to the extender. It will be 467 feet from the south and 660 from the west lines of section 59-25, H&TC. Water well was being drilled Saturday. Rig was moved from the ex-

Week's Oil Review

Pennsylvanian Developments In Borden And Kent Are Standouts

By JOHN B. BREWER
SAN ANGELO, April 8—Borden and Kent counties, with spreading Pennsylvanian lime production, held the West Texas spotlight this week. Castleman & O'Neill of Midland No. 1 T. L. Griffin, one mile west and a location north of the Reinecke Canyon reef lime field in southeastern Borden, flowed 49.7 gravity oil at a rate estimated at 60 barrels hourly. Production developed on a drillstem test from 6,847-89 feet in Pennsylvanian lime probably Canyon. There was no water. Some picked Canyon top at 6,865. This was 21 feet low to Heysor & Heard No. 1 A. L. Holly, one mile east and a location south. Location is 660 from the north, 467 feet from the east line of section 51-25, H&TC. Rating naturally 1,683.3 barrels of 36 gravity oil daily, the Heysor & Heard well became the second and larger well in the field, producing through a 24-64 inch choke from open hole at 6,810-20 feet. It is in the C SE NE 52-25, H&TC, west offset to Geo. P. Livermore, Inc. No. 1 W. Reinecke, General Crude Oil Co. No. 1-A Percy Jones Strawn lime discovery one-half mile southwest of Clairmont, Kent county seat, was finished with a natural daily flowing potential of 384 barrels of 38.7 gravity oil from open hole at 6,742-52 feet. It is in the C NW NW 29-G-W&NW. Opener of the Kent county's second Canyon lime field, Caroline Hunt Trust Estate No. 1 J. W. Young, 7 1/4 miles northwest of Clairmont, awaited a potential gauge after flowing 39.5 gravity oil for 17 hours at the rate of 33 through a three-eighths inch choke and perforations at 6,484 to 6,520 feet following treatment with 500 gallons of mud acid. The well is in the southeast quarter of section 166-G-W&NW, 15 miles north of the Cogdell Canyon field in southern Kent county.

Offset Progresses

Doswell No. 1-B Solomon, direct south offset to the apparent northwest Mitchell reef discovery, drilled Saturday below 2,295 feet. It is 598 from the south and 710 from the west lines of the northwest quarter of section 72-97-H&TC. The discovery No. 1 Solomon has been swabbing and flowing at an estimated flow of 25-25 barrels per hour from 7,448-68. It is 14 miles northwest of Colorado City and one mile west of the Coleman Ranch shallow pool.

Hutto To Resume Testing Of Shows

Standind No. 1 Hutto, deep wildcat eight miles east of Big Spring, is due to resume testing this week. The heavy rig has been moved off and a lighter one is due to be moved in. At last accounts the wildcat had been swabbing the Sprayberry section from 7,586-7,950, plug back bottom. It also is due to beat shows in the Wolfcamp up to 6,285. Location is 660 feet out of the southeast corner of section 40-31-4s, T&P.

Hardy Drilling As Shell Hunts Water

George P. Livermore No. 1 Dr. W. B. Hardy, northeastern Howard deep wildcat, had drilled to 1,900 feet Saturday. This farmout from American Republics is 10 miles northwest of Coahoma and 16 miles northeast of Big Spring. Projected exploration depth is 9,500 feet. Shell No. 1 E. T. O'Daniel, 660 from the south and 1,980 from the west lines of section 2-30-1s, T&P, six miles north of Coahoma, was still seeking water. Two wells had failed to produce drilling water.

Martin Wildcat

Gulf No. 1-E-D Glass, 1,980 from the north and east lines of section 13-30-1s, T&P, northwest Martin county, drilled at 2,009 feet. It is 6 1/4 miles southeast of the Mabes pool.

Kent Canyon Failure Tops Mississippian

Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation No. 1 Bibby-Wallace, Canyon failure in central-southwest Kent county, five miles northeast of the Cogdell-Canyon field, and 330 feet from south and west lines of section 776, block 97, H&TC survey, topped the Mississippian lime at 7,928 feet, on an elevation of 2,032 feet. It cored at 7,065-75 feet. The lime which was recovered had a show of gas and light oil stains with a slight amount of porosity. A drillstem test was taken at 7,055-80 feet. The tester was open one hour. Recovery was 300 feet of gas in the drill pipe and 50 feet of gas cut drilling mud. It will deepen.

Drillstem Testing

A drillstem test was in progress Saturday on Gulf No. 1-E Plaster, an east offset to a small Ellenburger producer southwest of West-burger. The test was bottomed at 8,090-9,104 ft. It recovered 10 feet of slight oil stains. Location is 1,980 from the south and 660 from the east lines of the west half of section 4-28-1s, T&P.

West Outpost In Kent Makes Flow

Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1 Spires, one location west of the discovery well of the Cogdell-Canyon field, Central-South Kent county, and 467 feet from south and 573 feet from east lines of section 717, block 97, H&TC survey, was flowing oil at the estimated rate of 20 barrels per hour from section at 6,905-4,970 feet. The well started showing gas in a drillstem test on that section in six minutes, flowing oil in 20 minutes. It was still flowing at last report. This project topped the Canyon at 6,815 feet, which gave it a datum minus of 4,374 feet. It drilled stem tested down to 6,905 feet and showed some free oil and some oil and gas cut mud. A string of 3/4-inch casing was then cemented at 6,905 feet and operator has been coring deeper to check the pay and find the water level in the area. The flow at 6,905-70 feet is the first time the offset has flowed in the Canyon. D. D. Feldman and associates, No. 1 P. L. Fuller, Central-South Kent County wildcat, one and one-quarter miles west of the discovery well of the Cogdell-Canyon field, and 467 feet from north and east lines of section 703, block 97, H&TC survey, was flowing at the rate of 23 barrels of oil per hour, naturally on a potential test. The production is from open hole between 6,881 feet, the top of the Canyon reef, and the total depth of 6,915 feet. On the top of the reef the well has a datum of minus 4,430 feet. Barnsdall Oil Company and Seaboard Oil company of Delaware No. 1 Spires, six and one-half miles north of the Cogdell-Canyon field of central-south Kent county, and 3,200 feet from north and 1,800 feet from west lines of section 22, block 4, H&TC survey, was coring below 6,802 feet on a core started at 6,800 feet. This wildcat indicated the possible discovery of a new area for Pennsylvanian lime production when it had a recovery of 985 feet of heavily oil and gas cut drilling mud in a drillstem test at 6,760-6,800 feet. Some have named the Strawn as the section. Some of that fluid unloaded from the drill pipe. A gas volume of 150,000 cubic feet per day was developed during the three hour drillstem test.

Foreign Oil Steer

Coal Men Join Protests Against Heavy Flow Of Petroleum Imports

PITTSBURGH, April 8 (U.S.)—Coal men are steering in oil-foreign oil. They see a threat in their industry and in the national economy in growing imports of oil. Coal sources charge the United States is importing more oil than it can use. The result, they contend, is a "dumping" process that captures some coal markets and depresses prices in others. The battle between coal and residual oil (that left after petroleum is refined) is spreading unemployment among miners. Marginal coal mines are closing. Operators say idle miners in Pennsylvania alone soon may be counted by the thousands. A report by the petroleum importers committee of the National Bituminous Coal Advisory Council stresses what it thinks oil imports are doing to the U. S. fuel structure. The council, a joint group of government and industry leaders, was told: "The oil imports program will tend to weaken instead of strengthen the country's fuel structure. Its effects will be to depress American petroleum and coal production, and to discourage advancement in synthetic oil output." The committee is quick to agree the nation should develop foreign oil supplies since there are definite limits to American resources.

Wildcat Staked In Eastern Garza Co.

Ken-Tex Oil corporation of Dallas has scheduled a 4,000-foot wildcat in central-east Garza county. Its No. 1 Mrs. I. N. McCrary will be 330 feet from east and south lines of section 81, block 5, GHARRR survey and 12 miles east of Post. To be a test of the Middle Permian, the I. N. McCrary is three miles east of the Star Oil company and others No. 1 OS Ranch, as Ellenburger failure which had possible shows in the Glorietta section of the Permian. NEWS ELEMENTS OF STORY WEIGHED

Kathy Fell Down A Well Just One Year Ago Today

By BOB THOMAS
AP Staff
SAN MARINO, Calif., April 8.—One year ago, a little girl slipped across a field and disappeared into the earth.

She was running a race with her sister and a cousin and she fell down an abandoned well. The other two children listened to her cries and ran for help.

Help came too late. A half million dollars' worth of equipment was brought to the scene and scores of men worked feverishly for two nights and days. When they reached the little girl, 85 feet underground, she was dead. She apparently had died a couple of hours after she slid down the well.

The girl was Kathy Fiscus and her name will be long remembered in the annals of American news. Scarcely in this half-century has any human interest story hit the U.S. and the world—with such impact.

The Dallas News reported "a jillion" phone calls asking "have they got to her yet?" The Salt Lake City Tribune said "even tiny children, almost too young to talk, are calling for news about Kathy."

"Papers in London and Stockholm held their editions, awaiting the latest news. There was even a routine from behind the iron curtain. The Czechoslovakian government news agency branded the story as being without educational value and purely sensational.

All this because a curly-headed girl of three and a half years fell down a well.

Why did the tragedy of Kathy Fiscus hold the world's attention? Now that a year has passed, it is easier to weigh the elements that put the event in headlines everywhere.

"It would have been a gripping story if a man had been trapped," said one reporter. "But there was added pathos because it was a helpless little girl."

"The suspense was terrific—and terrifying," remarked an editor. "You had the feeling that any moment the rescuers would reach her, and you prayed, they would find her alive. The minutes ticked away and became hours before you knew it."

"All of the elements added up to suspense," agreed one of the men who covered the scene. "There was the jangling sound of the drills—and the awful hush when they stopped to change crews to clean the drills."

"Other factors added to the drama—the eagerly expectant crowd, the rescuers working themselves into exhaustion, the television cameras broadcasting the scene continuously, the big lights sent by the movie studios, the sleepy community jolted by this mammoth activity.

"Above all was the thought that life or death might depend on how soon they reached her. No wonder we worked at the scene until we were sick from weariness."

Another editor offered more basic reasons: "It was a heart-breaking story, especially for those with children of their own. No one could escape feeling emotional about Kathy's plight. And I believe everyone felt within himself the fear of being enclosed in that tiny space."

"Maybe this is it," suggested a reporter. "The world had just been through a tremendous effort aimed at killing. Was it any wonder people felt deeply about a heroic attempt to save one life?"

Today the scene of the rescue attempt is covered with mustard weeds. The well itself and the two rescue shafts were filled with dirt the same night Kathy's body was recovered. Even so, employees of the company which owns the lot are instructed to keep trespassers away.

Kathy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Fiscus, have continued to live as they did before the tragedy. But of course, they can't forget the little girl who tumbled down the well. Nor can the world.

JUST A MATTER OF PSYCHOLOGY

Timid U. S. Men Shrink From Being World's Best - Dressed

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Writer

NEW YORK, April 8.—American men, who could be the world's best dressed, are careful not to be. "It's a matter of psychology," said Chauncey Hunter, director of the Custom Tailors' and Designers' Association of America.

"Successful and moneyed men have a cautious approach to clothes because there has been a social revolution. They think, because of public opinion, that it is undesirable to appear in the wide variety of clothes they can well afford."

Because American men fear being pointed out as a "clotheshorse" or a "dandy," Hunter maintains, most younger men shy away from a large or colorful wardrobe.

"It's the older men who have achieved an invulnerable business standing who are apt to launch new fashions in men's clothing," he said. "Even more often, it's the older men who are retired or semi-retired who aren't afraid to blossom out in gay colors or new styles. It actually makes them feel younger—and it gives them some attention."

Younger men, ambitiously carving out their careers, are among the most conservative of dressers. They are afraid that flashy or too sharp clothes will give an impression of flightiness or preoccupation with the less serious side of life.

All this makes tailors very sad. There are, however, a number of men who go around in drab sack suits, white shirts and somber neckties, who have secret wardrobes that would make a peacock envious. Hunter knows one man whose fancy was caught by violently colored velvet waistcoat. He had 25 of them made up in a wide range of colors.

"I don't think he ever dared wear one of them," Hunter said disapprovingly. "I also knew a man who ordered 11 light blue flannel suits, all exactly alike. But I suppose you could call them eccentric, the average man doesn't do things like that."

The worst people in the world to ask about "average wardrobes" are tailors, particular custom tailors. They naturally would like every man to acquire a large custom-made wardrobe.

How many suits should a man have?

One famous New York tailor threw his hands into the air and told about customers who had for country wear alone four jackets and between 15 and 20 pairs of various hued slacks.

"They can mix them up and have an unlighted selection," he said. "Many men have as many as 30 suits—for all types of wear, but of course I'm not including formal dinner and evening garb."

All the tailors shied away from tagging specific men as "best dressed." None thought Harry S. Truman a fashion plate by New York standards.

"I'd say he tries to be a snappy dresser—natty," said one who earnestly requested anonymity, "but you've got to say for the man that he's not afraid of color or anything new."

Some active businessmen in the tycoon class have huge wardrobes, but maintain it in various cities over the country.

"That's getting common," Tailor Ray Twyeffort said. "You can't carry much luggage on a plane, and besides there are so many clothes."

A man will have a California wardrobe in California and a New York wardrobe in New York," Twyeffort—whose Scotch plaid tuxedo jackets seems to be catching on among the uninhibited dressers—thinks the bulk of the male fashion pioneers is in the Midwest, not Hollywood. It's the Midwestern businessmen, he says, who broke away from New York's conservative fashion dictaates. Immediately after the disappearance of the valet, custom taffeta frequently took charge of the cleaning and pressing of customers' clothes, Hunter said, but increasing costs made this impractical.

Twyeffort thinks that modern pressing and cleaning methods shorten the life of good woolen cloth—take the oil and life out of it, but he hasn't any substitute suggestions.

What makes a well-dressed man? There's no uniform answer. It seems to boil down to a man blessed or pressed into a good figure, with a clothes sense who has clothes and keeps them in good shape.

"And what is well-dressed in New York may not be in any number or other parts of the country—and vice versa," added Hunter.

Big Spring Takes A Step Forward With the Addition Of Trinity Memorial Park

Trinity Memorial Park, a modern, beautifully landscaped cemetery, will be maintained on a perpetual care basis in accordance with the laws of the state of Texas. Under the perpetual care laws of the State of Texas a fund is established with an authorized trust company. A portion of the receipts from the sale of each lot is deposited in this fund. This fund can never be disturbed by anyone and the earnings of this fund are paid to the Park each year to be used in maintaining the lawns and shrubbery of the park. When you acquire a plot in Trinity Memorial Park you are assured of perpetual care not for a limited number of years but FOREVER.

No monuments will be allowed in Trinity Memorial Park instead the graves will be marked with imperishable bronze markers laid even with the greensward, thus giving it a park like appearance at all times.

The site for this park was selected because of its wonderful soil and an abundance of water to maintain its beauty and far enough from the city to insure that its beauty can never be marred by any industrial or commercial operations.

Similar parks have been built in many cities in Texas as well as other states and are perpetual marks of beauty and progress. We feel that Big Spring and Texas will always be proud of Trinity Memorial Park.

A PLEDGE:

The founders of Trinity Memorial Park are deeply conscious of their responsibility in creating an estate where the Departed may rest amid perpetual beauty.

It is therefore pledged: That no effort shall be spared in creating a Burial Estate as unlike old-type cemeteries as sunlight from darkness —

That this modern, Park-like estate shall be devoid of all indications of sorrow —

That the body of any Veterans, killed over seas, that is returned to Big Spring for burial shall be interred at no cost to the family. And a deed for space required will be given to the family.

FUTURITY PERSONALITIES

Colorado - Born Kenneth Gann Broke Horses At Age Of 12

Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of articles on trainers here for the Big Spring Futurity race meet. Kenneth Gann, trainer for the Roden Stables and of his own Futurity nominee Cheri-Mac, guesses he just grew up on horses. Born on a ranch in the State of Colorado, he was helping his father and older brother break bronchos at 12.

BLANKETS TO WINNERS—Owners of winning horses in the April 23 running of the Big Spring Futurity will be awarded attractive red horse blankets like the one held above by nurses of the Big Spring Hospital. Champions of both the quarter-mile and 3/4 furlong race will be so honored. The asses holding the blanket in the picture are, left to right, Virginia Ryan, Theresa Schiltz and Mickey Miksis. They work for Dr. M. H. Bennett, president of the sponsoring committee, the Sheriff's posse. (Photo by Mathis).

Lane Arrives With Four BS Futurity Nominees

E. H. Lane, Odem, rancher and owner of four two-year-olds nominated in the Big Spring Futurity, arrived late Friday night with his horses. He also brought the T. G. Benson nominee, Hy Asthal, as well as an older horse, Sadie. The Lane nominees, all bred by King Ranch, arrived in a King Ranch horse-van. The caravan came here from Skidmore, where the horses were taken following the close of a very successful season at Fair Grounds, New Orleans. Among the nominees of Lane are two of the nation's outstanding two-year-olds: Redcote and La Marga. Redcote had three firsts and three seconds in six starts at Fair Grounds. La Marga crossed the wire first on three occasions, second on one and third in her other start. Included in the party were C. Whimsier, Lane's trainer, and Robert Kennedy, a jockey. Redcote and La Marga currently are topping the nation's ratings for two-year-olds and are heavy favorites in the local classic.

The two Lane fillies were nominated in both divisions of the Futurity and Lane kept them eligible for both races. He has made no comment on how he will run them, however. Of his other two nominees, Senor Hygro is eligible for the 3/4 furlong division while Encantadora will vie for the honors in the quarter-mile division. The King Ranch colts carry some of the best thoroughbred bloodlines on American tracks and their appearances here speaks for the quality of the Big Spring Futurity.

Racing Program Is Scheduled At Local Track

With Futurity time only seven days away, the Sheriff's posse racing oval west of town has become a beehive of activity. Spectators at the grounds are treated to a scene of trainers and stable hands, exercise boys and jockeys all work toward the same end preparing mounts for the trial heats, which take place next Sunday.

Most of the stables are now filled with Futurity eligibles and practically all of the stalls will be taken within the next day or two. Outstanding animals from many points in the Southwest are in training now for the trial runs, when finalists for the big April 23 classic will be decided.

An informal program of exhibition and match races will be held, starting at 2 p. m. today. In many cases, there will be a preview of Futurity competitors, as trainers pit their hopefuls in dead-serious seasoning runs for the big races just ahead.

Some half-dozen races are already lined up. A nominal gate charge will be levied to help with expenses toward staging the Futurity.

Four BB Leagues In Texas Begin Play This Week By The Associated Press TEXAS' professional baseball blooms all over the place this week. Four of the eight leagues in which this state has clubs will open the season. The others swing into action next week.

It's the biggest—and probably will be the whackiest—because of that fact—in Texas history. Forty-seven clubs will play in Texas, making the Lone Star State the national leader. Texas this year takes over the top spot in America, having two more clubs than North Carolina, which until now has led the nation. North Carolina boasts 45 clubs this time.

The storied Class AA Texas League, fifth oldest professional baseball circuit in the United States—only the National, International, Southern and Western are older—starts its fifty-fifth campaign Tuesday. Also, the Rio Grande Valley League, raised to Class C this year, and the Class D Loughorn League, open Tuesday.

Wednesday, the Gulf Coast League, a Class C circuit, starts its first race. April 18 the Class B Big State League and the Class C East Texas and Arizona-Texas Leagues begin the campaign.

The last league to start is the Class C West Texas-New Mexico which opens April 19. The eight leagues in which Texas has 47 of the 69 clubs drew 3,582,474 in attendance last year. The Texas clubs drew 3,726,486 of it. There is every reason to believe that this will be exceeded by more than a half-million this season since there are six more Texas clubs than last year. The new Gulf Coast League, with four Texas teams, and the Rio Grande Valley League, expanding from six to eight, should make this possible.

Cayuses Entertain Angelo At 3; Open Season Tuesday

Locals In Need Of Mound Help

Pal Stacey's 1950 Big Spring Broncos, who open their Loughorn league campaign in Midland's spacious park Tuesday night, mark time today in an exhibition game with the San Angelo Colts. Starting time of the exhibition bout is 3 o'clock, scene of action Stear park.

Angelo runs as one of the favorites to cop the league hunting. At the moment, they shape up stronger than the Steeds, because they appear to have better pitching. So far, the Steed hurlers have performed poorly. In their first four games, the local tossers surrendered a total of 57 runs.

True, the locals have done some slugging of their own sort, if they're to make a play for first place; they'll have to be reasonably good in the box, as well as in other departments. Right now, Midland appears to have the class of league teams. All other teams, including a vastly improved Sweetwater outfit, must be given consideration.

Jimmy McClure is the new manager of the Angelo outfit that arrives in town today. He was skipper at Eldorado, Ark., last season. He's a pitcher and is sure to see action this season. Bob Crues, who was with Roosevelt last year, Lefty Shelton, Wayne Wallace, Bobby Beal and Doc Schneckel are others familiar to local fans who are with the Colts.

Swatters Romp On Big Spring

Sweetwater won a lengthy exhibition game from the Big Spring Broncos, 20-16, here Friday night. The Swatters broke in front and were never headed, although heavy-clouting in the late innings gave the guests some uneasy moments. Fred Hester led the Sweetwater offense with four safeties. Jorge Lopez had a bases-loaded homer for the Broncos in the ninth frame and kicked in with three other blows to highlight the 15-hit Big Spring offensive. The loss was the third in four exhibition games for the Big Springers.

Softball Parley Is Postponed

Team managers in the YMCA softball league, originally scheduled to hold an organizational meeting at the Y Monday night, have moved that convalesce back until Friday evening. It appears now that circuit play will get underway before the week of April 18. Four teams are ready for action and Y Secretary Lee Milling expressed hope that at least two more will join the circuit.

BROOKLYN—Dodger Manager Burt Shotton is counting heavily in 1950 on outfielder Carl Furillo, above, who found himself in the September stretch drive last season. The Brooklyn flyhawk, who hit .322 last season, also is credited with the best throwing arm in the National League.

Teacher Certain Pettit Has Stuff To Make Pitcher

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 8. (AP)—Paul Pettit, the Pittsburgh Pirates' $100,000 bonus pitcher, has a lot to learn but his baseball teachers are certain he has the stuff to make the 'Bucs' gamble look good. Both Manager Hugh Luby of the Pirates' New Orleans farm club—where Pettit will play this season—and Pirate Scout Ben Tincup insist the 18-year-old California schoolboy has plenty of poise but not enough pitching savvy—yet!

They say they weren't too disappointed when Pettit gave up six runs in the first inning of an exhibition against the Pittsburgh club Thursday. After that letup the youngster settled down and didn't allow a run as he faced 11 National Leaguers in the next three innings. Prior to his appearance against the Bucs, Pettit had appeared in three exhibition tilts. He pitched 13 innings, allowing only seven hits and no runs. Under baseball's bonus rule Pettit must be called up by the Bucs next season.

"I am banking on him to be a winner both here and for the Pirates," said Tincup, who has been assigned to help Luby watch over Pettit. This is what Tincup thinks of him: "He has a lot to learn. But he is absorbing the stuff slow and sure."

"It's a lot different up here than in high school, and contrary to what you have heard or read, Pettit's control is not as good as we'd like. He's a bit wild but not too bad for a left hander. He has a high, hard one, a good curve and can pull the string when necessary. For an 18-year-old he has good poise. He won't rattle too often."

LOCAL PREPS HOST BENGALS MONDAY

Conn. Isaac's Big Spring high school baseball charges will play their first night game of the year and their final exhibition contest of the campaign at Stear park here Monday evening. Guests for the occasion will be the Snyder Tigers, coached by Milton (Speedy) Moffett, one-time Big Spring football assistant and more recently an aide at San Angelo.

Moffett's team recently lost an 8-7 decision to the Sweetwater Mustangs, a team that is threatening to become a factor in District 5AA play.

The Longhorns copped their first decision of the season last Wednesday by bopping Midland, 10-2. They had previously lost six straight decisions.

Floyd (Pepper) Martin will probably toe the slab for the Big Springers Monday while Weber or Brown may toll on the hill for the Bengals.

After the Snyder contest, the locals will be idle until April 18, at which time they meet the Mustangs in Sweetwater. District play will extend through May 5.

Baski Says He Won't Miss Again NEW YORK, April 8. (AP)—"This time I'm not going to miss the boat."

It was Joe Baski talking. The 23-pound ex-coal miner from Kulpmont, Pa., had just stopped handsome Bernie Reynolds of Fairfield, Conn., in two minutes seven seconds of the seventh round at St. Nicholas Arena.

Big Joe floored his 188-pound foe seven times and looked very impressive. He wore the 24-year-old Reynolds down with a vicious head and body attack and ended the scheduled ten-rounder with left hooks to the mid sections in the seventh.

The first-decked Reynolds didn't even bother to count after the second. "Big Joe was jubilant. This time I'm not going to kick away any chances," said Baski. "I lost my chance at Joe Louis in '47 because I didn't train for Ole Tandberg."

Tandberg beat Baski in Sweden. "Now I'm going to work and work. This is my last chance and I plan to go right to the top. I'll want a few more bouts, then give me Rocky Graziano and then Edward Charles (the NBA champion)."

Can Stengel Do It Again. Asks Baseball World

NEW ORLEANS, April 8. (AP)—Can Casey Stengel do it again? Can the aging New York Yankees win another for the "miracle man" manager of 1949?

Let's sum of a few arguments pro and con.

On the "Yes" side:
The Yanks still have that strong "hunch" that won for them last year. Joe DiMaggio, despite the usual scare stories, is ready to go. Jerry Coleman, a rookie unknown last spring, is an established big league second baseman. The pitching looks strong with Allie Reynolds, Ed Lopat and Tommy Byrne showing particularly good form. There seems to be no overconfidence, no tendency to rest on last year's laurels. Oh yes, Joe Page is still around, too.

Now on the "no" side:
Tommy Henrich, hobbled by a knee injury, missed most of the training grind. It still is not certain that he will be able to open the season. Bobby Brown reported late after finishing med school and may not be ready to jump from the barrier, at full speed. Pitcher Jack Sanford has shown little to make up for the $100,000 he cost over a year ago. Bob Porterfield, despite a couple of fine efforts, remains a question mark because of his old arm trouble. Most important of all, the stand pat club is a year older.

You see there's a delicate balance between the two sides. Last year Stengel's inspired moves tipped the scales the right way. Old Case never made the wrong move. If he jerked a starter, Page always mowed 'em down if he replaced an outfielder with a better thrower, the next batter would hit a fly to that field and a man would be cut down at the plate with a perfect peg.

It may be asking too much for a man to never make a wrong move two years running. Old Case would be the first to admit he was lucky in some spots.

In matters of the Yankee infield would open with Henrich on first, if he is able. If not, Joe Collins, a left-hander who got plenty of work in the spring games, would take over. Coleman on second, dependable Phil Rizzuto on short and Bobby Brown and Billy Johnson alternating at third against right and left-handed pitching.

DiMaggio is the only outfielder sure of a regular job. Stengel, Wooding and Johnny Lindell in left and Cliff Mages and Hank Bauer in right. That's what he did last summer with his two-platoon system.

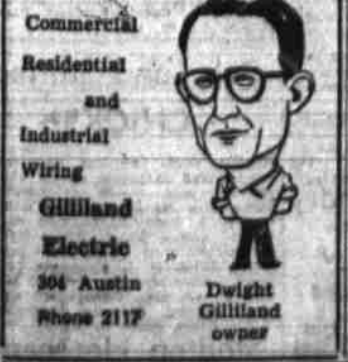

Yogi Berra, of course, is the No. 1 catcher. He'll do most of the heavy duty with help from Charley Silvers. One of the others, Ralph Houk or Gus Niarhos, will be traded to some other big league club. Stengel has four regular starting pitchers in Allie Reynolds, Vic Raschi, Ed Lopat and Tommy Byrne. Porterfield will be the fifth if he has no more arm trouble. For relief it's Page. All the regulars, except Raschi, looked good in training.

NTS Links Team Meets S'West Foes

DENTON, April 8. (AP)—The nation's No. 1 college golf team, North Texas State, will take on two Southwest Conference opponents this week in the last meets scheduled before leaving on an Eastern tour.

University of Arkansas golfers will meet the Eagles on the NTSC course Monday. Coach Fred Cobb's North Texas will go to Waco Tuesday to play the Baylor Bears. This will be a return meet for the Baylor group, which lost to NTSC, 17-1.

ACC TENNIS STAR—Bill Montgomery, former Big Spring high school tennis ace, is playing his second year with the Abilene Christian College tennis squad. Currently playing number two singles, Montgomery is expected to be a member of the ACC squad when they enter Texas Conference competition May 12 at McMurry in Abilene. He was a standout in ACC's smashing win over Texas Wesleyan in Fort Worth last week when the Cats lost only one set in six matches.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

A big reason the Big Spring Broncs rate title consideration in Longhorn baseball league play again this season is the presence on the squad of Phil DeCardenas. . . Phil, a quiet Cuban who works hard at his profession, is a rookie but no newcomer to baseball. . . He performed for the Vera-Cruz club in the Mexican league last season, hit .298 against that classy circuit's tough pitching. . . Longhorn hurlers will find Phil a tough man to pitch to this year. . . He's at home in the outfield, too, had no trouble in adjusting his play to the lights at the local stadium, as did some of the other first year men. . . Local fans will probably see many a balk called before the hurlers get used to the new rule, which states that a pitcher must extend his pause to one second upon completing his windup, if he takes it. . . Eddie Hammond, the arbiter who was behind the plate the other night when Big Spring played Lamesa, says Lefty Pete Nonclares' curve ball was the nearest thing to Julio Ramos' No. 2 pitch he's seen this season. . . Milt Eller, another Longhorn ump, says both Odessa and Midland can clout the ball with authority but the Indians might have a shade the better of it in the pitching department. . . Tom Hamilton, the one-time University of Texas first sacker, will start his pro diamond career with Lincoln in the Class A Western league. . . He's Philadelphia's A's chatter. . . A New York newspaper insists that Danny Gardella wasn't paid a dime to withdraw his suit against organized ball. . . Two crack Negro baseball teams, the Northern Stars of Minot, South Dakota, and Ligon's All Stars of Los Angeles, will play a baseball exhibition in Odessa at 3 p. m. today. . . The Ligans, who were organized at Hondo back in 1947, have traveled a total of 177,380 miles since that time. . . And not all of it to first base, either.

Old John King in Sick Bay

John ("I Hate Southpaws") King, who has played baseball here in the past, has been in Oklahoma City undergoing treatment for a serious sinus condition that is threatening his health. . . Though King was bitter in his denunciation of everyone who threw left-handed, he never had but one fight with a wronghander. . . The unlucky party of the second part was Cy Williams. The scrap occurred in Kansas City. . . Lamesa high school's football Tornados began their spring workouts last Thursday, with seven lettermen on hand. . . The Big Spring high school football schedule encompasses vast distances. . . It's over 200 miles from here to Quanah, over 400 miles between Big Spring and Victoria and around 350 miles from here to El Paso. . . Outside of the Texas Interscholastic league, only Rhode Island's high school athletic setup is not affiliated with the National Federal of High Schools among the 48 states. . . Jimmy Nichols, the physically handicapped golfer who was to perform here yesterday, lost an arm in an auto-train crash back in 1929. . . In his first practice round, Nichols had a total score of 212 for nine holes. . . His stings has toured an 18-hole layout in 66 strokes. . . Word has been received by Big Spring Futurity committee that Houston Boy, G. H. Garrison, is nominee in the 3 furlong race, has been injured and won't be able to compete here.

Bristow insists Thorpe Was Tops

Profits of both the high school football team and the pro baseballers would go up here, if the risers (or upright part of the stands) could be boarded up. . . The wind, especially active on high grounds and whistling through the openings in the stands as it often does here, discourages many fans from attending athletic contests. . . Obie Bristow, Big Spring's original man mountain, says Pop Warner, the football coaching immortal, must be getting old, if it's true he remarked recently that he thought Ernie Nevers was a better football player than Jim Thorpe. . . Obie played against both and once bowled over Nevers just for spite. . . Obie could never do that to Jeem, he adds. . . Gus White, Jr., the Lamesa all-around athlete, is being heralded as Cecil Smith's successor as American's No. One pole player, when Cec finally retires. . . Gus has been playing with Smith, Dutch Evinger and Bill Barry in California against a West Coast team recently. . . Barry replaced the well-to-do Larry Sheerin after Larry was injured and had to quit the game for six months. . . Texan Lew Jenkins, who has relatives here, has been strumming a guitar and making like a cowboy in

THOUGH ILL

One-Arm Links Star Impresses

Jimmy Nichols worked under a double whammy at the country club Saturday but gave the gallery a sample of the kind of golf that has won him a rating as the number one one-handed golfer in the world. . . Nichols not only was playing without the use of his left hand, he had been sick for three days; as well, however, he scored a 43 on the front nine and settled the second time around to register a par 36. . . He teamed with J. R. Farmer to finish all even with a team composed of Earl Reynolds and Jake Morgan in the 18 hole match. . . Nichols had two birdies and two bogies on the last nine. His wood shots were especially impressive. . . The Fort Worth Hokemas goes to Odessa for an appearance today, comes back to Midland Monday, then goes up in Lubbock Tuesday before heading for Milwaukee, Wis.

Hosses Trounce San Angeloans Again, 18-10

The Big Spring Broncs found the San Angelo Colts easy pickin's here again Saturday night, trouncing the Concho City gang, 18-10.

The exhibition was fairly close until the eighth frame, at which time the resident nine broke the game wide open with a seven run outburst.

Bobby Gonzales Carlos (Potato) Pascual and Pat Stasey paced the 2-1 hit Big Spring offensive, along with Gabo Castaneda. Gonzales hit two home runs and a brace of singles in five official trips, driving in a total of five runs.

Pascual hit for the cycle, driving out a triple in his first trip, a two-baser next time up, a home run his fourth time around and a single the fifth time he appeared at the plate.

Stasey bashed a round tripper in a pinch-hit appearance in the big eighth while Castaneda settled for four singles.

BERRY AT HELM

Vernon Duster Lineup Completely Revamped
(Editor's note: This is the fifth of a series of stories on prospects of teams in the Longhorn League.)
VERNON, April 8.—The Vernon Dusters are starting the 1950 season under new management in the front office and on the field.
The Wilberger Baseball Association, made up mostly of business men in Vernon, bought the club from the Huntleys during the winter.
First move of the new owners was to bring in "Jittery" Joe Berry as field pilot. Berry, a slight left-handed pitcher, owns a colorful diamond career that has taken him to both of the major leagues.
Berry broke into organized baseball back in 1927 and later pitched for the Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Athletics. It was during his start with the A's that Joe reached his peak as a relief pitcher. As late as 1948, he had a 4-2 record with Tulsa in the Texas League and this year plans to see plenty of service in relief roles.

Ferrier Holds One-Stroke Lead In Masters' Open

Hogan, Nelson Demaret Near

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 8. (AP)—Jim Ferrier's erratically concocted 73 on the third round was good enough to keep him in front in the Masters' Tournament Saturday as Ben Hogan three-putted on the 18th green to lose his chance for a tie.
After three rounds, the big, Australian-born Ferrier had a total of 210, six strokes under par for the long, testing Augusta National course. Hogan, the convalescent cycler from Texas and Hersey, Pa., was second with 212 and two other Texans, Byron Nelson and Jimmy Demaret, were two strokes further back.

Only these four and Sammy Snead, last year's winner who came in with 215, appeared to have any chance of winning as the pressure, the course and the gallery of about 10,000 took its toll of the rest of the field.

Par for the 6,900 yard, rolling National Course is 36-36-72, and with the pins placed in difficult positions on the big, tricky greens, it took real golf to beat that figure Saturday. The weather was the only thing better than on the first two days. It was warm and sunny, with very little breeze.

National Open Champion Cary Middlecoff of Ormond Beach, Fla., had a 68, the best round of the day, which left him trailing with 219. Nelson had a 69, as did Clayton Heafner.

Hogan, who had to soak his legs in hot water last night to improve circulation and stop the swelling that has troubled him since his near-fatal automobile accident last year, came in with a sound 71 despite difficulty on the final green.

Pirates Lose, 8-3

DALLAS LEADER

Texas League Debuts Sure To Set Record

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS, April 8. (AP)—The ancient Texas League embarks on its fifty-fifth journey Tuesday night with prospects of an opening day attendance record for just one-half of the show.

Driving Dick Burnett, whose oil millions have gone into the Dallas franchise, not only expects to set a new one-club opening mark but to furnish the impetus for an all-time first day for the entire league.

There will be four games but the spotlight is on Dallas where nine major league greats join forces with the youthful, hustling Eagle club in an effort to pack the gigantic Cotton Bowl with its 75,000 yawning seats.

Already 30,000 tickets have been sold for the Dallas-Texas opening game and Burnett hopes there will be enough more to set an all-time record for professional baseball, including the major leagues.

The record is 73,163 hung up at Cleveland in 1948. The minor league record is 50,000 made at Jersey City.

The Texas League opening day record for one game is 16,019 set in 1930 by Fort Worth. This mark already is eclipsed by Dallas with its advance sale.

The opening games Tuesday night are Tulsa at Dallas, San Antonio at Beaumont, Oklahoma City at Fort Worth and Houston at Shreveport. Beaumont expects 7,000 Shreveport looks for 10,000 and Fort Worth predicts 8,500. The Texas League opening attending record—for eight games—is 70,424 set in 1925.

Thursday the clubs change stands for openers at Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Beaumont and Houston with Dallas at Oklahoma City, Fort Worth at Tulsa, San Antonio at Beaumont and Shreveport at Houston.

At Dallas, Dixie Dean, the last major league pitcher to win 30

Receiver, First Sacker Arrive

Two players joined the Big Spring Broncs Saturday, replacing two others who were sent back to Havana by Manager Pat Stasey.

The newcomers are Elpidio Hernandez, 19-year-old catcher, and Wilfredo Larrazabal, who intends to make a fight for the first base job.

Leaving were Ernie Sempere, a pitcher with lots of stuff who proved ineffective because he was wild, and Ramon Reyes, a catcher.

Departure of Reyes leaves the Broncs with one catcher, in addition to Hernandez, yet untired, Bob (Huck) Doe, last year with Odessa, is the other receiver under contract.

Shivers Names Newsman To Staff

AUSTIN, April 8. (U)—Appointment of John VanCronkrite, Dallas newspaperman, to Gov. Allan Shivers' personal staff was announced today.

VanCronkrite resigned the general manager position of the San Antonio Express Publishing Co's morning and afternoon newspapers in the Rio Grande Valley to take the job.

It was assumed VanCronkrite would assist in the Shivers' campaign for election in the coming gubernatorial election.

PRESIDENT HAS COME LONG WAY

HST Is More Self-Confident Now Than Five Years Ago

WASHINGTON, April 8. (U)—The modest little Missourian has changed since that eventful day five years ago when he tip-toed in the presidency.

Harry S. Truman is far more self-confident now as he tussles with world problems and a Congress that still won't let him have his way on a lot of things.

It was April 2, 1945—five years ago next Wednesday—that Franklin D. Roosevelt died and Mr. Truman picked up the reins of government. Tears in his eyes, the one-time farm boy told reporters the next day.

"I don't know if any of you fellows ever had a load-of-bay or a bull fall on me. But last night the whole weight of the moon and the stars fell on me. If you fellows every pray, please pray for me."

He hadn't wanted to be vice president, or even a U. S. Senator. But there he was in the White House, and undoubtedly awed a bit by it all.

Now it is with pride that he says he is President of the United States, that it is he who will make this, that or the other decision. It isn't a cockiness, exactly, but there isn't any question that Harry Truman believes he is big enough for the job of President.

He resented it and fought back when there were suggestions in the 1948 campaign that he wasn't big enough. Possibly what built up his self-assurance as much as anything was his underdog victory that gave him the presidency in his own right and not as a hand-me-down.

At first, when he moved into the White House, he said over and over again he wished President Roosevelt still lived. He adopted the Roosevelt New Deal and legislative program as his own. He adopted the Roosevelt foreign policy.

Now he has branched out on his own. The New Deal has become what he calls the "Fair Deal" and what some Republicans call socialism. Foreign policy now bears the Truman stamp—the imprint of the "Truman Doctrine" of helping weak nations ward off communism.

It was the Truman Administration that produced the Marshall Plan and the Atlantic Pact, to stiffen the economic and military backbones of nations shuddering in the shadow of Red Russia.

Republicans and Democrats both helped put those plans into operation.

Yet there have been signs of cracks developing in the widely heralded bi-partisan foreign policy.

Some Senate Republicans have pointed a scolding knife at Secretary of State Acheson. Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) keeps repeating charges, though he has produced no definite proof, that Communists have infested the State Department.

House Republicans, with democratic help, have been mauling a bill to continue Marshall Plan aid and embark on a new program of helping underdeveloped countries.

Mr. Truman has been fighting back. He is standing firmly behind Acheson. He says McCarthy is the Kremlin's "greatest asset." He has castigated the "give-'em-hell" campaign against taking steps he said might point in the direction of World War 3.

And before long the President may set out on a whistle stop rail trip to talk with the people and see whether they are with him. In this congressional election year, there may be a miniature version of his "give-'em-hell" campaign of '48.

Two years ago the Republican-controlled 80th Congress was his special target. This year it probably won't be the democratic-controlled 81st, but the Republicans in it.

Yet Democrats have helped hold back or kill all sorts of administration bills, to such an extent that the 81st Congress may treat the Truman program almost as roughly as the 80th did.

In general, the foreign affairs and national defense parts of the President's program have fared better in Congress than legislation for a program at home.

That goes for all the five years Mr. Truman has been in office. It was in September, 1945 that Mr. Truman first submitted to Congress a major legislative program of his own. It was a 21-point program, and more points were added later.

Many of those points still are on the waiting list, although the President keeps on plugging for them time after time. He may win out on some of them before the present Congress quits this summer.

But at the moment, the box score on major issues of the last five years looks something like this:

Congress approved:
Heavy spending for defense, stockpiling of strategic materials, foreign economic and military aid, a peacetime draft, continuation of reciprocal trade pacts, an armed forces unification law.

A government reorganization program, help for farmers, repeal of federal oleomargarine taxes, a boost in the national minimum wage, a low-cost housing program, modified rent control.

On the waiting list, with a chance of clearing Congress in some form this session:
An enlarged social security program, a national science foundation, rent control, a displaced persons bill.

On the waiting list, and likely to stay there:
A tax boost (even a moderate one), compulsory health insurance, federal aid to education, River Valley developments, repeal of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law, bigger benefits for the unemployed civil rights legislation, universal military training, abolition of the draft.

Thus the record shows that, like all Presidents, Mr. Truman has been having his ups and downs in reaching for "a better life at home and a better world for future generations."

But he hasn't retreated from his prediction that:
"The job, the full job, can and will be done."

India, Pakistan Sign Agreement

NEW DELHI, India, April 8. (U)

The prime ministers of India and Pakistan today signed an agreement aimed at ending the communal fighting between Hindus and Moslems that has plagued both countries since they won independence from Britain in 1947.

"It will be presented simultaneously to the India Parliament and to the Constituent Assembly of Pakistan on Monday, April 10," a communique announced.

Details were not officially disclosed. The pact is generally believed, however, to include at least two major points:

1. Establishment of commissions which would investigate any further communal outbreaks and report their recommendations for remedial action to the two governments.

2. A program to be carried out in both nations for the protection and rehabilitation of minorities—Moslems in India and Hindus in Pakistan.

Prime Ministers Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan and Jawaharlal Nehru of India signed the agreement at Government House after seven days of discussion.

Operetta Scheduled

Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium, eighth grade music students of Mrs. Homer Wilmoughby, will present the operetta, "Big Day." The presentation features an all-girl cast. Arlene Mitchell is the accompanist. Proceeds will go to the costume fund.

Here's something of the story: On the day that Jane Jackson, played by Della Sue Reynolds, was born, her wealthy father, in honor of the occasion, founded the Retreat, where every working woman might come for a day of rest, to partake of its bounty and to share in its peaceful surroundings. Mrs. DeSmyth, a society matron of apparent kindness and of much business ability, portrayed by Nancy Lee Henson, was chosen by Jackson to take charge of the Retreat, at a very handsome salary.

When the child, Jane, was three years old, her parents died, and in accordance with her father's will she was sent to the Retreat to be under Mrs. DeSmyth's tender care. Both the lawyers and Mrs. DeSmyth received explicit instructions that Jane was not to know of her wealth until she was 21 years of age. Then her inheritance, as well as the management of the Retreat, were to be turned over to her.

All was carried out to the letter and when Jane was old enough she was made private secretary to Mrs. DeSmyth. Most of the care of the Retreat devolved on her slender shoulders, but she loved the work and everybody loved her. All would have gone well had not Mrs. DeSmyth turned greedy. To procure another year's salary with which to pay her social debts, she made Jane believe she was two years old instead of three when she came to the Retreat, forgetting in her avarice that lawyers as a rule can not be hoodwinked.

When the story opens, the Retreat is celebrating its 20th or really its 21st birthday. Mrs. DeSmyth and her society friends are receiving the guests. All manner of women are present, maids of every description, cooks, working women, some old and some young. All are awaiting the promised sumptuous birthday dinner, and the Garden Mardi Gras that is to follow.

There are many amusing characters in the play. Mrs. O'Malley, as played by Ruthie Hall, who has just celebrated her silver wedding anniversary, with two departed husbands one living to make up the 25 years. Also Miss Lilly a poor witted flower, played by Charlene Boyd, and many others who add humor to the story.

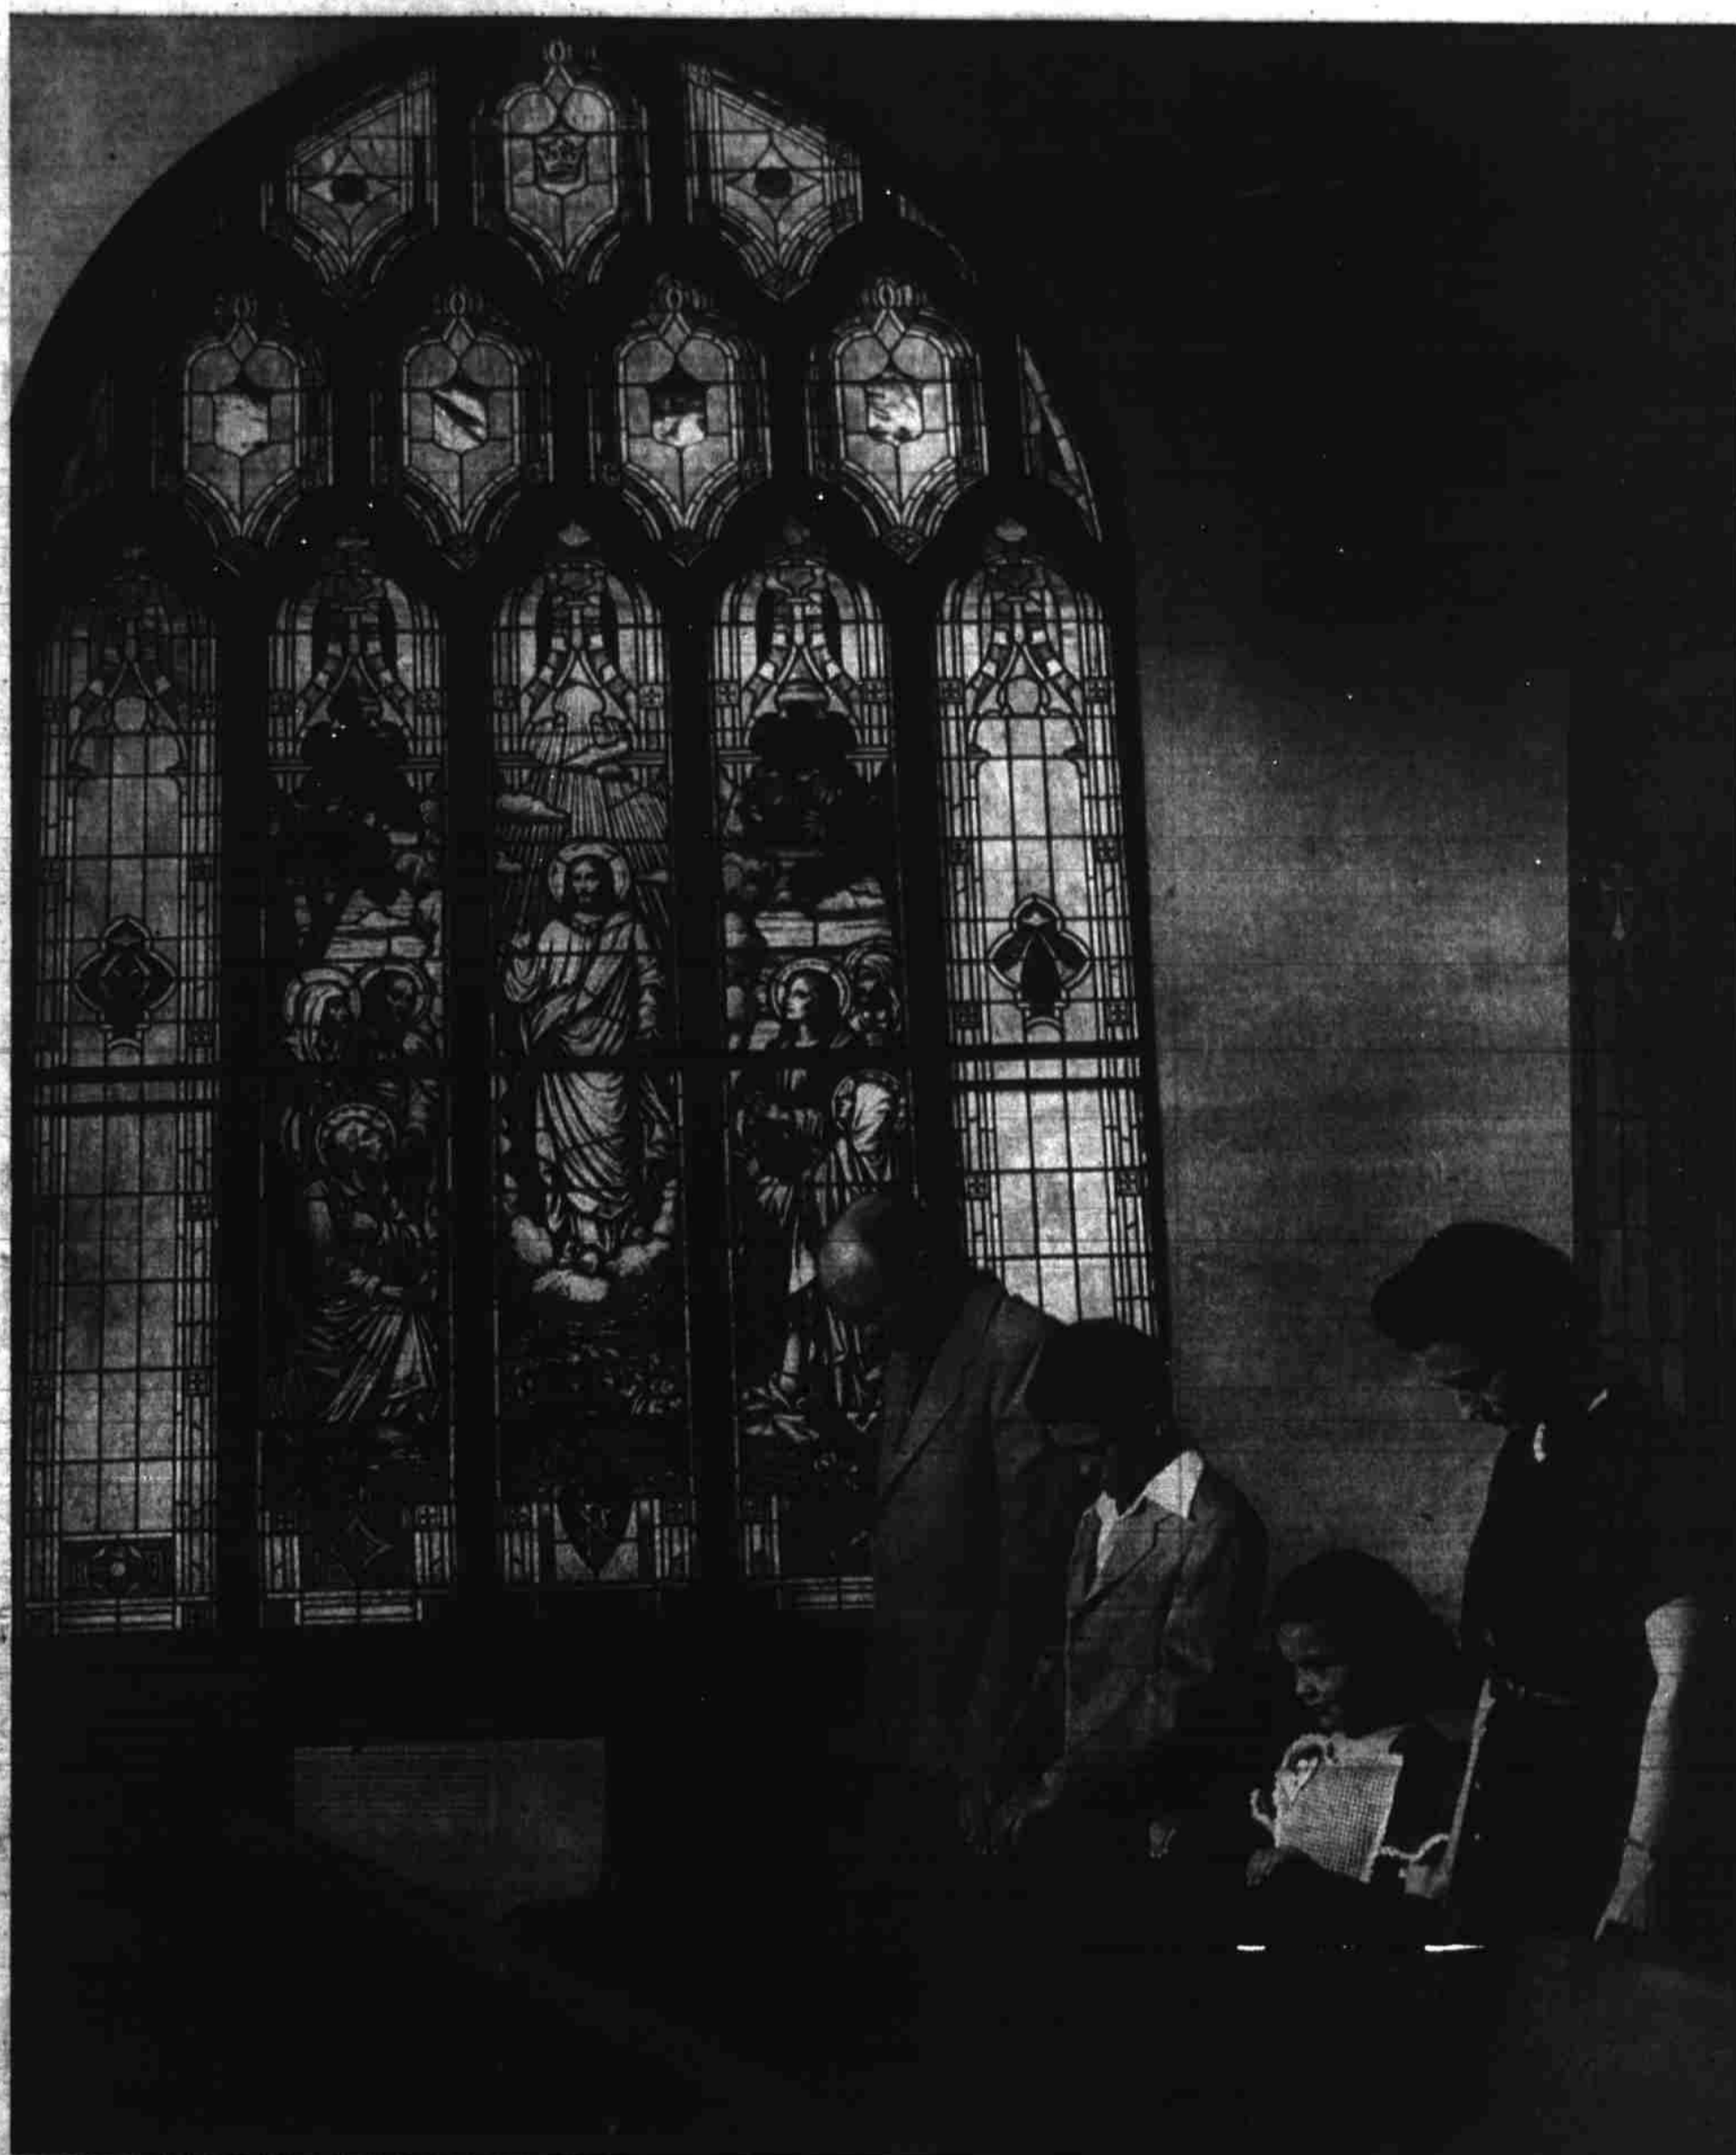

In the midst of the fun Jane's Aunt Alice, portrayed by Joan McKinney, arrives with her very firm maid. Jane had never heard of Aunt Alice until this moment. She tells Jane that, being a trustee of her father's estate, she had come to turn over the inheritance and the management of the Retreat to her. Of course, Jane is astounded to learn that she has an aunt, and an inheritance, and that she is celebrating her 21st instead of her 20th birthday.

This does not mar the day's festivities, although Aunt Alice is inclined to be severe with Mrs. DeSmyth for her deception. Jane declares the money and the birthday are hers, and she has a right to settle the affair in her own way. She invited Mrs. DeSmyth to remain in the Retreat as her guest, but Mrs. DeSmyth declines. She is going to Australia to her brother and will be leaving immediately.

The women are made happy by the turn of affairs and are not backward in expressing their joy. Aunt Alice, however, is disgusted when Jane declares she will take care of Mrs. DeSmyth's debts and pay her passage to Australia. Jane insists that the women wish Mrs. DeSmyth a bon voyage, good luck and a happy landing. The wrong is forgiven and forgotten and the curtain falls on a gay and happy company.

Other characters are: Grace, a helper in the retreat, played by Joyce Cole, Anna, Swedish Maid, Frankie Marstrand, Caroline, Aunt Alice's maid, Helga Kay Williams, Lisette, French maid, Mary Ella Bigony, Harlequin, Evelyn Lewallen, and Columbine, Dolores Sneed, singers and dancers in the Mardi Gras.

Is Improving
C. C. Balch, who is receiving medical treatment in the Malone and Hogan hospital following a heart attack, is reported to be improving. However, members of the family report that he is still unable to receive visitors.

Easter Services

Local citizens join Christian worshippers throughout the world today in the observance of Easter.

Christians, representing various denominations of the city, were to attend the annual sunrise Easter services conducted by the Big Spring Pastor's association at the city park amphitheater. Services were scheduled for 6:15 a.m. with the Rev. Aisle H. Carleton, pastor of the First Methodist church, delivering the Easter message. Easter music was presented by a choir made up of representatives of all choirs of all churches represented in the pastor's association. Several special musical numbers were on the program and a number of pastors were to direct the worship hour.

Churches throughout the city were expecting the usual overflow crowds of Easter Sunday morning as people from all walks of life prepared to observe the resurrection by attending churches of their choice.

Easter messages have been announced by most pastors of the city for both the morning and evening services. Easter anthems, solos and cantatas are on the schedules.

At the St. Thomas Catholic church, high mass, followed by the benediction is set for 9 a.m. Mrs. Leslie E. Green will direct the choir in the special musical service. Mrs. Omar Pitman, Sr. will serve as organist, Omar Pitman, Jr. will be featured as the violinist.

High mass, followed by the benediction, is set for the Sacred Heart Catholic church at 10:30 a.m. Sister Mary Gertrude will serve as organist and director for several numbers to be presented by the Sacred Heart choir.

At the evening services of the First Baptist church, Dr. P. D. O'Brien, church pastor, will deliver a brief message and the rest of the service will be given to the presentation of special Easter music by the choir.

Members of a number of congregations are taking the Easter observance as an opportunity for outings.

A special dedication service for children will be held during the morning services of the Apostolic Faith church. A basket lunch will be served at noon.

An Easter egg hunt will be held for the youth department, following Sunday morning services at the Assembly of God.

Another Easter egg hunt is scheduled by the Park Methodist church at 2 p.m., following a congregational basket lunch.

Members of the St. Paul's Lutheran church will have a basket lunch at the city park at noon. This will be followed by the Sunday school Easter egg hunt at 2 p.m.

Lucile Hester Gives Program For Church Class

Lucile Hester gave the devotional when the First Methodist Sunday school class held a regular monthly luncheon meeting in the church Friday. Miss Hester based her discussion on the message of the cross and Christ's love for his people as based on John 15.

An Easter motif was used in the table decorations.

Business was conducted. Attending were: Mrs. W. B. Nichols, Mrs. N. W. McCleskey, Mrs. R. L. Warren, Lucile Hester, Mrs. W. A. "And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

"Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me."

"In my Father's house are many mansions, if it were not so, I would have told you, I go to prepare a place for you."

"And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also, "And whither I go ye know, and the way ye know."

Thousands of worshippers throughout the world join today in the observance of the resurrection morn and to acclaim again their faith in life eternal.

Smith-Utt Wedding Rites Are Read In Church Of God Saturday Evening

Neida Smith became the bride of Roy Utt in a single ring ceremony performed at the Main Street Church of God Saturday evening.

The Rev. John E. Kolar served as officiant. Informal vows were exchanged before a background setting of white gladioli and fernery. A lighted cross illumined the nuptial bower, which was flanked by lighted cathedral tapers in graduated candelabra.

Mrs. Richard Reagan played a medley of love songs prior to the ceremony and the traditional wedding marches during the service. She accompanied Betty Fowler, soloist, who sang, "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Smith of Big Spring. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Utt of San Angelo.

For her wedding, the bride chose a white gabardine suit, with pink accessories. She carried a tinted pink gardenia atop a white Bible, belonging to Diana O'Brien. For something old, she wore her mother's wedding ring; something new was her ensemble; something borrowed was a pair of pink mitts, belonging to Floyce Brown and something blue was a pair of garters. She wore a penny in her shoe for luck.

Fern Walton served as matron of honor. Mrs. Walton chose a green dress with a corsage of white carnations. Floyce Brown acted as maid of honor. Miss Brown wore a pink dress, with navy blue accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The Rev. Floyd E. Crabtree was best man. Other attendants included Eddie Hickson and J. D. Jenkins, an usher.

Candlelighters were Bernadine Smith and Jeanette Smith.

Mrs. G. R. Smith, mother of the bride, wore a black and white sheer dress and black accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of white roses. Mrs. G. W. Utt, mother of the bridegroom, wore a black dress and an orchid corsage.

A reception was held in the church parlor immediately following the ceremony. Mrs. John E. Kolar served as hostess at the affair.

Decorations in the reception rooms were in pink and white, the bride's chosen colors. The refreshment table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with the bride's bouquet, a pink tinted gardenia. Silver and crystal appointments completed the table setting. Mrs. Truett Thomas poured punch and Mrs. Ruth Walton cut the tiered wedding cake.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring high school. She was formerly associated with the Retail Merchants Association and the State National Bank. Utt graduated from San Angelo high school and served 20 months in the United States Navy. He attended Howard County Junior college and is now a student at the San Angelo Junior college. He is employed as a bookkeeper and salesman for the Queen City Distributors of San Angelo.

For traveling, Mrs. Utt chose a white suit with red trim and a red carnation corsage. She wore red accessories.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home in San Angelo.

Did you have a new Easter outfit? Perhaps you will be interested in excerpts from a letter received by Glynn Jordan from a displaced person in Bavaria who has received some used clothing from the United States. "Dear Aline..... Don't say again anything about that it hurts you, that you are sending old clothes, if you would see here the prices for clothes, etc., you would be surprised and I can assure you even if the dresses you send would be really old (which isn't true at all) I still would look better dressed up than anyone else (as your material is good and your fashions are so lovely). I don't think that anything has been stolen out of the boxes you sent us. The last box was as wonderful as all the others you sent before. All dresses are fitting excellent. I had only to make them smaller in the waist, but it is better, they are large than too tight. Oh, the black dress!! And the green, and the others!! I am so very much proud. Silvia said that I am looking like the queen in a fairytale. I will put my nose up high and will be walking like a real queen!!! I thank you so very much for them... The felt hat fits lovely, and I thank you for it. It is my first hat since 5 years and really looks really good on me. Also the gloves are fitting. The fingers are a little bit smaller than mine (I have long fingers that was good in former times, when I was piano-playing) but I can wear them, as it does not make any difference. The black shoes (from your sister) are fitting excellent. I am so very much happy about them. If I would buy those shoes, I would have to pay about 90 marks. Mother thanks you very much for the coffee (she loves coffee). The candy we wanted to keep too for Easter, but we tasted it, and it is really a shame, but we all three are so very much without any self-discipline. It has gone the way of all earthly things... You are yourself a nice-looking young woman, and I know that you have much understanding for me, and you sure know, how fine I feel, when I am nice dressed. And I thank you for this wonderful understanding of yours.... Your Katharina with Silvia and my mother."

Gaylia Wray Hilburn Becomes Bride Of Ollie Claude McDaniel Friday

Gaylia Wray Hilburn and Ollie Claude McDaniel were united in marriage in an informal, candle-light ceremony in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hilburn, 319 Princeton, Friday evening.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie McDaniel, 103 Lincoln.

The Rev. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated at the double ring ceremony. The couple exchanged their vows before an altar scene banked with lighted white tapers in graduated candelabra and interspersed with greenery, huckleberry, lemon leaves and white heather. Baskets of calla lilies and stock completed the sanctuary setting.

Mrs. George O'Brien, Sr. served as organist. Prior to the ceremony, she played the selection, "Clair de Lune," "Because," and "I Love You Truly." She played the traditional wedding marches as the recessional and processional.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in an ice blue tulle ensemble, designed with pleated ruffles around the sleeves, neckline and fitted scalloped jacket. The skirt was full and flaring. She wore navy blue accessories and a navy blue hat trimmed with pink flowers. She carried a white prayer book topped with an arrangement of pink camellias. For something old the bride wore a pin belonging to the bridegroom's sister, Katherine Collins. Something new was her ensemble. Something borrowed was the white prayer book from Mrs. Clifford Hale, Jr. and something blue was a garter, given her by her sister, Mrs. George D. Steakley of Abilene.

Mrs. George D. Steakley served as matron of honor. Mrs. Steakley chose a yellow organdy ensemble, with an orchid flower hat and orchid shoes. She carried a colonial bouquet of orchid, gladiolus and stock.

George O'Brien, Jr. was best man. Bud Purser served as candlelighter.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Hilburn chose a navy blue dress with rhinestone button trim and pink accessories. She wore a white gladiolus corsage. Mrs. McDaniel was attired in a navy blue dress and white gladiolus corsage. Her accessories were black.

Attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Ollie McDaniel and daughter Katherine Collins, Boyd McDaniel, Mr. and Mrs. Hask McDaniel, Mr. and Mrs. Dewie O. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. George O'Brien, Jr., George D. Steakley, and Mrs. George O'Brien Sr.

The bride is a graduate of Abilene high school and of Hardin Simmons University. She attended the University of Arizona in Tucson for one semester. While in college, she was a member of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority and of the college orchestra where she served as first violinist.

The bridegroom graduated from San Angelo high school and is a student at the Texas Technological college in Lubbock. He is an electrical engineering major. He served three years in the Armed Forces, with a portion of that time spent in the European theatre of operations.

For travelling, Mrs. McDaniel chose a navy blue faille suit, with navy accessories. Her corsage was of pink camellias.

Following a short wedding trip to Austin, the couple will be at home in Lubbock, where the bridegroom will complete his education.

A Bible Thought For Today -

We can lie out of an embarrassing position, but in the end bitter tears are the result. "And Peter went out and wept bitterly." Luke 22:62.

Happy Are Those Who Can Claim Assurance Of The Resurrection

Today symbolizes the pivotal hope of Christians—a hope shared, perhaps in different ways, by almost all other people. As for the former, it is based on a hallowed demonstration which has made Easter the most glorious of all the occasions in Christendom.

everything that is satisfying and enduring. If we believe that matter and energy, whether really the one and same, are indestructible, how can we believe that the very thing which gives life to man and sets him apart from all others should disappear as a puff of smoke? No, if we believe what science tells us about the stuff of our universe, we must believe even more deeply than ever before what God tells us about the soul.

Here's Philosophy Behind The Whole Unemployment Pay Idea

WASHINGTON, (AP) — IN 1935, AS PART of the broad social security system it was then creating, Congress set up a nationwide program for giving pay to jobless people.

covers only those employers with eight or more employees in jobs which fall within the law. An employer with less than eight employees is not under the federal law although he may have to pay a state tax.

THE UNEMPLOYMENT PAY SYSTEM is based on a tax which employers must pay to the federal government and to their own states. Out of the tax they collect, the states can pay the "covered" unemployed.

ABOUT 1,400,000 EMPLOYERS PAY the tax. At any one time about 32 million workers are in covered jobs although over a year's time a total of around 46 million, through job changes, may have moved in or out of such jobs.

Elaborate Texas Ranch Estate Becomes Ideal Church Retreat

The next time you're down in the Hill Country around Kerrville, try to take out a little time to visit a most amazing resort place.

not one, but about three beaves, in that place.

It is now the Presbyterian Mo-Ranch, owned and operated by the Synod of Texas, Presbyterian Church, U. S. acquired by that body through contributions among its membership.

Incidentally, there are fireplaces in practically every room of every building, of varying sizes and design. Every bath, in every building, is finished in tile and there are a lot of these, too, and every closet in every building is cedar-lined.

A stately "main house," an elaborate field-stone mansion built and furnished for the 19th degree in comfort, was acquired in the late 20's, as I got the story, by the late Dan Moran, president of the Continental Oil Company.

The buildings on the whole are of native stone construction, but Mr. Moran put oil field pipe to good use as gigantic girders throughout. These are expertly painted and decorated to look like pine logs, and do, with knots and cracks right there to see.

In addition, a fine landing was built on the river (with small dams) for a well swimming place; but this wasn't enough. Mr. Moran also built, up on the hillside, an ornate tile swimming pool, with pagoda and terrace, complete dressing rooms and showers; multi-colored lights under the water, and even a gigantic filter system for the incoming water.

The main house, built as a residence, is deeply comfortable, with vast rooms and service rooms of all descriptions, with a gun-room and all the rest of the trappings of a great estate.

Of course, about three basketball games can be going on in the gymnasium, which also is a big assembly hall, as well as a skating rink and a square dance pavillion. In one end of this gymnasium is a sunken area before an open fireplace which is about eight feet high and at least 20 feet long, with old-fashioned spits and kettles. I figured one could barbecue and basketball courts.

The little chapel, a thing of rare beauty, boasts stained glass windows imported from Europe. There are tons of ornamental iron work all over the place, done, I was told, by one craftsman who stayed on the job there for three years.

Hal Plagued By Nightmares Of Liplless Sweetheart In Tunisia

NEW YORK, (AP) — INSOMNIA COMES rarely into my life—except in the daytime.

There is a lot of mosaic tile in the buildings, and those designed for Scout use have inlaid colored tiles which picture various phases of Scouting.

Gradually the tentacles of something I thought I had all but forgotten—that time in Tunisia—began to spread dreamily through my drowsy brain. And there unraveled this parade of buried memories:

Well, one need not even mention five or six big stone barns and stables (now used as classrooms), a great pleasant run-with-nothing less, if you please, than stone houses for the fancy birds; stone kennels, and the like.

Africa, a black hulk on a phosphorescent sea. . . . The first sight of blood, on hands cut by coral rocks as we clambered ashore on a beach north of Casablanca. . . . The first sight of death, the body of a young lieutenant, all but bisected by a shell, his legs dangling from the rear of a hay cart. . . . he had been singing on shipboard 18 hours before. . . .

The ranch has large dining rooms and modern kitchens, boasts its own big freezer plant, a complete ice manufacturing storage, not to mention diesel systems, an auxiliary power plant, and a "lawn" irrigation system that covers no less than 11 acres. Bridges and catwalks made of oil pipe span the gulleys and facilitate walking about the rough area.

A hospital in northern Tunisia is an airy and a Brooklyn private suffering from hysterical paralysis of the right arm. . . . He was a young Jewish boy who had bayoneted two Germans to save his life but who hated killing so much his arm would no longer work. . . . "One of the men fell in the mud and cried in German for his mother," he said. . . .

Today And Tomorrow—Walter Lippmann

American Position Weakening In Struggle Over Germany

Speaking in London on Tuesday, Mr. McCloy made what was in effect an appeal to the British to develop "a united Europe, of which Germany must be a part." This is for the time being our policy, and the crucial question is whether it rests on a correct estimate and judgment of the situation. I do not believe that it does, and that there is a growing disparity between our official hopes and the actual evolution of ideas and forces in Germany.

Oh, yes, I almost forgot to mention that this estate came complete with conservatory, a glass hothouse as big as most commercial greenhouses. Here the ranch turned out its own array of flowers, right down to orchids, and still does.

In Mr. McCloy's own more recent statements about Germany there is a note of urgency rather than of confidence, and in the reports of many visitors to Germany, Mr. Joseph Alsop for example, there is an acute anxiety. There is a feeling in the air that in the great struggle about Germany, our own position is weakening, and that the destiny of Europe, which will determine the future of Europe and the issue of war and peace, is sliding our control, our influence and our guidance.

I may have overlooked some of the other remarkable things about this place, but maybe you get the idea of general opulence, as the ranch estate was first designed, and of complete practicality, as it is now used by the Presbyterian church. You may get the idea that I was impressed with Mr. Moran's planning and execution. I was.—BOB WHIPKEY.

in war, as in love, it is your first campaign that stays bone deep in your memory. And Tunisia was our introduction to the sweetheart with the liplless kiss.

usually talking about uniting a part of Germany with a part of Europe. In working on this project we tend to assume that it could be carried out if only the British and the French could be induced, pushed, and prodded into making concessions which would bring the Adenauer government in Bonn into a Western political and economic system. Even assuming that a Western political system exists, is it valid to assume that the Western Germans will enter it? It is true that a part of Germany can be united with Western Europe in a system which can be prosperous and secure? The answer, not we, will answer—are answering—these questions. There are strong indications that they will not and that they cannot enter such a Western system.

Thus Dr. Adenauer, who is, as "Western" is a patriotic German can be, is negotiating the conditions under which his Western German government would be invited to enter the Council of Europe. Far from exhibiting enthusiasm at being invited into good company, even if he himself has such enthusiasm, he feels himself compelled to be not the weaker but the wiser. Why? Because the mass of the Germans shrink from subscribing to anything which can be interpreted as accepting a partitioned, disarmed and occupied Germany.

First Methodist Spring Revival Begins Monday; Webb Is Speaker

DR. LANCE WEBB

"The Christian Faith and Modern Miracles in Victorious Living" is the general theme of the series of services to be conducted in the First Methodist church this week by Dr. Lance Webb, Pastor of University Park Methodist church in Dallas.

Dr. Webb will be here to begin the services Monday morning. The Rev. Aisie H. Carleton, church pastor, says that services are primarily for those who are church members, giving an opportunity for those who are already Christians to renew their allegiance to Christ and to the church. All services will be open to the public.

Morning sermons, which will be delivered at 10 a. m., will take the theme of stairways.

Monday's theme, "The Stairway Of Happy Attitudes," will be based on the Beatitudes. The Lord's Prayer will be the basis for Tuesday's topic, "The Stairway of Surrender to Win." On Wednesday, Dr. Webb will use a paradox as his topic, "The Stairway of Losing To Find." How to love and be loved as discussed in I Corinthians 13, will be Dr. Webb's theme when he discusses the subject, "The Stairway of Love" on Thursday. Friday, Paul's recipe for the peace that passeth understanding as found in Philippians 4, will form the theme, "The Stairway Of Positive Thoughts." The Twenty-Third Psalm will be the text for Saturday's sermon, "The Stairway of Trust." On Sunday, April 16, at 11 a. m., the minister will speak on the subject, "We Live Victoriously in the Fellowship Of Our Church."

Evening subjects are as follows: Monday, "I Believe In Miracles Of Victorious Living." Tuesday, "On Being Nerved By God—The Miracle Of Healthy Nerves." Wednesday, "The Miracle Of Faith Overcoming Fear And Worry." Thursday, "The Miracle Of Love Overcoming Resentments, Anger, And Hate." Friday, "We Live Victoriously When Our Faith Is Wholehearted." Saturday, "We Live Victoriously When Our Faith Is Intelligent." and Sunday, "When Our Faith Triumphs Over Evil, Suffering, And Death."

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Robbins returned Thursday evening from Uvalde and other cities in Texas. Both Mr. and Mrs. Robbins were seriously ill while they were away, but are improved now. Mrs. Robbins is recovering from a broken leg.

RIBBON RAMBLINGS By Mildred Young

"For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

"For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved." John 3:16-17.

"Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me." John 14:1.

It is with a mixture of feelings that most of us face Easter Sunday morning. One of the most sacred days of the year Easter morning brings a strange hope and comfort to those who have been saddened during the year. To those who have been touched by deep sorrow, the resurrection morning should bring a great joy that comes from a stubborn faith in immortality.

Perhaps, we do wrong in placing so much of our Easter emphasis on life after death. Isn't it well that we stop to think that, after all, eternal life does not begin at the grave? It began the day we were born and even before that, it shall continue forever. Life never stops. It is endless. It is not perfect, but its potential qualities are unlimited. Man has accomplished great things, but no man can dream the things which God can accomplish in the life of a man. It is well to believe in eternity, not in the years that are ahead but in every passing moment. One of the tragic things in the world is the fact that so few actually live to the fullest even a small percent of their life span.

The Lord God has dreamed an eternal dream. He has asked us to make that dream a reality. Dare we attempt to live eternally?

"O God our help in ages past, Our hope for years to come, Be Thou our guide while life shall last, and our eternal home." Amen.

'DEAR WIFE', at the Ritz today and Monday, teams William Holden and Joan Caulfield.

WILLIAM BENDIX appears at the Ritz Tuesday and Wednesday in his famed radio role in "The Life of Riley."

EDDIE ARNOLD, the Tennessee Plowboy, is in his first movie "Feudin' Rhythm," at the State today and Monday.

MARINE HEROISM is dramatized in the Lyric's feature for today and Monday, "Sands of Iwo Jima." John Wayne is the star.

AT RITZ TODAY

'Dear Wife' Sequel To Prior Fun Hit

If you had some entertainment from the wartime yarn, "Dear Wife," you're offered more of the same in a sequel, "Dear Wife," the Ritz theatre's featured offering for today and Monday.

The same cast of the original film is to be seen again—William Holden, Joan Caulfield, Billy De Wolfe, Mona Freeman and Edward Arnold.

The story opens with Miss Freeman, a politically conscious teenager, circulating a petition for her brother-in-law, William Holden, who has been nominated for the state Senate. The fact that Holden knows nothing about this doesn't faze Miss Freeman a bit. It's not until she learns that her father, Edward Arnold, is to be Holden's opponent that her usual aplomb is shaken.

Also assisting Holden, who finally chooses to run, in his political campaign is lovely Arleen Whelan. She arouses the jealousy of Holden's wife, Joan Caulfield, and it's not too long before the two are having domestic difficulties. This pleases her former suitor, Billy De Wolfe, no end.

It all adds up to good family comedy.

Gardner, Mason, Eddy Arnold, Stanwyck In Big City Story In Film Debut At The State

A pulsating picture of New York, with its contrasts, is the Thursday-Friday feature at the Ritz theatre. It's called "East Side, West Side" and features such personalities as Barbara Stanwyck, James Mason, Van Heflin and Ava Gardner, with Cyd Charisse, Nancy Davis and Gale Sondergaard in support.

"East Side, West Side" tells the story of a philandering socialite whose wife tries desperately to save her failing marriage and who puts up a dramatic battle against her cheap and predatory rival. The action revolves about such well-known New York locals as La Guardia Field, Gramercy Park, Washington Square, Grace Square, Park Avenue and the city's lower east side. Prior to the start of production, Director LeRoy and his film unit spent two weeks photographing not only vital background of the story but also magnificent scenes of the city as viewed both by night and day from the windows of skyscrapers.

Eddy Arnold, the Tennessee Plowboy, radio and recording favorite, makes his movie debut in "Feudin' Rhythm," top attraction at the State theatre today and Monday.

Eddy is one of those home-spun boys who has "caught on" with the American public. His records have sold by the millions, and now movie followers can see him on the screen as well as hear more of his songs.

In the picture, Eddy is cast as the star of a radio show, produced by Kirby Grant, which is being readied for the television medium. The sponsor is a rich dowager who lives in the past—in the musty past of classic Rome, that is. Consequently, this hillbilly stuff is not for her and she proceeds to dress the troupe up in fancy Roman togas. Just when it seems that the show is going to fall flat on its face before a modern audience, somebody gets the bright idea of taking the bull by the horns and locking her up, which permits most of the show to go on in its original version to great applause.

Gloria Henry makes a pert secretary for Grant and the love light glows in their eyes. Tommy Ivo is a bratty cut-up who makes life miserable for Fuzzy Knight, and Carolina Cotton, Mustard and Gravy and The Oklahoma Wranglers contribute to the general melodic and comical merriment.

Songs heard in "Feudin' Rhythm" include "Cattle Call," "There's No Wings On My Angel," "She'll Be Comin' Round the Mountain," "That Ain't in Any Catalog" and "You Know How Talk Gets Around."

Bendix Brings 'Life Of Riley' To Ritz Screen

If you've heard William Bendix as radio's Riley, the much-barraged family man, then you'll be set for the fun that's coming in "The Life of Riley," film feature at the Ritz Tuesday and Wednesday.

Bendix, of course, has the title role here, too.

It's for people who come to the show for just a good time. Bendix appears as the type of fellow people picture him to be when they hear his blustering talk on the air. Rosemary DeCamp appears as his wife, and James Gleason is Gillis, Riley's best friend. Bill Goodwin of the radio has a spot, and mournful John Brown is seen as "Digger" O'Dell. Meg Randall, Richard Long, Mark Daniels and Beulah Bondi are others in the cast.

The story is a simple one about a hard-working family man who one day gets the idea he is a failure. He starts to climb, and strangely ends up as a big executive. Then he finds he isn't at all happy. The catch is that his daughter, to get him his top position, had promised to marry the boss's son. All the complications work out in the end, to general satisfaction.

Commuting Camel's Fare Is Raised

NEW YORK — (AP) — Transportation costs have gone up for everybody—including camels and elephants commuting on the Weehawken Ferry. This raising was announced by the Interstate Commerce Commission recently.

Officials of the West Shore Ferry Line which traverses the Hudson River between Weehawken, N.J., and New York City could remember only one time in recent years when an uncrated animal crossed in one of their boats. That was about a dozen years ago when a man was exhibiting an elephant at New York. He commuted every morning with the animal and returned every evening. This continued for two weeks but neither he nor the elephant has been seen on the Weehawken Ferry since.

The I. C. C. decide to prepare against a return, however. It increased the cost of ferrying elephants, camels and other "uncrated wild animals" to 42nd Street from $1.40 to $2.50 per animal.

Suspense Drama, 'Shockproof' Billed

A suspense drama called "Shockproof" is the Saturday offering at the Ritz theatre. Cornel Wilde and Patricia Knight are the featured players.

Wilde appears as a probation officer who follows the straight and narrow legal path in his quest for higher political plums. One of his charges is the beautiful Patricia whose tendencies again lead her to the fringes of the underworld. Wilde, attempting to steer her from bad influence, falls in love with and secretly marries her. When a gambler attempts to break up the marriage she shoots him and thus is faced with a return to prison. The couple flee but eventually return to accept their punishment before beginning life again with a clean slate.

Refugees Worry Kashmir Officials

SRINAGAR, Kashmir (AP)—Some 600 persons who trekked through 18,000-foot mountain passes to escape from Sinking pose several problems for Kashmir officials. Officials say the refugees are unwilling for the present to return to their homeland now controlled by Chinese Communists and do not wish to go to Formosa held by Chinese Nationalists. The government of India originally proposed to repatriate the refugees in October but Kashmir officials asked a postponement.

Meanwhile, many refugees have become destitute. The Indian Red Cross plans to give relief and refugee leaders are trying to get aid from the United Nations.

IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR

BY HAROLD R. FOSTER

Synopsis: YOUNG ARF HAS COMMITTED AN UNPARDONABLE BLUNDER-- HE HAS MENTIONED A LADY'S NAME IN A QUARREL. HE WATCHES, FASCINATED, AS TWO GENTLEMEN ARRANGE FOR EACH OTHER'S DEATH ACCORDING TO THE RULES OF CHIVALRY.

"I LIKE NEATNESS, SIR," REPEATS VAL, "AND YOUR UNTIDY HAIR ANNOYS ME."

"I DOUBT, SIR VALIANT, IF YOU ARE SUFFICIENTLY QUALIFIED TO QUESTION MY HAIRDRESSER'S ART," ANSWERS EGIL.

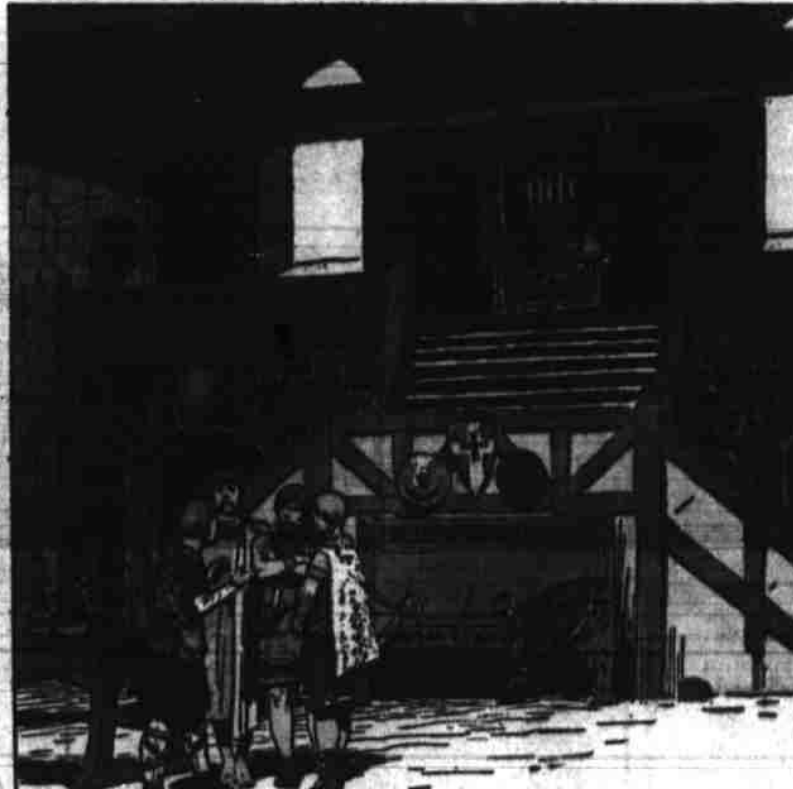

"IT IS A SERIOUS MATTER TO QUESTION MY GOOD TASTE, JARL EGIL!"

"YET I DO MAINTAIN MOST VIGOROUSLY, SIR VALIANT, THAT YOU ARE LACKING IN THAT STERLING VIRTUE!"

"JARL EGIL, WE HAVE ARGUED THIS POINT WITH KEEN LOGIC BUT HAVE FAILED TO REACH AN AGREEMENT. THERE REMAINS BUT ONE THING...."

"I UNDERSTAND, SIR VALIANT. THIS IS TOO IMPORTANT A MATTER TO GO UNSOLVED. A TRIAL BY ARMS IS THE SOLUTION!"

FRIENDS ARE REQUESTED TO ARRANGE TERMS FOR THE DUEL IN ALL FAIRNESS AND IN SECRECY, FOR VAL IS A KING'S SON AND EGIL BUT A MINOR PRINCELING.

VAL SEARCHES THROUGH THE ARMORY FOR A SHIELD HE CAN USE, FOR HIS NEAR-FATAL WOUND HAS LEFT HIS SHIELD ARM STIFF AND WEAK.

ARF CREEPS AWAY TO HIS ROOM, ALONE, TO PONDER THE AWFUL THING HE HAS DONE. IN HIS WILLFUL DESIRE TO DO SOMETHING BRAVE AND DRAMATIC HE HAS INVOLVED PRINCE VALIANT IN A DEADLY ENCOUNTER.

TALL EGIL RAGES SILENTLY. ALETA HAS MADE HIM FEEL LIKE A CLOD, HIS FACE WAS SLAPPED BY A LOWLY SQUIRE AND, WHILE A GUEST AT THE PALACE, HE HAS COMMITTED HIMSELF TO A DUEL WITH HIS KING'S SON...

...WHILE VAL RELAXES BY THE FIRE WITH HIS LOVELY WIFE AND PLANS THE MORROW'S DANGEROUS BUSINESS.

NEXT WEEK - The Gift of Courage.
