

Continued Heat Threatens Heavy Crop Loss

Retail Trade Continues At A Strong Pace

Drouth Affects Some Wholesale Markets; Conditions Elsewhere Good

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Although the drouth situation remained acute in some sections of the country and was reflected to some extent in wholesale markets, retail trade in general continued to ward off the normal summer slump and in many cities the volume was greater than the previous week, as well as the 1935 period, reports to the department of commerce from all sections indicated.

Memphis, for example, reported that the buying power of Tri-State farmers was greatest since 1930. In Cleveland, it was said Ohio crops were better than normal with wheat 30% better than the average. Minneapolis reported some improvement as a result of scattered showers with country merchants in drouth area still optimistic.

While most cities reported retail trade gains over last year, sharp improvement over the previous week occurred in New Orleans, Atlanta, Wilmington, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Washington. The 28% retail gain in St. Louis over the previous week was in the face of severe drouth conditions in that area. There was an easing off in a seasonal lull in Kansas City notwithstanding a stronger demand for canned goods, while Los Angeles also reported some recession. Summer sales were stimulating factors in some cities.

Vets Gather For Reunion

33 Here For Annual Get-Together Of Company D Buddies

Thirty-three members of company D, 117th Supply Train, 162nd division held their annual reunion at the city park Sunday and the following day and night were stringing along with the army at the front.

There was no set program for the day. At noon all took part in a barbecue provided for the occasion. Appearance of W. W. Kelly, Eastland, who had been reported dead, created an unusual situation. Many pounds lighter than when his buddies last saw him, he was recognized by only one other member of the company.

James T. Brooks, who as captain organized the company, was present for the reunion held each year the first Sunday after Aug. 5 when the unit was mustered into service in 1917.

State Police Unit Rounds Out A Year

Good Record Claimed Despite Share Of Trouble

AUSTIN, Aug. 10.—The Texas state police system is a year old today. Friends of the department of public safety pointed to a series of accomplishments since its creation and predicted it would be of increasing assistance to county and city officers year by year.

The department was established in response to widespread sentiment that a modern, efficiently organized state police unit would be a tremendous aid in the war on crime—particularly against criminals who operate over a wide area and appear infrequently in the jurisdiction of any one sheriff.

Tom Hickman, veteran officer and senior ranger captain had been discharged earlier in an action which precipitated a legislative investigation. D. D. Baker of Seguin, one of the three public safety commissioners, resigned while the controversy over Phares was at its height.

Americans Again Are Told To Get Out Of Madrid

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—American embassy officials, alarmed at what they described as an increasingly threatening situation, have urged all Americans in Madrid to leave.

MADRID, Aug. 10.—The government today reported gains against insurrectionists in a wide-spread area, predicting the rebellion will be crushed shortly.

The final exodus of Americans whose business does not require their presence in Madrid, is scheduled for tonight. About 100 will remain.

Eight hundred rebels were killed, many wounded and a number taken prisoner, the government reported, in a fierce nine-hour battle at Navalperal, outside Madrid.

The insurgents were reported disorganized and without morale. The government claimed many were deserting to join loyal forces, convinced of the futility of their cause.

The insurgents are now fighting a purely defensive fight, the loyalists asserted. They are unable to make gains and are attempting to hold present positions.

A victory feast was proclaimed in the town of Villamayor San-Lago, Cuenca province. Trucks laden with food and wine were dispatched for Colonel Mangada's troops.

Widow Named Executrix Of Green Estate

$80,000,000 Properties May Become Involved In Court Suits

KAUFMAN, Aug. 10.—Mrs. Mabel H. Green, widow of the late Col. Edward H. R. Green, railroad tycoon, was named permanent executrix of his estate, estimated to be worth $80,000,000, in a court hearing here today.

County Judge Ben Brooks set her bond at $50,000 which he described as "appropriate for Texas holdings at this particular time."

Her bond was set at $50,000 which he described as "appropriate for Texas holdings at this particular time."

The scene of what may be a fight for one of the nation's largest fortunes may shift to the East, where Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilkes of New York, sister of Col. Green, recently filed a will in surrogate court at Port Henry, N. Y., which named her sole beneficiary.

Where no will has been left by the deceased, all community property reverts to the survivor of the marriage, in this instance Mrs. Green. That law prevails only where there are no children born to the couple. The Greens had no children.

Mrs. Green, in her application for appointment as administrator of the estate, urged quick action by the court and others will institute numerous unrelated proceedings in different states.

Picnic Plans In Readiness

Among out of town personalities to be here for the picnic are J. W. Brown, general chairman for firemen; Dick Wiesen, general chairman for the engineers; R. R. Nichols, general chairman for the conductors; H. F. Russell, general chairman for the brakemen, all of Fort Worth.

Special Committee Named To Survey School Problems

Recommendations On Financing, Housing Are Sought

A special committee of five Big Spring citizens, appointed to survey conditions confronting the local independent school district with a view of making recommendations for remedying problems, will meet with the school board in a special conference Thursday.

Members of the committee are T. S. Curry, Robt. T. Piner, W. W. Inkman, Dr. P. W. Malone and E. D. Merrill. They were chosen by board members and will start their study soon, making recommendations later.

Discussion Thursday night will center around the district's budget for the new year. It has been put in readiness by Supt. W. C. Blankenship and others, and will be submitted to the board. Public hearing will be held later.

Many problems and the question of housing and providing adequate facilities will be the chief topics before the committee. Board officials point out that the school system already is severely taxed to care for the enrollment, and an increase is anticipated this fall.

The district also is confronted with a serious money problem, largely because of accumulated delinquent taxes. An intensive campaign for collection of past-due taxes was waged earlier in summer, with fair results, but more money will be required to finance the schools' program this year.

The picture will be screened for the first time at the Ritz theatre here on August 26 and 28, it was announced Monday.

Temperatures Near Record Over Texas

One Death Reported Readings In State As High As 108

Furnace-like heat which drove temperatures to near-record high marks at many points in Texas Sunday continued to scorch the state today, and sweltering residents were given no hope of relief within the next 24 hours.

At least one death in Texas was attributed to the heat. Marcus Barnes, 69, died of heart failure while working over his wife who was overcome by heat at their Waco home.

Residents suffered plenty discomfort, but the cause of greatest concern were crops, which, without rain in this section for many weeks, are burning badly. Several farmers in Big Spring Monday reported continued excessive temperatures would take a heavy toll. Feed crops already are suffering from drouth and heat, and cotton soon will be given a dangerous setback unless it receives rain.

While the highest mark registered at the Big Spring airport Sunday was 99, well below the season's top of 107, recorded on July 19, downtown thermometers showed considerably hotter weather; and many folk seeking shade, fans, air-cooled movie houses and the swimming pool were inclined to accept the higher readings as official.

Fair and continued warm weather was forecast for tonight and Tuesday. Thunderclouds helped to break the sun's rays early Monday afternoon and a sprinkle of rain fell.

Elsewhere over the state, higher temperatures were recorded. Temple reported a reading of 112, but the thermometer was in the sun. Denton had an official 108, which equaled the all-time high there.

Dallas reported a maximum of 106.4. Tyler had 104 at 3 p. m., within one point of the season's high. Scattered thunderstorms throughout East Texas had given little relief.

Waco had a maximum of 103 and a minimum of 83. The high was short of the season's hottest, 108.9. Wichita Falls had a blazing 109 under a cloudless sky. Lack of wind added to the discomfort.

Corpus Christi got a break from a blistering 104 soon after 9 o'clock when cooling showers started falling. The rain continued during the afternoon.

Fort Worth had 105.9 at 4 p. m., compared to the summer's previous high of 107. Corpus Christi had a sultry 92.

It was slightly cooler at Amarillo, where 98 was one degree more pleasant than Saturday's maximum.

Austin had 100 and Beaumont 98. Record Oklahoma Heat OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 10.—Record heat returned to Oklahoma Sunday with Nowata reporting an official reading of 118, the highest ever recorded there.

There was no forecast of rain as commissioners in counties of the fourth congressional district met at Weverka and took steps to appeal for more federal aid to combat the effects of a prolonged drouth.

At Muskogee the temperature boiled up to 115 degrees, equalling the twenty-six year record for that city. Bartlesville reported 114.

DRIVERS' LICENSE LAW

One task that will engage attention of the next legislature is the drivers license law which has had time to prove that it will not accomplish the results hoped for it.

In other words, the law lacks teeth. Licenses are issued to practically everyone who applies without any means of ascertaining the mental and physical fitness of the applicant to drive safely and sensibly.

Decision of the Dallas municipal judge to compel traffic violators to view a picture based on the story "And Sudden Death," which had publication in newspapers and pamphlets some time ago and which drew a groan of horror from many readers, is not likely to have a greatly deterrent effect on reckless drivers.

Talk will not stop the deaths on the highway. It will take action and the legislature must be ready to do its part. It alone can make the laws, and it alone can do what is necessary to be done to stop the awful loss of life and limb that is the result of unguarded use of the highways.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

Walking into a bank in the Wall street sector, Richard Maney accidentally brushed the arm of a customer, causing the check he was writing to become smeared with ink.

It is no honey that somebody escaped a nasty situation by that denial. Had the offending one persisted in his rudeness, he would have been challenged to a duel then and there.

I think it is George Jean Nathan who tells the encounter O. Henry had with a careless pedestrian. Walking down Broadway, O. Henry accidentally bumped into a fellow from the west.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By BREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—It was probably the unhappiest half hour in Bill Green's life. Although he was seated in an air-cooled room, his face was clammy with perspiration.

He was about to announce the suspension of the ten insurgent unions—including his own United Mine Workers—from membership in the American Federation of Labor, of which he is president.

Opposite him stood a small army of newspapermen, awaiting the news. They lost no time in opening up on him.

Green hit the ceiling. Pointing his finger at the newsmen, he bared: "Why do you ask that? Are you imputing something dishonest?"

"No Place To Go" "You told your union card in the United Mine Workers," another newsmen asked. "Now that they are suspended just where does that leave you?"

"I am not interested in that—why bring that up?" "But we are interested. What about it; can you remain a member of the council or continue as Federation president if your union is thrown out?"

"I am not worried," Green dodged. "We didn't ask you that." "My standing will be determined by the council. And anyway," Green continued, as jumpy as a cat, "I might join another union."

John L. Lewis From the Green conference the newspapermen crossed the street to the office of the United Mine Workers to interview John L. Lewis, chairman of the committee of the suspended unions.

"Mr. Lewis," asked a correspondent, "do you people contemplate court action to enjoin the Council?" "No," was the smiling rejoinder. "We are afraid that if we do we might win."

New Deal Espionage Justice Brandeis is inclined to be sympathetic toward most of the aims of the new deal, but there is one thing he cannot tolerate—the wire-tapping and undercover espionage which has become the rage in Washington.

White House Wives Workmen now tearing up the floors in the White House say it is a miracle that fire did not break out there last winter during some state reception or at any other time.

They have found that the conduit pipes containing electric wires were rusted through, exposing the wires to short circuiting. For 35 years this wiring remained unchanged, is only now being replaced.

To do this it is necessary to tear up the carpet and inside flooring, all put down originally with hand-wrought nails. On every floor from the ground floor to the attic, boards are being pried loose, old pipes and wires torn out, and new material laid down.

The White House is getting what the electricians call a new "home proof" from the farthest outlet, all the way back to the panel, or switchboard, the equipment will be new.

The famed East Room looks less like itself than any other. Not only is its furniture draped against the dust, not only is its waxed ball-room floor torn up, but the three gigantic glass chandeliers have been taken down, and shipped out to a cleaning establishment, where each glass pendant is being laundered, piece by piece.

In addition to new wiring, the White House is getting a new automatic fire alarm system. Total cost of the job is $75,000. The handwrought nails are being thrown away.

The United States chamber of commerce, parent of all chambers of commerce, has issued many a blast against new deal "boondoggling." But the next time one of these fusillades is uncorked, the WPA is all set to step back with a very interesting exhibit.

Theaters on Playgrounds HOLLYWOOD, Cal. (UP)—The city's playground department has introduced two novelties for the summer. One is miniature theaters on sand playgrounds where children can present plays and the other is sketching classes for adults.

Japan's Bonds Sell Out Like World Series Long Queues Wait During Night To Buy Baby Securities Issue TOKYO, Aug. 10. (UP)—It was a contrasting counterpart of the American effort to sell "Baby Bonds" to persons of modest means. In the United States the plan met a lackadaisical response; in Japan the issuance of small denomination bonds was greeted with great public enthusiasm. Line Forms at Midnight Purchasers began to assemble at midnight, nine hours before the newest issue was to go on sale. By daylight they had formed a line three blocks long. By mid-morning there were some 10,000 in line, a queue that extended two blocks to the railroad tracks, along the tracks for nearly a quarter of a mile and spilled over into a shopping street near the Imperial hotel. Extra police were on duty and a medical relief corps watched for possible heat prostrations. The sale continued for two days with no lessening in the public interest. A feature of the sale that attracted many purchasers was a special prize of $500 which goes to the holder of a few "lucky numbers" bonds. In addition, the interest rate was attractive. The bonds yield 3.8 per cent. The postal savings bank rate is three per cent. The bonds were for ten yen (about 33c) each, with purchasers limited to five bonds for each person. Some of those who wanted to invest more than that bought their five bonds and then went back to the end of the line to await another turn at the counter. The total issue was for 10,000,000 yen (about $3,000,000), all of which was snapped up within a few days.

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

Chapter 26
ALICE WHITE
"When Shipley is satisfied the case is clear he goes on into the..."

"And do you mean to say," cut in White, "he'd start waving his stick at the tramp and telling about it the way he did, if he had just committed a murder with it?"

"Not if," because, have you ever had to do with a murderer, White? I have. Murdering somebody is just about ten times as intoxicating as getting blind drunk. It may sound funny, but it's true. When young Shipley was waving his stick at friend Durley and saying 'this is the stuff we keep for poachers' or whatever it was, what he was actually longing to say was 'see this stick? I've just done an old fool in with it; that's the kind of chap I'm afraid of'."

"I shall suspect you, Sergeant, of being a sentimental fool," Shipley laughed. "I'm afraid Mr. Hylton is going to have rather an unpleasant day tomorrow. Meanwhile let's clear our brains a bit—get the cream out of it."

Without further comment White produced the board and men and the two of them settled down to a game. The Sergeant did not show quite the same command of things that he exhibited at their first encounter, and after a little more than an hour's play they found themselves in a rather dreary stalemate.

Harry was pleased not to be beaten again. As he was taking his leave he turned on the doorpost and asked, "Where's Mrs. White, by the way?"

"Over at her sister's, sir, at Nyetson, she often pops over there for an evening."

"Hope she won't mind my beating her cigar smoke all over the house. Don't be late in the morning, Sergeant."

"Very good, sir."

Harry Small, the Nyetson gamekeeper, jerked his head up; he hoped he had heard a tap-tapping on the kitchen window. Small smiled, drew his finely-made body out of the chair and went in his stocking feet to the back door.

"That you Alice?" he asked. "Nice fool you have looked if it wasn't she said, 'You ought to be more careful with your names, Harry.'"

Texas to fight against Santa Anna, but arrived too late. He was a delegate to the secession convention in 1861 and fought in the Civil war for a time in Virginia before returning to Texas to organize a regiment of cavalry known in the annals of the Confederacy as "Terry's Texas Rangers." Terry, who had become a colonel, was killed in a charge by union forces at Woodsonville, Ky., on Dec. 17, 1861. Terry county is named in honor of this Texas and southern patriot.

Brownfield, county seat, is named after M. V. Brownfield, rancher who promoted the town when talks of organizing the county arose. After a vigorous fight, Brownfield was made county seat July 5, 1904. Garza county, favorite winter grounds of the Comanches and battleground for many struggles between the redskin, hostile tribes and the white men, was created in 1876 and named for a prominent Spanish family of San Antonio who had remained loyal to Texas in the war for independence.

Post City, county seat, is named for its founder, C. W. Post, multimillionaire Michigan manufacturer of breakfast food packages, who established it in 1867 as the fulfillment of a dream for a model town.

Known In Three States
Howard county is named for Volney Erskine Howard, noted lawyer prominent in the history of three states—Maine, his native state, Texas, his favorite state, and later, California. The county was organized into a separate political unit in an election held June 15, 1852.

The principal town, and largest town of this section, is Big Spring and derived its name because of the "big spring" which flowed for years south of the present town. This spring attracted hunters to hunters. Indians and was instrumental in the designation of Big Spring as a division point on the T. & P. railroad.

Borden county was created Aug. 21, 1876, and organized March 17, 1881. It is named for Gail Borden, Texas pioneer, newspaper editor or during the war for independence, surveyor, and inventor of the process of condensing milk. The leading town, Gail, is Borden's given name.

Andrews, one of the largest and until recently one of the less populous counties, was named after Richard Andrews, who, according to legend, was the first man killed in the war for independence in Texas. The town likewise takes its name from Andrews. The county was created from Bexar in 1876 and was organized in 1910.

Midland, only county in the area not named after a historical hero, gets its name by virtue of its location—half way between Fort Worth and El Paso. Likewise, its county seat and only large town, is named Midland. It is the center for cattle and oil interests. Midland county was created and organized in 1885.

Industrial Expansion
Industrial activity was being sustained at high levels and considerable expansion was reported. A $75,000 modern steel citrus packing plant was being constructed in Dade City, Fla.; Detroit reported a $100,000 expansion of the Norge plant at Muskegon and additions to several Detroit steel plants; a Cleveland engineering firm received a contract for a $1,500,000 plant for the Shell Petroleum Corporation in Houston; a $500,000 hosiery plant was started at Athens, Ga.; a new $2,500,000 Furniture Exchange was announced in San Francisco, together with a $500,000 brewing plant expansion; in Seattle the Gray Harbor Pulp & Paper Co. started a $150,000 addition.

The employment trend continued upward and July building construction was far ahead of the same month a year in the case of virtually all reporting cities.

The Lamesa girl, an attractive platinum blonde, appeared in Big Spring on the Fourth of July, in a West Texas-wide revue an initial event in the queen contest. She, with 48 other West Texas girls who appeared here, was given a trip to Dallas for an elimination appearance, and was named winner in the semi-final. She returned to Dallas last week-end for the final contest.

Congratulations were wired Miss Robertson by the chamber of commerce. "Citizens of Big Spring and the chamber of commerce congratulate you and your town upon being selected queen of the Texas Centennial exposition. We hope for you many pleasant memories and profitable returns from the occasion," said the wire. The chamber helped to sponsor the contest here July 4 in which Miss Robertson was originally entered.

Since the death of Col. Green, the petition stated, items of personal property are daily accruing in favor of the decedent's estate. The will of Col. Green filed at Fort Henry made no provision for the widow but it was known that when he married her in 1917, one year after Hetty Green's death, he gave her $500,000 in cash and $125,000 in Liberty bonds as a wedding gift.

FD Writes To Labor Group

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (AP)—President Roosevelt told labor's non-partisan league today he is confident that future history would show as in the past that "return to reactionary practices is ever short-lived."

In a letter to George L. Berry, president, read at the league's first annual convention, Mr. Roosevelt said: "During the past three years we have endeavored to correct through legislation certain evils which did not promote the general welfare. Some laws enacted have been invalidated. Having tasted the benefits of liberation, men and women do not for long forego those benefits."

Japanese, Dutch Swimmers Winners Over Americans

BERLIN, Aug. 10. (AP)—American swimmers continued to trail the Japanese and Dutch today as the end of track and field competition left the 11th Olympic contests bereft of a prime attraction.

Oliver McKean and Katherine Rawls finished sixth and seventh, respectively, in the women's 100-meter free-style which Rita Masterbroek of Holland won. The American 300-meter free style relay team, composed of Charlotte Nutter, Ralph Gilman, Paul Wolf and Jack Medica, qualified for the finals tomorrow but appeared to have no chance against the crack Japanese quartet which set a record in winning its heat.
