WHO CAN SAY WE ARE BETTER OR WORSE?

Over in Paris, a convict named Benjamin Ullmo, having served 26 years on France's Devil's Island, returns, looks over the world of 1935, and finds it terrible. He says he's going back to the penal colony, though he was offered a job in Paris.

The world today disgusts him, says this man who has seen nothing of it for 26 years. "What has struck me most," he is quoted as saying, "is the extraordinary spiritual collapse in the world, and the decline in conscience and intelligence. I have been less impressed by the material progress. . . It is not so much the lowering of moral standards, as the immeasurable stupidity of present-day humanity, which regards itself as so superior."

Now this is worth listening to, for a man who has seen nothing of the world since 1909 ought to get a singular view of it. But it needn't be swallowed without thought.

In the first place, no thoughtful person regards humanity today as "so superior." No one can even glance around him without realizing that humanity today has all too slim a claim to superiority.

But was it so superior in 1909? The United States was being regaled with the Ballinger land scandals, and Congress was busily engaged with the Payne-Aldrich tariff. Few look back at either incident today with any great pride.

And Europe was industriously straining, through its mesh of alliances and colonial and trade rivalries, the hell-broth that was to scald the entire earth with World War within five years. There was really nothing so superior about that, either.

The old argument as to whether people are better or worse than they used to be, whether the world is gradually falling from a past state of grace, is a pretty futile one.

The really important thing is that there is plenty of room for improvement in any case. Whether spirituality has "collapsed," and whether conscience and intelligence have "declined," are not so important as the fact that they aren't what they ought to be today, and that they aren't what they must be if we are to create the better world that everybody is hoping for.

For it is the improvement in conscience, intelligence, and morality among individual men that will create the real permanent progress of the future.

People are too apt these days to put faith in a "system"; to believe that if this law were passed, that system adopted, the other panacea administered, everything would be all right.

WE GROW OLDER

Some of the influences that are affecting the future of the country are plain and on the surface. But some are hidden, and move onward unseen.

One of the latter is this fact: We are getting older, not only as a nation, but as a mass of individuals. A recent report to the Association of Life Insurance Presidents indicates that the present expectation of life is 60 years. That is 15 years or so more than it used to be.

From this President Thomas I. Parkinson, of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, drew this conclusion: "Grave consequences involving the relation of the individual to the state may follow the transfer of the balance of voting power from those under 40 to those over 50. This tendency is likely to be reflected in changed attitudes toward spending and saving and, indeed, toward individualism as distinguished from collectivism."

Already such a change is seen. The widespread agitation for the Townsend old age pension plan is certainly the greatest political demonstration of old people as such that the country has ever seen.

They will be a greater power in future rather than a less, as science gradually lengthens the life span, while the birth rate and immigration continue to decline.

No one can tell just what effect this increasing dominance of old people will have; all we know is that it is quietly and silently taking place.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

It was over in East Texas, in city police court. "You are charged with having assaulted this man." "Your honor, I may have been too rough, but I had provocation." "What was the provocation?" "He mistook me for a member of the railroad commission." "The Town Grouch says a man never looked graceful running for a train, a taxi or a public office." "The Old Timer in the Llano lobby told me the other day how he happened to get married." "He was at a party at a ranch house, back in the early days. The talk turned to Canada and he asked a buxom young woman next to him: "Do you favor annexation?" "This is so sudden," she said, and fell into his arms.

SOCIETY

Generosity Must Be Encouraged to Rout Innate Selfishness

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

We all have a habit of thinking that selfishness is an acquired trait, but the sooner we realize that it is natural, the better equipped we are to face its problems.

The self complex, one of the natural complexes, a word I wish we could change, by the way, was put there to keep man alive, happy according to his lights and fights, and extended to those belonging to him.

A little child is no more selfish in wanting her way, or his, than the mother and father in wanting theirs. Little Mary is no more demanding in refusing to lend her doll than her mother is in refusing to lend Mary to a neighbor. And why Thomas is no more selfish in insisting on playing horse when the rest want to dig, than his Daddy refusing to play bridge in order to play poker.

Selfishness is considered the negative and generosity the positive too often. It is the other way about, actually, as human temperament goes. Selfishness is the positive current and generosity opposed to it. This is why generosity is so hard to graft into the little character. If it were already there, what a simple thing it would be to let nature take its course.

Since selfishness is born in the baby and is not one of those traits like will or contrariness that develop in the third or fourth year, it is wise to take it into account from the first and lead gently away from it whenever possible without causing anger or resentment. We cannot teach "fundamental" or real generosity, ever, by making it an eternally unpleasant thing in the child's mind.

How can we go about teaching the tiny child to be generous? By getting him to feel good about it.

This can be done by looking about for someone he likes, or even a pet. Thomas wants his new red ball. He won't let his sister touch it. He likes her well enough, but he isn't emotionally interested. However, he is emotionally interested in the new kitten. Say to him, "Let kitty have your ball."

Through extended interest in both the cat and the ball he will very likely give over. Satisfied, he will watch the play that ensues. Sister could have coveted much better, but as an agent of generosity she was a total loss. But the wedge has entered. Say has learned the first step. Give up, away from himself, one thing to another thing he liked. The ball is still of use. Next the bird can have it in his cage. Now his sister's dolly can have it. Next Mary can have it. And then the little boy next door. Scrub the ball clean as a reward for its usefulness.

Almost anything in the way of generosity can be best approached by these bonds. Little lessons, as the child hears three or four, a streak of giving enters his soul. It is sporadic and is motivated by several things. Partly experiment.

Encourage this effort at this time. Accept anything the child offers with effusion and gratitude. Never refuse. It is another weapon at your service. Later, when reason is riding high and even sometimes now, lessons in real sacrifice may be ventured. But success depends on the early associations of ideas and the pleasantness of giving.

Experiments in Canadian laboratories have resulted in discovery of a method of processing the sap of sugar maple in such manner that the maple syrup may be extracted in greatly concentrated form.

Smyrna's fig industry depends on an insect, the blastophaga, which carries the pollen. Without the aid of this insect, the crop fails.

The Belmont Bible class will meet with Mrs. Hoyt Burris at the home of Mrs. T. R. Shelburne, 111 W. Pennsylvania, Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The Senior Epworth League will hold a business and social meeting at the church at 7:30 o'clock. Ray Gwyn will be in charge.

The Child Welfare board will meet in a "community" court room at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Native women of Curacao, of the Venezuelan coast, use the ocean as the family washing tub and hang their clothes on reef prongs and cactus plants.

FEMININE FANCIES

BY KATHLEEN EILAND

Another example of a sense of humor that we can't understand: Why people like to blow nerve-wracking whistles at unexpected moments or steal up behind some one and shake his chair very hard.

Most women in planning very early spring dresses, look longingly at the new print silks. Here are some gentle hints to guide in choosing print frocks which we have clipped from a fashion column:

First of all, select a pattern that is simple enough to have a soothing effect on the eyes yet intricate enough to be interesting. Certain zigzagging designs affect the nerves and eyes much the same way as do those horrible trains that rush at you in news reels.

If you have the slightest tendency toward plumpness, don't wear a polka-dot print or one that features an enormous floral pattern. Vertical stripes and tiny florals that have an up and down appearance will be infinitely more flattering.

Don't forget that simplicity of line and design is a real virtue as far as prints are concerned. Indulge your taste for frills and fussy details when you pick plain clothes, but don't do it when you get a print. Intricate touches are likely to detract from the interesting fabric itself.

And if you follow these rules of the print game, we predict you will select a dress that you will be proud to wear all through the spring and even into the summer.

NEW ASSIGNMENTS IN MEMORY WORK

All high school students were issued a copy of Rudyard Kipling's poem "If" Tuesday. The poem is to be learned for recitation in unison. A request for this poem was made by a recent visitor who had heard the student body recite the poem several years ago and who wished to hear it again by the present body.

NEW BAND INSTRUMENTS

Two new snare drums have been recently added to the band. The drums are owned by Billy Joe Hall and Goodrich Hill. The addition of the new instruments will make a great improvement in the band as the old ones had very bad snares and their tones were impaired.

ACTIVITIES

Christine Pate, associate editor, assumed the duties of C. A. Goldsmith, joke editor, during his absence from school. The names of J. D. Robinson and Dee Witt Carr have been recently added to the list of reporters. Both have demonstrated their ability to write news articles. Esda Stewart, a new student from Verrion, Texas, is assisting the annual staff in the work on the annual. Her sketches show unusual talent in drawing.

THE SNEAKER

Clinton really seems to be serious about Edna Mae. Eh, what? But who wouldn't fall for a cute little blonde? Well, James, why are you standing back? Or is it that the new girl just hasn't made up her mind? Frank was undecided after the Cowden-Minter affair. Is it Willie Merle or Marceline? Anyway, he's been sporting a bracelet with M. W. on it. Dee is just a heart-breaker. He almost ran Willie Merle to death during mid-term exam week. But when she turned him down, he began flirting with Marceline. It looks to me as if those two girls should get together, and decide. Don't you agree?

Ponder, why don't you drive your car any more? Out of gas? Kathryn Brown is happy again now that Jack is back in school. Say, is everyone asleep? Why doesn't someone furnish some competition? Jane still has hopes—E. B. smiled at her the other day. Jolly seems to have more interest in Big Spring than anywhere else. Oh, well, I'll admit Beulah Mae has charms. It looks like a pretty tough race has just begun. The brides' boy friends really mean business this year. Well, I've always said the best man wins.

Josephine seemed interested in Mark Sunday. Well, things will happen!

Sam is now classed as "Marcelle's past." Anyway, he asked Jane for a date Friday night and E. B. right there, too!

H. B. has been sporting a senior ring. He's not doing bad. Melba didn't take the bust-up so bad; in fact, she just turned west and Odessa was on the dot. Nevertheless, she has assumed a far-away look these days.

Is Clinton really losing out? Edna Mae and A. B. are being seen together so much.

Bonnie was having a good time Saturday night, eh, Bonnie?

Dee has evidently made a compromise. He's for Melba again! Gertrude received a telegram from Bill Wednesday. These Odessa boys certainly have a way that thrills the girls.

Leche is not a very big help. We can't get anything on him, any more. Or is it that he is just lying low these days?

Virginia's gold football seemed to be a mystery to everyone in chapel this A. M. Can anyone throw any light on the subject?

By the way, did you know that Virginia used to live at Stanton? Anyway, Stanton isn't ashamed of her. They were telling me how pretty she was Tuesday night, as if I didn't know!

Betty and McClurg seem to be that-a-way about each other. They make a cute couple, don't you think?

Is Jessie Lou being put in an intolerable position again? She said that John had quit school, so I suppose he will be back.

Lige and Lucille have been going together. Nevertheless, she seemed to be enjoying the company of R. D. Tuesday night.

Is this going to be a match? Lorena went with Ponder Friday night.

JOKES

Betty and Marcelle in conference about a certain girl.

Betty: She is so dumb that she thinks plaster paris is the suburb of the famous French city.

Miss Zant (in study hall): "Anyone who would make a noise like a goat must have..."

E. B.: "Must have been raised in a barn."

Christine: Has anyone seen my Cicero?

Miss Zant: No, but shall I look for him? We don't believe in ghosts in here. Mr. Lackey: "Who is the other real American literary genius besides Hawthorne?" Margaret Wood: "Shakespeare."

CHAPEL SPEAKERS

Students of the Midland High School and the Junior High School held beneficial talks Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday of last week at the 8:30 chapel period. The speakers were Dr. Pierce, Dr. Cammell, and Dr. Dawson, who were attending the "Pastor's Retreat" held here by the Baptist Church.

Dr. Pierce spoke of his travels in Europe, talking more in detail about Rome. Dr. Dawson and Dr. Cammell delivered messages suitable to the occasion.

DEBATE

The Midland High School debate teams have been organized and have begun work on the subject "That the Government should own and operate all electric light and power utilities."

AD COMMITTEE

The committee for collecting ads for the junior play program has been appointed and work was begun Tuesday.

The committee consists of the following students: Dorothy Barnes, Katherine Brown, Clinton Buffington, James Connor, Frank Cowden, Mark Dorsey, Le Verna, Bodine, C. A. Goldsmith, Mary Howe, Jane Marie Johnson, David Jolly, Sam Midkiff, Betty Minter, Billy Noyes, Christine Pate, Robert Prothro, Marcelle Scarborough, J. B. Thomas, Gertrude Vance, James Walker, Bob White, Annabelle Youngblood, Margaret Woods and Frank Westerman.

The committee is working under the sponsorship of Miss Helene Miley.

JUNIOR HIGH CHOIR

The Junior High Choir of 120 selected voices, directed by Mrs. Jack Hawkins, sang at the 8:30 chapel program at the High School Monday, January 28. The "Brown Man" and other effective songs were included on the program.

After the program Mr. Lackey complimented the choir and its director on their ability and choice of music, saying that he considered being able to take part in good music one of life's greatest accomplishments.

The cast for the annual faculty play has been chosen and rehearsals have begun. The play, "Skidding" by Aurania Rouvrol, is a comedy in three acts. The play is being directed by J. H. Williams, principal of Junior High. Members of the cast are as follows:

Mrs. De Lo Douglas, Miss Stella Maye Lanham, Miss Vada Crawley, Mrs. Jack Hawkins, Miss Elizabeth Lomax, Bryan G. Henderson, Walter Barnes, H. D. Bearden, J. H. Williams and Maurice Baumgarten.

The date for the presentation has not been set.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The Choral Club met in room 108 Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of electing officers. After a short practice, the following officers were elected:

Harriet Ticknor, president; Elizabeth Payne, secretary-treasurer; Eddie Blanche Cowden, vice-president; Jane Dunagan, reporter; Rae Elizabeth Price and Wanda Ticknor, librarians.

The club also discussed whether or not they should buy uniforms. The costume suggested was a white sweater with a purple and gold medallion emblem, a white blouse with a Peter Pan collar, and a white silk skirt.

Complete arrangements have not been made, but will probably be decided upon at the next meeting.

BOYS QUARTET

The boys' quartet made its first appearance before the assembly January 8, 1935. The quartet is composed of R. D. Hamlin, first tenor; James Walker, second tenor; Robert Prothro, baritone, and Fredrick Mitchell, bass. None of these boys, excepting R. D. Hamlin, has been in the quartet before, but each fills his position nicely. James is a prominent band member, and each boy is a member of the glee club.

The assembly received the numbers given by the quartet with applause. This same interest has been shown by local organizations. The quartet has accepted requests and has sung at the faculty banquet, the Rotary Club, and the Lions Club.

The boys are working hard under the able directorship of Mrs. De Lo Douglas. Their next appearance will be at the junior high banquet, where they hope to be of great credit to themselves and to the school.

JUNIOR PLAY

In the near future the junior class will present its annual play. This year it is "The Yourself" by Braun, a farcical comedy in three acts.

The New York setting is in a penthouse apartment in which the trend of events may be comparable to that in your own "flat."

The students in the cast are Jane Dunagan, Mary Howe, Jane Marie Johnson, Betty Minter, Christine Pate, Marcelle Scarborough, Marceline Wyatt, Frank Cowden, C. A. Goldsmith, Sam Midkiff, and Robert Prothro. James Connor is assistant and Bob White is stage and property manager.

Miss Kathryn Zant is directing the play.

Your Income Tax (CLIP THIS DAILY)

No. 6

Publicity of Income Returns

Under section 55 (b) of the Revenue Act of 1934 every person required to file an income return for a taxable year or period beginning on or after January 1, 1934, must file with his return, whether taxable or nontaxable, correct statement on form 1094 of the following items shown upon the return: (1) Name and address, (2) total gross income, (3) total deductions, (4) net income, (5) total credits against net income for purposes of normal tax, and (6) tax payable. In case of a failure to file the required statement with the return, the collector must, under the statute, prepare it from the return, in which event $3 must be added to and collected as a part of the tax in the same manner and at the same time as the tax.

The statute further requires that the statements made on form 1094, or copies thereof, be made available to public examination and inspection as soon as practicable in the office of the collector with which they are filed. Although the Commissioner is authorized to determine the manner in which the statements, or copies thereof, shall be made available to the public, the requirements of the statute are otherwise mandatory and the Commissioner has no authority to exempt any person required to file an income return from filing with it a statement on form 1094 nor to waive collection of the additional $3 in case such statement is not so filed. Every person filing an income return should accordingly obtain form 1094 from the collector for his district, if such form is not mailed to him with the return form, and fill in all items correctly as shown on the return with which it is to be filed.

The provisions of subdivision (b) of section 55 of the Revenue Act of 1934 are entirely new and it should be understood that those provisions do not authorize inspection of income returns by the public but inspection only of the statements required to be filed on form 1094 with the returns. Inspection of returns is governed by subdivision (a) of section 55 which provides, in effect, that income returns made under the Revenue Act of 1934 shall be open to public inspection only to the extent expressly provided by laws and regulations approved by the President and this provision is similar to the provisions of preceding Revenue Acts. Under existing law and the regulations approved by the President income returns are not open to inspection by the general public.

Claude Rains Plays Powerful Role in Drama at Yucca

"The Man Who Reclaimed His Head" the strangest, most powerful screen drama of the season comes to the Yucca Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, telling a story of the utmost novelty and timeliness. Claude Rains, who made his screen debut as the mysterious unseen character of "Invisible Man," and impressed himself indelibly upon everyone's memory as the star of this unusual screenplay. It is a typically Claude Rains role, dynamic, artistic, subtle, which this Theatre Guild star plays for all it's worth. He is supported by an exceptional cast, including Joan Bennett, Lionel Atwill, Baby Jane, Henry O'Neil, Lloyd Hughes, Lawrence Grant and many other popular screen players.

The central theme of "The Man Who Reclaimed His Head" deals with the amazing activities of an international munitions ring, with a Parisian background, and new light of a highly dramatic quality is shed on an "eternal triangle" composed of one woman and two men.

MRS. SPEED HOSTESS
Mrs. J. M. Speed will be hostess to the Mothers' Self Culture club at her home, 301 North F street, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

RIBBLE TO MOVE HERE, OPERATE FLOWER STORE

E. B. Ribble head of the Ribbles' Flowers business at Big Spring and Midland, advised The Reporter-Telegram this morning that he has sold the Big Spring house and is moving to Midland at once to take over the management of our store there.

Buddy Pulliam, manager of the Midland store, will remain in its employ, Ribble said.

Ribble said he and his wife and son will locate here as quickly as the quarters can be obtained. He expressed the ambition of building at Midland an outstanding flower business. The Big Spring hothouse was one of the largest in West Texas.
