Injunction Suits Filed, Seeking To Close Roadhouses

Court Orders Sought Against Groups Operating Two Establishments On Highway North Of Here

Further steps by officials in a campaign against alleged violations in Howard county of the new state liquor laws were taken Tuesday with the filing of suits for injunctions to close two roadhouse establishments.

Wilburn Barcus, county attorney, instituted action in the 70th district court against two groups of defendants, asking that temporary court orders be issued to close places operated by these groups, and asking that on hearing on these orders, the injunctions be made permanent.

Named defendants in one case were W. M. Whitlow, Otto Thompson and A. B. Winslett. The petition asserted that they operate a dance hall, package store and beer store on highway 9, about 25 miles northwest of Big Spring, near the Howard-Dawson line. In the other case, C. C. Dollins and H. P. Adams, represented as operating a similar place in the same vicinity on highway 9 northwest of here, were named as defendants.

"Nuisance" Alleged

Plea for the injunctions in both cases was based on the allegation that the defendants "have maintained and assisted in maintaining nuisance in violation of law."

The suits were filed in the district court here Tuesday morning, and were to be forwarded to Judge Charles L. Klapproth at Midland. Barcus said he would ask immediate action by the court.

Filing of the injunction followed by a day the listing of charges in the county court in connection with a series of week-end liquor raids. Three defendants in those raids Tuesday had entered guilty pleas in county court and paid fines.

Pay Fines

R. G. Moore and C. A. Lane, charged with possession of whiskey on premises for sale of retail beer, paid fines of $25 and costs, a total of $48.85, and Myrtle McMurray was assessed a similar fine on a plea of guilty to a charge of possession of untaxed liquors.

F. S. Gomez, Jr., and S. A. Gomez, and Mose Seracha were released under bonds of $250 each on charges of violation of the state liquor law.

Barcus said Tuesday that he was anxious to try these cases in county court, but that trials probably would be delayed until the August term of court because the jury list for the current term had been improperly drawn.

Defendants in one of the injunction cases—Whitlow, Thompson and Winslett—were named in county court charges filed last week. Whitlow was charged with possession and sale of untaxed liquor and with sale of liquor on Sunday; Thompson and Winslett with possession of whiskey on premises for sale of beer.

The county attorney said that permits issued these men by the state liquor control board had been protested.

'Thin Man' Is Sought For N. J. Slaying

Hunt For Inventor's Killer Turns To Brooklyn On A 'New Lead'

EAST ORANGE, N. J., June 16.—Detectives today were tracing a "thin man" in the mysterious shooting of D. McFarlan Moore, engineer and inventor. They were seeking a stranger in Brooklyn, it was learned, on a freshly developed lead.

A daughter of the slain man, Beatrice Moore, told police of a visit of a soft-spoken thin man with her father nine hours before the one-time associate of Thomas A. Edison was found slain on the lawn of his home.

Had Argument

Moore, retired electrical engineer and a noted inventor in his own right, was killed early yesterday by two 22 caliber bullets fired into his head following an argument, in the rain, with an unknown man on the lawn outside his home. Police Chief C. N. Dell said flatly it was "murder."

Mrs. Earle M. Taber, a neighbor, told police she heard voices as though men were quarreling and a moment later heard two shots. She then heard someone running along the gravel driveway, she said, and looking out her window, saw Moore's body on the ground.

A description was given police of a man who called at the Moore home. The inventor's daughter told authorities the stranger went away when she told him her father had retired but later, she said, she saw him walking up and down in front of the house.

She then told her father of the visitor, she said, and Moore, after looking out the window, said the man appeared to be one with whom he had talked about inventions three years ago, police related.

The incident occurred about nine hours before Moore, rising early to drive to Bethlehem, Pa., for a funeral, was killed.

Transfer Of Bonus Bonds Is Continuing

Additional Securities Received; Over $70,000 Changed To Cash

The "bonus march"—in this case the trek of World war veterans to the postoffice to collect baby bonds as payment of adjusted service certificates was still in progress Tuesday, and postal officials still were busy certifying bonds of those who wished to send them to get the equivalent in cash.

Tuesday's rush was not so great as that of Monday, when bonds were on hand for 368 veterans. The day's mail brought only about a score of additional bonds. Postmaster Nat Shick said. He predicted that the flow of bonds would be continuous for some time.

$70,250 Certified

By Monday night Shick and his staff had certified 1,406 bonds in the amount of $70,250, for dispatch to Dallas, where the exchange for cash is made. Other bonds were being certified Tuesday, but a later check on the amount was not available. If procedure goes as smoothly as anticipated, the $70,000-plus will be back in the hands of veterans within a few days—in the form of cash and ready to go into circulation.

Delivery of the bonds and certification went rapidly and without a hitch. Shick and the postoffice expressed appreciation to members of the local post of Veterans of Foreign Wars for the assistance in expediting delivery, and said their service played an important part in speeding up the routine. A member of the VFW post was at the postoffice all day, answering veterans' questions and assisting in the identification necessary before the bonds could be certified.

Checks In Exchange For Bonds Due Immediately

WASHINGTON, June 16. (AP)—With a few hitches, the government's bonus distributing machinery Monday dropped "Baby Bonds" into the waiting hands of about three million war veterans.

This done, the treasury and post-office departments made ready for the next step—to cash all bonds turned in for payment.

Secretary Morgenthau told reporters at his press conference there were "bound to be" some errors in the bonus shipments, with three shifts of emergency workers laboring at top speed, but added he did not believe the number was large.

Delivery Held Up

The postoffice department was reported to have sent out a list of 15,000 bonds which were shipped by mistake. Postmasters were instructed not to certify those for payment.

In a few cases, it was said, shipments were stopped because the packets had been improperly addressed or because packets contained the wrong number of bonds, some cases were reported, too, in which veterans fearing that their original applications had been lost, had sent duplicates to the veterans administration.

Postal officials said veterans probably would begin receiving government checks in exchange for their bonds on Wednesday and that these payments would be fairly well completed by the end of the week.

Local Scouts Go To Camp

Approximately 50 In Party Headed For Outing In Edwards County

A group of approximately 50 boy scouts and scout leaders left Big Spring early Tuesday for the annual Buffalo Trail council camp at Camp Pawcett on the Nueces river in Edwards county near Barksdale.

About half the group will stay for the entire two-weeks season of the camp, others returning after a week's stay.

Accompanying the boys were Joe Pickle, Jake Pickle, William B. Wright, George Gentry, Carl Blomsheld and Jack Hodges.

Members Demand Release Of Long's Friend Unless Others Tried

NEW ORLEANS, June 16. (AP)—Nine members of the grand jury which indicted friends of the late Senator Huey P. Long for income tax fraud today scored the United States attorney general for abandoning prosecution of the cases.

In a letter to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, the jurors demanded release from the Atlanta penitentiary of former State Representative Joseph Fisher, one of two tried before criminal cases against the others indicted were dropped.

The jurors' letter said it was "gross, unwarranted official discrimination."

Abe Shushan, former president of the New Orleans levee board and a close friend of Long, the second tried, won acquittal.

Funeral Service Held At Conroe For H. W. Runnels

Funeral services were held in Conroe Monday for Hamilton William Runnels, a resident of Big Spring for the past seven years, who succumbed here Sunday at 4:25 a. m. after a brief illness. He was 74 years old, having been born Nov. 23, 1861.

His body was shipped to Conroe Sunday and services were conducted at the First Baptist church there. Burial was in Walker cemetery, beside the grave of his wife, who succumbed in 1927.

A daughter, Eva, with whom Runnels had been living, is seriously ill. Sons who came here upon word of the death of their father were Henry Runnels of Humble, and John, Bud and Joe of Houston. Daughters who came here were Mrs. G. W. Woodruff of Willis and Mrs. J. W. Woodruff of Humble. Another daughter, Mrs. K. B. Richard, lives here.

Candidates Will Speak At Coahoma

One of the major political rallies of the season is scheduled for this evening at Coahoma, where candidates will meet for the first time in the eastern sector of the county to present their bids for votes.

The rally was due to attract practically all aspirants to county offices, and a big audience was anticipated.

Because the meeting is the first to be staged in the Coahoma sector, where the poll is comparatively large, many expected tonight's meeting to be the real "starter" in the various campaigns.

Griffin Meets With Club Boys At Elbow

County Agent O. P. Griffin was at Elbow today in an all-day county-wide meeting with 4-H club boys. Purpose of the meeting was to make a study of the farm level.

All 4-H club boys of the county will go to the Concho Friday and Saturday on an outing, and plans are being made to take a few of the outstanding members to the Centennial in Dallas.

Topping Work To Be Started Thursday

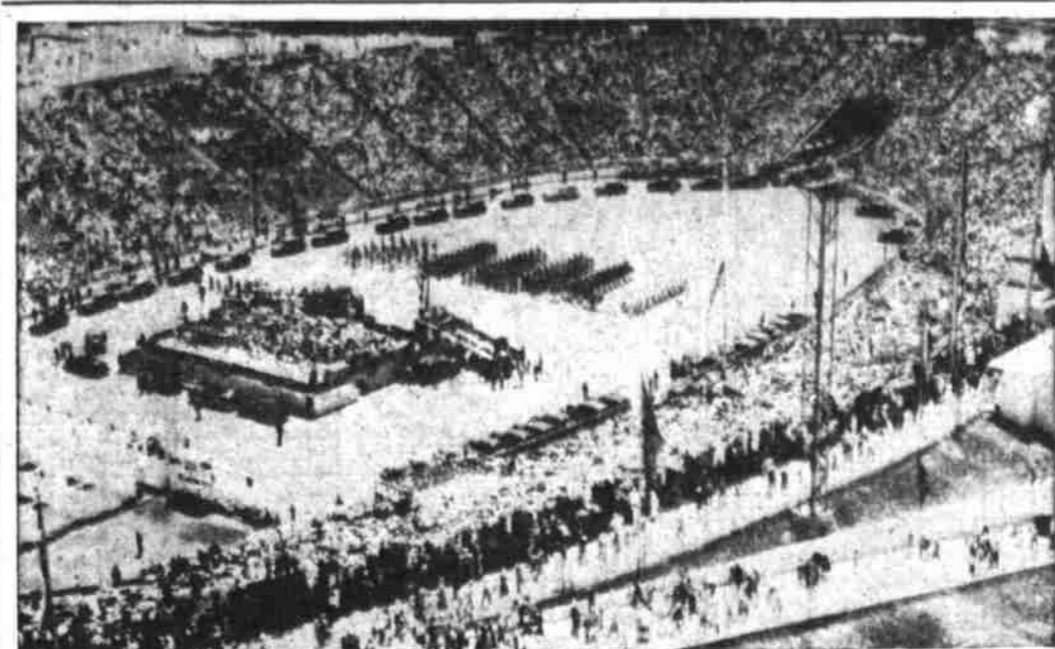

Asphalt topping of two blocks of Johnson St. and two blocks on 7th will start Friday morning, city officials said today. Alley work will be resumed again next Monday.

Work On P.O. Due To Start During July

Angelo Contractor Here, Indicates There Will Be No Delay

Indications that preliminary work toward construction of Big Spring's new postoffice building will be started early in July were given Monday by H. E. Templeton of San Angelo, member of the contracting firm of Templeton & Cannon which was awarded the contract on the structure.

Templeton was here conferring with Postmaster Nat Shick on building plans. His firm has signed the contract, he said, and had submitted bond requirements for departmental approval.

Officials of the treasury department appear especially anxious to expedite work on the Big Spring building, Templeton said, and he felt that the project would go forward without delay. He said his firm would be ready to move in equipment and start excavation work as soon as a work order is issued.

He indicated to Shick that the activity may begin by July 1, and before the middle of July at the latest.

The Templeton & Cannon award was for $90,350. The firm will have 240 working days to complete the job.

Differences May Postpone Adjournment

House And Senate Groups At Odds, May Take Bill Back To President

WASHINGTON, June 16. (AP)—Virtual agreement on the $2-$70,000,000 deficiency bill carrying next year's relief funds was reached today by congressional conferees. Chairman Arams of the senate conferees group forecast final agreement by tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, June 16. (AP)—A new compromise plan for settling key problems over corporation taxes was produced by senate tax bill conferees today, but met with no immediate favor among house members of the conferees committee.

A "counter proposal" was submitted by the senators, Chairman Doughton of the house group said. The senators' proposal was only another of more than a dozen compromise plans to settle differences on the revenue measure, but failure to reach an agreement three clouds of doubt over possible congressional adjournment this week.

Back To Roosevelt?

Talk arose anew of a possibility that some of the conferees might discuss the difficult task of negotiating a tax bill compromise with President Roosevelt again. Democratic conferees conferred with him last week.

A two-hour morning meeting of the conferees committee broke up with no semblance of any unanimity among the conferees. The entire time, they said, was spent on the key corporation tax feature.

15-25 Pct. Tax

One substitute proposal which was said to have received considerable attention and some opposition called for a corporation income tax of 15 to 25 per cent, graduated according to percentages of corporate earnings withheld from distribution to stockholders.

In principle that arrangement was approved, but with its rates graduated up to 42 1-2 per cent, rather than the senate measure with its 15 1-2 to 18 per cent corporate income tax and a flat 7 per cent super tax on undistributed corporate profits.

In some quarters there were hints that should the senate conferees swing over toward such an arrangement, or one along similar lines, the house group would accept the senate provisions for higher income surtaxes in all surtax brackets over $6,000.

Despite the continued deadlock on the tax bill, congress buckled down to business all along the line elsewhere, after a week's recess for the republican national convention.

Conferees met for the first time on the relief-deficiency appropriation bill, carrying $1,524,000,000 for work relief in the coming fiscal year. No immediate agreement was sighted on that "must" measure, but the dispute over it generally was regarded as less deeply than on taxes.

Deadline Near For Arranging Tax Payments

Delinquents Have Only Today For Arrangements With School Dist.

Taxpayers delinquent in their accounts with the Big Spring independent school district had only today to "get on the dotted line" in making arrangements about their bills.

The district board of trustees a month ago issued an appeal for cooperation in paying, or arranging for payment, of back accounts, and said that drastic action would be taken after today against those who showed no inclination to cooperate with the district. This action will consist of turning claims over to an attorney for probable court action against those who steadfastly decline to discuss payment.

The school tax office some time ago offered blanks to delinquents, giving them the opportunity to pay up old accounts, fix a time when payment could be made, or to make definite arrangements for later payment. There has been a steady demand for these blanks, it was reported Tuesday, and a hundred or more persons have contacted the office about their accounts.

Collections also have been good recently. A definite check will not be made, however, until after today, in order that all delinquent who desire may complete arrangements with the district.

Last week it was reported that $1,500 in back taxes had been paid but the district is in need of at least $5,500 additional to balance its budget. The delinquent tax total is more than $65,000.

Allotment on Dam Project Is Expected

Outlook Encouraging For City's Application For PWA Funds

Encouraging news from Washington has been received by city officials here indicating that Big Spring can expect allotment of funds on its application for a $500,000 dam project.

With engineering surveys completed several weeks ago and final approval given by all departments in Washington, the project lacks only the allotment of funds.

The application is for a dam to be located in southeastern Howard county and would be fed by nearby Moss Springs. The project includes line, pumping and pressure facilities as well as a dam and purification plant.

The city recently protested a proposed cut in the amount of PWA grants for 45 to 30 per cent. Cutting of the grant would have meant that the city would be forced to vote a $350,000 issue instead of a $275,000 issue necessary under the present arrangement.

INJUNCTION PLEA ON PROPERTY IS DENIED BY JUDGE

Plea for an injunction, sought by Lettie Heath against her husband, W. M. Heath, and seeking to prevent disposal of property pending court action on a divorce suit, was denied Monday afternoon by Judge Charles L. Klapproth of 70th district court.

Judge Klapproth came here to hear the suit. Mrs. Heath, who earlier had filed divorce action, also asked temporary alimony pending final judgment. This also was denied.

Landon, Knox Confer, Determined To Give 'Truth' On Campaign Issues

TOPEKA, Kas., June 16. (AP)—Murray, democratic ex-governor of Oklahoma, left the capitol expressing approval of the republican platform. Murray declined, however, to say in so many words that he would support Landon.

For "Principles"

"I am advocating democratic principles wherever I find them," said Murray. "I am not talking about parties or candidates."

So deeply were Landon and Hamilton engrossed in pointing for the all-important meeting with Col. Frank Knox, vice-presidential nominee, and party leaders that their conversation extended late into the afternoon. Cancellation of Landon's regular afternoon press conference precluded immediate comment on such points of strategy as the campaign participation of Senator Borah, the independent republican from Idaho, and Herbert Hoover, which undoubtedly were canvassed in the discussion.

Five-State Blockade Proposed By Texan As Means To Trap Fugitives

AUSTIN, June 16. (AP)—A five-state blockade—founded on the Clyde Barrow manhunt of several years ago—was projected by the Texas state police today to trap fleeing fugitives of the Southwest.

New Mexico, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas will be asked to join in the plan, said L. G. Phares, chief of the Texas highway patrol.

Perfection of the blockade would throw a double barrier of manhunters—local officers, state police and motorized Texas rangers—along any border section within a few minutes. Rapid communications will permit the concentration of officers in any "danger zone" of the vast area, said Phares.

R-SWATZY GIVES UP FIVE HITS

(By HANK HART) While the Frost sluggers were hammering the offerings of Bob Haynie and Cleo Wilson for a record string of runs Monday night, Roland Swatzy pitched hitless ball for the first seven and one-third innings, and seemed on his way to the first perfect game of the year.

Eight men strode to the plate before the Conoco aggregation succeeded in retiring George Choate for the initial out.

Leo Hare and Choate each collected four hits to lead the victors' attack. Loper was the only Pipeliner to connect for more than one blow, the Conoco center fielder coming through with a double and a single.

With this fine pair running against America's Helen Stephens and Poland's veteran, Stella Walsh, there should be fun at Berlin. Another fine sprinter, Tullien Schuurman of Holland, who is credited with an 11.8 century, has refused to compete at Berlin because of the Jewish snarl.

Germany is confident of capturing the women's relay. In addition to her two stars, she has a couple more girls who do the sprint regularly in 12.4 seconds.

Both Holland and Germany have potential winners in the 80-meter hurdles, with reservations. Agatha Doorgeest of Holland has clipped off 11.8 seconds (a tenth of a second slower than Didrikson at Los Angeles), but she has been ill lately.

GIRLS TO COMMAND ATTENTION

By GAYLE TALBOT BERLIN, June 16. (UP)—Europe's women athletes, particularly Germany's muscular frauleins, have made far greater strides than the men since the last Olympics at Los Angeles.

Germany, her manpower mostly busy drilling and working in labor camps, has, in fact, admittedly turned to her women in hopes of Olympic glory.

Probably the most noted of continental women stars are Germany's two great sprinters, Kate Krause and Marie Dollinger, each of whom has clipped a tenth of a second off the winning time of 11.9 seconds set by Stella Walsh in winning the 100 meters at Los Angeles.

Fines Improve Cardinals' Playing

RED BIRDS STUCK FOR NO HITS

By T. W. KIENLEN United Press Staff Correspondent St. Louis, June 16. (UP)—The other seven National League managers can run their ball clubs to suit themselves, and so will Frankie Frisch.

Frank has simply instituted a system of fines for his St. Louis Cardinals whereby any batter failing to drive a man home from third, with one or none out, pays $5 to the kitty.

And if he hits into a double play with a man on third the fine is $10. The kitty will be split between players at the close of the season.

And this is what the other managerial minds are grouching about. They say such a system spreads dissatisfaction. "Why, Frisch is going daffy," is the way one manager puts it.

But you can tell them for me I'm not going daffy and we haven't got dissension on our ball club," Frisch replies.

Had we scored those two runs, Walker would have stayed in and we might have beaten Warneke last afternoon. But you can't beat Warneke when you leave runners on third."

But even though he expects results, the Fordham Flash remarked that only September will tell if he's on the right track to a pennant.

The Keeper of the Fines is Dr. Harrison J. Weaver, club trainer. As one of his aids in collecting, Dr. Weaver has put up this sign:

"Don't forget to pay today; the fund is growing day by day."

"And none of them are slow pay," said Weaver. "Those who are fined give me their money promptly after the game."

"You bet we pay," said Dizzy Dean. "Of course, we had some trouble collecting a ten-spot from Frisch one day when he hit into a double play with runners on first and third, with one out."

"And maybe that's why Frankie won't play every day. He knows it would cost him too much for bum hitting."

But Frisch thinks he'll have a message for the other managers Oct. 1.

Something like this: "Who's daffy now?"

Joe Louis Hopes To Make It Three In Row When He Faces Schmeling

By TOM FAFROCKI Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK, June 16 (UP)—Having disposed of two former world champions in sensational fashion—Prime Carnera in six rounds and Max Baer in four—Joe Louis will attempt to make it three in a row when he faces Max Schmeling in Yankee Stadium Thursday.

The training siege, with its accompanying hallyhoos, is almost over. That is a relief for the fine hand of that master promoter, Mike Jacobs, was altogether too evident during the weeks of building-up prior to the actual contest.

On the other hand, Louis appeared at his Lakewood camp slightly blubbery around the waist, with 30 pounds surplus weight as the result of several weeks of inactivity.

Only from one quarter—from an individual long connected with the boxing game, and one whose opinion should carry considerable weight—did we hear that Max Schmeling stood a chance of beating Louis.

"You've got to concede the German some chance if only on the strength of his experience, condition and right hand punch," he insisted.

BEAUTY AIDS COST WOMEN $22 ANNUALLY

CHICAGO, (UP)—The American man spends only about two-thirds the amount women do for "beauty aids," according to the results of a national survey announced here.

White women are paying nearly $800,000,000 annually to beauty shops and for cosmetics, men are spending about $600,000,000 a year in barber shops and for shaving lotions, hair tonic, massages and manicures.

The nation's annual barber shop bill is reported to have dropped from $750,000,000 in 1926 to approximately $500,000,000 in 1936, yet the masculine use of other items to enhance the appearance of the face and hair has increased about 25 per cent.

Golfers Plan College Play

Ed White To Defend National Intercollegiate Golf Crown

CHICAGO, June 16. (UP)—Ed White, University of Texas star, and a sharpshooting big-league from Michigan will defend the two National Intercollegiate golf championships to the North Shore golf club June 23-27.

Michigan, which captured the Big 10 singles and team titles this spring for the fifth consecutive year, puts forward the blond veteran, Charley Kocis as White's ablest challenger.

Kocis is amateur champion of Michigan and king of the Western conference.

On the two opening days, the huge field will turn in 36 holes to qualify 32 men for match play the next four days.

Sniping for White's crown will start on June 24, with two 18-hole matches for each of the 32 survivors. The next three rounds, including the finals, will be 36 holes.

The team championship will go to the squad bringing home the lowest four-man aggregate.

Both champions will rank as favorites to repeat, although the Wolverines are conceded a better chance than White. Woody Malloy of Michigan was just three strokes back of Kocis in the Big 10 championship, while a third Michigan star, Allen Saunders, was well up among the leaders.

LIQUOR CANNOT STAND THE LIGHT OF TRUTH

By FLOYD COLLINS FICKEL. A friend told me a story the other day. We had been talking about that small group of women known as the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

vidual kept especially for that purpose, was taking place. Forgetful of my errand I followed my way to the center of the group and behind with some astonishment the sight before me. Down on their knees, in the fifth and dirt typical of the door step of a saloon, was a group of women. One was praying aloud, earnestly and fervently I don't remember much of the prayer except that it supplicated a change in heart of the saloon-keeper, who scornfully and somewhat defiantly, was watching the proceedings from the doors of the establishment.

CHARTER ISSUANCES IN STATE INCREASE

AUSTIN, June 15.—The number of new charters granted to Texas corporations during May was nearly 16 per cent greater than during the preceding month and nearly four per cent greater than during the corresponding month last year.

Banking-financial and mercantile corporations showed substantial increases in the number of new charters granted over the two comparable periods.

There was a sharp increase in the number of charters with capitalization of $5,000 or less in comparison with both the preceding month and the corresponding month last year.

LESSENING CRIME WAVE

Texas had a crime wave during the depression period. Bank robberies, hijackings, burglary, and murders incident to these crimes, were scattered thickly in the news pages.

Busy getting back on the track again, Texans have failed to notice the dwindling of these major crimes, except that during the past few days they have had a reminder several mornings of the final chapter of the crime-wave volume.

Repeatedly, there has been the announcement that Gov. Allred declined on recommendation of the pardon board to interfere with verdict of jury in so-and-so-case. Each of these brief statements has meant that another man went to the electric chair for murder or armed robbery or other capital crime. Each meant writing off one more item of a definite crime period.

Sociologists figure that crime and economic distress are related. A dangerous period of crime came to Texas during the depression. It ended as the depression faded into memory, and only the penalties and the executions remained unfinished. But in Texas the answer of law enforcement to a rampant organized form of crime, such as bank robbery, robbery with firearms and incidental murders, has been that it didn't pay either the individual or on the average.

Texas isn't free of crime. Murder is far too common. The everyday murder of the present is a family or personal matter, the conflict and anger of individuals, not the typical crime of the crime period, the taking of life as an incident to stealing money. But it is murder just the same, and Texas courts, attorneys and jurors will have to take a more serious view of it before it is brought to the minimum that should characterize a law-abiding people.

★ Man About Manhattan ★

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—Authors, it seems, are first to flee when the theatrical season comes to an end. Almost without exception they toss toothbrushes into bags and hurry to summer retreats.

Cognizant of their reluctance to risk Manhattan's torrid heat waves, we have made this quick check-up on the present whereabouts of the year's leading dramatists:

Laurence Houseman, who wrote Victoria Regina, is in England. . . . Lillian Hellman, author of The Children's Hour, has gone to Hollywood. . . . Sidney Kingsley's wandering feet have carried him to London, where Dodie Smith, who wrote Call It A Day, is also lapping up leisure.

George S. Kaufman (First Lady) is writing for a west coast studio and Katharine Dayton, who collaborated with him in touring and writing in the middle west. . . . Robert E. Sherwood (Idiot's Delight) takes his ease on his estate in Scurey, England. . . . Irwin Shaw, Brooklyn youngster who surprised with Bury the Dead, is toiling in the Hollywood script shops. . . . Maxwell Anderson has long since retired to his rural dwelling near Haverstraw, N. Y. . . . And Sam and Bella Spewack, of Boy Meets Girl, are strolling Picoadilly, as are Sam Greenwood and Ronald Gow, who wrote Love on the Dole.

For his role in Winterest, Burgess Meredith achieves that Italian effect by saturating his hair with oil. . . . Tourists from Austria say the Beautiful Blue Danube is neither beautiful nor blue. . . . It's a nice coffee-brown, with a little mud tossed in for good measure. . . . Arthur Crisp has just completed the largest mural in New York. . . . It's devoted to lords and ladies of Louis XIV's court, is 115 feet long, and may be glimpsed in the new Promenade cafe. . . . The scenes show the dandies of that era at their favorite sports of listening to minstrels or engaging in the fine art of falconing. . . . Which reminds me that it is almost impossible to find falcons in New York. . . . They have to be ordered.

Many New Yorkers go picnicking in Central park, spending whole days wandering the groves and dining by the cool streams which wind in and out of dells. . . . The only catch is, the cops will get nasty if you litter the grounds with paper napkins and plates.

The lobby of the Hotel Times Square is furnished almost entirely with antiques. . . . But don't get the idea that you can walk out with one. . . . The gendarmes are always alert, and the antiques are pretty bulky. . . . Guthrie McClintic has gone to England to direct a new play for Diana

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DEWEY PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Only one impulse is likely to prevent congress from going home this week, and that is a last minute jam on the tax bill.

The tax and relief bills are the only items on the entire legislative program for which the administration and its leaders on capitol hill give a snap of their fingers when they whiff the green grass back home and the sadwist of the Philadelphia convention.

Also—and this is not to be sneezed at—a lot of the boys on both sides of the chamber are not at all anxious to put themselves on record concerning certain controversial questions, while so close to the November deadline when they have to face their constituents.

Result of all this is a long list of important bills almost sure to be left high and dry in the headlong rush for adjournment. Among these are:

Guffey Coal bill—This is the substitute measure for the law wiped out by the supreme court. It permits coal operators to fix prices in order to pay union wages. This bill is more likely than the others to pass though there is no certainty.

Wagner-Ellenbogen Housing bill—his tacit support of White House and vigorous support from mayors all over the country. But it is menaced by inner administration clashes on housing policy and by opposition of powerful private interests. Now stalled by Congressman Steagall of Alabama.

Kerr-Coolidge Alien Deportation bill—Pending over a year and warmly endorsed by the administration, but bitterly opposed by red-baiting elements. It gives the labor department discretion in deporting aliens. No chance of passing.

Walsh-Healy bill—This is the American Federation of Labor's No. 1 "must" bill. It would apply NRA code standards to government contracts. Passed by the senate last year, but little chance of passing house.

Ship Subsidy bill—This eliminates mail contracts and substitutes a ship construction subsidy. Also takes shipping out of the commerce department and creates a marine commission. Slim chance of passing.

Food and Drug bill—This has been so emasculated by Dr. Copeland that even its advocates are against it in its present form. Definitely doomed.

Robinson-Patman Chair. Store bill—This would prevent price discrimination by chain stores, and if passed would probably wreck the retail bill. But has powerful support in congress, but White House advisers believe it would cause such disastrous economic repercussions that Roosevelt would not sign it.

Briefly put, the bills unpassed are about as important as the bills passed by the present session of congress. Here are the ones which of certain air vessels.

COUGHLIN ASSERTS HE WILL 'STARTLE' THE NATION FRIDAY

BOSTON, Mass., June 16. (UP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit radio priest, promised today to "startle the nation" Friday night.

He was en route to Great Barrington after stopping here long enough to intimate possibility of a coalition of his National Union for Social Justice and followers of the Townsend old-age pension movement.

Refusing to confirm or deny the coalition report, he said: "Just listen to my speech, which will be broadcast over a national hookup Friday night. It will startle the nation."

His comments on current politics, including the observation that "neither of the presidential candidates to be voted for this fall is worth a plugged nickel," were made to newsmen and in an interview over a New England radio network.

SINGERS TO MEET AT LUBBOCK SATURDAY

LUBBOCK, June 15.—Saturday and Sunday, June 20 and 21, the Panhandle-Plains Singing association will hold its annual convention—Centennial session—in Lubbock, at the Sted Allen auditorium.

An anticipated attendance of between 10 and 15 thousand people will include some of the outstanding leaders and singers in Texas and adjoining states.

V. O. Stamps, president of the Stamp-Baxter Music company of Dallas in charge of the Centennial singing in Dallas, will conduct the program here.

A $10 cash prize is in store for the best amateur quartet, Saturday afternoon.

S. E. Summers, president, and Earl Raper, vice-president, together with the city of Lubbock extend their cordial invitation to all singers and music company representatives to be here for the program which starts promptly at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the auditorium.

Awards Given In History Contest

Alfred Fischer, young San Antonio mail carrier, wins the $100 first prize in the seventh of nine weekly Texas history contests sponsored by the makers of Post cereals, contest judges announced Fischer's answer to a question dealing with the surrender of Santa Anna to General Sam Houston ranks highest among many thousands of entries sent in by amateur Texas historians.

Second prize of $75 was won by O. A. Milam, 1201 Avenue A, Brownwood. Robert T. Gibley, 2837 Maplewood avenue, Dallas, architect active in the design of several Centennial projects, was awarded the $50 third prize.

Ten dollar awards went to ten other Texans and 46 prizes of $5 each were presented.

VENEZUELA STRIKE ENDS AFTER 5 DAYS

CARACAS, Venezuela, June 15.—A five-day strike ended today and workers trooped back to their jobs. Both strikers and the government claimed a victory.

Dr. C. K. Bivings, who has been in Dallas, Temple and Austin on business, returned here Monday after stopping off at Kerrville to visit with his son, Gary, who is in Camp Stewart.

83 MILLIONS TO TEXAS VETS

DALLAS, June 16.—Texas veterans who went through the World War Monday began to reap their long-delayed bitterly-contested pay—to the tune of approximately $83,500,000.

Postoffice officials here were rushing at top speed to rush the soldiers' bonus bonds to every post office in the State, from where they will be sent out by registered mail to each veteran who has applied for his final pay for services during those four years.

Although there are well over 148,771 veterans in the state eligible to receive the bonus payments, officials said that number would not immediately cash their bonds or even request their delivery.

Lynch Bill Gets Required Signers

WASHINGTON, June 16.—A petition to force house consideration of the anti-lynching bill by Representative Gavan, New York, yesterday obtained the last of 218 signatures necessary for its success.

Representative Buckley, New York, was the two hundred and tenth signer of the petition, designed to take the measure from the judiciary committee.

"This is a great victory for law and order," commented Representative Gavan, "and a great triumph for a democratic house."

The bill is similar but not identical with the Costigan-Warner measure, on which senate action has been blocked repeatedly by southern members.

It would make states and political subdivisions liable for damages and penalties in event a person in custody of their officers was killed by a mob.

The measure now must lie on the house calendar for seven legislative days before it may be acted upon.

Chapter 24
"COME AT ONCE!"

Hope went on: "I wanted to win him, to make him happy. But I couldn't. He was kind to me. He did things for me, gave me things. But it meant nothing. I was like a doll that he dressed up . . . for her to see. He thought she might relent. He hoped for this. And if she had . . ."

"But he was married to you, Dirk reminded her.

"I know. Certain words were spoken over us, if you mean that. But how long would they have held if she had come to him?"

Dirk repressed a smile. The diagnosis was so entirely feminine.

"Anyhow," she said, "I could have told Rupert that Elinor would never come. I think maybe he came to know this. But he went on getting pleasure out of showing her he didn't care, out of thinking he but her with me. I was a sort of weapon. Maybe he found he hadn't even hurt her, for she went serenely on and got married. And that day . . . the day of her wedding . . . he came in my room for the first time, and kissed me. He was drinking, and angry, and I pushed him away."

Dirk said, "I don't blame you for that. I think any woman would have done the same."

"But he left," she said. "He rode out of town. He felt that no one cared . . . And aren't there ways and ways of winning a man? Shouldn't a wife take any way she can?"

The discussion had become painful to Dirk. He replied, "I thought you had won him. I thought it when I saw your ring." She smiled down ruefully at the chased platinum band.

"I'm glad you noticed it," she said.

said, "Rupert never has. I bought it myself."

Dirk went out on the kitchen-porch to get more wood. The snow had drifted onto the porch, and the wood had almost to be dug out. When he came back into the room, Hope had slipped sideways in the chair, her face pressed against the rough hickory arm. She was asleep.

He lifted her, limp as a child, and carried her over to the bunk, spreading an army blanket over her, and her racoon coat. Then he mended the fire and lay down on the bunk opposite.

Dirk fell asleep, and was awakened by a knock on the door. Hope, too, sat upright. It was Sandy, standing in the dawn, beside his sleigh.

"We've found him," reported Sandy. "Down at Old Forge, at Steve Clapp's house. He's in bed, sick."

"We found him," reported Sandy. "Down at Old Forge, at Steve Clapp's house. He's in bed, sick."

Sandy told them more as he drove them toward Old Forge. It had happened the night of the big snow. Rupert had got lost while driving up. In the obscurities of the storm he had turned off the road and had stalled. Then he had got out, searching for help. Afoot.

"I guess he saw Steve Clapp's light. Anyhow, they found him next morning where he'd stumbled at the gate. The dogs found him. He's still unconscious. Doctor says he's got pneumonia. Clapp heard there was somebody lost around Big Moose, and he phoned over."

Clapp's house was a cottage of four rooms. They had given Rupert the best bed, and Mrs. Clapp was taking care of him. Dirk telephoned to New York for two nurses and for Rupert's physician. He said to Hope,

"I want you to go home. We've found him now, and we'll take him to Lowell soon as we can."

Dirk saw her to the train, a grave silent figure bundled in a racoon coat, a brown antelope beret pulled over her hair.

He felt strangely at ease regarding Hope—Hope and her childish secrets. When she had gone he telephoned Martin to meet her train, telephoned also to Sanford Joris.

During the next few days Rupert remained in a coma, his physician and nurse came on from New York, the Clapp home was requisitioned as a hospital, and the Clapps went to stay with neighbors.

On Monday Dirk received a telegram. He was in close touch with Sanford and the office, but this was from neither of those sources. It was signed David Logan, and it said, "Come at once."

The morning train had already gone, so Dirk left Big Moose in his car. Rupert was better that morning, had emerged into consciousness, and the attendants were hopeful. Dirk reached home shortly before dusk. Logan and his companion had not come on. Martin, meeting him in the porte cochere, hailed him as a miracle.

"Did they wire you?" asked Martin.

"They did. Do you know what it is?"

Martin knew. "Will you come up to my room, Mister Dirk? I daren't talk out here."

They went up the back-stair to Martin's room. On the way Dirk said,

"Mrs. Joris all right?"

"No, sir. She's not. She can't leave her room."

"Have you called a doctor?" asked Dirk.

"She's not as ill as that, sir. But Mary says she looks . . . She won't let anybody in but Mary. Mister Dirk, you may blame me for all this. But you told me to watch you. You told me to guard her. I can't help it if she saw me . . . if she knows it was me."

They were facing each other in Martin's little room on the third floor. Dirk, a thousand apprehensions moving through his mind, could not help observing that Martin himself looked ill.

"You'll probably fire me," Martin said now. "Specially as Logan says . . . But I don't mind being fired if I'm no more use to you. It was like this. With you gone, and Mister Rupert gone, and me, and the rest of the help away up here, I got to thinking.

"I thought if anybody was after me it would be a cinch to come then, while you and Mister Rupert were gone. Up here on this floor nobody can hear a thing."

"Logan and the other fellow . . . I went out and spoke to them about it, told them you were away. I wanted one of them to keep the watch inside the house. But they wouldn't do it. Said it was their business to watch the gates; they hadn't received any other instructions. So it seemed my business . . . feeling like I did . . . to stay close to Mrs. Joris, though I hadn't received any such instructions either."

"It was your business. We'll take that for granted. What happened?"

"Well, I made up my mind to go downstairs and stay in Mister Rupert's room . . . just be there in case anybody tried anything. I never knew where Mister Rupert kept his gun . . . his revolver. Nora told me."

Dirk was silent. So far as he knew, Rupert had no revolver, but he did not wish to check Martin's rather halting narrative.

"All right," he said.

"I went in Mister Rupert's room, and looked in the desk-drawer where Nora said he kept the gun. The gun wasn't in the desk, and I began to look in the other drawers. And then, all at once, I heard a man's voice. It was low now. It had been loud for a minute. Loud and kind of mad."

"It was in Mrs. Joris' room. I didn't think a thing but that she was in danger. But the door was locked."

"You tried the door?" asked Dirk.

"Yes, sir. I tried it with all my might, pushing against it. I could feel it was a flimsy thing, not like the other doors. Everything was still while I tried it, and I was worried worse than ever. I ran out into the hall, and tried that door. It was locked, too, and felt like the wall itself, and I was just turning around to go back and smash in the other door, when the one I was trying opened, and Mrs. Joris stood there."

"She had on a kimono, and the light was on in her room. If there'd been a light before it was very dim, or I'd have seen it under the door. She said, 'What is it, Martin? I told her I'd heard somebody in

Year's Income For Texas U. Is $1,720,000

AUSTIN, June 16.—Income of the University of Texas for the fiscal year 1936-37 is estimated at $1,720,000, a decline of more than $200,000 from the receipts for the current fiscal year totaling $1,906,980, according to Leo Haynes, secretary of the board of regents.

The estimated balance Sept. 1, 1936, is $145,600, compared with $110,000 at the beginning of the current fiscal year. It is estimated that the total available for expenditure during the next fiscal year is $1,865,688 compared with $2,065,980 for 1935-36.

The total budget for 1936-37 for the main university is $1,877,980, compared with $1,921,380 for the current year. This would leave an overdraft of $12,292 in the budget for the coming year and a balance Aug. 31, the end of the present year, of $145,600.

Cross Children May Need Simple Laxative

When children are cross and touchy, give them Feen-a-mint, the delightful chewing gum laxative. Feen-a-mint begins its pleasant effect as soon as you start chewing it. For its stomach-settling, mint brings a clean, fresh taste to the mouth. As you chew out the laxative ingredient which is absolutely tasteless, the flow of digestive juices is increased. The laxative is mixed with these juices and carried into the system evenly and gently. Feen-a-mint doesn't grip, nauseate or cause upset and is non-habit-forming. It passes through the stomach and into the bowels so scientifically that the action is wonderfully easy and thorough. Try Feen-a-mint, the new Feen-a-mint way. Doctors prescribe the laxative ingredient for both children and adults. Sold on a money back guarantee. Generous family size package 15c and 25c.
