Naval Court of Inquiry Probes the Macon Disaster

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14. (AP)—The cause of the "shudder" which meant the sinking of the giant dirigible Macon was sought today by a naval court of inquiry.

Survivors of the Macon, which crashed and sank into the Pacific ocean Tuesday night, were not sure what caused the quiver to run through the ship and subsequently rip away two gas cells.

Lieut. Commander H. V. Wiley, the skipper, had "some ideas" but declined to discuss them.

The underlying cause of the mid-air collapse remains undetermined, Commander Wiley and others who came through safely revealed there had been a sudden lurch at the outset, after which the great sky cruiser soared upward, and then contact then settled haphazardly to a grave in the deep.

Outwardly light-hearted, the 31 surviving officers and men who stuck with the ship until they were rescued, then got away in rubberlifeboats, sang as they came ashore here.

Search was continued for the two missing men, but they were not spotted where the ship went down 13 miles off Point Sur, Calif., 110 miles south of here.

The loss of the $2,450,000 Macon left the American Navy without a fighting dirigible. Germany's Graf Zeppelin, slightly smaller than the Macon, thus became sovereign of the skies.

President Roosevelt praised the work of naval surface craft for their swift rescue of the dirigible's crew but said funds would not be asked for their replacement at present.

STATE OFFICER DISCUSSES TEXAS HEALTH STATUS

Dr. Don Peterson, of the state department of health, was in Midland yesterday. He is traveling in West Texas this week with a representative of the United States Public Health service whose interest is in establishing full-time county health units.

Dr. Peterson expressed the hope that enough interest in health could be created in Midland county and adjoining counties so that they could ask the state for help in establishing health units.

"At the present time the state department of health has not sufficient funds to put on a permanent organization to put on health demonstrations in every county where we would like to," said Dr. Peterson. "With a state appropriation of little more than $100,000 per person we have not been able to do more than just touch the surface of our state public health problem."

Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, and the directors of the state board of health are asking the backing of all Texas in a drive to get the Texas legislature to appropriate a sufficient amount of money for the state department of health in order that we may at least function on an average with other state health departments in the union. It is a very embarrassing fact, but Texas ranks 45th in per capita appropriation for health. This is extremely difficult to understand when we know that Texas is first in size, first in population, first in natural wealth and first in agriculture and cattle raising of all of the states of the union."

From a table of figures recently compiled by Dr. Harry H. Moore in his published booklet "Public Health in the United States," it is estimated that the total cost of communicable and infectious disease in Texas amounts annually to over $3,000,000. Figures taken from the United States Bureau of Census show that in 1933 the Texas record of deaths from dysentery was higher than any of the eleven southern states; that diphtheria takes a greater toll among the Texas children than in any other state in the union except in Kentucky and West Virginia; that Texas has 71 deaths from tuberculosis per 100,000 population while the average for the whole United States is 59, and that Texas ranks 36th in tuberculosis mortality.

"There is no question as to the cause or prevention of typhoid fever, dysentery or diphtheria," said Dr. Peterson, "and when preventive measures are made available in Texas, we will no longer hold this unenviable position among the other states of our Union. We have very definite facts to show that those states which are spending the most per capita for public health have least deaths from communicable and infectious diseases."

T-B TESTING OF MIDLAND CATTLE TO BE ACTED UPON AT MEETING OF COWMEN FRIDAY MORNING AT 9:30

Cattlemen of Midland county were asked today to attend a meeting Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock, to determine whether or not Midland county shall be included in the program of tubercular testing of cattle in order that shipments may be made anywhere in the United States without further testing.

Dr. J. G. Porter of the Bureau of Animal Industry was in Midland Wednesday afternoon conferring with County Agent S. A. Debnam in regard to putting Midland county on the accredited list as tubercular free in cattle production. Dr. Porter was on his way to El Paso and had been supervising the work of tuberculosis testing in counties West of here. Reeves and Ward county were the last to be tested and expected to be finished within the next few days. Ecstasy has signed up for testing and expects the necessary veterinarians to arrive in the near future, according to Dr. Porter.

The tuberculosis testing is being financed from funds set aside under the Jones-Connelly act and there is practically no county expense for the program. Dr. Porter said.

In order to get on the accredited list which will enable ranchers to ship stocker cattle to any part of the United States without testing for the next three years it will be necessary to test all dairy cattle, all available bulls, and ten per cent of all mature breeding cows in the county. Dr. Porter stated that the testing would be in a position to test Midland county some time in April, if the cattle men here desire to have Midland county tested.

Dr. Porter gave out the information that every county in New Mexico had signed up for the test and that the states of Missouri and Kansas expect to be fully accredited in April.

When these states are accredited as tubercular free, it will be impossible to ship any type of livestock, either feeders or stockers, into these states from non-accredited counties without the expense of testing. This means according to Dr. Porter, that the only cattle which can be moved from non-accredited counties will be cattle going directly to means of origin or to a limited number, goes out of this section.

County Agent Debnam is planning to determine the sentiment of the county as to whether or not they desire to have Midland county placed on this accredited list so that if shipment favors this, Midland county can get the testing done while the money from the Jones-Connelly act is in effect, and the testing can be done free of charge.

FISHING DELAYS VERDICT ON WELL IN WINKLER POOL

By PAUL OSBORNE

Oil sand was drilled in the new hole, which is whipsocked around a cavern here was shot and killed from 3,110-18 feet, and the hole filled several hundred feet with oil. Drilling ahead into more lime, operator struck a bit at the total depth in what was judged to be another sand zone, and at last report last night were attempting to get it loose.

Decision on the Amerada well at Monument is also being delayed while operators make geophone tests. Plug is set at 3,760 feet, but late yesterday afternoon had not been drilled. The well No. 1-LD State, is located in section 1-205-36e, and has been the cause of considerable excitement in Lea county for some time, first when highs were logged for salt markers and top of Yates said, and more recently when oil has shown in drilling mud on drill stem tests.

TAVERN OPERATOR KILLED IN AFFRAY

FORT WORTH, Feb. 14. (AP)—A. P. McCormick, 40, part owner of a tavern here was shot and killed today in an argument with the night bartender of the place, William H. Gates said he fired from a prone position. McCormick struck him with a bottle.

The verdict was reported reached on the fifth ballot against the accused, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, in a court of appeals and errors, would stay the execution.

The high court is not likely to pass upon the appeal until late in May.

The jury of eight men and four women spent 11 hours and 40 minutes in a bare room of the old court-house where Hauptmann had been on trial since January 2 before they reached their verdict.

Pioneer Citizen Is 89 Years Old Today

One of Midland's pioneer citizens, Mrs. N. C. Vest, is celebrating her eighty-ninth birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mollie McCormick, here today.

Her oldest son, W. A. Vest of Monahan, arrived last night to make her a birthday visit. Other children who lived farther away were not able to be present.

Mrs. Vest has received visits from a number of old friends and old-timers of the community during the day.

Despite her age, Mrs. Vest is still active. She is a charter member of the Methodist church here and a member of the Wesley Bible class whose social she still attends.

"She is younger than I am, really," Mrs. McCormick said in discussing her mother.

Optimism Found in Markets by Wadley

Although awaiting eagerly the supreme court's decision on the gold question, manufacturers and wholesalers in Chicago and Saint Louis are optimistic over prospects for spring and summer business.

Adison Wadley said upon his return here last night from a buying trip for Addison Wadley company. He said the rain and snow which fell over this area while he was away made him feel much more optimistic over the heavy purchasing he had done for the store here.

Reilly scathingly attacked Condon, insinuated the aged educator might have been involved in the crime in some way, referred to some of the identifying witnesses as the act of a man who had lost his child.

Mrs. Cecile Barr, theatre ticket seller, said she never saw her a ransom note to pay for a ticket in November, 1933.

Numerous witnesses supported his alibi that the night she named.

"Trooper Lewis" who named her was home celebrating his birthday.

The 14 Ransom Notes
Eight handwriting experts said Hauptmann wrote all the notes.

One expert said he could not have written them, that they were in a disguised or copied hand and that parts of some of them were written with the left hand.

Reilly defended his alibi witnesses.

Dr. John F. Condon, ransom intermediary, and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh identified Hauptmann as the "John" who took the $50,000 ransom in a Bronx cemetery.

Defense witnesses said he was home, that it was 222 night.

Million and a Half Words of Testimony Considered by Jury

Remainder of the $50,000 had been spent in living and speculating on the stock market over the 30-month period between the ransom payment and the kidnaping.

Hauptmann said he found the money in a shoebox left with him by Isadore Fisch, a business associate of the kidnaping victim, who had died, that he found the money months later and decided to use it because Fisch had owed him money.

Others told of seeing Fisch bring a package the size of a shoebox to a farewell party at Hauptmann's home. His market speculations were financed by savings and money made in the fur business with Fisch, he said.

In rebuttal, the state produced witnesses to say Fisch never had that much money, that he died poor.

The Other Ones
The state charged that it was a one-man job and Hauptmann was that man.

The defense produced witnesses to try to link others with the crime.

A man said Fisch jumped over a wall into Raymond's cemetery. New York, the ransom payment night, that Violet Sharpe was seen with

Threats Alleged by Witnesses in Kennamer Trial

PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 14. (AP)—Jack Sneider of Tulsa, acquaintance of Phil Kennamer who is on trial for murder, today identified an extortion note addressed to Honer F. Wilcox, Tulsa oil man.

The address on the envelope and the letter was not in Kennamer's handwriting and he did not know who wrote the letter and the address, the witness said.

Discredited testimony of death threats brought the Phil Kennamer murder trial to the brink of a mistrial Wednesday as sensation piled on sensation in the trial here on a charge of venue from Tulsa.

Mrs. O. L. Harmon, Tulsa apartment owner, state's "mystery witness" who was to tell of alleged threats by Kennamer against him, said she heard before Judge Thurman Hurst without a jury, carries a maximum penalty of a year in prison.

As a result of the woman's testimony, first the defense and then the prosecution demanded a mistrial but Judge Hurst, after questioning the jury, denied both motions.

Other highlights of the day were: Testimony by Jack Sneider, 18-year-old Tulsa youth, that Kennamer had told him he was going to kill George Foster, the Kansas City kidnap student did not drop a plot to kidnap Virginia Wilcox, pretty 19-year old daughter of H. F. Wilcox, wealthy Tulsa oil man.

WILL SEEK STAY OF EXECUTION IN HAUPTMANN CASE

Defense Chief Says "Miscarriage of Justice"

PLEMINGTON, Feb. 14. (AP)—Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel, today attacked the verdict and sentence assessed against Bruno Richard Hauptmann as "one of the greatest miscarriages of justice."

He said "the fight to save Hauptmann has just begun."

Hauptmann, with the sentence death on him, today fell into a fitful sleep. The anguish to which he gave way after the jury pronounced him as the slayer of the Lindbergh baby passed at dawn.

After breakfast he remained silent but depressed.

Sheriff John H. Curtiss said today Hauptmann will be taken to the state prison at Trenton Saturday and lodged in the death house.

A request for a stay of the death sentence will be the next move of his attorney, who will endeavor to proceed with the announced intention of appealing the verdict.

Hauptmann's mother, living at Kamenz, Saxony, wrote President Roosevelt a letter begging him to "be merciful."

Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh made no comment.

NOT TRUSTING THE DOCTOR

The queer things people can do when they set out to follow their own ideas about health are sometimes almost beyond belief.

A Chicago father is facing a manslaughter charge because of what the police say he did in an effort to make his 13-month-old daughter well and strong.

First he plunged the little girl into a tub of ice water, to give her a healthy body. Then he stood her on her head—to drain an infected ear. Then he laid her down and sat on her—to complete the drainage.

He accompanied these acts with the explanation that the doctor didn't know what it was all about, but that he, the father, would fix things.

The little girl died as a result of the treatment, and the father is under arrest. And the moral is too obvious to need comment.

Fine Arts Club Visits Art Display. Hears Lecture

Taking the place of their regular scheduled meeting, the Fine Arts club Wednesday afternoon visited the art collection now on display in the Hotel Scharbauer and heard a lecture by Mr. J. E. Henson, owner of the paintings, all of which are originals.

Considering each canvas separately, Mr. Henson gave a brief explanation of the painter, described the picture, and called attention to the finer details of color and harmony which distinguish it.

Among the pictures featured on were works of old masters and of modern artists of various schools and countries. There is one small watercolor painting on parchment, for which Mr. Henson said he would refuse $7,000.

Miss Lydia G. Watson, Fine Arts president, in speaking of these paintings said, "This is a rare opportunity to go and see the originals—one that people should take advantage of."

Mr. Henson has traveled extensively over the world and has spent much time in Europe among the artistic environs of that continent. He does not have the establishment of an art collection in Midland.

The lecture was open to the public and was attended by the following members of the Fine Arts club and several other women of the town: Miss Watson, Mmes. Geo. Abell, Paul Barron, Tom Bobo, Rawlins Clark, J. H. Hodges, Miss Stella Mave Iannam, Mmes. Paul Moore, Jno. Shipley, Harvey Sloan, E. Hazen Woods, and Bob Hamilton.

Varied Preparation Makes Healthful Vegetables Tasty

By MARY E. DAGUE, NEA Service Staff Writer

If only I could get you to realize that you don't have to cook your vegetables the same way day after day, your husbands would give me a medal. You don't—and to show you that you don't, I am giving you some new vegetable dishes that I believe you'll like.

I have also calculated the caloric value of each recipe, just in case you're on a diet or concerned for fear the family isn't getting its daily supply.

Stuffed Onions. Four large mild onions, 1 cup finely chopped meat, 2 tablespoons minced mushrooms (optional), 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 egg, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon butter, 3-4 cup coarse stale bread crumbs. Spanish onions are preferred but any large onion can be used.

Mashed Parsnip Ring. Eight or ten parsnips of fair size, 4 tablespoons bacon dripping, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, 1-2 teaspoon white pepper, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1-2 cup cracker crumbs, 1 cup flaked fish, 3 tablespoons flour, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 cups milk, parsley. Scrub and scrape parsnips. Cut in halves and cook in boiling salted water until tender. It will take about thirty minutes, depending on freshness and size. Put through a ricer and add bacon dripping, paprika, pepper and cracker crumbs. Beat egg with vinegar and add to parsnip mixture. Cook over the fire, stirring constantly until egg is set. Arrange on a hot platter in the form of a mound and with a spoon press a hollow in the center, widening it into a ring. Fill with fish in cream sauce and garnish with parsley.

To make the sauce, melt butter, stir in flour and when bubbling slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point, season with salt and pepper, and add fish.

Protein calories, 296; fat calories, 582. Total calories, 2023.

Cheese and Potato Souffle. Two cups mashed potatoes, 1 cup grated cheese, 4 eggs, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 tablespoon tomato catsup, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 cup rich milk.

Beat yolks of eggs until thick and lemon colored and add with cheese and catsup to mashed potato. Beat in enough milk to make the consistency of drop batter. Less than 1-2 cup may be enough. Fold in the whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a well buttered baking dish and place in a pan of hot water. Bake thirty to forty minutes in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) When well puffed and firm to the touch, remove from oven and serve at once. Freshly mashed, hot potatoes can be used or leftover potatoes can be put through a ricer and reheated.

This One Thing I Beseech

By Helen Welshimer DEAR, through the intervening years This one thing I beseech: That we shall always be so near That either one can reach.

Tropical Romance Reviewed by Miss Ward at YWA Meet

Editor's Note: The following report of the review of the famous romance, "Green Mansions" by W. H. Hudson given by Miss Marjorie Ward at the YWA meeting Tuesday evening was made by Miss Obera Hines.

"In form and spirit the book is unique, a simple romantic narrative transmuted by sheer glow of beauty into a prose poem. Without ever departing from its quality of a tale, it symbolizes the yearning of the human soul for the attainment of perfect love and beauty in this life—that impossible perfection which we must all learn to see fall from its high tree and be consumed in the flames, as was Rima, the bird girl, but whose fine white ashes we gather that they may be mingled at last with our own, when we too have been refined by the fire of death's resignation. The book is soaked through and through with a strange beauty."—John Galsworthy.

In "Green Mansions" Hudson tells of his experiences in the Indian villages in Venezuela. After making friends with the Indians in camp, Hudson explores the tropical forest. Accidentally one day he happened upon the girl of the forest, Hudson, becomes lost in the forest, and is found unconscious by natives of an Indian village. They take him to their camp, and here he finds that the strange girl is Rima, granddaughter of Nulfo, Hudson falls in love with the girl, and they have many thrilling experiences. While in the forest one day, Rima faints and Hudson carries her back to the cave. After a short while she begins to breathe naturally, and after a long conversation with Hudson, disappears. After her departure, Nulfo and Hudson leave the camp, in search of Rima. They come to the camp which has been burned by enemies and fear that Rima has been captured by them. Hudson leaves Nulfo here and returns to the village of Rumi. Here he is told that Rima returned to the forest and the natives, who said she was the daughter of the evil spirit, Didi, chased her. She sought protection in the tree tops, and the natives set fire to the trees, and Rima was burned. Hudson desired to escape from the natives then, but was followed by the Indian Kua-ko. In the struggle that followed, Hudson killed Kua-ko. Hudson makes his way to the village of Managa and tells him that Rima is planning an attack on the village. Hudson then returns to the first camp occupied by Nulfo and Rima. He builds a hut and spent many happy days there. He left the camp finally, and made his way to the coast, and returned to his home.

FEMININE FANCIES

BY KATHLEEN EILAND

Bracelets and clips, as well as pins, of braided gold and silver metal is news in jewelry. Lanvin started this vogue.

A dress ornament that mildly may wear secure in the knowledge that her next door neighbor won't have one like it is one that we saw yesterday. Two metal dog heads linked by a chain decorated the neck of a frock that was otherwise quite conventional.

Inexpensive frocks are now being shown in a rough weave crepe "frost crepe" it is called if our memory is accurate that should serve admirably for knockabout dresses. The colors are light and quite pretty.

We suppose people don't get too old to be thrilled over a cleverly worded sentimental Valentine message. But comic Valentines, particularly the sort that depend upon, unkindness to be comic, never did appeal to us.

White, white, white for summer and navy, navy, navy for spring seems to be the national colors this year.

Very few two-tone shoes are being shown, we are informed. We don't regret that news.

Anybody who thinks that Valentine has no appeal for moderns should have seen the press before the Valentine counter in a certain variety store yesterday afternoon. Seeing's believing.

Ann Harding Stars In "Biography of A Bachelor Girl"

"Biography of a Bachelor Girl" the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film starting tomorrow at the Yucca theatre, brings back a team which won dramatic fame with a single picture.

They are Ann Harding and Robert Montgomery, together again for the first time since the prize-winning "When Ladies Meet."

Miss Harding, needless to say, is the bachelor girl, and an exceedingly glamorous one. She is Marion, artist and sophisticate, who has tread the gallant path to fame.

Montgomery is the curd Mr. Kurt, hard-boiled magazine editor who induces the girl to write the colorful story of her life.

Others in the cast are Edward Everett Horton, Una Merkel and a group of well known stars.

A man said the other day that he really likes the condensed form in which he reads the high spots of news each evening in our paper. It has the jump on the state papers by some 15 hours, usually, and he says it gives a man a better conception of the news than he gets by "reading the headlines" in the big papers 16 hours later.

If your day begins with nerves frayed, backache, or periodic pains, you need a tonic such as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Read what Mrs. J. L. Etheredge of Route 1, Kerens, Texas, said: "After a severe illness I was in a weakened condition. My side was sore, I felt tired, and my back hurt. I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it regained my strength and had no more aches or pains of any kind." All druggists.

New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Originally prescribed for his patients by Dr. R. V. Pierce over 60 years ago. Write Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

We don't want to brag, but it was possible to read about the Hauptmann death verdict in The Reporter-Telegram.

It's possible to get Prof and his car in the same picture and here is the fruit of my labor. But don't get the idea he was slowed up long. He had the old bus rolling long before a lot of us had been able to get the garage men on the job to fix the radiators and the plumbers after the hot water pipes.

Hogs and Cattle Reach High Level

CHICAGO, Feb. 14. (AP)—The highest prices since July, 1931, for hogs, and since November, 1930, for cattle, were established in the livestock markets Wednesday.

Despite evidence, according to the packing interests, of resistance to mounting meat costs on the part of urban consumers, livestock producers, their animal supplies out by drought, controlled production and government relief slaughtering, continued to benefit in price at least from sharply reduced receipts at the leading markets.

Hogs soared 10 to 15 cents to a peak of $8.40 a hundredweight, while prime cattle, although no more than fully steady, touched a new high on the present upturn of $13.95.

Buyers were forced to the higher levels by continued scarcity of markets here and at other livestock centers. Hog receipts in the seven principal markets, including Chicago, were estimated at 42,000 compared with 73,000 a year ago. Cattle supplies totaled 23,800 compared with 54,000 a year ago.

Your Income Tax (CLIP THIS DAILY)

No. 13 Deductions for Professional Expenses

A professional man may deduct all necessary expenses incurred in the pursuit of his profession. These include the cost of supplies used in his practice, office rent, cost of light, water, fuel and telephone in his office, the hire of office assistants, and expenses paid in the operation and repair of an automobile, based upon the proportion of time it is used in making professional calls or for other professional purposes.

Many physicians use their residences both as their offices and their homes. In such instances the physician may deduct as a business expense the rental value of the rooms occupied for office purposes if he actually pays rent, and also the cost of light and heat furnished these rooms. Also, he may deduct a portion of the wages paid domestic servants whose time is partly occupied in caring for these rooms.

Membership dues in professional societies are deductible. Physicians and dentists who keep in their waiting rooms current magazines and newspapers for the benefit of their patients may deduct this item as a business expense. The cost of professional journals for the taxpayer's own use is also a deductible item.

The cost of technical books is not a deductible item, being a capital expenditure, but a proportionate amount for each year's depreciation of the books may be deducted. Depreciation may also be taken on office furniture and equipment. Insurance premiums on office or other professional equipment and liability insurance may be deducted. Automobile liability insurance may be deducted only when the automobile is used wholly in pursuit of the taxpayer's profession, and the cost of the entire upkeep may legitimately be claimed as a professional expense.

Esso Demonstrated By Humble Group

Demonstrating the knock-absence of Ethyl gasoline, representatives of the Humble Oil & Refining Company and the Ethyl Corporation gave a public showing today of the effects upon a motor of various gasoline grades.

In the party were Neil Holman of Houston, sales promotion manager of the Humble; E. W. Berry of Abilene, district manager; Arthur Sweet of Big Spring, district supervisor; H. J. Phillips, Midland agent; and J. O. Balzer, representative of the Ethyl corporation.

Balzer had attached to his automobile a small high compression motor, with indicators rigged up to show the degree of knock from the various fuels. By shifting a lever, a change could be made from one grade to another.

When using third grade gasoline, the sensitive motor recorded knocks which increased with temperature. When the new Aerotype Esso gasoline, Ethyl processed, was used, the knock went away. Balzer explained that the demonstration merely proved that "you get what you pay for in gasoline."

WATCH KIDNEYS SAME AS BOWELS

Wash Out Your 79,200 Feet of Kidney Tubes

Your bowels contain only 27 feet of intestines, yet the kidneys contain nearly 10 million tiny tubes or filaments which would measure 79,200 feet if laid end to end. Therefore, it is just as important to watch the kidneys as the bowels. Kidneys are working all the time and are Nature's chief way of taking the acids and poisonous wastes out of the blood.

Healthy persons pass 3 pints a day thru the bladder which contains nearly 10 million tiny tubes or filaments which would measure 79,200 feet if laid end to end. Therefore, it is just as important to watch the kidneys as the bowels. Kidneys are working all the time and are Nature's chief way of taking the acids and poisonous wastes out of the blood.

Kidneys should be watched closely and need cleaning out the same as bowels. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, an old prescription which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out your 79,200 feet of kidney tubes.

Don't take chances with strong drugs and so-called "kidney cures" which claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Treatment of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS, the old reliable relief that contains "no" opium or other harmful drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-McBurrin Co.

When it's February Out of Doors YOU NEED ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION

You can't keep food from spoiling with a calendar, at least not in Texas where February weather varies from bitter cold to spring-like temperatures, often within the space of a few hours. Nature may provide low enough temperatures part of the time, but the health of your family requires proper refrigeration ALL of the time.

Food kept in an Electric Refrigerator is safe the year 'round, for the temperature is kept below 50 degrees, even though the outside temperature or the temperature in the kitchen rises above the food-safety mark. Be safe and let electric refrigeration protect your family's food.
