HAUPTMANN LOSES IDENTITY; NO. 17,400

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 19. (AP)—Bruno Hauptmann in the limelight for five months, sat in his cell in the death house of the New Jersey State prison Sunday, just another prisoner acting in a normal way.

State officials, including Gov. Harold G. Hoffman and William J. Ellis, Commissioner of Institutions and Agencies, sought to remove all dramatics from the incarceration of the man convicted of killing the Lindbergh baby.

What Hauptmann—convict 17,400—did and what he said in his first twenty-four hours in cell No. 9 within six paces of the death chamber was known only to himself and his guards.

"He's like every man who comes in here," Col. George L. Selby, acting principal keeper, said. "And he'll be treated like anyone else."

The German carpenter, who was transferred to the death house Saturday from the Hunterdon county jail at Flemington, had no visitors during the day and will have none, with the possible exception of counsel, before Tuesday.

NEW OIL MAN TO BUILD OWN HOME

J. W. Jordan, production superintendent for the Sinclair-Prairie Oil & Gas company, recently transferred here from Tyler, let contractors start yesterday for a seven-room home, to be constructed on West Missouri street, it was announced today.

Jordan came here a few weeks ago but was unable to bring his family to Midland because of inability to secure a house. After some investigation he decided to build, declaring that he felt confident of stable property values here.

The new oil man expressed the opinion that the long development program of the Permian Basin and Eastern New Mexico pointed to placing Midland in a permanent position as headquarters for such operations.

Magazine of Wall Street Publishes Elkin's Article

Under the title "Dead Goose Lays No Eggs," F. P. Elkin, Midland rancher, land owner and former banker, has an article on taxation in the current issue of The Magazine of Wall Street.

Elkin has been called upon from many sources in recent months on account of his forward views on the subject of equitable taxation. He appeared before the Texas senate tax committee and has been in many conferences where legislation was being considered.

His appointment by the great financial journal, The Magazine of Wall Street, came as a climax to the recognition he had received in his home state.

"Taxing Alleged Property Values Is Ruinous," "Capitol Levy," "The Cause of Depression" and "A War Out" are phases of the 2,000 word article which gives an exhaustive analysis of the present taxation methods and the method of curbing the present evils.

News stands here had the magazine for sale today.

FOREIGN BOND OWNERS ASK DIPLOMATIC AID

LONDON, Feb. 19. (AP)—Predictions that disappointed foreign holders of United States Government bonds might ask their respective governments to take diplomatic action were made Monday night in high diplomatic quarters as a result of the United States' abrogation of the gold clause of Government bonds.

The diplomatic source pointed out that the British Government obligations floated in New York and Paris last week before Great Britain left the gold standard were paid off in 1934 in gold despite the fact that Great Britain at that time was off the gold standard.

These bonds were floated in a vain effort to help keep Great Britain on the gold standard. It was also pointed out, however, that the American Government bonds all had been sold inside the United States while the British bonds were floated abroad.

Domestic British Government bond issues never have contained the gold clause.

The announcement of the Supreme Court's decision created great excitement on Broad street in the financial district. Dealers in gold shares cheered and excited crowds swept through the street, which quickly became virtually impassable.

The first interpretation of the decision caused a drop in the quotation of United States dollars from $4.86 13-16 to the pound at the official close to $4.89 after trading hours.

Superintendent Lackey Is Re-Elected To Serve Thirtieth Year With Schools

Superintendent W. W. Lackey was re-elected to serve his thirtieth year as head of the public school system here when trustees of the Independent School District No. 1 held an executive session Monday. The period of re-election was for the 1935-36 term.

Coming to Midland from Abilene, where he had been high school principal in the fall of 1906, Superintendent Lackey found an unaffiliated, ten grade school. With a remarkable improvement each year in scholarship and courses, the schools have been brought to an exceptionally high standard, with 39 units of affiliation with the state university.

A large program of building, spread over a period of years, has equipped Midland with a first class plant in practically every needed phase of high school work except a physical education building and trustees are at work on plans for such an edifice at present.

Superintendent Lackey has been honored repeatedly by the National Educational association and the Texas State Teachers' association by placing him on important convention programs and in responsible offices. For years, during summer vacations, he taught classes in a state institution of higher learning.

At the time of re-election for his thirtieth year, the superintendent has on record the highest enrollment in the history of the schools.

ERECT STORAGE; MONUMENT WELL FLOWS BY HEADS

By PAUL OSBORNE
On a four-hour gauge ending early this afternoon the Amerada No. 1-D State well at Monument was putting seven barrels of clean oil into the tanks per hour.

Storage tanks were being erected this morning at Amerada No. 1-D State, wildcat well near Monument, New Mexico, which shows to be of commercial calibre with oil flowing by heads through three inch tubing run to within 26 feet of bottom hole depth of 3,895 feet. With tanks up, the well can be gauged and an estimate of its worth made.

Merry Brothers and Perrini and Tice Water Oil Company No. 1 Howard, new wildcat producer in northeastern Fisher county had reamed and set casing at 3,555 feet, after which the well is reported to have filled with 2,000 feet of oil and 500 feet of water in ten hours. Origin of the water is to be tested, now that casing is set.

York and Harper and Harry Adams No. 1 Hereford Stock Farms was drilling last night at 2,250 feet in red beds. The test is a wildcat about five miles northwest of the Meats area, just across the line in Gaines county.

Eight inch casing was set and cemented with 50 sacks in Argo Royalty Company No. 1 Burner wildcat test northwest of the Lea pool of Lea county yesterday. The operation is drilling for lime production on a former Texas Company U. S. Government Permit, farmed to the Argo for a well.

SCHOOL RECORDS ARE GIVEN TO SHOW STRENGTH State Testimony Is Given After His Confession

PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 19. (AP)—Two psychiatrists testified today that Phil Kennamer was sane and knew right from wrong when he killed John F. Gorrell Jr. at Tulsa last Thanksgiving.

"In my opinion," testified Dr. G. W. Robinson Sr. of Kansas City, "he was sane, rational and knew right from wrong."

Dr. D. W. Griffin, superintendent of the state hospital for the insane, at Norman, testified that he believed Kennamer was sane then and now.

Records of schools he had attended were presented to show that when he was 16 years old, Kennamer had the intelligence of the average of persons 16 years and 8 months old.

DEFENDANT DESCRIBES HOW HE SLEW GORRELL

PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 19. (AP)—Phil Kennamer told of killing John F. Gorrell Jr. in a storm last Thanksgiving night in a scuffle with Gorrell over the latter's pistol.

"I don't know who pulled the trigger," he said.

Kennamer, a cool witness, stared at lovely Virginia Wilcox, Tulsa oil heiress, for whom he professed love, and then related how he entered into an extortion plot against her father to prevent her being kidnapped.

He told of Gorrell writing the extortion note in a Kansas City hotel and of the fatal night in Tulsa's fashionable Forest Hills.

"He had the pistol right in my face. He pulled the trigger. The gun failed to fire," he said, his voice so low the judge asked him to speak louder.

Claims Threatened

"I struggled with him and I thought we both had the pistol. The muzzle had changed direction. There was an explosion."

Leading up to the terse story of the death of the 23-year-old student, the witness threatened to deny Gorrell's threatening him when he refused to go through with the plot.

"Kennamer denied he ever agreed to kidnap the girl.

"Did you ever agree or join in a plot to kidnap Virginia Wilcox?" he was asked.

"Yes, we did," he said slowly, with emphasis on each word.

A little later he testified Gorrell told him "it would be simple to kidnap one of the Wilcox children out and make the 'snatch'."

"He asked me if I would help and I said I would."

"Then we discussed simple extortion under threat of death and compromised on $20,000 as the sum to be asked."

"Then you slept in the same room at your hotel?"

"Yes, we did."

"Wrote Extortion Note"

"When you awoke next morning, what was he doing?"

"He was writing the extortion note that has been placed in evidence here."

"Did you have any part in its writing?"

"I did not."

"You were convinced he intended to carry out his plan?"

"I certainly was."

"And you got the note from him?"

"Yes, because I told him people knew I was in Kansas City and said I'd better mail it from Tulsa."

"Then you returned from Kansas City with Floud J. Huff?"

"Yes."

Class Will Tell in Rich Santa Anita Handicap

By MAX RIDDLE
NEA Service Turf Writer
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 19.—Cavalcade, Equipoise, and Ladysman! Assuming that these three horses go to the post in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, to be run at the picturesque plant at Arcadia, near here, Feb. 23, and further assuming that all three horses are in top shape, the above is the writer's selections in order for the richest race to be run in America since the $105,700 Belmont Futurity of 1929.

The distance is a mile and a quarter.

In answer to the guffaws which no doubt will arise from backers of Top Row, Riskulus, Ted Clark, Gusto, Mate Sir Thomas, Spinson, Head Play, Jabot, High Glee, and various long shots, let them reflect on the quotation, "Class will tell."

Given two horses, one a plater and the other a thoroughbred of established class, the plater hasn't the chance of a watermelon surviving a Negro family reunion of beating the class of the latter, all things being equal.

The $100,000 purse of the Santa Anita classic has attracted the class of the country's handicappers. It has drawn former platers, too, two of which have given creditable performances on the track. These horses, Ted Clark and Top Row, are far from being in the same class as Cavalcade, Ekky, and Ladysman.

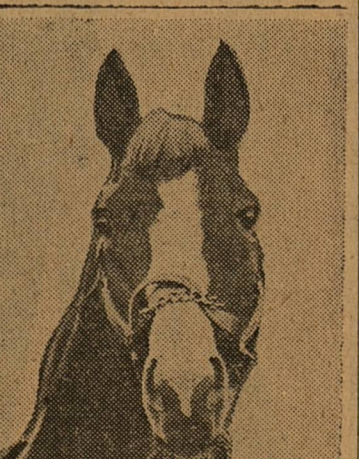

The real cream of the numer-

ous candidates includes the writer's selections, Mate, Gusto, Fairno, Time Supply, High Glee, Azucar, and Head Play. But remember that Mate and Gusto are mere shadows of their former glorious selves. Head Play is a great mud runner.

This department doesn't intend to get into arguments about the relative merits of the two top horses. Ekky seems to be in a little better shape than Mrs. Isabel Sloane's horse, but if reports that Pony McAtee is to ride Cavalcade are true, the wonder horse of 1934, which won the Kentucky, American and Detroit Derbies, and the Chesapeake and Classic Stakes, has the better chance to win.

Ekky is conceding Cavalcade only one pound in weight. Both horses are listed at the top by the handicapper, the former at 130, and the latter at 129.

Ladysman

The Whitney horse is a proved weight packer. He has toted as high as 136 pounds and beaten the ears off the pack in a mile. Cavalcade, on the other hand, must prove his ability to carry poundage. A big, strong animal, he should do this in no uncertain manner in the coming classic.

Consider Ladysman

Ladysman already has demonstrated his fitness for the battle with class. A standout 2-year-old in 1932, and winter-book favorite

FOR FAIR COMPETITION

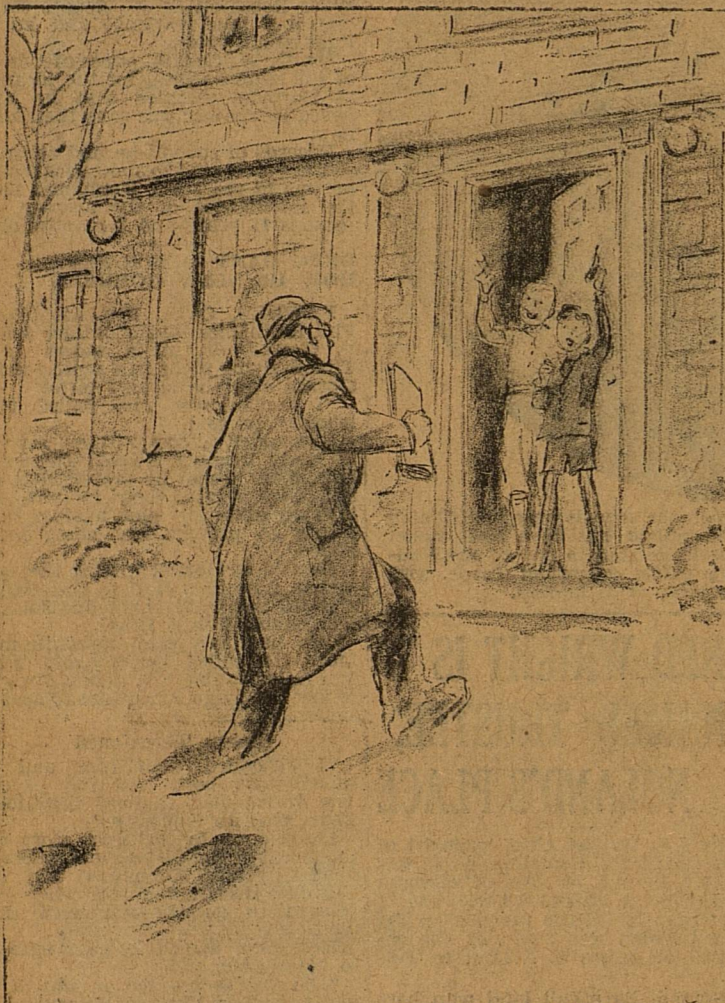

Joseph Eastman's program for rehabilitation of our railway system is a document deserving of the most extended study. It seems to cut a pretty carefully planned middle course between demands of the government-ownership group and proposals of those who would have the government interfere with the system as little as possible.

With at least one of his suggestions there will be wide agreement. He urges that all transportation systems—bus, truck, boat, pipeline, and possibly even airplane—be put under control of the Interstate Commerce Commission along with the railroads.

This would probably do as much to give the roads a better break in the matter of competition as any one step that could be taken.

For the rest, his program is the product of much study, and its sets forth the most clear-cut plan that has yet been offered for restoring our railroads to full economic health.

Isabel McClintic Presented in Recital In Crystal Ballroom Monday Evening

Playing a program of classics, Isabel McClintic was presented in a piano recital in the crystal ballroom of the Hotel Scharbauer Monday evening by the Watson school of music, to an audience which comfortably filled the hall.

Assisting on the program were Agnes Mae Tyner and Billie Noyes, violinists, the Plectrum club, and the String ensemble of the Watson school.

The Plectrum club opened the program with its rendition of two compositions by Peden. "Spanish Gypsy Mazurka" and "Cuban Bells." Miss Lydia G. Watson then introduced the pianist of the evening in a brief talk in which she paid tribute to the importance of music in life.

"Etude de Concert," Op. 18 by Lavalley, and "Sextette," "Andante Finale from Lucia Di Lammermoor"—for the left hand alone—by Donizetti, arranged by Leschetzky, were chosen by Isabel for her first solo appearance on the program.

Both pieces displayed the technique of the young musician. Agnes Mae Tyner played a violin solo, "Fifth Air Variation," Op. 87, No. 1, by Daniela.

Applause greeted the second appearance of Isabel who played "Spanish Dance," No. 5, Op. 12 by Moszkowski.

"Londonderry Air" an arrangement by Fritz Kreisler was presented by Billie Noyes.

The brilliant and stormily attractive "Hungarian" Op. 39, No. 12 was played by Isabel as her next number.

Following the string ensemble's presentation of "Winter Tales" by Czibulka, she gave a rendition of "Rondo Capriccioso," Op. 14 by Mendelssohn, a composition whose range gave a demonstration of the musician's ability to handle both slow and muted movements and hurrying, thunderous ones.

At the close of the program, she was presented with flowers. Ushers for the evening were Maxine Hill, June Hines, Lucille Guffy, and Katharine Beauchamp.

Isabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McClintic, is a Senior in Midland High School.

That sentiment is particularly true for most of us at about getting-up time in the morning.

FEMININE FANCIES

BY KATHLEEN EILAND

"Don't let yourself get too tired. For when you do, you become just a little insane." The authority for that statement is Dr. H. M. Johnson, research professor of psychology at the American University in Washington, D. C.

"We've always known that we did things when we were very tired that we regretted afterward but we had always supposed the cause was plain bad temper and not insanity. Come to think of it, the choice of causes is about six of one and half-a-dozen of the other.

The professor believes that a similar form of insanity is reached when a man gets a smaller supply of oxygen than his body needs as in the case of aviators flying too high without oxygen equipment.

He sums up the case and disposes of it neatly in a few sentences: "Your grouchiness, your loss of temper, your general chumminess, your forgetfulness and errors of judgment, all are symptoms of a passing, though none the less real, mental aberration.

You need treatment, and you get it: seven or eight hours of sound sleep. In the morning you are sane again."

Sleep has always been held in high esteem by us but we acknowledge we had never thought of it as a remedy for insanity, even temporary insanity.

When one comes to think of it, sleep is one of the major blessings of man anyway.

Race Betting Foes Get a Severe Jolt

AUSTIN, Feb. 19. (AP)—Opponents of horse race betting in Texas received a sharp jolt yesterday when the house returned to a committee a bill proposing repeal of the statute legalizing pari-mutuel wagering.

Previously reported favorably by the committee on criminal jurisprudence, on motion of Rep. Pat Dwyer of San Antonio the bill was referred to the committee on state affairs by a vote of 73 to 60.

Friends of the measure said the principal effect probably was psychological. There was a more definite result, however, in postponement of a floor decision, with the uncertainty of delay, the disclosure of strength by the anti-repealists.

In sharp debate, Rep. Dwyer charged opponents of repeal had not been given a fair hearing before the criminal jurisprudence committee and were "steam-rolled." He asserted if the bill were passed, investments totaling $5,000,000 would be sacrificed in growing business, returning thousands of dollars in taxes, would be stifled.

Rep. Harry N. Graves of Georgetown, author of the repeal bill, replied the race betting advocates had been given 14 days notice and at the hearing had all the time they asked. He said the race wagering law was "conceived in iniquity and born in shame" and should be repealed in the interest of public morality and legitimate business.

Gov. Alford recently sent a message urging repeal to the legislature and addressed the people on the subject over the radio. Repeal also was favored in the state democratic platform.

"The bill came up on a suspension calendar, parliamentary procedure by which bills may reach the floor out of their regular order. Consideration of a bill eradicating bookies similarly was in order for tomorrow, with betting opponents planning to attack an amendment which would kill pari-mutuel wagering as effectively as if an outright repeal law were passed."

In the livestock division of the show, the cream of West Texas will be on exhibit and offered for sale. Old and New Stars In Picture Coming

Hollywood is noted as a melting pot and a land of contrasts, but it is still unusual for the oldest and the newest of featured players to be brought together in the same picture.

This happens, however, in "Music in the Air." Elich Pommer's Fox Film production, which brings Gloria Swanson and John Boles together again on the screen and which comes to the Yucca Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday.

The old and the new, in this case, are Hobart Bosworth and Juno Lane, Fox Film's "mystery girl." Bosworth, "Grand Old Man of the Screen," can claim to be the veteran of them all. He made the first picture ever filmed in California—a two-reeler called "The Sultan's Power," which was produced on the roof of a Chinese laundry near Echo Park in 1909.

Miss Lane, on the other hand, is the blue-eyed blonde youngster whom the studio has been secretly and intensively training for the past three years.

JEALOUS EYES WATCH GROWTH OF YOUNG KING

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 19. (AP)—Little King Peter, who in seven years will mount the throne of the slain King Alexander, grows toward manhood under the eyes of many jealous factions.

The Serbs, who at the moment dominate Yugoslavia, hope the king will remain one of them and that he will walk the firm path of his father, Alexander the "Unifier."

The Croats and the Slovenes, however, pray the little king's impressionable years will make him sympathetic toward the minorities.

"Our fate hangs on the education of this little boy," said a Croat leader, veteran of Balkan politics who is shouting for independence.

"If this little king is taught to respect the rights of all his people, and is persuaded to show some merit in democracy the national may still be whipped into some semblance of unity for which his dictatorial father labored."

The character of the king holds out hope for the elements which believe themselves oppressed. Peter is extremely sensitive and cannot tolerate suffering in others.

As he is being trained for the throne, Peter will hear the noisy bickerings of the Serbs themselves and the constant complaints of the Slovenes and the Croats. The Serbs, constituting 40 per cent of the population have 65 per cent of the votes in Parliament.

Officials, remembering their autonomous position in the old Austro-Hungarian empire, want independence or a federal government which would give them some voice at Belgrade. The Slovenes protest against "taxation without representation."

Officials of Zagreb, city which was the seat of the Croat government, charge that their community alone has contributed one-tenth of the cost of the national administration of all Yugoslavia. From the Dalmatian coast is heard the cry that the wealth of the region is flowing to Belgrade.

The Serbs answer that they have the capacity for government. They picture Serbia as the victim of German and Austrian military ruthlessness. They argue that the treaty of Versailles rightly gave Serbia domination over former territories of the enemy.

The young king will learn early that in his empire there is a conflict of western and oriental philosophies and governmental procedures.

Although there are three major divisions in the Yugoslav jig-saw, the voices of tiny minorities occasionally add to the general bewilderment. Within the nation are groups of Rumanians, Albanians, Germans, Italians, Montenegrins, Hungarians, and Bulgarian Macedonians.

Despite the clash of many elements, numerous observers believed that the powerful Alexander was making steady progress in unifying the nation. He built up an army and forged strong alliances.

The friends of Peter believe he will be able to make a cohesive and permanent mosaic out of the crazy patchwork quilt of the nationalities of Yugoslavia.

New Construction Method Now Used

With the completion in Europe of the world's highest wooden structure—a tower 628 ft.—wood construction is entering upon a period of renaissance unequalled in its previous history, according to Axel H. Oxholm, chief forest products division, department of commerce.

Age old wood construction methods, placing serious limitations in the way of the use of this material, have been superseded by a combination of steel and wood construction employing steel connectors at the principal joints, thereby increasing the strength of the structure from four to eight times compared with the old-fashioned bolted joints heretofore used.

This system is making remarkable headway in the United States, according to Oxholm. The state of California has just completed several highway wooden bridges of spans up to 180 feet with the total length up to 530 feet. These bridges were constructed with considerable economy as compared with previous construction methods. This construction method, introduced into the United States through the combined efforts of the department of commerce and the department of agriculture, was demonstrated to the highway engineers of the country at the national convention of Road Builders, just held in Washington, D. C.

Southwest Sees Business Revival

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 19. (AP)—Business leaders throughout the Southwest viewed Monday's Supreme Court gold decision as a spur to business revival.

Municipal financing which fell alarmingly during the wait for a decision was expected to strengthen. The decision was expected to release great amounts of capital for investment.

The Kansas City Board of Trade was closed Monday shortly after the decision was made public according to prearrangement. Grain prices jumped from 2c to 4c in the few seconds of trading before the close.

Prices are expected to jump to the maximum permitted for one day's trading when trade is resumed. That will mean a 5c bushel increase for wheat, 4c for corn and 3c for oats.

LAST DAY for Loy, Grant Film at Ritz

For those who like their drama repleted with thrills, excitement and new ideas, Paramount's "Wings in the Dark," which is now showing its last day at the Ritz Theatre, should be marked on their list as one they cannot afford to miss.

A love story laid against the timely and tropical plot of a pilot who daves death in the perfection of "blind-flying," it stars beautiful Myrna Loy and Cary Grant as a pair of flying daredevils. And although it is impossible to gauge the excellence of Miss Loy's recent pictures, she seems to excel even the best of her past performances in her breezy, down-to-earth and sympathetic role in "Wings in the Dark."

Sagerton Man Is Fatally Injured

STAMFORD, Feb. 19. (AP)—L. L. Gregory, Sagerton ginmer, was fatally injured in a peculiar automobile accident near Ruler last night.

Riding with D. R. Webber, a so of Sagerton, who was driving, Gregory opened a door on his side of the machine, a section caused the car to swerve and Gregory was thrown out, the automobile overturning on him. He died in a King's ambulance en route to a Stamford hospital.

Webber, Orient depot agent at Sagerton, was unhurt. The accident occurred at 7:30 o'clock on the Ruler-Sagerton highway, five miles from Ruler.

Gregory, 44, was manager of the Wiecke gin at Sagerton. He was survived by his wife and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Gregory of Sulphur Springs. Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Your Income Tax (CLIP THIS DAILY)

No. 17

Capital Gains and Losses

An entirely new treatment of capital gains and losses is provided for by section 117 of the Revenue Act of 1934. Such new treatment supersedes or replaces the 12 1/2 percent capital gain and loss provisions contained in section 101 as well as the limitation on the deduction for losses from the sale or exchange of stocks and bonds held for less than 2 years as provided for by section 101 (c), (d), and (e) of the Revenue Act of 1932. Section 117 deals with the manner or method of taking into account in computing net income gains and losses from the sale or exchange of capital assets as computed and recognized under sections 111, 112, and 113.

Section 117 (a) provides that in the case of a taxpayer other than a corporation only the following percentages of the gain or loss recognized upon the sale or exchange of a capital asset shall be taken into account in computing net income: 100 percent if the capital asset has been held for not more than 1 year; 80 percent if the capital asset has been held for more than 1 year but not for more than 2 years; 60 percent if the capital asset has been held for more than 2 years but not for more than 5 years; 40 percent if the capital asset has been held for more than 5 years but not for more than 10 years; 30 percent if the capital asset has been held for more than 10 years.

Section 117 (b) defines capital assets as property held by the taxpayer (whether or not connected with his trade or business), but does not include stock in trade of the taxpayer or other property of a kind which would properly be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year, or property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of his trade or business. In this definition the length of time the asset was held by the taxpayer is disregarded.

Section 117 (c) provides the rules for determining the period for which a capital asset has been held and is similar to the provisions of section 101 (c) (8) of the Revenue Act of 1932. These provisions are in general to the effect that, where property is acquired in an exchange and the property so acquired retains the old basis on which to compute gain or loss or where property is acquired from another person and the property retains the same basis on which to compute gain or loss as it had in the hands of the person from whom it was so acquired, the period for which the property disposed of in the exchange or the period during which the property was held by such former owner is also to be included in determining the period for which the property is held for the purpose of section 117 (a).

Section 117 (d) provides a very important limitation affecting all taxpayers (including corporations, except with respect to banks and trust companies), that is, that losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets shall be allowed only to the extent of $2,000 plus the gains from such sales or exchanges.

Section 117 (e) provides that gains or losses from "short sales" of property and gains or losses attributable to the failure to exercise privileges or options to buy or sell property, shall be considered as gains or losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets held for one year or less. Section 117 (f) provides that amounts received upon the retirement of corporate bonds and similar evidences of corporate indebtedness, with interest coupons or in registered form, shall be considered as amounts received in exchange therefor, thus giving to any gain or loss thereby resulting to the holder
