No Relief In Prospect As Midwest Crop Toll Mounts

CHICAGO, July 17. (AP)—A withering sun glared down on the vast "wheat belt" of the midwest today, continuing a fourteen-day heat-drought stage.

Loss of human life neared 4,400 and crop damage, estimated at more than a billion dollars several days ago, rose. Average daily toll of human life amounted to 500.

Relief measures for the drought harried regions proceeded along a front extending from Washington, D. C., to the parched plains of the West.

Commit Man Who Pointed Pistol At King To Hospital

Assailant Declared He Dropped Gun In 'Protest'

LONDON, July 17. (AP)—George Andrew McMahon, whose loaded revolver menaced King Edward VIII yesterday, said today the weapon was knocked from his hand, that he threw it into the street near the king.

This version was relayed by an authoritative source who said McMahon told police he never had the least intention of shooting the king.

McMahon was taken to a hospital for mental observation and medical treatment.

Press accounts of the incident yesterday told how the pistol was taken from the hand of its crippled, baldheaded owner by a middle-aged heroine in grey, and clattered harmlessly to the roadway behind the king's horses on crowded Constitution Hill.

McMahon, 34, once an editor and a native Scotsman, struggled in the strong arms of London bobbies. Whisked to a Bow Street dock, he said: "I didn't want to hurt him. I only did it as a protest."

His "protest" was not explained, for the man was incoherent. Since he assailed Sir John Simon, the home secretary, and said he had tried to reach him, some suggested he may have sought to plead against capital punishment.

The king was returning from Hyde Park to Buckingham palace with a brigade of guards. He was in officer's uniform. The king, seemingly the coolest person in the whole nation, rode on to the palace, saluted Queen Mary, who was then standing on a balcony and vanished in the inner courtyard.

"The damned fool," was the king's only remark concerning the incident.

Strike Grows As Mediation Board Meets

Conciliation Group Will Study Legality Of Mexican Walkout

MEXICO CITY, July 17. (AP)—A board of conciliation met today to consider the legality of a paralyzing strike of electric power workers in the federal district and parts of five adjacent states.

No direct word had been received from President Lazaro Cardenas who was understood to have interrupted a tour north to fly to the capital where he planned to use his personal influence to end the walkout.

It was estimated that 3,200 shops were closed and that 60,000 workers were idle as a result of the strike. At the same time it was calculated unofficially that 500,000 residences were without lights and 100,000 housewives were facing cold electric stoves.

Vicente Lombardo Toledano secretary-general of the Mexican Confederation of Workers, said the organization's executive committee was meeting to map a program of "moral and economic support of the strikers."

FDR To Open Frontier Show

Aboard Schooner, Will Press Button Opening Gates At Ft. Worth

FORT WORTH, July 17. (UP)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt, pressing a button aboard his vacation schooner Sewanna off the coast of Maine, will open Fort Worth's Frontier Centennial at 3:30 p. m. Saturday.

The president's touch will send the impulse flashed by wireless to the mainland and to Fort Worth by telegraph. At the show gates, it will trip a knife to sever a cowboy's lariat spanning the gates.

Show officials today announced completion of arrangements for the president's participation. At the same time, they announced that U. S. Senator Tom Connally, Gov. James V. Alred and Mayor George Seargent of Dallas will take part in a formal dedication program in the show's rodeo arena at 5 p. m. Saturday. The ceremony will be broadcast over a nation-wide hook-up.

May Certify More Workers For WPA Jobs

District Quota Is Raised, Commission To Deal With Workers

R. H. McNew, district WPA director, said today that he had been advised by H. P. Drought, state administrator, that the Texas relief commission had agreed to certify additional needy people for employment under terms of the new federal works program.

This, McNew said, furnished a means for increasing rolls for WPA projects where there were destitute workers who wished to return to WPA rolls but had been barred under the first period set-up.

It had been announced previously that workers in this class would be allowed an opportunity to apply for work but no agency had been set up to handle their applications.

The Big Spring district, with a quota increased to 1,150 workers for July, can use several additional workers in certain localities since the new program provides for shorter hours with more pay.

However, the new arrangement as opposed to the former which placed employment on flat hourly wage, has resulted in the revamping of several projects within the district.

Two area meetings for the purpose of giving technical instruction were planned by McNew for today and Saturday. Accompanied by a group of staff workers from the local district office, he left at noon for Tahoka where project superintendents from Garza, Terry, Lynn, Dawson and Gaines counties were gathered. With him went Andy Pruitt, H. G. Foshee, Mrs. Mary Debridge, L. H. Orlendunk, Jack Hale, Jack Scarbrough and J. C. Watkins.

Morris Sheppard's Talk Is Slated Tonight At 8 O'Clock

Speech At Courthouse Lawn Follows Concert At 7:30

First of the major candidates to fill a formal evening speaking engagement in Big Spring this political year, United States Sen. Morris Sheppard comes here tonight to address voters of this territory in behalf of his campaign for reelection.

The program will be at the courthouse lawn, starting with a band concert at 7:30. Speaking will start at 8 o'clock.

Planned by local Sheppard supporters as an "all-West Texas" rally for the veteran law maker, tonight's affair is expected to attract hundreds of visitors from a score of nearby towns. Letters and newspaper publicity concerning the meeting have been widely distributed, and responses indicate that

In event of inclement weather tonight, the Sheppard meeting will be moved to the district courtroom in the county courthouse, those in charge of the rally announced Friday morning.

Big Spring's neighbor towns will join wholeheartedly with this city in honoring Senator Sheppard. It will be his only speech in this immediate section. He comes here late today from Buffalo Gap, Taylor county, and will go Saturday to Fort Stockton.

Boundtree On Program

A Lamena man, Carl Roundtree, former state legislator, has accepted an invitation to introduce Senator Sheppard, dean of the U. S. congress by reason of continuous service since 1903. B. Reagan of Big Spring, who has been in charge of arrangements for the rally, will preside for the program. The musical concert preceding the speaking will be given by the Big Spring high school municipal band.

A large platform to accommodate the speakers and members of the reception committee was being erected on the courthouse lawn this afternoon. A public address system will be used, so that the program may be heard by all in the crowd.

Representatives of more than 15 other West Texas towns have been invited to join the Big Spring friends of Sheppard in serving on the reception committee. Many of these will be seated on the platform, and leaders of the various visiting delegations will be introduced. Preliminary talks, however, will be brief, Reagan said today.

"Local friends of Senator Sheppard invite all voters and others, both in Howard and neighboring counties, to join with them in welcoming this veteran legislator to West Texas tonight," Reagan said. "We look upon his call as not merely a campaign appearance, but as a visit of one of the outstanding leaders in Washington, a ranking democrat who enjoys high position with the present administration. We desire to honor Senator Sheppard as such an official."

French Move For Control Of Armaments

PARIS, July 17. (AP)—The French chamber of deputies voted nationalization of the arms industry today.

The measure clamps a strict government control over the nation's armament plants.

Edouard Daladier, minister of defense, warned that there would be no "recourse of appeal" against government decisions concerning munitions exports by state supervised factories.

Exports, profits and securities will be controlled by cabinet decree.

Thomas Prefers FD To GOP Candidate

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va., July 17. PERMANENT SYSTEM OF CROP INSURANCE AIM OF WALLACE

Govt. Would Buy Surplus In Good Years, Sell In 'Lean' Years Under His Plan

(Copyright 1936, by United Press) WASHINGTON, July 17.—A permanent system of crop insurance, administered by the federal government, to protect farmers from losses suffered during "lean" years is planned by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, it was learned today from an official source.

As a result of "new deal" experiments in crop financing and control and particularly because of the present drought, Wallace was represented as believing a permanent agency should be set up to stabilize the price of agricultural products. This would be accomplished by the government's buying up surplus crops during "fat" years and selling them in "lean" years.

Wallace's program differs from those tried out in the past only in that it would be permanent rather than temporary.

Police Seek Attacker Of Girl Student

Coroner's Jury Views Verdict Later

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 17. (AP)—A coroner's jury viewed the mutilated body of Helen Clevenger, 19, New York, today and recessed until 2:30 p. m. without making its finding relating to her death in a hotel room here Thursday.

Sheriff Lawrence Brown intensified the investigation. The officer, refusing to reveal other than general facts about the girl found shot and stabbed, said it was the "most complicated case ever before the department."

An unidentified man who was reported to have been seen at the door of the girl's room about 1 a. m. Thursday when some guests heard a woman's scream over the noise of an electrical storm, was being sought by officers.

The girl's face was mutilated with a sharp instrument after her assailant had attempted to ravish her.

Miss Clevenger is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Clevenger of Great Kills, Staten Island, N. Y., and came here two days ago for a vacation trip with her uncle, Prof. W. L. Clevenger of the North Carolina state college at Raleigh.

Founder Puts Gomer Smith Under Fire

Demands Removal When Smith Says He Will Support FDR

CLEVELAND, July 17. (AP)—Frank Arbuckle, permanent chairman of the Townsend national convention, announced to a cheering delegation today that any motion or resolution having to do with the endorsement of a national political party "shall be out of order at all times."

He added that his decision represented the unanimous view of the board of directors.

The ordinarily demonstrative delegates received in silence the reading of a telegram from Governor Alf Landon, republican presidential candidate, declining an invitation to address the convention. President Roosevelt also sent a message stating he would be unable to appear.

Consider Demand

Meanwhile the delegates pondered a Townsend demand that Gomer Smith, who failed recently to qualify for the Oklahoma democratic senatorial primary runoff, be replaced as vice-president and a member of the board of directors.

J. F. Nighswander, sixth district director of the Oklahoma Townsend clubs, declared today that the state clubs would "secede" from the national organization if the convention acceded to Townsend's demand that Smith be removed.

Townsend's demand for the Smith ouster came after Smith had announced that he was going to support President Roosevelt. His speech brought mingled cheers and boos.

Regarding Smith, the founder of the old age pension organization said, "I don't want anyone in the official family who is kicking up a rumpus. There is plenty of room outside."

Assails Ministers

In his address, Smith declared that some of the Townsend leaders are "trying to lead us into the slaughter house of destruction along with Father Coughlin with his shirt off, and with Gomer Smith with a Bible in his hand."

He concluded with a declaration of support for Roosevelt. There were a few boos and cheers.

Previously Dr. Townsend had announced that he, the Rev. Father Charles Coughlin and Rev. Gerald K. Smith would join Representative William Lemke in a tour of support for the Union party of which Lemke is candidate for president.

Prolonged cheering filled the convention hall as Townsend, Coughlin and Smith clasped hands upon the platform in a signal of unity.

Coughlin Speaks

Rev. Coughlin addressed the convention Thursday with a bitter attack on what he called "that betrayer and liar, Franklin Double-Crosser Roosevelt."

He also declared that Townsend had approved the principles of the Union party whose candidate, Lemke, is scheduled to address the convention Sunday.

Asserting he was not asking endorsement of the Union party, he asked, "How many will follow Dr. Townsend?" Delegates rose to their feet and cheered.

Discarded Glove Starts Kampouris On Comeback Trail

ble of responding quickly to whatever directions his mind gives it, and since Paul has tremendous power of concentration he never lets his physical actions get away from his mental control.

Playing a pitch shot, for instance, Paul does not employ a long, smooth swing like MacDonald Smith, but a short one, in which he hits the ball sharply with plenty of punch. In order to do this accurately, he gets well down to the ball, with his knees bent so that he really crouches over it. He shortens his grip.

Although Runyan is a small fellow and his hands and wrists are not particularly powerful, he gets plenty of distance with such shots. Experts' opinion is that this is due to special physical qualities of coordination.

ALEX BIDS FOR PLACE WITH REDS

CINCINNATI, July 17 (UP)—A disgusted discard of his fielder's glove started little Alex Kampouris, the Cincinnati Reds' 25-year-old sophomore second baseman, on a comeback spurt that promises to keep him at the keystone rack the rest of the season.

Kampy, just 5 feet 8 inches tall, almost lost his job to a smaller and younger Red hopeful before he started the fielding and batting spree that has become the sensation of the Reds' season.

He got the call when the season started, but, within three weeks, Kampouris went to the bench, and little Les Handley, only 21 and 5 feet 7 inches tall, took over second base. Handley played good defensive ball for 14 games and hit at a .300 clip as compared with the .198 average Kampy had compiled in 22 contests.

Manager Charlie Dressen needed to recall Leslie Scarzella, first baseman from Toronto, to replace George McQuinn, a rookie whose .201 batting for 40 games was too weak to be offset by his fine fielding. To recall Scarzella, Dressen had to send either Kampouris or Handley to the Reds' International League farm.

Largely because of Handley's lack of experience, Dressen decided to keep Kampouris. He figured Handley could well use the regular work he would get with Toronto. That was May 28.

Error-An-Inning
Kampouris went back to second the next day. He started off in jittery fashion. The fans howled.

In the first three innings, Kampy made three errors. After the third miscue, he dashed unceremoniously from the field, threw his glove into the grandstand, and dived into the Reds' dugout for another.

At the plate that day he was no better than in the field. He sacrificed once and then struck out twice in a row.

Letters by the dozen piled in on Dressen and the Reds' management. They've all stopped now, for from the day of that terrible start Kampouris has fielded flawlessly and has been one of the batting stars of the team. His fine work at the plate was largely responsible for the drive the Reds showed when they crashed the first division, boasting an average of better than .500—the highest a Red team has enjoyed at the half-way mark of any recent season.

Crosley Convinced
The Reds' improvement went a long way toward convincing Powell Crosley, Jr., of the wisdom of exercising the option he held for the purchase of the controlling interest in the club.

Three years ago, when the future of the team was much in doubt, Crosley was prevailed upon to interest himself in the club. He added to his holdings from time to time during the last two and a half years until he now controls the team.

Crosley admits that he knew very little about the game when he first became interested, but since then he has found it so fascinating and interesting that he wishes to become permanently allied with the game in Cincinnati. Crosley isn't one to be satisfied to string along with a loser. The way the team has turned from a chronic cellar occupant into a contender for a first division berth has convinced him that the Reds are on the right track.

One of these fine days the Cincinnati club is going to force its way up the ladder and give the league leaders plenty of headaches. The way the Reds have been knocking off the Chicago Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals lately indicates that such a day may not be as far off as many would believe.

RENEWAL OF LIQUOR PERMITS TO BRING STATE MORE REVENUE

AUSTIN, July 17 (UP)—Approximately $400,000 will be added to the old-age assistance and school funds through renewal of permits which expire August 31, the liquor control board estimated here today.

The estimate was made on the basis of a full year's permit. Application blanks have been mailed to 5,000 dealers in all parts of the state, with explicit instructions as to making applications. Work has been begun early so that dealers may have plenty of time to make application for renewal of their permit before the deadline.

Applications for wholesalers and package store dealers in Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco, San Antonio and Houston were sent to the board's district offices, where they may be obtained from deputy supervisors.

Governments Play a Part —in strengthening the banking structure.

EVERY state charters state banks comprising the State Banking System. They are supervised under state laws that supplement and enforce accepted principles of sound banking.

Similarly the Federal government charters and supervises the national banks of which there are many in each state. It created the Federal Reserve System, composed of all National and many State Banks, designed primarily to coordinate and strengthen credit operations of banks; and created the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

While the basic soundness of banks is created by the honesty and efficiency of their own managements, these various government measures brace the financial structure giving it added resiliency and usefulness to the public.

Meat Salad And Muffins Would Be A Treat For Family Lunch

My MARTHA LOGAN

In hot weather a meat salad is a delicious "meal in one"—and a very complete meal too. The vegetables and meat of the usual dinner are chilled, combined, blended with a well-seasoned salad dressing and in this form appeal to the appetite when the same foods served hot and separately would have no appeal.

Meats in themselves offer interesting variety for these salad meals, and when one uses them in combinations with fruits, vegetables, eggs, cheese and nuts, variety is almost unlimited. Even leftovers can be camouflaged most satisfactorily for, after all, salads are a bit of this and a bit of that.

To be good a meat salad must be—

1. Cold. Chill all the foods that are put into it.
2. Free from bone or cartilage of meat. Cut uniform pieces of meat and be certain that skin, excess fat and cartilage are removed.
3. Well seasoned.
4. Served on an attractive plate and on lettuce which has been carefully dried.
5. Served with a good dressing. French or mayonnaise are the most common dressings used.

With these hearty meat salads, hot breads and cold beverages are ideal accompaniments. If hot breads are not available, or convenient, crisp breads such as cheese wafers, or saltines are next best.

You can use your own imagination in preparing these salad meals for your family and friends, but here are a few combinations that we have worked out in our kitchen.

2-1/2 cups diced cooked lamb.
1 cup diced celery.
1 cup cooked green peas.
1-3/4 cup French dressing.

Marinade the lamb in the French dressing an hour or more, toss ingredients together, blend with Thousand Island Dressing, arrange on a salad plate and garnish with cross. Serve with watercress sandwiches cut in "fingers."

Ham and Pineapple Salad
2 cups cooked ham, diced.
4 slices pineapple, diced or
3-4 cup broken pineapple.
Salad dressing.

Lettuce.
1-4 cup celery, diced.
 Combine the pineapple and celery with the ham. Moisten with mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing. Garnish with sliced olive or shredded green pepper.

Luncheon Salad
3-4 cup cuber cooked beef.
1-2 cup diced celery.
1-2 cup cut string beans.
1-4 cup diced tomato.
1 chopped hard cooked egg.
Mayonnaise.

Treat Your Family to Muffins

The popularity of tea rooms the country over may be ascribed in part to the fact that hot muffins and generous pats of butter are served with pleasing frequency during luncheon or dinner.

Muffins apparently are a gastronomic weakness of Americans if the tea room consumption is any indication.

And since this type of hot bread is one of the easiest to prepare and make successfully at home—why not adopt the tea room idea and indulge the family falling for muffins by serving them in their many variations?

Small muffins which bake in a shorter time than the larger ones are especially liked because of their crusty surface.

Muffins, small or large, may be baked to perfection in your own gas oven whether or not the range is equipped with a heat control, provided you use a thermometer to gauge the oven heat instead of trusting to guesswork or your hand.

For very few hands are so sensitive to degrees of heat that temperature can be determined with anything approaching accuracy.

Plain Muffins
 Two cups flour,
 Four teaspoons baking powder,
 One-fourth cup sugar,
 One egg,
 One cup sweet milk,
 One-fourth cup melted butter,
 Oven temperature: 400 degrees F. or moderate.
 Baking time: 15 to 20 minutes.
 Quantity: two dozen small muffins.

Sift flour; measure and sift twice with remaining dry ingredients; combine liquid ingredients and blend with the dry mixture. Light the flame and set oven control to stated temperature. Pour muffin batter into greased tins two-thirds full. Bake until browned. Larger muffins will require from twenty-five to thirty minutes to bake.

Variations
 Bacon: Substitute for butter in recipe above, one-fourth cup diced bacon, slightly fried out.
 Blueberry: Add two tablespoons sugar and three-fourths cup fresh berries to sifted dry ingredients.
 Cheese: Add one-half cup grated cheese to sifted dry ingredients.
 Chocolate: Melt one and one-half squares chocolate and add to combined ingredients, stirring lightly to achieve a marble effect.
 Jelly: Drop one-fourth teaspoon jelly on each small muffin before baking, more on larger muffins.
 Peanut butter: Substitute for butter in recipe given one-third cup peanut butter, cutting it with a pastry knife into dry ingredients.
 Flax: Add three-fourths cup of cooked rice to liquid ingredients of recipe given, increasing the flour quantity to two and one-fourths cups in all.

The variations possible in plain muffins may be used to give the surprise element to muffins made with sour milk. And in any case, the mixing secret is quick and light handling of the ingredients.

Sour Milk Muffins
 Two cups flour,
 Two teaspoons baking powder,
 One-half teaspoon soda,
 One-fourth cup sugar,
 Three-fourths teaspoon salt,
 One egg,
 One cup sour milk,
 One-fourth cup melted butter,
 Oven temperature: 400 degrees F.
 Baking time: 15 to 20 minutes.
 Quantity: two dozen small muffins.
 Prepare and combine ingredients as for plain muffins.

Variations
 Whole wheat: substitute one cup whole wheat flour and one cup white flour for the two cups flour in recipe given for sour milk muffins.

fin. Brown sugar may be used instead of white for a different flavor.

Cornmeal: Substitute three-fourths cup cornmeal and one and one-fourths cups flour for the two cups white flour in recipe for sour milk muffins.

Adding the precious vitamin content of rolled oats to muffins makes them doubly nourishing. Dates may be used to give a fruit flavor if desired.

Rolling Oats Muffins
 One and one-fourths cups flour,
 Two teaspoons baking powder,
 One-half teaspoon soda,
 Three tablespoons sugar,
 Three-fourths teaspoons salt,
 Three-fourths cup quick rolled oats,
 One egg,
 One cup sour milk,
 Three tablespoons melted butter,
 Oven temperature: 400 degrees F.
 Baking time: 15 to 20 minutes.
 Quantity: two dozen small muffins.

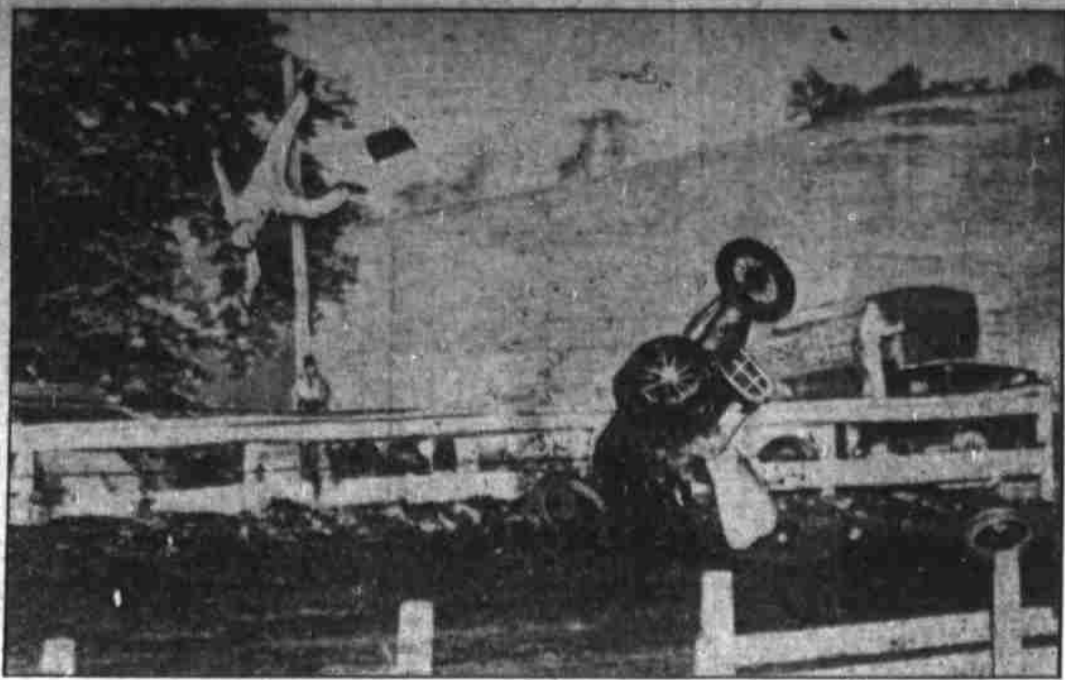

Sift flour; measure and sift twice with baking powder, soda, sugar and salt. Lightly mix in the rolled oats. Mix liquid ingredients together and combine with the dry. Start the oven flame, set heat control to 400 degrees F. Fill greased muffin tins two-thirds full of batter. Bake until browned. Larger muffins will require baking ten minutes longer.

Variation
 Raisin and Nut: Add one-fourth cup chopped raisins and one-fourth cup chopped nuts to sifted dry ingredients.

An occasional bran muffin is liked, and the following recipe makes a less coarse type as it calls for half bran and half white flour.

Bran Muffins
 Two tablespoons shortening,
 One-fourth cup sugar,
 One egg,
 One cup sour milk,
 One cup bran,
 One cup white flour,
 One-half teaspoon soda,
 One-fourth teaspoon salt,
 One teaspoon baking powder,
 Oven temperature: 370 degrees F.
 Baking time: 20 minutes.
 Quantity: one dozen muffins.

Cream shortening and sugar together, adding the egg. Mix and sift flour, soda, salt and baking powder. To creamed mixture add stead of sour milk, use sweet in recipe given above, but omit the one-half teaspoon soda and use three teaspoons of baking powder in all.

Date Bran Muffins: Add one-half cup chopped dates, or raisins, to sifted dry ingredients.

Most attractive to serve with the salad at a bridge luncheon are:

Walnut Muffins
 One-half cup flour,
 One-half teaspoon baking powder,
 One-half teaspoon salt,
 One-half cup all-bran,
 One-half cup chopped walnuts,
 Two eggs,
 One cup brown sugar,
 Oven temperature: 375 degrees F.
 Baking time: 10 to 15 minutes.
 Quantity: two dozen very small muffins.

Sift flour, measure and sift twice with baking powder and salt. Lightly mix in the all-bran and chopped walnuts. Beat the eggs, add sugar and mix until thoroughly blended. Add dry ingredients. Light oven flame and set heat control to 375 degrees F. Fill extra small muffin tins two-thirds full of batter. Bake for ten to fifteen minutes.

Variations
 For any muffin: Add one cup of finely chopped fresh apple or one cup diced orange to sifted dry ingredients.

Business Advisory Council Suggests Currency Changes

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Establishment of a currency convertible into gold but with the dollar's gold content subject to change has been recommended by a subcommittee of the commerce department's business advisory council.

This group, appointed six months ago to make a thorough study of monetary policy, it was learned authoritatively today, submitted its findings, sharply conflicting with some new deal ideas, at the last meeting of the council. Its report was referred to the council's executive committee which, in turn, pigeon-holed it in a second subcommittee.

Officials Refuse Comment
 At the headquarters of the council, officials, in answer to questions, would say nothing more than that a subcommittee report on monetary questions had been received and so referred. They declined to reveal the personnel of the committees in question.

A currency convertible into gold is opposed by the new deal. Its key piece of monetary legislation, the gold reserve act of 1934, makes it illegal for gold to circulate as currency, preempted for the government, title to all gold in the country and ordered all gold coin melted into bars.

Misses Irene and Inez Knans are in Dallas visiting with friends and attending the Central Centennial exposition.

Resource Tax Is Outlined

Fischer Would Increase Levies To Finance Old Age Pensions

ATLANTA, July 17 (UP)—F. W. Fischer, Tyler gubernatorial candidate, outlined in an address here his program for increasing the levy on the state's natural resources to provide for payment of old age pensions and tax relief for property owners.

"My program," he asserted, "not only will aid the old people of the state but will assist every farmer, ranchman, home owner, merchant and every other property owner in Texas."

In addition, he said, it would "save drivers of automobiles thousands of dollars by reduction in the gasoline tax and would increase the salaries of school teachers to a living wage."

Fischer ignored personal references to his opponents.

TAX EXEMPTION

LIBERTY, July 17 (UP)—State Sen. Roy Sanderford of Belton set forth in an address here his gubernatorial platform proposing the inducement of tax exemption for 20 years to manufacturing industries which will locate plants in Texas.

"The old custom of segregating producing and manufacturing in certain areas of our country has proved an economic fallacy," he insisted. "The present trend is to establish factories where materials are both produced and consumed."

He also advocated a general sales tax of three per cent to obtain funds for payment of old age pensions and to replace the state ad valorem tax.

The Plum creek area of Hays county, where 17 persons were drowned in floods two weeks ago, had four inches of rainfall but the creek's rise was slight.

Civil War In China Feared

Reports Heard Of Trouble Between Cantonese And Central Groups

HONG KONG, July 17. (UP)—Chinese sources expressed fear today that civil war between armies of the central and Cantonese armies was inevitable. Railway service from Canton to the potential battle area was suspended. Junks and sampans in the river in the Canton area were commandeered by army authorities.

It was reported that one large group of the Cantonese troops in Kwangtung province refused to fight the central government men and began to retreat.

Canton currency slumped today because of the serious reports.

There were predictions the Cantonese, nominally subservient to the central government, might form a completely separate government if necessary to retain power in the southwest.

Apprehensive residents of Canton flocked to Hong Kong and to Macao, Portuguese China (situated, like British Hong Kong, at the mouth of the Canton river).

Gen. Tsi Ting-Kai, hero of the 1932 Shanghai fight against the Japanese, was reported at Canton conferring with Cantonese leaders on plans to reorganize his famous 19th route army. This was the force, ill armed, which held the Japanese military machine at bay for weeks.

The Cantonese insisted they would advance northward—through central government territory—to oppose Japanese aggression even if the central government opposed them by force.

4-H Club Members To See Centennial

DALLAS, July 17.—Approximately 2,000 4-H club boys and girls from thirty-five Texas counties were today booked for visits to the Texas Centennial exposition, L. T. Stone of the exposition's rural tours department, said today. Home demonstration club women are included in many of the delegations.

Thomas E. Wilson, Chicago meat packer and probably the greatest individual supporter of the 4-H club movement in the nation, has placed his six giant Clydesdale horses, now showing at the exposition, at the disposition of the boys and girls for a wagon tour of the grounds.

Polk county ranks to date as having booked the largest delegation, 500 children for October 3. Montague and McCulloch counties have booked 250 each for August 25-26 and August 27-28, respectively. Manager Stone announces. Clay county will send 100 on July 29-30 and Navarro county a like number on August 5-6.

The visiting delegations are taken on personally conducted tours of the grounds, terminating with an educational tour through the Agrarian exhibit buildings.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Smith are vacationing in Long Beach, Calif.

Labor Leaders Consider Plan To Avoid Split

Three Point Proposal Is Receiving Serious Consideration

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—A roughly outlined plan to prevent the threatened split in the American Federation of Labor received close attention today in both craft and industrial union camps.

The plan would provide: 1. That John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and 11 union presidents affiliated with him in a drive to bring all the workers in each industry into one big union disband the committee for industrial organization.

2. That the federation's executive council, controlled by union leaders who think workers should be organized by craft, make exceptions of steel, automobile and rubber workers.

3. That a united federation organize these three groups into industrial unions while Lewis keeps hands off other territory claimed by the crafts.

The plan was discussed at an unheralded conference Tuesday night. Those present included Daniel W. Tracy, president of the Electrical Workers and craft union leader; George M. Harrison, president of the Railway Clerks and leader of a group in the executive council trying to avert a split; Father Francis J. Haas, member of the old national labor board; Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, and Lewis.

None would say who advanced the plan.

Arizona To Be Lenient With Its Tourists

Highway Department Head Says Restrictions To Be Modified

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 17. (AP)—D. B. Hutchins, superintendent of the state highway department, said today he was investigating complaints that tourists have been denied entrance into Arizona because they could not, or would not, prove ownership of their automobiles.

fit of the doubt. I don't think we will have any more trouble." Most of the complaints were from tourists seeking to enter the state from New Mexico over U. S. highway 66. Records of the highway department showed that 104 tourists from as far away as Florida and New York were required to spend $224 in telephone and telegraph tolls during June to prove ownership of their cars.

In a few instances, motorists were denied entrance. The most recent complaint of this nature came from Columbus, Ga. A Kansas City man complained that his wife had to pay $4.50-$3.50 for license plates, and $1 for a certificate of title—before being permitted to enter. Hutchins said in this instance a faulty registration was to blame.

The strict enforcement was first called to the attention of the public last week when 400 school teachers, members of an educational tour, were denied entrance because the tour manager refused to buy liability insurance. The buses were rerouted through Colorado and Utah to the West coast.

Sen. Murphy Crash Victim

Iowa Senator Supporter Of New Deal Agriculture Program

CHITPEWA FALLS, Wis., July 17. (AP)—Louis Murphy of Dubuque, United States senator from Iowa, was killed and his wife and two other persons were injured Thursday in an automobile accident near Bloomer, north of here.

Mrs. Murphy was brought to a hospital here, where Dr. J. A. Kelly of Bloomer said she was suffering from shock and a possible rib injury.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Woodward of Dubuque, riding with the Murphys, were treated for bruises. Senator Murphy was one of the strongest supporters of the new deal's agricultural policies. Elected in the Roosevelt landslide of 1932, he was a chief advocate of benefit payments to the farmers under the Agriculture Adjustment Act and upheld the soil conservation subsidy program enacted after the supreme court invalidated the AAA.

"Better trial with the danger of error than no trial at all," he said of the new program.

In his election to the senate, he defeated Henry Field, republican, and former Senator Smith W. Brookhart.

Foundation Patterns Are Lauded By Home Demonstration Women

Demonstration club women have used to the greatest advantage the foundation pattern they received in their first year work. With this basic pattern they are able to fashion most any type of dress, unless, of course, it is extremely different in its style.

Mrs. C. A. Ballard, clothing demonstrator at Chalk, says the following about her pattern: "As second year clothing demonstrator I have not made as many foundation patterns as I did last year as I have not visited as many clubs. Too, most of my own club members had made theirs last year. However, I have cut and directed the cutting of 10 patterns.

"I am still using with interest my own pattern and find it a great help." Women who entered the clothing demonstration contest the past spring were enthusiastic about the ease with which they could sew when following the simple foundation pattern. Mrs. W. O. Leonard's story about her contest dress follows: "Now that my dress is finished, I think of the time, work and money I spent and I am well pleased. From the time I cut out my dress until I finished the hem, I had no trouble whatever because my foundation pattern fitted so perfectly that I had to make no changes after my first cutting."

Awnings And Metal Furniture Lend Color To Outdoor Living Room

The "dugout" makes a smart lawn shelter beside a pool.

By MARGERY TAYLOR (Copyright, 1936, by McCall's Magazine for The Herald.)

To take a walk in the garden is very old-fashioned—now the garden is an outdoor home to be lived in, for eating, sleeping and partying.

If there's no garden, there may be a roof top, or a terrace on the first or second floor.

The new garden needs the new furniture to make it livable. Shade may be provided from a simple beach umbrella or one of the new portable awnings. These are of canvas and can be wheeled anywhere—for eating, they are big enough for a table for 12.

"The dugout," which started as a beach shelter, has found its place on lawns, by swimming pools and on penthouse terraces. It comes in gay sunfast fabrics, is collapsible, weighs only 10 pounds and can go anywhere—and it's built for two.

In furniture, rattan and metal are competing for popularity—the former in its natural color. The new pierced metal makes a really soft chair seat.

Amusing, and useful, is the modern metal rocker—seat slung between two hoops, the lower parts being the rockers and the upper the arms. It doesn't tear up the turf.

And just to be perverse, we are reviving the cast iron Victorian furniture twisted and bent to look "rustic" and painted white.

Mrs. P. H. Liberty and son, Lawrence, left Thursday for Cloudford, N. M. They were accompanied by Mrs. John House of Midland. They plan an indefinite stay.

State Tax Rate Of 62 Cents Foreseen

AUSTIN, July 17 (UP)—A state tax rate of 62 cents on each $100 of property was indicated today after the state board of education concluded a three-day session here after fixing a state school appropriation highest in the state's history.

It was decided that special taxes have so increased the financial prospect for schools that the state can pay $19 to local school districts for each child of school age. It was estimated that the scholastic census will list 1,562,000. The census includes all eligible children. Many of them do not attend public school so the actual payment to school districts is estimated at more than $25 for each pupil.

Deficits in the state general revenue fund in the Confederate pension fund make it apparent that the maximum tax for those funds will be required. The maximum for general revenue is 35 cents and the maximum for Confederate pensions is seven cents.

Labor Seeks Settlement Of Dispute

Negotiations Underway To Avert Trial Of Insur- gent Unions

WASHINGTON, July 17 (UP)—Organized labor drew back today from the greatest split in history of the American Federation of Labor and opened new peace negotiations designed to avoid a scheduled trial August 3 of 12 insurgent unions led by John L. Lewis.

Hope of labor leaders that a United front might be presented in the widening campaign initiated by Lewis for unionization of the $5,000,000,000 steel industry was spurred by failure of the federation executive council to suspend the rebel unions which joined the committee for industrial organization.

The most significant decision of the council was approval of renewed negotiations with Lewis—in which Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady is participating—in the federation's first real effort to compromise its conflict with the C. I. O. McGrady's role indicated the interest of the administration in peace within labor's ranks.

Obstacles in the path of peace Katherine Hanson, Nell Ray McGrady, Kathleen Boatler and Helen McConnell.

continued great even after the council contented itself with accepting formal charges that the rebels are seeking to set up a dual unionism and with ordering the insurgent leaders to appear for trial before the council. Lewis refused to permit C. I. O. leaders to appear at hearings to which the council invited them in the past six days and who may similarly ignore the formal trial arranged by the council. President William Green of the federation appeared hopeful that the breach in labor's ranks would be healed. He expressed pleasure when informed the C. I. O. had scored in the Chicago area.

Mr. and Mrs. Houston Cowden have returned from Lake City Colo., where they joined Dr. and Mrs. Amos R. Wood for a fishing trip on the Gunnison river. They report a delightful trip.

Rev. R. E. Day returned Thursday evening from Alabama where he gave inspirational addresses during a five-day session of the Alabama Baptist Sunday school convention.

Educational Aid Stressed By Governor

Will Continue Liberal Policy He Says In Address At Austin

AUSTIN, July 17.—A continuation of the liberal policy his administration has maintained toward education and in fulfilling the state's obligation for the adequate care of its less fortunate citizens was pledged by Governor James V. Allred in a speech here last night. "The soundest investment in social insurance the people of Texas can make is the proper training of our youth," the Governor said. "If we will educate our boys and girls they will provide adequately for their own old age. "One dollar wisely invested in Education, both in the public schools and in institutions of higher learning, has been more liberally supported with state funds during his administration than at any other time in Texas history, Governor Allred said. He cited the increase in the per capita school apportionment, which raised it to the highest point in the state's history, and the $2,000,000 increase in the rural aid appropriation during his administration in support of his statement. "These increased expenditures for the free public schools have been paid in cash," the Governor said, "and there remains a surplus insuring continued liberal support in the future. "I am unqualifiedly committed to the maintenance of a school system of the highest quality and efficiency, supported liberally by state funds. "An obligation equally as great as supporting the public schools is that of providing for the elementary institutions, Allred said. "These institutions for our unfortunate people must be adequate-

Chicago Woman Is Sentenced To Die For Slaying Man

CHICAGO, July 17. (AP)—Decried only 42 minutes, a criminal court jury late yesterday convicted Mrs. Mildred Mary Bolton of murdering her husband and declaring she becomes the first woman to be sentenced to the electric chair in the Cook county electric chair. Eleven married men and widowers comprised the jury which heard two witnesses quote Mrs. Bolton as saying: "They just don't convict women of murder in Cook county." The henna-haired widow's fense recited that her husband Joseph W. Bolton, Jr., an insurance broker, had caused her grief 14 years of pillaging. Bolton was shot down in Loop offices June 15 during a quarrel with his wife, which state charged was only one of long series of arguments which she had harassed him.

AUSTIN, July 17 (UP)—Former Ranger Sid Kelso, one-time nemesis of night clubs that peddled gambling, will show night proprietors that one can be run according to law. Kelso as a ranger participated in the axe raids at Galveston and Houston and in noted raids at Fort Worth.

Relief Agency To List Applicants For WPA Employment

AUSTIN, July 17. (UP)—Intake stations for the purpose of listing applicants for WPA employment will be opened in Texas counties between July 20 and Aug. 1, the Texas Relief commission announced today. The Texas Relief commission will have nothing to do with assignment to jobs but will refer lists to H. P. Drought, San Antonio, Texas WPA administrator. The Texas Relief commission will continue distribution of surplus commodities. Applications for certification to the WPA and for surplus commodities will be filed and cleared through the same intake stations. Eligibility for either will depend on present need. Applicants do not have to be former relief clients. It was explained that certification from the intake does not mean a sure job as the quota assigned to Texas makes it impossible for WPA to absorb more than a percentage of the unemployed. Continued co-operation of local communities will be needed, state relief Director Adam R. Johnson said. Mrs. Jack Hendrix has as her guest her sister, Mrs. Rosa Hewitt of Fort Worth for the week.

Job Problems Face Disabled War Veterans

Convention In Milwaukee To Discuss Increased Aid From U. S.

MILWAUKEE, July 17 (UP)—Two thousand men who were wounded in the world war will assemble here July 18 at the national convention of Disabled American Veterans to prepare demands for a "fair deal" in obtaining jobs. Marvin H. Harlan, El Paso, Texas, national commander, predicted the convention would adopt a resolution urging congress to enact legislation giving disabled veterans preference on government jobs. "One of the greatest tasks facing us is to find employment for the partially disabled," Harlan said. "As these disabled veterans grow older their opportunity for employment lessens. Their disability prevents them from competing in the open labor market." Vivian Corby, Cincinnati, Ohio, national adjutant, predicted the convention would go on record opposing a general veterans pension law. "The government should provide for its disabled war veterans first," he said. Other resolutions the delegates will present to the convention, Corby said, would involve hospitalization, rehabilitation, employment, dependency claims, national defense and subversive activities. The convention will hear prominent speakers discuss veterans' problems. Rep. John C. Rankin, of Mississippi, chairman of the house veterans' affairs committee, will address the convention in regard to legislation. Among other speakers tentatively scheduled are Sen. Frederick W. Steiwer of Oregon, republican national keynote; Gen. Frank T. Hines, head of the veterans' administration, and Ray Murphy of Iowa, national commander of the American Legion. A huge military parade, featuring floats and smartly uniformed bands, will precede an address by Gov. Philip F. La Follette on July 22. The convention will continue through July 25.

So. China Army Retreats Before Nanking Troops

HONG KONG, July 17 (AP)—Southwest China's second army beat a hasty retreat from the Northern Kwangtung city of Siichow today in the face of a reported advance of Nanking troops.

The blowing up of an important bridge, it was reported despite earlier denials, spurred the evacuation, since communications were said to have been cut. Some advisers said Nanking troops were expected to occupy Siichow tomorrow.

With a fleet of airplanes, newly purchased from Japan, being assembled hastily at Canton, General Chan Chal-Fung and Li Chung-Jen formally assumed their posts as commanders of an "anti-Japanese army," formed in defiance of central government rebukes.

Both seemed firmly resolved to fight, but their forces received a serious loss in the reported defection of the veteran politician Hsiao Fu-Sheng.

Pair Billed For Love Murder Of Woman's Husband

BEAUMONT, July 17. (UP)—A copy of an indictment charging Mrs. Reable Childs and Terrance Bramlett with murder in the death of the woman's husband, was served on the couple in the county jail here Thursday.

The two have admitted the existence of a romance at the time Marie J. Childs of Center, former Shelby county treasurer, was shot through a bathroom window on April 23.

"Thank goodness the suspense is over," said Mrs. Childs as she was handed the paper.

The two were indicted several days ago by the Shelby county grand jury.

Murder And Motive For Shooting Studied When Dallas Man Disappears

DALLAS, July 17. (UP)—Murder and a possible motive for the shooting of Arthur F. V. Hoos, 40, special investigator, were considered Thursday after information files involving prominent Dallas business men and politicians disappeared.

Hoos, his head pierced by a pistol bullet, was found early today slumped in his new automobile on a lonely drive overlooking White Rock lake, east of Dallas.

Hoos had been dead several hours when his body was found by a special lake guard. A pistol from which one shot had been fired lay beside him.

The absence of a suicide note puzzled detectives. Friends of Hoos pointed out that in his work as a special investigator for Ed Cobb, Dallas county tax collector,

Headless Body Of 7-Year-Old Boy Is Found Near Belton

BELTON, July 17. (UP)—No clues had been uncovered Friday that might shed light on the identity of the headless, handless body of a 7-year-old boy found in a shallow grave on the Leon river bank.

A fisherman discovered the mutilated corpse yesterday.

The skeleton was unclashed and had been partially exposed by recent rains washing over the grave. Sheriff John E. Bigham said investigation showed no child from this section had been reported missing. His theory was that the head and hands were removed because they bore distinguishing marks. He said the boy had been dead about six months.

he had compiled much information which might be damaging to prominent business men and several politicians.

This information, it was discovered, Hoos had kept in a steel box, securely locked. The box could not be found.

ARMY REFORMS MISSISSIPPI BY CUTTING OFF ITS NECKS

VICKSBURG, Miss., July 17 (AP)—In defiance of the tradition that the Mississippi's meandering course must not be disturbed, army engineers have been working since 1932 to take kinks out of the river's lower channel.

The result today: A shorter, tamer Mississippi.

The river itself first suggested the benefits from cutting across the narrow necks of land that separated its horseshoe bends.

Of its own volition, it broke through at Yboston bend, a few miles above St. Joseph, La., and saved itself from five miles of useless wandering.

If Old Man River was willing to mend his ways, reasoned General Harley B. Ferguson, president of the Mississippi river commission, why not help the regeneration?

Diamond point, near Davis island south of Vicksburg, was selected for the first man-made cut-off. Blasting through a 2.6-mile neck of land with hydraulic dredges shortened the river by 12 miles at that point.

Other cut-offs were put through at Ashbrook, Tarpley, Leland Neck, Worthington point, Sarah Island, Willow point, Marshall point, Rodney, Giles Bend and Glascock point—a dozen in all, saving about 100 miles between the Arkansas river mouth and Red river landing.

Their efficiency, engineers say, was proved last spring when, as a result of faster "get-away," the flood-swollen Mississippi did comparatively little damage in the low ar valley.

Pool Checks Not Due For Six Weeks, Says Adjustment Assistant

Anticipating a deluge of inquiries as soon as an announcement is made in Washington of the percentage sale of the national pool for cotton tags, M. Weaver, adjustment assistant to the county agent, today predicted it would be at least six weeks before any checks would be received here.

It took that length of time last year from the announcement of final calculations until the first pool check was received, said Weaver.

Until the percentage sale from the pool is announced, Weaver stated, there is no way of ascertaining what the total amount due producers of this county will be.

Last year with a 68 per cent sale, Howard county producers received $64,000 on their tags. Weaver said that approximately 500 farmers were included in the final pool this year.

The AAA was to have announced the per cent of tags disposed of Friday.

Around And About

The Sports Circuit

JOHN GALINO, state inspector who checked over the athletic club wrestling arena last Tuesday, told a good yarn about a trip to a little town in the valley. It seems that Galino had received orders to investigate a promoter there and when he arrived the man informed him that it was none of the state's business what he did and that he'd have the high sheriff after him if any of the state bums nosed around too much.

WHILE IN Houston recently Galino and a party of friends decided to pull a good joke on a promoter there, but the fun bounded back and Galino landed in jail. Galino and his friends left their car with the promoter and in the formed the police that it had been stolen. Of course the man was picked up and jailed. The jokesters intended to let him stay in the cooler an hour or two before explaining things to the cops, but a man got wise and tipped the police, requesting that Galino be locked up for a few hours as a lesson. They jailed him, and to make matters worse called a newspaper photographer to take his picture behind bars. Galino had to explain to state officials in Austin.

IT TOOK several hours to do it but the Centennial Sluggers, Fort Worth softball team, dumped the Calway Sluggers, 60-4 in a recent game. The Centennial crew scored 15 runs in the sixth for the biggest inning. Jake Hardin, the winning pitcher, also led at the plate with a homer, triple, double and two singles.

Softball Introduced To Prevent Injuries

HAVANA, July 17 (AP)—Cracked skulls and broken arms are not unusual among the stadium players of Jal Alai, the Spanish game. Players have to handle a ball half the size of a baseball and almost as hard as a golf ball at terrific speed. A "softer" game was needed for less reckless athletes. So American "soft ball" is being introduced.

Feminine Polo Player Shocks English Fans

LONDON, July 17 (AP)—British polo officials blinked, rubbed their eyes and registered shock when a South American woman player rode onto the field as a member of a team. It isn't done in England—she was informed. But it was too late to find a substitute, so the "gate-crasher," Mrs. M. B. Lancaster, of Uruguay, went into action and scored two of her team's three goals.

U. S. SENDING ALL-STAR DELEGATION TO OLYMPIC

AMERICA'S HOPES ON FIVE MEN

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—Defense of three Olympic crowns and the attempts to recapture the high-jump and gain three distance running titles that usually go to other nationalities, notably the Scandinavians, rest upon five headliners of the American final tryouts for the 1936 games in Berlin, August 2-16.

Three negroes and two white men are in this all-star delegation that holds bright chances of winning Olympic titles and surpassing world records in Berlin. To the defense of the 100 and 200-meter championships won for the U. S. by the negro Eddie Tolan in 1932, and the broad jump title won four years ago by negro Eddie Gordon, goes our greatest triple threat trackster, Jessie Owens of Ohio State University.

While Tolan scored a "double," Owens hopes to stretch his accomplishments over the triple route. Owens has broad-jumped past the U. S. by the negro Eddie Tolan in 1932, and the broad jump title won four years ago by negro Eddie Gordon, goes our greatest triple threat trackster, Jessie Owens of Ohio State University.

Another of Coach Snyder's proteges, the negro Dave Albritton, who tied Cornelius Johnson of Compton, Calif., junior college at 6 feet 9 3/4 inches for the new world high jump mark, may go even higher at Berlin, Snyder believes.

The two high-flying negroes will try at Berlin to recapture the high-jump title that slipped away from the U. S. forces for the first time in history four years ago when Duncan McNaughton of Canada won in a jump-off for first place. Johnson, then a long, lean high school boy, tied with three others at 6 feet 9 3/4 inches, but was relegated to fourth place in the jump-off, in which Robert Van Osdell, U. S. A., placed second to McNaughton, and Simeon G. Torribo of the Philippines was third.

A threat to Scandinavian supremacy in the 3,000-meter steeplechase has come forth in the person of Harold Manning, winner of the N. C. A. two-mile title for the University of Wichita (Kas.) a few years ago. Running the long hurdle and puddle-jump race in 9:08.2 at the final American tryouts, Manning clipped more than six seconds off the Olympic mark of 9:14.6 established in a heat at Los Angeles four years ago by Volmar Lo-Hollo of Finland. Oddly, Lo-Hollo's triumph in the final at 1932 was timed at 10:34.4, but it was discovered that through a miscalculation the competitors ran 3,450 meters, instead of 3,000.

Lash in Long Races The U. S. in the flat distance races has Donald Lash, a product of Coach Billy Hayes' considerable school of endurance and skill at the University of Indiana.

Qualifying also for the 5,000-meter Olympic test, Lash dallied in the pack to give encouragement to Indiana teammate Tom Deckard, who placed third; and thus Lash's comparatively poor time of 15:04.2 was far off the world and Olympic records held by Lauri Lehtinen of Finland, 1932 champion.

Golfers Are Troubled By Tall Roughs

Shots From Tall Roughs More Difficult Than From Sand

By LAWSON LITTLE ST. PAUL, Minn., July 17.—Next to traps, tall rough seems to give the average golfer the most trouble. Shots from tall rough are at times even more difficult than those from dry loose sand. The main difficulty encountered is that the grass prevents the club from making a clean, solid contact with the ball. The grass not only wraps around the lower end of the clubshaft, but it gets between the clubface and the ball.

Julcy plants such as clover, forces the golfer to face a grave problem. When the clubface comes in contact with the ball this grass is smashed at the point of contact and the ball invariably skips off of the club and there is no way to determine which way it will skip.

The corrective, or counteractive, is not very simple and so far there has been no way to guarantee good results even when the shot is well hit. A number of English old-timers, such as Vardon, Braid, etc., put chalk on the face of their clubs when they had a shot to play from juicy grass or even during rainy weather. I have tried the same remedy and found that it was occasionally helpful.

Mean Tactics Pay Off Big For Wrestler

Ellis Bashara Reveals Secrets Of Bone-Bending Trade

NEW ORLEANS, July 17 (UP)—To the average wrestling fan the term "horse radish" means "nothing" or "baloney." Ellis Bashara, the heavyweight grappler, has made the term mean "misery" to opponents.

Bashara, noted as a "meanie" on the mat, secretes horse radish powder in his hair. Once in the arena, he rubs his hand through his hair and into his bewildered foe's eyes.

An All-Big-Six squad, while playing for the University of Oklahoma in 1924, Bashara contends "nine out of 10 wrestlers nowadays are college men and not carnival buns. A professional wrestler has to put on a big front. To make good money he has to spend it. He has to stay at the best hotels, own a tuxedo, be a good bridge player and talk glibly."

He also draws a line between college and professional matmen. "The difference between college and professional wrestling," he philosophized, "is the money. In college, you're out to defend the honor of the alma mater, win your sweater and rate publicity. But in the pro game, you're out for the beans. It's a business proposition, pure and simple."

His "bad man" tactics, mustache, marcelled hair and cocky walk—he calls it his "Oklahoma strut"—has been the probable reasons for his widespread unpopularity.

Once he entered the ring against Joe Cox at Des Moines, Ia. The crowd cheered him until the building echoed as Bashara entered the ring. This rare reception so unnerved Bashara that he could never get going and eventually lost the match.

Suffered Fractured Skull Bashara said that he was teased around and injured so frequently by "bad man" tactics of his opponents that he was forced into the villain's role. He suffered a dislocated shoulder, four broken ribs, a broken shoulder, fractured skull, dislocated knee and several broken fingers in the period of two years.

He says the discovery of Joe Louis and the subsequent boxing boom hurt the wrestling game, but that matism is coming back again now stronger than ever.

SLATS ONE OF LEADING HURDLERS

LOS ANGELES, July 17 (AP)—Four years ago in Los Angeles, Glenn (Slats) Hardin, tall and handsome Louisiana State university graduate from Greenwood, Miss., missed winning the Olympic 400-meter hurdles title by inches when Robert Tisdall of Ireland beat him out. The lad from the South was credited with a new Olympic record because Tisdall knocked over the final hurdle on his way to victory. Since that day Hardin has not been beaten over the 400-meter hurdles.

Hardin was just a freshman in college then. He has dominated in his specialty the past four years. In 1934, while studying Europe, he hopped over the 400-meter sticks in 50.6 seconds to set up the present world mark.

To show how completely he rules the roost in his favorite event one has but to point out the Penn relays of 1933. A fine field of hurdlers was assembled to face Hardin in a special event. The lanky Southerner made a show of the field. He enjoyed such a great margin that when he tripped over one of the homestretch hurdles he had time to pick himself up and win.

In the national championships at Princeton this year, Hardin ran off with the title in 51.6 seconds, exactly the time he predicted he would do before the race, and two-tenths of a second under his own championship record.

Hardin is one of the outstanding flat quarter-milers in this country, having run the double furlong in 46.9 seconds. He has the speed, form and power to rank with the best in the world. The chances are that he could have won a place on the Olympic team in the 400 meters flat had he not been determined to win the hurdles title which eluded him in the 1932 Olympics.

CALIFORNIA TENNIS HORDE INVADES EASTERN STATE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—(UP)—Twenty-eight California tennis players will go into action on eastern courts this summer, more than at any time within recent years.

Mrs. Helen Willis Moody, Donald Budge and Helen Jacobs lead the parade. Some already have been in action, even won national titles and others are in the East, but have yet to enter competition.

Budge and his partner, Gene Mako of Los Angeles, Gerald Stratford, Carolin Babcock and Miss Jacobs have been warring in Europe. Others still are on the Coast awaiting the time when they will join the advance guard.

Walter Senior, a long-legged San Franciscan, who recently won the state championship, is sight-seeing in Washington, D. C. He will wind up his campaign in the national championships at Forest Hills, L. I. Coast universities will be well represented, also. Stanford will contribute with Bob Underwood, Ben Dey, Bill Seward and John Law. From the University of California will be Dick Bengett and Paul Newton.

Lost College Title Newton and Bennett were short of their national intercollegiate doubles title, Seward and Dey taking the honor. Gene Smith, also of California, is in the East, but on his own.

Others now in foreign fields are Modeste Alloo, Berkeley; Bobby Rigg, Los Angeles, and Wayne Sabin, the former Portland star, but now registered from Los Angeles.

Patsy Henry and Janet Arzberger of Los Angeles have been winning matches in the East. Eleanor Dawson, Piedmont, won the girls' hard court championship at Berkeley last month, and departed hurriedly for Kentucky. Nothing has been heard from her as yet, but she will play in various Atlantic Coast competitions before tackling the field for the girls' national grass court title.

Max Schmeling Picked To Beat Jim Braddock

By HARRY GRAYSON CHICAGO, July 17.—Max Schmeling will defeat Jim Braddock, if they collide in September.

Schmeling would bait out Joe Louis every night in the week. Max Baer would do the same thing to Schmeling.

Louis would never have any more trouble with Baer than he had last fall. These are the opinions of Jack Kearns, who managed Jack Dempsey to the championships and million dollar gates.

"I have an idea that Schmeling knocked Braddock out of his one fight in sufficient conditions, but when he convinced Louis of the folly of carrying his chin so high, The negro was the lad who was packing them in."

"Fighting largely is a matter of styles," asserts Kearns, explaining his picking Schmeling over Louis, Baer over Schmeling, and Louis over Baer.

Braddock Requires Warm-Up Kearns considers Braddock as nothing more than an extremely fortunate individual who caught Daer in worse condition than Louis could find the Californian.

"At that, Braddock might have gone on for another two or three years against the blokes who are around now had he kept busy," declares the dapper doctor.

"Braddock shows the almost inevitable result of championship coming into what to him is big money after five lean years. Braddock is one of the finest men who ever boxed. Naturally a good fellow, he has revealed in the many banquets that have been tossed his way."

A TRIBUTE TO MORRIS SHEPPARD: The Herald gladly joins with others representative of Big Spring and this section of West Texas in welcoming Senator Morris Sheppard into our midst tonight.

We count it an honor because we regard Senator Sheppard as an outstanding statesman, one who for more than three decades honorably represented Texas in the national congress.

We are not unmindful of the high position Senator Sheppard commands in the legislative halls at Washington. We recognize his numerous committee assignments, on all of which he is the ranking majority member.

The commerce committee, dealing with foreign trade and merchant marine as well as domestic products of which we are exporters; chairman of the flood control and bridge sub-committees of the commerce committee; member of the rivers and harbors subcommittee; ranking democratic member of the military affairs committee; ranking majority member of the irrigation and reclamation committee; ranking committee member on manufactures.

We realize, too, that Senator Sheppard is a member of the democratic steering committee of the upper house, a body that assigns party members to committee places and handles questions of procedure.

We know that Senator Sheppard, as a leader of his party and an ardent supporter of President Roosevelt, holds a high place in the administration and has authority such as few members of congress enjoy.

We recognize the fact that these positions, attained only by long and faithful service, mean more to Texas than any other man could possibly achieve for Texas in many years.

Disregarding these honors that have come as just rewards for efficient labors, we also know that Senator Sheppard, throughout his career as a public servant, has worked continuously for the best interests of Texas and its people.

Texas has reason to be proud of Morris Sheppard and his achievements. Big Spring is glad to honor him tonight, and to assure him of continued support.

"I find this an extremely pleasant place," he declared, "but when you serve my dinner, please omit the soup. Go directly from the shrimp cocktail into the main course."

"But, Monsieur" (for he was French), "it is forbidden to enter this restaurant in such a state of undress."

"By whom?" demanded the young man. "By the management, of course."

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DEWEY FARROW and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—A secret and very significant session took place at the White House just before Bernard M. Baruch, heaviest contributor to Roosevelt's 1932 campaign, sailed for Europe.

The tall, white-haired New York financier, one of the oldest friends of the president, came down to discuss the state of the nation. He took the occasion to tell Roosevelt very frankly that the new deal was going too far and too fast to the left.

He told the president that business men were being alienated unreasonably, suggested that Roosevelt was letting his sympathy for labor drive him from his traditional middle-of-the-road cause.

Roosevelt did not take kindly to this criticism. In fact, he got noticeably sore. He told Baruch that business men had been much more unreasonable in their uncompromising hostility toward new deal policies.

Instead of cooperating with the government to restore economic stability and solve the social problems facing the country, the president said, big business had obstructed every measure he initiated.

He had tried reason and conciliation. Roosevelt maintained, but got nowhere. Baruch differed with the president on this, and for a moment both men were definitely miffed.

Before they parted Baruch told Roosevelt that he was taking his usual summer trip abroad, and the president asked if he would not go to Sweden to study the Swedish cooperative system. Baruch said he would be glad to make the study.

Swedish System: To halt a dozen people with whom he has talked recently, the president has expressed great interest in the Swedish system. Already a new deal commission, headed by Jake Baker, is in Sweden studying the system, and two or three other unofficial emissaries of the president have been asked to report.

The Swedish plan is based upon consumer cooperatives which operate so cheaply and so efficiently as to bring prices down for the poorer people.

The net result, as Roosevelt once remarked, is a royal family, a socialist government, and a capitalist system all existing side by side, and giving the Swedish people one of the best deals of any nation in Europe.

Kansas Economist: Probably President Roosevelt doesn't know it, but one of the experts who helped Governor Landon balance the famous Kansas budget is now working for him.

She is Mrs. Bertha Wetheron, assistant budget director for the state of Kansas during the democratic and republican administrations preceding Landon, and during six months of Landon's regime.

Mrs. Wetheron, a republican, is now special assistant to Internal Revenue Commissioner Guy T. Haverstick, a Kansas democrat.

Mrs. Wetheron has a high opinion of Landon, but says that the real economist in the Landon family is the governor's self-effacing young wife. When it comes to economy Mrs. Landon has it all over her husband.

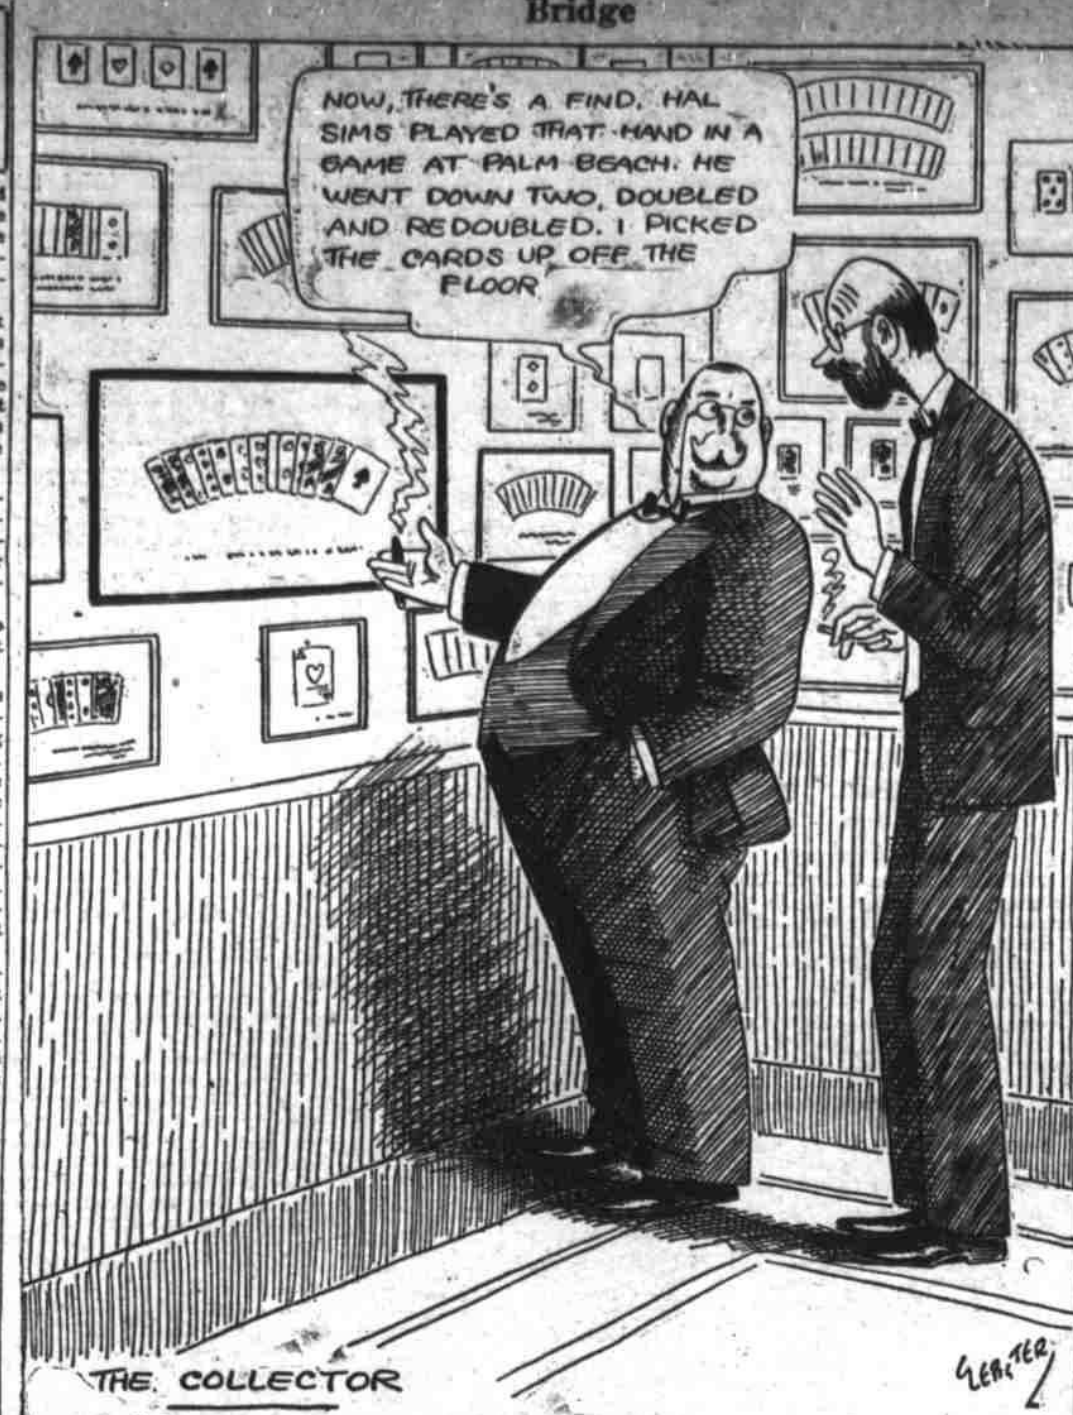

The Kansas legislature appropriated a regular sum each year for maintenance of the executive mansion. In her first year, Mrs. Landon reduced this allowance from $6,000 to $4,200.

Mrs. Wetheron asserts that balancing the Kansas state budget is no particular art. Basic state law prevents its being unbalanced. In her 17 years as a state employee, she says there was not one year when outgo exceeded income.

Garner vs. Roosevelt: One inter-party democratic feud on which the president has asked for reports is that raging down in San Antonio in connection with the resignation of Maury Maverick, belated new deal congressman.

When Roosevelt went to Texas last month, he stopped at San Antonio and went out of his way to boost Maverick's candidacy.

But there is the joker in the situation. Not many people know it, but one of the most active of politicians opposing Maverick is the nephew of Vice President Garner.

Drouth Seen As An Issue In Campaign: Nature To Play A Part In Determining How Votes Will Be Cast. By BYRON PRICE (Chief of AP Bureau, Washington).

But that was before the days of recurring farm surpluses. When farm production passed the saturation point of consumption, and stayed there year after year, the bottom dropped out of prices, and bumper crops no longer were welcome politically.

The psychology of the situation turned a rather sharp corner early in the depression. The attempt to do something about the surplus and to cultivate prices instead of production, began in earnest with the Hoover farm board. It continued by different means under the Roosevelt AAA. And nature seems to be taking a hand, too.

Opposing Opinions: Will political psychology change again? Many politicians wish they knew. One way of looking at it is to suppose that what has happened over a considerable area of the west will be a double blessing for the Democrats—it will curtail production and raise prices at the same time it is giving the administration an opportunity to do new benefits to the farmer.

In fact, some political thinkers have advanced the theory in recent weeks that a good weather map might be President Roosevelt's worst handicap in the farm country; that if crops were good and prices went down, the farmers would lose all confidence in Democratic assurances that the new soil erosion program offered an effective way out of the farm problem.

The other way of looking at it is to infer the dry weather will greatly help the Republicans. On this side the argument already is being made that the Roosevelt crop curtailment policies have greatly aggravated the effects of the drought and that the combined result may be to reduce available forage and other production to a hazardous point.

Besides, it is argued on the anti-administration side that still greater relief spending now will be forced, and that such spending has ceased to be popular.

Farm Problem Again: Anyone who is interested can take his choice of these opposing arguments, but about one thing everyone can agree: The drought has brought home once again the vital place of agriculture in the national economic structure and has demonstrated the political boss of agriculture is the weather man.

Whatever successive administrations may do, however they may figure it out according to the textbooks or political expediency, the balance of power still rests with the sunshine and the rain, the floods and the dust storms, the eternal variety of nature.

It would appear that if these hazards ever are to be overcome, and if man ever is to become master of the forces of nature, the way will be pointed by science rather than by politics. That is so elemental even the politicians agree to it.

Yet what is being done about taking the farm problem out of politics? With every national campaign, it becomes more and more a part of politics, more and more a political issue; and the inexorable natural law which insures tomorrow's sunrise is no more of a certainty than is the prospect that the dry spell of 1936 will be in the center of the politics of 1936 before the campaign is much older.

MURDER TONIGHT

Chapter Six
QUART DETECTIVE
 "Will you be staying long, sir?" Edward Perry asked. His guest who had just signed the visitors' book in a firm and microscopically neat hand said, "I hardly know, Mr. Perry."
 "Perry, sir."
 "Mr. Perry. Three or four days anyway—possibly longer. Have you got any claret in the cellar?"
 "There are a few bottles, sir, though we don't get much call for it here; wine drinking has gone out practically as you may say."
 "A pity. Vinum cor hominum lactificat—but perhaps Bible reading has gone out as well."
 Perry grinned. "Not so much of James White moved back from the door with a welcoming gesture. Kingsley Hylton accepted the invitation and in a minute or two was sitting facing the other man in a pleasant but rather uncomfortably crowded room. The table which stood between them was littered with various typewritten and printed documents, and a book of police regulations lay open among them.

 The two men took frank stock of each other in the light. Kingsley Hylton saw a strong, agreeable face crowned with black hair and distinguished by one of those square-shaped, dimpled chins which women, for some curious and deep Kingsley Hylton counted his steps to the police cottage.

As there used to be, sir," he said. "It's more pictures than prayers nowadays in a manner of speaking."
 "Do you play chess, Mr. Perry?" his guest suddenly asked.
 "Chess, sir? I don't know as I do; but Mr. White, the policeman, he's a great hand at it, he's your man if you want a game of chess any time."
 The tall man smiled. "Very fortunate. I was just going to ask you the way to his house. I'm down from Scotland Yard to investigate this murder at Ederton Court—of course, you knew that didn't you?"
 "Well, sir, I—"
 "And my name's Kingsley Hylton, you know that too, didn't you?"
 "I won't say I—"
 "And I'm slightly mad like all great detectives."
 Perry grinned uncertainly.
 "But not mad enough to do without food, so bacon and eggs in the morning and very hot coffee at 8 o'clock sharp, and don't forget to look out that claret."
 Edward Perry was definitely impressed. He picked up the visitors' book and studied the tiny writing, as neat as six point print.
 "Kingsley Hylton London?" then, putting the book down, he called to mind the prematurely bald head, the thick glasses, the thin lips, the disconcerting quick eyes and the long restless hands.
 "Well, it's a character and no mistake," was the landlady's comment as he hurried to the bar with this latest and most delectable addition to his festive array of speculation and discussion set up by the Ederton Court affray.

For curiosity (and also partly because he had a strong mathematical kink in his mind) Kingsley Hylton counted his steps from the turning of the Morechester Road to the police cottage. His long thin legs took an easy 35 inch stride. He found that the five hundredth step brought him almost exactly to the wicket gate, which he considered to be an endorsement of the innkeeper's "about a quarter of a mile." The night was dry and dark, too dark indeed for him to be certain of his destination had not a neat little blue lamp with POLICE showing white from it been there to reassure him.
 He walked up two or three yards of well kept path and knocked precisely on the door. It was opened by a broad-shouldered man in police sergeant's uniform. The stiff collar of his jacket was open and a useful looking pair of feet were encased in comfortable carpet slippers. His right hand held a pen. When he spoke Hylton was struck at once by the richness of his voice and by the unexpected quality of it.
 "What can I do for you?" he asked.
 "Let me introduce myself. I am Detective Inspector Kingsley Hylton from Scotland Yard. Here is my identity card."

Frances Langford, the radio songbird who is making good in movies; Sir Guy Standing, Smith Ballew, David Niven, Spring Byington and Ernest Cossart are to be seen in the picture, "Palm Springs," which plays at the Ritz Friday and Saturday.
 This is the first time the resort near Hollywood, where the movie stars rest and play between pictures, has been filmed. Because of its atmosphere, the place is used as a setting for the story which presents Miss Langford as a young society deb who is suddenly thrown into the gaiety of a Palm Springs vacation.
 She is forced into seeking marriage with a playboy millionaire to save her family from poverty, in spite of the love she already has for a handsome cowboy. To win the millionaire, she masquerades as an English noblewoman. She almost succeeds in her effort until her father, realizing the sacrifice she is making, exposes her. How she frustrates the marriage and aids the cowboy, played by Smith Ballew, in getting the girl supply the climax to the story.
 Five songs specially written for the picture are sung by Miss Langford and Ballew. Most popular of the group is "I Don't Want to Make History."

Texas Oil Tax Averages 7 3/4 Cts. A Barrel

1935 Levy On Crude In This State Is More Than 30 Million

By H. J. STRUTH
 Petroleum Economist

Texas oil producers actually pay a total production tax of seven and three-quarter cents per barrel of crude oil produced, which tops the rate of every other oil producing state, according to data collected by the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association of Texas. This fact is accurately revealed for the first time through the collection of tax statistics from Texas oil producers by questionnaire, the returns from which have thus far accounted for 60 per cent of the state's crude oil production in 1935.
 Production taxes paid within the state during the past year, by more than 4,000 Texas oil producers, aggregated $30,175,517 on a total production of 391,097,000 barrels, or an average tax per barrel of 7.72 cents. This makes it evident that the gross production tax of two cents per barrel on crude oil is only one of many taxes imposed upon the producing branch of the Texas oil industry. Last year, the gross production tax paid by Texas oil producers and royalty owners amounted to $3,126,995, which constituted only about one-fourth of the oil production taxes collected in the state. In addition, $22,048,322 was collected in state, county, city, and school ad valorem taxes, franchise taxes, regulatory taxes, gross receipts and various other state levies on the producing branch of the oil industry.

At Disadvantage
 Texas oil operators are shown by these facts to be at a decided disadvantage to those in other oil producing states. In Oklahoma, the crude oil production tax is five per cent of its market value, which makes the average tax per barrel about five and one-half cents, and this is in lieu of all other taxes. In Louisiana, the crude oil tax ranges from four to 11 cents per barrel, depending upon the gravity of the oil produced, while the average tax is not more than six cents per barrel. In this connection, it is pertinent to note that the Louisiana legislature realizes that present oil taxes are too high and have actually proven disadvantageous to the state's oil development, since it voted down proposals to increase state oil taxes and reduced the tax rate of certain of the state's oil operations. In New Mexico, the oil tax has averaged less than two cents, also in lieu of all other taxes. Kansas levies no oil production tax, while their ad valorem tax averages less than two cents a barrel. California has no gross production tax on oil, while their ad valorem taxes average but 3.70 cents per barrel. No other oil producing state imposes as high an oil production tax as Texas.

Bob Steele In Western Play

To Be Seen At The Queen This Weekend In 'Sundown Saunders'

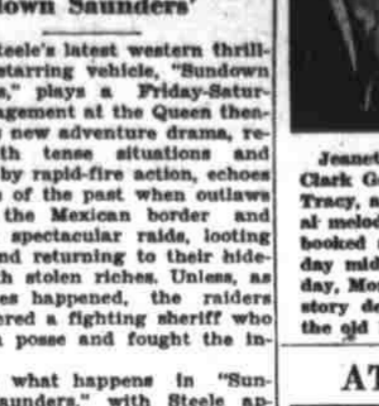

Bob Steele and Catherine Catter play opposite each other in the cowboy actor's latest outdoor action drama, "Sundown Saunders." The picture is at the Queen Friday and Saturday.

Bob Steele's latest western thriller and starring vehicle, "Sundown Saunders," plays a Friday-Saturday engagement at the Queen Theatre. This new adventure drama, replete with tense situations and marked by rapid-fire action, echoes the days of the past when outlaws crossed the Mexican border and rode on spectacular raids, looting towns and returning to their hideouts with stolen riches. Unless, as sometimes happened, the raiders encountered a fighting sheriff who rallied a posse and fought the invaders.
 That's what happens in "Sundown Saunders," with Steele appearing as the right-hand man of an officer who was ready to meet the outlaws and the sheriff's men in one of the big scenes of the film.
 Catherine Catter furnishes the romantic interest in playing opposite Steele as the daughter of a neighbor ranch owner, and intended victim of raiders and land grafters who Steele befriends.

Mrs. Harry Hurt and Mrs. Robert Middleton attended the beauty and rodeo at Ackery Thursday.
 natural gasoline plant operators, producers and distributors of natural gas, transporters of petroleum and its products and marketers of refined petroleum products. Altogether, the Texas oil industry is the direct source of 60 per cent of the tax revenue collected in the state. Additional data received from Texas oil operators by questionnaire shows that expenditures in 1935 for payrolls, lease rentals, lease bonuses, royalties, freight charges, materials and supplies, teaming, etc., aggregated $440,418,173. Payrolls alone amounted to $161,652,479; landowners received nearly $50,000,000 in rentals and bonuses; equipment manufacturers reaped a harvest of $126,449,909, spent in the purchase of last year's oil field operating equipment.

Three Stars Merge Talents

Gable, Jeannette MacDonald And Spencer Tracy In 'San Francisco'

Described as one of sensations of the current movie season is "San Francisco," film booked at the Ritz for three days beginning Sunday, following a midnight matinee showing Saturday; and which has three outstanding stars—Classy Gable, Jeannette MacDonald and Spencer Tracy—in the leading roles.
 The great San Francisco earthquake and fire plays an important part in the plot development, and the picture produces some of the most realistic scenes of a great catastrophe ever filmed. It also brings again to the screen the lovely voice of Miss MacDonald, who covers a wide range of musical numbers in singing raptures as well as operatic arias.
 "San Francisco" is the story of Blackie Norton, lord of the old Barbary Coast. Into his resort wanders a small-town girl with ambitions to be a singer. Gable, as Blackie, engages the girl to entertain his rowdy customers and from the dance hall she rises to heights as an opera star to thrill the hearts of San Francisco's music lovers. Later she returns to Blackie, who does not realize his love for the girl until he finds it in the suffering and destruction of the San Francisco disaster.
 In the supporting cast are Jack Holt, Ted Healy, Shirley Ross, Jessie Ralph, Harold Huber and Roger Imhoff.

Road Planning Surveys In 36 States Scheduled

WASHINGTON (UP)—The bureau of public roads of the U. S. department of agriculture announces that highway planning surveys are in progress or soon will begin in 36 states. The surveys are being conducted by the state highway departments with the co-operation of the bureau. They will supply information to put future highway improvement on a sound basis. In the past attention has been centered on improving the main through highways. In the future more attention must be given, highway officials said, to improving secondary and feeder roads and to improving conditions where the main highways pour their traffic into cities. At the same time the

WTCC Exhibit At Ft. Worth To Show Area's Great Resources

The Herald reprints below an article on the West Texas chamber of commerce exhibit which opens Monday at the Frontier Centennial at Fort Worth, written by Mrs. Helen R. Carroll for "West Texas Today," the official WTCC publication.—(Editor's Note).

By MRS. HELEN R. CARROLL. To D. A. Bandeen, manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce, Mrs. Roosevelt's very natural interrogation came as a sign from heaven, for he himself has been asking for months the same question: "What is Texas going to do to advertise its own resources during the Centennial celebrations?" He has made it the organization's theme song. So determined has he been to advertise West Texas resources that he has worked out a story of the progress and development of his section which promises to rival in intrigue and color the most imaginative of the Arabian Nights. This panorama will be a major part of the Frontier Centennial. The West Texas chamber of commerce exhibit will show in a dramatic and impressive manner the productive power, both active and latent, of West Texas in terms of wheat, wool and mohair, oil and other minerals, agricultural development, cotton and feeds, recreation, diversification and cattle.

Industrial Opportunities
How many would know that in an area 20 times greater than the state of Rhode Island and whose main highways must be maintained and further improved to meet needs that already exist.

population is now 12 times greater than in 1900, there is an annual production of 25 million bushels of wheat, if it were not for the inspiring diorama of golden yellow grains stretching majestically as the ocean from horizon to horizon displayed by the Panhandle counties? Or that in the same section there are not only such vast fields of wheat but also thousands of producing oil wells, whose spires are not less majestic than those of a cathedral, producing 23 million barrels of oil yearly? Or that in the same territory graze over a half million cattle? There is enough natural gas in this section of West Texas alone to supply the entire nation. Here is produced 75 per cent of the world's carbon black. As if that were not enough for one diorama, there is also a depiction of the activity of the only helium plant in the United States. The visitor is not allowed to miss the point that here in this fertile agricultural community are unlimited industrial opportunities, for hand in hand with foodstuffs goes the world's cheapest and most abundant fuel.

Booklets From Towns
Eighty towns will have illustrated souvenir booklets and booths telling their stories in a most interesting manner in the West Texas exhibit. In addition to dioramas, towns panels, and moving pictures taken the past month throughout the cattle country of West Texas, one phase of this great industry—so close to the heart and pocketbook of the West Texas—will be told in an exhibit of the nation's most famous collection of branding irons, totaling 400, the property of A. C. Williams, president of the federal land bank of Houston. And capping the section devoted to the range country is a collection that will pull your heart strings: the Will Rogers memorial room, an exact replica of his own living room in his California home. All of Will's trophies have been loaned by his widow who feels very close to West Texas because it was in Stamford, last July 4 (1935) that America's beloved humorist attended his last round-up.

Visit the West Texas all-resource exhibit and learn more about the cotton business, the grain sorghum business, the oil business, the worthy business of crop diversification, the manufactures of West Texas—more than you ever realized existed. The region's educational life will not be neglected, either—the college and university exhibit will be one of the most complete ever shown in Texas. The exhibit showing the region's recreational advantages will be complete, authentic and fascinating. Seeing it will make you want to depart forthwith on a tour of the Davis mountains, the Guadalupe, Palo Duro canyon, and the Hill country. The great story will be told in paintings, pictures, dioramas, panels, and movies.

The West Texas exhibit building invites the visitor to rest and linger. There are porches all around, plenty of chairs and other comfort facilities, and actually a train puffing up to the rear of the platform on which are old-fashioned lanterns, benches, the hitching posts and drinking troughs for the horses—all the atmosphere of the old-time depot including tobacco-chewing whittlers who tell the world they are "jest a-setting" around waiting for something to happen. Inside, the atmosphere of a robust yesterday persists, and yet makes way for today's bustle of modern things. The waiting room is not only a waiting room; it is an up-to-the-minute theatre where West Texas towns will show their moving pictures. As you walk through the building you will be kept informed of the movie schedule by an old negro porter who will chant at intervals: "We are now showing 'Pitchers of Abilene, Colorado, Wichita Falls, Stamford and Midland.'" Hurrying to the movies you will pass the traditional depot store and cuspider. Looking overhead, you will see suspended from the rafters such West Texas mementoes as branding irons, cotton stalks, longhorns, wool, mohair, grain sorghum heads, watermelons, many fruits and vegetables.

The West Texas chamber of commerce has not forgotten the keynote—hospitality—the traditional West Texas brand which has been sounded around the world. There will be hosts and hostesses in charge all the time to meet and welcome the Centennial visitors and show them around. Each affiliated town, besides having its own day, will have charge of the entire regional exhibit for one day—committees, hosts and everything.

Pangborn To Try Non-Stop Sea Flights

Centennial Exposition Is Sponsor Of Ambitious Air Venture

DALLAS, July 17 (UP)—Clyde Pangborn, the only aviator now living who ever piloted a plane around the world, is perfecting plans for another ambitious flying venture—a flight from Dallas to New York and Paris, and then a non-stop return from Paris to Dallas.

my enthusiasm for the all-West Texas resource exhibit. I had intended giving you only a short preview, a few high-spots of enrancing things you will see. If you are not a West Texan, there is grave danger that you will want to leave your own homeland and move out to West Texas after seeing this great presentation of the resources and development of one of the finest sections of America.

Should the Paris-Dallas flight be successful, it will mark one of the few successful westward trans-Atlantic flights to the United States and will set a new distance record.

Pangborn will be accompanied on the trip by Monty Mason, Los Angeles aircraft manufacturer and designer of the queer-looking red plane known as "The Flying Wing."

Pangborn and Mason, who are flying under the sponsorship of the Texas Centennial exposition and with the financial backing of Roland W. Richards, Los Angeles banker, plan to leave Dallas July 18. After installing a radio compass, they planned to take off from New York for Paris about July 25.

Their plane was christened "Texas Sky Ranger" in recent ceremonies here. Miss Frances Nalle, Bluebonnet girl of the Texas Centennial, christened the plane by breaking a bottle of Trinity river water on its propeller, while Mayor George S. Shiner, Dallas, and numerous Texas celebrities looked on.

As representatives of the Texas Centennial, Pangborn and Mason plan to visit several European capitals, including London, Amsterdam, Madrid and Brussels.

Giving a commercial aspect to the flight, they will carry about 1,500 pounds of mail for the benefit of stamp collectors.

Their plane called "The Flying Wing" from its unique design, was designed especially for distance flying. A single-motored craft, it has virtually no fuselage. It is only 32 feet long, but has a wing-spread of 55 feet six inches. It carries 1,156 gallons of gasoline, has a maximum speed of 245 miles an hour, and is calculated to be able to make 8,200 miles without refueling.

Of the three men who have piloted planes on round-the-world flights, Pangborn is the only one living. Wiley Post was killed when the plane in which he and Will Rogers were traveling crashed in Alaska. Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, the Australian round-the-world flier, was lost while flying over the Indian ocean.

Pangborn flew around the world with Hugh Herndon as his navigator in 1931. His trip met added difficulties when he was arrested in Japan and charged with being a spy. He was acquitted on the 50 charges at the end of a six-day trial.
