Activities Point to Genuine Optimism in Baby Search

LINDBERGH IS BUSILY ASSISTING

No Tangible Word Is Received in Case, It Is Known

HOPEWELL, March 9. (UP)—Tensest expectancy, colored with hope, prevailed here today in the Lindbergh baby kidnapping.

Activities during the past 24 hours pointed to genuine optimism for the return of the child.

Colonel Henry Breckenridge, advisor to Lindbergh, had been engaged in secret missions which led to a new flame of hope, despite the fact that so far as a public announcement is concerned, no tangible word of the baby's whereabouts has been received.

"Progress" was being made toward restoration of the baby. That much is official. The rest is largely rumor.

One rumor, which was unconfirmed but not denied, said the baby would be taken to the Englewood home of his grandmother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, when and if returned.

Lindbergh spent much time this morning on his private telephone, giving rise to speculation that he was engaged in an important phase of the effort to return the baby.

In newspapermen's questions and answers, police officials developed no new developments since the last interview.

The question asking whether Lindbergh or Breckenridge had communication with kidnapers within the last 12 hours received "no answer."

Definite Progress Being Made

HOPEWELL, N. J. March 9.—Definite progress was being made toward returning the kidnaped Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., to the home of his famous parent.

The encouraging word—the first of its kind to come from the hilltop since the child was stolen a week ago tonight—was telephoned to the state police at Trenton in response to a question at the night press conference there.

"What are the latest developments in the police investigation? What are the latest developments in Colonel Lindbergh's private, individual investigation?"

"Progress" was the single word answer made by the telephone by Major Charles Schoeffel of the state police.

Grim Disarmament Poster Banned

A terrified mother and child... a dread aerial bomb about to drop upon them... war planes winging overhead... but this sensational pictorial plea for disarmament has been banned by the French government.

HOUSTON STRONG FOR DEMOCRATIC MAY CONVENTION

PORT WORTH, March 9. (UP)—The democratic state executive committee today decided to designate separate places on the ballot for the three congressmen-at-large and require the nomination by a majority vote.

The decision was backed by the opinion of Secretary Albert Sidney Johnson which was based on a study of federal and state laws. The method will be tested by courts.

Johnson has been assured that a mandamus will be brought in supreme court by one or more prospective candidates wanting a free-for-all race.

The site for the state convention to be held May 24 will be chosen this afternoon. Six of the largest cities are bidding. Houston seemed to have an inside track on the sentiment this morning.

Scharbauer Named Property Trustee

Clarence Scharbauer was named this week as one of the three trustees of the Midland Library association property, succeeding the late C. A. Taylor. It was announced today.

Scharbauer was named by the other trustees, J. M. Caldwell and W. L. Holmesley, in accordance with the law governing such property.

The original trustees of the association, when organized approximately 25 years ago, were J. M. Caldwell, C. A. Taylor and J. E. Taylor. Holmesley was named by Caldwell and C. A. Taylor upon the death of J. E. Taylor, and Scharbauer fills the vacancy created by the demise of C. A. Taylor.

Leather-Throated Gentry In Cast Iron Quartette

First appearance of a new musical organization for Midland will be Thursday noon at the Rotary Luncheon when the seven members of the Rotary Club Cast Iron Quartette will render songs from the Lions song book.

Scout Jamboree To Be in April

According to announcement received from Scout Executive A. C. Williamson, Sweetwater, Buffalo Trail council, scouts will have a two-day scout jamboree Friday and Saturday, April 22-23, in the city park at Big Spring.

Similar to the annual council rally of the past two years, the jamboree will be the biggest event of its kind ever held in the council. Every troop is asked to start preparation now for the occasion.

As outlined, troops will move into camp any time after 4 o'clock Friday afternoon and set up individual camps on sites that will be assigned.

Each troop will provide its own camping equipment, cooking utensils, and food for two meals—supper and breakfast.

Dinner Saturday noon will be furnished free to all scouts and visitors by scout officials and citizens of Big Spring.

An interesting program will be carried out, beginning with a big campfire Friday night. All troops will participate. Saturday will be devoted to competition in various scout events similar to the rally of last year, such as first aid, signaling, water boiling, fire building by friction and by flint and steel, string burning, knot-tying, scout pace, dressing race, tug-of-war, bugling.

Only registered troops and scouts may take part in the competitive events and only scouts who are registered in the council office on April 1 may participate.

Ulmer Addresses Lions Luncheon

A summary of the work of reconstruction in America, in which he linked the organization and purpose of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, was given in an address of M. C. Ulmer before the Lions club at its weekly luncheon today.

An Easter egg committee to arrange the organization's annual hunt reported, Charles Berry is general chairman.

One of the most unique of the group of display now is made of designs of cattle brands from ranches near Midland.

Owners of the quilts include Misses Tom Holcombe, Ida Collier, Felix Stonehocker, Fred Wemple, Frank Haag, Misses Lotta Williams, Billy Shoate, Francis Ferguson and Cordelia Taylor.

Sympathy for Japan Is Lost

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UP)—Japan, always a loyal member of the League of Nations, should realize the dangerous precedent she is creating in regard to the fulfillment of international relations and obligations, Dame Rachael Crowdy, noted league worker and supporter, said here.

"I feel that Japan has gone too far in the present war situation, especially at Shanghai," she said. "But I did have sympathy over the Japanese desire to protect her South Manchurian railroad interests from bandits and over her resentment against the Chinese economic boycott."

"But my sympathies went no farther when the Japanese did more than protect their own legitimate interests. Nothing justified the present destruction of people and property in China proper. The Manchurian situation and the present Shanghai situation are different and distinct. It may be debatable as to who owns Manchuria, but there is no doubt that Shanghai belongs to China."

It is surprising that Japan, always a loyal league member, should not fully realize the dangerous precedent she is creating in regard to the fulfillment of her international obligations. Bombing of Shanghai from the air is like pouring boiling water on an ant hill.

Dame Rachael Crowdy made her observations from first-hand experience, having just returned from a prolonged stay in the Orient. She now is touring the United States, lecturing on her work to aid the league to curb drug and white slavery traffic throughout the world.

Mother Awaits Convicted Son

PORT MADISON, Ia. (UP)—The state penitentiary, here, is built on a hill, rising from the swamp-land that borders the surging Mississippi. In the prison at the top of the hill is Jean Farnell, serving an indeterminate sentence of one year to life.

In a tiny dilapidated shanty on the swamp-land at the foot of the hill is Jean's mother, waiting for her son's release.

Lindy's Plane Warmed Up to Fly for Missing Baby

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who flew the Atlantic to fame and glory, may take the controls of the plane shown above to fly on a more desperate mission than he ever has known before. Always ready to take the air at a moment's notice, the plane is Col. Lindbergh's personal ship and is shown in the small hangar behind his home at Hopewell, N. J. He constantly is on the alert for a message that would put him aloft to fly to the kidnapers of his baby.

Ready for instant delivery and no questions asked, $50,000 in bills of small denominations is held in a Newark, N. J., bank, awaiting word from the kidnapers of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. What does $50,000 look like? Telephone above, posed in New York bank, shows that it is quite a pile of money.

NORTH, EAST TEXAS SUFFERING

Garner Was Flop With His Teacher

PORT WORTH, (UP)—Despite his present fame, John Garner did not make a lasting impression on his schoolmaster.

J. N. Ellis, 83-year-old former schoolmaster, doesn't remember a thing about the lad he taught the three R's to in a two-room school in Red River county, Texas, except that his father was the best paying payor a lawyer to present her son's case to pardon and parole authorities.

"Some day he will be free," said Kate, who stood by her son's side and gray-haired from years. "I can wait. And why shouldn't I? I can wait here for losing hope."

Farnell was convicted on a statutory charge.

Second Calf Born One Month Later

MEXIA, Tex., March 9. (UP)—Central Texas farmers and stockmen are agog over the story of Townsend Longbotham of Wortham, a story which Longbotham insists is true.

On January 16, a cow on the Longbotham stock farm, two miles northwest of Wortham, gave birth to a heifer calf.

West Texas Remains In Clasp of Cold But Sun Shines

DALLAS, March 9. (UP)—North and East Texas today felt the grip of the coldest weather of the season.

Freezing was scheduled to reach the Rio Grande tonight. Fruit growers were preparing to protect their crops.

The Dallas News agricultural department said a survey showed heavy damage to fruit in north and east Texas. In many cases there was complete destruction.

Some temperatures reported this morning were: Dallas 20 degrees, Amarillo 22 degrees, Paris 14 degrees, Palestine 22 degrees, Port Arthur 30 degrees and Del Rio 32 degrees.

Skeletons Found Near Wellington

WELLINGTON, (UP)—Six human skeletons, two of them more than six feet in length, have been unearthed on the Dave Thomas farm 12 miles northeast of here.

H. B. Fowler, who uncovered the bones while working on the grade for the new Denver Northern railway, believes he has discovered an old Indian burial ground. Local physicians, however, say that the high cheek bones and foreheads, characteristic of North American Indians, are missing in the skeletons.

Banker Wears Home Spun Suit

WEATHERFORD, (UP)—G. A. Holland, local banker, is wearing a home-spun wool suit, to show that inexpensive, yet wearable clothing, can be produced at home.

The chairman of the board of Citizens National bank here clipped the wool from his own sheep, had it carded, spun the thread on his heirloom spinning wheel and wove the cloth on the family loom.

He made the cloth at odd moments and had it made into a suit by a local tailor.

Last summer Holland made the cloth for a cotton suit in the same manner and wore it to the Parker county old settlers reunion at which Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma was the chief speaker.

He has received national recognition for his revival of pioneer methods to show the feasibility of home production of clothing. He said the wool suit "cost about the same" as the one made of cotton.

Believe Minister Was Threatened

SHERMAN, March 9.—Parents of Rev. J. A. Lovell, Abilene Baptist pastor, were firm in their conviction that their son's departure from Abilene Saturday was not of his own volition. They expressed the belief some one forced the young evangelist to drive the 1,500 miles which they said his automobile speedometer registered after he left Abilene.

WARNING RECEIVED TOO LATE

Injuries Extend to Five More; Dead Are Mangled

CAMDEN, N. J., March 9. (UP)—Fourteen workmen were killed and five seriously injured today when a fire caused an explosion of powerful gases at the Public Service corporation here.

Officials said the men had recently been taken from the unemployment ranks to fill temporary jobs.

The bodies were badly mangled and could not be identified immediately.

The explosion occurred in a large metal tank suspended 15 feet in the air. It was used in the gas plant for manufacturing acetylene gas.

Workers were cleaning the tank of sediment when the fire started in the corner of the plant. A warning was sounded but all were not able to escape before the terrific blast.

New Cave Found In Ozona Country

OZONA, (UP)—A small cave beneath the caprock 20 miles southwest of here, containing Indian beads, shells and bracelets, has been found by Max Eppler and other employees on the Henderson headquarters ranch.

Nine bracelets, some smooth, others notched, and a few elaborately carved, were found in the recess. One small ring shaped like an egg may have been worn by a child or in the nose of a warrior.

The beads had been crudely formed of rock and quartz. Many tiny beads, such as pattern Indian dress, lay on the floor of the cave. A bone, believed to be from the arm of a man, also was found.

Plane Crash Hero Is Sent to Prison

LONDON, (UP)—During a flight over Iraq, in 1925, a Royal Air Force airplane crashed in flames from 4,000 feet. The pilot was badly burned and the observer, Ridley Stanton, 25, carried him through the desert for two days. The pilot died at a dressing station. Stanton was away for six months in hospital.

In 1932 the same Stanton, 29, climbed over the roofs of several houses near Marble Arch and jumped ten feet from one roof to another, with a 50-foot drop between, to steal ten shillings worth of jewelry. He was bound over to be of good behavior, but normal life becomes dull to a man who must have thrills. Stanton climbed up an elevator shaft at St. John's Wood, crawled along a narrow ledge to a bedroom window and stole a fur coat worth $1,250. He was sentenced to four months.

The dime a-dance girl

BUJOAN CLAYTON

A NATION'S SYMPATHY

Perhaps no parents ever received such universal sympathy as the world is according its most famous young couple today. The Lindbergh baby has been kidnaped. And while the public is always eager to help a lost child find its way home again, somehow this case is different. It is Lindy's baby that is gone this time. And anything that happens to his household is very personal to millions of Americans.

People who applauded enthusiastically when the famous aviator reached Le Bourget on his famous flight to Paris in 1927, are suffering with him now. They aren't thinking of him as a daring explorer of far skies this time. Just as a young father whose little boy has been kidnaped.

They aren't remembering Anne as the fearless girl who matches her husband danger for danger. Quite suddenly she is only a young mother who is afraid that her baby is crying for her.

The world has always given the Lindberghs applause. Now it is giving sympathy. Swift, Warm. Genuine. It has watched for them in dangers many times. Now it is watching with them. The Wall streets and the Main streets and all the other streets that make their criss-cross way up and down the nation echo with voices that wish that they could say some consoling word. Little boys who almost have come to believe that Lindy's adventurous wings are their own, and their fathers and mothers and sisters are hoping desperately and prayerfully that Charles Lindbergh, Jr., will come home soon, unharmed and well.

Every man and woman who has paused outside a nursery door and listened to the soft breathing of a little child understands how frighteningly unreal an empty crib must be. Nurseries are such familiar places. But the world is so strange to a little boy or girl. The trees are so tall. The roads run so far.

Economic conditions and warfare in the streets of Shanghai aren't half as momentous as the fate of a little lost boy. If sympathy and interest and a desire to be of service add courage in a time such as this, Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh have the satisfaction of knowing that the hearts of a whole nation are suffering their sorrow pangs with them.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Ellen Rossiter, beautiful 20-year-old, falls in love with Larry Harrogate, young artist, whom she met at Dreamland where she works as a dance hall hostess. Larry is engaged to Elizabeth Bowes, a debutante. He shows Ellen attentions until Elizabeth returns from Europe.

From a sense of gratitude Ellen agrees to marry Steven Barclay, a kind and wealthy man of 57, who has paid hospital expenses for her brother, Mike, injured in a street accident. Barclay also finds a job for Bert Armstead, Ellen's sister's fiancé. The girl convinces herself that gratitude can take the place of love.

Barclay has been married twice. His first wife died and the second, from whom he was divorced, was Leda Grayson, notorious dancer. He fears that of the divorce may be received when he marries Ellen so they plan to keep the marriage secret.

Ellen and Myra quarrel when Myra refuses to let Barclay pay for her trousseau. She and Bert are to be married the same day as Barclay and Ellen.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI

In one morning and afternoon Myra and Ellen bought everything they had ever dreamed of desiring. And how they loved it!

Steven had opened accounts in all the smart shops. The two excited girls had only to walk into the softly lighted interiors and choose what they liked best of New York's most beautiful offerings. Gowns, shoes, hats and gloves—all the accessories they had never been able to afford, they exclaimed over and bought.

They did not entirely lose their heads. They were too sensible for that. But both discovered that for years they had consoled themselves with a fallacy. It was not true that a beautiful girl could make a cheap frock look expensive. It was true that an expensive frock could make a beautiful girl look more beautiful. Like all girls they revelled in this discovery.

They bought suits first, suits of soft imported tweed. Myra's was a deep brown with cuffs of beaver. Ellen's was Oxford gray with a blue fox collar that stood around her face like an arrogant ruff. There were silk frocks and woolen frocks in brilliant autumn colors. There were quantities of cobwebby lingerie, delicate as mist, and tailored things in heavy crepe. They really splurged in shoes, ordering six pairs each. Handmade shoes, the first either girl had ever owned that exactly fitted the narrow Rossiter heels.

After calls back and forth to the hospital and much consultation they selected the gown Molly was to wear in heavy reding. It was a pale blue chiffon with a brimmed hat to bring out the lake-blue in Molly's eyes. Ellen and Myra were to wear identical frocks—simple, dignified, white frocks bearing the definite and unmistakable stamp of Paris in the glittering Rue de la Paix.

They ate a hurried luncheon on the Avenue. They watched the crowd outside the windows, discussed their purchases and swore they wouldn't change a thing. At three o'clock, exhausted and happy, they wound up the orgy by buying three pairs of gorgeous pajamas—black and gold for Molly, blue for Myra, and peachy satin for Ellen.

"My feet will never be the same again," Myra admitted with a sigh, "but it was worth it."

"It was fun, wasn't it?" Ellen asked, as she turned to give the interested saleswoman the Brooklyn address. She was pleased by the saleswoman's interest even though she knew it was due to the limousine outside waiting for them.

"She thought we were rich," giggled Myra, as they left the shop. "Then you are—I keep forgetting."

"You take the car, Myra," Ellen said, feeling a vague let-down in spirit. "I'll take a cab to the hospital after I've finished that business with the drive there first?" asked Myra.

"Too early. Besides, I want to walk."

"You must be made of iron," Myra laughed.

Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska has in this session of Congress once more demonstrated that he is one of the most enlightened and useful men in American public life today.

First, after many years of struggle, he saw his famous lame duck amendment win a victory. State legislatures presently will be called on to ratify this measure which will make the federal government more responsive to the will of the people.

Secondly, it is becoming evident that he is about to win his anti-injunction fight. If his bill passes, "yellow dog" contracts will no longer be sacrosanct despots in labor controversies.

The author of these two measures has done his country a great service.

USEFUL SENATOR NORRIS

Several years ago the ordinary American citizen, when he thought of affairs in the Irish Free State, more or less took it for granted that Eamonn de Valera was out of the picture. The moderate faction in Irish politics seemed to have the upper hand, and the man who had battled so earnestly for Irish independence was apparently through for good.

And now, suddenly emerging again, Mr. de Valera comes to the top as the next president of the Free State. Evidently it is a hard thing to make a has-been of a man who doesn't know when he is licked. That Mr. de Valera comes in that category is obvious. The Irish, loving a steadfast fighter, have given him at last the highest place that is in their power to give. The world will watch with interest to see what he does with it.

DE VALERA AGAIN

Side Glances By Clark

The chauffeur sprang to the curb to open the door. The boxes were piled inside. Myra stepped into the car, sank back with a sigh of blissful relief and gave the hospital address. The car whirled away. Ellen watched until it was lost in traffic. She had a special reason for wanting to walk, but she did not intend that Myra should know it. She had an absurd and foolish desire to walk past Dreamland again, not to go upstairs but just to stare up at the garish windows. She had the idea that if she did that something would be settled definitely and forever. For days her mind had gone back wistfully to Dreamland until she no longer saw it as it was but dreamed of it as a place of youth and romance. She wanted to dispel that vision.

She walked briskly away from Park avenue. It was still early to go to the law office but it was too hot for briskness and Ellen was genuinely weary. Her steps slowed. Perhaps her impulse was a foolish one.

AMARILLO, TEXAS.—Never has any Panhandle excursion brought such a flood of quick inquiries as the announcement of the second annual goodwill trip, sponsored by Wilbur C. Hawk, general manager of the News-Globe, to Alaska, "Land of the Midnight Sun" from June 1 to 18. The trip last year to Mexico City brought more reservations than could be filled at the last minute. The price for more than 2,000 spots in the western half of the North American continent from the Arctic circle to the Mexican border than those included in this June vacation—after school is out and before the summer harvest.

A large part of the reservations on the Mexico City trip were from prominent people of cities of the Panhandle and this section of the southwest outside of Amarillo and inquires for this trip indicate every Panhandle-Plains city will be represented. Queries have come from as far away as Dallas.

"It means more international publicity for West Texas and neighboring states, and the most ideal vacation ever conceived for that cost and amount of time," Mr. Hawk stated. "It is strictly for pleasure and good will. It will be luxurious and it will live forever in the memory of those who go. It means new friendships and happy, carefree, eventful, thrilling days with old friends but only 200 can be accommodated on the special big ocean-going liner. It isn't like a railroad excursion when you can wait until the last minute—we have to turn in our reservations early in order to hold the big ship exclusively for our party. If you missed your vacation last year, make it up this spring or take this one and forget about next summer's, as you'll never be able to duplicate it," Mr. Hawk advises.

Would You Like to Take Trip to Alaska in June?

The pride of the Canadian Steamship Company's steamers cruising the Alaskan waters which has been chartered for the News-Globe cruise in June. The luxurious steamer is 470 feet long and especially built for the Inland Passage and sight-seeing with every stateroom an outside one. Dancing every night and the usual deck sports will be provided for the cruise.

Sitka, old Russian capital of Alaska, founded in 1799 by the Russian Count Baranof, later destroyed in an Indian massacre and rebuilt by the Russians will be one of the high lights of the News-Globe cruise to Alaska in June. Nearby is Mount Edgcomb the American counterpart of the famous Japanese peak, Fuji-yama. The stop here will be made on June 10.

Through special arrangements with Wilbur C. Hawk, of Amarillo, The Reporter-Telegram is helping to make possible the Alaskan tour.

Midland people, or citizens of this section, who may be interested in securing additional information about the remarkable tour may telephone their names to The Reporter-Telegram. Maps and specific data about the itinerary will be mailed from Amarillo at once.

Complete details of the itinerary of the trip, what to wear, special entertainment, such as dancing and deck games on board ship, sight-seeing tours, Indian dances, museums, dinners at exclusive hotels and clubs will be forwarded by mail from the offices of Wilbur C. Hawk, News Globe, or Mason King, chamber of commerce, Amarillo, upon request.

having her first lesson in the ways of the human heart.

Ellen stopped in a nearby hotel. She walked firmly into the almost deserted writing room, sat down, drew a piece of notepaper and wrote a courteous, pleasant note to Larry. She was too wise to be curt. She told him she was to be married and expected that they would not meet again. In a postscript she included her congratulations on his own engagement.

He should believe that she had known it from the first, had thought of him as he thought of her—as a casual, happy-go-lucky playmate whose ways had parted from her ways.

But she was so feverishly eager for him to receive the note that she stopped in a telegraph office and sent it to his studio by messenger.

WARNING, KITE FLYERS

DALLAS. (UP)—Warning, boys! Don't climb a pole for your kite. Don't use metal in the framework, tail or anchor string.

With the coming of kite weather, the seasonal number of accidents are sifting in.

Already one 11-year-old boy has lost his life at Houston this year by coming in contact with high-powered electric wires. His kite had a metal frame.

Electric service in one section of Dallas was interrupted for a time when a metal kite short-circuited wires carrying 13,000 volts.

Parent-Teachers association officials have joined with Dallas public school authorities in warning pupils against kite hazards.

"Just phone the light company and they will attempt to salvage our kite," is the advice given by power and light officials.

MAD MASS AS QUEER ACRE

By adding two of the above words together you can make one word, and by rearranging the letters of the other three words and adding them together, you can make another word.

She was done with Dreamland. Several times she almost turned back as she kept on. There before her was Dreamland. Surely no place of which to dream! She stopped across the street and stared up at the open windows. She could see a patch of pink wall and one of the gilt columns supporting the ceiling. As she stood there feeling more and more lonely the orchestra began to play. A spangle of tiny notes floated out to the hot street. Ike Dorgan's "Blue Cotton Boys" were rehearsing for the evening. Ellen knew then that she shouting every have come. She had been foolish, foolish to keep a tryst with an empty building.

She hated Dreamland, had hated it from the first. Surely she was not going to weep on the street. Oh, but she was! She looked around blindly for some place to hide herself. Already two or three people were staring curiously. She could not stand there on the street and cry like a fool.

The traffic lights changed. Ellen darted blindly for the opposite sidewalk. She narrowly escaped death beneath the wheels of a taxicab and the driver's enthusiastic curses lingered in her ears as she plunged into the building housing the dance hall. Here in the dark hallway she would find sanctuary.

She ran for the familiar recess beneath the stairs. Before she had reached it the elevator descended, discharging one passenger.

"Ellen Rossiter!" cried a familiar, childish voice.

It was Tony.

"Why are you crying?" Tony asked quickly. "What's wrong?"

"I'm not crying," Ellen denied, her tears streamed down her face. "I think I have something in my eye."

"You mean both eyes, don't you?" the other demanded as Ellen fumbled for her handkerchief.

Ellen, without replying, fished for her pocket mirror and began to dab with her handkerchief for the imaginary object in her eye. Tony had chosen the right means to stiffen the Rossiter pride.

She tried to laugh at herself but could not. Her panic grew. She was

The Pennsylvania Game commission issued a statement that nearly 2,000 deer were killed by accidents in 1931. This indicates that the deer season is almost as dangerous for the deer as for the hunters. A lot of hunters would have you believe they killed the deer on purpose.

Do you remember 'way back when they used to joke about the long droughts? When Brad was sheriff he was down at the train one hot, dusty day when a passenger stuck his head out and asked when it rained last.

"Don't know, I haven't been here but five years," was the law's reply.

Way out west, a cowpuncher told a stranger that they had five-year-old frogs that hadn't learned to swim.

War Waged on Contest Ads

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Forces of the Federal Trade commission and the Post Office department are uniting here today to urge congressional enactment of the bill introduced by Representative David Hogg, Indiana, to imprison and fine concerns and persons using the mails to operate "contest rackets" that profess to offer prizes to winners, but which are primarily intended to secure sucker lists for the sale of goods or services.

Representative Hogg's bill is aimed at the "progressive" types of name, puzzle and prize contests that have been repeatedly condemned by the Federal Trade commission and which were declared by H. J. Blich, publisher of Specialty Salesman magazine, Chicago, to have gleaned millions of dollars from the public last year. The penalty for using the mail, or any medium going through the mail, to promote such schemes is set in the Hogg bill at $1000 fine and two years' imprisonment for each offense.

"Many thousands of unemployed, needy people, and even children are being victimized by these rackets, which invariably try to get contestants to try to sell something or buy something in order to participate in various steps of the progressive prize offers," said Representative Hogg.

William E. Humphrey, chairman of the Federal Trade commission and long the arch-enemy of advertising and trade rackets, said he and other officials of the Federal Trade commission will appear before the Post Office committee of the House and urge its report for passage. He also gave George F. Peabody, managing editor of Specialty Salesman magazine, the following statement: "Owing undoubtedly to the present economic situation, users of puzzle schemes, naming contests, and so called prize offers to stimulate the promotion of their business have ex-

Whooping Cough May Be Dangerous

By MARTHA BREDEMEIER

Among the school year's quota of diseases is that much-dreaded one— whooping cough. Whooping cough may be very dangerous. It causes more deaths than scarlet fever—nearly all the deaths occurring among babies and tiny children under three or four years of age. It is especially hard on delicate children.

Health officials find whooping cough is one of the hardest of the communicable diseases to control. This is because it is highly contagious; because it begins as an ordinary cough; and because it is catching during the week or ten days before it can be recognized by the "whoop." Often children are allowed to play with others when they are known to be sick.

Whooping cough, as has been said, starts like an ordinary cold. The eyes water, there is a dry, hard cough, a running nose, and the patient may develop fever in the course of the next week. This first stage of the disease lasts from 7 to 14 days.

Then the cough becomes more persistent and occurs in "spells." If after one or two weeks, the cough becomes worse, especially at night and vomiting, follows spasms of coughing, one may look for the "whoop," an indrawn gasping breath with a scraping or crowing sound. The second stage, when the sufferer "whoops," lasts from two to three or six weeks or even longer. The coughing in this stage is often extremely exhausting.

The third stage, when the coughing spasms gradually grow less violent and less frequent, may continue for as long as four or five weeks. Parents should do everything possible to protect children from the disease. They should be kept away from playmates who have coughs or colds. They should be taught not to put into their mouths things that others have handled. They should be required to wash their hands with soap and water before meals.

If the child seems to be taking the disease, the doctor should be called. He will advise the proper diet, rest, exercise, and fresh air for the patient. Whooping cough may leave the child run down and subject to other diseases. It is wise to have the doctor give the child a physical examination when he has recovered. Wisest of all are the parents who make every effort to keep their children away from the disease, at least for the first few years.

A Supper Suggestion Spicy sausages and escalloped potatoes go very well together and the flavor of each is improved if they are baked in the same dish. Choose sausages which are practically greaseless and arrange them on top of the baking dish of potatoes. Cook in a moderate temperature oven so the sausages won't become overcooked before the potatoes are done.

Coat to Jacket If you have a fur coat which is worn at the bottom and around the neck, cut it off and make a short collarless jacket for spring.

Racks for Health Little racks in the shape of dolls and animals which hold a face cloth, soap, tooth-brush and paste and a nail file are new and smart for children. Hang them on low hooks in the bathroom and notice how your children's interest in cleanliness and personal hygiene is revived.

Use of Old Sheets Don't throw away old and worn sheets. They make excellent wardrobe closet covers for your evening dresses and for a man's suits.

Uncertain Moments

Al Simmons is accepted in many places as the best all-round performer in present-day baseball, but I wonder just how much better he would appear than Chuck Klein, if both young men were members of the same ball club.

I wonder what causes the likeable young man that is Eddie Morgan to stay away from his training camp and seek publicity as a holdout when according to his friends, he is satisfied with terms offered by the Indians, but just doesn't want to turn in his signed contract.

Gene Venzke ran a mile in 4:10 the other day. Frank Wykoff several times has done the century in 9:25 seconds. By 1932, I wonder if a couple of young men will have accomplished a four-minute-mile and a nine-flat "100."

Art Shires says he has forever closed his mouth. But the fans haven't forgotten how he used to be and I am wondering if they won't ink Art sufficiently that he may break his silence.

You are assured that Jimmy Johnston, the Boy Bandit, is still running the fight shows at Madison Square Garden when the New York Commission pardons Bat Battalino so that he may fight Billy Petrolle.

Boston's New Strong Boy Ernie Schaaf is now recognized as the second best heavyweight fighter in America. I wonder, though, if he isn't actually the best. And am I wrong to assume that Jack Sharkey is beginning to think so, too?

If it's true that male members of a tribe in the heart of Africa can jump seven feet and eight feet high, I wonder why England, France or Belgium doesn't capture and tame one of them in time to enter him in the Olympic games this summer. But would that stop this Spitz boy?

Along the golf grapevine have come rumors that the British Open will not draw American players in large numbers this year because the depression-hit golf clubs of this country are cutting out assistant pros and demanding that the head pros stay at home and attend to business. I'm inclined to wonder, though, if it isn't the slashing of winter tournament prizes and the curtailing of exhibitions that is embarrassing the pros.

Hack Wilson, Max Carey and yours truly are not worrying about the roly-poly West Virginian's come back this year. However, I've encountered several persons who wonder if Hack's failure last year wasn't due as much to the new ball as it was to Hornsby. And they're going to use the new ball again.

This is the time of year when one begins to wonder what these various professional hockey league playoffs are all about.

Jack Dempsey I wonder if it bothers Jack Dempsey half as much as it does some of his admirers to read that he is not even a good hollow-shell any more.

And I wonder if Jack wasn't irked considerably when Warren Brown a Chicago sports editor, stayed away from the Dempsey-Levinsky exhibition because he didn't want to spoil

No Time Now For Big Pipes

THE modern smoker, packing the bowl of his neat briar with big flakes of savory Burley, is the heir of many generations of pipe devotees, each with its own peculiarities. Improvements in the manufacture of special pipe tobaccos have brought about marked changes in pipes since the days when Sir Walter Raleigh and his friends started London by putting out clouds of smoke from the precious leaf discovered in the American Colonies.

Gentlemen of the Elizabethan and Georgian periods could give plenty of time to pipe smoking, so they had ponderous, comfortable pipes that automatically cooled the smoke. Persons who called themselves "Professors of Smoking" flourished in those days, teaching the art of blowing smoke rings and how to load a pipe, for a price. In the bustle of modern life the old-time extravagantly long-stemmed pipes have gone—except in parts of the East where men still take their pleasures and their businesses sedately. There the hookah, or water pipe, still finds favor.

The chief reason, however, for the exit of ponderous pipes is the improvement in manufacturing processes which make it unnecessary for the smoke to pass through a long stem in order to be cool enough for the smoker's comfort.

Some 60 years ago Colonel James N. Wellman, in his little factory in southern Illinois, perfected a process which gave to pipe tobacco a flavor and a mellowness it never had before. His method included the selection of special Burley leaf and cutting it into shaggy flakes which burned slowly and completely to a clean dry ash. They left no soggy "heel" which every confirmed pipe smoker recognizes as one of the signs of inferior tobacco.

His discovery is said to be largely responsible for the present popularity of short-stemmed pipes. Wellman called his tobacco "Rough Cut." Today American pipe smokers use more "Rough Cut" Burley tobacco than any other kind.

Officials of the U. S. L. T. A. are wondering how long Henri Cochet will continue to rule the amateur tennis world, and when, if ever, the United States racketeers will break through to restore the Davis cup to this country.

Football rule changes first made the game fun for the spectators and now fun for the players. The next move, apparently, will fix it so a coach can't be fired at the end of a losing season.

Three's a Crowd The Cleveland Indians, the Toledo Mudhens and the New Orleans Pelicans are doing their spring training in Heinemann Park, New Orleans. I wonder if they find it a bit crowded there.

As the 1700 in the Chinese Students Alliance, working with the Chinese Students League of Greater New York, continue to drive for funds, "flying squadrons" are going from city to city to advance the cause of China. Mr. Woo says 95 per cent of the money is being collected from merchants. The Chinese Benevolent association in different cities is cooperating.

The total fund will probably be doubled. China is buying planes directly from America. But Chinese here are going to furnish all possible pilots. The On Leong tong is training 234 flyers in Chicago. More are being trained at Roosevelt field here, and still more in California.

It's all for ancient China—of the peace-loving, docile people. For back in the mind of every American Chinaman is the hope that he can go back "home" to die, and sleep under the peach blossoms.

Texas Politics to Be Heated—Ruggins HOUSTON, (UP)—Chairman W. O. Huggins of the state democratic executive committee believes the prelude to one of the most heated political campaigns in Texas history will be played when t/s committee meets March 9 in Fort Worth.

"I sincerely believe," said Huggins, editor of the Houston Chronicle and a veteran political observer, "that the coming state and national campaigns will be without parallel, insofar as color and ballyhoo are concerned."

"I must confess that the entry of the Ferguson into the Texas gubernatorial campaign, and that of Al Smith into the presidential campaign, prompts me to make this observation."

The principal purpose of the executive committee meeting, Huggins said, will be to choose the state convention site. Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Austin, and San Antonio are bidding for the convention. Huggins said the claims of each will be viewed impartially.

Discussion of whether or not the congressman-at-large races shall be engaged the committee members at Fort Worth. In this connection Huggins indicated the committee will not act to certify candidates' names for numbered positions on the ballots.

In a letter to the chairman, F. O. Fuller, of Houston, former speaker of the Texas house of representatives, announced his candidacy for congressman-at-large and applied for position No. 1 on the ballot. If his application is rejected, Fuller's letter said, he intends to apply to the state supreme court for a writ of mandamus commanding the executive committee to so place his name on the official ballot.

UNAPPRECIATIVE STOCKTON, Cal.—A pathetic tale of a wife's devotion to her blind husband was told in a divorce suit filed here by the wife, Julia Elizarraras. She charged that her husband, Panfilo Elizarraras, had deserted her in Mexico in 1909 and that she had not heard from him until he wrote her in 1918, saying he was blind and destitute. She came to the United States and took in washings to support him. Lately, she said, he became mean and threw her out of the house she had purchased.

CHINESE IN U. S. WORK TO ASSIST THOSE AT HOME

NEW YORK.—With a fervor that Americans will understand who look back to 1917, the 70,000 Chinese in America are backing up the war in the homeland.

Already $5,000,000 has been raised and sent to China. New York's 25,000 Chinese alone have contributed $1,000,000. In San Francisco, Chicago, and other American cities, the same thing is happening.

A grotesque dragon dances awkwardly through America's Chinatowns. The clang and clatter of a Chinese band. Dainty little slant-eyed girls selling peach blossoms. All for China. Sacrifice and more sacrifice. Live in cheaper places, eat less, save more, give and give so long as you can live. Raise money—for China.

And when the dragon dances, it means that American Chinese are staking all on success in the "war" with the Japanese.

Make or Break They believe this: That the "war" will make or break China. If she wins she will be united as never before. Factional groups will be swept aside in the onward march of a unified nation. The threat of communism will be stopped. But if she loses—chaos!

SLAVERY STILL FLOURISHES IN OLD ABYSSINIA AND IS THRIVING TRADE

LONDON.—With the freedom of 2,000,000 Abyssinian slaves as their goal, the British Anti-Slavery society is in the midst of a new campaign to rid the world of human bondage.

Abyssinia, picturesque relic of the civilization of 5,000 years ago, is the point of their principal present campaign.

There are 2,000,000 slaves in Abyssinia, despite the proclamation of the Ras Tafari outlawing the owning of human lives.

Slaves are bought and sold in the streets of Addis Ababa, the capital, and many more are smuggled across the Red Sea for the still thriving slave traffic with the Arabs.

Of the four principal slave nations, Abyssinia is the only one to make even a start for better things. China, Arabia and Liberia have done little to end slavery, despite protests from the League of Nations and most of its signatory powers, the British society says.

That fact is the principal reason why Abyssinia was chosen as the spot for their first great campaign against an institution which has persisted since the dawn of civilization.

Ras Tafari, the Abyssinian ruler, is undoubtedly trying to rid his nation of its 2,000,000 slaves, but there are many obstacles in his path.

Abyssinia is half-way between feudalism and barbarism. Many of the chiefs, while recognizing the authority of the king, maintain their own small armies and hold the power of life and death over all their subjects. Many of their soldiers are slaves, and to free them would greatly weaken their owners' power.

Some of the most powerful chiefs own as many as 15,000 slaves. To free them at one stroke would practically bankrupt the slave owners.

One strange angle is that the price of slaves is still constantly going up, despite the depression and the fear that slavery will be abolished.

Another difficulty is the fact that slaves are still smuggled into Abyssinia by traders who buy them in the British-controlled territory west of Ras Tafari's kingdom.

Protests made to the British government, it is hoped, will result in the stamping out of this practice in the near future.

Other nations where slavery still exists do not present so promising a prospect.

In Arabia, chieftains point out that they have always had slaves, and they see no reason why the "unbelievers" from Africa should not serve them.

Their slaves are often treated with the most extreme cruelty.

Their slave boats will scurry across the Red Sea, returning with a cargo of slaves to be sold in towns in the interior.

Another and more adroit method is used to bring slaves into Arabia. The blacks are embarked as pilgrims for Mecca.

They never return from these pilgrimages. Finding themselves without money, many are content to serve for their food and clothing. Others are seized forcibly and sold into bondage.

Liberia affords a picture of strange contrast, matched nowhere else on the globe.

Founded originally as a haven for freed slaves from the United States, the negro republic has become one of the leading slave nations of the world.

A thin fringe of civilization on the Atlantic coast is backed by a vast area of semi-savagery and cannibalism. Many of the government officials are accused of slave trading by the League of Nations' investigating body.

With a population of more than 2,000,000, Liberia has less than 100,000 persons who can be called civilized by even the widest stretch of the imagination.

Slavery in China consists chiefly of the selling of young girls for a stipulated number of years by their parents. Slaves there are estimated to number 2,000,000. The number is decreasing slowly.

Conoco Hour Tells Of Mormon's Trek

An enthralling thumb-nail sketch of the history of Utah and the epic argosy of the Mormons to their "Promised Land" as well as a vivid description of the scenic beauty of which Salt Lake is the center, feature Carveth Wells' fifteenth broadcast Sunday, March 13, in his series "Exploring America with Conoco and Carveth Wells." The radio feature is broadcast over the NBC network at 10 a. m. CST each Sunday, sponsored by the Continental Oil company.

Wells tells graphically of the terrible journey of the Mormon caravan, fleeing religious prosecution, and their settlement at Salt Lake City. From that lovely city, he points out that today the motor tourist may have access by fine highways, to an almost innumerable list of scenic wonders, national parks, and famous mountain attractions.

Bathing in Salt Lake, where one cannot sink, and a visit to the famous Mormon temple and the tabernacle, then a hop to Ogden and Ogden Canyon, start the imaginary motor trip. Then Wells takes his hearers to Logan canyon, and Bear Lake; back to Salt Lake with flying visits to Emigration canyon, Alpine scenic highway, Mount Timpanogos, and Provo canyon, "Utah's Yosemite." At Jensen, a marvelous cemetery full of remains of extinct prehistoric reptiles, with snow-capped peaks always in sight, are among the attractions. Later a second broadcast on other sections of Utah will be given by Wells on the Conoco program.

The Wells state tours broadcast each Sunday at 10 a. m. C. S. T. may be heard over the following stations: WBAP Fort Worth; WOAI San Antonio; KOA Denver.

Nancy Carroll Is Starring at Ritz

The flair for vivacity and emotional spirit which Nancy Carroll first portrayed for the delectation of film fans of the nation in "Abie's Irish Rose" is again one of the foremost qualities of her performance in "Wayward," the Paramount picture which comes to the Ritz theatre today and Thursday.

The fire and flash of "The Dance of Life" — the romantic fervor of "Stolen Heaven" and "Devil's Holiday" are all brought into a symphonic union of stirring dramatics for her characterization of the lovely and well-loved wife of Richard Arden in this latest picture, co-starring Pauline Frederick.

And a further gesture of remembrance for her distinguished beginning in the talking picture world! She sings a new song—"What's the Difference?" by John W. Green and Edward Heyman. The song provides one of the high spots in this engrossing film entertainment.

Smart Set in Grand Picture

Twelve "location" sets involving thousands of extras; thirteen lavish interior sets with a score of thrilling exterior films in duplicates of Longchamps, Belmont Park and Agua Caliente race tracks provide the colorful background for RKO-Radio Pictures' "Men of Chance" now at the Grand theatre.

The interiors include a modern court room, modernistic Paris apartments, swanky hotel suites, private offices, bars, steamer cabins and decks. The exteriors reflect Paris night life, the Montmartre, cafes, Trocadero and De La Paix, and other points of interest.

A film cameraman secured special "shots" of the famous Longchamps, Deauville, Daytona Beach, Agua Caliente, and Belmont Park races.

Appearing in the two principal roles are Mary Astor and Ricardo Cortez, supported by Ralph Ince, John Halliday, Kitty Kelly, and others.

Many Delegates Among Cattlemen

EL PASO, (UP).—Reservations for hotel rooms for the fifty-sixth annual convention of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association here March 15-17, today gave assurance of a large number of delegates.

Reduced railroad rates have been granted from all points in the association's territory—Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri.

The El Paso chamber of commerce will start the extensive program of entertainment by honoring officers and members of the executive committee with a pre-convention banquet Monday night, March 14.

The first morning's program will be featured by an address by Gov. Ross Sterling. Addresses of welcome will be delivered by Mayor R. E. Sherman and W. W. Turney, El Paso cattleman. Cole E. Stevenson of Junction will respond to the welcome.

Among those extended invitations to attend the convention were: James C. Stone, Washington, D. C., chairman of the federal farm board; Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago banker and mentioned as a presidential possibility; Col. Roberto F. Chiquero, governor of the state of Chiapas, Mexico; Francisco S. Elias, secretary of agriculture of Mexico; Gov. W. P. Hunt, of Arizona, and Gov. Arthur Seligman of New Mexico.

Congressman R. E. Kleberg, former president of the association, is scheduled to be one of the speakers on the closing day.

M. West of Houston, association president, will preside. Other officers include: Dolph Briscoe, Uvalde, first vice president; W. T. Coble, Amarillo, second vice president; W. E. Connell, Fort Worth, treasurer; E. B. Spiller, Fort Worth, secretary-general manager; Tad Moses, Fort Worth, assistant secretary and Dayton Moses, Fort Worth, attorney.

At about the same time Secretary Spiller at Fort Worth announced the tentative program for the convention, the following tidings were received here from Juarez, across the border:

"Fourteen ounce schooners of beer and free lunch for a nickel is the latest in Juarez's fight to end depression."

Chang Closes Peiping Haunts

PEIPING, (UP).—Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, once a patron of night clubs here, which were a popular feature during the past year, has ended their existence.

The mayor appointed by Marshal Chang cancelled the licenses of 50 cabarets. Thousands of students and junior officers are disappointed. They had gone to these places night after night, learning the western style dances from Chinese girls imported from Shanghai and other cities.

Peiping's own "sing-song" girls are in sad a plight as the dance girls. These girls were hard hit when the capital was moved from Peiping to Nanking in 1928. Then the western dance craze came along. Most of the sing-song girls learned the dance, and joined the night clubs. They were prosperous again. Chinese girls, as well as Chinese men, wanted to learn the cabarets.

The mayor of Peiping did not approve of cabarets from the beginning. He wanted to abolish them. Finally, Marshal Chang decided the cabarets might encourage disorder. The atmosphere of Peiping was panchick. So the order went out to close them.

Two Whipping Posts in State

WILMINGTON, Del.—Delaware is a state with two whipping posts, one in New Castle county, the northernmost of her three counties, and one in Sussex county, the southernmost county.

And the folks down in Sussex want see those whippings, and see them badly. The most recent whipping in Sussex was witnessed by 2,000 men and women, who were afraid at first Sheriff Lorenzo Brittingham would deny them their rights.

The affair took place in Georgetown, the county seat, and five negroes were lashed for chicken theft. It had first been decided to stretch a canvas about the post so that the crowd would not have a chance to see the lashings, or take photographs. When this became known, the crowds gathered quickly and Sheriff Brittingham was informed his plans were in violation of the Revised Code of Delaware. Sheriff Brittingham went into conference with his aides and submitted to the crowd.

The five prisoners were conducted into the prison yard and lashed while the crowd looked on silently. Some of the spectators were women with babies in their arms.

This was the first whipping in Sussex county since 1906, when the Sussex county jail was abolished and all prisoners sent to the New Castle county workhouse.

Einstein's Theory Applied by Machine
BERLIN, (UP).—Einstein's relativity theory has been applied in theory for the first time.

A Berlin physicist, E. Rupp, has invented an apparatus for measuring ultra-high voltages, employing a mathematical formula taken from Einstein's system.

The apparatus was first designed to test a theory of the noted French physicist, de Broglie, on the so-called "corporeal waves." De Broglie, who was awarded the Nobel prize some years ago, has found that the smallest particles of matter, for instance electrons, act like waves, their behavior being similar to light and X-ray waves. Electrons moving freely showed all properties of oscillating movement, such as the phenomenon called "interference." The significance of this theory in modern physics is an extraordinary one.

Rupp constructed a device for studying the behavior of freely-moving electrons. He let electrons fly at enormous speed through electrically charged space and then pass through a very thin gold leaf. The gold leaf diverted the electrons, thus showing that they really moved like waves. As a consequence of diversion, dark rings appeared on a photographic plate placed behind the gold leaf, making it possible to calculate the wave-length of the electrons. The experiment fully confirmed de Broglie's hypothesis, showing that his equations of the corporeal waves were right.

Einstein evolved a formula for the increase of mass due to the infusion of energy as early as in 1905. This formula enabled Rupp to define a correlation between the volume of the space through which electrons are passing and the wave-length of the electrons.

Increased Advertising Fights Depression!

Read this extract from the financial page of the DALLAS NEWS:

Although sales of Coca-Cola showed a shrinkage last year from the previous year's figures, net profits advanced by about $500,000, as compared with 1930, due chiefly to a reduction in general operating expenses.

It is significant to point out that advertising expenses for the year showed an appreciable gain, whereas all other expense items, such as freight, allowances, branch, administrative and general outlay, were about 5 per cent lower than in 1930.

Advertising is the main artery in the life of selling. Other expenses may be cut advantageously, but when the advertising budget is cut or eliminated, the entire system of selling is weakened—often beyond recovery.
