Italian Spokesman Criticizes League Plan to Adjourn

CAN RECONVENE ON SHORT NOTICE BY NOT CLOSING

To Wait a Fortnight Before Starting Hostilities

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Baron Pompeo Aloisi, spokesman for the Italian delegation at the League of Nations, today protested the League's plan merely to adjourn assembly instead of closing it. A simple adjournment means that it can be reconvened at a moment's notice.

The Italian spokesman said that Italy would wait 10 days to two weeks before acting and allayed fears that the close of the rainy season, believed ended today, would bring an immediate commencement of hostilities.

The League council decided in principle to accept Selassie's request for a commission of neutral observers to watch over Ethiopia's borders.

The Emperor suggested that such a commission would be able to determine impartially which nation was the aggressor.

British quarters discussed the possibility of another cabinet meeting to discuss the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

French officials said that Britain and France were negotiating a mutual assistance agreement to cope with any European war threat.

IN PRISON SINCE 1914, CONVICT TO BE GIVEN FREEDOM

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 27.—Freedom was assured Thursday for the second oldest convict in point of service in McAlester penitentiary, a man sentenced to life imprisonment in 1914 for shooting to death a woman who was his wife.

C. E. Doss, 54, was paroled by Gov. E. W. Marland in answer to pleas of Doss' oldest son, who has written hundreds of letters to Oklahoma Governors in the last twenty-one years in an effort to gain her son's release for a ninety-day leave of absence was under consideration by Gov. W. J. Holloway. The application was turned down when V. Cunniff, chief of the prison, telegraphed a protest from Dallas.

Doss, a railroad clerk, was accused of slipping at night out of the office where he worked at El Reno, creeping to a window of his home and slaying his wife.

The next day he was arrested, was convicted and rushed to prison on a life sentence when mob action became serious.

"When I came down here the convicts were wearing stripes and balls and chains," Doss said. "You can't imagine the hell I went through until modern times brought a change in treatment of prisoners."

Governor Marland, who took a personal interest in Doss' case, said his prison record is clean. The only man who has been in the prison longer than Doss is Conrad Maas, made an artist of Prussia, who was convicted in 1899 of fatally beating his wife.

With the new highway to the meeting place in good shape, and a well arranged and balanced program of technical papers and pleasure events arranged, geologists are being urged to attend the meeting.

Oklahoma Boy Dies 2 Hours After Accident

Willard Spears, approximately 23, of Salisaw, Okla., was killed last night on the highway west of Midland, near the airport when, about 11:30, he walked in front of an approaching car.

Spears, with two friends, were stopped on the highway with car trouble and he stepped around from in front of his car directly in front of one being driven by G. N. Taylor, Odessa youth. According to reports, Taylor had no chance to miss the youth and his body was flung off the road by the impact of the car.

Taylor was accompanied by two boys and three girls, all of Odessa, and they were returning to that place after visiting here last evening. Immediately after the accident they picked up the battered body of the youth and brought him to a Midland hospital, where he died about two hours later.

Officers, called to the scene of the accident, exonerated Taylor of any blame and expressed an opinion that the accident was unavoidable.

Spears, a commercial artist, was on his way to the San Diego Exposition in company with two friends.

Funeral arrangements have not been made pending word from relatives of the deceased youth.

Lower Age Limit for CCC Applicants to 17

AUSTIN.—Minimum age limit for CCC enrollees has been lowered from 18 to 17, State Enrollment Supervisor Neal E. Guy announced recently.

The ruling will apply for the October enrollment, when every eligible person in the state is expected to be given a chance to enlist in the CCC.

Enrollment will be open for all unmarried men between 17 and 28 whose families are on relief rolls. The dates are inclusive, and a person who has passed his seventeenth birthday is eligible, as is one who has not reached his twenty-ninth.

Mandatory discharges have been discontinued, and enrollees may stay in camps indefinitely. Also, persons honorably discharged may re-enlist, provided their previous service was not less than four months. Eligible enrollees, however, without regard to length of previous service.

Guy advised persons in the lower-age brackets, particularly the 17-year-olds who are in school, to continue their schooling as long as possible, with the hope of enlisting later. For those who cannot continue in school, the CCC conducts an educational program in each camp, he pointed out.

Engraved at the bottom was an inscription in which the Midland Rotary club expressed appreciation for Sadler's mission in life, the production and presentation of "cleaner entertainment."

Sadler, deeply impressed by the act, said it was the first time in his seventeen years on the stage that he had been given such public recognition. He quickly turned a speech of thanks into his famed witty repartee and brought forth repeated laughs and applause from the audience.

The Cardinals took a two-run lead in the first inning but were unable to hold on to it. The Cubs tied up the score in the third and increased their score with one tally each in the fourth, seventh, eighth and ninth.

The win was the 21st in succession for the Cubs and climaxed one of the greatest win streaks known in modern baseball.

OPERATORS AGREE TO THE DEMANDS OF MINERS; COAL STRIKE AGREEMENT MADE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27, (U.P.)—An agreement to end the nation-wide soft coal strike next Tuesday, October 1, was reached early today between producers and miners, and union spokesmen announced their men would march back to work on that date.

The agreement, providing for various wage increases, was reached by the Appalachian wage committee after four days of almost constant negotiations.

The new contract is to extend 18 months, until April 1, 1937.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, was jubilant over the agreement, announcing to newspapers that the men would go back Tuesday and adding, "We got everything we asked for."

McGrady, assistant secretary of labor and President Roosevelt's emissary in the wage negotiations, hurried to the White House at dinner hour last night to report that the Appalachian producers had agreed to the United Mine Workers' demands for a nine cent a ton increase in the pay for miners who dig and load coal, a 50 cent increase in the pay of day men, and a 10 per cent increase for yardage and deadwork.

When the strike was called Sunday midnight, the operators had offered to increase the tonnage 7 1/2 cents and to meet the miners' other wage demands.

Representatives of operators in the Virginia and Hazard, Kentucky, districts refused to sign the agreement boosting miners' wages until assured that owners in the Tennessee and Harlan, Kentucky, fields would sign.

CRITICISM OF ALBERTA PLAN DOES NOT SOLVE PROBLEM

It is easy enough to shoot a lot of holes in that plan which is about to be tried out in the province of Alberta, whereby every citizen is to draw down $25 a month from the government just for being alive.

What isn't so easy is to find an answer to the problem which brought this scheme into being.

The $25-a-month plan sounds like something that might have been thought up by a bright lad in the fifth grade. It is so deceptively simple, so completely and perfectly logical—on the surface.

Farmers, laborers and business men have been having hard times lately because trade has been slow. Trade has been slow because people haven't been buying things. People haven't been buying things because they haven't had enough money.

Why haven't they had enough money? Well, it seems to have been rather scarce. And where does money come from? Why, it is issued by the government. What, then, could be simpler than to settle everything by having the government dish out a handful of it every month to everybody in sight? Then everybody will have plenty, things will be bought once more, and all hands will be happy.

It's all sweetly reasonable and logical—until you take into consideration the fact that money which is ground out at that rate soon becomes as worthless as a marshmallow which fell off the toasting fork into the coals.

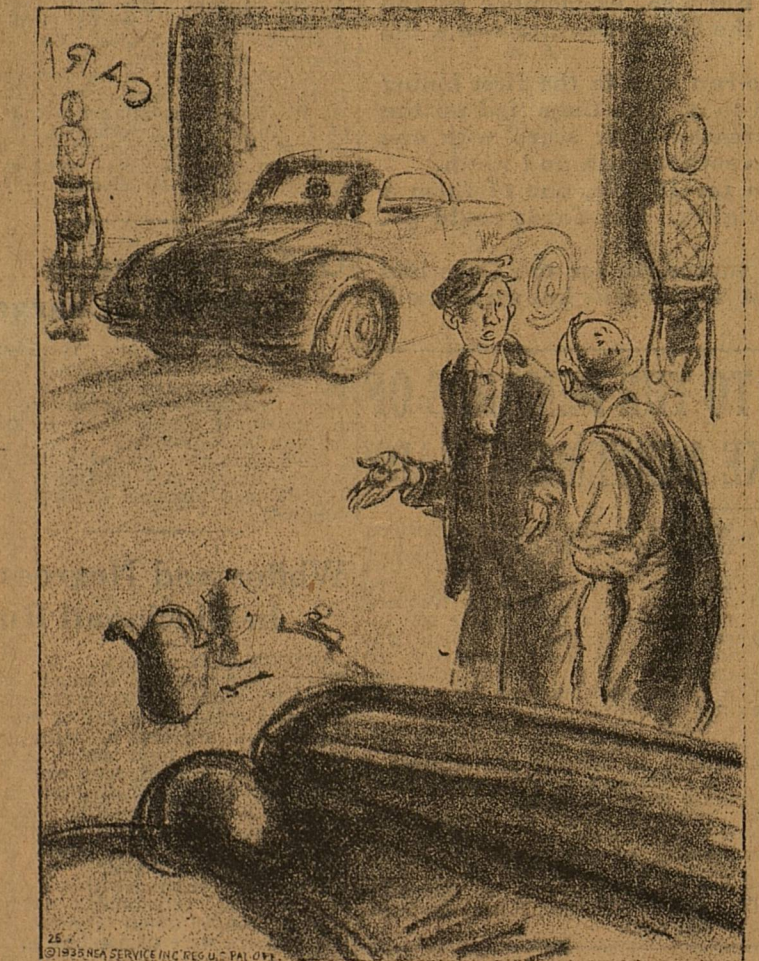

But although it is ridiculously easy to tell just why and how the scheme won't work, it isn't anywhere nearly as easy to say what should be done about the difficulty which this scheme was devised to meet.

Back of it all there is a widespread feeling that the only thing which ails us today is some defect in our circulating medium. We can raise enough food to provide three bountiful meals a day for everybody in the land. We can build enough houses to give everyone a comfortable home. We can make enough autos, radios, refrigerators, chairs, washing machines, cigaret lighters and clothespins to equip every mortal in more luxury and comfort than kings and queens enjoyed two generations ago. We have the plant to do all of these things, we have the workers, the skill and the energy.

And yet we have millions of people going without these comforts because they can't pay for them. Millions of people going jobless because these things aren't being sold.

It is all very well to deride the Alberta plan. But dizzier schemes than that will be taking hold before long if we don't find some way of unlocking the doors of plenty. No man yet was ever content to starve in the middle of a granary.

Rogers' Relatives Learn Of America's Conception Of Him

OLOGAH, Okla. (P)—The Herb McSpadden, who lives on the old Rogers ranch near here, where Will Rogers was born and spent his childhood, have learned two things about the American public's conception of the late humorist.

One is that anything owned or that was connected with him is considered public property.

The other is that Rogers' admirers had their own ideas about his life at the ranch and it is a waste of breath to tell them otherwise.

McSpadden is a nephew of the late humorist and lives with his wife and three sons in the ranch house and manages the ranch. They attempt to live the private life of an ordinary Rogers county ranch family—but all they can do is try.

Far as the ranch house is from the pavement and as obscure as the road is, hundreds of admirers of Rogers and the curious find their way to the ranch. To reach the ranch one must leave the highway and travel four miles over a rough dirt road. There are no markers, but that doesn't deter the curious—and neither do markers "not open to the public" turn them back.

Sightseers come at all times of the day. Many of them do not knock, they just open the front door of the big white ranch house and walk in.

"Many are the times I've come downstairs to find people I had never seen before walking around the house, looking it over," Mrs. McSpadden said.

"They all want to see the room where Will was born in, so I show them that first," she said. "Then I always explain to them that none of the furniture was Will's, that all of the furniture that was here when he lived here is gone. Then, when we walk into a bedroom they'll say, 'Oh, that's Will Rogers' bed, isn't it?'"

Then, too, some of the curious yield to an impulse to take something along as a memento of the trip. The chief loss has been stones in the yard. Several of the irons used in putting the Rogers brand on cattle have disappeared. Nothing of importance, however, has been missed from the house.

The McSpaddens accept it all philosophically. After all, their beloved Will did belong to the public, they reason, and all comers—they come from all over the nation—are given a gracious reception.

The McSpaddens are non-committal on the proposal to make a shrine of the ranch house in memory of the noted humorist who was killed in a plane crash in Alaska.

FEMININE FANCIES

BY KATHLEEN EILAND

It seems that a snowball is not the only thing that grows when it gets started rolling. Take the Midland Fair, for instance. Original plans for stable room have been increased, and now we learn the Fair itself is to be lengthened from a five-day to an eight-day event.

Even neighboring towns which are often reluctant to display admiration for Midland do realize the ability of the citizenry to do what they want to do.

We heard a citizen of such a town last night urging a visitor from East Texas to stay over and attend the Fair.

"They put things over up there," he said in explaining why the Fair would be worth seeing.

By and large, we think Midland does put things over well and that is one of the qualities which make her citizens proud of the town.

Stars seem to be falling on West Texas fashions these days. At least we saw an attractive black dress recently which featured stars of brilliant on its collar and on the black belt. An unusual touch and one we

The hostess, who is leaving Midland to make her home at Tyler, was presented with a gift from the club.

In addition to the guests, the following club members were present: Mmes. O. C. Harper, John Cornwall, E. W. Hamilton, Thelma Jackson, Bert Hemphill, Harris E. Eastham, Jr., Myrtle Paterson, Conger, Geo. Abell, and the hostess.

Why take Chances with Eyes? Eyes are Priceless! Guard them with improved Lighting.....

Modern civilization has made exacting demands of human eyes. Visual tasks have increased many fold and weakened eyes, headaches and sometimes impaired health are the penalties for using our eyes under a poor light.

But Science has shown that it isn't necessary to take chances with our eyesight. All we need is better lighting to give our eyes a chance to see without unnecessary strain. This is especially true of children who study or read, for young eyes can be injured permanently by reading in a dim light.

A new type of lamp has been developed, scientifically designed to provide the right amount of glareless light for reading or studying. See these Better Sight lamps in our store, in floor lamp, table lamp or lounge lamp styles.

BULLDOGS FAVORED TO DEFEAT BADGERS FOR SECOND VICTORY

PLAYER WEIGHTS GIVE HOME TEAM EDGE ON VISITORS

Max Struggles to Rise After Slaughter

With a seven pound advantage per man the Midland Bulldogs will enter the game tonight at eight o'clock with the McCamey Badgers a favorite to win by anywhere from one to three touchdowns.

The Bulldogs have suffered from a bad case of super confidence all week and have not responded to coaching orders as they should but nevertheless, should be able to defeat the visitors if they make up their minds to bear down and put out the best that is in them.

With an eight and a half pound advantage in the line and a six pound advantage in the backfield, plus more experienced players on the team it would not be surprising to see the locals win by three touchdowns or more but, not if they play like they have in practice sessions.

The McCamey team lost a 13-0 game to Pecos last week but the Pecos scores were made on one long run and a long pass. The Pecos players had trouble all during the game going through the green McCamey line led by A. Green, tackle.

While Buffington, blocking half, still suffering from lime burnis sustained in the game last week it is doubtful if he will start the game tonight but if not his place will be taken by B. Reid, another man out for the team for the first time. No weight advantage will be lost as both weigh-in at 145.

Admission price for the game will be 50 cents.

Beaten helpless by a hurricane of blows from the darting, punishing fists of Joe Louis, Max Baer here struggled to rise from one knee with the helping hand of Referee Arthur Donovan after the fatal ten had been tolled in the fourth round. A volley of lefts and then a crashing right had finished the California larper. Utter exhaustion was stamped on the bleeding face of the playboy as he gazed through a fog while 90,000 spectators made Yankee Stadium ring with their cheers for the victor.

Blondes Preferred For Stage Heroines

Harley Sadler Says

It's true. Blondes are preferred—at least for heroines of stage plays. That is what Harley Sadler, premier theatre man of Texas, says of the preference of the crowds that fill his big tent and, from years of experience, Mr. Sadler should know whereof he speaks.

Youngsters like cowboy types for heroes and his audiences in general prefer the less sophisticated types of drama.

Mr. Sadler uses Zane Grey Westerns as well as comedy of present day conditions. He does not use any sex problem plays or any heavy drama. Neither does he use sophisticated vehicles as his shows are frankly an appeal to Mr. Average Citizen.

His favorite type of play combines a moral with comedy. Disclaiming any intent of being a crusader, he seeks to put before the crowds which see his plays the kind of entertainment that will appeal to the entire family and win his groups a welcome on their return engagements.

He has been accused of underrating the appreciation of his audiences. But often, he has learned, the very persons who would be expected to like more sophisticated plays express themselves as liking the purely entertaining features better.

For instance, he once asked President Benedict of the University of Texas which play he had liked best. During the time the Harley Sadler show had played at Austin, a number of new plays had been given of which the proprietor was proud. But when the head of Texas' biggest institution of learning, who had hardly missed a performance, expressed his preference he said, "I believe I liked 'Toby and the Run Runners' best." The play was sheer entertainment, with no pretense to other merit.

The life of an actor does not consist altogether of taking curtain calls and receiving the plaudits of an admiring crowd.

Mr. Sadler, who does his own directing, said that 15 or 20 new shows are presented each year. Moreover, each new play is ordinarily presented after only four rehearsals, sometimes after only three.

The toil of learning the parts to be played is carried on by each actor in his own characteristic way. Some, like Mrs. Sadler, write down the cues of their speeches. Mr. Sadler himself uses the photographic method, visualizing the position of each person on the page of the script. He does not sit down and con over each role but absorbs the part, so to speak.

The lure of footlights and grease paint still holds in this age of radio and talking films. When asked if he had many applications for work from stagestruck boys and girls, he replied laconically, "Dozens of them—by letter and personally."

During the few days that his show has been in Midland he has received several applications from would-be actors.

No definite plan for achieving success or even for breaking into the profession of acting can be set, when the needs are as indefinite as something, the personality of the actor, which determines the success of his playing. Other things of course are necessary, as acting ability, knowledge of stage technique, and persistence.

In line with this idea that the personality of the actor is of chief importance, is Mr. Sadler's theory of letting the individual actor put his own interpretation upon his role as much as practicable.

Probably he will give a general description of the character to be portrayed by each actor along with references to other roles to which it is similar. But further than that, he likes for the player to assume his own individual conception of the part.

The way to a career in acting is a "tough road", he explained, particularly now that there are so few stock companies and no vaudeville except revues. The coming of the talking films brought depression to traveling theatres such as his, even before other businesses were affected by the slump.

Despite the troubles which beset the beginning actor, Mr. Sadler tries not to discourage those who really want to enter the profession.

"There is something in life we can all do to make a living at and be happy," he said.

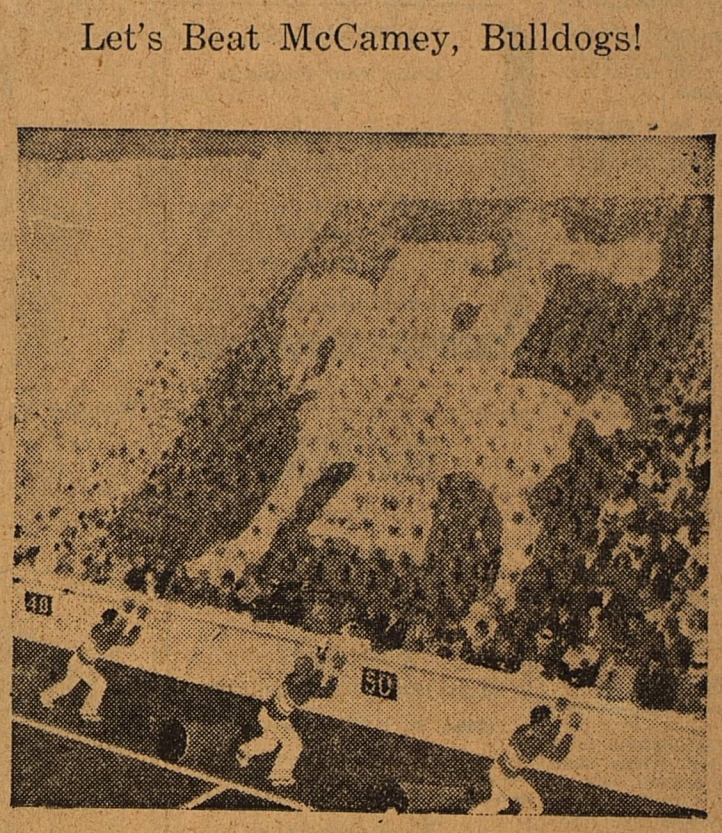

There are about 40 people now traveling with his show, and the group displays the same characteristics that would be expected of any similar group working together, he said. There is the same blending of good and bad, the same foibles common to all humanity. Life and death and birth and love and toll go on among the actors as relentlessly and inevitably as in the lives of the audience.

The mother of two of the child actors was buried a few weeks ago on the North Plains. There is a baby only a few weeks old in the group. There are several children of school age or younger.

What is the code of business of this veteran manager of a tent theatre who successfully plays big and little towns in Texas year after year?

It can be summed up in one sentence—"I believe clean entertainment will eventually win."

Keeping his shows clean and of a quality to appeal to families, to schools and to churches and civic organizations, he believes, is good business. He seeks to keep his plays on this level, not only because good business dictates it, but also because, as he says quite simply, "I believe in it."

"ALL-BRAN FORMS MAJOR PORTION OF MY BREAKFAST"

Delicious Cereal Relieved His Constipation*

Read Mr. Huyghe's voluntary letter: "After suffering for years, I happened to notice in the grocery a box of ALL-BRAN. I determined to give it a fair trial.

"Today it forms the major portion of my breakfast. I cannot say enough for its effect, as I am a man 58 years of age, at a time in life when one needs just what ALL-BRAN does for you.—Mr. Robt. A. Huyghe, 810 Union Street, New Orleans, La.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the "bulk" in leafy vegetables. How much better to use this gentle food in place of patent medicines.

At all grocers in the red and green packages. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"TWO FOR TONIGHT"

A Paramount Picture with BING CROSBY and JOAN BENNETT

Bing Crosby, Joan Bennett Star In Ritz Newest Film

"Two for Tonight," starring Bing Crosby and Joan Bennett and showing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Ritz Theatre, is a brisk, fast moving comedy, plentifully supplied with music, songs and romance, of an ambitious young crooner who accidentally becomes a playwright and becomes involved with a theatrical producer, his stage star friend, and his secretary in a series of lively incidents that become more and more hilariously complicated.

Going in search of romance and adventure to get material for his play, the singer strikes a seltzer water bottle in a night club, lands in jail, rehearses a love scene with the wrong girl which makes the right girl think of him.

Directed by Frank Tuttle, the cast includes Mary Boland, Lynne Overman, Thelma Todd, Ernest Cossart, James Blakeley and Douglas Fowley. The noted song writing team of Gordon and Revel wrote the following hits for the picture: "I Wish I Were A Maid", "Without a Word of Warning", "Takes Two to Make a Bargain", "Two for Tonight" and "From the Top of Your Head to the Tip of Your Toes."

Long Live The King!

WILL ROGERS

The Eternal Star

He was a King Among Men! His homespun humor, his genuine Americanism, his wholesome philosophy, and his jolly good nature made many friends of the rich and poor that even a king would envy!

If a typical American were selected, Will Rogers would be the unanimous choice of all fellow Americans!

Our sorrow for his untimely passing will be somewhat consoled by the realization that Will Rogers' personality, voice, appearance and his rich humor are preserved for future generations in the wholesome films that are being shown and heard throughout this nation!

The YUCCA THEATRE is proud to present, beginning with a preview Sat. Night and Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, the new screen masterpiece of this beloved star.

Newspaper Campaign Boosting Auto Sales

Chevrolet Motor Company, which recently enlarged its national advertising program to include newspaper and magazine advertising of guaranteed used-cars, is receiving reports from its dealers throughout the country to the effect that used car sales have been greatly stimulated, and that an unusually large number of buyers are seeking reconditioned cars for winter driving.

At the factory, W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager, who watches the progress of used-car sales closely because of its value as an index of business, interprets the increased sales of guaranteed reconditioned cars as a sign of improved purchasing power resulting from increased business activity.

"This strongly felt demand for good used cars," he said, "is a natural consequence of the gradual improvement in the employment situation. Our own dealers are feeling the demand to an unusual degree, I believe, the direct result of our used-car advertising, involved in buying a used car have been eliminated by the Chevrolet guaranteed Red OK tag plan."

"Purchasers are showing wisdom in buying good used cars now in preparation for the winter season. The hazards of cold weather are the severest test that a car must meet, and those who own cars five or six years old are figuring that they will save a lot of trouble and grief, and cash, by acquiring a more modern used car now. If it has been properly reconditioned, it will, of course, give them better all-winter service than their own cars."

"I am informed by many of our dealers that the purchasers now seeking good reconditioned cars for the coming winter are those who have been 'making their old cars dry' for so long that they dread trying to pull them through another long cold season, yet are not sufficiently recovered from their financial set-backs to purchase a new model. Many of them have never purchased a used-car before, but now realize that the old-time risks

Our Modern Homes

Once there was an old home that needed repairs, it had stood for years and years and its owner had not done the repairs that the house thought he should have, so the house started to argue the question like this:

"It's been a long hot summer, Mr. Owner, and my hat is wrinkled up a bit and my top coat is not in shape to go through the winter months. What? You spent all your money on the vacation? Well, that is what you told me last year. Now look here, Mr. Owner, let me tell you something, I have hovered over you day and night for all these years, kept you out of the rain and cold (house begins to cry) and this is the thanks I get. Look at this dress—the same one for the last ten years; look at my weather-boarding all caved in; my hips are not even; my gutters are all down; my furnace won't draw for my flue is full of soot; my plumbing won't work this winter for my cutoff is broken. Now I will leave it to the public if I am not entitled to a change. Oh! You are going to leave are you? Well, just don't listen then and next week I will tell you more when you come home again."

So that is all, folks, until next week. Watch this ad and learn whether the house wins its argument or not.

We are willing to lay our bets that the old house wins
