Roosevelt Asks Billion, One Half

WOULD TURN CASH OVER TO WPA FOR RELIEF PURPOSES

Proposes Business Absorb Number Employes
TREND UPWARD
Present Employment Not Satisfactory To President

WASHINGTON, Mar. 18. (AP)—President Roosevelt today asked congress to appropriate $1,500,000,000 (billion) for relief work during the next government year beginning July first.

In a special message, the president asked that the new funds go entirely to the WPA. He said "the trend of employment is upward, but this trend, at the present rate of progress is inadequate. I propose that we ask private business to extend its operations so as to absorb the increasing number of employed."

He declared that if the employment gains are substantial it will be unnecessary for the next congress to appropriate additional funds for the fiscal year, 1937.

Roosevelt noted that more than $1,000,000,000 (billion) would be spent in the next fiscal year out of prior appropriations, while the budget contained $600,000,000 for the CCC and various public works, making the gross projected relief outlay $3,100,000,000.

In appealing to business to take up employment, the president made this significant statement, "while the provisions of the anti-trust laws, intended to prohibit the restraint of trades, must and shall be enforced, there is nothing in these laws which should prohibit managers of private business working together to increase production and employment."

WHITAKER MAKES TALK BEFORE THE LIONS AT LUNCH

Final Plans Are Made For Burlesque Revue

In line with Texas History Week, March 15 to 23, Ed M. Whitaker addressed the members of the Midland Lions Club, at their regular weekly luncheon in the assembly room of the county court house today noon, on "The Story of the Santa Fe Expedition," which was one of the most interesting and disastrous incidents connected with early day history of the State of Texas. The talk was very interesting and educational, and was enjoyed by all in attendance.

Frank Nixon, local high school student, favored the 25 members present with several piano solos, which were also enjoyed. Ellis Conner was in charge of the entertaining program.

Final plans for the Men's Burlesque Bathing Revue, which will be staged by the club as a benefit affair at the Yucca theatre next Tuesday evening, were announced, and practically every club member present expressed a willingness to perform as a model in the hilarious bathing revue.

The women of the First Methodist Church prepared and served the luncheon.

545 CAR LICENSES PURCHASED IN CO.

Prospective Buyers Are Warned to Procure Necessary Tags

With only 545 passenger and 63 commercial car licenses sold to date, prospective buyers were urged today to procure them before the last minute rush ensues.

Tax collector Francis has warned drivers that they will be prosecuted after April first if caught driving with 1935 licenses on their cars.

Only 3,650 drivers licenses have been issued only about one-half of the estimated number that will be procured. Drivers of cars after April first will be fined unless they have the licenses.

Florida and Bahama fishing waters, promising thrills with rod and line and a respite from White House cares, again lure President Roosevelt southward. The vicious barracuda, like the specimen in the top photo, is the prize on which F. D. The map shows the president's tentative route, including a stop at "The Little White House," in Warm Springs, Ga., and brief stop in Winter Park, Fla., to receive an honorary degree from Rollins College.

BINDER'S ERROR DOES NOT CANCEL LAW COURT RULES

Judgment of Court At Huntsville Upheld

AUSTIN, Mar. 18. (AP)—The court of criminal appeals today ruled that a binder's error in assembling the official copy of the 1925 criminal code did not invalidate 150 articles since challenged in courts of the state.

The court affirmed the judgment of the Huntsville court denying T. J. Copeland, prison inmate convicted under one of the "lost laws" freedom on a writ of habeas corpus. The opinion held that the mistake was obvious.

Four Planes Land At Sloan Field

Four landings were reported at Sloan Field up to 2 o'clock this afternoon. Capt. W. E. Whiston, flying a C-14, came in from El Paso and departed for Kelly Field.

Commander J. R. Allen, in the S-U-3 arrived from El Paso and continued on to Dallas.

Lieut. J. E. Blair made a landing enroute from Vicks Field at El Paso to San Antonio. He was flying a P-12.

Major Kirksey, in a B-14, arrived from Big Spring and left for Tucson, Ariz., via El Paso.

A coast guard ship, which spent the night here, left this morning for San Antonio.

Mrs. Minette Fort of Big Spring who last night made an inspection trip to the Adult Education classes being conducted here by Miss Ozella Bryant expressed herself as being pleased with the classes.

Enrollment has reached 25 and more students are expected and desired. The courses taught are free to anyone who wishes to take them, books being furnished to all students each Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday. Classes are held at the High school Thursday and Friday, evenings.

JAFSIE RETURNS TO STATES AFTER TRIP TO PANAMA

Declines to Speak of Possible Talk to Governor

TRENTON, N. J., Mar. 18. (AP)—Dr. John F. Condon, Lindebergh ransom intermediary, arrived in New York Tuesday from Panama, but his return apparently did nothing to settle the matter of when and where he would be questioned by Governor Harold G. Hoffman.

Jafsie, usually talkative, declined to speak his thoughts on Bruno Richard Hauptmann, and the eighth hour fight to save him from the electric chair. Here in Trenton the governor had no comment to make on Condon's silence.

A shipboard acquaintance of the Bronx editor, the Rev. Henry Berts, quoted Dr. Condon as saying he would be happy to see the governor in his Bronx home.

Hauptmann is under sentence to die the week of March 30, and unless execution is stayed he will probably go to the chair two weeks from tonight.

The governor, an authoritative source said, wanted to question Dr. Condon at the state house and would invite him to come here and talk in the presence of Attorney General David T. Wilentz and Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., of Hunterdon county.

PATTON TRIAL NOT TO BE HEARD UNTIL JUNE COURT TERM

Sheriff Is Unable to Procure Early Hearing

REQUEST DENIED
Thousands Appear at Funeral of Slain Family

ATHENS, Texas, Mar. 18.—George Patton, accused slayer of the J. W. McGhee family of four, will not go to trial for the four murders until the summer term of District Court which opens Monday, June 1. Judge Ben F. Dent of the Third Judicial District, ruled Tuesday in denying a request made by Sheriff Jess Sweeten that a special term of court be called to bring Patton to trial. Sweeten pointed out that the trials of Elmer Pruitt, Hughey Fulton and Artie Cook, being held for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. German, of near Athens on Sept. 25, 1934, might be held at the same time. The three Negroes held in the German case, and Patton, all are now in the Dallas County jail. Judge Dent is now engaged in holding a session of court at Crockett.

Although he planned to renew his investigation of the Patton case immediately, Sheriff Sweeten took time out Tuesday afternoon to attend the funeral of the members of the McGhee family. A crowd that more than filled the Shelby Chapel Community Church, three miles east of Athens, gathered for the services which were conducted by the Rev. D. R. Carlidge and the Rev. Marvin Johnson, Athens Baptist ministers. Authorities refused to open the single casket which contained the skeletal remains of the four murder victims.

Patton denied details of a statement he made Monday, regarding the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. McGhee and their two children, and reverted to the version in which he claimed two strangers killed the four and made him bury the bodies.

ITALY TO OPPOSE USING SANCTIONS ON GERMAN NATION

Denunciation of the Locarno Pact Is Overlooked

GLOOM DEEPENS
Solution of Problem Cannot Be Found, Is Report

LONDON, Mar. 18. (AP)—Italy officially announced today that she would join in no sanctions against Germany based on Reichschancellor Hitler's denunciation of the Locarno peace pact.

A high British authority said Tuesday "it was not conceivable" a lasting solution for European problems could be found at the present meeting of diplomatic representatives of Locarno pact powers.

His statement came as Locarno representatives adjourned after another midnight session on the basis of a fresh French "ultimatum" and a Soviet blast against Adolf Hitler.

The diplomatic gloom, temporarily dissipated by Nazi acceptance to send delegates to the league of nations council session considering violation of the Locarno treaty by German rearmament of the Rhineland, deepened in the face of the British statement.

The British authority expressed the belief the Locarno representatives could not produce a new mutual security pact to replace the old although he said delegates were trying to find ways which would lead to an eventual agreement in which Germany and "everyone else" would come.

"The French government is as anxious to reach a peaceful solution as we are," the British authority said. "We are trying to agree upon the whole program of negotiations."

The diplomatic storm broke when Maxime Litvinoff, Soviet Russia's foreign commissar, bitterly assailed Hitler and said his substitute peace proposals were a "smoke-screen for aggression."

TVA TIGHTENS SHACKLES ON RIVER WITH 2 DAMS COMPLETE, 4 STARTED

Chain of Concrete Turns the Destructive Force of Tennessee Into Vast Powerhouse of Energy

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 18. (AP)—Deep in the heart of the Old South in the rock-rimmed Tennessee Valley, thousands of workers are building huge-made mountains of concrete.

The Tennessee River, for decades a destructive flood source, is being harnessed by a $205,000,000 chain of dams which is transforming its once destructive power into controlled energy. Near the Tennessee bend where Daniel Boone blazed trails into a wilderness the dams are rising. Two have been completed and four more are under construction.

Starting with the wartime Wilson Dam as a nucleus, TVA today is building additional dams which will end the menace of destructive floods in the valley for all time.

Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals, Ala., was begun in 1918 and completed in September, 1925, at a cost of $46,550,000. When President Roosevelt signed the TVA act in May, 1933, engineers immediately drafted plans for construction of additional barriers which will harness the Tennessee and its tributaries, insure navigation from Paducah, Ky., up to 650 miles to Knoxville, Tenn., and create almost inexhaustible reservoirs of power.

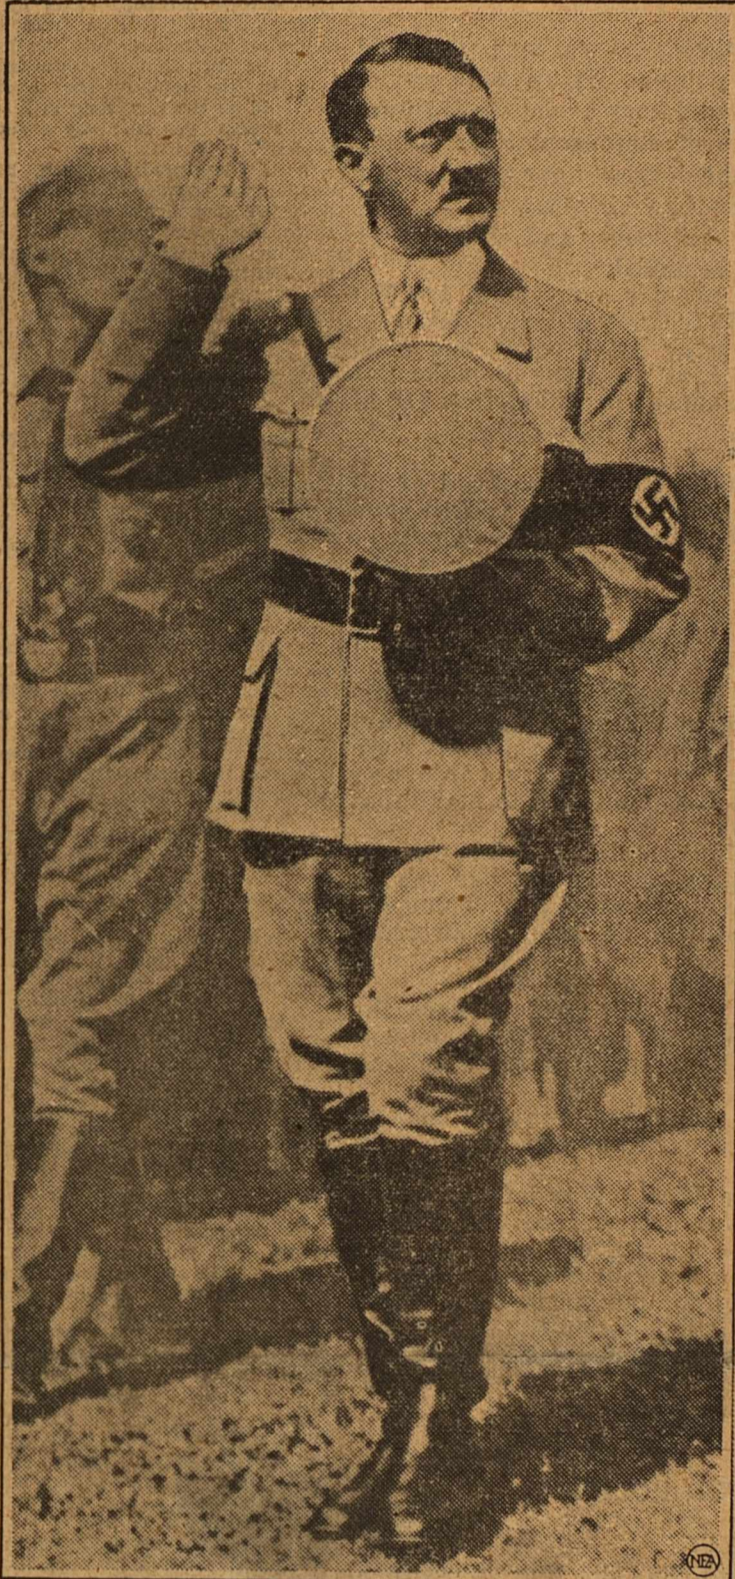

Wheeler Dam Next
Norris Dam, named after Sen. George W. Norris of Nebraska, step-father of TVA, is complete. Wheeler, Pickwick, Guntersville and Chickamauga are under construction—Wheeler Dam will be finished this fall.

TVA is planning a sixth huge dam—Hiwassee in North Carolina, midway between Murphy, N. C., and the Tennessee state line. It has not been authorized, but with its power program validated by the U. S. Supreme Court, TVA momentarily is expected to give the go-ahead signal.

Norris Dam, fourth largest concrete barrier in the world, was declared completed March 4, and probably presents the clearest picture of what is envisaged by the engineers who are making the prodigious dreams of TVA an actuality.

It is located on the Clinch River, about 80 miles above its junction with the Tennessee and about 25

ANNUAL DINNER IS HELD BY WOODYYS

Father and Son Honored At Celebration on Sunday

Members of the S. N. Woody family gathered at the ranch 25 miles southeast of Midland Sunday for the annual dinner celebrating the birthday of S. N. Woody, pioneer Midland county ranchman, and his son, L. W. Woody. The double anniversary falls on March 17 but this year the dinner was held on Sunday preceding.

Family members attending were: Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Woody, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Woody, of Midland and Glasscock counties, Mrs. A. D. Woody and family and J. N. Woody and family of Stanton, Norman, John, Maurice, Hughie, and Miss Stella Woody of Midland, Mrs. Bertha Kenney and son, Jackie, of Midland, and Miss Hope Woody.

Others present included: Mrs. Myrtle Stokes and son J. V., Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Stevens, Mrs. Bertie Boone, and Tom Grammer of Midland.

During the afternoon a shooting match was held with J. V. Stokes III, Jackie Kenney, and Houston Woody entering on equal terms with the grown men in the group. Houston Woody and Jackie Kenney ranked first and second among the boys, scoring next to J. N. Woody who is one of the leading marksmen of this region. Sixshooters were used in the match.

CITY WHERE 2000 LIVES WERE LOST IN '89 INUNDATED

Pittsburgh Persons Are Trapped in Homes

17 KNOWN DEAD
Pennsylvania Towns Isolated; Damage In Millions

By Associated Press
Floods spread misery, death and death throughout the East today, Johnstown, Pennsylvania, experiencing the worst inundation since the 1889 disaster. Pittsburgh residents were trapped in their homes as waters swirled through the streets. The preliminary death toll was estimated at 17.

President Roosevelt has mobilized federal agencies to aid the flooded areas.

Many cities were isolated and the loss of life heavy as the most wide spread floods in years swept Pennsylvania and the northern states. At least 17 were known to have perished in Pennsylvania.

The Conemaugh river has begun to recede from Johnstown, where 2,235 persons died in 1889. The damage was estimated at several millions of dollars.

Flood waters roared into Pittsburgh and left hundreds homeless and virtually isolated from the rest of the nation. Seven persons were hurt and some were feared dead as an explosion and fire destroyed a factory and a row of 11 houses in a Pittsburgh suburb. Over 3,000 are homeless in the steel town of Vandegrift, Pennsylvania.

Secretary of War Dern is heading the 40,000-ton government relief equipment.

The national Red Cross threw its full disaster relief staff into the field last night for the first time since the Mississippi floods of 1927 and 1929 as flood threatened thousands of lives among the eastern seaboard from Maine to the Carolinas.

Johnstown where more than 2,000 lost their lives in 1889, became one of the more serious danger spots. One death was reported. Workers were using boats to evacuate residents of outlying districts and water ran to a depth of more than eight feet through streets in the business district.

At Rositter, a coal camp in the same region, five persons, believed to have been members of the same family, drowned after a dam burst flooded a narrow valley.

Johnstown Police Chief Harry Klink broadcast an appeal to CCG workers, national guardsmen and state troopers to aid in clearing the city and avert looting.

Thousands along the Ohio river near Wheeling, West Virginia, left their homes when waters rose to 40 feet.

To Test Transient "Suit Club" Chances

City officials and retail merchants of Midland today were preparing to make, if necessary, a test case of alleged "suit club" chance selling by transients in Midland.

An attorney investigating history of such cases cited today one which went to the supreme court, ending in a decision that such practice came under lottery law violation.

"We'll just nab 'em," said one official when questioned as to the city's policy in connection with the alleged practice here.

LARGE SUM FOR ARMY IS NO PEACE GESTURE

For a nation which talks as much peace as we do, we somehow manage to act in a surprisingly warlike way.

During the last six months or so we have protested to the heavens that we were going to fix up some sort of neutrality legislation which would keep us out of all future wars. Meanwhile, our House of Representatives calmly has gone ahead and voted the largest appropriation for the army ever made in peace-time history.

Consider what this new bill does, and then try to figure out at who or what it is aimed.

It boosts the size of the regular army from 118,000 to 150,000 men. It lays out $8,500,000 on coast defenses. It adds 565 airplanes to the army flying corps, and 5000 men to the national guard. It is designed to make our army, small by European standards, a completely efficient, mobile striking force.

What is all this for, anyway? Are we afraid of invasion? Well, anyone who is going to invade us will have to lick our navy first—and that navy, by the way, wasn't exactly neglected in the military budget, slightly less than $600,000,000 having been voted for its maintenance.

Can anyone in his senses argue that we shall be in danger of invasion unless we spend a third of a billion dollars on our army?

Who on this hemisphere looks like an invader? Canada? No one outside of the booby hatch can say that with a straight face. Mexico, then? Our relations were never better; and even if they were bad, a few troops of cavalry backed by the Texas Rangers ought to make that border secure.

If we are the peace-loving people we think we are, devoted to the ideal of fighting no war but one that is forced upon us on our own soil, we need a $360,000,000 army appropriation about as much as Dizzy Dean needs a new right arm.

That being so obvious, you don't need to have the mental powers of an Einstein to realize that someone down in Washington must have some pretty ambitious plans for this army of ours.

More bluntly, the high command must be looking forward to the ultimate use of our army somewhere overseas.

Our little venture in the World War left us with a sour taste which has not yet disappeared. Ever since then, we have been calling on the heavens to witness that we shall never again send an army overseas for anyone.

But we are today voting for our army extravagant sums which seem to be justifiable only on the theory that we shall again be sending our army overseas.

It might pay us to find out at once just what sort of ideas are adrift down there in Washington.

NO PLACE FOR POLITICS

Minneapolis continues to find itself a sensational news center on the heels of the Liggett assassination. The latest development is the indictment of two police captains for alleged neglect of duty in permitting dance hall and tavern proprietors to violate the law.

The vital significance of the situation is expressed best in the words of Federal Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye of Minneapolis, who warned that "we can never expect a healthy condition in our community as long as those sworn to uphold the law permit mobs to violate laws with impunity."

In other words, a city must divorce politics from law enforcement to keep a clean house. And in this respect Minneapolis is, perhaps, no worse than are many other cities.

The point to grasp is the need for constant and pitiless publicity. Without it, an indifferent electorate unconsciously paves the way for corruption.

TRIAL BY GOVERNOR

The American public is witnessing these days the unprecedented spectacle of trial by governor. There have been instances of trial by mobs, and occasional charges of trial by newspapers, but Governor Hoffman of New Jersey provides, in the Hauptmann case, the lone example of trial by a state executive.

In the face of rulings of four courts, he has reopened the case to examine one or more of the state's witnesses, and publicly has declared his conclusions as to the weight of the evidence of each.

Consequently, of course, the sensational case has been allowed to enter politics.

This is no brief for or against Bruno Hauptmann. The law decided his unfortunate case long ago. Neither is this a question of Governor Hoffman's right to examine the case, although, under New Jersey law, he does not so much as hold the power of pardon.

But one wonders if there isn't something woefully lacking in a system that permits impromptu re-trial of a case by a governor, with consequent circumvention of orderly legal processes.

If France Needs A Disraeli Well, There's George Mandel

By MORRIS GILBERT NEA Service Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, March 18.—Georges Mandel, once Clemenceau's political finger-man—he never forgot a face and earnestly disliked most of those he remembered—is sticking his long, ferret-like nose into the middle of things these days and might poke it right into the premiership of France at any given moment.

Heardly dreaded, cold-eyed, realistic, Mandel has the makings of a Disraeli. He has a remarkable faculty for getting things done. And with France menaced again by the "German Peril" and in great need of strong leadership, funnier things could happen than for Mandel to step to the helm of the republic. It would be the first time in history that France was ruled by a Jewish premier.

With Clemenceau's death, Mandel jumped down off the firing post. Refusing all political office, he contented himself with the minor pleasure of making life miserable for fellow-deputies. His sardonic wit, chromium-plated memory, piston-rod delivery, and general contempt for everybody made him as popular in the Chamber as a kid with whooping cough at a Sunday-school picnic.

Became France's Farley About a year ago, tired of the quiet life, he accepted a cabinet job for the first time. It was the ministry of posts, telegraph, and telephone under Flandin. It looked as if Mandel were warming up in the bull pen.

The P. T. T. was just the place to appeal to a Machiavelli like Mandel. He could listen-in. They say he did. They say the first thing he did was to rig up listening posts by which nothing that is said by phone or filed by telegraph or cable in France is beyond his ken. This applied especially to his brother ministers in whose activities he took a sprightly interest.

Mandel has never forgotten his years under Clemenceau as virtual head of the Ministry of the Interior, where the French detective headquarters and spy-system have their nucleus. Mandel is the Mister Foster, the Pinkerton deluxe, the World Almanac, of French politics. He knows.

All this was very amusing, but not enough. Mandel felt the need of a faster work-out. He went after the Post Office itself.

The service, he said, was fierce. Thereupon he began exploding firecrackers attached to the coat-tails of the oldest fonctionnaires—those fellows who remembered how they carried the mail in stagecoaches.

Shows Union He's Boss He put the boys into new uniforms. The public razed him, but liked it. He speeded up deliveries. The public was cynically impressed. He demanded politeness. That was almost too much. Postal clerks, thus deprived of a constant and traditional source of personal pleasure, grumbled and threatened to strike.

That was more like it. Mandel loves a fight. He went up against the postal-workers' union, and it just rolled off his knife. Henceforth the post office knew that it was working for Mandel.

Next he cut costs. Even to the public. To do this, he clipped miles and miles of red-tape. France never had inter-city airport service except with Marseille. Now it functions in half a dozen cities.

France never went in for night-flying. Now the mails are carried from the metropolis to the sticks by airplane at night at no extra expense. Two other matters, both interesting to the United States, caught Mandel's attention. The first grew out of the incident when Britain's state-controlled radio service refused to relay a speech to America by Baron Aloisi from Rome. Mandel and the U. S. State Department discovered that any radio or telephonic news out of Europe was at the mercy of the British censor. There was a conference. Now a direct France-America telephone hook-up is promised for the Spring, with radio capacities, of course.

Arrange Link to America The other matter was a question of Franco-American propaganda. Mandel, looking over in England's yard, discovered that England and the U. S. exchange occasional friendly broadcasts, interpreting the mind and feelings of each to each. The same thing has now commenced from Mr. Mandel's office, with the help of an American network.

Still a little bored, Mandel's eager energies branched out in two other directions. One was television, which is now a regular ministry service. The other was the adoption of the American information and service departments of the communications companies. It was Mandel's bright idea to call this department "S.V.P." which means "if you please" in anybody's language. That is what Parisians now dial for anything from information about the color of the uniforms of the bodyguard of Frederick the Great to a hurry call for a dozen bottles of champagne to be delivered by special messenger at 10 p. m. tonight.

Meanwhile, Georges Mandel has nothing to do but attend cabinet meetings, send the deputies cowering into corners with one glance of his steely eyes, and sit in his office and wait till something interesting turns up—something he can really turn his talents to. For they are talents, everybody admits, unequalled in most any land for the great game of politics.

Ten Ways of Landing A Position --- Maybe

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (U.P.)—With thousands of youth looking for jobs and many more to join them upon graduation from schools and colleges in June Ralph R. Wulf, senior placement assistant at the Yale University bureau of appointments, cites ten rules for getting a job.

- 1. Find out what you want to do. An employer doesn't care what you are interested in. 2. Study yourself. What have you to offer a prospective employer? Remember, getting a job is largely a matter of "selling yourself." 3. Study your market—the places where you are likely to find jobs. 4. Prepare the story of your experience and your capabilities carefully. 5. Find out all you can about your prospective employer. Look up his business and know exactly what you can offer his organization. 6. Wear suitable clothes. 7. Be well-groomed. 8. Avoid Mondays, Saturdays and days before and after holidays. 9. Look alive. 10. Have something to say. Say it.

Letters to the Editor

The Reporter-Telegram: In order to maintain a fair and equitable representation of the membership of the West Texas Cotton Growers Association, the Board of Directors has divided the territory of the Association into nine districts, the same as in previous years, for the election of directors for the next ensuing year.

District Number 7, comprising the Counties of Mitchell, Howard, Martin, and Midland will hold its convention at Colorado, Texas, in the Courthouse, Saturday, March 21, 1936, at 2:00 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of making nominations for the election of a director, representing this district. The nominee or nominees so selected at this meeting will be immediately certified to the Secretary of the West Texas Cotton Growers Association, Abilene, Texas, after which postal card ballots will be prepared and mailed to all members in the district, bearing the names of nominees, and which every member will enable each eye member to vote individually for his preference.

At the Annual Meeting of the members to be held in Abilene, Texas, on April 14, 1936, 1:00 o'clock P. M. the nominees selected at the District Meeting will be voted upon and elected.

It is expected and urged that every member of the association attend this district convention and participate in the selection of the Director who will represent them upon the board of the West Texas Cotton Growers Association.

A lot has been said about getting this country back to normal. Many people say West Texas, the Panhandle etc. will be all right when they get back to normal.

Gene Howe, publisher-columist at Amarillo, says the Panhandle is a land of extremes, and that there's nothing half-way about anyone, anybody or anything.

"What I have been trying to figure out." Howe said in his column. "is what is normal in the Panhandle of Texas."

"We speak about normal weather and normal crops and normal this and normal that."

"Hell, looking normal hasn't ever been anything normal out here except myself when I got here 12 years ago and I've sure changed inside out. We either raise 40,000,000 bushels of wheat or we don't raise none. Our cowmen are either losing their shirts or making fortunes. We're either putting up tall buildings or having them taken over by the bond owners. We're either building handsome residences and homes or are burning them up in Hoover conflagrations to get the insurance. We're either getting married or getting divorced, spoiling our children or disinheriting them. We're either drunk or on the wagon. If we die we die quicker; if we live we live longer. Our citizens are either the best or the sorriest, our girls are the prettiest or the ugliest, our wives are the sweetest or the sourdest, our sons the wisest or the fonest, and so on and on."

"Day in and day out, year after year we keep motivating, churning, struggling, weltering, suffering, celebrating, rejoicing. We're up or we're down, but we're doing something. We never have been half-way on anything and never will be."

"You people down in South Texas and you folks in California and you poor saps down in Florida and you canucks up in Canada and you wealthy sharks back in New York and New England, more power and more success to you. You need it and plenty of it because you're missing the biggest part of life in not being out here in this real part of Texas where life is more enduring and unendurable but where people sure don't die from being bored to death, or get paralysis from clipping coupons."

Edelweiss Bridge Luncheon Reflects St. Patrick's Theme

Triple colors of green, white, and silver blended in a St. Patrick's theme in keeping with the date in appointments for the bridge luncheon with which Mrs. Ralph Barron complimented the Edelweiss club at the Hotel Scharbauer Tuesday at 1:30 o'clock.

Guests drew for places at the tables which were named after towns in Ireland. Table appointments were in the favored colors and a three-course meal carrying out the green and white note was served.

Sweetpeas were used in decorations for the service table.

After noon the tables were laid for bridge with tallies bearing the Irish harp and shamrock.

Prizes packaged in silver and white and tied with green and white ribbons were presented to Mrs. R. T. Buey for high score among guests, to Mrs. W. A. Yeager for second high among guests, to Mrs. John Dublin for high club and to Mrs. Hal Peck for second high in the club.

Club guests were: Meses. Buey, Hugh Corrigan, Guy E. Bennett, J. R. Norris, Preston Bridgewater, Yeager, and Miss Fannie Bess Taylor.

Members attending were: Meses. Dublin, J. R. Martin, Hayden Miles, Tom Nance, Peck, John Shipley, J. M. Speed, Maymie Stokes, Miss Leona McCormick, and the hostess.

Mrs. Reese Hostess To St. Patrick's Bridge Tuesday

Ireland's favorite, St. Patrick, was rendered due honor on his special day, March 17, when Mrs. Kimmie Reese was hostess to the Bridgette club and guests with an afternoon bridge at her home, 411 North A street.

Red and pink roses were used as party flowers with other appointments reflecting the St. Patrick motif.

Prizes for the three tables of bridge played were wrapped in white tissue and tied with green ribbon. Awards went to Mrs. Lloyd Blackard for high score guest, to Mrs. E. L. Stagner for slam, to Mrs. S. O. Cooper for honors, to Mrs. H. B. Prickett for high score in club, and to Mrs. E. D. Richardson for low score.

Four out-of-town guests were Mrs. Blackard, Mrs. Stagner, Mrs. W. H. Rogers, and Mrs. R. L. Richardson, all of Colorado.

Other playing guests were Mrs. L. G. Mackey and Mrs. Ravellins Clark, while Mrs. Geo. L. Wright was a tea guest.

A St. Patrick's salad plate developing the decorative motif thoroughly in the various dishes was served at the tea hour.

Club members present were: Meses. Richardson, Bill Van Huss, W. P. Knight, W. N. Thurston, Prickett, Cooper, John Adams, J. J. Kelly, and the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Gragg were complimented with several informal courtesies. Mr. Gragg is General manager of The American Chemical Company of Midland, Texas.

FEMININE FANCIES

BY KATHLEEN EILAND

The Christian Science Monitor quotes a story of an old Quaker lady who was asked what she used to make her complexion so lovely and her whole being so bright and attractive.

Her answer was: "I use for the lips, truth; for the voice, prayer; for the eyes, compassion; for the hands, charity; for the figure, uprightness; and for the heart, love."

The whole thing is of a piece with the traditional precepts of lavender-and-old-lace days. Nevertheless, we think the innate truth of the quaint answer is not to be sneered at.

Probably, her "beauty routine" was an even more strenuous one than that of the modern girl who depends on creams, lotion, patting, and exercises to apply beauty outwardly.

After all the chatter about "environment" and "companionship" which would-be-writers and artists indulge in, it is with a sense of satisfaction that we quote Grant Wood, the Iowa-born artist, amid his experiences among the artists in Paris Cafes:

"They," he says, "believed an artist had to wait for inspiration very quietly, and they did most of their waiting at the Dome or the Rotonde, with brandy. It was then that I realized that all the really good ideas I'd ever had came to me while I was milking a cow. So I went back to Iowa."

And the unknown but sensible editorial writer who quotes the artist expresses himself thus:

"You don't dream of fantastic cure-alls and you don't get panicky about some ism or other, while you have bossy by the business end. Your thoughts are realistic and direct. The moment you get a bit flighty, her tail is sure to fetch you a swipe across the left ear and bring you down to earth again.

The idea is fantastic, of course, but there is a kernel of sound truth in the argument.

To steady one's sense of values and replenish one spiritually, there is nothing better than a quiet time in the country. And we can state from experience that one can't dream or reach cloud-touching heights of fancy while milking a cow.

The concert presented by the Matador Band of Texas Tech college at the High School yesterday was a treat which we wish all citizens might have enjoyed. There was a delicacy of feeling and a perfection of execution which makes the memory of the selections played stand out among recent musical presentations.

We've heard that there is to be an exhibit of prints of famous paintings to be shown here in a few days. That will be another treat that we won't want to miss.

Taking things by and large, Midland offers many interesting and worthwhile features of amusement and enjoyment (as well as information) to her citizenship.

Miss Manning and Mr. Parrott Wed Here on Monday

Mr. Donald P. Parrott and Miss Chloe Manning of Midland were married in the study of the Church of Christ Monday noon with Rev. T. H. Bass officiating.

The couple was accompanied by Miss Annice Johnson, Mr. John Allen Sewell, and Mr. Ralph Parrott, brother of the groom.

The bride wore a navy blue crepe dress with white accessories.

Mrs. Parrott, who has been associated with Perry Bros. Variety store, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Manning of Albuquerque, N. M. She is a graduate of Midland High School.

The groom, also a graduate of the High School here, is the son of Mr. W. P. Parrott, 310 S. Pecos street. He is associated with the Hughes Tool company here.

Immediately after the ceremony, the couple left for a short wedding trip after which they will be at home in Midland.

Couple Weds at Tulsa; Will Make Home in Midland

Mr. and Mrs. Allan H. Flaherty arrived in Midland Tuesday to make their home, following their marriage Sunday afternoon at Tulsa, Okla.

The couple was wed at the First Christian church in Tulsa with Rev. Charles Hill officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Homer Deen, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, were attenders.

Mrs. Flaherty was, before her marriage, Miss Theda Deen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Deen of Tulsa. She attended college at Tulsa and is also a former student of Oklahoma university. She was complimented with several parties before her marriage.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Flaherty, is associated here with A. H. Flaherty and Son company, Permian basin oil operators.

Mr. and Mrs. Flaherty are now living at the Hotel Scharbauer.

Beware The Egotistic "I" If You Wish To Have The Appeal Of Charm

Charm is natural to some people, but more must acquire that golden asset of personality. Cyrena Van Gordon, called a timid "ugly duckling" as a child, has become a famed hostess and opera star in spite of the early handicap. In this second of four "Charm Chats" she suggests qualities that should be cultivated to develop charm and discusses notables who exemplify these qualities.

BY CYRENA VAN GORDON
Metropolitan and Chicago Opera Star
Written for NEA Service

If you would have people like you, stamp out egotism and selfishness from your nature.

The mighty "I" is probably charms greatest foe. Curb your own tongue, learn to draw others out in conversation. Your interests may best be served by demonstrating your friendliness, and for this, it is not half so important to be interesting as to be interested.

Many persons think that if they deprecate themselves enough they will rid themselves of the curse of egotism. This is entirely false. Some of the most egotistical persons I have ever known were those who lamented long and loudly their personal defects.

There is no room for selfishness in the truly charming person. The jobholder, the housewife, the prima donna or the celebrity in any field who thinks only of her self is destined to bitter disappointment sooner or later.

Shall I tell you about one woman noted in the big city of New York for charm? She is Fanny Hurst, one of the most modern women I know, as well as one of the most charming. Fanny and I were girlhood friends in Hamilton, O., and I have yet to hear her make any reference to her outstanding success as a novelist and writer. She never talks about herself or her work unless you pin her down. I think you could know her for months and never discover that she was a writer, except perhaps, from her great store of general information.

use it. But avoid cheap scent. Once you are dressed, hair arranged, make-up on, forget about your appearance. No charming person constantly fidgets, pulls and daubs at herself in public.

Don't make unnecessary movements of any kind. Toying and picking at things makes you appear confused and ill at ease. It irritates many onlookers.

Kay Francis Always Poised

An impression of repose, serenity and reserve power and strength is the essence of poise, and poise is one of charm's chief assets. Kay Francis, of screen fame, has remarkable poise whether on or off the screen.

Before she decided to go into pictures, Miss Francis was a secretary to an important business executive. In a way, she has kept on being a business woman; by going about things in a business-like and assured way.

Incidentally, and this is often just as important to poise as to efficiency, Miss Francis is notoriously prompt. If she has an appointment, she keeps it to the minute. She says that when she is late she becomes physically upset.

There is a story told of an executive who knew her well and had an appointment with her at 2 o'clock. When she appeared his clock said said 2:10. With a gesture of impatience he changed the minute hand to read 2 o'clock, and said: "This clock evidently runs fast. Better have it regulated tomorrow." He knew Kay Francis was never late!

Tomorrow The importance of a pleasant speaking voice.

Mrs. Fryar Is Hostess to Anti Club at Bridge

Tallies featuring Irish pigs lent a laughable note in keeping with the St. Patrick's theme to appointments for the evening bridge with which Mrs. Olen Fryar entertained the Anti club at her home, 311 N. Carrizo, Tuesday.

Miss Marguerite Bivens won high score and Mrs. Hayden Wilmoth high cut in the two tables of bridge played and were rewarded with prizes in green and white.

At the close of the games a St. Patrick plate following the color scheme in its green salad and green and white cake was served to: Miss Bivens, Mrs. Wilmoth, Mrs. John B. Mills, Miss Lucille McMullan, Mrs. Clint Creech, Miss Thalia Howell, Miss Annie Faye Dunagan, Mrs. Guy E. Bennett, and the hostess.

IRONY

By Helen Welshimer

I SHALL be the one to weep,
Lie in bed and count white sheep,
Wondering how pain could accrue
From the bliss of loving you.

YOU will be the one to sleep,
Oh, such pleasant dreams you'll reap
When our brief romance is through,
That's the way men often do.

THIS is what I prophesied,
But I find my senses lied,
I don't know which way you went,
But I'm perfectly content!

is any oil any different?

Different because it's alloyed

We don't mean one of those "talking point" differences. We mean a real difference. Alloying Germ Processed oil goes beyond refining and re-refining. After every harmful element is cleaned out, the patented Conoco Germ Processing element is scientifically put IN.

That's what brings you this alloyed oil, with its strange attachment for pistons, cylinders, and all other engine parts—including every known type of bearing. All these parts really become oil-plated!

This oil-plating is extra. It's a plus—added to the tougher, more slippy, heat-beating Germ Processed oil film. You've got this high-durability oil film, sliding on thoroughly oil-plated surfaces, and so you're that much farther from wear and noise.

You're facing hotter days and harder runs. Out with dirty winter oil! Only the Conoco man can change you—quickly—to Germ Processed, the alloyed oil. Continental Oil Company.

NEW ATTENDANCE RECORDS SET AT FAT STOCK SHOW

Fort Worth.—Attendance records are being shattered daily at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show and a new all-time record for any day of the show was established Sunday when 41,349 persons passed through the turnstiles.

Capacity crowds have witnessed all of the world championship rodeo-horse show performances that have been packed with thrills.

Ted (Suicide) Elder's two-horse horse Roman style jump over a flaming automobile, one of the new rodeo features, has proved a sensation. Both Fox and Movietone have been trying since the opening of the show to record the death defying stunt in news reels, but the "lightning" leap through the flames over the blazing automobile has been too fast for the cameras.

Cowboy mounted football is also furnishing new thrills in the rodeo, long the most exciting of entertainment, with bronc riding, steer wrestling, calf roping and the riding of the wild Brahma steers.

Added classes and increased premiums have attracted entries from the nation's outstanding stables to the horse show which includes classes for three and five gaited saddle horses as well as harness events. Prizes range up to $1,200 for the champion five gaited stake next Sunday night.

Livestock entries exceed those of last year by more than 50 percent and the earlier feeder cattle sale Thursday at 10 a. m. is expected to make history in the livestock industry of the Southwest, since farmers are learning that the best way to market their feed crops is on the hoof.

Governor of the State of Texas

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

The citizenship in the State of Texas is being called upon this year to act as host to the many visitors attending and who will attend the celebration of the Centennial of Texas Freedom; and

It strongly behooves all loyal Texans to be in a position to advise our guests intelligently and fully regarding the glorious and romantic past of our state;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, JAMES V. ALLRED, Governor of the State of Texas, do, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution of this State, and in recognition of the obligation of the people of this State to visitors from other States, hereby declare the week commencing with March 15, 1936, shall be designated and do urge all loyal Texans to devote a substantial part of said week to the study of the history of Texas and do urge that the schools of this state both public and private, commencing with said date and for the balance of the current school year, lay stress upon those subjects dealing with the history of our state, and do urge all civic organizations coordinate their efforts and programs to develop maximum interest in the promotion of Texas history study, and do urge that this activity continue during our entire Centennial year.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I hereunto sign my name and cause to be impressed hereon the seal of the State of Texas at Austin, this the 4th day of March, A. D., 1936.

James V. Allred
Governor

Many new features are found in the merchants and manufacturers' exhibits, automobile show and the carnival and midway attractions. Beef and dairy cattle, sheep, goats and swine as well as poultry, pigs and rabbits are seen in the livestock exhibits.

A total of 81,736 persons have passed through the turnstiles since the show opened at 6 p. m. Friday, as compared with 60,239 during the comparable period of the previous show, John B. Davis, secretary-manager, in announcing the new attendance records declared that they reflect the improved economic conditions in Texas and the Southwest.

The show will end next Sunday

STATE SUPERINTENDENT REQUESTS ALL TEACHERS COOPERATE IN STUDYING OF TEXAS HISTORY THROUGHOUT THIS WEEK

AUSTIN.—State Superintendent L. A. Woods today requested the cooperation of all of the 47,000 public school teachers in Texas in all of the 10,000 public school buildings of the state to make the greatest possible use of the week, March 15 for the purpose of intensive study of Texas history in the public schools of the state.

In his request he is cooperating with the 44th Legislature in its announced desire and with Governor James V. Allred, who by proclamation has designated the week commencing March 15, 1936 as Texas History Study Week. Superintendent Woods recalled that it was fitting that the public schools give increased attention to the study of Texas history, inasmuch as the Texas Declaration of Independence is unique in the annals of history in that it recited that the Texans declared their independence from Mexico, because among other reasons, the Mexican government had failed to establish an adequate system of public education. The state school head urged that each of the public schools of the state make this week an occasion

Contest Will of Ill-Fated Oil Man

The wife whom a New York oil millionaire divorced in Reno last June, and the girl he married three hours afterward, will fight in court over his fortune. Mrs. Marlon Alexander Hart, left above, first wife and mother of the three children of Frank C. Hart, below, contests the quarter share he willed to Mrs. Muriel Constance Woodworth Hart, above right, Hart's second wife. Hart was killed with 16 others in an Arkansas airliner crash in January. Children of the first Mrs. Hart, who alleges the divorce obtained by Hart was invalid, also received a quarter share of the oil man's estate.

She's Patricia Valerie Havens-Montague—Pat Montague, for the screen—daughter of a retired San Francisco financier. sion for intensive and extensive study of events in Texas one hundred years ago. He asked that wherever possible the public schools arrange a program to which the public should be invited, in which the 1,558,855 children of Texas should have an opportunity to express their appreciation for the heroes and events of Texas history.

"Most of our students in the sixth grade and many in the high school grades have Texas history as one of their regular subjects; we are asking these children to take the lead in furnishing these programs," stated Superintendent Woods.

Home Mortgages Interest Lower

A mounting volume of lending on home mortgages, at generally lower interest rates to borrowers, was recorded among the 3,500 members of the Federal Home Loan Bank System in 1935, according to an article in the current issue of the Federal Home Loan Bank Review.

The 12 Federal Home Loan Banks, which act as a credit reserve system for member thrift and home-financing institutions, ended the year 1935 with a peak of $102,795,000 in advances outstanding to members. "Most of this sum has undoubtedly been loaned to home owners," the Review stated.

"What is of primary importance is not the amount that the Banks lend to their members; it is rather the encouragement and confidence their existence as a reservoir of credit gives to member institutions to meet the home-financing needs of home owners in every community of the country," the article said.

Thus, while there was an increase of 18 per cent between 1934 and 1935 in advances to member institutions by the Federal Home Loan Banks, in the same period these institutions increased their new loans to home owners by 60 per cent.

Among the member institutions, striking expansion of lending was reported by the Federally chartered savings and loan associations over the country, which are mutually owned and privately managed, but under Federal supervision and Federally insured as to investments by shareholders. Though Federal associations held less than one sixth of the combined assets of member institutions of the Federal Home Loan Banks at the end of 1935, they made during that year nearly one third of the total of loans by members. Of the estimated total of $334,214,000 loaned by all member institutions, Federal associations are known to have loaned $106,931,000, excluding associations which have not yet reported.

Federal Savings and Loan associations, of which there are now 1,063, serve large areas of the country where formerly no comparable facilities existed. When Federal associations were authorized in 1933 more than half the 3,072 counties of the United States lacked local thrift and home-financing institutions. By January, 1936, Federal associations were so widely established as to cover all but about 300 counties.

Other points treated in the Review article include:

A rising volume of savings placed by the public in both State and Federally chartered institutions having insurance protection for investors through the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

A lower cost of attracting savings to insured institutions, which, together with decreased interest rates on advances from the Federal Home Loan Banks, has brought lower interest rates on home mortgages.

The adoption by an ever-increasing number of institutions of the direct reduction (monthly cash installment) long-term home mortgage, the safest type of loan for both borrower and lender.

"Perhaps no other class of mortgage institutions has progressed so far on the road to normal lending activity as the thrift and home-financing institutions affiliated with the Federal Home Loan Bank System," the article asserts.

Appropriations made by Congress for running the U. S. government during 1932 totaled $4,674,073,917.

Brodsky and Triggs On Ford Sunday Hr.

Vera Brodsky and Harold Triggs, two of the younger and better known American pianists, will be guest artists on the Ford Sunday Evening Hour, Sunday, March 22. The program, which features music of the Ford Symphony Orchestra and Chorus, under the direction of Victor Kolar, will be broadcast from 9 to 10 p. m., EST, over the complete coast-to-coast CBS network.

Miss Brodsky was born in Virginia of Russian parents, and Mr. Triggs was born in Colorado. Both were pupils in America of Josef Lhevinne. This noted piano team has won recognition here and abroad as solo artists whose chief interest is to "humanize" music. They have played together on the air, in recitals and with symphony orchestras.

ing: "Ritmo" by Infante, Kern's "I Dream Too Much," and "The Banjo" by Gottschalk. The orchestra will present the overture to "William Tell" by Rossini and the program will be closed by the chorus singing Croft's "Our God, Our Help in Ages Past" with orchestra accompaniment.

Another short talk on current affairs will be presented during the intermission by W. J. Cameron of the Ford Motor Company.

In Gaines county, crew is fishing for tools in W. T. Walsh and Harry Adams No. 1 Averitt, the drilling line having been cut about 1,500 feet off bottom. Wet gas gauged at 12,000,000 cubic feet and coming from near bottom at 4,910. It is said to be about the same. One of the most closely watched wildcats in West Texas, its chances to make a well are said to be greatly increased since the heavy gas was struck. It is in section 238, block G, W.T.R.R. survey, three miles northwest of Seminole.

Martin Wildcat Drilling
The only active Martin county wildcat, Woodley Petroleum Co. and others No. 1 F. A. King, is drilling anhydrite below 2,125 feet. It is two miles southeast of Stanton in section 30, block 35, township 1 south, T. & S.P. survey.

You Can Lead a Horse to a Hurdle, But—

You can't make him jump. When Faint Prospect approached a hedge barrier during the running of the Weybridge Selling Handicap at Kempton Park, England, he got faint heart and refused to jump. His rider went on over the hurdle as the horse balked, and this unusual photo shows the jockey in midair still holding to his mount's bridle.

BRITAIN MOTORIZES EIGHT REGIMENTS OF COUNTRY'S FAMOUS CAVALRY UNITS

By EVERETT HOLLES United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 17. (U.P.)—Old army men are grumbling over their whiskies-and-soda in the officers' clubs these days because the machine age has robbed the cavalry of its horses. "Egad, sir!" they sputter. "What good is a soldier without a horse. Remember The King's Own Hussars at Khyber Pass, and the Ninth Royal Lancers in the siege of Delhi."

The government's decision to mechanize the cavalry, substituting armored cars and light tanks for steeds, has brought loud wails from old army men who assert that many of the most glorious traditions of Britain's fighting forces will be shattered. Eight of the nation's famous cavalry regiments will disappear and in their places will be units of steel-plated, fast-traveling cars carrying fighting men who once rode proudly into battle on horseback, lances tilted and swords flashing.

The revolutionary change did not come easily. The War Office argued for several years against the die-hards of the military service before winning them over to the idea that modern means of warfare have out-moded the cavalry.

Nowadays an army in the field moves rapidly, with 70-mile-an-hour tanks in advance. Fast protective reconnaissance is necessary—faster than horse cavalry.

Started Two Years Ago
Substitution of gasoline for hay and oats as the mobile fuel of Britain's lancers actually began two years ago when two cavalry regiments were converted into armored car regiments. They were the 11th Hussars, known as "Prince Albert's Own" with the Duke of York as colonel-in-chief, and the 12th Royal Lancers whose colonel-in-chief was the Prince of Wales, now King Edward VII.

Many army officers thought the mechanization would stop there, but it was only the start of what one veteran warrior with military indignation described in a letter to The Times as "downright horse stealing."

Guards Date to 1685
One of these is the First King's Dragoon Guards commonly known as the "K.D.G.s" who date back to 1685 and the days of the Duke of Monmouth's rebellion. Every British school-boy has read and recited of its valor in the battle of Sedgemoor and in Flanders under King William. It also served in the battle of Minden and in the Crimea before Sevastopol.

The Queen's Bays or Second Dragoon Guards also organized in 1688 to fight under King William in the Irish and Flanders campaigns. A hundred years later the regiment gained the honor of "The Queen's Bays" and every man was mounted on a long-tailed bay. It participated in the relief and capture of Lucknow.

Queen's Hussars Affected
Other cavalry regiments which will be mechanized under the War Office orders are the Third King's Own Hussars, which fought for William of Orange and has a mounted kettle-drummer in its band, and the Fourth Queen's Own Hussars which took part in the famous Charge of the Light Brigade at Balaclava.

One of the few mounted Scottish regiments likewise will disappear—the Seventh Queen's Own Hussars. It was formed in 1689 of independent troops of horse and dragoons raised in Scotland, and fought at Killiecrankie. This regiment's bagpipers were famous on parade, playing "The Guard of Old Gaul" when walking their steeds and the livelier "Highland Laddie" when passing at a trot. Its roll of valorous service includes Orthes, the Peninsula, Waterloo and Lucknow.

So thorough was the mechanization order that not even the finely-garbed men of the Tenth Royal Hussars could save their horses. Because they have had the special favor of every Prince of Wales the "Royals" have come to be regarded as one of the most distinguished regiments in the army.

Contractor Killed By Pool Hall Owner

SHEFFIELD, Mar. 18. (U.P.)—Tommy Elsworth, pool hall operator here, is being held in the Iron Jail without bond after he had been charged with murder of Bynum Shaw, 44, Sheffield trucking contractor.

Shaw died while being rushed to the Iron hospital by Will Monroe, Essex county ranchman, with whom he was talking when the shooting occurred. Four bullets, from two pistols were fired, three of them striking Shaw.

County Singers Elect Officers

Officers for next year were elected at the Midland County Singing convention held at Prairie Lee Sunday. They were: President, Johnny Livingston; vice president, Perry Crawley; secretary and treasurer, M. F. Koonce.

A large crowd was in attendance including visiting singers from Big Spring, Coahoma, Colorado, Ackerville, and other places.

The next meeting of the convention will be at Cotton Flat the third Sunday in May, when an all-day session will be held.

The public is invited to come and bring basket lunches.
