KIDNAP CHARGES FILED AGAINST LILLIAN STEWART

Charged With Taking Child of McCamey Couple OUT UNDER BOND Has Been Awaiting Trial in Death Of Banker

RANKIN, March 24. (P)—Charged with kidnaping and concealing the 18-hour old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Hinton, McCamey, Mrs. Opal Lillian Stewart, 34, of San Angelo and McCamey, was in jail here Monday night unable to make $5,000 bond set by County Judge M. T. Griffin.

Mrs. Stewart had been at liberty on $5,000 bond on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Ed Smith, Rankin bank clerk, last July 7, near Mertzon.

She was arrested Sunday morning with the baby in her bed at the home of a sister, Mrs. S. P. Leoney, of near McCamey. After the doctor and nurse attending Mrs. Hinton at the birth of her child had identified the baby it was returned to its parents. Mrs. Hinton was delivered early Saturday morning. Hinton is an employe of an oil firm at McCamey.

Monday afternoon she offered no other explanation of the act other than to maintain she had given birth to a boy.

Bankroll of $4000 Safe In Flood

Only sign that a Pittsburg coal company's office ever stood on this site is the safe, on which Mary Hagola, an employe, is working the combination as her sister Anna sits atop the strong-box. There was a good reason for all this interest in the safe, as it contained more than $4,000.

More Than 40 "Staid Business Men" Will Parade To Audience Tonight

Over 40 prominent business and professional men of Midland, mostly members of the local Lions Club, will parade across the stage of the Yucca theatre this evening modeling evening dresses and bathing suits in the Men's Burlesque Bathing Revue being sponsored by the Midland Lions Club as a benefit affair. The style and bathing revue promises to be the most hilariously funny benefit show ever staged in Midland.

It is going to be a riot and that isn't a figure of speech. Final rehearsal was held at the First Christian Church annex last night and if the efforts of the stronger sex to parade with grace and dignity is half as funny to the audience as to the entries, there's going to be a lot of sides sore from laughing. These 40 male beauties, mimned across the stage in approved fashion—some with the grace of a herd of elephants and others with the steadiness of new born colts, wobbled to shake their hips a-la Mae West. This was quickly stopped for fear something would be thrown out of gear. Emergency calls for extra large women's clothing were being sounded today, and the members of the cast were racking their brains to think of over sized women. Shoes were also greatly in demand.

OHIO VALLEY IS FACING DANGER OF RIVER FLOOD

Last Remaining Area Confronted With Destruction
RESIDENTS FLEE
20,000 Leaving Low Areas for Higher Locations
By Associated Press

The lower Ohio valley today was the last remaining area facing flood danger after a week of death, damage and destruction in the Eastern United States.

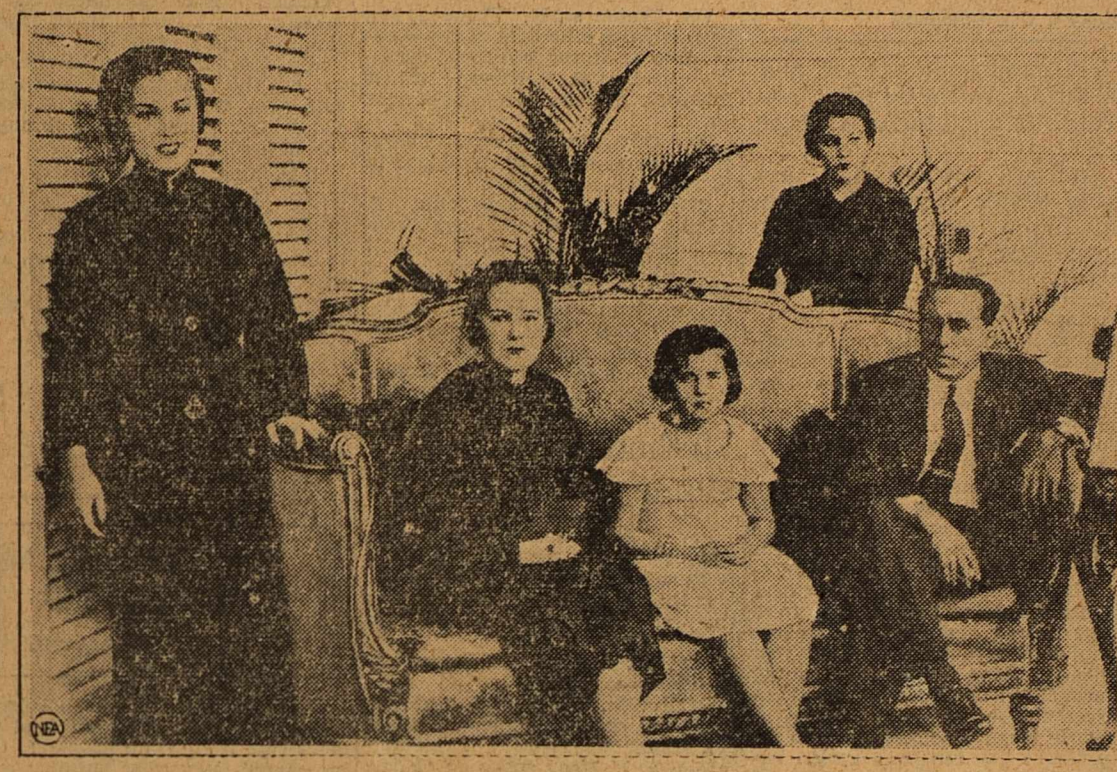

More than 20,000 residents in Cincinnati and the surrounding region fled their homes in anticipation of the Ohio river tide. A 59 foot crest was expected at Cincinnati today.

New England, where receding water uncovered terrific damage and rehabilitation was proceeding rapidly. The homeless were estimated at 80,000 and the damage $70,000,000.

Louisville, Kentucky is the next large city in the path of the advancing flood.

PWA administrator Ickes has ordered PWA directors of 20 states to survey the flood damage to projects and other public property.

Uncle Sam to Play Host to Cuba's First Family

Evidence of his aim to cement the friendship between his country and the United States, as he promised Cubans before his election in January, President-Elect Miguel Mariano Gomez, his comely wife, Senora Arias, and their charming daughters, shown above in a recent photo, will spend a vacation of a few weeks in America. Sailing to Los Angeles from Panama, Gomez plans a 15-day stay on the west coast, then hopes to see President Roosevelt in Washington. Son of Cuba's second president, and twice mayor of Havana, Gomez denies that an American loan is one of the objects of his visit. He will be inaugurated May 20.

DISBAND WITHOUT GETTING REPLY OF GERMANS' LEADER

Will Reassemble If They Are Called By Powers
TALKS CONTINUE
Signatories Agree to Keep Up Their Negotiations

LONDON, Mar. 24. (P)—The League of Nations council, without waiting for Adolf Hitler's counter proposals for settlement of the Rhineland controversy, voted to adjourn today without taking further action on the Locarno treaty violation.

The council decided to reassemble at Geneva whenever called. Meanwhile, Britain, France, Belgium and Italy, signatories with Germany of the Locarno pact, agreed to continue negotiations with Hitler.

The league council adjournment was reported to be the result of France's disappointment at Britain's sympathetic attitude toward Germany. Hitler's proposals are being carried to London by Joachim Von Ribbentrop, chief Locarno delegate.

CONDON AGREES TO CONFERENCE WITH HOFFMAN

Questions Actions of Governor in Case

TRENTON, March 24. (P)—Dr. John F. Condon, Lindbergh ransom intermediary, today agreed to talk to Governor Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey at his (Condon's) Bronx home relative to the "doubtful" phases of Bruno Hauptmann's participation in the kidnaping.

Condon, in granting Hoffman's request for an interview, questioned the governor's "sincerity, good taste, and impartiality" in handling the case.

FISHING AGAIN IN SEMINOLE TEST

Walsh and Adams Well Loses Ring-Socket In Hole
By FRANK GARDNER

Another fishing job is in progress today at the closely watched Seminole wildcat test, W. T. Walsh and Adams Corp., No. 2, right, after a fishing tool was lost late yesterday. According to reports, crew ran in with rim-socket and succeeded in securing the bit previously lost in the hole, but while pulling it out, the stem on the ring-socket snapped close to the bowl. Since the bowl practically fills the hole its recovery presents a difficult problem to operators.

The Walsh and Adams test, one of the high points of interest in Permian Basin wildcating for the past few months, is bottomed at 4,910 feet where gas gauged at over 12,000,000 cubic feet daily jammed tools in the hole, causing the new series of fishing jobs. Previously, while drilling through the Yates sand section, a number of gas pockets had caused delays.

The well is located in section 238, block G, W. T. R. B. survey, three miles northwest of Seminole, is testing a structure mapped by many geophysical crews.

Yokum Well Drilling Farther north the Yokum county discovery, Honolulu and Cascade No. 1 Bennett, is making slow progress through heavy lime, the last reported depth being 5,136. Yield of 33 barrels on swab was obtained late yesterday in a short period. The Bennett well is being deepened in search of additional pay after identification of the two foot pay section from 5,094 to 5,096. The only oil source thus far logged failed to develop production in large flowing amount. It is 11 miles southeast of Plains, in section 678, block D, John H. Gibson survey.

Preparations are being made for nitro shot today or tomorrow in Adams, Hitchcock and Bradley No. 1 Sealy, new producer in the Sealy area near the Ward-Winkler line. Bottomed 3,129 feet in lime, the well has been flowing at four hour intervals. (See OIL NEWS, page 4)

RED CROSS GETS CASH FROM STATE

Midland Is One of the First Chapters to Send In Quota

ST. LOUIS, March 24. (P)—Howard Bonham, branch director of public information of the Red Cross, said today that of the chapters in midwestern states which have reached or over-reached their flood quotas, 26 were located in Texas.

He listed the Texas cities whose chapters have reached quotas as follows:

The Revue is being put on by the Midland Lions Club, and through the courtesy of the management of the Yucca theatre, the Lions Club will receive a liberal percentage of the gross receipts of the evening. The funds derived by the club will be used in their sight conservation and blind work, major objectives of the international organization.

It is expected that the Yucca theatre will be packed to capacity for this great show. Don't miss it.

Severe Wind, Hail Storm Hits Tyler

Buildings and Crops Hit by Worst Blow Since 1928

TYLER, Mar. 24. (P)—The most destructive East Texas hail and wind storm since 1928 struck here today. Buildings were heavily damaged and crops in the surrounding territory were hard hit. Plate glass windows were shattered, roofs were ripped off, and 52 telephones wires were "out".

Hail stones drifted knee deep against buildings, causing water to flood basements. Exposed autos were badly battered by the stones as they fell.

Damage was estimated at more than $500,000. A sudden storm covered the area from Chandler, Henderson county, to Longview.

Tomato and fruit crops were badly damaged.

The roof of the Tyler airport hangar was ruined. Hailstones rained up to the size of hen eggs. Longview reported the airport hangar destroyed and four planes damaged.

The storm forced a gasoline truck into the ditch near Tyler.

Near Kilgore toppled oil derricks damaged buildings. Three planes were blown a quarter mile and damaged.

WINDSTORM STRIKES IN BROWNWOOD

A windstorm struck Brownwood Monday and damaged ten buildings to the extent of $25,000. A railroad freight house and a mill were leveled and two ice plant cooling towers crashed on adjoining buildings.

Storm warnings were posted on the Gulf coast from Louisiana to the Mexican border.

RESISTS ARREST, MEXICAN IS SHOT

Officers Wound Ex-Convict In Leg As He Draws Gun on Them

BIG SPRING, March 24. (Spl.)—Luterio Oroscio, Mexican ex-convict, was shot in the leg just above the ankle while resisting arrest by city policemen Sunday at 11:45 p. m. near the Driemland hotel in the Mexican section.

Armed with a 38 calibre pistol which contained three shells, Oroscio was killed when he turned on officers after being trapped between the hotel and fence. Bones of his right leg were shattered by a bullet from 45 pistol, the calibre gun both Policeman L. A. Coffey and John Taylor were firing.

He was rushed to the Big Spring hospital by the police. The member was set shortly after noon Monday.

The officers had been called to the scene when theft of a car from Andrew Garcia was reported. When they arrived several Mexicans had stopped Oroscio, but he pulled a pistol and fled.

Three weeks ago Oroscio returned here from Huntsville where he finished serving a two-year term for burglary of the Smith Bros. drug store on North Gregg street. Oroscio was wounded in a shooting scrape two years ago when Tomas Jaure fired on another Mexican. His little finger was shot off at that time.

Health Officers Are Behind Clean-Up Act

Unsold Mohair Total Is Further Reduced

SAN ANGELO. (P)—Another spurt of mohair contracting reduced the total unsold Texas spring mohair to an estimated 3,000,000 pounds, slightly more than half of the spring clip of 1936. Prices rose cent and a half a pound to a new top of 57 cents for grown and 57 1/2 cents for kid hair in the most recent sales.

All but a few thousand pounds is estimated to be in the hands of warehouses with control of sale. Six Boston firms and a number of small speculators have bought most of the mohair to date from small warehouses and individual ranchmen.

Little has been delivered because less than 50 per cent of the shearing has been completed.

Except for the sale of a few lots of clippings, the wool market has been quiet. The price of 20 cents a pound, 2 1/4 cents higher than the peak of last year, was paid for 100,000 pounds of clippings from the Joe B. Blakeney warehouse by Murphy Campbell for a Boston firm.

Health Week merely starts the campaign; the success of Clean Up measures rests entirely on the shoulders of the people of the state.

BEHIND THE SCENES

WASHINGTON
By RODNEY DUTCHER

Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 24.—“I suppose this new program is a subterfuge,” remarked an AAA official privately. “But the nice thing about it is that it’s a subterfuge which deceives nobody.”

He might have added that the soil conservation program, as a subterfuge, probably won’t work. It is an excellent device for transferring funds from taxpayers to farmers and its ultimate potentialities as a conservation measure are very great. But the men in charge of it become increasingly doubtful whether it can be used to control agricultural production.

In two or three years, insiders on the farm program now suspect, they will once more be confronted with the same old problem with which they started in 1933—huge surpluses of agricultural crops which are bound to force down prices and farm incomes.

And then, it is unofficially reasoned, the federal government will again have to embark on a program for control of agricultural production. The agrarians in the administration seem to think that’s inevitable as long as the industrial system operates on scarcity policies.

The Supreme Court? Well, these predictions are more or less predicated on the idea that Roosevelt will be re-elected and have the chance within two or three years on planting intentions for cotton since the government report for 1926 indicated a tremendous surplus and hit the market hard. Senator “Cotton Ed” Smith and some other senators pushed through a law forbidding the Bureau of Agricultural Economics from making any more cotton forecasts.)

State Rule Seen as Botch

The provision in the soil conservation act which would turn administration of the program over to the states after a couple of years may never go into effect.

State administration would make it still more difficult for the act to be used in a crop control program, and officials here tend to suspect that the efforts in some states to set up their own administrations will get so gummy that Congress will eliminate that plan.

G. O. P. Center on House

Republicans planning an extra-special effort to regain lost strength in the House of Representatives. They face the unpleasant and practically unprecedented possibility, in case they elect a president this year, of a Republican chief executive and a Congress heavily Democratic in both houses.

The party must win 115 Democratic seats and hold those it now has to get a bare House majority. No party has ever made such a clean up and about the best the G. O. P. hopes for is to make a big dent in the opposition’s majority this year, with the idea of finishing the job in 1938.

Whether or not a Republican president is elected, the special effort on the House will be good strategy.

The Senate, as everybody knows, can’t possibly be Republican again before 1940, because senators are elected for six-year terms and the voters loaded the upper house with Democrats in 1930, 1932, and 1934. (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

FEMININE FANCIES
BY KATHLEEN EILAND

Our vote goes for: peach colored nightgowns with blue trim (and we don’t care if they are insipid); the big carved ivory color buttons; new sports suits in novelty weave in big plaids; new slippers with half-a-dozen buckled straps; evening gowns with panels hanging from the shoulders; sets of checked or cloth bows with checked buttons to match; and chocolate pie every day of the week.

Times when we feel discouraged: When a sandstorm comes just as we’ve decided to clean house, or worse still, when we’ve just finished the cleaning; when extra expenses come up while we’re trying to save up a vacation fund; when we start a story three times and it still won’t sound right; when we realize there’s a run in our last good pair of hose; when we’re forced to rush from the office to dinner on Saturday night and, feeling all disheveled, observe the other girls arrayed for the evening in good-looking new dresses.

Wonder why we can’t always feel as courageous as on a fresh spring morning when the breeze is just a bit chilly and the green leaves have attained that faint delicious shade they wear only in the beginning of the season?

The new crepe-knit hose that McCall’s magazine for April calls attention to are now being displayed in a downtown store. The crepe-knits have an unusual elastic quality and are said to wear better. The ones being shown here have the “matched heel” effect.

and wealthy father in England by marrying an American girl. They are living in humble circumstances.

Mrs. Errol—“Dearest” to her husband and her young son—brings the news of the death of little Ceddie.

That scene closes the prologue. The action skips two years to the early summer of 1885. It is Ceddie’s birthday and his mother presents him with a new bicycle. Ceddie by this time is a well-grown little boy, slender but wiry in build and handsome. He is dressed fastidiously in the fashion of the children of his day. Although he gives indications of a startling maturity of mind, he is nevertheless all boy—sturdy and courageous.

With his new bicycle, Ceddie rides gaily through the streets to show it to Dick, his bootblack friend the old apple-woman and his grocer friend, Mr. Hobbs. He is accosted by a group of street gamins who try to take the bicycle away from him. A rough and tumble fight ensues in which Dick joins, aiding with Ceddie. The two manage to give a good account of themselves, though outnumbered, until a policeman intervenes.

At the grocery, Mr. Hobbs professes an enormous contempt for “earls and marquises” as he calls them in their pride of wealth and lineage. He tells Ceddie he wouldn’t allow one of them to step foot in his store—“I’ll be jiggered if I would,” he declares emphatically.

Hobbs, reading from an illustrated British periodical about the nobility, impresses upon Ceddie that these are very evil persons indeed. Ceddie, knowing, no better and possessing a tremendous respect for Hobbs’ knowledge of the great world, sits on Hobbs’ cracker barrel and drinks in all this wisdom very sagely. Hobbs’s is his preceptor, his guide, counselor and friend, the fount of all wisdom.

As for earls and marquises, Hobbs dismisses them all with a single eloquent phrase—“they’re a bad lot.”

“Did you ever know many of them?” Ceddie inquires.

“No, I guess not,” Mr. Hobbs admits. “But I’d like to catch one of them in here, that’s all. I’ll have no graspin’ tyrant sittin’ around on my cracker barrels.”

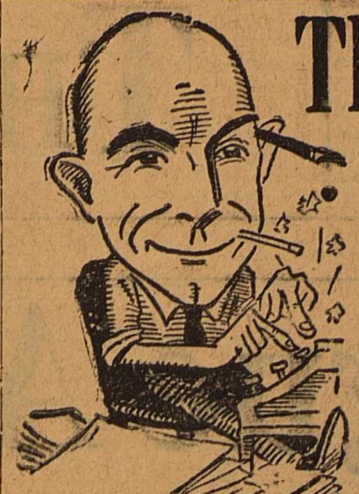

Ceddie is properly impressed but remarks charitably: “Perhaps they wouldn’t be earls if they knew any better.”

“Wouldn’t they?” Mr. Hobbs rejoins. “They just glory in it. It’s in ‘em—that’s what.”

Considerably mystified, Ceddie is considering this regrettable situation when Mary, the Irish servant in Dearest’s home comes to the store looking for him. She tells the boy that his mother wants him at home.

GARDEN Gossip

Flower gardens are very much like love affairs in that they are personal manifestations, no two exactly alike, and there is no accounting for tastes.

For the owner of a small garden, particularly for renters, the value of annuals is not as thoroughly appreciated as it should be. By their use a brilliant display of flowers is easily obtained from June until frost. Nearly every place, no matter how small, has space for a border and little more than 3 or 4 feet wide, 10 feet long or more is sufficient.

The most satisfactory way of dealing with such a space is to plant it to annuals of one or two different colors in varying tones. Suppose that a blue and pink scheme should be decided upon, a popular combination and always effective. For the back row pink sweet peas for early bloom or several of them might be planted. Later gladiolus in pink shades might replace them. Petunias happen to us,” she tells the boy mysteriously.

Hurrying home, Mary slips upstairs with Ceddie and dresses him up in his very best clothes. She combs out his curly locks. He hurries downstairs. A tall, thin, elderly gentleman is talking to his mother, who has tears in her eyes.

She runs to her son and catches him up in her arms to kiss him. It is evident that she is greatly troubled.

“Oh, Ceddie, darling!” she exclaims to the puzzled child.

The tall old gentleman rises and looks at Ceddie with sharp eyes. He rubs his thin chin with his bony hand and seems not at all displeased.

“So this,” he says at last, “so this is little Lord Fauntleroy.”

And thus begins a new and most amazing chapter in Ceddie’s career. (To be continued tomorrow)

Such a planting would not only give a beautiful color effect for the greater part of the summer, but would furnish a generous supply of material for bouquets in the house.

All these annuals are easily grown from seed sown in the open ground. They should be arranged so that the pink and blue groups alternate harmoniously, the tall plants at the back of the border and the lower growing ones being graded to the front.

Pink dahlias might also be added to the border for the late fall bloom; plant them in seed boxes early in the spring and transplant later.

The groups should be about 3 feet in length in order to produce a good effect, and from 1 to 3 feet in depth according to the total width of the border. The length can vary considerably, but the width should be such as to make weeding and cultivation convenient.

Such a planting would not only give a beautiful color effect for the greater part of the summer, but would furnish a generous supply of material for bouquets in the house.

Treat Goats Better As Mohair Prices Up

SAN ANGELO, (AP)—The sudden jump in the price of mohair has caused many goatmen to take better care of their animals. Some have gone back to the former system of hand-kidding and thousands of V-shaped kid boxes, which are the homes of the kids for about two weeks after they are born, are being made. They are staked at the boxes until well acquainted with their mothers and get on their feet solidly. There is no mixing of kids, because nannies unerringly pick their offspring out of a village of thousands of kids.

Sid Peterson of Kerrville, kidding out 5,000 nannies, has made 3,000 kid boxes. Recent rains over the good country have assured a high percentage of kids but the mortality rate is greater than that of sheep.

NEW RECORD FOR YEAR IS SET WITH 39 FIRST REPORTS Seven West Texas Counties Get Locations

Winkler county headed the list with nine new locations, followed by Howard with eight, Ector with six, Crane and Upton and Ward with five apiece and Pecos with one.

To Open Reception Suite of Governor

AUSTIN (AP)—The governor's formal reception suite, long unused because of its ragged appearance, will be reconditioned so the chief executive may entertain Centennial guests in pomp and splendor.

Mrs. Alred took a hand with the board of control in planning re-decoration of the rooms that once were the show places of the capitol. Architects and interior decorators of the University of Texas were enlisted while commercial firms volunteered aid.

Essential work, he said, included a new carpet, new draperies and re-decoration of the furniture. Portions of the discarded draperies and carpet, along with cloth used for the furniture upholstery, were assigned to the university of Texas home economics department. Professors found the fabrics of value in studying the quality and workmanship in ante-bellum days. Workers who started the first phase of the renovation recently discovered interesting facts in construction of the capitol more than half a century ago.

Welfare Workers to Face Examinations

AUSTIN, Texas, Mar. 23.—Notices have been posted throughout the state, announcing examinations to be held March 25 for social workers to augment the personnel of the Texas Child Welfare Division following the enactment of the National Social Security Act, granting Federal funds for child welfare work in predominantly rural areas.

This plan of strengthening child welfare activities in rural districts in Texas will be first inaugurated in six counties: Nolan, Brazos, Rusk, Johnson, Angelina and Young, with a joint center for Hidalgo and Cameron counties. Mrs. Violet S. Greenhill, Chief of the Texas Child Welfare Division, in the State Board of Control, has announced the examinations will be given for the following positions: Six district supervisors, at salaries ranging from $1,740 to $1,920 per year; seven child welfare workers for county demonstration units at salaries ranging from $1,800 to $1,900 per year. The examinations will consist of two parts, a grading of qualifications both as to training and experience by written and oral tests.

Engineers Face Hiway Problems

HOUSTON.—Speeded up motor transportation, plus the tremendous increase in traffic on our roadways, imposes upon our highway engineers vitally serious problems, according to Col. Ike Ashburn, executive manager of the Texas Good Roads Association.

"Even though we are scarcely more than 50 per cent complete in our state highway program, we find ourselves confronted with a problem of reconstruction and readjustment of our highway planning to meet the demands of safety in highway traffic," says Col. Ashburn. "To stop the slaughter in the United States annually of 36,000 persons, the hopelessly maiming of 107,000, and the serious injuring of 1,700,000, and an annual loss of $1,600,000,000 in earning power and property, is to a considerable extent, at least, the inescapable responsibility of the planners and designers of our highways. "Today there are 26,000,000 automobiles registered in the United States. Predictions are that by 1960 this number will have increased to 31,000,000 passenger cars and 6,000,000 motor trucks.

Out-moded electrical wiring caused workmen concern. To stretch anticipated funds as far as possible, the board used its regular maintenance staff to install new electrical fixtures. One large chandelier in the center provided the room's only electric light outlet. Workers ripped up part of the flooring to install switches and sockets in convenient places. They found the quality of insulation 50 years past quite good. Heavily covered copper wire was buried in the molar and rock base for the floor. Much to their surprise the insulation was still alive and pliable. It did not break under the strenuous bending and twisting. Gov. Alred has advocated improving the suite. At times part of his
