

Britain To Back Locarno Pact-Eden

SAYS GERMANY IS OBLIGATED TO AID IN KEEPING PEACE

House of Commons Is Given Assurance On Stand

BACKS COUNTRY CITES OBLIGATIONS TO LIVE UP TO HIS WORD

LONDON, March 26. (P)—Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden today told the House of Commons that Britain would back the Locarno pact.

Eden declared that Germany must make its contribution toward easing the Rhineland crisis, which he described as one of the most "critical in international negotiations."

He further asserted that Britain was obligated to guarantee there must be no aggression between Germany, France and Belgium. "I am not prepared to be the first British foreign secretary to go back on the British signature," he said, "and I do not view the future with a light heart."

French officials said Wednesday Italy has refused flatly to accept the Locarno proposal to negotiate a new European peace.

Simultaneously, the official sources said, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden has indicated Great Britain will not consider a virtual military alliance between the four remaining Locarno Nations as binding until the Fascist acceptance is delivered at London.

The Locarno agreement, approved by representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium, would draw the four powers together, for mutual assistance in the event of an unprovoked attack.

It was formulated after Germany returned the Rhineland and was rejected Tuesday by Reichsminister Hitler because it included a buffer zone along the Rhine to be policed by an international force.

Premier Benito Mussolini has refused to accept the accord, officials declared, unless the League of Nations will remove the war sanctions for Fascist aggression in East Africa.

At the trial the state contended the rail was originally a part of the Hauptmann attic.

Intervention Threat Given Communists By Japanese

Red Menace Within Provinces Cited By Military

PEIPING, Mar. 26. (P)—Japanese militarists today strongly threatened intervention as the vanguard of a communist army campaigning in China appeared at the frontier of Inner Mongolia.

A Peiping attaché warned "the Japanese army will take most effective steps to deal with the situation of communist menace of peace in the Hopei and Charhar provinces."

In Moscow the Soviet government ordered its ambassador to Japan to lodge a strong protest following a new border engagement Wednesday which Soviet advisers said resulted from a Japanese attack on a Red frontier post.

The fighting lasted for hours, entailing loss of life on both sides, said the report.

Dispatches located the post near Kiuindun, on the boundary of Manchoukuo. It was reported attacked by 50 to 60 Japanese soldiers, who established a position on a hill inside Soviet territory and opened fire with machine guns.

The attackers were finally driven back to the Manchoukuo territory, leaving their dead and wounded on the field, these advices stated.

SENATE MAPPING PLANS TO CONTROL FLOODS IN STATES

$300,000,000 Bill to Include Levees, Reservoirs

EAST BENEFITS Recently Inundated Areas to Gain By Bill

WASHINGTON, Mar. 26. (P)—Officially described as a move to take flood control projects out of the "pork barrel" class, the senate commerce committee Wednesday shaped a $305,000,000 bill which would include construction of reservoirs and levees in recently flooded eastern states.

As recommended by the army board of engineers, the legislature would authorize expenditures of $33,000,000 for dykes and levees along the Susquehanna in eastern Pennsylvania and $13,373,000 for a system of ten reservoirs on the upper Connecticut river in New England.

Chairman Copeland (D-N.Y.) of the committee said the measure which probably will be reported to the senate early next week, would establish for the first time the definite rule that henceforth all flood control projects must first be approved by the army engineers.

"By doing that," he told reporters "we will do away with all pork barrel projects."

As the committee was meeting, H. L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, assured the Massachusetts house democratic delegation that the $305,000,000 set aside by President Roosevelt for flood relief would be augmented if it became necessary.

Hopkins' assistants are now making a survey of the flooded area to get first hand information on the damage.

The Red Cross announced that $2,039,214 has been contributed toward its fund of $3,000,000 to relieve suffering and rehabilitate the stricken.

Officials estimate that the number of families needing help now has jumped to 100,000.

Copeland said his committee's flood control bill might be expanded when reports on Maine projects are received later this week. Still another bill covering projects on the lower Mississippi, already has been approved by his committee and is before the Senate. Introduced by Senator Overton (D-La.), it would authorize expenditure of $272,000,000.

The Copeland bill is a revised version of a measure passed by the house last session. As approved by the house, it would authorize projects costing $370,000,000.

The New Yorker said his program would require about $100,000,000 each year for three years.

Eleemosynary Feed Bill Charges High

AUSTIN, (P)—The state's grocery bill for feeding 19,000 inmates in its eleemosynary institutions was more than $1,000,000 in the past fiscal year.

A compilation by the board of control, showed expenditures of $607,346 for groceries and laundry supplies, and $506,934 for fresh meats and perishables.

Current expenditures at the institutions totaled $3,100,500. State appropriations provided $2,903,174, including $507,385 for buildings. Local funds contributed $197,324 for purchases.

HOUSE INQUIRY WILL PLACE BEFORE NATION DATA ON PENSION SCHEMES

WASHINGTON, March 26. (P)—The House has set today for opening of its $50,000,000 investigation into charges of racketeering and irregularities in the Townsend and other old age pension plans.

A special non-partisan committee, composed of eight of the shrewdest lawyers in the House, prepared to parade a long list of witnesses and hear the "inside" story of whether there are any corrupt practices, lobbying or racketeering with the aged's money in promotion of the plans.

It is the first major inquiry in the House this year although the Senate lobbying hearings have been on the front pages for some time. The house committee is composed of four Democrats and four Republicans.

Two of its members support the Townsend plan to pay, those persons past 60 years old monthly pensions of $200 each providing they spend it all within the month. The money would be raised through a 2 per cent transaction tax.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 26. (P)—The House Ways and Means committee today accepted without any change the program evolved by the sub-committee as a basis for hearings due to start next week.

The report recommended a new corporation tax designed to raise $580,000,000, ninety percent of the "windfall tax" to recover a portion of the non paid old AAA processing taxes.

It was revealed for the first time that railroads would be subject to a tax on undistributed corporation income.

Globe Trotter Has New Experience Of Hospitality Here

J. T. Wilkinson of Vancouver, British Columbia, is in Midland for a brief visit, having stopped off here to visit Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pratt. The visitor has known Mrs. Pratt ever since she was two and a half years old but refuses to tell how old that would make him.

Wilkinson, describes himself as a globetrotter but says that he never plans the length of his stays in various places.

He was favorably impressed with the "Western Hospitality" of Midland when a certain citizen offered him a free ride from the station to a hotel upon his arrival last night and this morning followed up the generosity by offering the visitor the use of his car while in the city. Such a thing had never happened to him in his life before, Wilkinson said.

He praised hotel accommodations here, and quoted ex-president Taft in describing the friendly hospitality of the West.

Previously he had planned to go to Dallas tonight, but said this afternoon he believed he would stay over one more night.

Representative for many years of a life insurance company in Vancouver, Wilkinson was formerly a newspaper correspondent and has traveled extensively.

DIVIDE LOOT Refuse to Wait for Government To Act

BADAJOS, SPAIN, Mar. 26. (P)—An estimated 60,000 farm laborers swarmed through most of the 263 villages of this province today, seized vast estates and proceeded to divide and allot the lands among themselves.

Police and civil guards were rushed to the province in an effort to oust the laborers, mostly socialists and communists, who demanded that officials of Badajoz register the land under the names of the "new owners."

The laborers had refused to wait for the imminent government measures of land distribution.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 26. (P)—Senator Minton (Democrat, Indiana) today accused William Randolph Hearst of "prostituting" his newspapers for his own private interests.

LEA POOL OPENER FLOWS 210 BBL. FIRST 12 HOURS

Barnsdall 1 Hardy Responds to Acid

By FRANK GARDNER

Barnsdall Oil Co. No. 1 Hardy, new pool opener four and a half miles east of the Eunice pool in Lea county, New Mexico, established itself as a commercial producer early today by flowing 210 barrels through 2-inch tubing the first 12 hours of test. Of this, 144 barrels was oil lead for the 3,000 gallon acid treatment left standing in the hole for about five hours.

The new pool opener is bottomed at 3,900 feet in lime and logged most of its pays in the last 100 feet. Prior to acidizing, it had been swabbing about 25 barrels a day.

The Barnsdall discovery may later be linked with the Eunice pool, but for the present will probably be considered as opening a new area.

It is located about a mile northwest of the town of Eunice in the center of the southeast of the northeast of section 29-21s-37e.

Yeaquam Well at 5,164

Although some softening was noticed in the lime section from 5,130 to 5,144, no increase in pay has been logged by Honolulu Oil Corp., Ltd., and Cascade Petroleum Corp. No. 1 Bennett, southeastern Yeaquam county discovery, in drilling to the present total depth of 5,163. The well has shown yield of about 20 barrels per day when swabbed down periodically.

The only pay source thus far logged by the No. 1 Bennett was a two foot porous lime section from 5,094 to 5,096, but production was not materially increased by a 2,000 gallon acid treatment. Decision was made to drill deeper in search of additional pays. The Yeaquam well, farthest north producer in the West Texas or Southeastern New Mexico Permian Basin, is southeast of Plains in section 678, block D, John H. Gibson survey.

The central Gaines wildcat prospect, W. T. Welsh and Harry Adams Corp. No. 1 Avertit, is reported shut down today because of the fire hazard created by wind blowing gas over engine. Bottomed at 4,910 feet in lime, the well is blowing wet gas at the rate of more than 12,000,000 cubic feet daily. Operators lost a ring-socket in the hole while trying to fish out a bit previously lost when drilling tools were blown up by the heavy gas. The Welsh and Adams test is three miles northwest of Seminole.

MIDLAND RED CROSS WIDE AWAKE

Midland's chapter of the American Red Cross, for several years under the close supervision of the chairman, Mrs. J. A. Haley, never fails to be ready when disaster strikes in other parts of the world. In the recent floods which rendered thousands homeless, Midland was one of the first chapters to send the full quota asked. This is highly commendable. When fires, floods, earthquakes or storms strike a section, with hundreds or thousands of people suffering, relief cannot be held up. To be effective it must be immediate. The attitude of local Red Cross officials should not be passed without notice.

BAND PROGRAM HELD IN ODESSA

Regular Monthly Meeting Is Attended by More Than 30

The regular monthly meeting of the band teachers was held in Odessa Sunday afternoon. The meeting was well attended by band teachers as far away as Colorado, Lubbock, Iraan, and Pecos. Some thirty band directors and superintendents were present. The meeting consisted of three parts: a concert by the Odessa high school band, a clinic discussion by band directors and superintendents, and a luncheon supper attended by band directors and superintendents together with their wives. During the clinic discussion part of the program, the Odessa theatre was host to the wives of the visiting band directors and superintendents.

The following program was given by the high school band under G. Ward Moody with D. O. Wiley of the Texas Tech Band as guest conductor:

Military Escort, march, Bennett; The Silver Chord, overture, O'Neill; oboe solo, selected, Dewey, Chestnut, accompanied by Edna Marie Jones.

Franklin Field, march, Goldman; Valse Triste, from Jarnet's 'Kuolema,' Sibelius; On the Square, march, Penella; Safari, overture, Holmes; E Pluribus Unum, march, Jewell.

The high points of the clinic discussion were as follows:

(1) D. W. Conley, director of Big Spring high school band, explained the latest developments in the plans for the official contest to be held in Big Spring on April 10th and 11th.

(2) A general discussion on the sight reading and solo playing phase of the contest.

(3) Major Long, superintendent of Monahan schools, gave a very fine discussion of the eligibility of school contestants, and the right mental attitude that contests should seek to promote.

A very fine luncheon was served to the entire meeting by the Home Economics department of Odessa high school.

Kin of Mdivani One Time T. U. Student

AUSTIN.—The recent tragic deaths of the two Georgian princes, Alexis and Serge Mdivani, calls to the minds of older members of the faculty of The University of Texas, that a brother-in-law of these members of the royal family of Georgia was formerly a professor of law at that institution. He is Dr. Charles Huberich, son of the late Conrad Huberich of San Antonio, who was for many years a well known real estate operator of that city.

Dr. Huberich attended the public schools of San Antonio and obtained his law degree from The University of Texas in 1897. He also studied international law at Yale and the universities of Berlin and Heidelberg. In 1907 he received the degree of doctor of laws from the University of Melbourne, Australia. He was professor of law at Stanford University, 1907-12 and at the University of Wisconsin, 1909-10. He is the author of many volumes on international law and foreign commercial trade, and is member of a number of learned societies in the United States and foreign countries, including the American Bar Association. He has long maintained offices as an international lawyer in Berlin, Paris, the Hague and New York City.

Dr. Huberich married Princess Mdivani, sister of the two princes whose marital adventures for a number of years have been the center of world attention. Dr. and Mrs. Huberich divide their time between Berlin and Paris.

Dollar Sales Show Gain Over Last Year

AUSTIN.—Dollar sales in Texas department stores during February showed a substantial gain over the corresponding month last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. There also was a moderate gain over the preceding month, although usually there is a slight decline, because February is the shorter month, the Bureau's report said.

Reports to the Bureau from 84 representative Texas establishments show average sales for February to have been 15.8 per cent above the like month last year, and 6.2 per cent above the preceding month. For the first two months sales averaged 13.8 per cent above the corresponding period a year ago. Cities in which sales showed an increase above the average for the State were: Abilene, Beaumont, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Lubbock, and Port Arthur.

Credit sales maintained about the same ratio to net sales as a year ago, but the ratio of collections to outstanding accounts was about 4 per cent better than a year ago.

Representatives of Four Towns Confer on Arrangement

BIG SPRING, Mar. 25. (P.)—What many believe will be one of the most striking exhibits in the entire frontier centennial celebration at Fort Worth from June 1 to December 1, was planned here Monday evening by a group of representatives from this district of the West Texas chamber of commerce.

Men from four towns of this section discussed arrangements of a display on cattle, the subject assigned to this district, to be designed in the shape of the lone star.

Many striking features, particularly the element of action, were outlined for the exhibit. The district display will depict the cattle industry and its development from the date when Texas declared here independence until now.

Attending the meeting were S. A. Dehann, Midland county agent, Faylor White Odessa vocational agriculture teacher; Ralph Shuffler, Odessa newspaper publisher; A. G. Bearden, Lamesa chamber of commerce manager; L. P. Stark, Lamesa vocational agriculture teacher; Edmund Notestine, and W. T. Strange, Jr., Big Spring.

Beautification Work Is Spring Project Of Churches Here

Churches of the town are setting a good example in the way of property beautification this spring. Shrubs, grass, trees and flowers are being used to make the church grounds more attractive.

The Church of Christ last fall planted evergreens and roses as a beautification project.

The First Methodist church a few weeks ago initiated a project in the course of which 32 Chinese elms have been planted and about 40 pieces of shrubbery including arbor vitae, juniper, and cypress have been set out on the church grounds. At the rear of the church three cactus plants of special varieties have been planted.

Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Ryan are donating to the Baptist church a supply of shrubs for ornamenting the church plot. This church has planned a "beautify the grounds" campaign for this spring which includes the use of both shrubs and grass.

Try vines have been planted at the First Christian church in addition to the hedge which borders the grounds on some sides of the property. The Christian church faces special difficulties in its landscaping work because of the location near large commercial buildings. Papers and waste blown about the church and whirled high by wind currents make the task of keeping the grounds clean a hard one.

At the Presbyterian church, old mulberry trees have been taken up and replaced with new trees. It is also planned to resmooth the church lawn.

At St. George Catholic church several Chinese elms have been set out. The church property east of the building is being sodded to Bermuda grass and flowers are being planted.

The Trinity chapel lot is not owned by the Episcopal church but the church organization is in charge of watering the trees and taking care of the lawn. The lawn is being resodded and its planned to repaint the church.

Contracts for shrubbery in several of these projects is being handled by R. O. Walker, Midland nurseryman.

Relaxation Is Real Imperative to Beauty

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer

Real beauty never is tense. The woman who wishes to attain or retain the precious quality simply must learn to relax not only when she goes to bed but several times during the day.

First of all, make a rule to get up in time to bathe, dress and have a bit of breakfast in a somewhat civilized manner. This doesn't necessarily mean that you have to soak in the tub, try on three dresses before you make up your mind what to wear or take half an hour to drink orange juice and coffee. It does mean, however, that you ought to allow ample time for a shower, careful grooming and a somewhat peaceful breakfast.

To rush hither and yon with one eye on the clock is indeed the perfect way to start the day all wrong. Don't get your nerves on edge before the morning has fairly started.

Now don't say, "Well, I'll do that, but I'm a busy woman and relaxing during the day is quite out of the question." It isn't at all. You simply have to learn how.

Just what do you do when you ride in a taxi or automobile? Worry about time, fuss at the driver, fidget in your seat and fume about what you're going to do when you arrive? Why? It would be better indeed for your health, happiness and beauty if you'd stop thinking, close your eyes and rest for a few minutes.

You don't necessarily have to lie down in order to rest body and mind for two minutes at a time. When dinner is ready and waiting for the children who are late getting home from school, why stand at the window conjuring up imaginary worries? Couldn't you sit at the window, close your eyes and relax completely for a moment or two? Every woman whether homemaker or business executive, is sure to be benefitted physically and mentally by brief relaxation periods now and then.

FEMININE FANCIES
BY KATHLEEN EILAND

Despite all the laughs we had, we will have to admit that there was more "grace and beauty" in the men's burlesque revue last night than we had expected. With our usual frankness we said so this morning, only to have some one come back with, "You must not have expected much."

Designers of clothes this year seem to have a kinship with the walrus and the carpenter or the nursery rhyme for they have thought "of many things" in the way of dress ornaments. We noticed a knit suit with a blouse whose buttons were tiny sea shells. And another, of knit material, which boasted a double row of corks used instead of buttons on the front of the waist. This latter dress, by the way, carried a novel effect in having one brief sleeve of one color and the other of a different shade. In a sport effect dress, the result was interesting.

Beginning with wooden dogs for adding dash to sweaters and sundry frocks, the fad for puppies has advanced to the stage where Scotties in colors as vivid as a fireman's dreams may be purchased in an expensive composition pin that adds a bright touch to clothes for the set.

Elizabeth Arden, who apparently spends her days thinking up new things for the woman who regards her beauty, has now produced a "looking-glass" lipstick. This doesn't mean that the lipstick itself has any mirroring quality but that it is packaged in a case concealing a real mirror. When the stick is pulled out, up flips a slender glass just large enough to show a complete closeup of the lips.

BELIEVED IMPROVED

The condition of Mrs. Brooks Lee who is seriously ill at her home here was believed to be a little improved today, a report early this afternoon said. After a bad night, Mrs. Lee appeared to be a little stronger today.

Little Lord Fauntleroy

SPZLNICK INTERNATIONAL Presents
Starring
FREDDIE BARTHOLOMEW
DOLORES COSTELLO BARRYMORE
A Motion Picture Based on the World-Famous Frances Hodgson Burnett Story

What Has Gone Before
Young Cedric Errol, "Little Lord Fauntleroy," learns that he is to inherit the estates and title of the Earl of Dorincourt. He goes with his mother to England to live with the gruff old Earl. The mother, an American woman, is not permitted on the grounds. She agrees to the separation for the sake of her son, who meanwhile begins to win the heart of the tough, old aristocrat.

CHAPTER THREE

The next morning Little Lord Fauntleroy receives further introductions to the grand surroundings in which fate has placed him. He proceeds promptly to make a solid friend of Dawson who has been detailed to "take care of him."

"Miss Dawson or Mrs. Dawson?" he inquires of Mrs. Mellon, the housekeeper at the castle.

"Just Dawson, my lord," says Mrs. Mellon. "She is here to do anything you ask of her."

The haughty Earl is impatiently awaiting the appearance of his grandson in the library, Mr. Mordaunt the clergyman calls and hands his hat to Thomas, the footman. In the library he find Ceddie and the Earl, down on their hands and knees, shooting marbles. The sight almost staggers Mordaunt.

"Any good at marbles, Mordaunt?" the Earl asks his amazed caller. He astonishes Mordaunt further by giving him a gracious hand shake. Then he introduces Ceddie as "the new Lord Fauntleroy."

"Fauntleroy, this is the rector of the parish."

Mordaunt has come to plead the cause of one of the Earl's tenants, Higgins, who is behind in his rent. Higgins' wife is ill. Ceddie listens to the conversation interestedly.

"What would you do in this case?" the Earl asks Ceddie.

"I should let him stay and give him the things for his children that they need."

Dorincourt directs Ceddie to write a letter to Newick, the Earl's agent, saying that Higgins is not to be interfered with for the present. Mordaunt is astonished. Ceddie writes:

"Dear Mr. Newick if you please Mr. Higgins is not to be interfered with for the present and oblige. Yours respectfully
"Fauntleroy."

Ceddie tells his grandfather: "I think you must be the best person in the world... I shall write and tell Mr. Hobbs."

"What is Mr. Hobbs' opinion of Earl?" the old man asks.

"He thought you mustn't mind—that they were gory tyrants and he said he wouldn't have them hanging round his store. But if he'd known you I'm sure he would have felt quite different."

After Mordaunt departs the Earl tries to divert Ceddie's mind from Dearest by telling him about the pony that is awaiting him. Ceddie will not be put off. He and the Earl are driven to Court Lodge. The Earl does not get out to Ceddie's surprise.

"Not—not to see Dearest?" he cries.

"Dearest will excuse me," says the Earl dryly. He gazed backward as the carriage is driven away and glimpses the eager greeting between mother and son. His face is bitter.

On the following Sunday at Erling Church the congregation is hugely excited. Gossip of the new Little Lord Fauntleroy has filled the county side. As Dearest approaches the church all the tenants and their wives and families greet her. She has already made a good impression and Higgins has spread far and wide the story of the letter that Ceddie wrote to him. The general opinion is that the new Lord Fauntleroy is "Captain Cedric comes to live again."

There is excitement when the Earl himself is coming to church with his grandson. They enter the Dorincourt pew and Ceddie glances across the church at his mother.

He sees a tablet on the wall showing two figures in antique dress, hand uplifted before a missal. An inscription on the tablet says:

"Here lieth ye bodye of Gregorye Arthur, Fyrst Earle of Dorincourt, Alsoe of Alisone Hildegarde hys wyfe."

"Who are they?" Ceddie asks his grandfather excitedly.

"Some of your ancestors who lived a few hundred years ago," the Earl answers.

After the service Higgins approaches Lord Fauntleroy and begs permission to thank him.

"I only wrote the letter," Ceddie tells him. "It was my grandfather who did it. You know how kind he always is to everybody."

And the Earl, wearing a very grim smile indeed adds: "You see, Higgins the people on the farms have been mistaken in me. When you want reliable information on the subject of my character apply to him. Get into the carriage, Fauntleroy."

On the way to the castle the carriage passes Dearest. Ceddie waves while his grandfather ignores her. The Earl engages him in conversation about Dearest, and Ceddie assures him that he misses her greatly even though he sees her almost every day.

"If I didn't live with you," the boy says earnestly, "I should think about you all the more."

"Pon my word, I believe you would!" the Earl exclaims.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking acids and wastes out of the blood. A healthy person should pass about 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, waste stays in the body and may become poisonous. It may start nagging backaches, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't let it lay you up.

Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

Water Has Dozen Uses In Efficient Housewife's Daily Kitchen Schedule

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

Ever think about the ways you use water and the temperature for each use?

Vegetables for instance, must be crisped in very cold water, but for the first washing to remove the sand and grit you will find that tepid water does the trick in half the time. Spinach, leaf lettuce, broccoli, all the root vegetables, asparagus and beans are more easily cleaned in water that is lukewarm or even warmer.

Use of warm water to spray house plants. It is much more efficacious than cold in removing the accumulation of dust from the leaves.

Warm Soapsuds for Paint
For the washing of painted woodwork and furniture, you'll need warm soapsuds. A heavy lather first, then a cloth wrung out of warm, clear water and a final polish with a soft cloth. For finished natural woods, complete the cleaning with a rubbing of furniture polish or liquid wax. For mahogany furniture, use chamolis in place of cloth—one for the washing and one for the rinsing.

Or you can remove gelatin mixtures from their molds by wrapping a cloth wrung out of very hot water around the bottom and sides of the molds. This insures against too much melting and assures firm forms for serving.

Very hot or boiling water is the simplest and quickest way to remove fruit stains from table cloths and napkins. If the whole cloth does not need laundering, stretch the place with the stain in embroidery hoops and pour hot water through.

Time Saver
If you use hot water to sprinkle clothes they will be ready for ironing in fifteen to twenty minutes. A garment or piece of linen dampened with very hot water and rolled tight is of an even dampness all over and irons just as easily as one which was dampened with cold water and allowed to stand over night. Try it some time when you are in amakes the frosting spread easily.

hurry to iron and can't wait to dampen down the laundry.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Sliced bananas with stewed dried apricots or real cream, baked French toast milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Onion and celery soup, toast sticks, stuffed peach salad, rye bread, chocolate tapioca, milke, tea.

DINNER: Veal birds, new peas in cream, stuffed tomato salad, strawberry shortcake, milk, coffee.

Molded gelatin desserts and salads as well as those frozen in molds are easily removed from the molds for serving if they are plunged into a pan of hot water for a few seconds. They should be kept in the hot water just long enough to melt the gelatin or frozen mixture against the metal of the mold and this won't take even a minute.

Rolls Rise Quicker

You can hasten the rising of your rolls, if, after they are shaped and in the cans, you place them in a cupboard near a pan of steaming water and close the door tightly. The moist warmth will penetrate the dough and make the rolls rise quickly. This is particularly worth keeping in mind when making ice-box rolls because these take double the rising time of ordinary rolls.

The raw taste of so many uncooked icings is overcome if the icing is permitted to stand over hot water for fifteen or twenty minutes. Also you can keep icings in a pliable condition if they are put over hot—not scalding—water while frosting the cake. Not boiling water, though, which would continue to cook the icing. Sometimes merely dipping the spatula into hot water and allowed to stand over night. Try it some time when you are in amakes the frosting spread easily.

FIGHT FOR AUTONOMY IN PUERTO RICO IS GAINING BY THE USE OF VIOLENCE

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, March 25 (U.P.)—The Nationalist party, too weak to elect a single candidate to office in the last election when it polled less than 2 per cent of the total vote, has become at least temporarily the dominant force in molding Puerto Rican public opinion, and may be the decisive factor in determining the island's permanent political status.

For the first time since Puerto Rico became American territory 38 years ago the promise or threat, depending on viewpoint, of an independent republic seems to many hitherto skeptics to be in process of realization. Conservative observers, especially continental Americans who in the past regarded the independence movement as a romantic quest or a sentimental gesture, admit that recent developments—specifically the Nationalist campaign of violence and the popular reaction to it—furnishes convincing evidence that the desire for separation from the United States is strong, earnest, and widely felt.

An American business man whose interest here over a score of years have brought him into contact with different social and economic groups, asserts that separatist sentiment and anti-Americanism have been constantly growing stronger and that nationalism in its latest radical phase is the inevitable climax of a long developing condition.

Appeals to Emotions

The Nationalist party owes its present emotional ascendancy in great part to the power of its leader Pedro Albizu Campos to awaken and dramatize rather primitive group and racial antagonisms. Albizu Campos' "ideology" is simple, easily understood, and above all "good theater." His creed is that Puerto Rico, a small nation of Spanish descent, culture and tastes, has become the unwilling vassal state of the brutal Yanqui empire of Anglo Saxon blood and traditions whose only purpose is to exploit and enslave the native population. Every evil in insular life, according to the nationalists, has its origin in this relationship and the only remedy lies in an immediate rupture that would leave Puerto Rico an independent republic.

To support his "conquered nation" doctrine Albizu Campos has constructed a theory of Puerto Rican nationality which he asserts is based on the principles of international law. The autonomy charter granted by Spain in the closing of that treaty made by the Spanish Crown should apply to the island until the colonial government had ratified it. The Treaty of Paris by which, at the end of the Spanish American War, Spain transferred this island to the United States, was not submitted to the government for ratification. Consequently, Albizu contends, the transfer had no validity and when Spain withdrew Puerto Rico became, and still remains, a nation entitled to rule itself.

Convincing to Youth

To realistic students this doctrine of Puerto Rican nationality were opened in island towns and 8,000 volunteers were said to be enlisted. Recruiting an army for use against the United States is one of the aims for which Albizu and his associates will be tried in the Federal Court in San Juan.

Hard-headed outsiders find it difficult to understand how a relatively small group of enthusiasts pledged to a purpose that if accomplished, in all reasonable probability will bring about the island's economic ruin, should play a leading and perhaps controlling role in forming public sentiment. The explanation lies to a very large degree in local political history since the American occupation. At the beginning of the new regime the two principal parties—the Republicans and the Federalists, who shortly became the Unionists, made platform declarations on the island's ultimate political status. Republicans committed themselves to statehood, thereby forcing their opponents to favor or at least include another solution. The latter declare for ultimate independence, although announcing willingness to accept statehood if granted.

Statehood Not So Popular

The statehood solution has always run a poor second to independence in popular favor and besides evoking little enthusiasm here it has on the whole been coldly received by Washington leaders.

Independence, on the other hand, always has been a grand vote getter and for a quarter of a century was used in every campaign by the consistently victorious Unionist party. The fact that governors sent here found it expedient to govern with the party in power convinced the people that the federal government favored the ultimate establishment of a Puerto Rican republic and was hostile to statehood. The Republicans, today the Union Republicans, have complained that the Washington administration has steadily encouraged the separatist movement. But while the majority leaders in the past lost no occasion to utilize the emotional appeal of "independence" they were careful to keep themselves free from any official commitment before the Washington administration.

Nationalism Young Movement

The Nationalist movement started as a revolt against what the younger generation considered the timidity and insincerity of the older political leaders. Nationalism, however, did not become a vital crusading force until Albizu Campos took command six years ago. Although he has not been a political success, Albizu Campos has so dramatized the colony versus independence, enslaved versus conqueror conflict, that it looks as if the island must decide what ending it prefers.

Many feel that despite the economic threat involved racial pride will force islanders to shun humiliation and choose independence when the showdown comes. That a showdown is certain is believed widely for visiting Washington officials have stated that the United States has sufficient problems on the mainland to keep it busy and will willingly let Puerto Rico go if the island shows a decided disposition to do so. Because of this attitude former representatives Alfonso Lastra Charriez, strong independence advocate, has pointed out the lack of necessity for the Nationalist campaign of violence and terrorism.

The coalition party now in control of the insular legislature authorized Resident Commissioner Santiago Iglesias to introduce into Congress a petition for statehood for Puerto Rico.

may sound fantastically incredible but it proved gloriously convincing to the younger generation of islanders, especially high school and university students, who saw in it a vindication of Puerto Rico's dignity and right to freedom. Puerto Ricans undoubtedly have felt a certain humiliation over the island's failure to achieve the independent status of the other Spanish American communities, and Albizu Campos' doctrine supplies a degree of compensation.

To stimulate and re-enforce the sentiment of nationality, Albizu and his associates have encouraged the bitterest animosity toward "the invaders." In all nationalist documents and proclamations "the nation" and "the invading power" are depicted in relentless and irreconcilable conflict. In an effort to give "la Nacion" the appearance of solid reality the Nationalist president has gathered about him a cabinet, as final convincing display "la Nacion" has its armed force "los cadetes de la republica" black shirted youngsters who drill two or three times weekly and who doubtless would sacrifice their lives at the command of Don Pedro, as they call their leader.

Campos' Power Analyzed

Albizu Campos' power to stir the imagination and win the allegiance of youth is the key to the strength and weakness of his leadership. His magnetic charm, his flaming oratory, his seemingly classic culture make an irresistible appeal to the young who seem in him the ideal crusader for insular freedom. So completely does he captivate young people and bring them under his sway that in recent months parents have withdrawn sons from island schools and sent them to the American mainland to protect them from the lure of the Nationalist leader. On the other hand Don Pedro's dominance depends on unquestioning surrender to his authority. His word must be law to his following. As long as he clings to the emotional field of American battling glorification of "la Nacion," he is uncontradicted. His troubles begin when the faithful commence to consider economic and social problems and question whether driving out the invaders and establishing "la Republica" will mean that all will live happily ever after.

The last election was disillusioning to the nationalists and probably this accounts for the turn to violence culminating in the assassination of the insular police chief, Col. E. Francis Riggs. The party did not anticipate a victory in 1932, but many Nationalists felt sure that a large popular vote would send Albizu Campos to the insular senate. The leader himself probably shared this view. He received twice as many votes as his running mates but his total was about 10,000, not a sixth of what was needed to win.

New Appeal Needed

Their poor showing in the election made the nationalists recognize that denunciation of the United States and the Utopian picture of an island republic was not a vote getting platform unless accompanied by militant, even terroristic, action. A number of bombings in the past 18 months have been attributed to the party, but in no single case has investigation disclosed sufficient evidence for a court case.

Gallagher Member Of Planning Board

Judge R. C. Hopping, Chairman, has announced the appointment of James A. Gallagher, Jr. of San Antonio to membership on the Land Use Committee of the Texas Planning Board. Mr. Gallagher is Secretary and General Manager of the Union Stock Yards in San Antonio.

"In accepting the invitation to become a member of this committee," Mr. Gallagher said, "although my time is very well taken up, I appreciate the honor of being invited to become a member of the Land Use Committee of the Texas Planning Board, and am pleased to accept."

"Mr. Gallagher's knowledge of the livestock industry in Texas will be extremely valuable to our committee," said Judge Hopping. "Our committee time and time again has called attention to the possibilities of the livestock industry in Texas and believes that Texas cattle should be raised, fed, fattened, and slaughtered in Texas. This State raises plenty of feed, and we should encourage our ranchmen to fatten their cattle in Texas on Texas-grown feed. Mr. Gallagher has ex-

"Its clean, fragrant bouquet tells me Coors is perfectly brewed and thoroughly aged"

BREWED WITH PURE ROCKY MOUNTAIN SPRING WATER

People who have traveled abroad often say: "Coors Export Lager is the one American brew which equals...or excels...in fragrance and flavor...the finest old world beers."

And well they may, for Coors is the one brewery on this continent which spares no expense...in ingredients, equipment and ageing time...to produce for you a true Viennese beer of sublime excellence.

The Coors people are not concerned about enormous quantity production. They have built and equipped a modest but scientifically modern plant for the purpose of supplying discerning people with a quality beverage. That this policy is appreciated is evidenced by the fact that plant capacity is taxed the year around to meet popular demand. Everywhere—folks who know say: Coors, of course.

bloc and officials of the Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., the Townsend organization, have not opposed the inquiry but have of fered its co-operation in conduct ing it.

Their only fight has been to at tempt to cut the $50,000 to $10,000 on the grounds that the investiga tion will lead to nothing startling and that it is wasting the taxpay er's money.

McGroarty Charges Politics McGroarty makes no secret that he believes the investigation is in spirated as "political persecution" of the Townsdenites by Congressmen, who are facing a "political firing squad" if they don't get on the "old age pension bandwagon."

The investigation committee, aside from Bell, is composed of Reps. Joseph A. Cavanagh, N. Y.; John H. Tolan, Cal.; and Scott W. Lucas, Ill., Democrats, and Reps. John B. Hollister, O.; Clare F. Hoffman, Mich.; Samuel L. Col lins, Cal., and J. Williams Ditter, Pa., Republicans.

Tolan and Collins have supported the Townsend movement.

Special Counsel Young James R. Sullivan, youthful Kansas City attorney, has been employed as the committee's special counsel. He has been direct ing a small corps of investigators into the accounts and financial set-up of the Townsend organiza tion for the past three weeks.

Committee members have hint ed there will be "startling revela tions" when the quest for evidence is shown. Sullivan was assistant city counsellor for Kansas City. Supporters of the Townsend plan are understood to have a battery of legal counsel ready to defend their interests. Some esti mates placed the number at 30 but that is considered high. How ever, it is expected that at least a dozen attorneys will be present to defend the Townsdenites.

Other Schemes Under Fire While the inquiry is aimed pri marily at the Townsend plan, it will go into numerous other old age programs.

Reports have reached the com mittee that Dr. James E. Pope is "working" again. He was under fire by postal authorities several years ago and was called to testify before a previous House investiga tion. There are several minor pen sion plans being fostered.

The McGroarty bill was included also in the scope of the investiga tion. The committee has broad powers to subpoena witnesses and documents necessary to carry out its investigation. It will report its findings to the Speaker of the House regardless of whether the House is in session.

An amendment was inserted in the original resolution, which will permit the committee to print its hearings as "public documents" to insure wide dissemination.

No Change in Winkler Test No change is reported in the Mag nolia No. 1 State-Walton, one of the most important wildcats now being drilled in Winkler county, in drill ing to 3,511 feet in lime. The test had previously recovered cores show ing oil-stains from 3,486 to 3,492. Located in section 7, block B-3, public school land, the No. 1 State-Walton is definitely on a structure, correlations showing it to be run ning 230 feet higher than the Sayre pool wells two miles to the west and 111 feet higher than the Sun No. 1 Walton producer a mile to the east.
