HASKELL FARMER GIVEN DEATH FOR WOMAN'S MURDER

Matura Scond Man Sentenced In Case

ASPERMONT, June 2 (P)—C. Matura, 65-year-old farmer, must die in the electric chair for killing Miss Rebecca Coursey, trail little 78-year-old O'Brien woman, a jury in district court decreed here Monday, after deliberating one hour and 15 minutes.

The trial was opened yesterday morning, the jury selected by mid-afternoon and testimony and arguments finished at 10 p. m., when the jury retired.

Clarence (Pony) Abston, also indicted for Miss Coursey's death, was given the death penalty recently in Haskell county.

Matura reversed his not guilty plea this evening after evidence had been completed. When the case was opened this morning he sought to plead guilty and ask for a light sentence, but the court ordered a jury trial on a plea of not guilty.

Neighbors of Abston and Matura as well as Miss Coursey, who lived alone in her cottage at O'Brien and allegedly was beaten to death with a harness hame, testified to events of the night of the fatal attack. The defense introduced Matura's confession made to officers following his arrest and placed the defendant on the stand for the purpose of establishing that he was a quiet, law-abiding man except when under the influence of liquor and that on the night of the killing he was drunk and under the domination of Abston.

COMPROMISE PLAN TO BE SUPPORTED BY MILITANT ONES

To Ultimately Cast Ballots Against Measures

WILL RAISE CASH Committee Says Bill To Produce 829 Millions

WASHINGTON, June 2 (P)—A determination to vote against any tax bill was expressed today by Senate Republicans attending a party conference. Senators attending said their strategy probably would be to support the finance committee compromise tax plan in preference to the house bill on the other proposal and their vote against it ultimately. Earlier, the finance committee, in a majority report, estimated its compromise measure would produce $829,000,000 permanent and temporary revenue in a year.

WASHINGTON, June 2 (P)—Riding down republican attempts to shift the administration of relief bills to the states and to block the Florida ship canal, the senate Monday passed by a 62 to 14 vote a more than $2,428,000,000 relief and deficiency bill.

The measure, as it went back to the house for action on senate changes, carried added items that made it one of the biggest supply measures in peace-time history. Pass age cleared the way for debate today on the tax bill, the last big barrier to adjustment.

As the senate sat until long after dusk, amendments were added to the relief bill so rapidly that clerks could not compute the exact total but figured it roughly at something in excess of $2,428,000,000. Included was $1,425,000,000 for continuing the work relief program.

A long day of heated debate was climaxed by a brief skirmish over an effort led by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) to return relief to the states, with the government contributing 75 per cent of the cost. It went down under a chorus of democratic roars, 57 to 14.

The skirmish was marked by a division between two republican presidential nomination possibilities, Senator Borah of Idaho and Vandenberg, as well as democratic chiding about another possible nominee—Governor Alf Landon of Kansas.

BEHIND THE SCENES

-IN-

WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 2—Conflicting and fragmentary reports of developments in the labor field have tended to blur the important fact that John L. Lewis and his committee for industrial organization are marching rapidly along in their campaign for mass organization of workers into industrial unions.

Some labor leaders predict a summer of organization as big as that which attended creation of NRA. Meanwhile, President William Green and the craft union hierarchy of the A. F. of L., at bitter war with the C. I. O., have sustained a succession of defeats.

The most sensational move came in recent private conferences, when representatives of the Lewis group told pro-Green executives of the steel workers' union that if they continued to stall, following the union convention organization drive, the C. I. O. would go ahead, anyway, with its proposed $500,000 steel organization campaign.

That simply meant a threat to sweep the union right out from under its old line executives, which would be by far the toughest move in the Lewis-Green battle thus far.

The steel union (Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers) held its convention at Canonsburg, Pa. Delegates proved to be almost unanimous for indus-

French Government Ponders Independence Gift As Balm for Syria, Sore Spot In Near East

By MORRIS GILBERT

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS.—The world may be treated, any day now, to the unusual spectacle of France giving something away.

The something is the mandate for Syria which France has held, under decree of the League of Nations since 1920.

To replace this mandate, Syria may get its independence on approximately the same terms which Great Britain was obliged to give the Kingdom of Iraq. These terms were fixed some years ago under a treaty which gave Iraq independence with some restrictions in regard to military aid in defence against foreign intrusion and in safeguarding British interests.

To arrange a similar treaty between France and Syria a delegation of eminent Syrian nationalists is at present in Paris. Most of the members of the delegation were in Syrian jails a few weeks ago. They were released after a 50-day boycott in Syrian national life which commenced last January.

In that time, not a wheel turned in Syrian industry, no banking operations were completed, no goods were sold from the warehouses, no taxes paid. The people "just sat," according to the vivid description of a Syrian who was a leader of the boycott.

Unity of Race Proven

The 50-day boycott was similar, but much more effective, this spokesman declared, to the "passive resistance" to British rule in India led a few years ago by Gandhi. The reason it was more effective, according to Syrian opinion, was that the boycott was nation-wide, and revealed an extraordinary unity of the race for Syrian independence.

In the meantime, street rioting and armed antagonism of various Arab groups in Syria to French rule were continuing, as they have done sporadically since General Gouraud "pacified" the Syrian countryside in 1920.

All these expressions of national sentiment were so convincing that France at last was forced to agree to parity. On the second Sunday in March at 10 o'clock in the morning national life suddenly commenced again. In mosques and Christian churches the word went forth that work would start, the boycott end.

Pledge Near Fulfillment

The Syrian delegates arrived in France on March 27. Persons close to the delegates feel that the present talks will be largely successful, from the Syrian point of view, and that they will go back to Damascus with a treaty between two sovereign states.

Thus, the great betrayal worked by the allies just after the war upon the Arabs of the whole Levant and middle east, from Syria to the Persian Gulf, will be largely remedied.

and the promises of Colonel T. E. Lawrence—"Lawrence of Arabia"—redeemed.

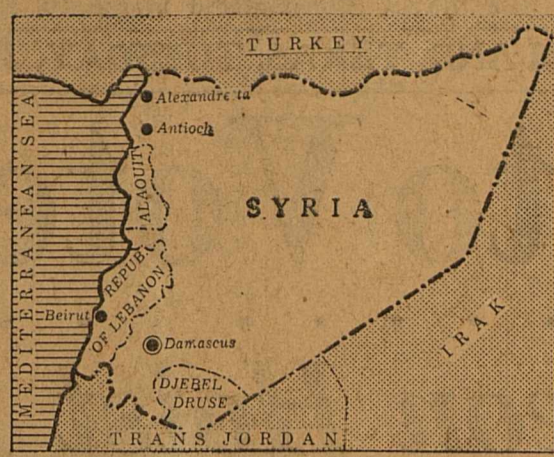

For it was on allied promises to establish an Arab empire that the people of the desert joined the World War, and Lawrence was their spokesman.

Hopes Blasted in Victory The Arabs, fortified by these promises, swept irresistibly up from the south and captured the capital, Damascus, from the Turks. When the war ended, they were faced, not with their Arab empire, but with a document called the Sykes-Picot treaty, by which Great Britain and France had divided up the middle east between themselves.

An American fact-finding commission went to Syria and came back to Geneva with the information that all Syria wanted independence; that they would accept an American mandate if obliged to; that, failing an American mandate, they would accept a British mandate; but that they would not accept a French mandate.

It was a French mandate which was presently imposed on them.

Three Failures for France Since that time, the struggle be-between France and Syria has had three phases. The first was persuasion by military force. It failed.

The map shows the area for which Syrians seek independence. Below, members of the Syrian delegation, with their president, M. Hachim Ben Hassi, in the center, as they paid a visit to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Paris between deliberations with the French on Syrian independence.

The second was by organizing a French-controlled constitutional government. It failed and the parliament was suspended. The third phase is the one now proceeding, produced by the 50-day boycott.

The Syrians today claim independence for the whole territory which the French divided up into five different states. The first is the so-called Lebanon republic, of which Beirut is the capital. This the spokesman of Syria proper are willing to leave independent of themselves, on the assumption that the people of Lebanon will frame their own treaty of independence with France.

All the other Syrian states—Syria proper, with Damascus as capital; the Djebel Druse region in the south; Alaouit, on the seacoast, and the district of Alexandretta and Antioch—should be reunited in a Free Syria, they claim.

Pressure to Be Relaxed The practical effect of a treaty would be that France would remove its troops except from two or three spots where they could remain as garrisons against possible foreign danger and as instructors of Syrian forces in military affairs. "Syria could still use instructors or counselors in certain elements of finance, military affairs, and economic life," a Paris Syrian told the correspondent, "but no plan for economic preferences for France is included in the Syrian idea of a treaty."

It is noteworthy that the present talks are being conducted between the Syrian delegation and the French foreign office—an indication that France already considers Syria as a nation.

Knapp Explains NYA WTCC Resolutions

LUBBOCK.—In an interview today, President Bradford Knapp of Texas Technological college, expressed regret that material which went to press regarding the filing of a resolution about the National Youth Administration by certain educators of West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention did not convey their true purpose to the public.

Repudiating a press release which seemed to imply condemnation of the NYA Dr. Knapp said that the giving of NYA college aid to students is one of the most effective and finest things the present administration has done. Praising the NYA work at Tech he said, "I am heartily in favor of the Government continuing NYA help to college students." He added that the resolution was meant to condemn not such help but only the inept setup of freshman centers.

Dr. Knapp's statement follows: "Last fall the National Youth Administration attempted to organize some so-called freshman centers, and unfortunately those in charge of the NYA handed down a provision that no person could belong to such a center unless he was a graduate of an accredited high school and a member of a family on relief. "Texas Technological college and a number of other colleges tried to work freshman centers on this basis. It simply cannot be done, because persons on relief and their sons and daughters as a rule are not looking for a college education and are not interested. Also, it may be said that very few of them are graduates of high school. Those who are can be taken care of by enabling them to earn their way in college, as some of them are doing.

"Freshman center work could have been put over, in the opinion of the men who handed in this resolution, if the provision had been that persons must be graduates of accredited high schools and postively proved to be in such financial straits that they could not afford to go to college. Under these conditions, centers might have been organized where temporarily high school graduates could have taken some work for college credit. Since only certain courses can be given under the circumstances outlined, however, it would be a mistake to make these centers take the place of real freshman work in college.

"Every effort is being made to urge the Government to continue the $15 jobs for persons attending college when such persons are able to prove that they cannot remain in college without aid. At Texas Tech 292 students have been benefited and the college itself greatly helped by a fine piece of work."

Small-Scale Model

BOLIVIA-PARAGUAY WAR FOLLOWED BY COMPLETE COLLAPSE, REVOLUTION AND DICTATORSHIP IN BOTH COUNTRIES.

Auto Workers Next Another C. I. O. drive will be made to organize automobile workers. This probably will proceed faster than the steel drive when it gets started, which means that the first big test of a new industrial union's strength is likely to come in the Michigan area.

The automobile industry, as is true of steel, is well organized only on the fringes.

The most important feature of the United Automobile Workers' meeting at South Bend, Ind., was a complete repudiation of the representatives and desires of Green.

Almost unanimous hostility was exhibited toward Francis J. Dillon, imposed last year by Green as the union's president. The union voted for industrial unionism and for a vigorous fight at the next A. F. of L. convention to prevent craft unions from raiding its ranks.

Other automobile unions as a result are eager to merge with U. A. W. Negotiations are in progress, probably to be followed by a vigorous organization drive next fall. A $250,000 drive fund is contemplated.

Other Blows at Green Green, meanwhile, has been harassed on other fronts.

After creation of a labor movement headed by Lewis, Sidney Hillman of the clothing workers, and George Berry of the pressmen to support Roosevelt for re-election, Green publicly warned organized labor to refrain from taking sides in partisan political contests.

Almost immediately, at least half a dozen state federations of labor formally declared their support of the Lewis-Berry-Hillman movement and it looked as if many more were preparing to run out on Green.

And very shortly Green himself was asserting that labor wanted to continue under the "inspiring and thrilling leadership" of Roosevelt.

The Pennsylvania state federation put another tack in Green's chair when it endorsed the C. I. O. and the steel drive.

If you like a good fight, you'll probably find the A. F. of L. convention this year considerably more fun than either the republican or democratic session. (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

Amateur Threat Missing In Lineup for U. S. Open; Picard Favored on Form

Traps Abound on Famed Par 72 Course; Expect Iron Shots Will Count Heavily

Play at Baltusrol Opens June 4; 170 Qualify

SPRINGFIELD, N. J. (U.P.)—Hole by hole description of Baltusrol course over which U. S. Open championship will be held:

No. 1—471 Yards. Par 5. This hole favors the long straight player. The green can be reached in two and its entire construction is designed to encourage bold play. This is the only hole where a shot may be saved between tee and green.

No. 2—423 Yards. Par 4. The woods guard the fairway on the right. The fairway slopes steeply from right to left. Care in placing the tee shot is necessary. The second shot may have to be played from a difficult stance.

No. 3—186 Yards. Par 3. The surface of the ground in front of this green is irregular and the green is closely trapped. Accurate judgment of distance is essential.

No. 4—390 Yards. Par 4. The tee shot here may be played to the right carrying traps at 165 yards or to the left between traps and trees. If that line of play is followed the second shot is from ground 30 feet below the greens surface.

No. 5—385 Yards. Par 4. Broken ground and bushes form a natural hazard all along the edge of the fairway to the right preventing a direct line of play to the green. The green is closely trapped but provided the tee shot is well placed the second shot is not difficult.

No. 6—439 Yards. Par 4. The first 270 yards of this hole is cut through woods and the tee shot must be straight. A slice or hook may prove expensive here for bunkers guard the approach to the green.

No. 7—216 Yards. Par 3. A large green closely trapped with a steep bank behind. A perfect spoon shot hole.

No. 8—538 Yards. Par 5. Woods border the fairway for its entire length on the right. The tee shot is trapped on both sides at 250 yards. The second has a wide fairway. The green is built on a natural plateau 20 feet above the fairway and is well trapped in front. Behind is a steep bank and careful judgement of distance is essential.

No. 9—346 Yards. Par 4. From an elevated tee a lake calls for a carry of about 185 yards. The green is small and narrow and is difficult to hold if the tee shot has been off line. There are more fives than threes on this hole.

No. 10—158 Yards. Par 3. The green is about 20 feet higher than the tee. It is small and well guarded. A stiff breeze adds to the problem here for a high ball is necessary.

No. 11—402 Yards. Par 5. The longest hole. Here the long player has an advantage—it is a difficult green to hold unless first and second shots have been long and well placed. A very long hole if the wind is in the south. There are very few birdies on this hole.

No. 12—340 Yards. Par 4. The tee shot is not trapped but trees on both sides await a wayward ball. The green is small and calls for a carefully played mashie for there are traps all around it.

No. 13—365 Yards. Par 4. A pool at the edge of the fairway to the right will catch only a short slice, beyond there are trees and a trap. To the left a ditch borders the fairway from 180 to 200 yards. The green is no a knoll and requires an accurately judged pitch shot over a deep trap to the left or through a narrow opening at the center.

No. 14—400 Yards. Par 4. Along the right side of this hole there is high ground which cannot be reached from the tee. A trap crosses the fairway from the center to the left edge. The player must carry that trap 195 yards from the tee or play into the face of the hill to the right from where he cannot see the green. The green is well guarded by large traps and the second shot calls for accurate judgment of distance particularly by those who are far from the center of the fairway.

No. 15—140 Yards. Par 3. The shortest hole. A mashie shot from a high tee to a green on top of a small hill. To the right a deep gully and traps to the front left and rear.

No. 16—439 Yards. Par 4. Group of trees to the left, open to the right but a large oak may stymie a second from the rough to the right but a large oak may stymie green are carried across a third of the approach from the left side. On the right is a deep trap. The green is flat and large. Fairly easy birdie hole.

No. 17—563 Yards. Par 5. The tee shot is uphill with traps and rough ground from 200 to 300 yards at the right. From the left to the center of the fairway at 450 yards punishing bunkers will catch short or poorly hit second. The green is small and narrow but tilted forward. The long hitters may, with a favorable wind, reach the green in two but it is a small green for a brassie shot.

No. 18—465 Yards. Par 4. The longest 4 par. The tee shot is played from high ground on to rising ground and to secure a good opening to the green it must be straight. All along the left of the approach to this hole is a steep bank into which a trap is cut. The approach is level to the right are sand traps. The green, large though flat, is not trapped. Thesecond shot must be long and accurate as to line and distance. Birdies are rare on this hole.

Might Makes Spelling Right
 WHITE HALL, Ark. (U.P.)—The moot question of proper spelling of the name of the Cross county town has been settled. Citizens of a mass meeting voted 150 to 2 in favor of White Hall instead of Whitehall. They thereby legalized the mistake of an old time Methodist minister.

win over the sixth oldest golf course in the nation.

Fairways Are Narrow
 The par 72 layout is a difficult test of iron work. The course is not exceptionally long, but it does place a premium on medium irons because the fairways are narrow and the greens are located on natural rises, requiring high shots.

Rain or strong winds add greatly to the difficulty of play.

It is a 6,866-yard hill and dale layout which clings to the foot-hills of the Orange Mountains. The Open was played there before the present course was rebuilt—in 1903 when Willie Anderson won.

Most of the experts figure that a score of 290 will be sufficient to win last year Parks won when he was the only player to break 300 on the difficult Oakmont course.

The field will play 18 holes June 4 and 18 June 5, with the low 60 and ties qualifying for Saturday's (June 7) 36 holes—the rounds on which championship hopes are made and broken. The winner will receive $1,000, a gold medal and custody of the championship cup for one year.

Frog Exhibit to Be Centennial Feature
 DALLAS—The horned toad's first claim came half a decade ago when one was found alive in the corner-stone of the Eastland county courthouse, alive and well after being buried 40 years in a cement block. "Old Rip" was nationally prominent for weeks.

His second national notice will come at the Texas Centennial Exposition which opens here on June 6 and continues through November. Horned toads of every size, variety and description will be included in a large exhibit. Besides that, the exposition has sent out thousands of the toads to editors, mayors and other dignitaries all over this country, Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippines and Cuba.

For years these little "varmints" have scurried over the rocks and sands of South and West Texas. Regular inhabitants took them for granted. Visitors glanced at them curiously. And that was about all. The horned toad was the forgotten fellow.

That's all over. He will be stared at and examined by millions of visitors to the Dallas exposition. And those visitors will be told that despite his broad head and body, his thick horned skin, the toad is quite harmless.

Shrimps, when boiled, are brown; the common pink ones are really a variety of pawn.

Pastor Is Forest Ranger
 TULARE, Calif. (U.P.)—Rev. Arthur L. Rice, pastor of the First Congregation church, has just been re-appointed forest ranger in the Yosemite National Park. This makes the fourth consecutive year that he has preferred to pass his annual vacation as a forest ranger.

As the result of experiments in Washington, valuable trees may soon be protected by lightning rods.

BABE RUTH STILL WRITING STORIES For the first time since he joined Jack Dunn's Orioles at Baltimore, over 20 years ago, Babe Ruth's name is missing in the baseball scores. Despite this, the Bambino is not neglecting his literary pursuits of former years and with the appearance this week of his latest book 'Babe Ruth's Baseball Advice' another volume is added to his list of products. Illustrated with 16 action pictures and condensed in 32 pages of readable type, the publishers of the book announce that it will be sold in 7000 chain stores from coast to coast. Charley Walsh handled the job for the Babt, as he has been doing for the past 15 years. Rand McNally and company are the publishers.

HOUSTON'S DEFEAT OF SANTA ANNA TO BE COMMEMORATED ON AUG. 9 HOUSTON, (U.P.)—Gen. Sam Houston's defeat of Santa Anna, the Mexican "Napoleon of the West", at San Jacinto 100 years ago to gain Texas independence will be commemorated Aug. 9 in a sham battle by 2,500 soldiers and National Guardsmen. The mock fight will be held on the old battleground 12 miles east of Houston as part of the Texas Centennial celebration. Permission for the spectacle was granted by the War Department upon request of officials of the San Jacinto Centennial Association. Col. E. A. Everberg, commander of the 141st Infantry, 36th Division, will be in charge of the sham battle. The date coincides with the 100th anniversary of his regiment. Colonel Everberg (cq) said a regiment of National Guard artillery and several army units from Ft. Sam Houston and the motorized 89th Coast Artillery anti-aircraft regiment from Fort Crockett, would participate. The soldiers will be encamped at Palacios early in August and will arrive by motor Aug. 8 for a parade in Houston before going to San Jacinto battleground. "Negotiations are under way to have several hundred National Guardsmen from Virginia, Gen. Sam Houston's native state, and from Tennessee, where he was governor before coming to Texas," Colonel Everberg said. "These may take part in the parade in Houston. "In all, there will be some 2,500 soldiers in the sham battle. We will re-enact the 18-minute fight which resulted in the defeat of the Napoleon of the West, Santa Anna—freeing Texas. In this we will use only such weapons as the actual heroes of the day did. "Then we will show what modern Hayride That Ended in Hey-hey Weapons would have done to change the history of the world. We will have hundreds of rounds of blank artillery ammunition fired; there will be airplanes overhead and an elaborate system of modern military communications, including radio and telegraph lines. "We will have cavalry, just as Sam Houston had mounted men in his 'Texas army,'" he said, "but we will show how military science has equipped the modern mounted troops with powerful weapons. It is going to be a fine show—the biggest thing ever seen in this part of Texas." Preliminary plans call for a memorial service at dawn for the heroes of the 141st Infantry during the 100 years of the organization's existence. The 141st Infantry dates back to the Alamo and the regimental coat-of-arms displays the words: "Remember the Alamo." HERE FOR WEEKEND Mr. and Mrs. George Dameron of Crane spent the weekend in Midland. Ninety-two per cent of the nine million people living in Egypt are of the Mohammedan faith.
