Ethiopia Issues New Appeal for Aid

Allred Will Demand Unemployment Insurance

A Whole Infield of Quadruplets

Taken out to the ball game, 6-year-old "A," "B," "C," and "D" Perricone of Beaumont, Tex., apparently don't care if they never get back. Thrills aplenty awaited the world's only living male quadruplets at the Texas League baseball park, where they were intro-

TO PROPOSE BILL AT NEXT SESSION OF LEGISLATURE

Speaks to Railroad
Men In Meeting
At Waco

"STEP NEEDED"
Citizens Security
Must Be Looked After—Says

WACO, April 23 (P)—Governor Allred today told legislative representatives of the railroad brotherhoods here that he would propose Texas unemployment insurance at the next session of the legislature.

He said "we must take another important step toward providing social security for our citizens. Texas should be prepared to establish a system of unemployment insurance in accordance with the national security act."

Allred said Wednesday approval of the Texas old age assistance law by the federal government meant that pensions payments will be started as originally planned, not later than July 1.

In Washington the social security board announced approval of the Texas pension system.

The board said no allocation of funds would be made, however, until the state old age pension commission, headed by C. V. C. Carpenter, submitted definite estimates of the number of needy aged in the state.

"State officials estimate that 60,000 needy aged persons will be eligible for assistance under the plan and that the monthly cost will be about $1,200,000 on the basis of an average monthly grant of $20 per person," the board said. "The program will be administered by a single state agency, the Texas Old Age Assistance commission through its 20 district offices."

Those indicted in addition to Karpis, the only one of the group still at large, are:

Charles (Big Bill) Fitzgerald, 60-year-old former convict who is accused of shaking Hamm's hand as he was forced into an automobile a block from his brewery.

John (Jack) Peifer, St. Paul night club operator and gambler, former postmaster at Bensenville, Ill., whose home was identified by Hamm as the "hideout" where he was held prisoner for four days.

Byron Bolton, who pleaded guilty and is awaiting sentence as one of the kidnapers of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul bank president, who paid $200,000 for his freedom.

Arthur (Doc) Barker, serving a life term in Alcatraz prison as one of the ring leaders in the Bremer abduction.

Elmer Farmer, one-time tavern keeper at Bensenville, Ill., serving 20 years in Leavenworth prison for arranging the place where Bremer was held 21 days.

Entombed Men Brought to Surface

Hopes Turned to Grief by Mate's Death

Days of agonizing waiting for the rescue of her husband, Herman B. Magill, mine owner trapped 141 feet below the surface of a gold mine near Moose River, Nova Scotia, ended tragically for Mrs. Magill when the two men imprisoned with her husband in the cavernous shaft sent up word through a pipe line that her husband had died. Mrs. Magill is seen talking with one of the rescue workers near the mine shaft.

Hundreds Sing As 2
Men Rescued From Imprisonment

MOOSE RIVER, N. S., April 23 (P)—Dr. D. E. Robertson and Charles Scadding were taken from their ten days' living death in an underground mine early today.

Hundreds of weary rescuers sang as the emaciated pair, sick and weak from imprisonment in the Moose River gold mine, were brought to the surface.

Behind the pair, the body of Herman Magill, who died in the cavern Monday, was carried up the 141 foot passage to the surface.

Robertson, 62, withstood the privation better than Scadding, 44, who was too weak to crawl out. The pair were placed in an emergency hospital for a few days before going to the Halifax hospital, 75 miles away.

ROBERTSON FIRST TO BE BROUGHT UP

MOOSE RIVER, April 23 (P)—Dr. D. Edwin Robertson one of two men entombed for 10 days in the Moose River gold mine, was brought to the surface early today.

Dr. Robertson, part owner of the mine, was carried to the top from the 151-foot shaft where he and Alfred Scadding had been imprisoned at 12:44 a. m. Atlantic standard time (11:44 p. m. Wednesday, Eastern standard time).

On Stretcher
The doctor was carried out of the mine shaft on a stretcher. As he passed weary miners on the surface he waved and said, "Thank you, boys."

An official in charge of the telephone stretching along the rescue tunnel reported the diggers had reached the entombed pair at 12:15 a. m. Atlantic standard time.

A great cheer went up from the spectators, miners and mining officials who crowded around the entrance to the mine as Scadding, who had shown indications of breaking under the strain of the long entombment was carried above ground.

Body Found
Under the direction of Salvation Army workers, the grim, weary miners, successful in their fight to save the two men, for medals, sang "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow."

But the long captivity had taken the life of one of the three men trapped in the pit by a sudden cave-in almost 11 days ago. Herman Magill, part owner of the mine with Dr. Robertson, died early Monday.

Jack Simpson and George Morrell, the first of the rescue crew to reach the underground prison, found Magill's body lying about 20 feet away as they entered. They kept their faces turned away from the spot since Magill died.

Zuazua claimed that he won the election, although General Anacleto Guerrero was declared the victor.

TAKE ZIONCHECK
ON SPEED CHARGE

Representative Hailed Into Court for Seventy-Mile
Hour Act

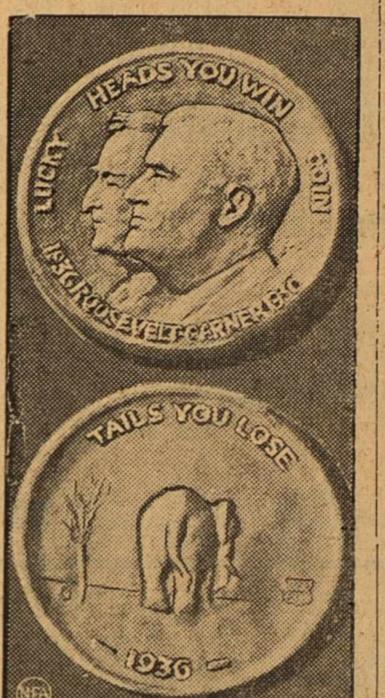

WASHINGTON, April 23 (P)—After a scuffle with police, Representative Zioncheck, Democrat, Washington, was brought into traffic court today to answer to a charge of speeding 70 miles per hour.

The representative was taken into the house building after resisting a policeman attempting to serve him with a court order.

Zioncheck of Washington was forcibly removed from the courtroom for creating a disturbance in objecting to a court recess after he had pleaded guilty to a speeding charge. He was locked in a cell.

The courtroom was in wild disorder as Zioncheck scuffled with bailiffs.

ROTARY CLUB IS HOST TO HOWARD COUNTY VISITORS

Faculty, Children
Of Mexican School
Give Program

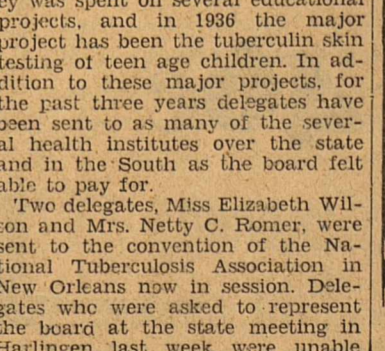

Faculty members and children of the Mexican school, Big Spring, presented the program today at the Rotary Club, with Professor Hutto, principal giving the principal address and directing the numbers. His special treat was with Anglo-Mexican history and relations, presenting the side of the southern republic's citizens to show that Americans, especially Texans, owe them the best of advantages when they elect to live north of the Rio Grande.

Twenty girls of the school sang several numbers, with Miss Summers, one of the teachers, playing the piano and leading the choruses. Several songs were in English, others in the native tongue, climaxing with a request number, "La Cucaracha," which they rendered lustily.

Superintendent Blankenship and Professor Pierce and McQuain accompanied them.

Other visitors were Ed Duckworth, Tulsa; James W. Bateman, Abilene and Lee Duckworth, Abilene, all Rotarians. A. O. Thomas of the local club was in charge of the program.

REARMING OF THE DARDANELLES IS OPPOSED BY ITALY

Consent to Move May Be Given Later By Duce

ROME, April 23 (AP)—Turkey's move to rearm the Dardanelles has aroused the opposition of Italy, perhaps the most interested of all countries in keeping the straits free and open, informed sources disclosed Wednesday night.

Italy, however, may eventually give her consent in principle, being forced to by similar consents granted by other big powers, but her fundamental opposition will, nevertheless, continue.

Italy's opposition is based on the diplomatic basis that the treaty of Lausanne providing for the disarmament of the straits was really negotiated and signed by Turkey in 1923, and therefore cannot be unilaterally abrogated. However, there are three more concrete reasons:

1. Between Italy and Turkey there has been much suspicion for many years. Twenty five years ago began the Italo-Turkish war which ended in Italian victory and the taking of Libya and the Dodecanese islands.

2. Turkey, under Ataturk, was a leading spirit in the formation of the Balkan entente, including all the Balkan states but Bulgaria and Albania. The entente was opposed by Italy, who saw in it an effort to wrest away her friends, Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria and Albania.

3. Turkey has agreed with Great Britain to help her in the Mediterranean if Italy attacks Britain in consequence of sanctions. Should such an event come about, a rearmament of the straits would prevent Italy from reaching the Black sea.

4. Under sanctions Italy must buy and sell wherever it is possible to do so. And the Black sea is an important market center for her.

Training Ponies
At Downs Track

Training of race horses at the Midland Downs track has gained recently and two fully equipped stables are now at work.

Gerald Bless has in his string two colts belonging to "Red" Cohen of Roswell, both two year olds, and a filly of the same age belonging to Bill Currie of Garden City.

H. Matthews of Sweetwater is here with the Bill Turner horses, including Carvel, a four year old gelding, and Buddy, a two year old. He also is in charge of Black Beauty, a two year old filly owned by Jack Cook of Midland.

The three-quarter mile track has been scratched and is in good shape for galloping the ponies. Although many horses are expected here before the meet, most of them will be running at the Amarillo meet May 6-16 before coming here for the May 22-30 racing.

Members of St. Anne's Altar Society Are Hostesses at Twenty-Table Party At Clubhouse on Wednesday Evening

First of the large parties given since the close of Lent was the benefit bridge successfully sponsored by women of St. Anne's Altar society at the Country club Wednesday evening. Twenty tables of bridge were played and many players unable to be present purchased admission.

Members of the society were included in the house party which dispensed hospitality in the club rooms decked in seasonal style with vases of snapdragons, verbenas, and similar spring flowers.

Tables of progressive and non-progressive contract and auction bridge were played as the tastes of the guests dictated.

No table prizes were awarded but 19 door prizes were given including: Framed picture, glass mixing bowl, Houbright shaving set, pair silk hose, neckties, Palm Olive shaving set, Yucca theatre passes, electric tea kettle, box fancy fruits and groceries, kitchen pottery set, revolving refrigerator stand and covered dishes, pot plant, decorated angel food cake, set of fancy groceries, two boxes candy, set of bath towels, pair boudoir lamps.

Refreshments were served at the close of the games.

Members of the Altar Society expressed appreciation for the cooperation of all individuals and business firms which aided in making the benefit a success. Special thanks were given to the following concerns which donated prizes or part of the refreshments: Claude Thompson dairy, Piggly Wiggly, City Drug store, Smith Dry Goods, United Dry Goods, Everybody's store, Midland Hardware, Baker's Variety store, Modern Shop, Texas Electric Service company, Barrow Furniture, Red Cross Pharmacy, Hotel Pharmacy, Wacley's department store, Petroleum Pharmacy, Wilson's Dry Goods, Yucca theatre, M. System, Dairyland Creamery, Midland Drug, Hokus Pokus, Buddy's Flowers.

Proceeds of the benefit will go to the society's activities fund.

Women still have more fun in their kitchens than anywhere else averts the Women's National Exposition of Arts and Industries. Banking on the interest shown by business and professional women in culinary activities, the organization is sponsoring a championship title this year, along with substantial prizes, none less than $100, for the best dinner menu featuring canned products, the winner to be determined in a "cook-off."

Canned products will be stressed, we presume, because professional and business women cooks must display their arts in limited time and must save minutes in food preparation.

Mary Margaret McBride in an article on the exposition quotes Queeno Maria, the Metropolitan prima donna, in praise of two pet dishes.

They sound so delicious and yet so simple to make that we reprint them here:

"I discovered for instance, that I could make a marvelous tomato soufflé, which I call 'Tomato Carmen,' by using undiluted cream of tomato soup instead of milk," exults Miss Mario. "For every three eggs, yolks and whites beaten separately, I add a can of tomato soup to the yolks, fold in the beaten whites of eggs and bake in a hot oven until it is firm or about twenty or twenty-five minutes. It makes a grand luncheon dish. Equal parts of tomato soup and canned corn make a delectable southern bisque. This is a favorite for after-the-opera parties."

Cheese in Soup.
"For a luncheon soup, to be followed by a crisp mixed green salad, I serve cream of tomato soup, diluted with an equal amount of milk, and sprinkled with a generous portion of grated American cheese, to each cup. The cheese thickens the soup and the result is something to write home about. Incidentally, if you let this mixture cook until it turns to a fudge, pour it on crisp buttered toast and serve it that way."

That will be all. We'll quote no more, for we are already hungry and it's more than an hour till dinner time.

Spring is supposed to affect women with a general desire for house cleaning. We must be an exception. It always makes us want to cook.

Bird Life and Flora Of Valley Praised By Ornithologist

HARLINGEN (AP)—Abundance of native flora in the Valley region and the unusually varied and interesting birds that abound here have far exceeded expectations of Maurice Broum, widely known ornithologist, who has been studying birds and plant life along the entire Gulf coast, starting in Florida. Accompanied by Mrs. Broum he left the Valley to continue observations and study in Mexico.

For years Broum has been connected with the Cape Cod bird-banding station and has banded 40,000 birds.

"The bird life seen here is so much more varied and interesting than in Florida," he asserted. "The flora also is decidedly more interesting than Florida's or any other point along the Gulf coast." He described the bits of native jungle in Cameron County, left untouched by development, as to the most interesting he has seen.

The ornithologists stated that the scissor-tail flycatcher, also known as the Texas bird of Paradise, is one of the most beautiful of birds. He also commented on the derby flycatcher, limited to this region in the United States, and the vermilion flycatcher, noted for its brilliant coloring.

He expressed special admiration for the Audobon oriole, the only oriole that does not migrate and for the sharp seed-eater, a mite of a bird that has a robust, beautiful song. He pointed out that the parrot-like head markings of the seed-eater, which remains here throughout the winter, are attained only after it is three years old.

Emergencies Require Reserve in Pantry With Preference Given to Quality Goods

By MARY E. DAGUE

NEA Service Staff Writer
Has your husband that husbandly habit of telephoning just before he starts for home that he is bringing a guest for dinner?

Here's where your emergency shelf will save you many an anxious moment.

Of course an emergency shelf must be composed chiefly of canned products, the best meats, vegetables, fruits and condiments, since often there isn't time for the dressing up and manipulating that makes cheaper brands appealing.

If possible, your shelf should contain the makings of a full meal—soup, meat, vegetables, salad and dessert—each article chosen for its compatibility with other foods so that there is no effect of an impromptu hit-or-miss meal.

Keep Menus Handy, Too
It's a good idea to have some emergency menus and recipes where you can put your hand on them, too. This will save many precious minutes and much pondering.

To further the company touch, have on hand a can of shelled nuts, a tin box of marshmallows, a tin of extra fine salad wafers, a bottle of olives, a jar of mayonnaise and a package of long-keeping cheese. Home-made catsup or chili sauce added to the mayonnaise will make a Russian dressing for head lettuce. Or the nuts and olives can be finely chopped, combined with cheese and made into tiny balls to be served on lettuce leaves if the amount of lettuce is short and must be stretched to go around. Salad wafers lightly buttered and quickly toasted are particularly acceptable if the portions are small.

A can of salmon, tuna fish, crab meat, shrimp, boned chicken, ham or corned beef will solve the lunch on salad or any one of these can be made into a delicious hot dish. The fish or chicken will be satisfactory served in a well seasoned cream sauce on hot split baking

Nursing Education Offered At Session

AUSTIN, Texas.—Several courses in nursing education and public nursing will be offered by the University of Texas in its 1936 summer session, according to Registrar E. J. Mathews. These courses, given in cooperation with the Graduate Nurses Association of Texas, are principally designed for the teacher, and will not infringe on the work offered by the University College of Nursing at Galveston.

They will include "Teaching in Schools of Nursing," for teachers in schools of nursing and graduates qualified to teach in such schools; "Educational Psychology for Nurses" open only to graduate nurses; "Supervision and Administration in Schools of Nursing," open only to persons with at least two years experience as a superintendent or assistant superintendent in a school of nursing; "The Principles of Public Health Nursing," and "Methods in Health Teaching," for public health nurses. Each of these courses provides two hours University credit. The courses in nursing education are to be conducted by Miss Elsie M. Maurer and the public health nursing courses by Miss Helen LeLacheur, both of whom were nominated by the Graduate Nurses Association.

The university summer session will open June 9.

Percy Grainger On Ford Sunday Hour

Percy Grainger, Australian pianist composer, conductor and lecturer, will be guest artist, as well as guest conductor, with the Ford Symphony Orchestra and Chorus, under the direction of Victor Kolar, during the Ford Sunday Evening Hour, Sunday, April 26. The program will be broadcast from 9 to 10 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time, (8 to 9 p.m., Eastern Standard Time) over the entire coast-to-coast CBS network.

Mr. Grainger, a native of Brighton, Australia, was taught music by his mother until he was ten years old. Then he became a pupil of Professor Louis Pabst. On the proceeds of concerts, he traveled to Germany to further his musical education. He became actively interested in the movement of recapturing English folk songs. He has arranged many English, Welsh and Irish tunes. His American debut in recital was in New York in 1915. The orchestra and chorus pre-

Sans Souci Club Complimented With Buffet Dinner and Evening Bridge

Mrs. Jessie Cole and Mrs. Russell C. Conkling were hostesses to the Sans Souci club and a few guests with buffet dinner followed by six tables of bridge at the home of Mrs. Cole, 911 W. Tennessee, Wednesday evening.

Clusters of pink roses and blue larkspur brought a gay spring air into the living room. The same flowers made a center-piece for the dining table which was laid in white Madeira cloth.

Mr. R. B. Cowden carved and the guests were served in informal style with a two-course menu.

Following dinner, bridge was played. Prizes were wrapped in gold and rose, tied with ribbons of red and white, and tallies were in gold.

Awards went to Mrs. Roy Downey for high score among club members, to Mrs. Chas. Klapproth for high score among guests, to Mr. R. B. Cowden for high score for men, and to Mrs. Jas. G. Harper for high cut.

Club guests were: Mmes. and Messrs. Geo. Glass, O. B. Holt, Joe Krump, Judge and Mrs. Chas. L. Klapproth, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Drehm of Houston.

Club members and their husbands present were: Mmes. and Messrs. Jas. G. Harper, Bates Hofer, Walter Cowden, R. B. Cowden, Irbly Watson, Roy Downey, Mr. Russell Conkling and the hostesses.

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Orange juice, cereal, cream, bread crumb pancakes, maple syrup, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Cauliflower fritters with cheese sauce, cress and apple salad, nut bread, lemonade.
DINNER: Veal patties, potatoes au gratin, stewed tomatoes with toast cubes, lettuce and cheese ball salad, canned peaches with red raspberry sauce, macaroons, milk, coffee.

Packaged Pudding Is Desirable
Canned soups need only to be reheated as they come from the can, or in some cases diluted with milk or water to increase their volume. Macaroons can be kept almost indefinitely in tightly closed cans and are good with canned fruit or plain custard pudding. Then there are the many varieties of canned puddings and quickly mixed packages of desserts that are delicious and easy to use. They may cost a few cents more than a home-assembled pudding would but the comforting convenience of having them there ready to open more than justifies their cost.

I don't suppose I can tell you much about canned vegetables. Everybody knows how many of those there are—asparagus tips served on toast with melted butter poured over for luncheon or dinner. This goes especially well with fish salad for lunch. Poached eggs or sliced hard cooked eggs can be served on the toast with the asparagus if a heartier dish is wanted and a green vegetable or fruit salad is planned.

Peas are good served in a thin cream sauce. String beans, too. Corn is delicious baked like a custard with eggs and milk. Add some pineapples for color and flavor.

Canned spinach carefully seasoned with butter and lemon juice and arranged with a garnish of hard cooked eggs is a rival to fresh, and some like it better. At least, there is no grit!

BEHIND THE SCENES —IN— WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The impeachment trial of a federal district judge by the Senate calls attention to the judicial process and the way it sometimes operates in the lower reaches of the federal courts.

Appointments to the district bench are political ones and the appointees usually have political backgrounds. Senators of the party in power have the most important voice in those appointments.

While District Judge Halsted L. Ritter of Florida was trying to explain to the Senate why he received money from a lawyer to whom he had assigned a receivership, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes of the U. S. Supreme Court stepped into a cockeyed situation in Detroit, where several other district judges play important roles. The tale:

More than three years ago two billion-dollar banking chains in Michigan collapsed, precipitating the state bank holiday, which precipitated the national bank holiday. The key banks of the two chains were the First National and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce.

Thirty-four bankers, officers of the two groups, were indicted in June, 1934, for alleged false reports and other banking law violations.

Judges Won't Step Aside. The Department of Justice has been trying to get the cases tried ever since and its lawyers attribute failure to proceed to the refusal of Michigan's three federal district judges—Republicans appointed by Taft, Coolidge and Hoover—to step aside and allow an outside judge without Detroit banking connection to be assigned to the bank cases.

Hughes has now appointed Judge Patrick T. Stone of Wisconsin, a Democrat, to try the bankers. Recently a fourth judicial district was created in Michigan and the job was given to Arthur F. Lederle, who is expected to sit elsewhere while Stone comes in for that purpose.

The government will proceed to trial with the first cases May 1. Judge Arthur J. Tuttle and Judge Edward A. Moines had been bank presidents in Michigan and they disqualified themselves. That left Judge Ernest A. O'Brien, who insisted that he would try the bankers' cases, though the government insisted he was unfit to do so.

O'Brien went on with a trial which resulted in acquittal of three defendants—who however, are still under other indictments.

Charge Judge Erred. The government went to the circuit court of appeals, charging more than 30 prejudicial errors in O'Brien's charge to the jury. It also alleged that O'Brien was personally involved, because his wife was in debt to one of the banks and facing suit by its receiver because she had recovered collateral on certain loans without paying off certain other loans in the bank.

The appeals court ordered O'Brien to step down and let an outside judge come in. O'Brien's lawyer, represented by John W. Davis, he appealed to the supreme court itself. The supreme court refused to review the case, which made the appeals court ruling effective.

But Department of Justice officials declare the appeals court still must step down. O'Brien's lawyer, three judges to accept a transfer so that a substitute might be assigned to the trial. The stymie was broken by creation of the fourth judgeship.

Indicted Men on Board. Long ago the Ford and General Motors interests, with the aid of RFC, set up new banks to replace the old ones. Officers under indictment found top jobs with the new institutions and the RFC, the controller of the currency, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation approved their appointments.

The directors of the new National Bank of Detroit, including a couple of the men under indictment, were recently shown to have hired as vice president a man who had a criminal record. This was James J. O'Shea, who in earlier years had pleaded guilty to charges involving jarceny and fraud, and who recently was indicted on 19 counts in connection with an alleged embezzlement from the National Bank.

This indictment revealed the fact that although RFC has public funds in some 6000 banks, it maintains a representative on the directorate of only one of them and takes no voice in the appointment of bank officials.

George was one of the most useful and active young business men who ever lived in Midland. He worked his own job well, but he always pulled out and helped on civic projects. He was a director in the chamber of commerce, a leader in the Lions club, active in social, religious and athletic circles. He had a grin and a cheerful word for everyone.

Stanolind To Spend A Half Million Reconditioning Wells BEAUMONT, Texas (U.P.)—Approximately $500,000 will be spent by Stanolind Oil and Gas Company during 1936 reworking, deepening and reconditioning wells in the famous Spindletop oil field near here.

The company plans to rework 75 wells which are from five to 10 years old and have produced millions of barrels of oil. The program was announced as result of recent success in deepening an old well to 3300 feet and finding flush production.

Stanolind acquired the wells in its purchase last year of the assets of the Yount-Lee Oil Company for approximately $40,000,000 in cash, the biggest oil trade in the history of Texas.

New screens will be inserted in some of the wells, and in others, new casing and tubing will be set. Geologists are surveying the field to determine which of the holes shall be deepened.

Spindletop, discovered in 1901, now produced 2507 barrels daily on production. Most of its wells are pumpers.

Canada produced a total of $32,847,000 worth of canned foods during 1934.

The Story of GARY COOPER in "MR. DEEDS GOES TO TOWN" JEAN ARTHUR

An adaptation of the screen version of Clarence Budington Kelland's story
A FRANK CAPRA PRODUCTION

What Has Happened Before:
Longfellow Deeds, author of sentimental ditties for greeting cards, tuba player and volunteer fireman in Mandrake Falls, inherits his uncle's twenty million dollar estate. He goes to New York to claim his inheritance and is immediately besieged by all sorts of chisellers, cranks and fanatics. Thanks to "Corny" Cobb, hard-boiled ex-newspaperman, only a few of them actually get through to Longfellow. Elected to fill his uncle's place as chairman of the board of directors of the opera, Longfellow refuses to make up the opera's $180,000 deficit and cannot understand why they should continue opera performances when they are not profitable. After the meeting he goes out to explore the city alone. Babe Bennett, clever young newspaper-woman, pretends to faint on the street in order to meet him and get a story. She is hungry and tired from a long day of job hunting, she says. Longfellow insists on taking her to dinner at Tullio's, favorite eating place of the literati. He asks the waiter to point out any famous people who come in.

Now Go On With the Story CHAPTER III

"Feel better now?" Longfellow smiled across the table.
"Um!" Babe smiled right back at him. "I don't know how to thank you, Mr. Deeds. You've had quite an exciting time since you came to New York. Meetings, business deals, society, people—aren't you having fun?"

Longfellow shook his head. "No. At least I didn't. Not till now. I like talking to you."

Across the room Longfellow's waiter had stopped at a table where three men were sitting. He told them about Longfellow and his request to meet celebrities. "Let's invite him over," said one of the trio. "Might get some laughs."

Longfellow was thrilled to meet Henabery, Morrow and Bookfield and it was some few minutes before he realized that their pretended interest in how he composed his jingles for post cards and their extravagant compliments were their method of kidding him. When he did understand their motives he was deeply hurt.

"I guess I get the idea," he told them. "You invited me over here to make fun of me. It's easy to make fun of somebody if you don't care how much you hurt them. I know I must look funny to you, but maybe if you came to Mandrake Falls you'd look funny to us. But nobody would laugh at you and make you ridiculous 'cause that wouldn't be good manners. If it weren't for the young lady who is with me, I'd probably bump your heads together."

"Go right ahead," Babe interposed. "Don't worry about me." This was enough for Longfellow. As Bookfield and Henabery rose from their chairs, Deeds launched two swift punches that sent them both sprawling. Then he turned to Babe. "We can go now," he said. "I feel better."

But they did not get far. Before they had reached the door Morrow had overtaken them. "Hey, there," he called, "you left me out." Pointing to his chin he continued, "Sock it, brother, and sock it good."
Longfellow smiled. "It's all over now. I got it off my chest."
"I think you're swell," Morrow continued. "You're my guest from now on."

Thanks, but Miss Dawson (that's the name Babe had given him) and I were going out to see the sights."
"Fine. Hop aboard my magic carpet and you'll see sights you've never seen before. Friend, we're going on a real, good binge!"

Late the next afternoon Walter, Deeds' valet, was having his troubles waking Longfellow. After a particularly violent shake, Longfellow opened one eye and looked at Walter.

"Good afternoon, sir," Walter said. "If you'll permit me to say so, sir, you were out on quite a bender last night."
"Bender?" Longfellow shook his head. "Oh, no. We started to go out on a binge but we never got to it. Has Miss Dawson called yet?"
"Miss Dawson? No, sir."

"I must call her up and apologize. I don't remember taking her home."
"I'd venture to say you don't remember much of anything last night."
"What do you mean?" Longfellow was indignant. "I remember everything. Hand me my pants."
Walter smiled apologetically. "You have no pants, sir. You came home without them. Matter of fact you came home without any clothes. You were in your shorts."

Longfellow was skeptical. "Now, that's silly, Walter. You know I couldn't walk around the streets without clothes. I'd be arrested."
Walter agreed. "Yes, sir. That's what the two policemen who brought you home said. They said you and another man were standing in the street in your shorts, feeding doughnuts to a horse and shouting 'Back to nature!' They said you were feeding doughnuts to the horse to see how many he'd eat before asking for a cup of coffee."

Longfellow shook a finger at Walter. "If a man by the name of Morrow calls me, Walter, tell him I'm not in. That man is crazy, Walter."

At that moment Cobb burst into Longfellow's bedroom, his hands filled with newspapers. "Well," he shouted, "have you gone nuts? What did you do last night? Who were you with? Why did you do it? Look at these papers!" He flung the armful of papers at Longfellow. Screaming headlines jumped at Longfellow.

"CINDERELLA MAN ON A SPREE"
Punches Literary Lights at Tullio's. Feeding Doughnuts To Horses. Hick Town Poet Laureate Shows Big City How to "Cut Up". Punches Literary Light at Tullio's.

Longfellow jumped out of bed. "What do they mean by this?" he demanded. "Cinderella Man!"
"Listen, Longfellow," Cobb pleaded—

INDIGESTION—GET QUICK RELIEF

Millions of men and women are suffering from disturbances of their digestive systems, due to acidity, and this is often the real cause of ill health, tired-out, run-down feeling, loss of "zip" and zest for living. If you are suffering from indigestion, atonic dyspepsia, sour stomach, gas pains, "raw stomach," inflammation of the intestines (enteritis), gastric acidity and sick headaches, you can't afford to ignore these warning signs. Take Gasa Tablets, the Doctor's Prescription, which are intended to soothe the raw, inflamed lining of the "acid stomach," and to help convert the starchy foods into dextrose. Because of this remarkable success in many cases of acidity and digestive troubles resulting from acid conditions, Gasa Tablets are offered to sufferers under a guarantee that the first bottle must produce results or money back. "Beg pardon, sir," Walter interrupted. "Miss Dawson on the 'phone."
Longfellow beamed. "Fine! I'll talk to her! Hand me the 'phone. She's the only one I'm going to talk to from now on."

He can be heard over KPRC Houston, WOAI San Antonio, and WPAA Dallas.

In this speech Congressman Dies will speak in behalf of the reelection of Franklin D. Roosevelt and, among other things, will say, "The president deserves the praise of everyone for remaining at his post of duty and not running around the country delivering graduation and picnic speeches, dodging and ducking controversial subjects, hand-shaking and back-slapping, and seeking to build up political fences. There may be doubts as to where some candidates get their money to finance campaigns. We may have serious doubts as to the honesty of a candidate who never made anything but a living and who is able to make several expensive campaigns in succession. We may even be morally certain that selfish interests are financing his campaign—but not so

J. C. Smith Moving Ranger Store Here

J. C. Smith, who a few weeks ago opened a modern ready to wear store in the Potter building on North Main Street, is announcing in today's issue of The Reporter-Telegram the complete removal of his Ranger store to Midland.

He had been in business there for 16 years and first opened the Midland store as a branch house. He moved here with his family however, and in a short time was so well pleased with the present and future of Midland and its territory that he decided upon full concentration of his business at this point.

A removal sale is being held at Ranger, reducing the stock in order to facilitate moving. Simultaneously a consolidation sale is opening here Friday, as announced in the full page advertisement today, with special prices on reasonable apparel.

"Queen Bee" Named For Uvalde Affair

UVALDE (AP).—Miss Wilma Russell, dark-haired Uvalde girl, has been named "Queen Bee" of the Uvalde County Honey Festival, this city's Centennial year celebration, May 8 and 9. A pageant in which 500 school children and citizens will participate and a parade of decorated floats, headed by the Sul Ross college band from Alpine, will be outstanding features. Robert L. Bobbitt of San Antonio, associate justice of the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals, will be the principal speaker.

The Navajo Indian word for motorcycle means "son of an automobile."

National Tomato Show Is Planned At Jacksonville

Jacksonville is completing preparations for the National Tomato Show, which will be given here May 31 through June 6 in celebration of National Tomato Week.

The celebration will open Centennial Exposition week in Texas, preceding by six days the launching of the $25,000,000 Centennial exposition in Dallas. Events of a Centennial nature will be featured on the program.

Show officials, encouraged last year by entries made from as far away as Florida, are arranging to accommodate even more extensive exhibits this year. The event will have even greater recognition in the Court of the National Tomato Queen with princesses present from all states which grow tomatoes in commercial quantities. Governors of 25 states have been invited to name princesses to the pageant.

Muleshoe Farmer Is Using Irrigation

MULESHOE, Tex. (P.).—Farmer James L. Gregory intends to prove that drought can be successfully combated in the Panhandle. He has completed a water well, 94 feet deep and 16 inches in diameter, which will irrigate his 200-acre farm near here at the rate of 1,400 gallons a minute.

A farm tractor is used temporarily to operate the centrifugal pump, but Gregory expects to install a stationary engine to hoist the water which will be distributed by gravitation through irrigation channels.

LEADERSHIP

Leadership in any field is a mark of high public confidence. Won only by proven worth, held only by continued merit... public confidence is at once a priceless asset and a great responsibility.

Among the beers brewed in America Coors Golden Export Lager enjoys foremost public confidence. That confidence was won on sheer quality... quality that costs real money to produce and eternal vigilance to sustain.

Outstanding leaders, be they persons or products, must be strong enough in public esteem to withstand substitutions and imitations, because none but the great are objects of mimicry. No one cares to imitate the ordinary.

Thousands of progressive dealers share with Coors the firm conviction that public confidence, once gained, must never be jeopardized by cheap substitution or malicious misrepresentation.

Thus the entire Coors personnel... from the first to the last man, is pledged to the proud purpose of producing and marketing a pure malt beverage which shall ever be held high in the confidence of an appreciative public.
