WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 9.—One of the chief sideshows of the presidential campaign, although many of the most important movements therein won't be visible on the surface, is a grim struggle for the speakership of the next house of representatives.

Technically, at least, that is a contest for the democratic floor leadership. But politicians are figuring cold-bloodedly that the poor health of Speaker William Bankhead of Alabama, former floor leader who succeeded the late Speaker Joseph W. Byrns, will not permit him to occupy the floor leadership for very long.

The candidates are Congressman San Rayburn of Texas, backed tacitly by the administration, and Congressman John J. O'Connor, Tammany representative from New York. Rayburn is chairman of the house interstate commerce committee and O'Connor is chairman of the much more powerful rules committee. Rayburn is off to a good start through his appointment as chief of the democratic speakers' bureau for the campaign. Hard-pressed democrats in many states will soon be beseeching him for oratorical aid and he will make many more friends in the house before the campaign is over.

O'Connor, meanwhile, has been stepping out boldly toward his goal. After the New York delegation in Philadelphia had caucused and agreed to vote for abrogation of the two-thirds rule as desired by Roosevelt, O'Connor cast his vote in the convention rules committee abrogation. He said he had never heard of the caucus action, but it is commonly assumed that he was seeking personal support from the south.

O'Connor's friends also engineered publication in an Atlanta newspaper of an editorial saying that the south mustn't be too greedy and that the house leadership should go to a northerner. They have since been circulating copies widely. Not long before congress adjourned, the New Yorker is said to have sought an arrangement with Senator Joseph Guffey of Pennsylvania whereby the Guffey coal bill would be allowed to come to a vote and Guffey would line up Pennsylvania members behind the O'Connor candidacy.

The bill came to a vote, but Guffey is understood to have made no promises. One important aspect of the speakership is that if Roosevelt should be beaten, the house probably would still be democratic and the speaker would be his party's most highly-placed spokesman and leader.

Talk in the state of Washington among left wing democrats about a vote to recall Senator Lew Schwilbach arises from another convention incident. The Washington delegation caucused, elected Schwilbach to the resolutions committee, and ordered him to fight in committee for a production for use plank and the Townsend plan and, if unsuccessful, to carry the fight to the convention floor.

The caucus was held while the senator was making a radio speech, and he felt it had been called at that time on purpose. So Schwilbach told his political buddies to "go take a dive" and spent most of convention week at Atlantic City. He wouldn't have minded battling for a production for use plank, but drew the line at embarrassing the administration by a hopeless floor fight for the Townsend plan.

'Law West of Pecos' Cavalcade Feature

DALLAS.—The most colorful and rugged exponent of homespun justice, Judge Roy Bean, known all over the world as "Law West of the Pecos," is one of the principle characters in the cast of the Cavalcade of Texas, now playing at the Texas Centennial Exposition.

Roy Bean, who followed the railroads into the Big Bend Country in 1889, dropped off at a town named Vinagaron, renamed it Langtry and started to make history. He set up a saloon at Langtry and called it the Jersey Lily. Then he took over the task of administering justice in a lawless land.

His judicial rulings, which are still quoted wherever a group of barristers gather, and his humorous comments and decisions which cause old timers to rock with laughter up and down the Rio Grande, went round the world before he died. Lily Langtry for whom he named his saloon, carried on correspondence with the judge during the heyday of his career, and came to visit Langtry after Roy Bean's death.

The Big Bend Country, a land which is still wildly beautiful, and the last frontier of the Old West, plays its own dramatic and colorful part in the story of the Cavalcade of Texas. Through the Davis Mountains the first of the Conquistadores, shipwrecked Cabeza de Vaca, trudged, naked and barefooted, in 1534. Across its rugged peaks the Conquistadore Coronado marched on his return from the fruitless search of Seven Golden Cities of the Cibola. Within the grandeur of these mountain ranges Texas history was born. The cast of the Cavalcade of Texas recreates the glory of the land west of the Pecos, beginning with Cabeza de Vaca and Coronado and closing with Roy Bean and his Jersey Lily saloon.

JUDGE CREATES SOCIAL CLINIC

PITTSBURGH, July 9 (U.P.)—A "social clinic" to eliminate guesswork by the sentencing jurist is the vision of Judge Ralph H. Smith, youngest man ever to preside in Allegheny county criminal court. Before Judge Smith completes his six-month assignment on the criminal bench in August and returns to the common pleas division, he hopes to see punishment tailored to the individual instead of the crime. Psychiatric and physical examination of every defendant are the main instruments with which he hopes to institute the most far-reaching reforms the local court has known.

Parallels Federal Plan. Judge Smith's federal parallels to some degree that in use in Federal courts and embodies desirable features of systems used in Chicago, Detroit, New York and Baltimore. For all his bluntness, his unwavering willingness to crack down on the racketeer and habitual offenders, Judge Smith made it plain that he is deeply concerned over the sentences he is obliged to pass "blindly," as he puts it. "In all humility," he said, "I consider it a matter of grave importance to reach into a man's life and take out a year or two years, four years, from the only life that he has.

Considers Own Life. "When I'm beating a racketeer for a lengthy stretch, often I think of the changes which have come about in my life in that same period of time. My children have been born. Relatives have died; some married. These things and more will happen in this defendant's family while he is in prison. "Why, then, should I sentence him without knowing that his crime, perhaps, was the result of a mental wrinkle which could be ironed out with proper treatment? "Perhaps he should be released, hospitalized or given institutional care. But where? We don't know—now.

"But with our social clinic, the judge's function will cease to be a guessing game. The criminal courts will cease to be a battleground where prosecution and defense play

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything).

Sam Ashburn, that popular San Angelo "Top of the Windmill" columnist, commented on the horse judging at Ozona. One horse won first place, another won second and another won third, but the horse which was judged third went out and won first place in a race.

Maybe the judging ought to be held after the race.

I still believe we ought to hold a horse show here this fall, judging these half thoroughbreds under the auspices of the remount service.

John Collins, livestock man of Fort Stockton and a son of J. P. Collins here, is reported to be the champion early riser of those parts, driving to Midland, San Angelo or El Paso before he eats his breakfast. That ought to give Jim a fair appetite.

Any time I walk all the way to town before eating breakfast, it costs me sixty cents to get filled up to where I can go to noon.

a game in which the judge sits as a more or less impartial arbiter."

West Offers Dude Ranches for Dogs That Lack Only Cocktail Lounge As Handicap

PASADENA, Cal. (UP)—A dude ranch for dogs is the West's latest contribution to modern civilization. The idea was that of Gladys Shipman, dog fancier of this city. Inspired by the stories of the eastern human dudes who visit dude ranches of the West, she conceived the idea that dude dogs should have the same privileges as dude humans. So she opened her dude ranch for dogs at Big Bear Lake. Already, it is a going concern. The dogs don't have to say about whether they get to go there or not, but once they get there they have lots to say about what dude ranch for dogs really means to them.

The dude ranch is described as being a veritable seventh heaven for dogs. They have regular workout activities such as hunting, hiking and sunbathing.

There is a special play yard for pups. There is also a maternally ward, painted in blue and white, with private apartments and runways for each dog.

At present a special diet kitchen is turning out from 300 to 400 pounds of scientifically balanced rations daily, containing all the necessary dog vitamins, mineral salts and other elements essential to dog life.

Goat milk is given preference over cow's milk and special diets of tomato juice and buttermilk are arranged for boarders whose health demands special attention.

In fact, about the only thing lacking, that is found in the big dude ranches of the West, is the cocktail lounge.

The dude ranch for dogs has among its prominent patrons Harold Lloyd, who has a Swiss imported Saint Bernard; the Duncan Sisters, who own dancing dogs; Carrington North of the Columbia studios who owns a Russian wolfhound; and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hilton, who have a private corral for their flock of imported black Newfoundland.

White Sox Booster Rewarded

PORT CLINTON, O. (UP)—For years, Jake Lorenzen, state liquor store manager, has been a booster for the Chicago White Sox. Louis Comiskey, club owner, heard of Lorenzen, and sent him a baseball carrying autographs of every team member.

Civic Pride Gets Setback

SAN JOSE, Cal. (UP)—The Junior chamber of commerce isn't sure whether Mrs. Ernest J. Jayet merely has lots of ideas or whether the city is run down. It offered a $250 prize for the most suggestions on improving the appearances of houses and grounds. Mrs. Jayet offered 971.

Monkeys Snarl Traffic

WARREN, O. (UP)—This city's biggest traffic jam of the year was caused by two monkeys, Dolly and Mickey. They escaped from the carnival grounds, swam a small river and climbed a tree in the downtown district. The crowd which assembled blocked traffic for nearly two hours.

WORKERS' EFFICIENCY INCREASED NEARLY 2-FOLD BY RATIONING FOOD

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 9 (U.P.)—"Eat, drink, and be merry"—five times a day, if need be, because, when you feel tired you're not weary—you're hungry! That is the advice of two Yale authorities.

Have you lost your appetite? Is it hard for you to start working in the morning. Do you get grouchy toward noon and around quitting time? Does this happen even though you lead a sensible, normal, healthy life and eat well-balanced meals? Because, if it does, your trouble may be nothing but hunger.

These revolutionary statements, affecting the cooking of countless dieticians, chefs and housewives, and the eating habits of millions, are advanced by Dr. Howard Haggard and Dr. Leon A. Greenberg of the department of applied physiology at Yale. According to their studies, too much emphasis has been placed on the quality and quantity of food and too little on the time intervals at which it is eaten.

Three meals a day, and no eating between them, long has been a habit and fast dietary maxim in America. It is taught to growing children. It is a rule followed by factory workers, farmers, professional people, young, old and middle-aged alike. And whenever anyone breaks it with a bar of candy or an ice cream soda, he or she is likely to feel that the sharp edge of appetite has been unduly dulled.

System Is American
Yet the custom of three meals a day is almost strictly American. In England, afternoon tea constitutes a regular repast, and some people eat two breakfasts—one when they get up and one at about 10 o'clock. In Germany, two breakfasts are always in order, a raid on the pantry before retiring.

While such practices are not unheard of in this country, the general attitude seems to favor just three meals. It is believed that a person should eat only when hungry, that the appetite should be the guide to hunger, and that everyone should permit the digestive system to rest. The investigations of the two Yale physiologists refute all these ideas.

The fact that the output of workers in industrial operations is lower in the later part of the morning and of the afternoon, has been attributed to fatigue, but the physiologists' researches tend to show that the rise and fall of muscular efficiency and industrial output is correlated with the frequency of meals. Such was the conclusion of Dr. Haggard and Dr. Greenberg as a result of experiments conducted among factory employes making rubber footwear. The physiologists found that when a glass of milk and six-ounces of cake was served to the workers in the middle of the morning and the afternoon their efficiency was heartily improved and their dispositions considerably brighter.

Fair Test Made
The operation selected for the study at the footwear factory was the sewing together of the canvas parts of the tops of tennis shoes, because it necessitated virtually no mechanical delays. The operation

Pigtailed Daughters of the Nile

If your conception of an Egyptian princess is a sinuous, exotic siren, modeled along Cleopatra lines, this scene should disillusion you. In their ribbons and pigtails, the sisters of Egypt's new 16-year-old King Farouk looked for all the world like pretty American schoolgirls as they left Cairo to spend the summer in Alexandria. Note the imperial crest which adorns their car. Until their brother attains the age of 18, and begins his reign, a regency is governing their country.

FLUSH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 Miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 Miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste, poisonous matter may develop, causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 Miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills at your druggist.

also represented, as nearly as possible, a true measure of the actual effort of the individual operator, since a minimum hourly wage was guaranteed regardless of production, plus a production bonus for all work over a certain amount.

The operators were divided into two equal groups of 40 each, one serving as the control group and the other as the experimental group. They were studied over a period of 10 weeks.

The average hourly production for the control group, eating three meals a day, remained around 183.5 throughout the 10 weeks. The average hourly production of the experimental group, however, varied directly with the number of meals taken. In addition, the workers voluntarily stated that they felt less tired on those days when they had five instead of the customary three meals.

The physiologists point out that it is not frequent meals, but large meals that put a burden on digestion. That jay-feeling and the difficulty in concentration that follows large meals is due to the diversion of the blood supply from the brain to the work of digestion. These effects do not follow small meals taken at frequent intervals.

Kind of Food Important
The chief disadvantage in frequent eating, lies in a passably unwise choice of food for the smaller meals, as there is a tendency to eat such foods as sandwiches, candy, pastry and soft diet becomes unbalanced. That jay-feeling and the difficulty in concentration that follows large meals is due to the diversion of the blood supply from the brain to the work of digestion. These effects do not follow small meals taken at frequent intervals.

As a result of the investigation, Haggard and Greenberg conclude that "the practice common in this country of eating the day's supply of food in three installments does not give the greatest efficiency, vigor and freedom from distraction of which the individual is capable. Five meals a day yield the maximum of efficiency."

Their studies show further that on five meals a day, a worker gets seven hours of high muscular efficiency; on three meals, about four, and on two meals, a little more than two.

Scotland Yard Is Eyeing 'Con' Men

LONDON, July 9 (U.P.)—With the London season beginning and overseas visitors flocking in, special branch detectives at the ports are keeping a close watch upon arriving Australian liners.

For Australia is still regarded as the home of "con" men, and with returning prosperity making London a happy hunting ground for these wanderers Scotland Yard is redoubling its vigilance. The order has gone out to the port detectives to keep a special lookout for known or suspected confidence tricksters. Cooperation between Scotland

RISE IS EXPECTED IN WHEAT PRICES

WASHINGTON, (U.P.)—Higher prices are in prospect for a number of farm products, according to a report of the bureau of agriculture economics.

These commodities include wheat, corn, hogs, butter, eggs, wool and the better grades of steers, the bureau said. Seasonal price declines are expected for the lower grades of steers, lambs, potatoes and poultry.

"Supplies of wheat for the 1936-37 season may be larger than would be required to provide for the annual domestic consumption and to build up reserve stocks within the United States," the report said. "This would result in prices above export levels."

"Corn prices may be expected to continue at about present levels and changes in the price of oats and barley will be determined largely by crop developments. Prices of better grade steers, wool, eggs, and butter will probably rise to levels above those of a year ago."

As to commodities on which lower prices are in prospect, the bureau said:

"Prices on lower grades of slaughtered cattle are expected to follow the usual downward trend in the last half of the year. Lamb prices have reached the highest levels since 1930; slaughter supplies are expected to increase rapidly in the next few months and prices probably will decline as receipts increase."

Despite a sharp reduction in potato production, the bureau said that "potato prices are expected to decline irregularly from the recent high levels."
