REPAY VISIT

Two Cities Cooperate On Promotion of Celebrations

Retailers' committees of the chamber of commerce looked a few days beyond the Midland rodeo today and designated Friday July 3, 4 and 5 program. It will be designated at Pecos as Midland day, according to previous arrangement by local people.

R. D. Scruggs was elected marshal of the motorcade, with instruction that all cars are to be assembled on the west side of the courthouse square, at 9:30 a. m., starting westward at 10 o'clock. A committee composed of J. L. Tidwell, C. C. Mayfield and Thomas Lee Speed was named to visit all business houses in Midland, signing up those who will agree to observe the July 3 holiday, at the same time taking the names of those who will send cars or go to Pecos in the motorcade.

It was pointed out that Pecos has brought delegations of 100 or more to the rodeo meets in the past and will again do so at the Midland rodeo. The two rodeos are cooperating in use of stiers for riding and bulldozing and the same cooperative spirit has been shown in all relations of the two cities. It was further pointed out that Saturday, July 4, would be a difficult day to secure the closing of business institutions.

Additional advertising of the Midland World Championship Centennial Rodeo for June 26, 27, and 28 also was discussed. Reports were given on trips made by business men to towns and cities over a wide area, with request for additional trips at strategic points during the few days intervening before the rodeo.

A committee composed of L. D. Bayless, Ralph Geisler and Marion Flynt was instructed to confer with the concern having the street decoration privilege to assure more adequate decoration than was furnished during the recent race meet.

Raymond L. Hughes agreed to "cap" announcements with the Pecos radio station on the two rodeos to be staged, thereby reaching additional listeners to the west.

Unknown Avenger Is Blamed for the Attack

DETROIT, June 18 (AP)—Woman who went in terror to the police and disclosed the hiding place of the press of the Black Legion used to produce its inflammatory literature was found bound, gagged, and brutally beaten in her apartment Wednesday.

The attack, described by an assistant prosecutor as "undoubtedly the work of a Black Legion avenger," occurred a half hour after 15 men had been ordered held for trial on charges of conspiring to murder political enemies of the terrorist organization.

Neighbors heard Mrs. Guthrie's moans about 3 o'clock and summoned police, who found her unconscious, her hands tied behind her back and a black cloth which detectives said looked as if it had been torn from a Black Legion robe, stuffed in her mouth.

The Guthries were held briefly two weeks ago after Mrs. Guthrie informed investigators that their home had been used for three years as a Black Legion meeting place and that her husband had printed literature for the night riders, including their bombastic ritual and their pronouncements against "communists, negroes, Jews and Catholics," in the basement.

GAINES WILDCAT TO DRILL PLUG

Landreth Test Is To Run Tubing for Swab Test

By FRANK GARDNER

Drilling of plug from the important south central Gaines county wildcat, Landreth production company No. 1 Kirk, is scheduled to start tonight or tomorrow morning. The test has been inactive since Tuesday when it cemented a string of 7-inch casing at 4,350 feet.

After plug has been drilled, the No. 1 Kirk will run tubing in preparation for a swabbing test. Numerous points of saturation were found in cores over the last 100 or more feet of hole, and it is possible that these might be a source of production although the formation was very hard and lacking in porosity. Unloading of the hole will also show the amount of gas encountered by the well in going to its present total depth of 4,789 feet. Many estimate the gas as high as 5,000,000 cubic feet.

The Landreth test is in the southwest corner of section 22, block A-21, public school land. About eight miles to the northwest, Humble No. 1 C. H. Eubank, newest test to be located in Gaines, is laying engine foundations and moving in material. It is 660 feet out of the southwest corner of section 8, block AX, public school land.

SHOWERS FALLING ON EVE OF FIGHT CAUSE OF DELAY

Promoters Wait to Last Minute to Make Decision

TO FIGHT FRIDAY

24-Hour Halt Decried As Weather Fails To Clear

NEW YORK, June 18 (AP)—The Joe Louis-Max Schmelling heavyweight fight, due to be held here tonight, was postponed today due to rain. The fight will be held Friday night.

Prospects of showers throughout the day caused the postponement. They have fallen intermittently all during the day and promoters caused the postponement only when it appeared that the crowd, an estimated 700,000 had been expected, would not turn out to see the battle in such dismal weather.

Postponement of the battle caused no change in the minds of the experts, all of them sticking by their earlier expressed beliefs that Schmelling would be the third ex-champion to fall before the fists of the young negro.

All odds favored the dusky Detroit, many offering odds of five to one that he would knock out the German.

Both fighters have left their training quarters and were awaiting the fight tonight when the postponement was announced. The weighing-in ceremonies were to have been held at noon today.

Oil Stove Blows Up, Inside Of House Guttured By Flames

Fire late Wednesday afternoon completely gutted the inside of a two-story frame house on South Main street, completely destroying all fixtures inside the building.

The flames were started when an oil stove on which the evening meal was being cooked in an upstairs apartment exploded, hurling flames in all directions. Before help could be summoned the entire interior of the house was a raging holocaust.

Firemen, summoned to the blaze, managed to extinguish the fire before the building could be completely destroyed. However, everything on the inside of the building was beyond saving.

The building was occupied by two families, A. A. Price, and a Mr. Barron and family.

TENSION LESSENS AFTER MOB FAILS TO FIND NEGROES

Nine Are Held After Deputy Sheriff Is Slain

EL CAMPO, Tex., June 18 (AP)—Tension lessened here today after a lynch-bent mob late last night stormed the jails at Wharton and Bay City seeking nine negroes involved in the knife slaying of deputy sheriff Tip Simmons in a cafe at El Campo when the officer attempted to quiet a disturbance in a negro dance hall.

The negroes, five men and four women, have been placed in an unnamed jail. After failing to find the ones implicated in the jail here the mob dispersed.

One of the negroes was reported to have confessed and implicated three more negroes in the slaying. State Ranger Davenport was sent here to aid in the probe of the killing.

Simmons was slashed with razors or pocketknives and died in front of the dance hall.

LANDON The Careful Kansan

The third of six installments in the life story of "LANDON, the Careful Kansan"

BY WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

In a lifetime in the oil business, Alf Landon never incorporated, never offered for sale a share of stock.

His father, the venerable 70-year old John Landon who smoked a long cigar at Cleveland while the Republican convention acclaimed his son its candidate, recalls with relish the individualist turn of the Landon oil operations.

"He's always gone it on his own," the aging father recounted. "Sometimes with a partner, myself or A. H. Black. But he always bought leases with his savings, sunk wells and sold the oil all on his own. Never incorporated or sold a share of stock."

Refused to Risk All for "Killing"
The oil business in the young Kansas and Oklahoma fields was a rough-and-tumble affair back in 1911. Alf Landon plunged into the game at 25, and he played it hard.

He never was a "wildcatter" in the sense of one who would take his last cent and bet it on a single well—rich if it came in, broke if it did not. There were plenty like that in the oil fields.

Not Alf Landon. He played the game carefully, scientifically, always regarding oil prospecting somewhat like farming, as a productive, creative enterprise.

His business was buying and selling oil lands and lease, going out on the job to supervise the drilling of his wells, dickering for the sale of his products, keeping books and watching the corners on the cost of his operations. That was where Landon differed from the average oil prospector. He knew what his operations cost, and they usually cost less than almost anyone else's. It was active, open-air work. You slept out in mosquito-plagued swamps in bare board shacks, your clothes and your skin saturated with oil and dirt. You watched all night, knowing that it might be a productive well, and that it might be just another dry hole.

Landon had plenty of dry ones, but the fact that a good proportion of his wells came in is demonstrated by the fact that he made money. He got the name of being lucky, but there is every reason to believe that careful operation, intelligent direction and persistence were the things that kept Landon each year a little farther ahead of the game.

Spurned Exemption From Draft in War
But though he worked hard and drove his men hard, there was time for other things, too. He was chairman of the Belgian Relief Committee in Montgomery County in 1915. He joined the Chamber of Commerce and was active in behalf of the Red Cross, Salvation Army, and the Boy Scouts.

While national tragedy stalked the nation, personal tragedy also lay in wait for Alf Landon. His mother had died in 1914. About a year later he brought his bride, Margaret Fleming, whom he had known in boyhood, from his old Pennsylvania home neighborhood.

They had a daughter, Margaret Ann, the same slim girl who captivated the hundreds who met her at the recent convention. But a year after her birth, Mrs. Landon died.

When the war came to America, Alfred Landon had a motherless daughter to care for. He was far down on the draft lists, but entered service anyway. Assigned to the Chemical Warfare Service, he served for some months in a camp near Lakehurst, N. J., but was not sent overseas. He was a first lieutenant on his release from the army.

Gained High Post In Oil Association
Returning from the army service Landon had no choice but to place a competent nurse and housekeeper in charge of his home to take care of the infant daughter while he plunged again into the oil fields.

His standing rose in the oil country, and he became known through all the oil region of Kansas and Oklahoma as he drove from town to town inspecting and supervising his properties and searching for new prospects. At one time he was chosen vice-president of the Midcontinent Oil and Gas Association. He was a leader in the fight of producers of the Midcontinent field to get a tariff against foreign crude oil.

For many years he continued his association with the Midcontinent association as vice-president for Kansas. As the years passed and his daughter grew up, Landon began to do less field work in the oil fields and more in the fight of producers of the Midcontinent field to get a tariff against foreign crude oil.

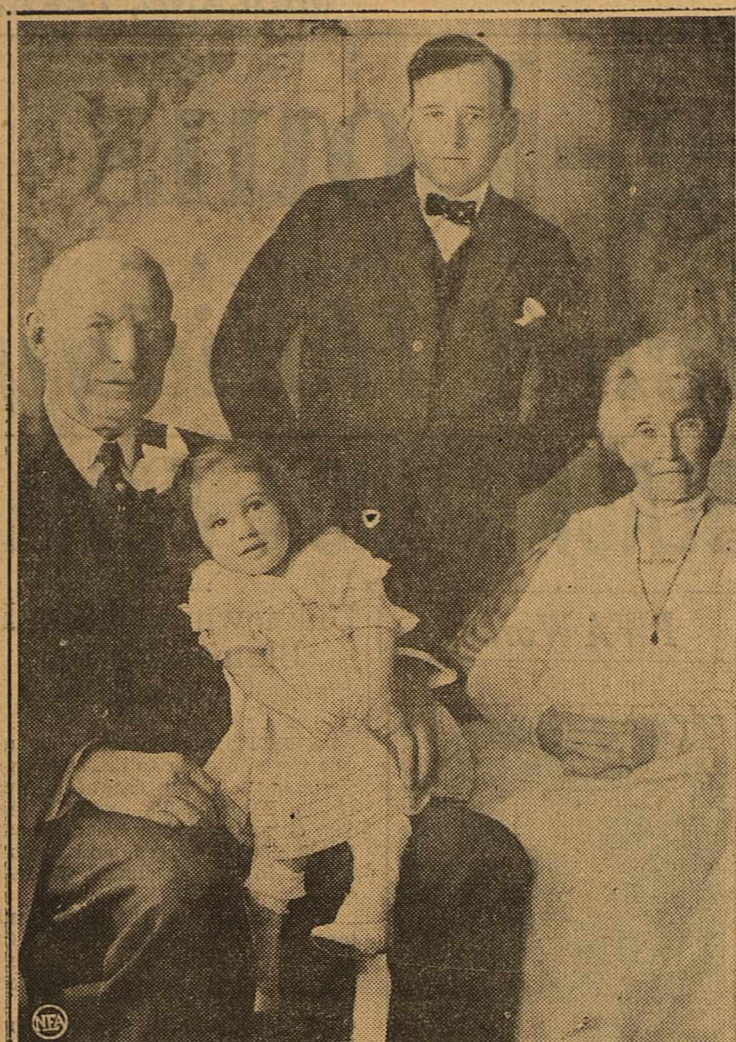

By telephone he keeps in touch with local superintendents on his properties, directing their activities.

Reaches Turning Point of His Career
In 1930 Landon married again. His bride was Theo Cobb, a prominent young society woman of Topeka, the daughter of Sam Cobb, a banker. The present Mrs. Landon is 38 today, and would be one of the youngest First Ladies to enter the White House should Landon be elected. Things were breaking well for "Lucky Landon."

During a single week in his later career, Landon brought in a 500-barrel well, won the Republican nomination for governor, and became the father of a baby daughter, Nancy Josephine. She is nearly 4 today, and there is now also a baby son, John Cobb, 2.

Financially, Landon was a success. He had all the money he wanted. He had a delightful home life. He had friends all over the state. He had means, a politically-minded father, and every youthful inclination for politics, in cluding some early practical experiences. Where would he turn next in rounding out a career? There could be only one answer: politics.

NEXT: An oil prospector turns from petroleum to politics.

The Landon family album provides this interesting picture of four generations of the Republican presidential nominee's family. They are, besides Alfred M. Landon (in background) Mrs. Mossman, his grandmother; John M. Landon, his father; Peggy Ann, his daughter.

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN - WASHINGTON By RODNEY DUTCHER Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 18. The Republicans turned out a somewhat dreary platform at Cleveland and it's questionable whether the Democrats will produce a more inspiring document at Philadelphia.

Roosevelt, however, will dictate his own party's platform. He is a sufficiently shrewd politician to use a few planks to shoot holes in any generalities and inconsistencies in the opposition platform, taking full advantage of the fact that the Republicans did their shooting first.

The president may decide to crack at the states' right shibboleth which the G. O. P. has now taken unto itself, despite the fact that it was for many decades Democratic property, while the party of Lincoln and McKinley leaned more toward a Hamiltonian doctrine of strong centralized authority.

He would have to tread softly, because there is still great popular belief in such shibboleths, as the Republicans well realize.

But there is also plenty of evidence concerning situations where it has been shown difficult or impossible, regardless of constitutional and supreme court limitations to get states to pass desirable social, humanitarian, or labor legislation because it would put them or certain of their citizens at a competitive disadvantage with states which did not so legislate.

States Shirk Job
Unemployed insurance, for instance, lagged when left to the states, because opponents could always say that the necessary payroll tax would drive industries elsewhere.

Republican platform proposes to encourage adoption by the states of honest and practical measures for meeting the problems of unemployment insurance.

Support for the adoption of state laws and interstate compacts to abolish sweatshops and child labor and protect women and children with respect to maximum hours, minimum wages, and working conditions as promised by the Cleveland platform, is another case in point.

The sweatshop operator's habit of crossing state lines to areas where state-imposed labor standards are low is notorious. An employer would be better off under a federal minimum wage law than if operating under a state wage law while his competitor 50 miles away paid as low wages as he liked.

Interstate compacts designed to put all employers on an even basis sound nice. Their formation, however, is cumbersome and the more states you try to get into one, the more the task tends toward impossibility.

Landon Sees Need
Landon, to his credit, recognized these facts when he telegraphed the convention that in case minimum wage laws were impossible through means suggested by the platform, he would be for a constitutional amendment.

He did not suggest confining power for this legislation to the states, because he recognized the need of at least some provision for effective federal participation.

Handing relief back to the states is another matter, although it has some aspects, because it has been demonstrated that some states are unable or willing to provide adequate relief for citizens.

Most important is the fact that the American political system hardly permits turning over responsibility for administration to "local non-political bodies," as the G. O. P. platform urges.

Politics in relief already is bad enough, but experts believe surrender of responsibility to a chain of state bosses, county chairman, city machine politicians, and ward bosses would increase costs about 25 per cent, because of graft and wastes.

Faults in Old Age Pension
Experts on social security, on the other hand, compliment Republican platform recognition of serious weaknesses in the New Deal old age program. These experts sometimes say that the principles of the Townsend plan are sounder than the contributory old age insurance law, with its estimated future reserve fund of 50 billion dollars.

"Pay-as-you-go" policy, with proceeds from a direct tax, as asked by the Republicans, seems more sensible to them. Roosevelt may take the tip and acknowledge a mistake.

The Democrats presumably will call for a balanced budget "as soon as possible," and for currency stabilization in some paraphrase of the Republicans words, "as soon as we can do so with due regard for our national interests."

No better place exists for new ideas however, than in plans which will parallel such Republican generalities as those on reemployment.

Midland Girl Sings A Leading Role in Fort Worth Opera

Miss Dorothy Cummings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cummings sang one of the three leading roles in the opera, "The Chimes of Normandy," which was presented Tuesday and Wednesday nights by the Philomel Choral Club at the First Methodist church in Fort Worth. Miss Cummings sang in the role of Serpette, alternating with Miss Marion Ringler.

E. Clyde Whitlock, speaking of the opera in his column "Music and Musicians" in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram recently said:

The opera abounds in music of the most delightful freshness and tunefulness, the kind of tunes that you whistle as you leave the hall.

The story of the opera has to do with wives of old Gaspard, guardian and uncle of Germaine, the real Marchioness of Cornville, who supposes herself to be only one of the girls of the village, Gaspard has been usurping her income to his own advantage, and to aid in his deception has caused the appearance of ghosts and strange apparitions about the castle. There are the expected plots of Gaspard to marry his ward to

4H Club Girl Cans Greens From Garden

"From my tender green bed I have canned four pints of greens and it will soon be ready for another picking," said Pansy Lear 4-H garden demonstrator of Cotton Flat club.

Each girl is to can a minimum of 10 quarts of leafy vegetables per member of the family. So with 3 in the Lear family it is Pansy's goal to can as many more than 30 quarts as will be possible.

Each club girl is to grow 146 feet of leafy vegetable per member of the family. The club year will be completed by December 1st or extended from December 1st to December 1st.

All people now living on the earth could be placed in a half-mile cube.

The old magistrate, to secure his own immunity, and the ultimate triumph of right and happiness.

Miss Cummings is one of Midland's promising young singers. She has sung over radio a number of times and has taken an active part in college musical activities.

Sunday, June 28, she will sing at a Centennial mass at Dallas with Prof. Marsh's choir.

FEMININE FANCIES

BY KATHLEEN EILAND

Don't know why we dislike the word "officiant" meaning the clergyman who marries a couple.

Words that we like: sheer, gallant, gay, courteous, dawn, silver.

"Centennial" is singularly easy to say for a word as long as it is.

Words have a queer power. Their shades of meaning can color entirely the effect of a sentence. Take the words travel, journey, and trapeze, for example. The first simply means progress over the country, the second means a long and dignified period of travel, while the third has an unpleasant connotation, though it means to walk, trudge, or wander idly.

Tell your friend that he travels or journeys much and he will be pleased. Tell him that he traipses about and he will rise up in wrath to disclaim the accusation.

The person who is born with the ability to say the right thing at the right time is blessed of the gods. The one who, like Maggie Tulliver, always says the wrong thing, is pre-judging.

Methodist Union Will Meet Friday

A special effort is being made to have pastors of the churches at these places attend.

The program proper will be held at the church while games will be played and refreshments will be served at the annex at 9 o'clock.

GET GULFLUBE—It's "Stripped for action"!

Poorly refined motor oils, like a swimmer with all his clothes on, can't do an efficient job. They carry too much excess baggage—waste that should be "stripped off" by refining.

Most 25c oils, like a swimmer stripped of part of his clothes, are rid of some waste—but not enough for best performance. No refiner of 25c oils could afford to go further, before Gulf's Multi-sol process was perfected.

GULFLUBE MOTOR OIL, like a swimmer stripped for action, is rid of every bit of excess waste. It's the only Multi-sol-made 25c oil—the finest, purest oil a quarter ever bought. Gulflube gives you better lubrication, lower bills and a cleaner motor. Prove it—at the Sign of the Orange Disc.

Louis in the fourth—That seems to be the general opinion, and it is good enough for us—Perhaps the best guessers of how the bout would end summed it up this way "Louis can name the round and the punch—'Wise money' is not often wrong and it is picking the colored boy to win by a KO—They'll give almost any kind of odds asked for by anyone that will support the German—Louis won't have any new wife to hurry off to as soon as this one is over, nevertheless, he will end it just as soon as he can—

Louis' last five fights have gone just 16 rounds, a little more than three rounds each. And his foes have, without being scared—All the rest of the stumble bums that have faced the negro in the last year have gone out to the slaughter with a "hurry up and get it over with" look on their face that has not helped the boxing game a darn bit—Max will go out and do his best he will deserve something for his valour—one of his plans, however, has already boomeranged on him—Other fighters read during their training sessions about how Louis treated his sparring partners and went into the ring expecting the same kind of treatment—And they weren't disappointed—Schmelling, therefore, has not read anything of the activities of the negro since he has been training—He might have been cheered up had he done so as all the stories about Louis have been about how poor his condition was, how badly his timing, how his sparring mates showed him around etc—All of which was the old well known game to get a crowd into the park to get the so-called fight.

Flaw-dropping is against the law in Oklahoma.

Ancient Hindu Book Unearthed on Art of Thievery Magic; Has Invisibility Recipe

PHILADELPHIA. (U.P.)—Students of Oriental magic and ritual are evincing keen interest in photographed copies of a rare Hindu manual brought from Calcutta by Prof. W. Norman Brown of the University of Pennsylvania.

The volume, an exhaustive dissertation on the finer points of thievery, is the only known surviving text dealing exclusively with the "art of stealing."

Stealing as an art has a traditional place in the East, and the subject is said to have been exploited in numerous Indic texts. Sanskrit literature contains numerous references to the practice of stealing, and Indologists had long hoped that a text would be uncovered.

In 1900 an obscure reference was circulated among learned circles, but it was not until last year that Dr. Brown discovered the Hindu manual while poring over some miniature paintings in manuscript in the library of the Asiatic Society of Bengal in Calcutta.

Even Copy Is Old
While making photographs of these miniatures, Dr. Brown was approached by a pundit who thought that the rare text might be of interest to him. In Dr. Brown's opinion, the palm-leaf manuscript probably was copied from an original sometime between the 13th and 17th centuries.

The language of the text is not of a high order of literary Sanskrit, and the writer drew no line between magic and religious ritual. But the claims are most ambitious.

listening to a lecture by Prof. Kenneth Baker. Despite simplicity of questions asked following the incident, the students gave widely varied answers.

The experiment was conducted in this manner:

Prof. Baker's lecture was interrupted suddenly by Prof. Howard P. Longstaff, who walked to the platform carrying a slip of blue paper. He wore a brown overcoat and a red baseball player's cap.

Class Is Surprised
"Mr. Professor," eighty-four asserted a telegram for you."

Prof. Baker tried not to accept the paper, but it was forced into his hand, and the messenger left the platform. The action was staged with no foreknowledge of the class.

The procedure lasted 15 seconds. Immediately after the students were asked a series of questions. The results follow:

Virtually all of the class said Prof. Longstaff wore a brown overcoat. Forty-five said he had on a baseball cap, 10 just "cap" and 30 said a red cap. Several however, said he wore a hat, two said he had nothing on his head, and others described the headpiece as a skull cap, stocking cap, or tam.

At Variance on Time
Estimates on time varied widely. Only 18 said 15 seconds, while the great majority of the class estimated 30 seconds or more, 27 said a full minute and a few said as high as two minutes.

Out of the entire class, 53 admitted they had no idea at what time the demonstration took place. The majority of estimates were fairly accurate.

Most of the class said the message was on blue paper but 28 said it was yellow, and nine said white.

Greatest Error on Conflict
The greatest error occurred on the question as to which person struck the other. Although neither man struck a blow, 62 students said the messenger struck the lecturer, and 119 said the lecturer struck the messenger.

'BONUS' PARTY IS FATAL TO WOMAN

Ex-Veteran Drives Car Over Mother During Drinking Spree

SALT LAKE CITY, June 18—A war veteran held in the asserted "bonus celebration" death of his white-haired mother trembled in his cell last night and sobbed "God, I don't see how all this terrible mess ever happened."

Traffic Investigator H. C. Ceirce told County Attorney Harold E. Wallace that Harry Olson, 42, backed his motor car over 72-year-old Mrs. Christine Olson late yesterday in front of her home.

Wallace ordered a complaint charging the shaking prisoner with involuntary manslaughter prepared for filing tomorrow.

Stories varied. Ceirce said he understood the aged woman had been pleading with Olson not to drive while drinking. As he heedlessly drove away, she called. Then, Ceirce said, Olson suddenly backed up and the automobile—a cheap second-hand car bought with bonus money—ground her body into the street in front of the Olson home.

Olson mumbled he didn't remember much about what happened. "But he told a reporter his mother was drinking, too."

potential gauge.

In the same section, Sinclair-Prairie No. 3-B Walton flowed 510 barrels the first 10 hours after shooting with 240 quarts from 2,757 to 2,997, the total depth. The official gauge is still in progress. Location of the No. 3-B is 2,310 feet from the north and east lines of the section.

Potential gauge was finished at 5:30 p. m. yesterday on a well completed early in the week, Tide Water No. 4 Walton, 2,310 feet from the south and west lines of section 24, block 26, public school land. A total of 1,277 barrels was registered in 24 hours. Drilled to a total depth of 2,888, the well was shot with 240 quarts from 2,790 to bottom and was shut in for two days pending pipeline connection.

SECOND ACID TREATMENT HELPS FISHER WELL

In the Fisher county pool six miles northeast of Rotan, a gain in production was obtained in Tide Water and Merry Bros. and Perini No. 3 Mary Howard after a second acid treatment. The well had been swabbing only about 12 barrels daily natural and was increased to about 25 barrels by squibbing with 20 quarts of nitro. The initial acid injection of 1,000 gallons boosted it to 200 barrels per day, and another treatment with 2,000 gallons increased it still further so that it is now rated at 300 barrels a day.

The No. 3 Howard was plugged back to 3,694 after developing water at 3,697 in drilling to a total depth of 3,700. It had pays from 3,647 to 3,649 and from 3,662 to 3,664. Location is 2,208 feet from the north and 2,332 feet from the east line of section 180, block 1, H. & T. C. survey.

PITTSBURGH MEN HERE ON BUSINESS

May Start Important New Project in The District

Messrs. James Hemphill and John A. Byerly, both of Pittsburgh, Pa., have been in Midland on business for the past few days. While nothing has been officially announced, it is understood that they are investigating the possibilities of a new project that will serve to further develop the resources of West Texas.

Mr. Hemphill, at one time interested in steel properties in Pittsburgh, is now active in the oil business, having production in the Kettleman Hills field in California. He is familiar with West Texas and its people and expressed regret at being unable to remain in Midland to attend the World's Championship Centennial Race.

Mr. Byerly is in the banking profession in Pittsburgh and other eastern cities.

After a brief trip to El Paso, the party will leave Texas to return to Pittsburgh next week.

"Devil's Squadron" New Yucca Thriller

Squadron without fear—they'll try anything, once—or twice—if they live! Motors whining—propellers screaming—five miles up—five miles a minute down—straight for the ground—and glory!

Thus do the test pilots, unsung heroes of aviation, live and die. Fittingly, Columbia Pictures has produced a picture dedicated to these brave men: it is called "Devil's Squadron." And it shows Friday and Saturday at the Yucca Theatre with Richard Dix in the starring role.

Others in the picture are Karen Morley, Lloyd Nolan, Shirley Ross, Billy Burrud, Gene Morgan and Thurston Hall.

Health Answers

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This Question and Answer column is being carried this week as a cooperative service to the Midland County Public Health Board, which is sponsoring the typhoid fever immunization clinics beginning Monday, June 22.)

Question: Who may contact typhoid fever?

Answer: There seems to be no natural immunity from typhoid fever because of an excellent state of general health. Young athletes in the pink of condition have been known to succumb, while persons in poor health have escaped infection though equally exposed. Not every person who swallows typhoid bacilli has typhoid fever. The large majority of our people do not have the disease, whether due to immunity or to the fact that they never swallow the infective agent, we do not know, because everything about individual susceptibility to disease is not now clearly understood.

There are however, two classes of individuals who enjoy a high degree of immunity: (1) Those who have had one attack and survived, and (2) those who have been rendered immune through anti-typhoid inoculation or "vaccination."

Question: How long does immunity last from the use of anti-typhoid vaccination?

Answer: Immunity from anti-typhoid vaccination lasts from two to four years, but two years is generally understood as the most reliable period of immunity. Immunity is understood to begin as soon as the reaction from the vaccine is complete.

PLANT UNIONS ARE URGED BY OFFICER

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (U.P.)—A compromise plan which he believes offers a solution of the nationwide labor controversy between craft and industrial union factions has been proposed here by E. Z. Yeager, vice president of the Alabama Federation of Labor.

Briefly, Yeager's plan calls for organization of all workers in a plant into a single union, without craft distinction, but with a provision that part of the dues paid by skilled workers shall go to the national unions of their respective crafts.

The plant union in each instance would be under jurisdiction of the labor organization whose craft was predominant in that industry—a procedure already adopted to a certain extent by some craft unions.

A. F. of L. May Study Plan

The proposal for a division of dues paid in such plants by skilled craftsmen has been suggested by Yeager to George L. Googe of Atlanta, Southeastern representative of the American Federation of Labor, and it is considered likely the proposal may be brought before the next A. F. of L. convention in Tampa, Fla., in September.

Designed as a means of uniting workers in the more or less unorganized mass-production industries, the plan would not affect unions already organized on an industrial or plant basis, Yeager explains. United Mine Workers of America, for example, would retain its present exclusive jurisdiction over all classes of workers in the coal mining industry, whether they be miners or electricians, and no dues paid by a U. M. W. A. member would be shared with any other union.

"The division of dues," Yeager says, "would apply only where one craft union took over workmen of another craft union in order to establish a unity of workers in a plant."

Offers Typical Example

"Suppose a majority of workers in a plant are molders. Then all workers there would form a local of the International Molders Union. An electrician or machinist working in the plant would belong to the molders' local, but part of his per capita tax would be sent to national headquarters of the electricians' or machinists' union.

"When the electrician or machinist left the plant he would be transferred to the union of his craft. This would safeguard craft unions against disintegration, at the same time achieving the goal of plant unity sought by advocates of industrial unionization," he added.
