Two-Thirds Rule Abrogation Demanded EVERYTHING READY FOR OPENING SHOW

OVERRIDE SOUTH STATES PROTESTS OF CHANGING RULE

Debate Delays Final Decision on The Proposal

ELECT ROBINSON

Arkansas Senator Is Chosen Permanent Chairman

PHILADELPHIA, June 25 (AP)—Overriding southern objections, the Roosevelt rules committee today recommended the abrogation of the old two-thirds rule for the democratic convention, but a debate delayed final settlement until this evening, pending drafting of dissenting reports.

While the platform makers struggled to settle their own difficulties the delegates unanimously accepted reports and credentials of the permanent organization committee. Whether an attempt will be made to dispose of the platform and rules committee reports tonight was uncertain.

Convention officials said they hoped the dissenters might be talked out of presenting the minority rules report. Surprisingly New York, Massachusetts, Indiana sided with the block of southern states against future nominations by a simple majority.

The full platform committee was called to meet at three p. m. (EST) and hope to act on recommendations of the sub-committee which worked all night. Adoption of the credentials report enabled the convention to complete its organization and elect Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas permanent chairman.

The convention adjourned at 12:48 until eight p. m. The rules committee voted 38-13 to abrogate the 104-year-old two-thirds nominating rule, but as a concession to opponents prepared to recommend reappointment of delegates at future conventions.

The platform, omitting a proposal for a constitutional amendment, was completed by the drafting sub-committee of the resolutions committee. The agreement was reached by the predominantly new deal sub-committee shortly before the scheduled meeting of the full committee at three o'clock.

General Jackson to Command Forces at San Jacinto Battle

When the Battle of San Jacinto is re-staged on the original battleground as a Centennial celebration on the morning of August 9, the Texas forces will be commanded by Major General W. E. Jackson of Hillsboro, who is owner of the extensive farm properties in Midland county known as the Jackson farms, adjacent to the highway east of town.

General Jackson's men will be soldiers of the 141st Infantry and of the 36th Division. The 141st Infantry was the old Second Texas Infantry, an organization which goes back to the forces that, under the leadership of Sam Houston, defeated the Mexicans in the original battle.

The idea of re-fighting the famous battle was conceived by General Jackson who presented the matter to military officials. It was enthusiastically received and it has been designated as an official military problem in conjunction with the annual encampment of the Texas National Guard at Palacios during August.

The unique celebration is expected to draw one of the largest crowds ever gathered together in Texas.

Friday Morning Extra To Give Late Rodeo News

An "extra" of The Reporter-Telegram, to give full details to the World Championship Centennial Rodeo, will be issued early Friday morning, both to be sold on the streets and to be distributed to regular subscribers in the city of Midland.

The management decided to do so in order to have last minute news of plans and details of the huge project placed before the public and to reach the large crowds expected to begin arriving after daylight Friday.

Subscribers are asked to look early Friday morning for the rodeo "extra" at the usual place of delivery.

ESPIONAGE LAW IS ALLEGED BROKEN: PAIR INDICTED

Officer in Japanese Navy One of Duo Charged

LOS ANGELES, June 25 (AP)—An officer of the imperial Japanese navy and a former petty officer in the U. S. navy were indicted by the federal grand jury Wednesday on charges of conspiring to violate the espionage act.

Those indicted were Tosbio Miyazaki, described in the indictment as a lieutenant-commander in the Japanese navy, and Harry Thomas Thompson, formerly of the U. S. navy. The action of the grand jury climaxed a long and intensive investigation.

Naval authorities said they believed Miyazaki is now in the Orient. Thompson is serving a county jail sentence here following his conviction on charges of illegally wearing a naval uniform.

The indictment charged the two men "unlawfully and feloniously conspired together and with divers others persons unknown to the grand jury, to commit an offense against the United States, the offense being to knowingly, wilfully, and unlawfully communicate, deliver, transmit to a foreign government, to-wit, Japan, and to an officer, agent, employe, subject or citizen thereof, either directly or indirectly documents, writings x x x and information relating to the national defense, with reason to believe and the intent that such things were to be used to the injury of the United States, and to the advantage of a foreign nation, to-wit, Japan."

His signature makes it a felony to transport interstate and foreign commerce and for persons to be employed to obstruct or interfere with the right of peaceful picketing in labor controversies. The second measure will bring the air force to 4,000 fighting planes within five years.

Midland Scouters Give Services to Work Without Pay

With the opening of the Boy Scout camp at Barksdale, the attention of many Midland parents is focusing on Boy Scout work and on the work done by scouters.

Much of the credit for the success of Scout work in Midland goes to the three scoutmasters, Buster Howard, H. H. Kendrick, and Wallace Wimberly. These three men pay the regular fees each year, spend considerable money of their own in attending meetings and often send boys to the camps at their individual expense. They receive no salary what ever for the time, effort, and finances they put into it.

Other officials of the organization among Midland men include: John P. Howe, district chairman; Clinton Lackey, local treasurer; Claude O. Crane, commissioner of this area which includes 15 counties; Guy Breneman, chairman of activities; Winston F. Borum, chairman of the court of honor.

All these men give their services free of charge. Expenses of the trips they make in connection with the work are paid from their own resources.

Led and encouraged by this group of workers, the Boy Scout organization in Midland is flourishing and expanding.

Long Beach Man Tells of Rotary Activities There

Ray Green, president of the Long Beach, Calif., Rotary club, made a brief talk at the local club luncheon today, giving details of community service work done by his organization along the lines of crippled children's work, boys' work, establishment and operation of a day nursery and student loan work.

Green and his wife, the former Miss Clara Wright of Midland, have been visiting relatives here for several days. The No. 1 Avertit was not drilled far into the gas section but stopped at 4,910 and was completed as a gas well when tools were lost in the hole. Location of the No. 1 Kirk is in the south central part of the county, in the southwest corner of section 22, block A-21, public school land.

WADDELL FLUSH PRODUCER RUNNING ACID

Acid treatment was scheduled for today in the latest flush producer to be drilled in the Waddell pool of northern Crane county, Gulf No. 5 Henderson, 440 feet from the south and 1,320 feet from the east line of section 3, block B-23, public school land. The well is now bottomed at 3,526 feet in lime and has run 2-inch tubing to 3,495. It flowed 1,182 barrels of oil in six hours while running the tubing.

Also in the Waddell pool, Gulf No. 14 Waddell, 330 feet from the north and 990 feet from the west line of section 11, block B-23, public school land, is drilling lime below 3,389 with 1,000 feet of oil in the hole. No increases in pay have been logged below 3,226.

A proposed north extension to the pool, Tide Water No. 1 Edwards is still waiting for cement to set around 6 5/8 inch casing at 3,187. Total depth in the extension test is 3,192, with top of lime called at 3,150. It is 2,810 feet from the north and 330 feet from the west line of section 22, block A-21, public school land.

JOHNSON CITY, June 25 (AP)—Mrs. Ernest Herwig, 28, and her son, nine, were slain with an axe yesterday at their farm home ten miles south of here. The bodies were found in a bedroom.

The woman's husband said that he and two daughters were hoeing in the garden, heard a commotion, rushed in the house and found the mother and boy dead.

Lucas to be Given Alcatraz 'Medicine'

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25 (AP)—Alcatraz prison's own particular brand of punishment probably will be applied to James C. Lucas, Texas "bad man" for carving a new scar on Al Capone.

Both Warden James A. Johnston and United States Attorney H. H. McPike indicated there would be no criminal prosecution since the former Chicago gang chief was only superficially wounded.

The Alcatraz warden, reporting Capone "all right" and Lucas "possibly having a few pangs of remorse," said he would take up the punishment matter with Washington authorities and that the Texas robber doubtless would be "restricted."

Lucas already was "restricted." He was put into solitary confinement immediately after plunging a pair of scissors into Capone's back yesterday.

If the usual prison discipline is applied, Lucas probably will continue in solitary, on a bread and water diet.

FORM ODESSA Mrs. Jack Ceel and Mrs. Ora Teagarden of Odessa were visitors in Midland Wednesday.

Entries for the five shows of the three-day World Championship Centennial Rodeo were started at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the pari-mutuel offices of the Midland Fair grounds.

All was in readiness for the opening parade at one o'clock Friday afternoon, on the down town streets, and for the opening rodeo program at 2 o'clock at Midland Fair Arena.

MORE SPONSORS SEND ENTRIES TO MIDLAND RODEO

San Angelo, Odessa Announce Girls To Be Here

Two additional cowgirl sponsors were entered today in the World Championship Centennial Rodeo here, bringing the "for certain" total to 21. Several other towns were to be represented if sponsors can be obtained in time for the opening of the show at the one o'clock parade Friday.

Newest entrants were Miss Virginia Duncan of San Angelo and Miss Ruth Fernandes of Odessa. Sponsors will compete for valuable prizes, including a $100 saddle, donated by the Blackstone Hotel, Fort Worth; a pair of fancy leather chaps, given by the Texas Hotel, Fort Worth; a handsome leather fitted case, given by Addison Wadley Co., Midland; a pair of shop made boots given by George Friday boot and saddle shop, Midland; an Elizabeth Arden makeup case, given by The Fair Store, Fort Worth.

The cowgirls, each of whom was appointed by her home town or city, will ride in the parade and at each of the five showings of the rodeo, finally being judged as they ride their horses in "figure 8" and other stunts before the judges. They will be scored on personal appearance of cowgirl in costume, appearance of horse and equipment, ability of girl to ride and ability of horse to be reined.

Admission for children to the rodeo will be only 25 cents, it was announced today by Midland Fair officials. The ages to be charged at the 25 cent rate are from 6 to 12 inclusive. Adults may enter for 75 cents. No extra charge is made for reserved seats, the general admission covering all costs except for those purchasing boxes.

More than 100 crack ropers, riders and bull doggers are here, most of them fresh from the Centennial rodeo at Dallas. A selected group of trick and fancy riders, trick ropers, clowns and feature actors also has been engaged. Cowgirl sponsors from approximately 25 towns will be featured at each program.

Gate keepers are preparing to handle huge crowds at each of the five programs. Admission is 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for children 6 to 12 years of age, inclusive. No extra charge is made for reserved seats.

Officials guarantee that the show given for the above prices will equal or excel those to which admission of $1.00 to $2.50 usually is charged. Performers are the best on the North American continent and the livestock to be used in all contests has been selected only after measuring up in every detail.

The complete daily program appears elsewhere on this page. Contestants will compete in seven major events for total purses of $3,500. The events are calf roping, bronc riding, steer bull dogging, wild horse roping, bareback bronc riding, steer riding and wild horse race.

Fair Officials Ask Attendance At Pecos Rodeo

Officials of the Midland Fair Inc. and members of the rodeo committee, expressed today a desire to see a large attendance of Midland citizens at the Pecos rodeo to be held July 3, 4, and 5.

Pecos people have cooperated with us in every way," officials said, "and we want to see the same cooperation given them."

At the race meet last month a delegation of over 100 Pecos citizens came one afternoon. A similar motored is planned by Pecos business men during the rodeo here, July 26, 27 and 28.

The retailers committee of the Midland Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a motecade of Midland people to Pecos on the opening day of that rodeo, July 3.

Officers Warned To Look Out For Three

Officers of the Sheriff's office today received requests from Ruston, Louisiana, asking them to be on the lookout for a man who came into the town, made a deal with the newspaper to sell advertising, collected the money for it and left town without turning the money over to his superiors, and two others who worked a neat little "game" to get a check for $175 cashed.

A check was presented to the bank signed by "J. J. Spencer," made payable to "L. E. Moore" and got the check cashed. The signature of Spencer was a forgery and he also forged his signature on the back of the check for the purpose of identification. It was learned from the real J. J. Spencer that a stranger had approached him about buying his farm, secured his name and address, from which the check was forged. Banks are requested to look out for the men.

BEHIND THE SCENES

—IN—

WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, June 25—Congressman William Lemke's third party candidacy hangs vaguely like a cloud over the Democratic convention. Not too black, nor too low, at least as yet, but conspicuous enough to cause politicians to ask one another whether it is going to rain and, if so, how hard.

The "Union Party" holds a possibility of disaster for the democrats. How imminent or how remote that possibility may be will be a matter of argument until the campaign gets under way and one can begin to estimate the extent to which Lemke, with the support of Father Coughlin and his appeal to followers of Dr. Townsend and the late Huey Long, is going places and in which direction.

It is too early for anyone either to anticipate the worst or to toss off the Lemke complication as unimportant. It is to be remembered that the third party can't get on the ballot in some states and that it won't be entered in others.

But realistic democrats admit that Lemke seems likely to draw many more votes away from Roosevelt than from Landon. The dent will be made in the radical fringe of what reasonably might now be considered Roosevelt's No. 1 vote.

Some politicians at the convention think many Townsends who had planned to vote against the president in imagined retaliation for the house investigation of their movement will now be lost to Landon, but the majority pin no great faith to such an effect.

How It Worked in '16 The question here, where it is commonly believed Roosevelt has a definite edge on Landon, is whether Lemke could draw off sufficient votes in enough states to give Landon the election.

That brings up the all-important question: How close is the contest between Roosevelt and Landon, other things being equal, going to be? The answer to that one is that nobody knows.

Anyone will comprehend the situation who looks at the election results in two previous years, 1916 and 1924. In the first instance it will be seen how a few thousand Lemke votes in a single state might decide whether Roosevelt or Landon was to be the next president if the race were close.

The second instance demonstrates how Lemke might poll a much bigger vote than anyone supposes he will and still have no effect on the result if there were a strong national trend toward, let's say, Roosevelt.

Few Votes Decided Issue J. Frank Hanly of Indiana and Ira Landrith of Massachusetts, ran on the prohibition party ticket in 1916 and polled 220,000 votes.

You may remember that the issue hung in the balance for three days because of a close contest in California, which finally by 273 votes gave her 13 electoral votes to Woodrow Wilson and elected him over Charles Evans Hughes, now chief justice, by an electoral vote of 277 to 254.

Cleveland Modest About Exposition But Its Show Will Rank With Best

BY WILLIS THORNTON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND, June 25.—The becoming modesty with which the Great Lakes Exposition makes its bow on June 27 is certainly an innovation in the midst of the rash of expositions with which American cities are breaking out in their efforts to follow Chicago's road to better times.

Cleveland hasn't claimed that it's staging a "World's Fair." It has done little to promote its "big show" throughout the county. But a tour of the almost-complete exposition grounds here shows that the Cleveland show will compare favorably with any exposition staged since the monster affair in Chicago, which has set the pace for every one since.

At several points the Clevelanders hope to outdo even Chicago, through their show is similar in many ways to that bellwether of expositions.

WHERE CLEVELAND EXCELS

Here are the Cleveland bids for exhibition distinction:

First, the lighting effects are expected to be the best and most advanced ever put together on a show ground. Cleveland is headquarters of the experimental laboratories of the National Electric Light Association and the newest things in lighting effects will be available.

Second, the exposition's main entrance is within two blocks of the center of the city, located much like Chicago's along the Lake Erie water front adjoining the business district.

Third, Cleveland claims that it has given greater consideration to the tired feet of visitors than any other exposition. The 175-acre grounds are very compact and there will be hundreds of convenient benches to help walkers take a weight off their dogs when the same begin to bark.

Fourth, there will be an unusually high proportion of free entertainment.

Fifth, the exhibits showing the workings of the iron and steel industry in "America's Ruhr" about the Great Lakes basin will be the best and most graphic ever put together in this country.

GLORIFY IRON AND STEEL

Iron and steel are especially to be glorified in the Cleveland exposition, but the resources of the whole industrial and trade empire of eight states bordering the Great Lakes will be on display. The official observance is that of the 100th anniversary of Cleveland's incorporation in this country.

The tone of the exposition will be nautical, but nice. That is to say, a sea-going theme is carried out in the buildings and decorations, in deference to the great lake shipping industry.

Adjoining also is Public Hall where the Republican convention recently met. The basement of this huge hall has been changed to an exhibit of iron-mining and steel-making which will show on the ground every process from mine to finished steel, and from primitive man's earliest smelting to today's continuous strip mills.

The world's largest broadcasting studio occupies the main floor of the hall, with a continuous program of nationally known radio stars.

Paseantry will abound with a Marine Theatre presenting regular free programs and fireworks, while the "Parade of the Years," a spectacle similar to the popular "Wings of a Century" in Chicago, will draw many to a 4400 seat amphitheater.

Old-time "iron-horse" locomotives as well as primitive chaises, have been assembled for this pageant and its cast of 250.

OTHER ATTRACTIONS

Commercial exhibitors will present similar displays to those offered in Chicago, in San Diego and at other expositions. A mid-way show offer all the standard "rides" and curiosity shows.

A novelty is a fish-pond in which patrons may catch perch, while they wait. Fishermen: bread-balls flavored with vanilla have proved the most successful bait.

The Streets of the World collection of frozen villages and houses is far more elaborate than the famous one in Chicago. Its houses both more authentic in design and more solid in construction.

Ten acres are occupied by this exhibit, in which foreign-language groups in Cleveland co-operated. They serve food and wines native to the countries represented.

In a replica of the Fortune Theatre, built in 1600, will be given 14 Shakespeare plays in abbreviated form, but in the same style as when Shakespeare himself acted in them at the Globe in the London of 1600.

During the 100 days of the exposition, at least one convention is in progress in Cleveland every day, so promoters hope their estimate of 4,000,000 visitor to the Great Lakes Exposition may not be far wrong.

SEA TO ENGULF ANCIENT TOWN

LES - SAINTES - MARIES - DE-LA-MER, France (U.P.)—This ancient town on the Mediterranean, one of the most picturesque in France, is in danger of disappearing—in danger so imminent that the Prefect of the Department of the Bouches-du-Rhone has been asked to do something about it.

The sea is eating its way into the coast. Already the city proper occupies three-quarters of a mile from the sea, is protected from it only by dikes, one of which, on the west, has been almost destroyed by this year's storms. Middle-aged inhabitants remember playing in fields now well out in deep water. Customs officers huts that once stood on a cliff above the sea now are in deep water.

The town is almost entirely surrounded by water. To the south is the Mediterranean, to the west the salt lake of Les Lones, to the east the Imperial salt lake.

Both of these bodies of water are separated from the sea only by a thin strip of shore, through which narrow channels are beginning to be cut.

Lakes to Be Swallowed It will not be long, if nothing is done, until the barriers break down, the lakes become part of the Mediterranean, and Les Saintes - Maries - de - la - Mer a small promontory on the end of the neck of land bearing the road from Arles, gradually will sink beneath the sea as so much of the land about it has already done.

Dikes built along the banks of the Little Rhone to protect the region from floods have helped to increase the speed with which the sea is eating away at the coast, for the silt which the Rhone used to spread at its mouth to replace the land eroded by the sea is now carried out into the Mediterranean.

Les - Saintes - Maries-de-la-Mer retains all its picturesque because its inaccessibility keeps all but the most determined tourists away. Whereas other famous old cities of France have been spoiled for the sensitive traveler by the commercialization of their attractions, Les - Saintes - Maries-de-la-Mer has remained untouched. It is too far off the main roads, it is the only point of interest in a desolate region, and so it retains its native customs and its primitive character.

In Desolate Region It is in the Camargue, the desolate region of salt marshes in the delta of the Rhone's multiple mouths, where the only thing that grows is cattle fodder. There the cowboys of France live, armed not with lasso, but with a long pike. Large stretches are practically uninhabited, Les Saintes-Maries-de-la-Mer being the only community in its administrative district.

Chief attraction of the town is the curious fortified church of the 12th Century with beeting walls

But we are rather disgusted with Joe Jerks, who is running for county attorney in Chinch Bug county on the platform that he once was a star football player at T. U.

Football we suggest has nothing to do with the proper administration of the legal end of a county.

In the morning's games Mrs. John Marks of Odessa held high score and was presented with a mayonnaise dish of Stoffer gold china. Mrs. W. J. Coleman, scoring second high received a cream pitcher and sugar bowl set of the same gold encrusted ware. Mrs. Walter Seelye, for cut prize, received a bonbon dish of the same make.

Miss Leona McCormick was hostess for a two-table bridge party at her home, 217 W. Tennessee, Wednesday afternoon, complimenting Miss Stella Maye Lanham on her birthday. Table covers, score pads, and napkins were in orange paper with white elephants as decorative motif, this choice being a happy one as elephants for luck are a hobby of the honoree.

Bowls of nasturtiums in orange shades furthered the color scheme in the playing rooms and gifts were wrapped in orange and blue.

Games of bridge, knitting and conversation occupied the group of friends a number of whom had taught together in the city schools.

Miss Lanham was presented with gifts from all present. Mrs. Bill Conner scored high in bridge, receiving an appropriate gift. The hostess also presented gifts to Mrs. Wallace Irwin, a recent bride and to Miss Troy Allen, an out-of-town visitor.

Timber Growth In U.S. Exceeding Drain

That the United States is cutting off its forests many times faster than they are being replaced has long been the impression of the average American citizen. With this idea in mind many people have purposely aimed to specify materials other than wood in an effort to display their "American spirit" in conserving our forests. This erroneous public attitude, according to P. A. Hayward, Chief of the Forest Products Division of the Department of Commerce, has done more damage than good since it had aided in weakening the consumption of products produced by what was once America's greatest industry. As a result thousands of former workers are looking for employment.

Even by making the most extreme assumptions, Mr. Hayward states that any shortage of timber for lumber and allied products could be only at some far distant time. What is more likely is that there will always be sufficient forest in the United States to meet all reasonable needs and that the immediate and pressing problem, according to Hayward, is that of expansion of markets for forest products, as without adequate markets our forest resources would be largely an economic waste. Moreover, timber as a national resource is an exception since it is reproducible. Timber should therefore be considered as a crop, and unless it can be utilized the crop ceases to be an important asset.

In making the foregoing comments Mr. Hayward referred to a recent report of the Industries Studies Section of the NRA which was prepared by experienced experts in the field of forest products economics. The following excerpts from this report substantiate Mr. Hayward's statements: "Considering the entire commercial forest area without regard to the ultimate use or form of its products and assuming no increase in current annual growth, it is estimated that the heavy 1925-1929 drain of all forest products, according to the report, can be maintained without total depletion for 65 years—During this period however, growth will increase as additional growing lands are released by the cutting of mature timber and improved forestry practices are put into effect. On this latter basis it is estimated that growth will exceed drain to such a degree that a perpetual supply of

'Snowed Under' Is Big Comedy Romance

What is heralded as one of the maddest, merriest comedy romances of the season, "Snowed Under," a First National picture is now showing at the Ritz Theatre.

The picture is enacted by a brilliant all star cast which includes George Brent, Genevieve Tobin, Glenda Farrell, Patricia Ellis, Frank McHugh, John Eldredge, Porter Hall, and Helen Lowell.

The action takes place in a New England farmhouse where a young playright, who is madly trying to finish a new drama, is snow-bound with two ex-wives, a new sweetheart, the lawyer for the second wife and a sheriff who is seeking to land the author in jail for failure to pay his alimony.

Propinquity also plays strange pranks, and the gold digging divorcee, who is seeking to throw her husband into jail for failure to pay alimony, casts her eyes on the sheriff. There ensues a series of love entanglements.

FEMININE FANCIES BY KATHLEEN EILAND

The cowboys are coming to town. The vanguard is here. And after all these months when we had thought we'd lost all interest in cowboys, being associated in our daily existence with men trained for far different occupations, we find the old allegiance still holds.

A cowboy owns a place in the heart of every West Texan that no other type of man holds. We like 'em and we always will. They are sincere. They are genuine. Despite their faults, they are the kind to depend upon. As the old ranch saying goes, "They'll do to ride with."

After getting our fingers well-stained with the polish and news-papers splattered with it, along with the leather it was intended to improve, we've decided that the improvement in the looks of our ancient and battered bag was worth the effort of polishing.

Just what is efficiency—and inefficiency? When we find ourselves with work we had planned to do in three weeks crammed into one, and are swamped with details at the last moment, we begin to wonder if we're unlucky—or just plain inefficient?

Livestock Trading Brisk in West Texas

SAN ANGELO, Texas. (AP)—Livestock trading continues brisk throughout West Texas and ranchmen say many yearling ewes are changing hands at $6 to $6.50 a head. Mixed lamb contracts are being made in restricted volume at $5 to $5.30 a head.

Approximately 2,500 head of steer yearlings have been shipped from the Midland section, the largest consignment going to the ranges near Hereford which, until a few weeks ago, was in the "dust bowl." Grass in that section is the best in years and much demand for cattle is reported. One of the largest single recent deals in the Midland section was the sale by McElroy Ranch Company to H. G. Conkright of Hereford of 500 head of steer yearling, immediate delivery.

It is estimated that 25,000 lambs have been contracted to date in the Del Rio country. Some of the fat lambs are moving from West Texas as ranges direct to packers and many orders are out to buy mixed lambs for fall delivery, dealers say. Feeders made money on these lambs last year.

FARM WORKERS ADVANCE DRIVE FOR LABOR UNIONS OVER ENTIRE NATION

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23 (U.P.)—California agricultural workers have taken steps for unionization, first of farm labor in California, and secondly unionization throughout the United States.

The movement is regarded as significant by local and state labor leaders as it constitutes the first serious efforts to obtain for farm workers the same benefits that are enjoyed by organized labor in industry.

Aside from the benefits which it is declared would accrue immediately to farm workers, it is admitted that unionization would constitute, along with the trade and industrial unions, a solid front of organized labor throughout the United States.

The first step toward the organization of the California farm workers into individual unions and then into a state federation was taken under the auspices of the American Federation of Labor, the State Federation of Labor, together with the formal endorsement of the Stockton Labor Council, the International Longshoremen's Association, the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union of Los Angeles, the San Francisco and Contra Costa Labor Council, the Workers' Alliance of America and the Alameda Central Labor Council.

Immediate Start Planned

At the first meeting for statewide unionization held at Stockton, more than 200 delegates were present from various union organizations. The general plan of campaign adopted was for immediate organization throughout the state of local unions and then a second convention at which formal application will be made for affiliation with the A. F. of L.

Federation affiliation, taken as a matter of course, then would constitute the starting point of a campaign for national unionization. An international charter probably will be sought.

At the preliminary meeting a program for hours and wages was adopted as follows:

- A minimum guarantee of 20 hours work a week.
- A minimum 25-day work month with a guaranteed minimum salary of $65.
- The foregoing pay to include room and board.

Committees At Work

At the preliminary Stockton meeting committees were appointed to undertake at once statewide organization not only of agricultural workers, but of all workers in the allied industries of canning and packing. The three combined, it is declared by union leaders, would constitute a solid front that would enable both the strictly agricultural workers and those in the allied industries that depend on agricultural products to work hand in hand.

In efforts toward unionization, full account will be taken of the peculiar condition that exists as regards seasonal farm work in California. During periods when harvests of all kinds, including the regular field crops, fruits, nuts and garden products, California itself is not able to supply enough workers. Instead the state is obliged to count on between 150,000 to 200,000 seasonal, itinerant workers who come to California at the time when this work is available ### and who usually leave, immediately afterward.

Initial Preference Outlined

At the beginning, unionization will be confined to those who are permanently employed. However, it is planned that full recognition will be given to the necessity of the transient element, and an effort made not only to improve their working conditions, but to prevent either any exploitation or any use that would be detrimental to the minimum demands made by organized workers.

The proposed State Federation of Agricultural Workers would especially look into the creation, organization of permanent camps where seasonal labor could be housed.

Leaders are confident their plan of unionization can be worked out without conflict with seasonal workers but instead with an actual increase in wages and improved working conditions.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

POLAND'S REBEL

SEVEN years before the American Revolution, young Count Casimir Pulaski joined an uprising to liberate Poland from Russian influence. In 1771, at the age of 23, he was outlawed for his part in a plot to abduct King Stanislas from Warsaw. His estates were confiscated and he escaped to France. There he met Benjamin Franklin, from whom he learned of America's revolt.

Pulaski sailed for America in 1777, presented his credentials to General Washington and immediately participated in a second war for liberty. He fought in the battles of Germantown and Brandywine, and then was sent south to aid in the siege of Savannah. There he was wounded, and died Oct. 11, 1779.

A tall marble shaft, topped by a Statue of Liberty, stands in Savannah in his honor. And, in 1931, a two-cent stamp was issued in commemoration of his death. The portrait on the stamp is a copy of an etching by H. B. Hall, printed in Jones' "History of Georgia," and is draped by the U. S. and Polish flags.

SMALL PHILIPPINE TOWN IMPORTANT STATION OF NAVY

Bordering the shore of Manila Bay is the little town of Cavite, which overlooks the scene of one of the most stirring episodes in American history. It is now one of Uncle Sam's most important naval stations in the Philippines.

Almost before the smoke of Admiral Dewey's guns had rolled away, following his triumph over the Spanish fleet in Manila Bay in May, 1898, U. S. Marines were landed in Cavite. Units of the Marine Corps have been there ever since.

Many of the buildings in the little town of some 5,000 inhabitants are reminiscent of the Spanish occupation. Some of them, like the old arsenal and Fort San Felipe, still retain their medieval appearance, although they have been modernized to meet the needs of Uncle Sam. During working hours navy yard shops hum with activity.

Philippines have largely discarded the Spanish language, and now speak a patois of English, Spanish and Tagalog—the latter their native tongue. The more educated natives speak English fluently and both grammar and high schools conduct their courses in that language.

"Hundreds of marines visit Cavite annually," says Lt. Col. Thomas E. Tarasher, Jr., of the Marine Corps recruiting station, 257 South Spring street, Los Angeles, California. "It is a regular port of call for our naval transports in the Orient."

"Striking contrasts awaken the interest of the casual visitor. He will find old world culture and modern brevity; senoritas who still cling to the Spanish costumes of centuries ago, and those who adopt the latest Parisian modes; proud Filipinos of the upper classes who affect the clothing, food, manner, and American standard of living, and the humble fisherman who sells his out-rigger canoe and subsists on a diet of rice and fish."

"The endless panorama of native life exhibits a strange mixture of American and Spanish customs, stately homes and nipa shacks, two-wheeled, horsedrawn carromats and high powered cars, the modern and the primitive side by side.

"So soldiers who are assigned to duty in the Philippines are either stationed at Cavite, or at the navy yard located at Olongapo, some fifty miles northwest of Manila. A few of them are on duty at Manila or at radio and smaller stations nearby."

"Marines rarely remain in the Philippines more than eighteen months, and an assignment to duty there often means that a trip will be made later to Peiping, Shanghai, the Island of Guam, a cruise with the Asiatic fleet, or some other location or duty."

"Even when they remain in the islands for a full tour of foreign service there are numerous diversions. Swimming, sailing, baseball, tennis, movies and other recreations are available and popular. The marines at Cavite can reach Manila by naval ferry or by motor in less than an hour."

"Although for more than thirty years the islands have been at peace, the marines took part in many events following their arrival there with Admiral Dewey. They were first ashore after the battle of Manila bay, and a year later saw some lively action against Filipino insurgents at Naveleta. An outstanding achievement was accomplished in 1902, when marines marched across the island of Samar and pacified it."

"Today no marine considers his trip to the Orient complete unless the sojourns for a while at Cavite," says Colonel Tarasher, "and it is not unusual for our men to request a second tour of duty there. Maybe it's the lure of the tropics, or

Pyle's 'Yellow Horses,' Sixteen Strong, to Add Color to Mounted Parade Opening Rodeo Friday Noon

Sixteen "yellow" horses from the Maboe & Pyle ranch will march in the parade Friday, each one mounted properly by a rider dressed to "look the part" and add to the glamour of the spectacular procession.

W. M. Pyle, manager of the ranch which within the past few years has become one of the largest in the southwest, volunteered the use of the horses, asking personal friends to ride them, to increase interest and add to the appearance of the parade which officially opens the World Championship Centennial Rodeo.

It will be the first public showing of the handsome dun horses, some of them palominos and some of the red dun type. Maybe & Pyle have engaged in the breeding of these horses for several years.

with the well known "O. P. Jones" gun sire at the head of the herd. As yet not placed on the market, the horses have caused much comment among those who have seen them for the past few years. They have been used only for ranch work by their owners.

The parade will be one of the longest exclusively horseback processions ever staged in this section, featuring officials and committeemen, judges, cowgirl sponsors, rodeo contestants and feature actors, miscellaneous horseback riders and riders of kid ponies. Two bands will march with the mounted parade. The procession starts at one o'clock at the high school building, traversing the business section of the city and going straight to the Midland Fair Arena for the opening program at 2 p. m.

SLEEP THERAPY FOUND HELPFUL

MOSCOW, (U.P.)—Prolonged sleep has been found successful by Soviet psychiatrists in the treatment of schizophrenia, a mental derangement resulting in stupor and inability to move. The treatment has been developed from experiments conducted by the late I. P. Pavlov, the late I. P. Pavlov, the Soviet Union's most noted scientist.

Prof. A. G. Ivanov-Smolensky, head of the psychiatric clinic of the All-Union Institute of Experimental Medicine is continuing experiments begun by Pavlov.

Pavlov explained the condition of patients, ill for months and in some cases years, and unable to move or speak, as the manifestation of a morbid process of inhibition aroused in the nervous system by exhaustion from internal poisoning.

He expressed the supposition that schizophrenia, which arises in the nervous system and the inhibition, which spreads over the motor areas, are an expression of the brain's self protection against destruction which threatens the nerve cells as the result of extreme exhaustion.

Prof. Ivanov-Smolensky extended the use of sleep therapy as originated abroad, introducing protective measures to eliminate complications of the heart and lungs. It was found possible to cause patients to sleep for from 10 to 12 days without serious after effects.

Prof. Ivanov-Smolensky said that results of the treatment were "favorable for most of the patients and, furthermore, it was possible not only fully to avoid deaths, but even serious complications. Pavlov characterized the results of the cure as "astonishing." The theory of "protective inhibition" had received strong, practical reinforcement.

Towns Moves To Rail Line
LAKE ODESSA, Mich. (U.P.)—Many Michigan towns have boomed and then vanished but few have ever picked up their foundations, moved and then continued to prosper. That however, is the story of Lake Odessa, which formerly was Bonanza. It moved from its former location in 1887 to be near a railroad.

JAPAN STUDIES PLAN TO EASE NEWEST TARIFF BLOW GIVEN THEM BY THE U. S.

TOKYO, June 24. (U.P.)—To reduce to a minimum, the effects of American and Australian tariff increases on Japanese cotton textiles is the prime object of joint industrial and governmental conferences now under way.

The first effects of the shock have worn away and Japanese newspapers have exhausted their supply of invectives and their predictions of retaliation are not so much in evidence.

Textile industrialists at first demanded immediate application of the trade protection law as it was applied when Canada increased tariffs that affected Japanese goods.

The problem, however, became so complex that it seemed no single procedure would solve it.

Refusal to buy Australian wool not only would complicate the situation further and compel many readjustments in trade, but it would deprive Japanese ship owners of the lucrative business of hauling the wool to Japan and Manchukuo. Switching the wheat purchases to Canada where prices are admittedly more attractive, also would cause losses to the Japan-Australia steamship line.

Problem as to Quality

Buying raw cotton outside of America might result in the purchase of large quantities of fiber unsuitable for the textiles Japan now sells abroad. Sales might decline with the change in fibers.

As the problems increased the industrialists laid aside all proposals that were based on resentment and retaliation. While the resentment no doubt continues and the actions of the United States and Australia are still considered "outrageous," both the government and the industrialists are practical.

Although Japanese do not admit that in any instance their foreign trade methods were unethical or went beyond their full rights to sell in foreign countries, they are considering the advisability of certain re-adjustments that will keep the factories going at the present capacity.

The wool purchase plan that has received the most favorable mention is that of the license system to imports from Australia.

By imposing the license system, Japanese industry can buy as much wool as they wish, but at the same time keep a careful check on the situation. The weavers can learn gradually how much the purchases from Australia can be reduced and how much they can buy elsewhere.

Looks to Wheat Imports

A special reason for the decision to proceed on practical lines is the fact that much of the wheat and flour imported from Australia is re-exported to Manchukuo. Manchukuo imports a considerable amount of wheat directly from Australia.

It is pointed out that unless Manchukuo joins with Japan in regulating purchases and unless Japan makes the license system applicable to Dairen in the Kwan-tung Leased Territory, the program cannot be fully effective.

Talks with Manchukuo on the subject are proceeding, it is reported. Meanwhile the weavers say their stocks are ample for several months and that there is no hurry in applying waster retaliatory measures are deemed advisable.

Foreigners in Japan often ask whether tariffs imposed by Japan on foreign goods are higher or lower than those imposed on Japanese goods in foreign countries.

Eiji Aman, Foreign Office spokesman says that the amount of tariff imposed by Japan on manufactured goods did not constitute an important phase of the question.

Tariff Issue Denied

"Japan is a country living by manufacture and selling its manufactures," he explains. "It is a small country and not a great producer of raw materials. These we must buy abroad. On the other hand, Australia is a vast country principal in producing raw material. Australia's need of manufactured goods is supplied by outside countries. For this reason tariffs imposed by Japan of the import and manufactured goods is not an issue at present."

According to the newspaper Tokyo, Asahi, the wheat problem can be readily solved by purchase from Canada. Japanese-Canadian trade controversies were satisfactorily settled, the Japanese say and Canada may now reap some of the benefit.

"As Canadian and American wheat can be substituted for Australian, there will be no trouble in the manufacture of flour after imposing limitation on Australian imports," the newspaper says. "Especially is this the case at present because the season during which wheat is most actively imported has passed. The only point which is troubling flour manufacturers is that owing to substitution for Australian wheat, quality would be sacrificed somewhat."

It is said that of all the special room service obtainable in hotels, breakfast in bed is that most appreciated by guests, with free delivery of a morning newspaper running a close second.

TOWNSEND PLAN BODY IS GROWING

Inquiry By Congress Credited With New Gains

CHICAGO, June 25 (P)—The national headquarters of Dr. Francis Townsend's pension plan claimed in a statement today that the recent congressional investigation had stimulated the group's membership campaign.

An estimated 10,000,000 persons are said to belong to the organization. Southern strength was put at 1,500,000.

Tired Feet Get Best Shoe Fit

BY ALICIA HART
NER Service Staff Writer

A recent survey, made by a cosmetic firm shows that college women have fewer foot ailments and less tendency to develop athlete's foot than do their male classmates. The makers of the survey attribute this to the fact that coeds are more careful about drying their feet and that the pedicures they have in the name of beauty, really turn out to be health routines.

You should dry your feet meticulously and sprinkle them with bath powder before you put on stockings. If there is rough skin or a scaly condition between toes use a medicated foot powder. If scalliness persists, see a foot doctor at once.

When you select summer shoes, buy them at the end of the day, when your feet are tired and as swollen as they are likely to become in hot weather. This way, you'll get your proper size. If you go early in the morning, when feet are fresh and rested, you may get shoes which will be too small once you have walked ten blocks on a hot day.

Have at least one pair of shoes with sensible heels. You'll need them for golf and sports, of course, but you also need them for shopping tours, when pavements are blazing hot.

See that stockings fit perfectly, too. If they are short, your toes will become cramped and uncomfortable. If too long, they'll wrinkle and are likely to cause blisters and callouses. Put on fresh stockings every morning.

SAYRE POOL WELL MAKES GOOD OIL FLOW

On the east side of the Sayre pool in Winkler county, Humble No. 9 Howe has been completed for a potential of 1,040 barrels a day flowing through open casing. It flowed 722 barrels the first 17 hours after shooting with 325 quarts from 2,827, to 2,992, the total depth. Location is 2,310 feet from the south and 1,650 feet from the east line of section 12, block 26, public school land.

Shell No. 1 Leck, extension test a mile and a half west of the Henderson pool, is drilling lime at 3,071. A 15-minute drill-stem test from 3,041 to 3,061 showed eight feet of drilling mud, no oil and no gas. The test is credited with topping lime at 3,030, and is said to be running low to the wells in the Henderson pool farther east. It is 2,310 feet from the south and 330 feet from the east line of section 32, block 74, public school land.

50 YEAR TRUST FUND GROWS

TOLEDO (U.P.)—A trust fund, founded in 1923, is to be used in 1936 to build a Masonic home for the Toledo area. Otis Avery Browning established the $500,000 fund, which already has grown to nearly $1,000,000. Twenty-one Masons form the directorate for the money, and a bank is the trustee.

Life - Termers Prefer Books About Travel Short Term Convicts All Prefer Magazines

PORT MADISON, IA. (U.P.)—Perhaps due to their narrow environment, prisoners of Iowa State Penitentiary spend many of their leisure hours reading travel books of far-away places, a survey of the penal institution's reading habits reveals.

Prison officials note that short-termers usually read for amusement and recreation only. The long-termers turn to more serious non-fiction material, such as philosophy, a check of circulation figures in the prison library discloses. Literary and news magazines, too, receive the heaviest demand from bank-robbers and lifers, although lighter periodical material is available.

More than 9,500 volumes are available to the prison's population. Total book and magazine circulation each month is near the 12,000 mark. One-third of the total monthly circulation is in books, while two-thirds of the convict library patrons check out current magazines.

The magazine circulation in the prison library runs beyond 7,000 periodicals a month. More than 350 magazines are received by the penitentiary each month.

Affiction catalogue, classified according to author, and a non-fiction guide, classified according to subject matter and author, is presented to each new inmate when he is "dressed in." A select group of convicts, appointed by the warden, serve as librarians.

New books are purchased from a fund contributed by sightseers, who are charged 25 cents to tour the Iowa prison. Late books are purchased in inexpensive binding and are re-bound in the prison bindery.

Of the 3,919 books in circulation during May, 1936, fiction volumes led in popularity with 2,909 being checked out to individual cells. Text pertaining to useful arts were next in popularity with the convict readers.

With most of the prisoners confined for a long, long time, world travelers' descriptions of tropical isles, strange places and peoples receive a heavy demand.

Other subjects which found favor with the inmates, in order of their popularity, were: history, sociology, natural science, ethics, religion, fine arts and philosophy.

There are two reasons why "Coors on Tap" signs direct you to a good glass of beer. First—Coors Export Lager draught beer is brewed from the same pure Rocky Mountain Spring water—with the same Coors processed barley malt—with the same brewing and aging precision—as the clean mellow rich Coors you get in stubby bottles and Keglined cans. Second—Dispensers who serve Coors on Draught use extreme care in keeping their coils, taps and glassware clean, fresh and sanitary. For these reasons you are always sure of a good, properly cooled stein of draught beer wherever the Coors on Tap sign is displayed. That is, you will be sure if you always say: Coors, of course.
