Inter-American Conference Starts Organization

ROOSEVELT TALK SPURS DELEGATES TO QUICK ACTION

FDR Prepares To Go To Uruguay Late Today

HEADS TO MEET Officers To Gather Thursday For Session

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 2. (P)—The Inter-American peace conference, spurred by President Roosevelt's plea to consolidate the western world democrats against aggression, launched into a formal organization today.

The president prepared to leave the Argentine capital for Montevideo, Uruguay, this afternoon after attending funeral services for his bodyguard, Augusto Gernerich, who died yesterday after a heart attack.

The first official conference meeting will be held tomorrow.

No Buenos Aires newspapers referred today to the city "down with imperialism" voiced by Liberio Justo, leftist son of Argentina's president, during a speech last night, out of respect for his father. Liberio was deported last summer for communist activities.

The congress heard President Roosevelt outline his three-fold program:

1. Strengthening and unifying the processes of constitutional, democratic government in the western hemisphere and making clear to "war mad" nations that the two Americas stand ready to consult together in the event of aggression from abroad.

2. Steps to prevent creation of conditions that give rise to war, including establishment of the highest possible standard of living and political, religious and educational freedom.

3. A more free exchange of goods among American nations, removing what Mr. Roosevelt termed "suicidal" trade barriers that lower living standard and obliterate democratic ideals.

As the last formal act prior to his departure, President Roosevelt honored President Justo at luncheon. Discussing the United States sanitary embargo against Argentine chilled meat, he said "every nation has the right and duty to adopt measures necessary, in the interest of its own citizens, in order to prevent entrance into its territory from abroad contagious or infectious diseases." BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. (P)—Secretary Wallace announced today revision of the Pink Boll-worm quarantine regulations to include three Texas counties, parts of two others in a lightly infested area. A part of Midland county, not previously regulated, was included. The revision was made because of finding boll-worms recently at Big Spring.

Blame Romance As Market Drops

LONDON, Dec. 2. (P)—England's stock market dropped today, reflecting, brokers said, growing concern lest King Edward's romance with Mrs. Wallis Simpson result in the resignation of the cabinet or abdication of the king.

A rumor said that the cabinet had decided to act Saturday unless Edward accedes to demands to give up his friendship with the American woman.

Prime Minister Baldwin called on King Edward at Buckingham palace tonight for what was reported to be a showdown in the constitutional crisis.

It was believed he had informed the bachelor king that the cabinet was prepared to resign unless he surrenders any plan to wed the divorcee.

HEAVY DEATH TOLL FOLLOWS AIR RAID ON MADRID TODAY

Between 30 and 100 Known Dead In Attack

MADRID, Dec. 2. (P)—Sixteen Fascist bombers killed between 30 and 100 persons here in an air raid today. Houses were smashed into splinters by the bombs. Hospitals coped with what they termed the "first gas cases" of the war.

The raid was believed to be the curtain raiser for a grand assault against the beleaguered city's defenses. An acute food shortage has been reported for Madrid's 1,300,000 residents.

Almost ringed by insurgent armies that have lain at the city's gates for nearly a month, the socialist defense junta hurried counter-attacks against the fascists on all Madrid fronts.

The weary defenders of Madrid, freshened by strong columns of international anti-fascists, fought and, war ministry officials said, won a 12-hour battle for the Clinic hospital in the University City section on the northwestern edge of the city. The insurgent captors of the hospital were driven out, the war ministry announced.

At the same time government militia, entrenched in Vallescas, opened vigorous fire on the fascist lines around Villaverde.

Officers Search For Car Stolen Tuesday

Officers today were searching for a 1928 model Ford car stolen Tuesday night from near a local theater. The car was left parked on the street by Carl Langley, Warfield, while he attended the show. After departing from the show he discovered the car missing.

The car bore New Mexico license plates, the numbers being forgotten by Langley, thereby handicapping officers in their search that started immediately after its disappearance had been reported.

Foy Proctor Leads Buyers in This Territory

Deliveries of Midland territory calves were being completed this week, despite wet and changeable weather, accounting for the sale of probably 10,000 head. Foy Proctor, who almost every season is a heavy buyer of both steer and heifer calves, led all others in the number purchased, reselling approximately half of the nearly 6,000 head he bought from various ranchers. Steers went to the Corn Belt and heifers to California. The remainder he will run on his ranges south of Midland.

Normally, the calf crop of the area called the Midland territory totals about 20,000 head. The crop was short this year, amounting to probably 15,000 head, with perhaps a third of the number being retained by the owners. Good winter grass and strong weed crops caused many to hold their calves, as their ranges already were under-stocked.

Average $25 Head
Calves which have been shipped out of the country sold for an average of $25 per head, it was estimated. Selling by the pound, weighed at the Midland pens, steers brought from 6 1/2 to seven cents and heifers from 5 1/4 to 5 1/2 cents. Most of the calves weighed as much as 400 pounds.

Proctor's purchases included the following: Radliff and Bedford, steer and heifer calves; Guy Cowden, steers and heifers; W. F. Scarborough, heifer calves; Ben Jenkins, steer calves; Seth Campbell, steers; Mrs. Jess Cole, steer and heifer calves and steer yearlings; H. E. Cummins, steer calves and steer yearlings; Bill Wyche, steer and heifer calves; Midland Farms Co., heifer calves; J. O. Nobles, steers and heifers; Mrs. Ida Wolcott, Miss Juliette Wolcott, Dick Knox and Mrs. K. F. Campbell, steer and heifer calves; Jim Sayles, steers and heifers; D. L. Hutt, heifers; Cal Houston, steers and heifers; J. W. Driver, steer and heifer calves and heifer yearlings; O. B. Holt, both ranches, steers and heifers.

Other Purchases
Andrew Faskan bought the steer and heifer calves of E. N. Aycock's herd, Proctor buying them and reselling to Corn Belt buyers. The Kenlon Boone steer calves figured in the same kind of deal.

The Eads Livestock Co., of Denver, A. M. Ramsey, buyer, bought the Scharbauer Cattle Co. steer calves, shipping them to Eads, Colo.

Tom Good of Big Spring bought the Midland Farms Co. steer calves and the D. L. Hutt steer calves.

The Sibley Farms, Sibley, Ill., bought a part of the Roy Parks calves.

Billy Connell, representing buyers in California, bought calves from Frank Cowden, George Glass and other ranches.

COMMITTEE WILL ATTEMPT TO HALT ARMS SHIPMENTS

Ask Permission To Use Observers On Borders

(By Associated Press)
The International non-intervention committee took its first "tangible" step today to prevent shipment of arms to either warring faction in Spain.
The committee set up by Europe's major powers asked permission of both leftist and rightist forces to send observers to investigate alleged munition shipments from foreign countries.
It was suggested at Geneva that a similar plan may come before the next session of the League of Nations council.

ORDINANCE WILL PERMIT CITY TO PAY ONE FOURTH

Property Owners May Petition Council For Streets

NO WPA PROGRAM

Terms Available To Property Owners For Part

Voting an ordinance to make possible the paving of Midland streets without passage of a bond issue, the city council announced today that plans are under way whereby property owners may secure an unlimited amount of pavement.

Under the terms of the ordinance, the city will pay one fourth of the total cost of the pavement, property owners on the streets paved paying the other three-fourths. To secure the pavement, property owners on any given street may petition the council, agreeing to pay their part of the cost.

No certain streets or definite total is contemplated in the project, the ordinance having been passed after many property owners had asked that streets be paved.

The program is not to be a WPA project, council members said, but will be in addition to any streets already being paved or designated under that channel.

After sufficient streets are signed up through petitions to the council, contract will be let in regular form to bidding paving contractors.

Due to the fact that the city is able through its strong financial condition to defray one fourth of the cost, it was deemed best not to bond the city for the new paving but to issue warrants which will be handled by the contractors and which will permit the property owners to spread the payments over a period of years.

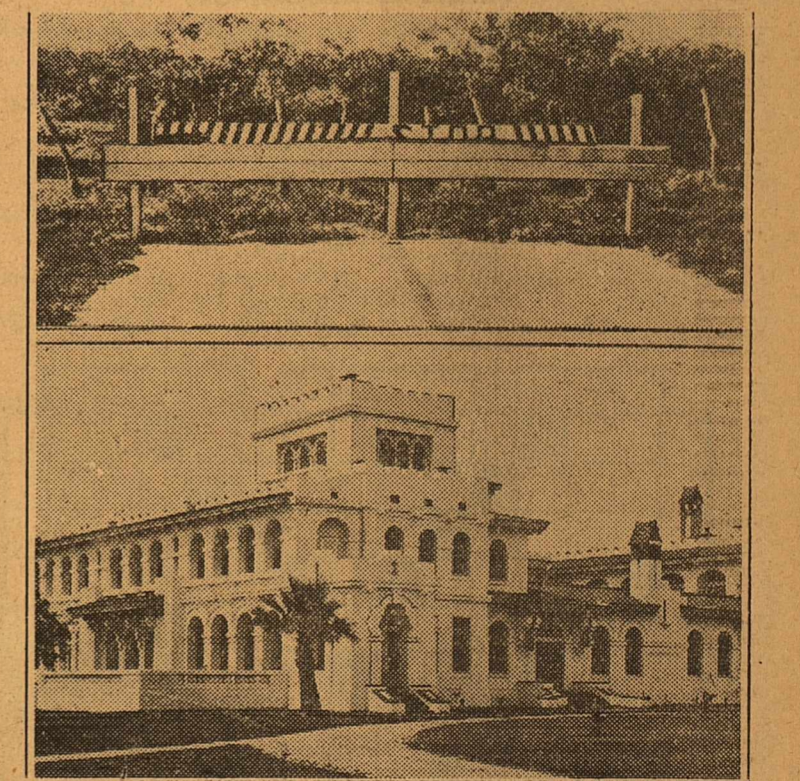

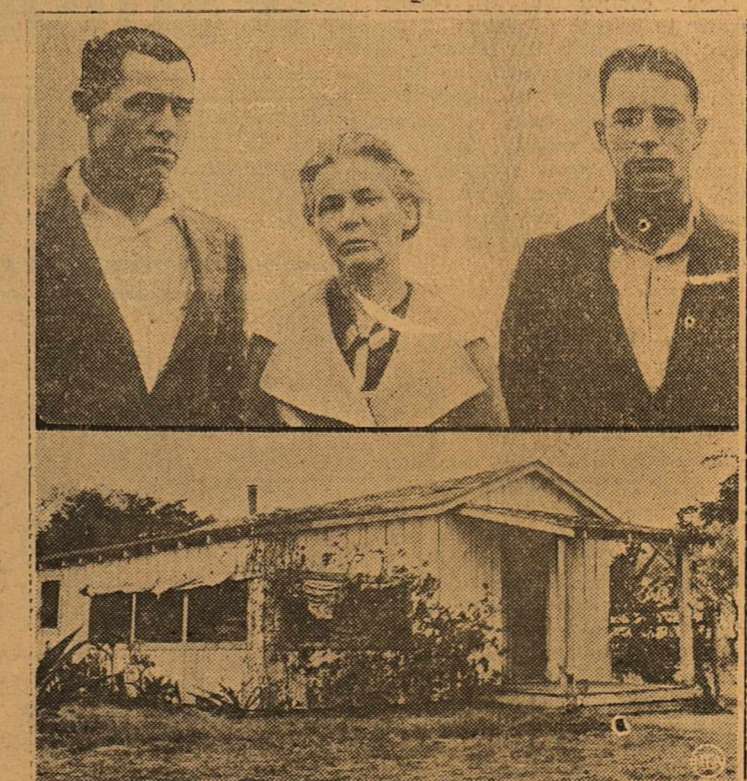

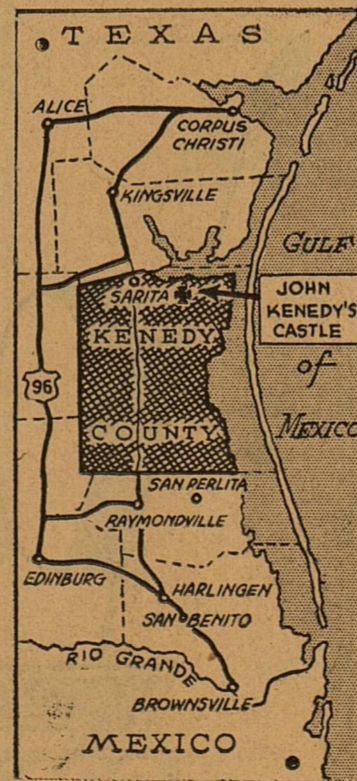

Council members said the present action is not intended to depart from the WPA work but is for an enlarged program, probably making possible the paving of many more streets than could be handled through the WPA in several months. The city hopes to continue working with the WPA in every way possible, it was announced.

Although no definite figures were given as to the probable cost per running foot, council members indicated that the paving can be secured at a much lower cost than that already in use here. Through the city's defraying of one-fourth of the expense, the cost to the property owners will be nominal, considering the enhancement to property values and the advantages given those living on the paved streets.

Strange Case of Hunters Swallowed by Ranch

Today's Picture Story

What has happened to Luther and John Blanton, San Perlitla, Tex., ranchers, and two Mexicans swallowed by the vast 1,000,000-acre King Ranch, which they entered to hunt ducks? That's what mystifies Mrs. John Blanton (pictured with baby) and poses seeking the missing men.

Guarded by 1000 Mexican cowboys and a formidable frontier of fences, the King Ranch is known as the "Walled Kingdom"—private property except for a strip one-half mile wide all around its border, which is a state game preserve. Harley Blanton stands at the place where his father and brother went through the ranch "wall" to hunt on the preserve, never to be seen again. According to local tradition eight men have disappeared into the vast domain during the past 15 years. When organized after the Mexican War it embraced 1,400,000 acres.

Starting near San Perlitla, the King Ranch embraces most of Kenedy county (shaded area), where John Kenedy, grandson of the man for whom it was named, maintains an isolated castle retreat. The property is in process of division among the heirs of Mrs. Henrietta King.

On the edges of the King domain live many farmers and small ranchers like the vanished Blantons, whose home is the little white cottage picture below Frank and Harley Blanton and their mother, Mrs. Luther Blanton. The disappearance of the hunters added fuel to the enmity engendered by refusal of Kenedy county ranchers to open to the public the road from Raymondville to Sarita, thus forcing them to go around-about by route 96 to Kingsville and Corpus Christi. Irate neighbors threatened to tear down the fences and burn the ranch if the Blantons weren't found.

The mystery of the missing men is deepened by measures of Kenedy county ranchers to maintain the privacy of their domain. They long agreed to oppose the road through the county. Hence the barrier (at top) at the county line. Purpose: to keep out unwanted travelers and hunters, to protect cattle, to insure the privacy of palatial homes (like that below of the late Mrs. Henrietta King on the Santa Gertrudis ranch near Kingsville.) The cloak of secrecy that walls in Kenedy county more than its fences makes the work of Texas Rangers seeking traces of the Blantons doubly difficult.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The Hon. Will Bankhead of Alabama will be chosen without opposition as speaker of the next House of Representatives. Yet the capital buzz with off-the-record discussions of "the speakership fight."

The reason for that terminology is that Mr. Bankhead has been, is, and is expected to be in poor health. Winner of the bitter battle for the Democratic floor leadership will not only be carrying a large piece of the speakership load; he also will be considered likely to succeed Bankhead at an early date.

The contest already has its whispering campaigns, plus evidence of another outcropping of the old warfare between New Deal and "power trust."

Outstanding candidates for the majority leadership are the Hon. Sam Rayburn of Texas, chairman of the House interstate commerce committee, and the Hon. John J. O'Connor of New York, chairman of the House rules committee.

Rankin of Mississippi, McCormack of Massachusetts, Boland of Pennsylvania, Mead of New York, and Warren of North Carolina are mentioned, but none of them is expected to have a lookin unless a bitter Rayburn-O'Connor deadlock develops.

Edge Given Rayburn
Rayburn currently is given the edge because Roosevelt is understood to favor him, because he out-ranks O'Connor in seniority by many years, and because he is some what more popular than the Tammany man.

Nevertheless, there's a House tradition that the leadership should go to a northerner when the speaker is from the south. The issue will be decided at a Democratic House caucus shortly before Congress convenes on Jan. 3.

Rayburn has made a conspicuous record in handling such New Deal measures as the stock market and securities act, the communications act, and the public utilities holding companies act. The White House crowd would like to reward him as well as to have him take the job of handling the unwieldy Democratic House majority.

The Texan is 54 years old, bald, short, and stocky, genial and fast, both mentally and physically. Born in Tennessee and moved to Texas in childhood, he went from law practice to the Texas legislature and became speaker of its house before he was 30. He has a farm near Bonham, Texas, and is a bachelor.

Foe Of Lobbyists

Rayburn took his seat in Congress in 1913. In 1917 he handled the war risk insurance legislation and after the war fought proposals for government control of railroads while insisting that the I. C. C. have the rate-making power—a key to his balanced position between radicalism and conservatism today.

In 1932 he became pre-convention campaign manager for his friend Jack Garner and in the last four years has established himself as a strong debater and parliamentarian. He has stood like a rock against lobbyists. A mark of administration favor was his appointment as chairman of the Democratic speakers' bureau for the recent campaign.

O'Connor, 51, also is keen, shrewd and able, a Phi Beta Kappa man at Brown University and graduate of Harvard Law School. He also is short and stocky, with sparse sandy hair and a fighting Irish face, ready smile, and caustic tongue. He is married and has four boys.

He came to Washington from the New York legislature in 1925 to take the Tammany seat previously held by W. Bourke Cochran. He is an adept parliamentarian and last year demonstrated his effectiveness as acting floor leader.

Brother of Roosevelt's former law partner, Basil O'Connor, he deserted Al Smith for Roosevelt in 1932 and was re-elected in 1934 with F. D. R.'s help despite considerable Tammany opposition. Last spring he threatened to kick Father Coughlin down the Capitol steps, but apologized.

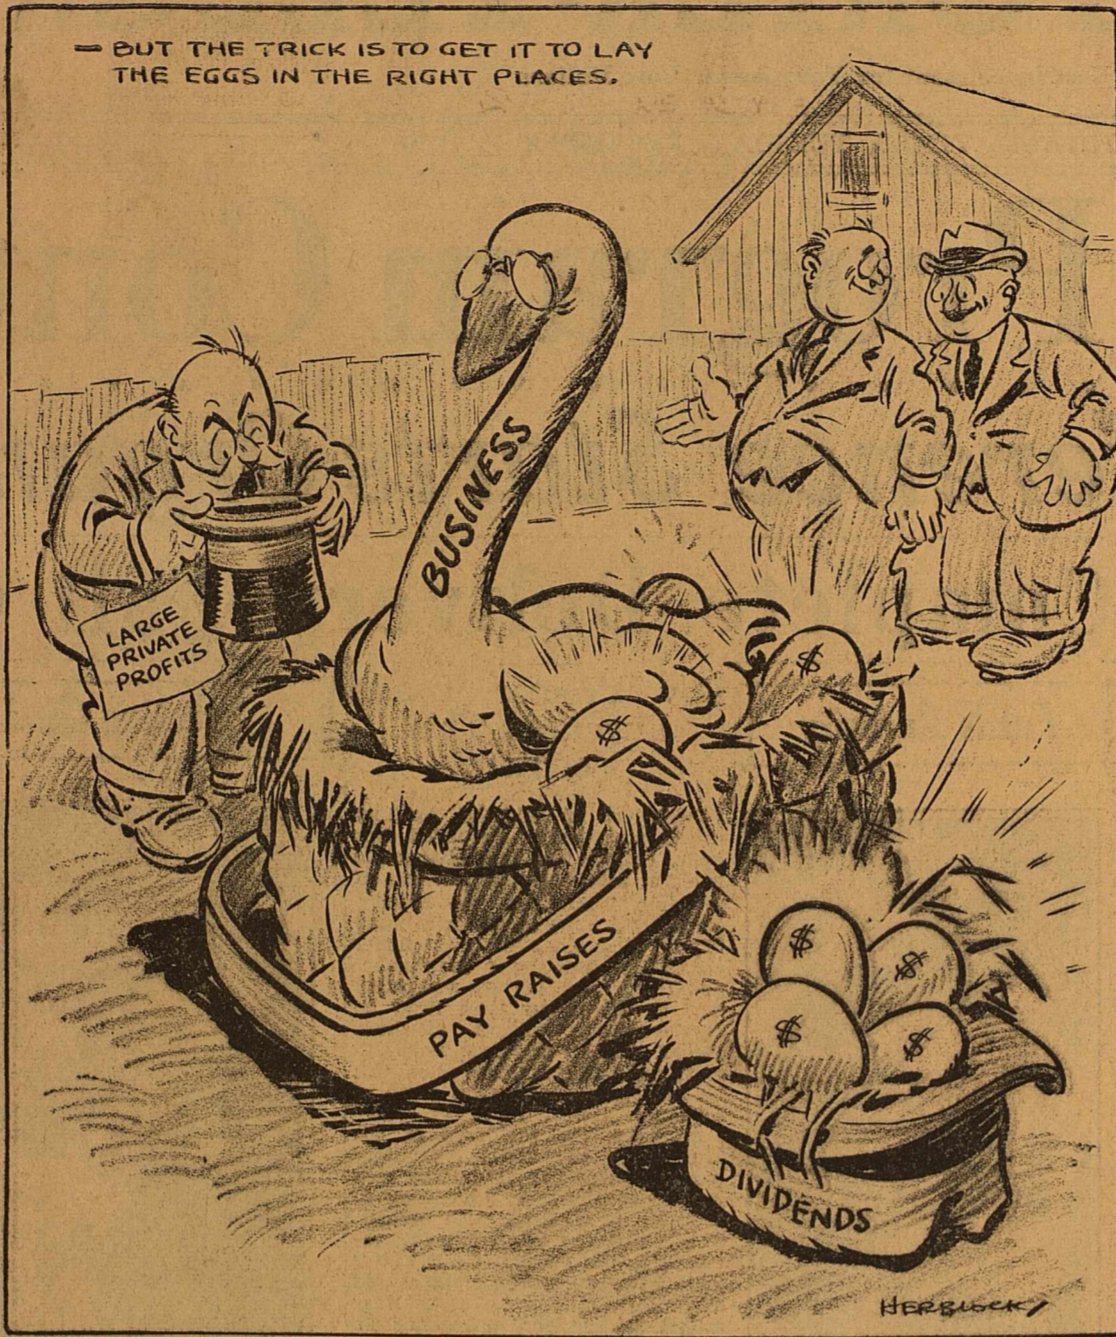

As rules committee, chairman, he has held the third most powerful post in the House.

Opposed by New Dealers

New Dealers oppose O'Connor, asserting he has been effective on the floor, but has often balked the administration backstage. His refusal to let the holding company "death sentence" come to a record vote and dealing with H. C. Hopson of

'CZAR' CONTROL CURBS FLORIDA'S FRUIT SURPLUS; COMMISSION ACTS

Quantity of Fruit That May be Shipped Each Week Decided by Members

LAKELAND, Fla., Dec. 2. (U.P.)—Florida's million-dollar citrus industry is operating under a "czar" in the form of an all-powerful commission which regulates the quantity of fruit that may be shipped each week.

The commission, a body elected and backed by fruit growers, shippers and canners, meets almost daily here to listen to pleas for those engaged in the industry to rule on their problems and to formulate ironclad regulations which are to work for the betterment of all.

Early in the season the Eastern market was glutted with grapefruit. Prices hardly repaid freight costs and many growers were always in the "red books" of their shippers.

Grapefruit Maximum Set
The commission changed that early in October. It began prorating grapefruit shipments—telling growers and shippers how much fruit could be sent out weekly. Soon after, the Eastern price had been stabilized. The prorate allowable for each week then advanced to approximately 600 cars.

The commission determines weekly how much each grower will ship. Each grower and shipper is registered. His registration indicates the size of his crop, when it will mature and how much he wants to ship.

Considering all these factors, the commission then authorizes shipments for one week. The next week the process is repeated.

Studies Mid-West Market
The commission is seeking power to prorate shipments to the East coast and to the Midwest, so that a slight slowness in the Eastern market may be eliminated. Cheaper freight rates to coast markets throw most of the crop there. Few shippers are willing to pay the higher rates to send their crops to Chicago and the Midwest, where competition is keen from Texas.

The commission encourages Associated Gas & Electric while the Senate Lobby committee was looking for Hopson are cited against him.

He also voted against elimination of the two-thirds rule after the New York delegation had voted unanimously for ending the rule.

Rumor says he won't receive full support of the Tammany delegation and some members will oppose his candidacy now because his victory would mean Sabath of Illinois would take the rules chairmanship, a prospect relished by few.

The O'Connor faction whispers that the New Yorker's religion is being used against him and the Rayburn faction says O'Connor is inventing that story as a sympathy plea. But word goes down the line that Roosevelt wants Rayburn because he feels he can depend on him and wants somebody who can simultaneously sell upcoming New Deal legislation to southern conservatives, work with northern progressives, and stand up against Wall Street lobbyists.

Oil Field Data of West Texas and New Mexico is Compiled

Distribution of a report of investigations entitled, "Petroleum Engineering Report, Big Spring Field and Other Fields in West Texas and Southeastern New Mexico," just published by the Department of Interior, United States Bureau of Mines, John W. Finch, director, at Washington, D. C., was started today by the Midland Chamber of Commerce, the reports, containing a mass of data on oil fields of West Texas and southeastern New Mexico, having been received here yesterday afternoon.

The report was compiled by Charles B. Carpenter and H. B. Hill, in cooperation with the Midland Chamber of Commerce, and consists of 223 printed pages, with tables, maps and photographs, and supplemental cross sections of the Howard-Glasscock field, and structure maps of the Yates and Big Lake pools.

Other producing areas on which valuable information is given are the Hendricks field in Winkler county, the Church-Field-McElroy in Crane and Upton counties, the Penn Pool in Ector county, the Westbrook field in Mitchell county, and the Hobbs field in Lea county, New Mexico. 40 illustrations are contained in the report.

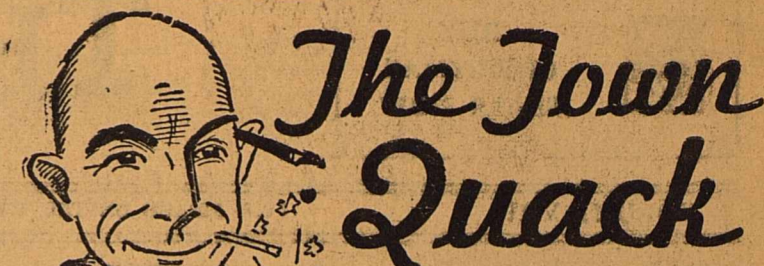

The report was issued as a co-operative work and recognizes the cooperation of the Midland Chamber of Commerce in the text and on the cover and title pages. As a result of this cooperation, Midland is receiving much valuable publicity throughout the nation. Some 40 requests for the reports have been received at the local chamber of commerce office from over the state and nation.

Copies of the report, R. I. 3, 316, are available at the chamber of commerce office at $1 per copy.

Mrs. Ola Dublin Haynes is undergoing medical treatment at a Midland hospital, and is reported to be progressing rapidly.

mining factors in the amount of fruit the commission allows to be shipped each week.

Not only does the commission serve as a market regulating agency, but it is the means by which representatives of the industry co-operate. L. P. Kirkland is the chairman.

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything).

They can hurrah all they want to about Golladay's jack but hats had to come off to the T. A. Golladay steers which sold on the Fort Worth market the other day. Thirteen head which Golladay had been feeding at his ranch east of Midland weighed 983 pounds average and brought $8.25 per hundred. I wouldn't mind selling a few head of steers at $81 around. He also sold ten heifers which averaged 702 pounds and they brought $7.75. Grass steers the same day brought from $5.50 to $6.50.

Trench silos, home grown feed, locally purchased calves, terracing and contouring—a lot of these new fangled ideas such as county agents talk about are finding their way to the bank account these days. Midland county farmers who use a little extra work and headwork can convert a lot of their crop into year-round money more easily than farmers in other sections.

This wet fall is really making the weeds grow on the ranches and is putting a season in the ground which looks good for next year's crops. Midland county farmers made two or three crops with nothing but a top season. The rains we have been getting must have put in a bottom season which will last a long time. If this terracing and contouring is carried out, the moisture can be retained on the land rather than to let it ease off down the Concho draw, and when the next crop is planted it will have more to stand on.

In some sections, ranchers are using the contour method of holding moisture in their pastures. They don't have to plow up the whole ranch, but just run some furrows where the water runs off down the slopes. In that way the rains are held instead of turned loose, and the grass and weed growth is much heavier than where the contouring has not been tried.

I guess if Glenn Brunson had terraced his lake, he would have a water supply for the next twenty years. His summer rains all went to the lake, submerging his tractor and farm machinery with which he had been making crops in the lake bottom. Nothing but a deep sea diver and a dredge could recover his implements.

Movie and Talk Feature Jr. High P. T. A. Meeting

The regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association was held Tuesday afternoon at the Junior High School at 3:30 o'clock at which approximately forty women attended.

Dr. L. B. Pemberton was guest speaker, and presented a talk, "A Clean Mouth, Child's Foundation For a Healthy Body," after which a motion picture film, "Life of a Healthy Child," was shown.

The showing of the film was made possible through the auspices of the Midland Health Board, and Miss Elizabeth Wilson, County Health Nurse, assisted Dr. Pemberton with the picture.

The talk and the picture interested the audience of teachers and mothers tremendously, with its instructive knowledge of the healthful activities of a normal school child, habits of cleanliness, correct diet, carefree play, and other vital child health points.

Mrs. W. T. Walsh, president, presided at a brief meeting after the program at which it was announced that Thursday at morning recess and at noon the Red Cross would sponsor a bangle sale and the children could purchase them for any amount of money they wished to give.

Corn Off the Cob In Puffs, Puddings

By NEA Service

Canned corn, together with canned tomatoes, is a "natural" on the typical American table. You will have to pay a little more for your corn this winter on account of the drought. But if your grocer puts too fancy a price on his canned corn, remind him that the government figures show that the effect of the drought should have been partially offset by a larger carry-over of canned corn than at this time last year.

Southern Corn Puff

Southern Corn Puff is a complete luncheon dish in itself. This recipe will serve six adequately. Ingredients: 3 eggs, 1 pint canned corn, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper, 1 slice buttered bread.

Beat yolk of eggs, add corn, salt and pepper. Beat whites of eggs until they stand in peaks. That is important—beat until they are so dry and stiff that they form little white Alps in the bowl. Then fold the egg white in to the corn mixture. Use a one-quart casserole. Grease it, and turn in the mixture. Trim crusts from bread, cut in strips, and lay them butter side up across top of dish. Bake for 40 minutes in moderately slow oven. Serve the moment the puff is done. A salad of lettuce hearts, shredded green pepper and pimento, with a French dressing, will complete the excellence of this luncheon.

Corn Pudding

Corn Pudding is a dinner dish and broiled steak loves to be seen in its company. For four serving, 1 cup canned corn, 1/2 green pepper, chopped fine, 1/2 cup milk, 1 egg, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, salt and pepper to taste.

Grease a round baking dish and dust the bottom very lightly with flour. Beat the egg until fluffy, then add the milk and beat again. Mix corn and egg and milk, add chopped peppers and seasoning. Turn quickly into greased dish, bake in moderate oven for 30 minutes. This is not a soufflé, and the consistency will be rather firm, like that of a pudding. If you want a fluffier corn dish, use 2 more eggs, and beat the yolks and whites separately, adding the whites at the last minute.

Rubber Tree Tapped, Puncture is Repaired

SINGAPORE, (U.P.)—Repair outfits are unnecessary if there is a rubber tree handy, a Singapore motorist discovered when he was held up by a puncture 20 miles from the nearest garage.

He had no repair outfit, but he was on a trip through the rubber plantations of British Malaya—the largest rubber growing country in the world. So he set about repairing his tire in a way which no motorist, even in Malaya, has done before.

He tapped a rubber tree growing by the roadside, spread the rubber latex over the tire and vulcanized it by heating it over a small flame. After doing this 12 times he found that the puncture was satisfactorily repaired.

Frogs Depending Upon Longhorns to Play Santa Claus, Hand Them Title

FORT WORTH, Dec. 2.—Here it is December—the month of Santa Claus.

The T. C. U. Horned Frogs want to believe in Santa Claus, but just don't quite dare!

Fate and the conference schedule maker-outers have selected the Texas Longhorns for the role of old Saint Nick.

Those steers could drape the Frogs' Christmas tree with the conference flag by winning from Arkansas in Little Rock next Saturday. And no little boy ever sat by the chimney and waited for Santa half as intently as Coach Dutch Meyer and his boys will sit by the radio and wait for the news from Little Rock.

But hoping for a present from Santa is not all that the Christians are doing this week—not by any means. The same combination of fate and schedule has dealt them an opportunity to climax a not-too-successful season with a chance to try to knock off the only major undefeated and untied football team left in the country.

The Frogs meet the Santa Clara Bronchos in Kezar Stadium, San Francisco, on the afternoon of Dec. 12. The Californians have not dropped a contest this season.

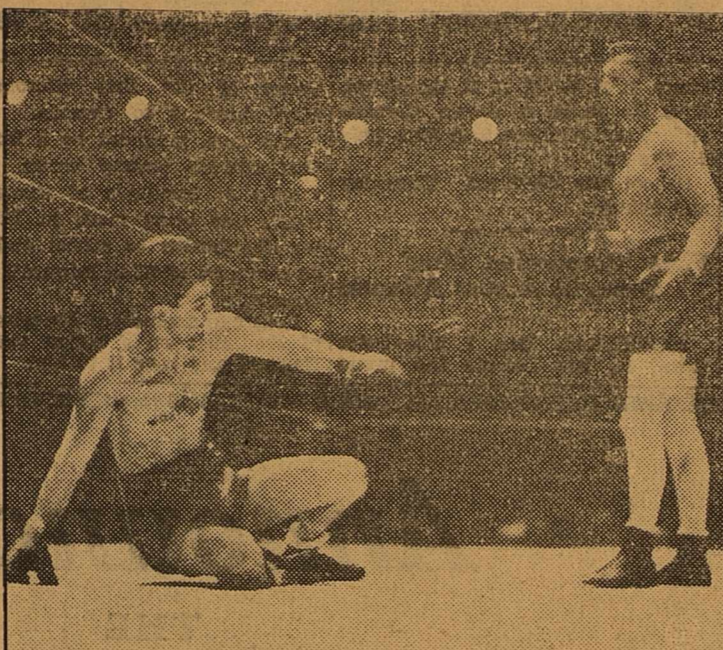

The Frogs beat the Bronchos in Fort Worth in 1934 by a score of 9 to 7. Last year they went out to San Francisco and repeated the maneuver by a 10 to 6 count.

If T. C. U. could win again, it would not only run their winning streak to three, but would pull the Frogs up into the forefront of the final 1936 gridiron standings.

Santa Clara, obviously, will be out to maintain her unblemished record and to stop this business of losing to the Horned Frogs.

Thus the setting is such that the game is expected to draw probably 50,000 persons, with a special train leaving Fort Worth Dec. 8 to carry the rabid Fort Worth fans who will follow the Frogs in their long-est jaunt of the year.

Jannazzo Down, but Not Out

In a slow, humdrum fight that had a small crowd clamoring for action, Barney Ross successfully defended his welterweight crown against the challenge of Izzy Jannazzo, Alabama battler, in a 15-rounder in Madison Square Garden, N. Y. Ross, making probably the poorest showing of his career, hit with no telling force, and looked slow and flabby after 17 months' layoff. The picture above, showing Jannazzo on the floor at left, was taken after the challenger had slipped in the second round.

AGGIES HOPING TO REACH FORM AGAIN

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Dec. 2.—Plattened by Centenary and Texas as within six days, the Texas Aggies, who reached glory heights with three victories in an earlier eight-day period, will seek inter-sectional solace in their season's finale, Saturday's scuffle at Tyler with sturdy Manhattan.

Like the Aggies, the Jaspers under Coach "Chick" Meehan, are enjoying one of their most successful seasons in years, having won 14 of nine games and having scored 139 points to their opponents' 79. The Aggies have won seven and tied another in eleven starts and have amassed 143 points to their opponents' 68.

The Aggies hope by Saturday to have recovered from the strain of having played five games within twenty days. From Nov. 6 through Nov. 26 they played Southern Methodist, San Francisco, Utah, Centenary and Texas, winning the first three and dropping the latter two. They took a three-day holiday after their 0-7 loss to Texas the past Thursday and outlined a program of comparatively light work for the entire current week.

Although favoring the forward pass probably more than any other team in the East, the Jaspers feature a powerful running attack with 200-pound Dick Tuckley an fleet Vic Fusia as the spearheads. The Aggies, for their part, balance their running work with forward and lateral passes, both attacks featuring Quarterback Dick Vitek and half-backs Dick Todd, Jim Shockey, "Shink" Manning and Bob Nesrsta.

Seasonal records to date of the Texas Aggies and the Manhattan College Jaspers are as follows:

MOSES TO MARRY

Maybe Wally Moses, Philadelphia Athletics' outfielder, below, can get a few pointers on how to wield a bat from his wife-to-be, Billy Haines, of Houston, Tex. The little woman apparently knows how to swing the bludgeon she's holding, above. She becomes Mrs. Moses on Dec. 5—and baseball bats probably will replace rolling pins in the Moses domicile.

Expenses Lower In Irrigation System

Ingenuity is one of the biggest assets of the fruit or truck farmer who irrigates to supplement rain fall in the humid states, say irrigation engineers of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Success with supplemental irrigation, they report, often depends on the natural ingenuity of a good farmer, because almost every farm presents an individual problem and because a lack of ready cash may make it necessary for a farmer to assemble his equipment from inexpensive odds and ends.

The records of Frederic E. Staebner of the Bureau of Agricultural Engineering, in charge of irrigation research in the East, reveal many of the ingenious systems used by farmers who have found them profitable and are extending them to irrigate more acres next year. They include "tips" to other farmers as to how irrigation systems may be installed and as to the equipment that may be used.

A strawberry grower near Benton Harbor, Mich., has a homemade spray system on wheels that he rolls back and forth across his fields. Several hundred feet of 2-inch pipe, with 1/8 inch holes bored every 2 to 3 feet, carry the water and furnish the spray. The pipe also forms the axle for the wheels that carry it. The wheels are discarded auto tires, with X-shaped framework of waste lumber for support. The pipe or axle runs through a hole in the center of the wooden frame and connects to the water supply with pipe and flexible joints, although a rubber hose might be simpler and more convenient. This farmer's crop from 1 1/2 acres in 1936 sold more than $1100.

Another farmer near Benton Harbor uses old boiler tubes from railway steam engines for piping water to his truck crops. The tubes are 5 1/2 inches in diameter and cost about $15 a ton. For permanent installation the ends are trimmed off and the tubes welded together. For temporary installation joints made of old inner tubes are used on these and smaller pipes. One end of a section of inner tube, a foot to 18 inches long, is first rolled up (in much the same manner that a man rolls up his sleeves) and then unrolled over the end of one pipe. Another pipe is connected in the same way. These joints are wrapped with cord and covered with paint or pitch.

Many farmers use old automobile engines to run their pumps. A good example is found on a farm near Cranberry, N. J. The pulley wheel is attached direct to the drive shaft which has been shortened and placed in a bearing bolted to both sides of the chassis. The motor can be used in all gears, including reverse, and the storage battery furnishes power for starting and lights for night work.

Often a farmer in irrigating has difficulty in keeping the belt on pulley wheels because the motor and the pump are not lined up properly or get out of line. A farmer in Coloma, Mich., anchors his pump by chain to a post so that it can be swung into line easily by a slight shifting of the pipe which lies in the stream, or other source of supply.

Mr. Staebner reports moderately priced machinery to meet the needs of small farm irrigation systems is becoming more plentiful.

College astronomer, who addressed the student body.

"Human being are lucky," Dr. Marshall said, "when they look at the stars with the naked eyes. Planets, stars and the Milky Way lose much of their romance and beauty when seen through a telescope.

More than 2,500 stars are visible on a clear night, but there are 30 thousand million stars within the range of the largest telescope. Stars are named for wives, sweethearts, for presidents, and have even been auctioned off to the highest bidder to be named as the buyer chooses.

One of the girls found the bird on the sidewalk, unable to move because of a broken back. The whole family took turns in feeding it milk, honey, tomato juice and the blood squeezed from meat, and now it can flutter weakly about the house.

The SPORTS HORN

BY JESS RODGERS

Is our face red? After telling all and sundry that the winner of the Midland-McCamey game will meet the winner of the Snyder-Slaton game, we discover that it will be Littlefield instead of Slaton that will engage Snyder Friday. The two teams meet Friday afternoon at 2:30 on the Littlefield gridiron.

District 5-B ended in somewhat the same muddle as did 8-B. On Thanksgiving day Slaton and Littlefield met in what was announced as the game that would decide the championship. But no provisions were made as to who would be the winner if the two schools played a tie. And that is just what they did—ending up 0-0. The record of first downs and 20-yard penetrations was evidently not kept by officials of the game and these questions were argued pro and con following the game. But a Slaton reporter kept a play-by-play of the game and that was the deciding factor in awarding the game to Littlefield. He credited each club with one penetration, Littlefield with nine first downs, Slaton seven.

The district committee first agreed to rule the game "no game" and agreed to throw it out and play off the tie Tuesday of this week but word was received from Roy B. Henderson, secretary of the Texas Inter-scholastic league, saying the play-off could not be allowed because of the "no-two-games-within-five-days" rule. He suggested the game be awarded to Littlefield on first downs. Evidently reporters have better reputations for integrity with Henderson than they do in district 8.) So that should be that.

Tony Slaughter comes through with information that McCamey is going ahead with plans for the game with Midland Saturday while Iraan is moving everything but the Pecos county mountains in an effort to have themselves declared champions.

Here's hoping nothing changes the decision making the Badgers champions. It would take all the Rangers and National Guard of the state to protect officials should Midland play Iraan and come out on top. Sports may be a game to other places but to Iraan they are a matter of life and death. If they lose they want the head of the officials. (Remember how much fun Chas. Lingo had down there.)

This rain is not helping the Bulldogs a bit. The club was well battered up in the Odessa game and only now are getting some of the soreness worked out of aching muscles. Wafford's hands are coming back to life after being in pretty bad shape earlier in the week. The Midland guards would like to have mattresses behind them if the McCamey line is like that of Odessa. The boys spent most of their time "just a setting."

Most of the town population seems to think the McCamey team will prove just a push-over for the Bulldogs. True, Midland should be a favorite on the season record, but they are not going to walk away with the game. The Badgers will be playing at home before the largest crowd probably ever gathered there to cheer them on. Unless a lot of Midland folks make the trip to help the locals win out they have a large surprise package coming to them. That "twelfth man" helps out a lot more than he is given credit for. McCamey has an average almost as good as that of the Bulldogs. They have won seven and lost only one. The loss came when the team resembled the "old folks home" because there was so many of the team members injured. In fact, two regulars of the team were in the hospital. The Badgers have played only one club that the Bulldogs met during the regular season—Big

More -Sophs Finding Selves On Varsity Teams Over Nation

BY JIMMY DONAHUE

NEA Service Sports Writer

It wasn't so long ago that when a first-year man was spotted in a varsity football lineup, the slogan of the opposing squad was, "Seek the soph." Now, instead of figuring the recruit an easy mark, teams frequently think twice before trying to run through his position. Peagreens have proved too tough.

First-rate freshmen tutors have had much to do with bringing this change about. The lads get more attention in high and preparatory schools, too. It is the freshman coach who grounds yearlings in the system taught the varsity. However, he also teaches the youngsters fundamentals, which lessens the burden of the head man when the lads move up to the following fall.

The average sophomore no longer is a raw bush leaver. He moves into big time with his natural ability well polished to fit into the teamwork of the veterans.

Teams have been known to suffer from severe cases of senioritis. While a fine collection of experienced men pleases a mentor, he also likes to see in the background several first-year men with enough fight and daring to put the spark into a tired group of veterans.

Many coaches hold prize sophomores in reserve until a psychological moment. Injection of this new blood when an outfit launches a drive or when it is backed up against its goal line often means the difference between victory and defeat.

Sharpen Panthers' Teeth
The Marshall Goldberg Marching and Chowder Club was organized in Pittsburgh when the 18-year-old lad of Elkins, W. Va., ran Stebbins, also a sophomore and the fastest boy on the Panther squad, sprinted to the touchdown that whipped Ohio State.

Undeated and untied Santa Clara has had a lot of help from a sophomore fullback named Chuck Pavelko. Auburn, which sports a fine sophomore end in Burford, can tell you about Pavelko after its inter-sectional clash with the Broncs.

Yale while it has its Larry Kelley, probably wouldn't have fared so well this year if it hadn't been for Tony Mott, sophomore fullback. The youngster is a comer with prospects of being the best line crasher and backer-up in the east next year.

Sidney Luckmar, of Columbia Lake, The Badgers beat the Owls 21-18 while the Bulldogs gave them a 26-6 lacing. But the Owls were playing for a possible district championship when they met the Badgers. They were the boys that put so many of the McCamey lads on the sick list.

NEAR HALF-INCH OF RAINFALL IN CITY OVERNIGHT

.43 Reported At 12 Today; .53 For The Week

Total precipitation in Midland last night and today had reached 43 of an inch, it was reported at noon, making a total of .53 here this week.

Although ranges were not seriously in need of the latest rain, ranchers say that weeds and grass will be helped by it. With most of the cotton crop gathered and the feed crop harvested little damage was done to either by the rain. The ground is in the best shape of any recent fall, it was said.

The latest rains to fall here started about 10:30 last night after a slow drizzle had fallen earlier in the evening. The fall continued most of the night, never hard but at a consistent rate.

Reports from the telephone company here indicated Fort Davis only received a shower while an all night rain fell at Marfa, Big Spring, Ft. Worth and Pecos.

Temperatures in Midland remained about the same, a low of 40 being recorded at seven this morning, one degree higher than that registered at the same time Tuesday morning.

Drizzling rain blanketed Texas today, and weather observers said it would probably be followed by colder weather.

Dallas reported the heaviest rain for a 24-hour period, showing over one-half an inch.

The luncheon was served by the ladies of the Christian church. Jack Mayfield, who underwent an appendectomy in a Midland hospital today, is recovering rapidly.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS MUSICIAN TUESDAY NIGHT

Overflow Crowd At Church For The Program

Midland music lovers gave a gracious and pleasing reception to their guest artist, J. Leslie Hall, last evening in his recital at the Presbyterian church. An enthusiastic audience filled the church to overflowing and many were turned away, despite the adverse weather conditions.

At the conclusion of Mr. Hall's program, which was arranged in groups of eight, the spellbound audience gave the appearance of a group abruptly returned from a trip out into another world, a world of beautiful music and fantasy.

During the intermission, Reverend Cleman translated his version of the program to the audience as being almost an immortal thing, the translation of things beautiful not by note or exactness, but by a feeling of the soul that only a great lover of fine music could have.

The artist's organ experience was

JOHN RINGLING IS DEATH VICTIM

Famed Circus Owner Dies Today at Age 70 In New York Home

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—John Ringling, whose name was synonymous with the "big top", sawdust ring and circus spangles from coast to coast, died today.

The circus magnate and philanthropist succumbed at the age of 70 to a brief illness of bronchial pneumonia. He was the last of seven brothers whose backyard playtime show at Baraboo, Wisconsin, grew to perhaps the nation's largest entertainment combine.

evidenced by his technique and the effects he attained with his own interpretations were most pleasing. As a contrast, Mr. Hall played a group of piano selections, and his treatment of the organ and piano proved him to be truly a master of both.

Mr. Hall, like other great artists who have traveled to Texas and have grown to love its plains, hills, and people, expressed himself as wishing it were possible for him to remain here.

Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)
