The request for an advisory body was presented to directors of the Cattlemen's association at a meeting in Midland Monday.

KEYES POOL WELL HITS OIL; FLOWS

New Producer Makes 237
Barrels in 16
Hours

BY FRANK GARDNER

The most intensely drilled area in West Texas at the present time, the Keyes pool in Winkler county, was credited with another producer today when Sinclair-Prairie No. B-3, Walton flowed 237 barrels in 16 hours in drilling to 2,950 feet in sand and lime. As is customary with wells in the Keyes pool, it will be given a nitro shot before completion. The new Sinclair-Prairie producer is 1,650 feet from the south and 2,310 feet from the east line of section 24, block 26, public school land.

Humble No. 3-C Walton, Henderson pool well, cored from 3,090 to 3,113 with only slight oil showings and is now coring deeper. The well is 320 feet from the south and 2,970 feet from the west line of section 34, block 74, public school land.

Mid-Continent No. 3 Walton in section 24 of the Keyes pool is shut down for orders. The Henderson and associate well is located 2,310 feet from the north-west and 330 feet from the east line of section 7, block 35, H. & T. C. survey. The oil string of casing was set at 1,940.

In the Waddell pool of Crane Magnolia No. 6 Edwards is drilling through the lime section. At 3,288 it is still well above the pay horizon of the pool. Location is in section 2, block B-23, public school land.

Moore Brothers No. 1 Barnsley, Crane Ordovician test, is making slow progress below 5,310 feet in hard gray lime. It is carrying a hole full of sulphur water coming from farther up the hole. The deep test is in the center of the southwest quarter of section 43, block 32, public school land.

Top of lime has been called at 3,875 feet in the Grisham and Hunter No. 1 R. B. Cowden, interesting wildcat in northwest Ector county. That point is the one picked generally, although some place it is as high as 3,785. The test, located in section 10, block 45, township 2 north, T. & P. survey, is now drilling anhydrite and lime stringers below 3,917 feet.

A mile and a half to the west and slightly south of the No. 1 test, Grisham and Hunter No. 2 R. B. Cowden is drilling anhydrite at 3,805 feet. It is located in section 8.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 31.—This is the GHQ of the great effort of John L. Lewis and his followers to organize the five-billion-dollar steel industry.
It is also the seat of as sympathetic a government as ever watched a major industrial conflict develop in America.
If you want to follow the Battle of Steel blow by blow, you will have to train your telescope on Washington as often as you turn it to the actual firing line.
You will have to watch the quarters of the Committee for Industrial Organization, the handsome office of Lewis and the powerful United Mine Workers two blocks away, and the American Federation of Labor building, where an executive council has pondered whether it dared suspend any or all of the 12 C. I. O. unions, with their 1,250,000 members. And you will have to watch the White House and half a dozen federal agencies where what happens to the C. I. O. in its struggles with both the steel corporations and with A. F. of L. craft unions is a matter of intense concern.

May Change History Course
STEEL is the industry on which our machine civilization rests. It is the most powerful foe of organized labor. Its defeat would bring labor victories in all mass production industries—and probably a turn in history.

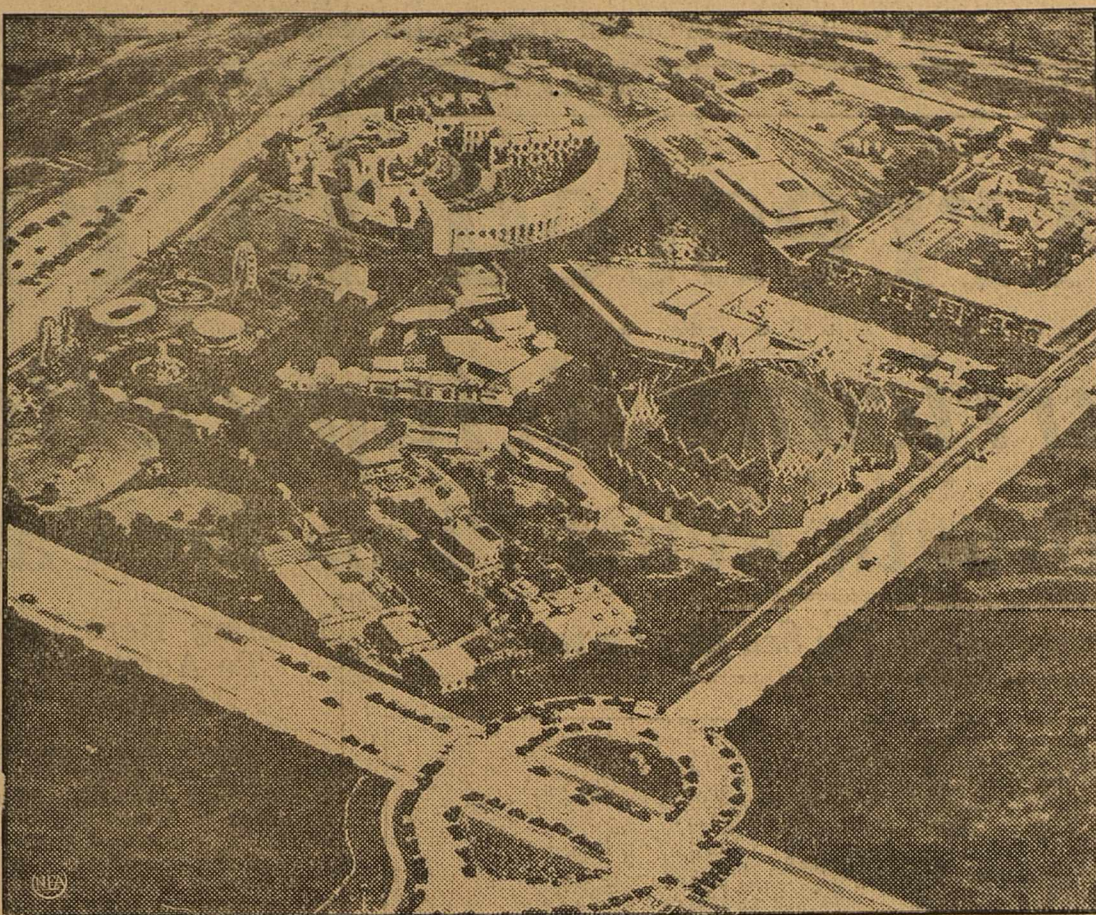

Not only does the C. I. O. drive in steel and other industries tie in closely with the political campaign success of this demand by labor

Digging's Tough for Mrs. Landon

The good earth, baked by drought weather, was obstinate when Mrs. Alf M. Landon tried to break ground for the new Delta Gamma sorority house at Washburn College, Topeka. But the governor's wife, former president of the chapter, was equally stubborn. Shoving her fragile slipper against the spade, she finally turned the earth, then said, "That's the hardest dirt I've ever seen."

Plane View of Glamorous Ft. Worth Exposition

According to the 1930 census, South Carolina has the highest percentage of illiteracy of any state in the United States.
Males of the Sara tribe of the Upper Nile region of Africa have an average height of 71.02 inches, the highest stature of a human race.
Katydids keep such perfect time, when singing in unison, that the song of a dozen may be mistaken for the singing of one insect.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

"Weak headed men usually are head strong."

The trouble:
It is much easier to fool away $10 than to make $1.

So often culture is the art of saying nothing well.

A little boy was crying on Main street today.
"What's the trouble, sonny?" I asked.

"I don't want'er," he yelled.

"Don't want to what?" I asked.

"Don't want'er want'er," he shrieked.

And that's all there was to it.

When a girl who has always had her own way gets married, people watch her for several years.

SWATTER DOWNS BAT

HEALDSBURG, Cal. (U.P.)—Romeo Berchioli was awakened by what appeared to be the over-zealous buzzing of a fly. Surprisingly, in the darkness, he got a fly swatter and when the buzzing came his way again, he swatted. The victim proved to be a full-sized bat with a wing spread of 11 inches.

Side Glances . . . . . by Clark

"Surprise, folks! We drove all last night so we'd get here a day sooner."

for an economic and political voice may influence the trend of events for decades.

Already it is common talk that the C. I. O., if it lives, will be the nucleus for a strong labor or farmer-labor party in 1940.

For this year, however, there is a close alliance between John L. Lewis and Franklin D. Roosevelt. Lewis sat in at the White House on the Democratic platform plank for labor.

In Washington and Pennsylvania, Lewis, who is nobody's humble lieutenant is using the Democratic politicians. And they are using him. New Deal strategists think they have a fine chance in Pennsylvania.

Steel, pitching the key for Big Business in its relations with labor is the outstanding target of those who would translate Roosevelt's attacks on "economic royalists" literally and specifically.

Oppose Near-Future Strike

NEVERTHELESS, Roosevelt wants no steel strike before November. Neither, apparently does Lewis. There is some fear that the industry will precipitate hostilities, not only for political effect, but in the hope of strangling the organization drive in its infancy.

Nor does Roosevelt want to see a complete split between C. I. O. and the craft unions, for there is reason to fear that many right wingers in the labor movement might then turn against him.

The C. I. O. is the heart and soul of Labor's Non-Partisan League, which, under George Berry, is now signing up central labor unions over the country to work for Roosevelt.

The Setup in Washington

NOW let's look around official Washington and get the idea why steel drive leaders expect both practical and psychological aid from the capital in days to come. We find:

1.—That LaFollette Senate subcommittee, directed to investigate violations of civil liberties, labor espionage, and interference with the right to organize. This group will pay special attention to troubles in the steel industry and will try to expose the industry's anti-labor tactics. C. I. O. leaders expect to find reason to demand that even such directing geniuses as President Eugene Grace of the American Iron & Steel Institute and J. P. Morgan be brought before the committee.

2.—The National Labor Relations Board, whose duty is to enforce the Wagner act guaranteeing labor's right to organize and bargain collectively—an act which the steel industry defies.

3.—The Department of Labor, whose official are sympathetic to the C. I. O. movement and who will vocally oppose tactics frequently used against labor organizers and union converts.

4.—The Department of Justice, now engaged in an investigation of collusive bidding by steel companies as well as monopoly in the industry. It is also charged with enforcing a new law which penalizes interstate transportation of strikebreakers.

5.—Harry Hopkins and the WPA—where from the beginning of FE-RA it has been held that strikers and their families were entitled to relief.

6.—Finally, Roosevelt. He could hardly back down from, insisting on the guarantees of the Wagner act, any more than he could afford to refuse any fair request from Lewis when such refusal would depart from an attitude of benevolent neutrality.

"YOU'RE A PICTURE OF HEALTH, thanks to our Electric Refrigerator"

PENNYWISE SAYS:

"Healthy kids have healthy appetites. Keep plenty of food on hand, in your electric refrigerator, so that they have plenty of everything they like to eat morning, noon and night."

Infant appetites are uncertain, especially in the summer time. If things don't taste just right, it's next to impossible to get little folks to eat as much as they should. Healthy babies demand a tremendous amount of food in proportion to their size. Any let-down in their eating will quickly be reflected in their physical appearance. Make it easy for them to eat plenty of the things they like by keeping their food fresh and wholesome in an electric refrigerator.

Wives of Midland physicians were hostesses to a group of officers of the auxiliary to the Texas State Medical Society with a breakfast at the home of Mrs. Tom C. Bobo, 1803 W. Wall, this morning at 7:30 o'clock. The breakfast was one of a series of entertainment with which the officers have been feted in their journey across Texas and to Cloudford, New Mexico, where they are to be guests at the lodge of Mrs. B. R. Honan of El Paso, state president.

A color scheme of gold and rose was carried out in appointments for the foursome tables at which the guests gathered and in the two-course menu served.

Flowers for tables and reception rooms were roses and zinnias.

Mary Beth Scruggs entertained with music and Mrs. R. Steele Johnson presented several humorous readings for the group.

Hostesses besides Mrs. Bobo were: Misses W. E. Ryan, Jas. H. Chappell, L. Wadko Leggett, all of Midland, and Mrs. Headley of Odessa.

Honor guests were Mrs. H. Leslie Moore, Dallas, councilwoman of the 14th district; Mrs. Hall Shannon, Dallas, state parliamentarian; Mrs. A. B. Pumphrey, Fort Worth, state publicity chairman, Mrs. O. M. Marchman, Dallas, past state president; Mrs. Van C. Tipton, Georgetown, president of the Williamson-Burnet-Liano county auxiliary, and Dr. Van C. Tipton, and Mrs. William R. Snow and three children of Abilene.

Other officials made the trip by train and did not stop here for the affair.

The travelers will be entertained with lunch at the Camp hospital at Pecos today.

Doctors and their wives of Big Spring honored them last night with a barbecue dinner, after which the group named drove to Midland to spend the night.

Zinnias in pastel shades brought an appropriate summer note to the morning brunch followed by luncheon with which Mrs. Carl A. Mitchell complimented the Bien Amigos club at her home, 1400 S. Loraine, Thursday at 10 o'clock.

The same delicate flower tones marked tallies and prize wrappings for the bridge games.

At the close of play Mrs. Joe Chambers of Big Spring held high score and Mrs. Preston Bridgewater cut.

Mrs. Wendel Mathews of Iraan was a guest.

A two-course luncheon was served at noon to Mrs. Mathews and the following club members: Misses Joe Flynn, Gladys, Mrs. F. F. Wininger, Bridgewater, Jas. H. Chappell, Chambers, J. M. Haygood, and the hostess.

Demonstrator's Preparedness Pays

Mrs. J. L. Hundle, farm food supply cooperator of the North Midland home demonstration club, is a firm believer in preparedness and that trait is paying dividends this year. Mrs. Hundle's fruit was killed this spring but she has 150 quarts of peaches left over from last year's canning that will supply her family's need for this winter. Because of her large stock of canned goods, she still has the amount of fruit her budget calls for for her family of three for another year.

Mrs. Hundle won a trip to the short course at College Station through her achievements. She was an enthusiastic attendant at the course and later visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Uskubal at Bryan. Her mother accompanied her home for a visit.

"Show Boat," One of Outstanding Films Opens at Yucca Sun.

Here comes the "Show Boat" "Show Boat" with the memorable romance and drama of Edna Ferbers novel—with the lingering melody and rhythm of Jerome Kern's music. "Show Boat," with the charming glamor and human appeal of Oscar Hammerstein's play. The 1936 Universal film version comes to the Yucca Theatre on Preview Saturday night, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The picture tells the love story of Magnolia and Ravenal on a Mississippi show boat. Irene Dunne, the star, and Allan Jones capture the imagination in these romantic singing roles. Charles Winninger plays Captain Andy, genial river showman. His straitlaced wife is portrayed by Helen Westley.

"Show Boat" is filled with music and dancing and heart throbs. Paul Robeson, noted baritone, gives resonant voice and robust life to his role, with a chorus of 200 singers providing magnificent musical effects in the background.

Besides the surefire songs that are inseparable from "Show Boat" there are three new Jerome Kern Oscar Hammerstein tunes.

High stepping beauties in a dozen captivating dances give further rhythmic charm to the picture, directed by James Whale.

At the Yucca, you will be enchanted by "Show Boat" music. You will be enthralled by its romance and thrilled by its drama. "Show Boat" will echo in your thoughts as the most glorious offering that ever floated on the river of memory.

Fords First Cars To Travel Trail In Utah

By driving automobiles over a trail in Southeastern Utah which had never before been traversed by motor cars under their own power, members of the Rainbow Bridge—Monument Valley Scientific Expedition, centering their work this summer in the Navajo Indian Reservation, prove there is pioneering yet to be performed in motor vehicle travel in America.

One of the expedition's projects is the scientific exploration of canyons of the San Juan river, a portion of which runs through southeastern Utah. To launch the exploration fleet on the stream, passengers, supplies and specially-built collapsible boats were transported down a precipitous grade known as Noki mountain, through deep-gorged Noki Canyon to the river and back again to the crest of Noki mountain.

Five automobiles had descended Noki mountain and climbed it prior to the expedition's feat, but they were assisted in the climb by block and tackle. A part of the expedition's motor caravan, two 1936 Ford V-8 station wagons and a V-8 truck, added a new chapter to motoring history in the Monument Valley region when they descended and climbed Noki mountain under their own power. Moreover, the ascent was made after dark.

Climbing Noki is dangerous as well as difficult. The path, covered with loose stones and gravel, describes an abrupt hairpin turn. There are high stone walls banking the inner side of the trail and a 100-foot drop on the outer side. At some points the trail is so narrow that rock had to be chopped away to permit passage of the truck platform.

A route to Noki mountain was carved for the three Ford vehicles by Wen Wetherill, widely-known native of the Monument valley region, and staff assistant of the expedition. Much of his route lay over the rock bottoms of dry washes, some of it through mazes of desert vegetation, some nearly as high as the station wagons. There was one 160-degree turn which necessitated double backing, and there were spots where the car wheels were required to climb natural stairs of 18-inch steps.

The Monument valley area, in which the expedition is carrying on investigations to add to the scientific knowledge of the southwest's prehistoric cultures, is totally unlike any other part of the country. Its numerous canyons hide relics of the ancient Pueblo Indians which provide one of the principal studies of the expedition. Its sandstone mesas, buttes and monoliths, brilliantly colored in the changing light, present views some have likened to those which they might expect to see on a visit to the moon.

ODOVILLE, Cal. (U.P.)—Grasshopper hordes now invading the state are following the most established dietetic rules of not mixing their starches and fruits. # Sedition Defense of 8 Puerto Ricans Attacks Right of The United States to Rule Island

Nationalists Hold Treaty With Spain Voids Document

By NEA Service
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, July 31.—In the shadow of the forts that Admiral Sampson bombarded to free Puerto Rico from its Spanish shackles, eight members of the militant Nationalist Party battle the effort of the United States to maintain sovereignty over the island.

Pedro Albizu Campos, president of the Nationalist Party, and advocate of independence for Puerto Rico, is the leader of the struggle. With eight of his followers he has been brought to trial in Federal Court here on charges of sedition—the first case of its kind ever instituted by the United States in one of its possessions.

Because of the legal questions raised by the defense, acquittal of the defendants might seriously impair American authority here. At a former trial, which ended with the jury unable to agree on a verdict, Campos contended that American laws are not binding on the island, holding the Treaty of Paris, by which Spain ceded Puerto Rico to the United States, to be void. Although Federal Judge Robert A. Cooper ruled repeatedly that the treaty was a matter of law and had no bearing on the matters at issue, the jury's inability to agree in the first trial raised Campos' hopes his contention would be upheld.

Served As World War Officer
The sedition charges against the Nationalist leaders are based on a series of speeches and subsequent disorders that resulted in a number of deaths and threats of retaliation against Governor Blanton Winship and other Americans in the event party members were killed in encounters with police and troops. Campos' trial is an ironical turn in his career. His father had welcomed General Miles and the American soldiers at Ponce in 1898.

A new battle of San Juan raged in Puerto Rico as Colonel Amos W. Woodcock (studying evidence in court at left), prosecuted sedition charges against Pedro Albizu Campos (right), president of the Nationalist Party, who also acts as chief defense counsel for his seven codefendants. In the center of the group of defendants above is Juan Antonio Corretjer (with moustache), secretary general of the party and editor of its newspaper.

erican soldiers at Ponce in 1898. Twenty-five years ago he was an island scholarship student, marked out for leadership and went to Harvard to complete his studies. He won degrees in academic work and law, then served as an infantry lieutenant in the World War. His knowledge of law he now applies as chief defense counsel in the sedition trial.

When he became head of the Nationalists six years ago, he launched a regime that grew increasingly militant, even to the point of issuing a call for the compulsory enlistment in his private army of all Nationalists 18 years old or over. He admitted 10,000 signed up, but argued that his purpose was not to wage war on the United States but to train and discipline island youth.

Mustered in evidence against Campos and his fellow defendants by Special Prosecutor Amos W. Woodcock, former national prohibition director of the United States, are a series of speeches and editorials, called inflammatory by the authorities, linked with overt acts of lawlessness.

In one speech Campos is alleged to have accused his listeners of being cowards for greeting President Roosevelt with flowers instead of bullets in July, 1934. This Campos denies.

Oration Blamed in Rig's Death
The slaying of Colonel E. Francis Riggs of Maryland, insular police chief, it is charged, was instigated by Campos' oath of revenge made at the funeral of four Nationalists who had been killed when they tried to break up a meeting of students assembled to censure the

Charges Based On Link Between Many Talks, Killings

Magic Fleet Guards Western Rail Travel

CHICAGO, Illinois, July 31.—Up and down the steel thoroughfares of America a magic fleet is cruising, touching the rails with delicate fingers that sense instantly any danger spot lurking inside those steel ribbons.

Sixty thousand miles a year those electric wizards travel—firing a bullet of paint to brand the rail where "cancer" is beginning. Little known, seldom noticed, this ubiquitous fleet of detector cars is but one of the contributors to the enviable safety record of the Western Railroads. Not one passenger was killed by rail failure or collision in this country last year, and one reason is that the Sperry detector searched nearly 61,000 miles track—found 11,000 fissured rails before the unseen danger could cause an accident. More than half the tested mileage was on western and southern lines.

The last great invention of the late Dr. Elmer A. Sperry, who gave aviation and marine navigation the gyroscopic compass—the compass that guides lost planes to safe landings and brings the "Queen Mary" and other great liners through fog and storm—his last great development was the electric detector that "feels" internal defects in steel rails.

In the last year his invention has been improved to the point that a railcar traveling at seven miles an hour can spot without an inch of error a fissure within a rail, mark it with a small dot of paint and then tell accurately the area of the hidden crack.

On the first job for the Wabash Railway in 1928 the Sperry car covered eleven miles a day. Today the fleet of detector cars can test thirty miles each in a day. Three men and a porter man the car, gasoline-powered and equipped with dining and sleeping quarters, the instruments occupying the rear end.

The secret of its magic touch is a dynamo that sends 3,000 amperes of current at two volts into the rail beneath the rear trucks. The current enters the rail through a series of brushes, raveling about five feet along the rail setting up a magnetic field in it, then leaves through another group of brushes. Between these two sets of brushes are coils which are affected by the magnetic field and thus affect the current in these coils.

By amplifying this current, it is made to operate simultaneously a recording pen and a paint gun. When the detector passes over a fissured rail the pen suddenly varies from its otherwise straight track on a recording paper roll, and the operator stops the car. At the same instant a trigger releases the paint gun and spots the rail.

Then, with a hand detector, the operator examines the rail and by noting his meters can estimate with extreme accuracy the cross-section area of the break. The fissure is chiseled, the railroad notified, and promptly a maintenance crew is on hand to replace the entire rail. Another potential danger source has been removed.

Punjab Ascetic Fasts for 110 Days To Unite Live-and-Let-Live Sects

BOMBAY, July 31 (U.P.)—Muni Shri Misraji, an ascetic of Punjab province, has been attracting wide attention here by a fast which has lasted 110 days.

He stopped taking water and observed a strict vow of silence. Lying on a cot with a cloth pad tied over his mouth, he conveyed his ideas to his disciples by signs. He is emaciated and weak, and it is feared he will not recover from the ordeal.

Muni Shri is a Jain monk. His fast was started as a demonstration to bring about unity among the Jain sects. It has been his ideal for 20 years, and he has a large following.

The Jain order of celibacy, both for men and women, is one of the most austere in the world. Members eat only such food as is guaranteed not to have involved any killing, even going to the extreme of abstaining from boiled water because it involves the killing of microbes. There have been instances of rich Jains who paid men to permit themselves to be bitten by bugs and other insects so that the insects might not die of starvation.

Most Marwaris, India's money lenders, are Jains, but their compassion for live and let live does

Stamp News

By I. S. Klein

WOMAN'S great leader, Susan B. Anthony, will be honored by issuance of a new 3-cent U. S. postage stamp, on the 16th anniversary of the final ratification of the 19th amendment, which gave suffrage to the women of the United States.

The decision to issue such a stamp was the result of more than two years of constant urging by thousands of women all over the country. The stamp will bear a picture of Miss Anthony, and will be released for sale on Aug. 28, 1936. Place of first day sale has not been designated.

Miss Anthony not only was the pioneer leader in the movement for women suffrage, but she also took leading parts in all activities aimed at equal rights for women in America.

Arrangements have practically been completed for extending the trans-Pacific airmail line from Manila to Macao, Portuguese possession on the coast of China. Final plans for first flight over this route may be expected soon.

Australia will commemorate the centenary of its foundation by a new stamp of three values, showing the original settlement of Adelaide, a present view of the same city, and a picture of the proclamation tree of Glenelg. Australia also is planning a series showing the animals peculiar to that country.

And another big issue comes from Italy—this time a series of 13 values honoring the great Roman poet, Horace, who was born just about 2000 years ago. (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

MINNEAPOLIS, July 31 (UP)—A family of five sons and his son-in-law have served a total of 260 years of church service...

The "pulpit tradition" was started by Rev. John J. Parish now 83 years old, who still is preaching at Onamia, Minn.

His five sons are the Rev. Earnest Parish, pastor of Central Park Methodist church, St. Paul; the Rev. Herbert H. Parish, pastor of Edgewater Methodist church, Minneapolis, and executive secretary of the Minnesota Temperance Movement; the Rev. S. L. Parish, Winona, Minn.; the Rev. J. L. Parish, Pine City, and the Rev. George O. Parish, Valley City, N. D.

The family tradition began when the father, an Ontario stockbreeder and farmer began preaching in his home. Subsequently he gave up agriculture to enter the ministry.

FISHES STOPPED TO LISTEN

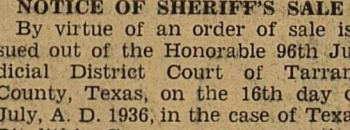

YOUNG Anthony of Padua was traveling through Italy, converting heathens to Christianity, when he came to the city of Rimini, inhabitants of which were said to have been particularly wicked and sinful. He stopped to preach, but the people mocked him and put fingers in their ears to avoid hearing him.

Unperturbed, Anthony is said by legend to have turned to the waters of the sea nearby and called upon the fishes. Hearing him, the creatures of the sea thrust their heads above the surface of the water and listened, while Anthony preached his sermon. The jeering crowd was so amazed at this miracle that many of them immediately became Christians.

This famous episode in the life of St. Anthony of Padua is illustrated on one of the stamps issued by Italy in 1931, and on another of a similar series issued by Portugal, where Anthony was born. The Italian stamp is shown here.

Oil Industry Discovers New Reserves Greater Than Amount Taken From Earth

HOUSTON, July 31—During the first half of 1936 the oil industry of the United States successfully fulfilled its responsibility of finding new oil reserves to replace those used meanwhile by the consumers. In fact, the industry apparently discovered more oil deposits during the period than it took from the ground for the motorists and other users.

In meeting the consumer requirements, the industry took from the nation's oil wells about 525,000,000 barrels of crude oil in the initial six months of 1936.

But in the meantime, the oil companies and operators were diligently searching for new fields, attempting to widen established fields, and endeavoring to find new and deeper productive strata in the existing fields. Through these efforts, the oil men discovered substantially more new oil than the half billion barrels taken from the ground.

This encouraging statement is made by The OIL WEEKLY, Houston, Texas in its issue of July 27.

The article brings out that the 525,000,000 barrel drain on the nation's oil reserves in the first half of this year was compensated, in fact, by discoveries within Texas alone. But in addition, important discoveries, aggregating at least several hundred million barrels, were made also in various other states, including California, Oklahoma, Kansas, New Mexico, Louisiana also has furnished some new oil this year, although the big Rodessa oil accumulation was discovered in 1935.

The extensive discoveries in Texas this year were largely in several districts of the state, including eastern Texas, The Texas Gulf Coast section, Southwest Texas, and West Texas, and embraced opening of the Talco field and extension of Rodessa field into Texas.

California's discoveries this year have included three important fields. One of the three is the Old River field, Kern county, which probably is the most important discovery since Kettleman Hills was established as a field in 1928.

During 1932, 1933 and 1934, there was a protracted scarcity of new oil discoveries in the United States, according to the article, and considerable fear was entertained that the nation faced a future shortage of oil. But drilling also was subnormal within those years. In 1935 both drilling and oil field discoveries recovered to more normal proportions. In 1936, the drilling and the discoveries again are more normal.

Since crude oil is a definitely limited and irreplaceable natural resource, in contrast with coal which is practically inexhaustible, the oil industry has the responsibility of constantly seeking new fields to replace those being depleted. This year, the industry successfully is fulfilling that responsibility. In fact, since the beginning of the United States oil industry more than 75 years ago, there have been only brief and temporary shortages of oil; and on the whole, the oil companies and operators have done well the task of keeping the public supplied with oil.

It has been estimated that losses of milk bottles by theft and breakage in London alone cost more than $62,000 annually.

Gandhi Becomes Typical Villager and Lives In Mud Hut And Tends His Goats At Yucca

As the 'adventurous' hero, Prince Florizel, or the thrilling, suspense packed romance, 'Trouble for Two,' Robert Montgomery gives one of the outstanding performances of his career. The increasingly popular Rosalind Russell is co-starred with Montgomery in the new M. G. M. hit, currently showing on the Yucca screen.

BOMBAY, (U.P.)—Mahatma Gandhi is now leading the life of a typical villager. He has taken permanent residence in a hut on the outskirts of Shegaon village, seven miles from Wardha (Central Provinces). His wife and secretary live at Wardha, whence the latter goes daily to his master. The road to Shegaon lies partly through fields which become a morass during the monsoon, making communication difficult. Nearly a hundred huts, some tiled, others thatched, are scattered about the village. Gandhi's home, which is a tiled hut of mud, has an airy hall in the center which serves as his study. A kitchen, storeroom and bath complete the home. At the side is a small stable for goats.

Gandhi has no program for the future these days aside from his daily schedule. The villagers attend his open-air prayers at dawn and dusk.

STRAYING PARROTS CAUGHT

TOLEDO (U.P.)—Keepers at the Toledo Zoo have a technique for capturing parrots which frequently stray. The keepers simply lay a broom or rake handle near the wanderer, and it promptly hops aboard and squawks.

side of a pool and kick the legs. I advise the six-beat kick, with toes turned in, knees relaxed, and legs straight, but not rigid. By following this exercise for 30 minutes, a pupil should be able to churn the water in good style at the conclusion of the lesson. Probably the most powerful leg movement comes from the flutter kick. The kick comes from the hips, with a slight bending at the knees. The kick should be about an eight-inch splash, and performed with an easy movement designed to eliminate stiffness of the legs. The heels barely should come out of the water

SCIENCE ADVISES AGAINST MEALS LOW IN NEEDED "BULK"

Reports ALL-BRAN Supplies This Dietary Adjunct

Scientific tests have shown that meals which miss the proper "bulk" tend to cause common constipation. This condition causes discomfort, and may lead to headaches, loss of appetite, even serious disease.

Avoid these faulty meals by adding Kellogg's ALL-BRAN to your menus. It supplies generous "bulk" in convenient form. This absorbs moisture, and gently exercises and cleanses the system. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and contains iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is often more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN may be served as a cereal with milk or cream. Sprinkle over soups, salads or other cereals. Or work into appetizing muffins, breads, waffles, etc. It adds a delicious nut-sweet flavor to your recipes.

How much better than taking patent medicines—sometimes harmful! ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.
