ASCS Making 'Spot' Checks For Weeds Here

For July, Danny Noble, County Executive Director of the ASCS issued the following report:

Today, Sunday, the annual Jamaica will be held at Immaculate Conception Catholic Church on East Hickory, 12 noon to 7 p.m.

It will be on the east side of the church and will feature live bands, food booths and entertainment booths.

You are encouraged to attend.

A fund has been started at First Bank to benefit 23-month old Mason Williams, who has been in a coma in Lubbock General Hospital for the past five weeks.

and you have only five workdays in which to adjust (if any) and certify your acres in this office. Please notify this office if you have to adjust prior to plowing anything up.

MAINTENANCE OF ACR

This office has received several complaints about the maintenance of ACR and CU land. We are aware of all the rains, planting, and replanting. There is a lot of set-aside land that needs plowing NOW. Spot checks are being made now, so don't jeopardize your farm program benefits by neglecting your lay-out land -- NO WEEDS!!

CRP WEED CONTROL

Since the recent rains, a lot of CRP ground appears to have a severe weed problem. It is the responsibility of the producer to control the weeds on their CRP contracts.

Failure to control weeds is a violation of the contract and will result in contracts being terminated. If a stand of grass is lost due to a weed problem, you, as producer, will be held responsible for planting the grass over at your own expense. Don't let this happen to you.

EMERGENCY HAYING AND GRAZING

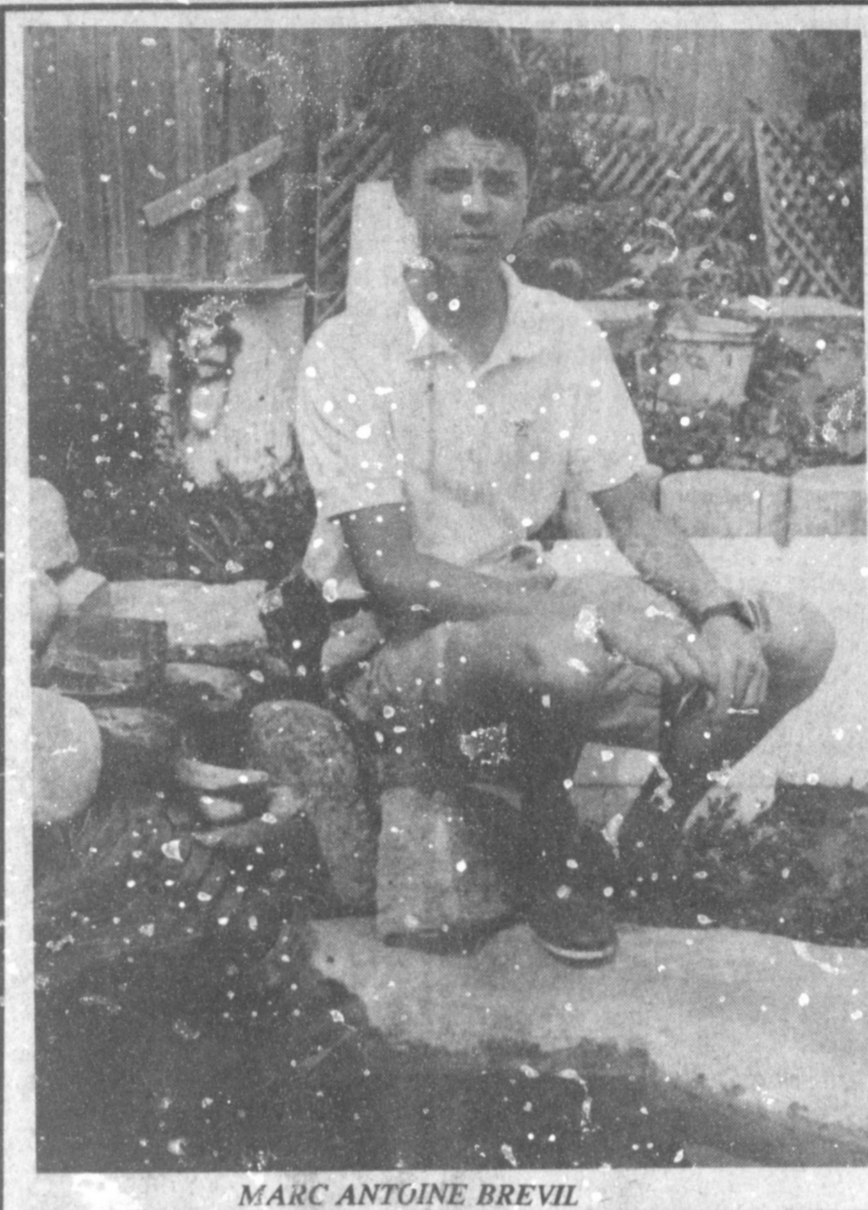

Bailey County's application for emergency haying and grazing of ACR and CU acreage during the five month restricted period (May 15 through October 14) has been disapproved. Please don't jeopardize your program benefits by haying and/or grazing your ACR and CU during this restricted time frame.

MARC ANTOINE BREVIL

French Youth Here In Summer Program

Pluck a 14-year old French boy from a suburb of Paris, France and put him in a small-town setting like Muleshoe, and what's his reaction.

He is a little bewildered, a little bemused, and learns an entire new experience.

That's what Marc-Antoine Brevil of Nevilly / Seine feels this month. Nevilly / Seine is a city of 70,000 residents, and to reach it from Paris, you only have to cross the Boulevard.

The middle child of three children, this trip isn't Marc's first to the United States. Last year, he visited for 2 month in Tulsa, Okla.

Since July 1, he has been a visitor in the home of Larry and Deanna Rasco, and their two sons, Bryan and Jason.

And, it's a toss-up as to who is learning the most -- Marc or the Rasco family. They are all enjoying the learning experience of having a foreign youth in their home.

According to the seven area banks checked four times a year for deposits and loans, the area economy is staying 'stable' and perhaps beginning to come out of a 'slump' that has affected the entire United States. Deposits at the banks were $215,169,741 at this time in 1987, and had increased by $19,451,863, to $234,621,604 on June 30 this year.

Loans were down for the past year by a scant $1 million. Loans for the area banks were $95,584,949 closing out June this year. Last year at this time, loans were shown to be $96,603,661, a difference of $1,018,712.

In Muleshoe, the two banks have shown an increase in deposits of $14,512,499. However, this figure combines First Bank of Bovina with First Bank of Muleshoe. Deposits at the close of business on June 30 last year were $66,617,000 and had increased to $81,129,499 closing out June, 1988.

At the same time, loans for the local banks had increased less than one and one-half million. Loans were shown to be $37,909,000 at the end of June a year ago, and were at $39,194,645 at the same time this year, for an increase of $1,285,645.

Muleshoe State Bank shows deposits of $36,120,499 at the close of business on June 30, 1988, up by $829,499 from the $35,291,000 at the same time a year ago. Loans at the bank show a $2 million, plus, decrease, however. Loans on June 30 this year were $20,681,645, down by $2,989,355 from the $23,671,000 in loans a year ago.

For First Bank of Muleshoe and First Bank of Bovina, the combined deposits ending June this year were $45,009,000, an increase of $13,583,000 over First Bank of Muleshoe's deposits of $31,326,000 a year ago.

For the two banks, loans showed to be $18,513,000, increased by $4,275,000 over the First Bank of Muleshoe loan figure of $14,238,000 a year ago.

Total deposits at First State

Bank, Morton, were $31,438,070 at the end of June last year, and had increased by some $4,493,803 to the June 30, 1988 figure of $35,931,873.

For the same period, loans at the Morton bank had increased by $1,350,875. Loans at First State Bank in Morton were $13,405,414 at the end of June this year, up from the $12,054, Cont. Page 7 Col. 1

EMS—Paramedic 'Tells It Like It Really Is'

ALVIN CHATMAN AND PRINCE

(Editor's Note: Emergency personnel, whether they be Paramedic-SS; paramedic; EMT or ECA, can all be considered to be very special -- very dedicated people. This is the story of a paramedic -- and some of the things he thinks and feels as he attempts to save someone's life -- both here and in Lubbock. Let's meet Alvin Chatman (and his traveling buddy -- Prince.)

Alvin Chatman, 29, was raised around medicine and medical emergencies. He is the son of the late Dr. J. A. Chatman, who was a well-known Lubbock physician, and a schoolteacher mother, who still lives in the family home.

Although Alvin had grown up around medicine, he really didn't think too much about becoming a paramedic until he was motivated by a television show.

"Emergency!!" turned his life around. Alvin had gone to work for St. Mary of the Plains Hospital after graduating from high school in Lubbock.

But, after watching "Emergency" on TV, he found it to be exciting, different and new, as well as demanding.

So, he entered paramedic training in Lubbock at Lubbock Christian College. Although he had found the study to prepare to become a medical doctor "too demanding," he fell right in with the excitement of being a paramedic.

First, after 14 weeks, he had made his way through Emergency Care Attendant (ECA) and Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) schools; this was followed by 10 weeks to learn Special Skills (SS); then nine months in Paramedic training.

Alvin said he chose not to be a doctor partially, because "You can get attached to people very easily. Then, if seriously ill people don't make it, you really hurt. It hurts enough to lose a patient now, but you don't get as attached on a short term basis."

He added, "I feel along with them (the patient). When they hurt, I hurt."

However, Alvin says he realizes he must stay under control, and focus all his attention on the job at hand -- taking care of what may be a critically ill or injured person. "I'm scared," he adds, "but I just focus on the patient and do everything that has to be done."

He says he concentrates on searching for injuries with trauma situations, or listening for clues as to problems with someone with an illness.

He says his biggest fear is a major airplane crash; and some of the biggest trauma for him, personally, comes with going to drunken driving accidents.

"I was really naive when I started," he added, "and it was really hard to believe what people do to other people -- such as child abuse. I nearly quit when we had seven suicides in less than a month, each involving someone under the age of 21.

That was almost more than I could take."

During the five years he has been a paramedic, Alvin was off a year with a knee injury, three months with a shoulder injury and two months recently with a back injury.

His regular job is with the Lubbock County EMS, and he works in Muleshoe with the Bailey County Ambulance Service for 24 hours each six days. He is one of four paramedics currently working with the Bailey County EMS.

When he drives to Muleshoe every six days, he is usually accompanied by his roly-poly companion, Prince. Prince has become a 'sort of a mascot' at the Bailey County EMS and is quite at home here.

For Alvin, he says he does not want to be a mediocre paramedic and when it gets to the point he can no longer care about people, he will quit.

"I'm still at a peak giving care, and when I can no longer give the proper care, I hope to have the strength to walk away," he says. "It is a very demanding job -- especially of yourself. If I'm going to be a paramedic and take care of you, you have a right to expect good care."

He was lavish in his praise of the other trained personnel who 'man' the Bailey County EMS Service. "I find it drastically different in Muleshoe," he said, "and marvel over people dedicated enough to take off from their jobs, their families, and learn to be an EMT. Then, they take calls on a voluntary basis.

"It's very clear that here it is not the money they care for. When we have an emergency, eight or nine show up ready to help. They prove they care, and they're ready to help."

He explained that when he comes to Muleshoe every six days it is an uplifting experience. "Since coming here," he added, "I have a different outlook on volunteer service with the emergency services than I had. There's never a shortage of hands, they show up from their jobs, or from their homes, dressed like everything.

"They also know most of the people, and call them by name. It affects them more when the patient is bad (ill or hurt). I know it's a hard thing to cope with then. I worked on my own grandmother with tears in my eyes, but did what I had to do and intubated her."

He also explained that it's a very rude awakening when you have to accept that not everyone's going to make it -- some are going to die. At first, when you start, you have skills, equipment and think you can rule the world. It's a rude awakening to find you can't save everyone.

"I critique each call when it is over, personally, because I want to look back and see if anything could have been different. Despite losing some patients, Cont. Page 6, Col. 1

GARDEN SPOT OF THE WEEK—Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Fox proudly show off their yard at 1709 West Ave. D. which was named garden spot of the week by judges of the Mulleshoe Jennyslippers. With the neatly cut hedges, as well as the verbenas, petunias and gladiolus which are in full bloom, as well as the neatly mowed lawn is plain to see why this yard caught the eye of the judges. Fox stated that he does his own yard work, which appears to be a full time job.

Gramm, Dole Offering Bill On Drug Use

U.S. Sens. Phil Gramm of Texas and Robert Dole, R-Kan., have unveiled an omnibus anti-drug bill designed to end the use of illegal drugs in America. "Drug users are the stockholders of organized crime," Gramm told a press conference in Washington. "The 23 million Americans who use drugs on a regular basis create the profits that put a drug thug peddling drugs at the door of every high school in America." The bill is the direct result of a recent report of a Senate task force led by Gramm which contained a point-by-point program to make the United States drug-free by dealing with both the sellers and users of illegal drugs. "America is losing its battle against drugs. The police know it, pushers know it, parents know it. Even school children -- perhaps especially school children -- know it," Gramm said as his task force completed its report. "It is clear that as long as a buyer is willing to pay for drugs, the drugs will be for sale," he added. "As long as strong demand is present, high potential profits will attract a supply." During his press conference on the legislation, Gramm said that the time has come "to grab the drug thugs by the throat." The bill, he said, also will constrain drug dealers "We have a death penalty for drug thugs who kill our policemen. We have a mandatory sentence of 10 years in prison without parole for people who sell drugs of minors. And we will build prisons to put those people in," he said. "The American people want a practical plan that will do the job, that is affordable and that preserves the rights of our citizens," he said.

Services Tax?

Last year Florida inaugurated a services tax, a 5 percent levy on services—such as legal, computer, real estate, cable TV, services, and including newspaper, radio and television advertising.

Florida was not the first state to tax services. New Mexico, South Dakota and Hawaii already tax some services. Texas taxes a few. But the Florida law was much more broad. After the legislature passed it and it began to take effect, the howl of protest grew increasingly loud.

Major national advertisers stopped advertising in Florida and mounted an effective protest movement. Finally, after the tax had been in effect for six months, the Florida legislature repealed it and the governor—who had supported the tax—accepted repeal.

The Florida legislature then raised the sales tax another penny—to six cents.

Is the services tax idea, then, dead? Advertisers like to think so. When the idea of such a tax surfaced in other state legislatures recently the experience in Florida has been cited, often successfully.

But was the Florida reaction a public reaction or a business reaction? And doesn't a sales tax increase hit the little man harder than the services tax would have?

The services tax raises more money and is aimed at a segment of business activity now untaxed. Its backers felt there was little justification in taxing autos, appliances and video cassettes; and not taxing cable TV, piped-in music, parking services, beauty salon treatments, advertising, etc.

The services part of the U.S. economy has been the fastest growing part in recent years. One estimate is that the public spent $41 billion on personal care in 1986 (barber shops, beauty shops, health salons, etc.), $19 billion on brokers' fees and $13 billion on legal fees and bank service charges.

Success that is permanent comes slowly, if at all.

Common sense is a quality many fail to understand.

Newspaper advertising revenues are expected to reach $33 billion this year and broadcast advertising revenues may double that. Is this outlay rightly exempt from taxation? Many think so.

Yet in states where there is still no income tax (as in Florida) sentiment has grown in recent years in favor of a tax on services, as the only way to raise the necessary revenue. This tax hits the business community.

The tax on services' time has not yet come, and one hopes it won't. Yet it is a source of revenue likely to be looked at more and more closely as deficits loom and every possible source of funds is scrutinized. There is even the ominous possibility that federal eyes will eventually focus on such a tax.

Many investors, no doubt, felt the death knell had sounded for the municipal bond market when the U.S. Supreme Court in April stated that the tax-exempt status of munis could be revoked by Congress. However, such has not been the case.

One reason for the resiliency of municipal bonds is the widespread notion that Congress will not act to remove the tax-favored status in the next few years given the public outcry that would develop from such a move.

Also benefiting munis is the idea held by some analysts that munis may benefit from future tax-reform measures, since it is expected that tax rates will eventually be hiked. Such a move would make munis more attractive due to their favorable returns versus taxable investments.

Another factor that has helped support the market is the short supply of municipal bonds. Due to the new guidelines concerning issuance of some types of munis, new-issue volume has fallen substantially. Thus, any buying serves as a prop for the group.

Afternoon Ceremony Unites Miss Pamela Williams, Helton

MR AND MRS JUSTIN HELTON
(nee Pamela Kay Williams)

Miss Pamela Kay Williams became the bride of Justin Debs Helton in a candlelight ceremony Saturday, July 2 at 2 p.m. in the New Covenant Church. Jimmy Low, pastor, read the marriage vows.

Parents of the couple are James Williams of Snyder, Gayle Sisemore of Muleshoe, Laura Helton of Muleshoe, and the late Jerry Helton.

The church was decorated in peach, blue and ivory. Two brass candelabras were on the stage. The stage was outlined in English ivy. Two mother's candles and the unity candle set to the right. The unity candle was homemade and the couple's wedding invitation was placed at the front of the candle. Peach pew bows were attached to all the pews.

Janice Snell, pianist, played "The Wedding Song", "There Is Love", "The Rose", and "Endless Love", all on background tapes.

Given in marriage by her father, James Williams, the bride chose a formal length gown of ivory taffeta trimmed in Alencon lace. The lace, embellished with seed pearls, started at the sweetheart neckline and continued into her form fitting bodice. Her long sleeves, also of taffeta, had appliques of Alencon lace at the top and down around her wrist. The full skirt had appliques scattered down the front and continuing into the back. Alencon lace trimmed the hemline and into the chapel length train.

fellowship hall of the church. Rhonda Low registered the guests. Servers at the bride's table were Tonya Sisemore, step sister of the bride, Michelle Sisemore, also step sister of the bride. Punch was served from a crystal punch bowl.

The bride's cake was three tiered with a staircase leading down both sides to heart shaped cakes. Peach flowers trailed down the sides of the ivory cake. A peach flowing fountain was underneath the cake. Glasses used by the bride and groom were a gift from the groom's mother.

Cheryl Evans, cousin of the groom, served the groom's cake which was a German chocolate.

Rhonda Low served coffee from a brass coffee server.

Out of town wedding guests included James, Paul and Becky Williams of Snyder, father of the bride; Norine Armstrong of McKinney, grandmother of the bride; Hollis and Laura Chandler of Snyder, grandparents of the bride.

Tammy Blair, aunt of the bride, of Lubbock served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Shelly Tunnell of Lenorah and Melissa Nix of Sudan. Junior bridesmaid was Rachel Albus, cousin of the groom, of Baytown.

The attendants wore sapphire blue ball gowns by the designers of Lizette Creations. The gowns featured off the shoulder sweetheart necklines formed by demi-ruffles. The full length softly gathered skirt was accented by a deep ruffle at the hemline.

They carried fresh bouquets designed with sonja roses, peach carnations and baby's breath atop lace fans. Floral hair combs complemented the floral cascades. Other members of the wedding party wore sonja roses and peach carnations.

Library News

by Anne Camp

We are happy to have a young persons art work on display this month. Terry Graves, son of the Bob Graves' has some excellent examples of his talent for you to enjoy.

We will also have on display during the month of August the library's own collection of Muleshoe to celebrate "Mule-Days" and the 75th birthday of Muleshoe, the Mule Memorial city. These were a gift of Margaret Clements to the library.

At the conclusion of another very successful Summer Reading Club at the library, I would like to thank everyone who helped make it such a success. The Friends of the Library did a lot of preliminary work getting sponsors and furnishing all the prizes for the highest readers. The news media who made announcements before and during the program, and I especially appreciate the names of all the participants being published. It means a lot to the boys and girls to see their name or picture in the papers, and there were over 100 names to print! So hats off to the Muleshoe Journal, the Ranger, and to Magann at Channel 6, and to KMUL for announcing the names, a job well done!

I would especially like to thank the sponsors of the program: Sonic, Dairy Queen, Spudnut Shop, Pizza Hut, Fox Video, Perry's, Pay and Save, Thriftway, Fry&Cox, Poynors, and the Muleshoe Swimming Pool. You all helped make reading fun for the kids! I also would like to remind the kids who missed the awards day, that they can still pick up their awards anytime at the library.

you just try harder each time." According to the paramedic, he's had some really funny moments and has also had his very serious moments.

Some of his most vivid memories are of some of the murders, such as the murder of two women by a neighbor a couple of years ago. "That one was really bad," he said.

Also bad was the plane crash involving a small experimental plane.

Those are the memories that are hard to forget for any emergency person, he says.

Alvin outlined living conditions and says he has seen all types of living conditions, ranging from fancy mansions to one room housing six or seven people, and overrun with rats, roaches, and unbathe children.

"It's really hard to realize we have starving people right here, both in Muleshoe and in Lubbock."

Sometimes when Alvin Chatman is driving to Muleshoe, it is right after a very bad night at Lubbock, and numerous ambulance calls. "But when I get to Muleshoe," he said, "the people are nice, it is a different atmosphere, and different surroundings."

"I get a boost come up here," he concluded, "I get re-charged, and ready to face Lubbock again."

When he isn't busy on the ambulance, Alvin enjoys television, and says John Wayne and Chuck Norris are his movie 'heroes.'

He loves basketball, both playing personally, and watching basketball on television.

He wants to take guitar lessons, loves music and will be starting an art class in the fall.

"I was a typical kid," he grins. "I played the violin for a few years, reluctantly, and played the saxophone for five years, with enthusiasm."

Although he does not care for 'Rap' music, he gets lost in Rhythm and Blues. He likes songs with feeling and emotions, and all ballads and easy listening music.

As a teenager, he was a singer, and won third place in a talent contest with Kenny Rogers' "Lady."

His wife of less than a year, Dorothy, is attending school to become an executive secretary, and once she completes school, Alvin plans to attend to become a physical therapist.

Due to some of his injuries, he was in physical therapy, and says he never knew there were so many kids needing physical therapy. "I was humbled by seeing some of the people who were so much worse off than I was," he said.

"I was reminded things can be worse, it's not just the old who die, or are seriously hurt."

Since some of his experiences, Alvin says he tries to make every day the best. To spend the best time he can with his family -- and realize that every day is a gift.

"Tomorrow is not a gift," he says, "Tomorrow is not guaranteed to you. I have picked up a lot of people younger than I am, people who are not here anymore."

He says he has encountered only a small amount of prejudice, even though he feels he is highly visible and is being watched.

"For the most part, people have accepted me for what I represent," he continued. "I give 100 percent, I haven't short-changed anyone."

In his sparetime, Alvin also has other part time jobs. He works in the emergency room at Lubbock General Hospital. He flies with Carelink's fixed wing aircraft and for the past six or seven years, has been a skills instructor for the Texas Tech Health Department.

He is very close to his mother, a retired school teacher. He moved back in with her for awhile after he hurt his knee and says, "we have become real good friends. We laugh and cut up. Mom was always there for me."

His father, Doctor Chatman, died when Alvin was seven, but he was raised around an uncle who was Director of the Lubbock Boys' Club. In fact, Alvin's first, full-time job, was with the Boys' Club.

In his youth, he won numerous awards and scholarships. He was named the John W. Wilson Boy of the Year; was the first State Boy of the Year.

"I had very good role models," he says, "including my brothers, my uncles and my granddad." He says his grandfather, with a ninth grade education, instilled in him to be good, decent and respectable and above all, have respect for others.

His credentials? He is an ACLS Provider; PHTLS Instructor; BLS Instructor; Skills Instructor; and BLS Provider.

He's also a member of a church and the church choir. He plans to become a member of a Lubbock Kiwanis Club and wants to be a member of the Lions Club. "That will be my way of giving something back," he says.

He will start cutting back on some of his activities when he goes back to school. He currently has two years of college, paid for by the Boys Club, through the Lions Club.

Care and dedication command respect! Thanks, Alvin, for what you represent!

French Youth

Marc is in the United States through NATEL -- a Home - Bound program. Through the program, foreign youths stay for a month at a time, usually in the summer months while there is no school, in a private home in the U.S.

Some 5-6,000 students per year come to the United States from Spain, Germany and France to stay in the U.S. and learn about this country.

Mrs. Rasco explained that basically, the 200-300 boys and girls attend schools that are much harder than the ones in the U. S. They spend long hours in school with a lot of homework and the trips to the U. S. are really a 'vacation' from their school books for a month.

Marc, who has a 15 year old brother and an eight year old sister, says his family is already well-traveled. His brother is also visiting in Texas and his sister is presently in Greece with his mother.

Marc's father buys old buildings, remodels them and sells them for a good profit.

He is the equivalent, at age 14, of a junior in high school should he be attending school in the U.S.

During his previous travels, he has visited Switzerland and England and lived for three years in Spain.

He is amazed at the lack of tall buildings, such as can be found in New York, and expressed his fondness for French food -- which he says he misses very much.

He is not very impressed by American cheeses -- saying what is sold in the U. S. for cheese is not cheese at all.

He was raised very traditionally, with the proper use of a knife and fork at a dining table, and does not really understand eating fried chicken or pork chops with his fingers, said Mrs. Rasco. She also said he eats slowly, because he has been taught to very carefully cut his food into small pieces before putting it into his mouth.

Mrs. Rasco said she believes that is why he is thin -- although he disputed that theory.

He was quick to say that he does like pizza -- and says he is surprised that Americans use so much canned foods, especially vegetables.

Vegetables in France are purchased fresh, he says, and the vegetables are different over there.

He said French people eat a lot of seafood, and said he had not had much opportunity to eat much seafood in the U.S.

According to Marc, it is easy to recognize American tourists in France, because they dress differently from the French people, and they are 'fatter.'

He was very surprised to find people in the U. S. so much 'fatter' than people of his home country.

Wild Animals Still Main Rabies Carriers

Summer in Texas usually includes increased outdoor activities. Fishing, camping and hiking, whether on public land or on private retreats, are popular both for native Texans and for vacationers from other states.

And besides the benefits of the fresh air and exercise, the outdoors offers an opportunity to watch abundant wildlife, including some species which are unique to this state.

Except in remote areas where one may glimpse a rare mountain lion, bobcat or wolf, there are a few warm-blooded animals which are naturally threatening to humans.

Health (TDH) cautions that even a squirrel or raccoon can be dangerous, if handled. A bite or scratch from any animal can become seriously infected, but it is wild animals which are the primary carriers of rabies. When people or domestic animals contract the disease, it is usually through contact with an infected wild animal, according to Dr. Foy V. McCasland, Chief of the TDH Bureau of Veterinary Public Health.

TDH laboratories in Austin, Houston, San Antonio, and El Paso diagnosed 432 cases of rabies in 10,748 animal specimens during 1987. Only 69 of those cases (29 dogs, 19 cats, 13 cows, 6 horses, and 2 goats) were domestic animals. The remaining cases included 278 skunks, 66 bats, 15 foxes, three raccoons, and one armadillo.

School Board Has Big Agenda

For Monday Meet

Monday night, tomorrow, at 7:30 p.m., the board of trustees of the Muleshoe Independent School District will be meeting in regular session, with a very full agenda to consider.

After formal opening ceremonies, the following informational reports were given:

Faculty health self-insured program; drug prevention canine program update; and consider semester exams.

Under business items are the following to consider: approval of items to be placed on 1988-89 priority list; accepting bids on milk products for the 1988-89 school year; accepting bids on gasoline products for the 1988-89 school year; approving athletic insurance for the 1988-89 school year; setting lunch and breakfast prices; amendment to Employee Travel Reimbursement Policy; and approval of canine drug prevention program for 1988-89 school year.

Under personnel action are resignations; employment contracts; stipends for new teacher orientation; salary structure for cafeteria cooks; employment of teaching assistants for 1988-89 school year; and to consider appointing interim superintendent.

Special reports will be given on a review of 1988-89 school budget and information on insurance settlement.

There were no cases of rabies in humans reported during the year.

It will be an individual tournament, with both a junior and a senior division.

Sign-ups start at 6:30 p.m. and the tournament begins promptly at 8 p.m. ***

A proud grandmother reported that her son, Josh Otwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Otwell, was one of the All-Star players on the Mustang baseball team.

His name was not released when the All-Star names were first given to The Journal. ***

July 24-29, four Muleshoe firemen and the local fire marshal will be attending the annual Texas Fireman-Fire Marshal Training School.

Alton Parker will take Public Safety Emergency Service Dispatcher; Jimmy Mills, fire marshal, will take Fire Prevention III; Larry Rasco will take Mass Casualty Transportation Emergencies; and Ralph Sanchez will take Firefighting II.

J. O. Parker, Muleshoe training officer, will attend the school as one of A&M's training officers in Agro-Rescue.

Dr. McCasland said, "Since there is no approved rabies vaccine for wild animals, and since these animals are likely to bite or scratch sooner or later, they should not be adopted as pets." He especially advised against handling wild animals showing abnormal behavior, such as those showing no fear for man and those observed in unusual places at unusual times. Such behavior is a clue that the animal may be rabid.

Pets should be vaccinated to protect them and their owners. State law requires that all dogs and cats four months old and older must be vaccinated annually against rabies.

"If you are bitten by a wild animal, it should be tested at TDH for rabies. If the animal is a dog or cat, it should be isolated and closely observed for ten days," Dr. McCasland said. Dogs and cats cannot transmit rabies more than ten days before they show symptoms of the disease. All bites should be reported to the local health authority, which will provide specific advice and assistance.

"Any animal bite wound should be immediately cleansed with soap and water and a physician contacted. The physician will determine the appropriate treatment," Dr. McCasland added.

Adding Compost May Improve Soil Fertility

Adding organic matter such as compost to soil can improve soil fertility in home gardens, said a soil chemist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Organic matter serves to 'open up' a clay soil, thus improving drainage and aeration," said Dr. Michael G. Hickey, soil chemist and director of the Extension Soil Testing Laboratory in Lubbock. Hickey added that in sandy soils, compost increases water holding capacity.

Compost is refuse such as leaves, small prunings, weeds, vegetable matter from the kitchen and grass clippings which have been converted into a "synthetic manure."

"In our region, grass clippings will predominate," said Hickey. He noted that compost from clippings will be high in nitrogen, depending on lawn fertilization practices.

Hickey said that a home gardener can construct a compost pile by spreading out a four-inch layer of refuse in a three-foot square area. They should cover this layer with enough soil to fill a two-pound coffee can. This allows microorganisms from the soil to break down the refuse. To stimulate these microorganisms, a quarter cup of ammonium sulfate fertilizer should be added to the pile. The home gardener should repeat these steps until a desired depth is reached, noted Hickey.

"The pile should be turned in two to three weeks," Hickey said. New clippings which are added should be mixed with the older refuse. A layer of the older material should also be placed over the top.

The compost will be ready in three months or sooner, depending on the type of refuse, temperature, or moisture, said Hickey.

To utilize the compost, the home gardener should spread about five bushels of the material over 1000 square feet and mix it thoroughly into the soil, Hickey said.

Understanding

"So you want to try that proof-reader job on the Woodmen of the World Magazine, eh?"

"Yes, sir."

"And do you understand all the responsibility attached to it?"

"Yes, sir, when you make a mistake, I take all the blame."

Out on the JOB WATCH UP FOR POWER LINES

Out on the job, power lines bring needed electricity to the site. But they can be dangerous... if you don't watch up! You need to be especially careful when you are handling re-bar, pipes, scaffolding, or tools that are long enough to contact overhead lines. Contact with power lines is also a potential danger to operators of front-end loaders, dump trucks and any other equipment of unusual height.

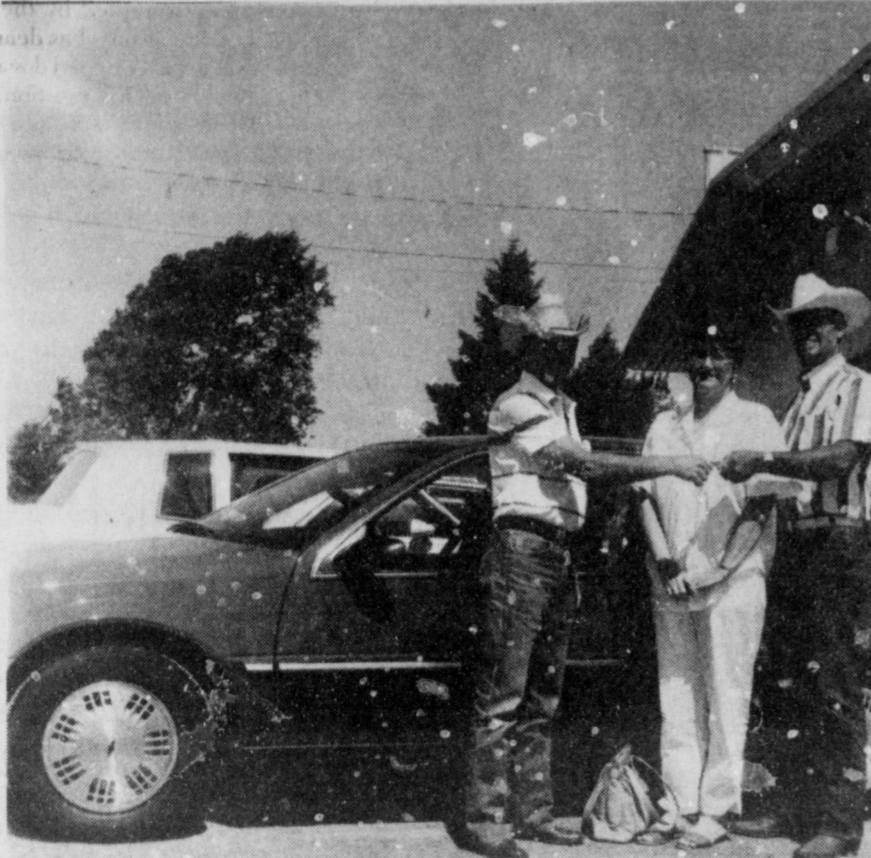

Keep an eye up for power lines. Watch up, for safety's sake.

Basketball Plans Kiwanis Topic

By: R. A. Bradley

Fifteen Kiwanians and eight guests met Friday morning at the Old Corral with President Keith Turner calling the meeting to order. Glen Morris led the club in the pledge to the flag and R. A. Bradley gave the invocation.

James Roy Jones said that since Merlyn Neel had sold out the Cable TV system, he would now need a friend, so the friendship coin was given to Merlyn Neel.

Guests Friday morning were Wade Littlefield, Jeana Littlefield, Dane Swinburn, Dale Berry, Michael Neel, Melissa Toombs, Carrol Copley, Charla Holt and April Watkins.

Melissa, Carrol, Charla and April represented the Bailey County 4-H Exchange Club. Lyndon Huckaby presented the 4-H club with a check for $200.

Keith told that the Kiwanis Club sponsored the K-Bars baseball team and they were first this year. Congratulations to the K-Bars in this.

Lyndon introduced the program for the morning. Wade Littlefield and his lovely wife, Jeana.

Jeana is a speech teacher at Morton this year. Wade is the boys' basketball coach. Wade told about some of his plans for the Muleshoe basketball team.

Wade was able to get the gyms open this summer and has held basketball camps. Right now, the camp is for second grade through seventh grade. About 75-80 boys are involved in this camp.

Wade gave his plans to set the 3-D's in his program -- Defense, Discipline and Devotion (Dedication).

Coach Littlefield said he wants to stress Defense very strong. A good strong defense can keep you in the game even through you may be out-matched.

Discipline is not just discipline on the court, but to discipline your body and mind. If there may be a certain place on the court that you are capable of making a goal, then discipline your mind to be there and shoot.

Devotion (Dedication) is to set your priorities. If basketball is one of your priorities, then be devoted to it.

Wade hopes to turn the basketball program for boys around here in Muleshoe.

Let's all support Wade and the Muleshoe Mules.

Dale Berry, pastor for the Trinity Baptist Church, was installed by R. A. Bradley as a new member of the Kiwanis Club.

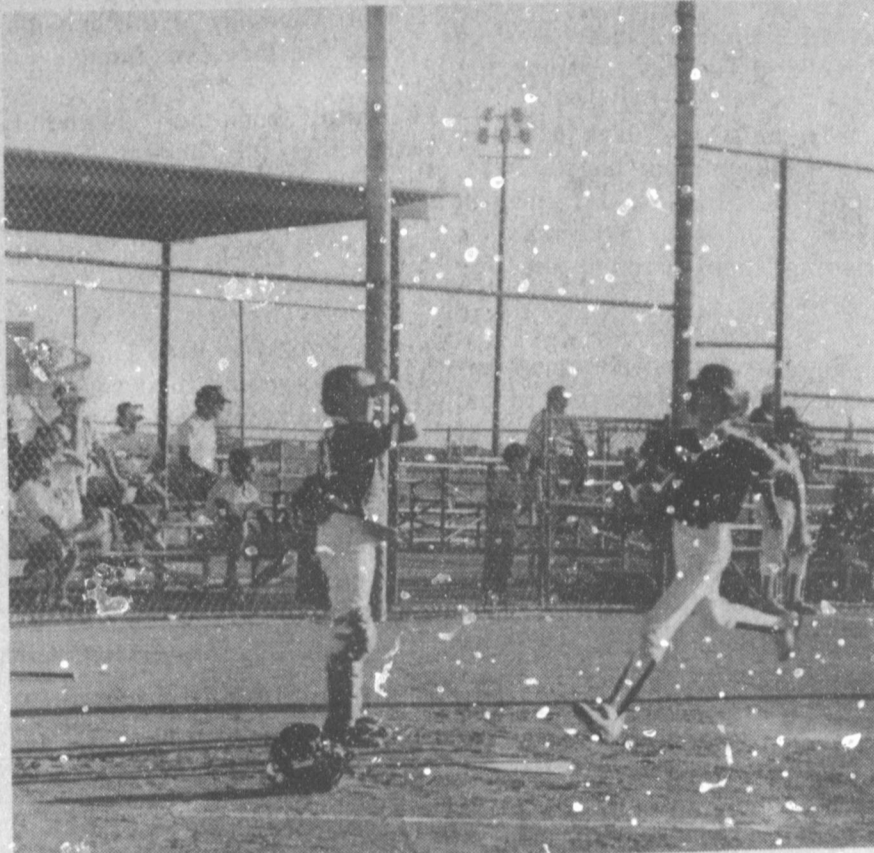

"We are proud to welcome Dale to the Kiwanis Club and also welcome Dale, his wife, Pam and Rhyann to Muleshoe."

Arntzen heads Texas A&M agriculture program as deputy chancellor/dean

COLLEGE STATION — Dr. Charles J. Arntzen, former head of Du Pont's agricultural biotechnology research and a member of the prestigious National Academy of Sciences, has assumed the duties of deputy chancellor of agriculture for The Texas A&M University System and dean of agriculture for Texas A&M University.

Creation of the deputy chancellor/dean position was prompted by the retirement of Dr. H.O. Kunkel as dean of agriculture. Kunkel has stepped down as dean after 20 years in that position, although he will continue to serve as a professor in the Texas A&M nutrition program that he started.

Darin Shaw Gets Honors By Academy

The United States Achievement Academy announced that Darin Eugene Shaw has been named a United States National Collegiate Award winner in Physical Education and Biology Certification.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain, says the USAA. In fact, the Academy said they recognize less than 10 percent of all American college students.

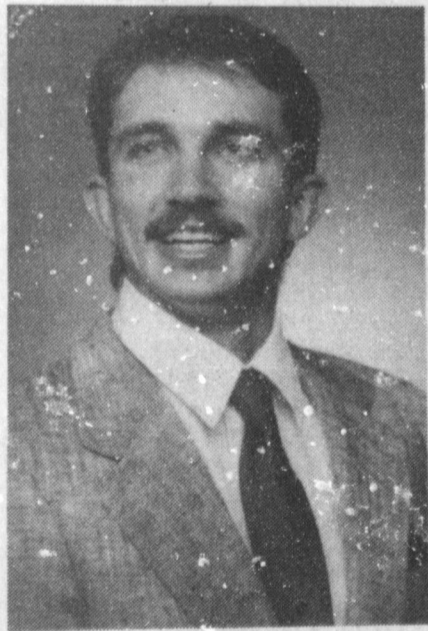

Darin Shaw, who attends Texas Tech University, was nominated for this National Award by Dr. Mary Owens, a teacher and advisor at the school. Darin will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Collegiate Yearbook, published nationally.

Darin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Shaw. His grandparents are Lucille Myers of Levelland and Virgie Shaw of Farwell.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly United States Achievement Academy award winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, executive director of the United States Achievement Academy.

He said the Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of professors, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy.

The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a professor or director.

TAKE A HEFTY SWING AND RUN--Chad McCormick (at bat) is releasing the bat after connecting following a heftly swing at the ball during the 12-year-old All-Star tournament at Amarillo. Aggie Muster to be televised live

COLLEGE STATION — Aggies throughout the country will be able to observe the Texas A&M University campus-based Muster ceremony live via satellite at 8 p.m. April 21.

Aggie Muster, held each April 21, symbolizes the great loyalty that binds Aggies together. The traditional gathering unites Aggies throughout the world as they honor the students and former students that have died during the past year with a roll call of the absent, candle-lighting ceremony and a rifle salute.

Satellite receivers can pick up the program from the Westar IV satellite on Channel 11 — Transponder 6D.

A 15-minute program prior to the actual ceremony will highlight progress at Texas A&M during the 1980s.

A VISIT TO THE FARM

Remember those wonderful carefree days when we visited the old farm. We awoke with the sun, scampering out of bed, not wanting to miss a single minute playing in the corn fields or even doing chores like feeding Grandpa's horses. And with a cane pole over our shoulder walking down the dusty lanes toward the cool shady stock tank and an hour's fishing before Grandmother called us in to a real farm style supper.

Can we forget those quiet Sunday mornings as we rode the wagon into town to the small church and bowed our heads and thanked God for the rich harvest we had reaped from His fertile earth.

The days of our childhood are but warm memories now; but the peace we knew as children in that small country church can still be found today. Renew your pledge to God and once again enjoy the rich bountiful harvest His church can bring into your life.
