Little Hope Is Held For 26 In Submarine

Rescue Work Goes On, However, After 33 Are Saved

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 27 (AP)—Although admitting only the barest possibility existed there still was life on the sunken submarine Squalus, Rear Admiral C. W. Cole announced today after asserting: "We never say die until all hope is lost."

Temperature Drop

In pointing out there was little hope for the 26 men still trapped on the ill-fated submarine, Cole said the submarine temperature dropped 27 degrees since the craft went down Tuesday and that it tilted sharply when water flooded the after part.

Above the sunken craft a stretch of water with a radius of two-thirds of a mile has been marked off by buoys and no vessels will be permitted near the rescue ship Falcon unless they have official business.

Lieutenant Oliver F. Naquin, commander of the Squalus and the last of the survivors to leave her, came ashore today with the other seven crew members who were trapped for four hours last night after the rescue bell became fouled on its final upward trip from the sunken vessel.

Charles Smith Kuey, yeoman of Tulare, Calif., was borne on a stretcher from the coast guard patrol boat Harriet Lane, up the gang plank, and thence between solid ranks of marines, to a waiting ambulance.

The other crew members appeared in good condition, however, walking briskly to the ambulances that awaited them.

All were removed to the Portsmouth naval hospital to be placed under medical care, with shipmates who had preceded them, as a precaution against pneumonia.

While there was rejoicing throughout the country over the rescue of 33 men, a grim, silent atmosphere prevailed in this city as preparations to remove the bodies got underway.

But for the sad job and raising the disabled vessel, the navy had completed, with the first use of the new nine-ton escape bell, one of the most dramatic underwater rescues in the annals of the sea.

Four times the huge, grotesque, appearing apparatus was lowered over the side of the submarine rescue ship Falcon. Three times it came up smoothly and promptly carrying men from the gloom in which they had spent more than 30 hours.

Then, on the fourth trip, something went wrong. A cable fouled and held the last eight survivors suspended midway between the muddy bottom and the surface.

Finally, four hours later, the giant apparatus was freed and the last men stepped to the deck of the Falcon.

As the rescued men left the big bell, they stepped into a decompression chamber.

Then, as they recovered from cold and pressure changes they were brought ashore.

Disabled shortly after 8:40 a. m.

SNYDER MAN NAMED TO SUCCEED GENTRY IN SCHOOL POST

King J. Sides Chosen By Trustees From List Of More Than 60 Applicants

Assistant superintendent of the Big Spring schools next year will be King J. Sides, now principal of the high school at Snyder.

He was elected by the board of trustees Wednesday evening, following an interview, after board members, Supt. W. C. Blankenship and Principal George Gentry had agreed upon him as the most likely of more than 60 applicants.

Sides will assume his duties here next fall, as successor to George Gentry, who has accepted a post as principal of the Temple junior college.

Graduate of the Goldthwaite high school in 1923, Sides holds a B. A. degree from Texas Technological college (1930), and a master's degree from Columbia university (1935). His major at Tech was in education, and at Columbia in educational administration. He plans to do additional work in Columbia this summer.

Sides has had 13 years' experience in the public schools, five as a classroom teacher, five as elementary and high school principal and three as superintendent. He was elementary principal at Snyder in 1930-31, then was called back there in 1935 as high school principal, and has held the post since. Snyder trustees had rejected him for next year.

He was superintendent of schools at Hurliwood in 1932-33, at Andrews in 1933-34, and at Presidio in 1934-35. The new assistant superintendent is a member of the Texas State Teachers association, and holds a life membership in the National Education association. He was a member of the Scholarship society at Tech.

Sides, as assistant to Blankenship, will be primarily in charge of instruction in all the schools, and in coordination of elementary and high school activities.

Farm Folk Greet King

REGINA, May 27 (Canadian Press)—Farm folk by the thousands—many of them from the 1938 drought lands of the province—crowded into Saskatchewan's capital today to see the king and queen.

They were a cheerful horde of visitors, happy over Wednesday's heavy rainfall that meant much to their newly-sown wheat, and they were ready to join provincial and civil officials in a great demonstration of welcome to their majesties.

Business-Aid Tax Program Is Drafted

Morgenthau Says Proposal Ready For Congress

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau reported today congressional leaders had agreed on a tax program with the president that would "definitely" contribute to business recovery.

Details Complete
The treasury head said the tax conference held at the White House yesterday cleared up final details of a corporation tax revision program and that no further conferences were expected.

He replied with an emphatic "yes" when asked if the tax program was ready to go before congress.

He added, however, that he did not yet know on what date the house ways and means committee would summon him to present the plan.

The president conferred yesterday with Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the senate finance committee, Senator Byrnes (D-SC) and Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn).

Morgenthau said he could report "more progress has been made in the last couple of days than was made in the last couple of months towards a solution of the tax problem."

He added "goodwill all around" was responsible for the agreement after months of conflicting statements by the president, treasury officials, legislators and others as to what ought or could be done about taxes to help business.

Morgenthau explained that when the house committee calls him to testify he will make a general statement about tax revision, then Undersecretary John W. Hanes will take charge of the treasury's participation in the tax hearings.

Hanes is a former Wall Street broker and former member of the securities commission who has been active for more than a year in promoting friendship between the administration and businessmen.

HOUSE ADOPTS TAX REMISSION PLAN, BUT CUTS PAYMENTS TO COUNTIES ONE HALF

3 PLEAD GUILTY, 7 INNOCENT, IN MURDER PLOT

PHILADELPHIA, May 25 (AP)—In the largest mass arraignment in Philadelphia court history, three men pleaded guilty and seven men and women pleaded innocent today to charges that they murdered five men in a mass plot to collect insurance.

Those pleading guilty will appear before a court of three judges, who will hear evidence and fix punishment. The seven who denied any guilt will be tried, perhaps in groups. The trials were expected to start next week.

Morris Bolber, who detectives charge was an "executive" of the widespread syndicate, was the first brought before Judge Albert S. C. Millar.

He pleaded "guilty generally" to the murder of Roman Mandluk, a baker. Mandluk's exhumed body showed traces of four poisons.

Bolber pleaded innocent, however, to an indictment charging him with a part in the drowning of Raffaele Caruso, a cripple.

David Brandt, bespectacled little typewriter salesman, indicted also in Mandluk's death, almost shouted "not guilty" to the accusations.

Mandluk's widow, Agnes, also denied she had a part in her husband's death.

Fearful and shaking, Mrs. Christina Cerrone was led before the court to answer murder and manslaughter charges in the Caruso drowning. Caruso, a bondier in her home, drowned in the Schuylkill river several years ago.

His landlady shook her head vigorously and pleaded innocent.

The next plea of guilty came from Samuel Sortino. He acknowledged charges he participated in Caruso's drowning.

Cesare Valenti, huge Italian who came to the United States 30 years ago, entered a plea of innocent to all indictments charging him with murder of Charles Favato, common-law mate of a widow who previously pleaded guilty to poisoning him, her step-son, and another man.

Murder and manslaughter indictments in the Caruso drowning also were read to Paul Petrillo, South Philadelphia tailor who detectives charged practiced witchcraft as a mask for plotting insurance killings.

Measure Now Goes Back To The Senate

Three And Three Quarter Millions Would Be Distributed

AUSTIN, May 25 (AP)—The senate state affairs committee today set a public hearing on the house approved omnibus tax bill for next Tuesday at 2 p. m.

AUSTIN, May 25 (AP)—The house of representatives approved today a bill previously passed by the senate remitting state ad valorem taxes to counties for five years. The vote on final passage was 85 to 53.

85 Votes Amended?
The house amended the senate bill, however, to remit only one-half such taxes, and the measure must go back to the upper legislative chamber for further action.

Question as to whether the 85 favorable votes were sufficient for final passage, or under the constitution two-thirds of the entire membership was necessary, was raised and overruled by Speaker Emmett Morse of Houston.

Morse said that was a point for the courts to interpret.

Sponsor of the bill in the house, Rep. Howard Hartzog of Port Lavaca, estimated approximately $3,750,000 taxes would be turned back to the counties, under the amended house measure.

Reimbursement of all the state ad valorem taxes as advocated by the senate, would amount to about $7,500,000, he said.

Meanwhile, the senate, gripped in a filibuster against the "fair trade" act passed by the house weeks ago, suddenly adjourned until Monday.

In addition to approving a general tax revision, the house finally passed a senate bill licensing and regulating the mattress and bedding industry, but because of amendments this bill also must return to the senate.

'BONUS' PAID FOR SERVICE ON SUBS

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 25 (AP)—A "bonus" goes with submarine service in the U. S. navy, but it's the "spirit of adventure" that attracts men to the undersea craft.

"An unusual occupation—there's something catchy about it," observed a veteran naval officer in this port.

A majority of the men on "subs" are volunteers for this service—and only those "physically and temperamentally" fitted are accepted.

On the "fleet type" of undersea craft like the Squalus—one that operates from a mother ship—the "bonus" ranges from $10 to $30 a month.

Years ago the men were paid $1 a day.

More Showers Are Forecast

Refreshed by a thundershower Wednesday evening, Big Spring and area looked hopefully for more precipitation Thursday.

Showers were forecast for West Texas Thursday night and Friday by the weather bureau.

Heaviest rainfall was reported at the U. S. department of commerce weather bureau at the airport where a veritable cloudburst poured out 1.87 inches in less than half an hour. Only a mile to the north and east, the U. S. experiment farm registered .60 of an inch.

The western half of the city experienced blinding rains, accompanied by high winds, while the eastern section got about three-quarters of an inch.

North of town the currently favored "rain belt" came in for sprinkles and a maximum of a quarter of an inch. Abilene reported heavy showers again. Laredo had .25 of an inch, accompanied by severe lightning. Other rain reported included: Corpus Christi, .26; Clarendon, .44; Crosbyton, .44; Eastland, .18; Uvalde, .48; Spur, .38; Snyder, .20; Haskell, .40; and Memphis, .28.

DIES WANTS MORE FUNDS FOR FURTHER UNAMERICAN PROBE

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The house committee on un-American activities soon will ask for a $50,000 increase in its $100,000 appropriation, Chairman Dies (D-Tex) said today, so "we can go into subversive activities more thoroughly."

Referring to testimony of an anti-Semitic campaign purported to be based on fears of a revolution, Dies said:

"That was just a tidbit of the stuff we've got and we've got to have more money to carry on the work. Last year, with only $25,000 to work with, we were criticized for not bringing a lot of these people in."

"I asked for $150,000 this year, but some members of the house who thought they knew more than I did, arranged it so that we got only $100,000.

DR. MAYO RALLIES FROM PNEUMONIA

CHICAGO, May 25 (AP)—Dr. Charles H. Mayo, the distinguished Rochester, Minn., surgeon, rallied somewhat today in his fight against pneumonia.

One of his five physicians, Dr. Walter McGuire of Chicago, reports the 73-year-old patient grew stronger after his son, Dr. Charles W. Mayo, donated a quantity of blood at Mercy hospital last night.

"I am satisfied with Dr. Mayo's condition right now," Dr. McGuire said. "It is going to be a close fight."

Kiwanis Wives Run Program

Bewildered, coatless Kiwanians scraped and bowed as they entered the Crawford Hotel banquet room for their regular weekly luncheon today and found the tables surrounded by their wives.

The affair was a surprise program in observance of the club's 10th anniversary. Mrs. Bernard Fisher presided and dedicated the hour to charter members of the organization.

Following Mrs. Fisher's explanation of the program, the ladies took the floor and introduced their Kiwanians, concluding their remarks with the presentation of the most undesirable gift they could offer.

Musical numbers, popular at the time the club's charter was formed, were offered by Elsie Jeanette Barnett, and Mrs. W. D. Cornelson rendered two vocal selections, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Harry Hurt.

Mrs. Fisher told that the ladies of the club had raised $100.00 for the club's 10th anniversary.

W. H. Coots Is Death Victim

William Henderson (Bill) Coots, 71, a resident of Big Spring for three decades, succumbed at his home at 103 Donley street Thursday following a prolonged illness.

Coots moved his family here 31 years ago and made his home on the Donley street place almost continuously. For the past 10 years he had been unable to work and three years ago he suffered the loss of his sight.

W. H. Coots Is Death Victim

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Dutch Henry and Mrs. W. F. Mims of Big Spring and Mrs. B. F. Althart of Knott; five sons, J. H. Coots, G. D. Coots, J. J. Coots and W. H. Coots of Big Spring, and G. V. Coots of Dallas; 14 grand children and two great-grandchildren.

Services were set for 4 p. m. Friday at the East Fourth Baptist church with Rev. W. S. Garrett, pastor, in charge and Rev. Simmons, Nazarene minister, assisting. Burial was to be in the Mt. Olive cemetery beside the grave of his wife, who died in December 1928. Until time for the services the body was to lie in state at the family home.

Palbearers were to be Alfred Collins, Jones Lamar, J. P. Petty, Dee Foster, Jim Cauble, and Jean Crenshaw.

CONVICTS HOLD SECRET TO FATAL STABBING; TWO OR MORE MAY HAVE FIGURED IN CRIME

They stood quietly while Palmer was killed. So deft was Palmer's assassin that prison authorities have not found the knife with which Palmer, twice convicted of murder, was stabbed five times.

Prison officials did not know whether one man or five slashed Palmer with the keen-edged knives convicts make of files and secured in their clothing.

RETRIEVE PRISON FARM, ANGLETON, MAY 25 (AP)—Four hundred criminals trotted silently to their work today on this steamship swamped prison farm knowing that among them hid convict Richard A. Palmer's killer.

None dared, if he knew, to reveal the name of the man or men who butchered Palmer, a 36-year-old lifer, as he stood in their midst yesterday before they started to jog down the road to the cotton fields.

They explained fear that has hushed the tongues of the 400 desperados ordinarily is not spread by one man. Perhaps, the authorities reasoned, two or more men held Palmer while others jabbed him with the knives.

Even Palmer, often punished during the three years he has been in prison, did not cry out. He limped off alone to the prison hospital and died without uttering a word.

All convicts gave the same answer.

Submarine

Tuesday morning, when an air induction valve failed to close and poured tons of water into the after compartments, the Squalus lay on an even keel at the bottom and the men in the forward compartments "took it easy" throughout the long hours to conserve the oxygen.

After telephone communication with the surface was broken the men settled down to a long wait. Then, for hours, the navy massed its strength for rescue efforts. Finally at about noon yesterday the rescue bell dropped over the submarine and touched the escape chamber of the Squalus.

The connection was made and blankets and hot soup handed into the sub to ease the biting cold.

Stabbing

None saw the stabbing which took place while the farm captain counted off, army style, the squads of horses and sent them down the road to work in the blazing sun.

Grinly guards recalled today the words of James McAllister, who was executed, partially because of the testimony of Palmer in the hitch-hiker slaying of Percy Calkins, Houston salesman.

McAllister said: "I've got too many friends. Palmer won't be safe in any prison and he won't live much longer than I do."

There, guards theorized, might lie a motive for the strange prison slaying.

Work On Pact Nearing The Final Phase

The Associated Press reports that the British government was reported today to have opened the final phase of negotiations for a British-French-Russian mutual aid pact by sending Moscow a note containing new proposals.

Prime Minister Chamberlain indicated yesterday he hoped to announce "full agreement" within two weeks.

Renewed progress of the long-stalemated negotiations for bringing Russia into the British-French line-up evoked new accusations that Britain openly had confessed "faith in the encirclement policy" and the charge she had precluded "further cooperation of the big powers for peaceful solution of existing problems."

to rest except for an occasional platform appearance.

They stopped at Brandon, Manitoba, last night for what their spokesman said was the "most impressive welcome their majesties have met."

Nearly 50,000 persons crowded the Brandon platform, although the town population is only 17,000, while the king and queen mounted a reviewing stand.

The cheers were so loud and so affected the queen one person thought he detected tears as she boarded the train.

A volunteer guard of honor formed a well along the platform. It had been rainy and cool in Winnipeg yesterday but Brandon was clear and warm. The king apparently had expected chilly weather for he wore a dark grey topcoat. The queen wore the victorian blue ensemble in which she departed Winnipeg.

The Regina program included a drive to city hall for formal welcome, signing of the city register by the king and queen, a tea at Royal Canadian Mounted Police headquarters and a state dinner at government house.

CASE IS NEAR JURY

MONAHANS, May 25 (AP)—Trial of Hugo White on a charge of murder in the killing of F. G. Weaver of Royalty was expected to reach the jury by tonight.

The state contended White shot Weaver and stuffed his body into the trunk of his automobile. White made a statement after his arrest admitting the slaying.

INJURED IN CRASH

Richard Griffin of this city was treated at the Malons & Hogan Clinic-Hospital Thursday morning for scalp lacerations received when the car he was driving on the north highway crashed into a bridge abutment. Griffin escaped more serious injuries when he was thrown from the car.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and soon be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking away acids and poisons from the blood. Most people pass about 2 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passage—with aching and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. This causes nerve pain, backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

TEXAS' NO 1 PROBLEM

Because this is Cotton Week, a time when every Texan ought to be thinking more seriously about the ills of our major crop, The Herald reprints some pertinent observations by E. J. Kyle, dean of the school of agriculture of Texas A. & M. college, as they appeared in a recent issue of the ACCO Press.

For over sixty years the economic and social structure of this state has been dependent upon cotton. In all the history of this country there has never been any one industry as important to the entire economic and social structure of a state as cotton has been to Texas.

There are some of the reasons why cotton is important to Texas: 1. There are 1,775,000 people living on cotton farms in Texas. These constitute over 70 per cent of all our agricultural people, including those living on stock farms and ranches.

2. Our cotton farmers have been receiving over 61 per cent of the cash income from all agricultural products, including livestock. 3. In 1923 the cash income to our farmers from cotton was $748,605,000.

4. For a ten year consecutive period, 1922 to 1931, the annual cash income to our farmers from cotton averaged $438,000,000. Practically all of this money was spent in Texas. It went into and vitalized practically every avenue and channel of business. It touched and favorably influenced practically every citizen.

Here are some of the reasons why the present cotton situation becomes such a serious problem to every Texan: 1. Texas produced in 1923 farm crops valued at $1,064,775,000 which accounted for 18.2 per cent of the total crop values of the nation.

2. In 1923 the cash income to our farmers from cotton was $748,605,000. This was a loss of $76,206,000, or only 6.04 per cent of the total national wealth in farm crops as compared with 18.2 per cent in 1923. This was also 10.7 per cent less than Iowa, instead of 123 per cent more as in 1923.

3. It is, of course, impossible to even approximate the loss that has come to our gins, oil mills, compresses, transportation lines, merchants, bankers, the cotton trade, etc. 4. The consequences: 1. The acres planted to cotton in Texas in 1923 were 19,000,000 acres. For a ten year period, 1922-1931, there was an average of 16,312,000 acres planted to cotton.

2. The acreage fell to a little over 12,000,000 acres in 1931 and to less than 10,000,000 acres for 1932. This is a loss of about 9,000,000 acres from the peak or about 6,000,000 acres for the ten year period. If this loss is not checked soon, the amount of land that will eventually go out of cotton will, in my judgment, amount to some ten or twelve million acres. For what is this land going to be used? Everyone knows that it will go into poultry and dairying, and on a much larger scale so far as acreage is concerned, into cattle and sheep production.

How To Torture Your Wife

THE OLD BOYS DRESSER AFTER THE LITTLE WOMAN HAS BEEN AWAY TWO DAYS

Queen Mary At 72, Remains Busy, Was On Mission Of State When Injured In Crash

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN AP Feature Service Writer

LONDON—Tall, dignified Queen MAY-re, as the English pronounce it, is working very hard for a person who will be 72 on May 26.

She is, in fact, one of the busiest members of the royal family. Her pace would exhaust many a younger person. It is little less strenuous, in some respects, than in the days when she was reigning by the side of King George V.

The Queen was on a mission of state this week when her car was in collision with a truck. She suffered an eye injury, but her condition was not regarded as serious. In addition to her numerous public appearances, she has assumed the responsibility during the absence of the King and Queen in North America of keeping an eye on her little "pupils"—Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret—who are learning many of the queenly arts at their grandmother's knee.

Queen Mary could easily have retired from public life, with the full approval of a grateful nation, after the death of her husband on Jan. 20, 1936. But she announced: "Although he will be no longer at my side—and no words can tell how I shall miss him—I trust that with God's help I may still be able to continue some part at least of the service which for 42 years of happy married life we tried together to give to this great land and empire."

Kept Back Stage Ten and a half months later came the bitter sorrow of the agricultural industries threatens to completely upset the heretofore fairly well-balanced agricultural economy of the state.

2. The farm and ranch lands of this state now carry about $500,000,000 in mortgages. The payments on the farms are now paid largely from government subsidies. There are now over 600 farms in this state being foreclosed on annually. What is going to happen when these government subsidies stop?

3. What is going to happen to the thousands of people being forced off these farms? Part of them are going on relief to add to the financial burdens of our state and nation; others are going into labor's ranks to further upset an already troubled labor situation. This is, of course, a very gloomy picture, but it has been created by the enumeration of facts and figures from reliable sources. I have no hesitation in saying that it is by far the most vital and serious economic and social problem ever to confront the people of this state.

On The Record

DEATH OF A POET

Ernest Toller was a poet, and he came of age in the twentieth century. It is almost the whole of his life that he lived with nerves and with imagination. The poet's nerves are a sort of radio sending and receiving station; they quiver with waves which leave the world undisturbed. It is the joy and the agony of the poet to feel more than what happens to himself; to feel and respond to what happens to people he has never met, never seen, far away, nothing too far away.

It is the curse of his imagination to see—to see, though staring at a blank wall. To see forward and back, in the present, what was and what is coming. When joy and peace are the routine of the times he is the most joyous, the most expansive; when conflict and violence are his routine, he is wounded a thousand times and felled with a thousand blows.

If he is very great the blows temper him into a blade sharp enough to cut through all confusion. If he is very great he becomes judgment when all judgment is suspended. Such a one was Dante. Toller was not very great. But he was wholly poet.

He was not great enough for the awful violence of the times in which he lived. Who is? He looked upon the world with torn-open, incredulous eyes. They opened to the end incredulous eyes. They looked eagerly for beauty, serenity, dignity, justice, truth. What they saw appalled them. Toller was appalled to death.

There was the youth, hastening home from golden student days in France, hastening home to Germany to join his regiment, to fight Germany's war. He was a German and a Jew. In 1914 all German. In 1914 European, educated and cultivated beyond the average, but, in the critical moment, a child of the soil that bred him. He was not in the war long. He was gravely wounded.

But he had seen the trenches—the mud and the barbed wire and the cold officer—bureaucratic barking eyes, and about to die, and the comradeship, the and the common wretched humanity.

Crippled behind the lines, he saw the war snatch the bread from the mouths of children—the bellies bloated with turnips; the women handing their own scrap of meringue across the table to the smallest one.

He saw what was before his eyes and what was not before his eyes—telegraphed to those sensitive nerve ends, beating on them intolerably. Peace! Peace with Victory! Peace without Victory! What was any longer victory or not victory in this shambles that the world had become, this blindness, stumbling and falling in its own excitement? To stop it—to stop it before it stumbled and fell for the last time!

His fatherland now was out there in the mud, and among the prisoners parading daily months on end, years on end, in the prison camps. His fatherland now was a race of men who spoke English and French and German, and cursed the war and prayed for peace.

So he helped organize the munitions strike. Some one had got to help stop this war. The soldiers came home. There was revolution in the air. When soldiers come home from a long war there is always revolution in the air.

The revolution is a fantasy, a poet's fantasy—"Shall we not shatter it to bits and then remould it nearer to the heart's desire?" And what was the heart's desire? Brotherhood. The comradeship of the trenches, in the prosperity and serenity of peace. The sword into a ploughshare, the sharing of everything among everybody, the eternal dream.

Eloquence is the poet's gift. Toller had a childlike radiance. The masses listened to him. But revolution is not a universal Easter. It is violence. Revolution is more war. There were soldiers—and soldiers. The guns turned in two directions. The officers were stronger. The poet and the war casualty was a traitor. He went to prison—for five years.

There are worse places, for a poet in the twentieth century, than prison. The world, perhaps, is worse. They put him in a madhouse first—perhaps he felt himself among the sane. The prison walls were thick; there was solitude. Perhaps through so much stone the waves were sent. So he could write. He wrote about masses—about masses and men. His heart was with the revolt of the poor. His being recoiled from violence. He loved people, not masses. He was a sorry revolutionary—he had no power to hate.

TWO AGAINST LOVE

by Frances Hanna

Chapter 24 THE INVALID'S VISITORS Much to the amazement of the entire Mack family, both Thordyke and Jocelyn became daily visitors to the sunny front bedroom where Grandpa lay helpless but far from speechless.

Jocelyn, on the second day of Grandpa's confinement, asked permission of Mrs. Mack to use the intercommunicating door between the second floor hallways; so the Macks did not always see her come and go, yet her voice, sometimes eager and laughing, sometimes low and soothing, could be heard mingling with Grandpa's crackling falsetto and delighted cackle. She brought him roses, hyacinths, and tall red gladioli from her garden, also pictures of her grandmother

...the exacerbation of an open wound. He came out of prison into the republic—which had imprisoned him—and into fame. The republic was careening merrily, with the spirit of the young, inflexible and argumentative cruel idealism of the Leftists. It was not the revolution of the trenches. It was the organized revolution of the top sergeant.

It was not the anarcho street fighting of the Bavarian rising. It fell into line; it marched; it killed; it destroyed; it was systematic. Nihilism ran wild in its heart, but outside it stood panoplied, serried, proclaiming an awful power. The mass was automatized. The nation was a tank.

The poets fled from that place. The world is dotted with the German poets. And Toller, of course. Against the armored world he was Enemy No. 1. Curious. It is not—I wrote it is not—it was not in him to hurt a fly. The poet is a man of words. Words are his breath and his life. In them, and in them alone, is ease for his suffering and sublimation for his personal and vicarious pains.

Exile ripped the words out of his mouth. He was a man of words without a language. He was grateful to New York. He watched America wonderingly, admiring the great democracy. He was at the P. E. N. conference and visited the White House. That was a day of joy. "So ought great democracies to live," he said, looking at the big house, not too much bigger than its competitors. We visited Arlington and walked through the House of Lee. "He was on the other side in the Civil War," I explained. "And his home is a public monument? I have heard that, but I did not believe."

"We love him now," I said. "We think he was very greatly wrong." "There are no special tombs for officers?" he asked. We were driving through the rows on rows of small white stones. "If the family wants put one up they can," the taxi driver explained. "But the country don't put up no special ones. After all, they all died the same. I guess they figger." The poet looked at his compatriots. "It is very peaceful here," he said. "Peaceful and democratic."

The words would not come, in a strange country, to ease the pain. And the waves kept beating endlessly... his mother... they broke into her home and tore his last letter from around her neck. She wore it as an amulet. Had he ever brought her luck? Mothers are strange. They arrested his sister. In Czechoslovakia, his brother. His brother was a banker. He wore no letter as an amulet. The poet was a family disaster.

But who was his family? The last time I saw him his face was white. "They are sending eighty German war prisoners—Czechs and Germans and Austrians—back to Hitler from Spain," he said. "Can you not stop them?" He had no money; no words; no country. "And I have come here when America has no more use for European culture," he said with clear awareness.

If he had died in Austria or Switzerland perhaps I should not have felt it so much. Only the poet's nerve ends receive the message with undiluted shock, from near or far. But it was just up the street where he hanged himself, in a New York hotel room. Why did no message come to me saying, "Telephone him!" Saying, "Ask him to come around... to come around and talk."

They will say that Hitler killed him. That is true enough. But I commend him not to hate, who had in him no steady power to hate. His fate was to love the world and mankind, and most unhappily. (Copyright, 1929, New York Tribune Inc.)

missed equally. "You like horses just as much as I do. When are you going to San Francisco on a shopping tour for your trousseau?" "I don't know." There was an evasive quality in her tone which annoyed him. "But, Lyn, our wedding is only a little more than two weeks off."

"I know it. Take me home now, will you? I promised Grandpa to run in for a white before dinner." "Aren't you being rather ridiculous, Lyn? Running in to see an old crack-pot every day. I don't like it. As a matter of fact, I don't think you care a darn about him or his broken legs; you just use him as an excuse to see that grandson of his!"

"Now you're being ridiculous!" she flared. "I use the communicating door on the upper floor and I seldom see a Mack." "Much to your disappointment," he grumbled. "First you have a fit because they move in, then you go into tantrums because they mutilate Seaciff, and now you practically live with them!"

"That is not true. You're being stupidly jealous, Geoff. I did resent them at first—I still feel badly about Seaciff—but I am beginning to understand their side of it. They—they couldn't help it. They had to live and eat. Even if they haven't human beings." "Well, I don't want you running in there. People talk enough as it is about you and young Talbot." "I don't believe you. You're making that up and it's a mean story! You know Grandma wanted the Macks at Seaciff. You know she always cared about old Talbot. I went to see him for her sake. I knew she'd want me to. I keep on going now because I want to. It's fun. I like Grandpa."

The Sports Parade

By HANK HART

Willard Ramsdell, fire ball artist who was good enough in his few appearances at the close of last season to make the All-Star team, has departed for his home in Chanute, Kan. Willard failed in his efforts to have a suspension, slapped on him for not reporting, revoked. It still holds good for 60 days, at the end of which time the Kansas twirler may report back for duty with the Barons. Willard has received permission to play some semi-pro ball in the meantime and has several games lined up. He'll be in shape when he returns.

For those who love to watch it, and particularly for those who love to play it, the tennis tournament sponsored by the Big Spring Tennis Association and getting underway Friday, will be a signal sporting event. With limited playing facilities, tennis is gaining in popularity here and should get great guns next season when at least half a dozen more courts will be available at the school athletic plant and two more at the park.

At last, we believe we have found a baseball fan worthy to be called successor to the late Jim Black, the most rabid rooster Big Spring ever had. Our nominee is Early Sanders, a gentleman with leather lungs, a caustic tongue and a steady flow of impromptu observations. Like all great fans, Early's at his best when pouring out deserved abuse.

Of course, he can't take Jim Black's place, for no one can ever approach the downright beautiful simplicity of Jim's plaintive cry that drifted out from the stands many an afternoon. Anyone who ever heard it will never forget that immortal "We want a tally."

Once more we raise our voice in righteous indignation against a malpractice at the ball park, to wit: 10-cent soda pops. Suffice it to say that this is nothing short of un-American, un-Christian, and unfair.

It strikes us that Big Spring has produced a fair share of top-notch golfers. Witness the record of Obie Brister, Doug Jones, Shirley Robbins and Eddie Morgan (now at Odessa) over a spread of years. These, with a few others like Jake Morgan, Frank Morgan, et al, have put Big Spring on the golf map.

Often we've heard of the "of rockin' chair" getting someone, but we never suspected it could be an asset until we learned the Odessa negro ball club has a catcher who makes use of a rocking chair while doing his chores. He is to be seen in action, or inaction, Friday night under the lights.

The more we see of them, the more we admire the blue quail. Only a few days ago we were lucky enough to watch a few pair proudly scolding along the range, their dainty heads high and cocky top-knots bobbing rhythmically. Soon they will have a covey of young, and both male and female will be duly proud. Then their fondness for their offspring will make them shed caution. Surely no one can be such a poor sport as to break seasonal laws and take advantage of this.

S. L. "Roy" Lockhart tells us that he has a tank full of thriving beans. Since scores of tanks have been put in over the county in the past two or three years, a similar condition prevails as to stocking. Soon these will be good fishing, but remember this—these tanks are on private property. Permission must always be obtained. Should any owners make a slight charge, don't kick. It's no worse than paying for other entertainment.

There is one game we would like to see catch on here, although we've never played it. That's badminton. It sounds like a fast, interesting contest and equipment is within reach of almost everyone. Space requirements are small, too.

Not that we've got a crow to pick with the younger generation, but somehow we'd like to pull up to some vacant lot some of these days and watch a good old fashioned game of shinner, or root-hog-root, or post. These modern games are a little too technical and tame for a bloodthirsty clogger like us.—J. P.

Houston Near League Lead

By The Associated Press

Beaumont hurlers couldn't turn off Tommy Turner's steam last night and the Houston Buff catcher batted the herd to a 10-inning, 4-to-3 victory.

Turner, whose batting average isn't near the top, drove home all the Buff tallies. The winning run, Nick Cullip home after the Shipper hurler walked Phillips on purpose in order to pitch to Turner.

The victory moved the Buffs to within a game of the leading Dallas Rebels, who took a 12-to-2 beating from the Fort Worth Cats. The Panthers pounded two Rebel pitchers for a dozen hits while Stan Corbett was scattering ten safeties.

The Shreveport Sports didn't know when to stop hitting, gathering 21 hits off five San Antonio Missoni moundsmen for a 13-to-4 win. Every man in the Shreveport lineup hit safely at least once.

The Tulsa Oilers defeated the Oklahoma City Indians, 4 to 3, despite a two-run, Redskin spurge in the final inning.

Summer Season Brings Added Activities In The City's Recreational Program

With a multi-lateral program already in operation, the city recreational schedule for the summer will be stepped up to include many activities not previously adaptable because of weather conditions.

H. F. Malone, director, said Wednesday that six men and five women supervisors on the city's six play grounds were prepared to introduce several special events in addition to regular activities of softball, volleyball, croquet, reading, pool, play on apparatus, reading, story hours, group games, table games, simple music activities, arts and crafts, badminton, tennis, ping-pong, miniature golf, rope jumping, shuffle board, horse shoes, washers, marbles, skating, and others.

Among the promotional affairs will be several tournaments, play days, doll and pet shows, track and field meets, outings, picnics, community nights and intra-play-ground match contests.

The mummy football league is well into its schedule with 10 teams playing Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

Ten junior and senior boys teams play on Monday and Wednesday afternoons.

Free play for all junior boys and girls at the municipal course is arranged for each Saturday morning and a West Texas District Junior golf tournament is slated for the latter part of June or early in July.

Under the direction of Hugh Frimm, there will be special aquatic exhibitions and a team organized to give exhibitions and to compete in nearby city water meets.

The city recreational department also is cooperating with the Big Spring Tennis association in promoting more interest in the sport.

An average of $694 is spent monthly on payroll for playground supervisors, the city's share being only $25 in cash. For the period, the recreational project is set up for $7,653, of which $3,413 is the city's portion and $4,240 federal funds. However, the city's contribution is largely in equipment and salaries already required for routine city operation.

Playgrounds are located at the city park, Mexican Plaza, A.B.C. park, at 13th and 14th on 7th, at Second and Goliad, and a rural unit at Moore school.

Advising with Malone on the program are Pat Murphy, chairman, Hank Hart, E. V. Spence, Harold J. Marvic, K. House, Walter M. J. A. W. C. Blankenship, Ben Daniels, William Dawes, Lola Smith, and Arsh Phillips. Clubs assisting are the American Business Club, the Lions and the Hyperion club.

Yanks' Win Streak Broken, But Others Keep A-Going

Cincy Reds Run Their String To Nine And Cards Add 6th Victory

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Staff

This major league baseball season is as full of streaks as a faded shirt, so the fact the 13 jinx stopped the New York Yankees yesterday caused no consternation.

They had broken their noses in the direction of Cincinnati, where the Reds already have won nine without showing signs of tiring.

The St. Louis Cardinals also have hatched a winning streak which now stretches over six games. In addition, the National League has a couple of sizeable losing strings, Phillies and six for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

If these seem like novelties, consider that the Boston Red Sox earlier this season chained together seven victories while the Pittsburgh Pirates lost eight in one stretch, the Detroit Tigers dropped seven in a row and three clubs had six-game losing streaks. At one time the Washington Senators won five in a row, then turned around and dropped six.

Trout Stops 'Em

It was the Detroit Tigers' rookie pitcher, Paul (Dizzy) Trout, who stopped the Yankees after they had won 12 consecutive games. He never previously had won a game.

Stalled by a brisk shower an hour before game time, the Big Spring Barons marked time here Wednesday evening while Pampa was tossing Amarillo and Lubbock was tossing out Clovis.

The two teams, however, were due to go into action for the third and final game of the series here at 8:30 p. m. today. Friday the same two squads move to Midland for a three game set-to.

Fitching choice of Manager Tony Rego was not announced, although he may call in Art Gigli, who last week slipped Pampa the package, or Jodie Marek, one of the mainstays on the twirling staff. Midland's chunker could be Dixie Swartz or Bill Brown, former Barons.

At Abilene, Lamesa batters were on their way to a victory over the home club when rain in the fourth made the 3-1 lead go for naught.

Pampa took Amarillo into camp by a 5-1 count and Lubbock took a close one from Clovis, 5 to 4.

During the first four months of 1939 United States and Canadian manufacturers sold 1,414,776 automobiles compared with a total of 906,475 in the corresponding period last year.

Against the champions, however, he spaced seven hits at no more than one to an inning and his mates pounded three New York hurlers for a 6-1 victory.

Although not so lengthy, the two current National League winning strings are more fun because their owners are in a virtual tie for first.

With Frank McCormick exploding his eighth homer of the season, the Reds shut out the New York Giants, 6-0, on the five-hit pitching of big Paul Derringer, while the Cardinals kept their slim percentage advantage by a 7-0 shutout of the Boston Bees on the seven-hit flinging of Curt Davis.

The Pirates moved into fourth place in the National league, by beating the Dodgers, 6-3. In the other senior circuit game Claude Passeau held the Chicago Cubs to seven hits while the Phils pasted Lefty Larry French to 11, but the Bruins got their when they counted, and won 3-2.

The Cleveland Indians kept the Red Sox from taking advantage of the Yankees' downfall in the American league by bumping Boston, 6-2. Willis Hudlin pitched a four-hit game, but took no chances and knocked in one run with a double and later hit a homer.

Washington took a slugging spree from the St. Louis Browns, 16-6.

In the season's second night game the Chicago White Sox bunched three runs in the eighth to beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-1. Ed Smith, the southpaw Connie Mack let go to the Sox only a few weeks ago, prescribed a five-hit diet for his former teammates.

Course At Brook Hollow Likely To Be Tough

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT

DALLAS, May 25 (AP)—Stout southerly breezes, an unclipped rough and added yardage dared Texas' great band of amateur golfers to wreck Brook Hollow's rugged par in the qualifying test of the Texas Golf association's 33rd annual tournament today.

Never has the famed competitive layout played any harder, its 6,700 yards peppered with trouble for some 150 entries.

Few doubted par 35-35-70 would be hampered by a field that included such stalwarts as Don Schumacher, Reynolds Smith, Harry Todd, O'Hara Watts and David Goldman of Dallas; John Barnum of Edinburg; Bobby Riegel, the defending titlist of Houston; Billy Bob Coffey of Fort Worth; Leland Hamman of Paris; Morris Norton of Wichita Falls and other top-notchers.

The veterans of tournament play, after practice rounds, hazarded the guess a score of 79, or possibly 80, would make the championship fight if prevailing winds of the past few days held out.

Par took only one licking in practice, Watts, a home club favorite, posting a 68. Todd, the mountainous Dallas champion who has been at the peak of his game in an effort to regain a title he held a couple of years ago, batted around in two fine rounds of 70 and 71 yesterday and Barnum, the Rio Grande Valley sensation, posted a smooth 72.

From the championship tees the course was a problem for short hitters, several par holes requiring two full woods to reach the carpet. Rough, allowed to grow the past few weeks and encouraged by steady rain of last week, presented a natural hazard that claimed many strokes.

Riegel, a slender fellow who leaned on brilliant iron play to capture the title at Fort Worth's lengthy Colonial club course last year, wasn't counted out because of

Sod Work At New Field Started

Task of sodding approximately 7,200 square yards of new playing field for the relocated high school stadium was launched Wednesday.

Establishment of a turf for the football field will be the initial primary objective of workers on the $30,000 school athletic plant project. Once the playing surface is assured in time for the season's opener, other units of the job, such as removal and re-erection of the stadium seats will follow.

Also included in the new project, undertaken with the aid of WPA, will be a field house, six tennis courts with canteen base, play ground area, and a track surrounding the stadium playing field.

The new stadium will be located at the northwest corner of Highland park, and is being moved from its present site near the North Ward school.

Four Matches Completed In City Tourney

SPT—FOUR MATCHES ... 30 ..

Frank Morgan, Guy Rainey, Obie Brister and Lib Coffey had emerged as winners Thursday in the championship flight first round of the city golf tourney being conducted at the municipal course.

Morgan turned back Dan Huddleston by a 4 and 3 count, while Rainey was putting away M. K. House and Brister was eliminating Tommy Neel, both by the same score. Coffey beat Elmo O'Brien one up.

Pairings were such that Morgan was due to meet Rainey and Brister was to clash with O'Brien in the next round.

In the first flight, C. B. Gentry ousted Seaman Smith, 6 and 5, and V. V. Strahan beat N. C. Hilliard 4 and 3. Only one match had been played in the second flight, Tom Cook downing George Hill 5 and 4.

Course Manager Harold Akey announced that all golfers have through Sunday to complete first round matches.

WAGES AND HOURS

CENTERVILLE, Ia., May 25 (AP)—Mayor T. J. McIntire, who gets $30 a month, asked the city council for a raise.

The council replied that he is a "part time job."

Today a new sign adorned his office entrance—"Office hours 9 a. m. to 10 a. m."

"That," the mayor added, "is exactly what I am going to do."

49 FURTHER DEFENSE EVIDENCE HEARD IN MURDER TRIAL

BALLINGER, May 25 (AP)—Further defense testimony was heard today in the trial of Bill Strickland, former liquor board inspector, on a charge of killing Dan Liverman.

Two defense witnesses testified yesterday Strickland's reputation was good.

Liverman was slain last October at his home near here.

Testifying for the state, R. J. Wood, a neighbor, said he did not regard Liverman as a dangerous man, but former Runnels County Sheriff W. A. Holt contended the victim was dangerous and that he had so warned Strickland.

Judge O. L. Parish granted a defense plea against use of a death-bed statement taken from Liverman after a nurse, Mrs. F. D. McCoy, testified the shooting victim had been administered a narcotic and she did not regard him as rational at the time the statement was made.

ENTRY LIST FOR TENNIS PLAY TO CLOSE AT 7 P. M. TODAY

Local tennisers interested in competing in the Big Spring Tennis association's first sponsored tournament, scheduled to open Friday, were reminded Thursday that 7 p. m. is the deadline on entries.

All players must be listed with a member of the executive committee by that time, as drawings will be made tonight.

Members of the committee are Harold Harvey, Avery Faulkner, H. F. Malone, Mrs. Alvin Hamm and Harry Jordan.

First matches are scheduled for 5 p. m. Friday at the municipal courts.

The tourney is open to both men and women players. No prizes will be awarded, but the meet will determine ranking of players for later ladder play scheduled for the first part of the summer. Winners will be seeded No. 1, runner-up No. 2, and so on.

Vines Gets Raves From Britishers For Skill With The Golf Clubs

HOYLAK, Eng., May 25 (AP)—Ellsworth Vines is back swinging a tennis racket today, but British golf critics still are raving about the way he swings a golf club after watching him play two matches in the British amateur championship.

Bernard Darwin, the golf writer of the London Times, said today "Vines, as he started in this tournament, reminded me of the old American terror that used to spread across the course." Darwin is convinced Vines right now is good enough to play international golf.

"I think his swing goes right back to the old model swings of Francis Oulmet and Chick Evans," he said. "He is an infinitely better swinger than the majority of the men American sent over here on the Walker cup team last year."

Fred Pignon, golf critic of the London Daily Mail, said: "Give Vines a year or two of tournament play and he will be on the United States Walker cup team."

Vines, Don Budge, Big Bill Tilden and Lester Stofen are booked for European exhibition matches until September.

Vines plans to be back in California in March and from then on is going to play in every golf tournament he can. "I could keep on playing tennis at this pace for a couple more years," Elly said, "but Budge is beating me and, quite sincerely, I am more interested in golf than anything else."

The Californian, beaten in the third round of the amateur yesterday afternoon after winning his opening match in the morning, is hoping to play in the British open at St. Andrews in July.

Maxie Baer Not The Man He Once Was

By GAYLE TALBOT

FERNDALE, N. Y., May 25 (AP)—A first-hand critical inspection of Max Baer at his training camp reveals, as one might have expected, that the former playboy champion isn't quite the man he was four or five years ago.

Max likes to think he is, but the simple truth is the easy years have deprived the handsome Californian of a fraction of his speed and have reduced his once-marvelous stamina. In other words, Max looks and fights his 30 years.

It's still an open question whether Max has lost enough of his speed and strength to cost him his scrap with Lou Nova a week from tonight in Yankee stadium. Perhaps he has enough left to let him sail out and smash the youngster to the canvas. But this much is certain: The longer it goes the shorter will be Baer's chances of victory.

On the word of his manager, Ancil Hoffman, Max has worked harder for this fight than any in his career. He's been training his heart out for seven weeks here in the hills.

Hoffman displayed an intense interest in Nova and wanted to know a dozen things about him. Particularly he wondered if Lou always kept his hands high. He was assured he did.

"Maybe he does when he's sparring," Ancil conceded. "But will he remember all that after Max hits him once? Whatever else they say about us, Max still can hit like a mule."

Also, though Hoffman failed to mention the fact, Max still is easy to hit. One sparring partner, a big negro named Eliza Thompson, rattled Baer's teeth with a series of rights through their two-round session.

"Anyway, you'll have to admit I dodge a few more of them than I used to," Max yelled from the ring. This scarcely seemed possible, yet Max ought to know.

With three more workouts scheduled through Monday, Baer is down to fighting weight, 210 1-2 pounds. He looks about like he always did—until he starts boxing.

Stribling Sells Four Herefords To Alabama Men

ROTAN, May 25—The recent sale of a bull and four cows to new breeders in Alabama is announced by John B. Stribling, nationally known Hereford breeder of Rotan.

All were Hinebread Anxiety Fourth Herefords purchased for foundation stock in the establishment of new herds. Stribling reports that the bull and three cows went to Webb Bros., Marion, Ala., for a total of $2,010, and one cow to a neighbor, Gayle Wallace, for $500.

These sales were made by correspondence with G. A. Webb, Jr., and J. C. Webb, owners of extensive plantations in Alabama. They attended Stribling's auction sale last February in which 97 Herefords averaged $262. Attributed by the quality of the cattle and unprepared for such prices, they failed to make purchases at that time, later writing Stribling of their sale, which correspondence resulted in the sales mentioned.

SPEED STARS IN TUNE-UP FOR INDIANAPOLIS

When 33 of the world's finest drivers line up for the start of the Indianapolis Race the morning of May 30th, this quintet of speed aces will be rated among the most formidable contenders for the big cash purses. A year of engineering refinement and sizeable cash fortunes have been spent on their cars. Like every Indianapolis winner for the last 19 years, they will ride on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. TOP, Rex Mays, (left) the speed artist from Glendale, Calif., puts the finishing touches on his motor. Lou Meyer, (right) the only three-time Indianapolis winner, makes adjustments on the motor that he, himself, has built with watch-like precision. BELOW, (left) Babe Stapp makes a few last minute changes in his Italian Alfa-Romeo car. Stapp has led the race 9 of the last 11 years until mechanical trouble forced him to the pit. Floyd Roberts (center) last year's winner, established a new record, averaging 117.2 miles per hour for the 500 miles. Jimmy Snyder (right) the Flying Chicago Milkman, will drive a car almost identical in design to the one being used by Rex Mays. In 1937 Snyder established a lap record of 130.4 miles per hour for the 2 1/2-mile distance.

Recipes For Cotton Week Suggest Some Of Uses Of Food Products Made From Cottonseed Oil

Cottonseed oil, which accounts for more than half of the value of farmers' cottonseed, is one of the staple, essential foods on the table of millions of American homes. In the form of shortening, salad oil, margarine, salad dressing and other foods, more than one billion pounds of cottonseed oil are eaten annually by Americans.

Both because it is economical and nutritious, and because it is the product of southern farms, cottonseed oil is finding an increasing demand upon the part of American housewives.

Some of the many uses for cottonseed oil food products are suggested as a feature of Cotton Week in the following recipes.

- French Dressing
6 tablespoons cottonseed salad oil; 2 tablespoons lemon juice; 2 teaspoons sugar; 1 teaspoon salt; 1-4 teaspoon pepper; and one-half teaspoon mustard. Mix all ingredients together in a bottle with a good stopper, shake well until thoroughly mixed, and serve cold.
- Mayonnaise
1 whole egg; 2 cups cottonseed salad oil; one-half teaspoon mustard; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon sugar; 1 teaspoon chili powder; and 3 teaspoons vinegar. Break egg into bowl, add seasoning and beat until thick and lemon colored. Add cottonseed salad oil gradually, beating well after each addition, and add vinegar and oil until mixture is stiff.
- White Cake
Three-fourths cup cottonseed oil shortening or margarine; 1 cup sugar; 2 1/2 cups flour; 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder; one-half teaspoon salt; one-half cup cold water; 1 teaspoon vanilla; 6 egg whites. Cream shortening or margarine and sugar together. Stir flour with baking powder and salt; add alternately with the water to the creamed mixture. Add flavoring, then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in two layers or loaf in moderate oven about 25 minutes.
- Pastry For Pie
1 1/2 cups flour; one-half cup cottonseed oil shortening; one-half teaspoon salt; and one-fourth cup ice water. Stir flour and salt together, then cut shortening into flour until a coarse, granular mixture is formed. Gradually add water until mixture may be gathered together in one lump. Roll out on slightly floured board, about one-eighth inch thick. Shape to pan and bake in hot oven about 15 minutes or until crust is delicately browned. Cool and add filling.
- Other recipes that will make it possible for any housewife to use cottonseed oil food products with excellent results are found on the many standard brands of shortening, margarine, salad oils, salad dressing and other foods that owe their good flavor and value to the cotton plant.

Eleven Records Are Smashed At Denton Meet

DENTON, May 25 (AP)—Eleven records fell as Texans qualified at the district Southwestern A.A.U. track and field meet here last night for the national meet at Lincoln, Neb., July 3.

Blaine Rideout of North Texas State Teachers college, and Marsh Farmer, one-armed hurdler from Texas Tech, took top play at the meet which North Texas won with 77 1-2 points.

East Texas State Teachers' college was second with 33. Texas Tech scored 11.

Blaine Rideout broke the 2:06.5 district record in the 800-meter run with a 1 minute, 54.5 second performance, 4.5 seconds off John Woodruff's National A.A.U. time.

Farmer shaved four-tenths of a second off the former record in the 110-meter high hurdles. His 14.7 second time came within five-tenths seconds of the National A.A.U. record held by Forrest Townes. Farmer also set a record of 23.2 in the 200-meter hurdles.

PEPPER STOPS 'EM

MIAMI, Fla., May 25 (AP)—After two years, City Judge James A. Dunn has satisfied his curiosity about the way a prisoner who fled the city prison farm managed to elude bloodhounds that were placed quickly on his trail.

Yesterday, again in the toils of the law, the same man appeared before Judge Dunn.

"Well, judge, I'll tell you," he replied. "Before I escaped I got a lot of black pepper. Every so often I'd stop and sprinkle some on my tracks. I figured that would stop the dogs."

BOY KILLED

ELECTRA, May 25 (AP)—With his report card in his hand, Homer Pruitt, 7, started home from his last class of the season.

State's Great Expansion Period Confirms With That Of Oil Gains

DALLAS, May 25—Statewide expansion of the Texas petroleum industry during the past eight years is shown to have had a marked beneficial effect upon the state's economic progress and welfare, according to a survey recently completed by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association.

Fifty-eight per cent of all the oil produced in Texas to date was produced within the past eight years. During this eight-year period Texas experienced phenomenal increases in population of many of its cities, accompanied by increased employment and payroll, paved highway mileage, new buildings, bank deposits, export tonnage, automobile registrations, state gasoline tax collections, telephones, electric light meters, taxable values and state and local tax revenue.

Facts developed by the survey show that during this eight-year period the Texas petroleum industry drilled 81,000 wells all over the state, at a cost of $1,600,000,000. Additional millions of dollars of new capital was brought into the state during this period and expended in acquiring oil leases, building pipe lines, oil refineries, natural gasoline plants, shipping terminals and other facilities necessary to the production, processing and distribution of Texas crude and its many refined products.

Last year Texas produced about 475 million barrels of oil, which is shown to represent an increase over 1930 of 74 per cent. At the same time, home processing of Texas crude oil by refineries showed a gain over 1930 of 70 per cent. Commensurate with these increases, all of the state's other basic statistical factors mentioned above showed increases of from 10 per cent to 370 per cent.
