

Four Injured In Accident On U.S. 80

Four persons were injured and three vehicles were destroyed in a crash and fire about a mile west of Coahoma on Highway 80 this morning.

R. E. McMillan, of 705 Nolan, Big Spring, apparently was the most seriously injured. It was reported at Big Spring Hospital that he suffered burns on his face, arms and back.

Escaping with minor bruises and abrasions were Marquis Rodriguez, Robert Alvarado and O. M. Jacques, all of Sweetwater.

Leland Williams, of Austin, was not injured.

Highway Patrol and sheriff's officers who investigated said that trucks driven by McMillan and Williams collided after an unidentified motorist attempted to pass the Williams truck. A pickup, driven by Rodriguez, crashed into the two trucks.

The unidentified motorist stopped, volunteered to summon aid, and has not been seen, officers said.

McMillan's truck, owned by Roy Phillips of Big Spring, was loaded with cottonseed. Apparently a gasoline line burst and the vehicle caught fire.

The truck Williams was driving was loaded with steel. It was owned by Bob Phillips of Weatherford.

The fire and wreckage blocked the highway for approximately an hour and Big Spring firemen required about two hours to extinguish the blaze, after Highway Department crews pulled the wreckage from the pavement.

The investigating officers said the truck driven by McMillan was traveling toward the east, followed by the pickup in which the Latin-Americans were riding. As the two vehicles met the truck driven by Williams on the hill just west of Coahoma, the other car suddenly started to pass the Williams truck.

McMillan applied his brakes, the rig jack-knifed and collided with Williams' truck. Rodriguez's pickup then plied into the wreckage. The unidentified driver apparently escaped the wreckage by swerving completely across the roadway and onto the south shoulder, officers reported.

The accident occurred about 6 a.m. The cottonseed truck was destroyed by the crash and fire. The steel truck was extensively damaged and the pickup was demolished, the officers said.

The injured were brought to the hospital in a Nalley ambulance and by passers-by.

Princess Begins Caribbean Tour

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP)—Making her first visit to the new world, Britain's Princess Margaret winged toward Trinidad today for the start of a month-long tour of the colorful Caribbean.

The silver airplane Canopus carrying Queen Elizabeth's lively 24-year-old sister was scheduled to touch down at Port of Spain's flag-decked airport late today.

She took off from London yesterday. Her plane's first refueling stop was at Montreal.

Trinidad's Gov. Sir Hubert Rance said the island is displaying "tremendous enthusiasm" for the royal visit. Port of Spain was bedecked with thousands of streamers, banners and flags.

But flags and bunting decorating Piarco Airport were mysteriously torn down Sunday night, despite a 24-hour police guard. Authorities declined comment on the incident yesterday as workers restored the decorations.

U.S. Air Force rescue planes escorted the royal flight from Canada to this British colony off the Venezuelan coast of South America.

The Canopus made the transatlantic hop—Margaret's first flight across the ocean—in 13 hours 10 minutes. Shifting weather conditions forced it to overly fogbound Gander, Nfld., and Goose Bay, Labrador, two other possible refueling points.

Tachens Scene Of Air And Sea Fighting Today

By FRED HAMPSON
TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Fresh fighting on sea and in the air boiled up around the embattled Tachen Islands again today while the United States and Nationalist China debated the future of Chiang Kai-shek's offshore island outposts.

An American source said the finishing touches were being put in Washington to an agreed announcement clarifying the status of the Nationalist strongholds just off the Red mainland.

In the explosive Tachen area, Nationalist and Communist Chinese hammered each other with bombs and guns.

The Defense Ministry said four Nationalist planes clashed with Russian-built MIG15 fighters in broad daylight but returned to base after successfully carrying out their missions.

The ministry said two of the Nationalist planes divebombed and strafed Red targets on newly-captured Yikiangshan Island, starting many fires despite heavy Red anti-aircraft fire from Yikiangshan and Tumen Island, five miles to the northwest.

Four waves of MIG15s tried to intercept them as they returned to base but the Nationalist planes escaped, the ministry said.

A few minutes later two Nationalist fighter bombers clashed with several MIG15s north of the Tachens but returned to base, the ministry reported. The mission of these two planes was not disclosed.

The report came on the heels of a Defense Ministry announcement that 10 Communist warships shelled Nationalist Yushan Island, 30 miles northeast of the explosive Tachens, then fled under strong fire from the defenders.

The source spoke shortly after U.S. Ambassador Karl L. Rankin conferred at length with Shenn Chang-huan, acting foreign minister.

Presumably the Washington announcement would spell out what the United States intends to do about the Tachens, as well as such other island outposts as Quemoy and Matsu.

The U.S. 7th Fleet, with the added support of swift Air Force Sabrejets, is standing by in the Formosa area, awaiting orders to help the Nationalists evacuate some 30,000 troops and civilians from the Tachens, 200 miles to the north.

The order to start the evacuation was reported held up because the Nationalists don't want to abandon the Tachens before they have assurances the United States will help defend other island outposts off the Red mainland.

Even if an agreement is reached in Washington, it does not necessarily mean the Tachen evacuation would get under way immediately.

Other factors, such as the possibility of a cease-fire, could bring about more delays.

The Red attack on Yushan was the latest of a series of flareups in the sensitive Tachen area.

The Defense Ministry said most of the Communist shells fell into the sea, indicating Nationalist ships might have been the target. The Red warships reportedly approached Yushan from the west and retreated back to the coast.

The ministry also said Communist MIG15 jet fighters flew eight sorties in the vicinity of the Tachens between 8:10 a.m. and 4:10 p.m. today, it said.

(Washington reports said American officials are reported to have started work on plans to help the Nationalists feed, house and clothe the thousands of refugees expected from the Tachens. The reports said Foreign Operations Administration officials in Taipei have been asked to report precisely what American help will be required.)

There are about 30,000 Nationalist troops and civilians on the Tachens, now within artillery range of Red-captured Yikiangshan.

Children Of Suspect Threatened

Houston officers report that an anonymous telephone call has threatened the lives of Margaret Diane Washburn, 4, and Gregory Allen Washburn, 5, above. They are the children of Harry Washburn of Houston who has been charged with murder in the San Angelo bombing death of Mrs. Harry Weaver, the children's grandmother and Washburn's former mother-in-law. Shown with the children here is Percy Foreman, defense attorney for Washburn. (AP Wirephoto).

Threats Aired In Bomb Case

By GARTH JONES
SAN ANGELO (AP)—Murder, extortion, kidnaping.

Officers considered those three major crimes today as they sifted the bewildering clues of the bomb slaying of a wealthy ranchwoman here almost three weeks ago.

Three men are in jail and at least four others have made statements saying they had a part in the original crime or its developments.

Mrs. Harry Weaver, 51, prominent leader among the ranchers who have outlasted West Texas' longest drought, died Jan. 19 when she stepped on the starter of her husband's car and exploded a nitroglycerine bomb.

Since then, the Weaver family has reported at least two attempts to swindle thousands from Mrs. Weaver's estate, listed modestly on court records at "more than $100,000."

"Kidnaping threats" were added for a time yesterday to the Weaver family's problems and to the myriad situations confronting officers.

Carl Runge Sr., attorney for Weaver who calls his wife's murder a bungled plot intended to kill him, said Mrs. Helen Willcockson had telephoned him expressing concern for the welfare of her children now in custody of Harry Washburn.

Washburn, a former son-in-law of the Weavers, is charged with murder in Mrs. Weaver's slaying.

But Mrs. Margaret Markle, Harris County probation officer, said the children have been in good care since early Saturday when Washburn was arrested.

Mrs. Markle denied earlier reports that Mrs. Willcockson said she feared the children might be kidnaped and held for ransom.

The probation department official said the mother, a resident of Billings, Mont., indicated she wished some action could be taken on custody of the children.

But Runge, in San Angelo, said Mrs. Willcockson has no specific intention of suing for custody so long as she was assured they were in good hands.

Only two men actually are charged in direct connection with the bombing: Washburn, 38, and Carl Heninger, 37, Houston taxi driver and carpenter.

Washburn has refused to talk since his arrest but earlier said:

U. N. Security Council Recesses To Await Answer Of Red China

By A. I. GOLDBERG
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.N. Security Council discussion of a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait today awaited Red China's answer to the council's bid for Peiping spokesmen to join in the debate.

U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold cabled the invitation to the Chinese Communist capital last night after the council voted to:

1. Take up New Zealand's request for debate on "hostilities in the area of certain islands" off China;
2. Invite the Chinese Reds to participate in the debate; and
3. Delay until after the New Zealand proposal council consideration of renewed Soviet demands for immediate withdrawal of U.S. armed forces from the Formosa area and surrender of the coastal islands to Peiping.

The council then recessed its sessions until Hammarskjold hears from Peiping.

A Peiping radio broadcast today made no mention of the council invitation but said New Zealand would have no vote.

Lodge endorsed the New Zealand proposal, which envisions the writing of a council cease-fire resolution after Red China and all other parties have been heard in the debate. The U.S. delegate called the Soviet resolution a "preposterous cold war fraud."

Nationalist China's T. F. Tsiang voted against the invitation to Peiping. He also opposed addition of the Soviet resolution to the agenda and abstained on the vote setting debate on the New Zealand proposal, which he termed superficial.

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev abstained on the invitation vote because it called for the Red Chinese appearance during consideration of New Zealand's proposal rather than his own. He voted against giving priority to the New Zealand motion.

New Zealand's Sir Leslie Munro, ending a month's term as council president yesterday, told the council he realized there would have to be a lull in the debate until Red China answers the invitation. The council agreed, with only Tsiang voting against the recess.

Vet Land Fraud Probe Is Pushed

House Votes Check Of Own In Scandal

By BO BYERS
AUSTIN (AP)—The House, by voice vote, ordered today an investigation of its own into alleged irregularities in the 100 million dollar veterans' land program.

A weak scattering of "no" votes was voiced against Rep. Dolph Briscoe's resolution directing appointment of a five-member committee by Speaker Jim Lindsey to make the investigation.

Lindsey named Reps. Joe Burckett, Kerrville, Virginia Duff, Ferris; Reagan, Huffman, Marshall; Jesse Osborn, Muleshoe; and Wade Spillman, McAllen.

They must report within 45 days and make a final finding by the end of the session.

Senate investigators said Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd, one of three members of the land board, has been called to testify tomorrow at the Senate committee's inquiry into the program's troubles.

The only major point of House disagreement on Briscoe's resolution was whether the five-member committee should have automatic authority to conduct executive hearings.

Rep. Maury Maverick Jr. of San Antonio, urged an amendment to require open hearings unless closed sessions were authorized by majority vote of the House on request of the committee.

His proposal lost 99-45 after Briscoe and others argued executive sessions might be necessary at times so possible criminal prosecutions would not be jeopardized.

Sen. Kilmer Corbin of Lubbock asked the Senate to appoint still another investigating committee to look into the veteran's land program, state printing contract awards, and "personal business deals out of the governor's office by Maurice Acers." Acers is an administrative aide of Shivers.

The resolution went to the Committee on State Affairs while senators joked with Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey about finding "an appropriate committee" for it.

Ex-Communist Says Testimony He Gave False

NEW YORK (AP)—Ex-Communist Harvey Matusow says he gave false testimony as a government witness in the trial of the 13 convicted second-string Communist leaders and that Roy M. Cohn, then an assistant U.S. attorney here "worked with me" in preparing testimony.

An affidavit to that effect from Matusow was filed yesterday in federal court in support of a motion for a new trial for the 13.

Cohn, later chief counsel to the Senate investigating subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), told newsmen at his New York law office:

"I will not dignify any statement by this individual with a comment in this Communist case. I interviewed him in the presence of FBI agents along with many others. I left for Europe before I even knew he was to be a witness."

Matusow, an ex-Communist and self-styled FBI informer, last Friday said in an affidavit filed in El Paso, Tex., he gave false testimony at the trial of Clinton Jencks, Jencks, an official of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union, was convicted of swearing falsely to a non-Communist oath under the Taft-Hartley Act. The affidavit was filed in a move for a new trial.

Matusow has been a paid government witness in several Communist trials and investigations.

The witness, in saying he testified falsely against some of the defendants here, declared he was supporting the motion for a new trial "to do what I can to remedy the harm that I have done to the defendants."

Judge Edward J. Dimock, who presided at the trial in 1952, will hold a hearing tomorrow on the motion for a new trial.

The 13 defendants—like 11 top U.S. Communist leaders before them—were convicted under the Smith Act on charges of conspiracy to teach and advocate overthrow of the government by force and violence. The 13 drew prison terms ranging from one to three years and fines of $2,000 to $5,000.

Matusow's affidavit dealt at length with testimony he gave against Alexander Trachtenberg. The witness said Cohn worked with him in preparing the testimony.

Twelve Die In Tenement Fire In New York Town

AMSTERDAM, N.Y. (AP)—Eleven children and the father of five of them perished in a fire that destroyed a 10-family tenement early today.

Eight bodies, seven those of children, were recovered.

Five other persons were injured, one critically.

Police said the fire was caused by an overflowing oil stove.

An undetermined number of persons fled in their nightclothes into a snowstorm and sub-freezing temperatures. Police and firemen helped several out.

Mrs. Anna Gagliardi said a dog's bark awakened her. Smelling smoke, she dragged her 84-year-old mother, Mrs. Cella Kosiba, feet first, from their ground-floor apartment.

Patrolman Marvin Swart, arriving in a patrol car, kicked in three doorways.

"The fire was a ball of flame inside," he said. "I found a boy about 13 kneeling, dead beside a crib. The baby in the crib was dead, too.

"There was a lot of screaming, and one woman kept hollering to go back for her two dogs."

The dogs were reported to have been saved.

Asst. Fire Chief Samuel Palumbo said flames were shooting from front and rear windows when firemen arrived. Four 30-gallon oil drums in the basement kept exploding, he said.

"It was impossible at the time to send firemen in there to get anybody without losing extra life," he said.

The roof of the building collapsed and portions "crashed into the cellar."

Most of the residents were believed to be Puerto Ricans.

Bodies recovered included those of:

- Juan Ribera, 40, and his children, John, 14; Ilda, 11; Domingo, 9; Angel, 5; a one-year-old boy and two of the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Motyka.

Two other Motyka children trapped in the flaming, 2-story building were counted as dead.

Two other children of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Heaton also were trapped and considered dead. They were Donna, 3, and Marion, 6 months.

Police and firemen said the fire broke out in the Heaton apartment. The Ribera apartment was directly above.

Mrs. Ribera was in a hospital at the time of the fire.

Heaton, his wife and one of their children suffered burns. They were taken to Amsterdam City Hospital.

7,500 Poll Tax Total Probable

Late payers of poll taxes pushed the county's vote total up to 7,250 by last midnight, and the number may increase to 7,500 by the time all mail payments are counted, Viola Robinson, tax assessor-collector, reported today.

Mrs. Robinson said demand for poll tax receipts and exemption certificates was heavy up until 9:30 p.m. Monday. A few stragglers paid their poll taxes as late as 11:45 p.m.

The number of qualified voters in the county apparently will fall about 1,000 short of the 1954 total. Qualified last year were 8,222 residents, Mrs. Robinson said.

Of those counted this morning, 6,101 were poll tax payments and 1,150 were exemption certificates. Mrs. Robinson said none of the mail payments received in the last two days have been counted either paid certificates Monday afternoon and night.

1,601 Pay Poll Tax In Mitchell County

COLORADO CITY — Mitchell County's off year poll tax payments and exemptions totaled 1,601 at 10 p.m. Monday, according to Mrs. Herman Parsons, chief deputy tax collector.

Mrs. Parsons said that a few more may come in the mails.

This compared with 2,333 for 1954 and 1,575 for 1953. Tax payments were slow until the last few days, with four hundred paying polls Monday.

Ten-Story Fall Fatal

HOUSTON (AP)—Zane Doyle, 20, a window washer was killed when he fell from the tenth floor of the United Gas Building today.

Local Herefords Place At Show

Howard and Martin County Hereford exhibitors shifted from Fort Worth to Houston today, after all their animals won places in the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show yesterday and Saturday.

Two Martin County youths and three from Howard County have entries in the Houston Fat Stock Show. Judging was to start today.

Bobby and Marilyn Sale of Stanton have two steers entered. The Howard County entries are owned by Royce Hull, Lile Lewter and Lorin McDowell III.

At the Fort Worth show, Lloyd Robinson's entries placed second and ninth in the junior yearling division of the open class. Sue White's steer placed seventh in the same class.

Lile Lewter's Hereford was third in the club division and Joyce Robinson's entry was 24th in the same division. Perry Walker exhibited his steer for a sixth-place ribbon in the summer yearling division of the open class.

Bobby Sale, who showed two steers at Fort Worth, placed sixth and 16th.

Oklahoma Hereford Is Grand Champion At Livestock Show

FORT WORTH (AP)—Busy Bee, a Hereford shown by K. C. Dixon of Grove, Okla., is grand champion steer of the Southwestern Exposition and Stock Show.

The reserve champion is Mr. Haskell C. owned by Dum Sims, Haskell County 4-H boy. Sims' animal also is junior show champion.

The champion Angus was shown by Oklahoma A&M.

The champion Shorthorn steer also was chosen yesterday. It was "Champ," a 1,020-pound red entry shown by Russell Zler Jr., 16, of Milledgeville, Ill.

Reserve champion Angus was shown by C. E. Yorder, of Muscatine, Iowa.

Reserve champion Shorthorn was another Oklahoma A&M entry, College Champion Upright 7th.

The champion Hampshire was owned by Betty Dollar of Brinkman, Okla. The reserve champion was shown by J. B. Hancock of Weatherford.

C-City Youth Shows Reserve Champion

Bill Bridgford, Colorado City 4-H Club member, had the reserve champion in the open class Monday at the finals of the Southwestern Fat Stock Show. The steer which beat him out in the open class went on to win the grand-championship. Billy's Hereford was bred by the Arledge Hereford Farms at Seymour.

MAN IS HELD Loot In Bank Robbery Found

MERIDIAN (AP)—Officers recovered all but $50 today of the $3,895 taken from the Farmers State Bank yesterday in a holdup and had arrested a man identified as a widely-known Central Texas police character.

Bosque County Sheriff J. C. Taylor said the robber is Bobby Earl King of adjoining Johnson County said Howard was widely known as a police character.

Royal said officers found $1,480 on Howard when he was arrested at the home of an uncle, Johnny Howard. Young Howard led officers to most of the other loot last night.

Authorities found another $200 hidden behind a box.

Howard was taken to Waco last night for an examining trial today.

The uncle's house where Howard was taken is near Chalk Mountain, a "ghost town" four miles west of Glen Rose, small county seat and pleasure resort 25 miles north of this Central Texas town.

Police surrounded the Howard home after a report was received that a car similar to one used by the bank robber had been sighted there.

Highway Patrolman A. P. Wood and R. L. Burns of Jacksboro, City Marshall Paul Bone of Glen Rose, and Texas Rangers Bob Badgett and Ernest Daniel took part in the capture.

Bank employees said the robber went about his work calmly. A bank customer—the wife of Sheriff Royal—said she thought the husky young man was a bank examiner.

He pointed a small gun at the cashier, Mrs. Alda Chestnut, told her to go with him through the president's office into a cashier's cage, stuffed the money in his pocket and walked out.

Just 4 1/2 hours later officers surrounded the Howard residence at Chalk Mountain. Howard had left his gun in the car, borrowed from a brother in Fort Worth, and offered no resistance when he was arrested.

Sheriff King said about 150 officers made up the posse that searched the heavily-wooded country between Meridian and Chalk Mountain after the 1:15 p.m. robbery.

Howard, a native of the area, told police he eluded them by circling back roads and trails known only to natives of the rugged section, some of the roughest country in the state.

King described the Chalk Mountain country as a long-time "horn in the side" for law enforcement officials because of moonshining and bootlegging activities. He said the once thriving community consisted now of a filling station, general store and a few deserted buildings.

"He was just helping himself, calm as could be," Mrs. Royal said of the robber's action. "I thought he was a bank examiner."

"Mrs. Chestnut whispered to me that it was a stickup," Mrs. Royal continued. "I ran outside just as he got in the car."

As he left the car, the man said "I'll see you," as if to impress bank patrons that he was an acquaintance.

Mrs. Royal got the man's license number and ran to the office of her husband. "He took right out after him," she said of her husband.

Some Pink Bollworms Killed In Freeze, But Plenty Are Left

By JESS BLAIR
Ranches to the northeast have received more moisture than the area around Big Spring.

W. L. Wilson, Jr., whose ranch straddles the Howard-Borden County line, says they had around two inches of moisture since the new year began. Tallow weeds and alfalfa are furnishing good grazing now, and more moisture in February will bring out new grass by the middle of March, Wilson said.

They have been feeding three pounds of range cubes and eight to 10 pounds of baled hay for each animal. The hay is grown on their own farmland which they operate in connection with the ranch.

The Wilsons have always stocked conservatively and had little grass to die during the drought. They are running about 14 animals to the section now. Their calf crop averaged better than 70 per cent.

Some of the best cotton in Howard County last year was grown around Fairview, W. B. Langley, who farms just east of the store, made over half a bale to the acre.

The yield dropped off sharply to the northeast in the tighter land. Also, a hail in the summer helped reduce production still further.

A group of San Angelo businessmen have agreed to furnish guar seed to a number of farmers for trial plantings. Each one is to donate ten pounds of seed, which will plant two acres.

Guar has been tried in this area, but the dry years have kept it from having a fair trial. Dub Coates had a sizable acreage of guar last year on his farm northeast of town. The yield was around 300 pounds to the acre.

Pink bollworms will be with us again next year, according to Bert Badger, Pink Bollworm Inspector with the Texas Department of Agriculture. Badger says the hard freeze in January killed about half the worms but there are still plenty left.

While the individual farmer can't do much about turning back a severe infestation, there are a few things he can do to slow down the insects on his next season's cotton.

The best thing, says Badger, is to destroy the bolls left in the field. This can be done by deep plowing, but an easier and more profitable way is to graze the cotton field.

Down at Westbrook, Albert Young, who runs a gin and farms also, bought cattle at an auction ring and pastured them for six weeks on his cottonfields. The cows put on considerable weight and required no other feed.

Leaving the old bolls in the field gives the worms a head start on the next cotton crop.

While other South Plains counties reaped the benefits of irrigation, Howard County has found little underground water thus far. There are a few small wells in the county, but most of this area seems to have very little water under.

Recently on the Oscar Gaskins farm south of Knott, an oil-drilling company drilled a good water well for their operations. Onlookers say the stream almost fills a four inch pipe, which would indicate a hundred or so gallons per minute.

This certainly isn't a big well by any standard, but dozens of West Texas farmers have made money with these tiny wells. Homer Donaldson who farms just north of Stanton drilled a well which made only about 225 to 250 gallons per minute, yet he watered 32 acres for a whopping 64 bales of cotton last year.

There is a very small well northwest of Ackerly on the G. E. Murphy farm which makes only about 40 gallons a minute. Murphy put a three-horsepower electric motor on it and has been irrigating ten acres the last few years. Last year he made ten bales of cotton and irrigated a two-acre pasture with this little well, making more cotton than he made on the entire 160 acres of dryland farming.

Harry Billington of Stanton gives a rule of thumb to go by in determining how many acres a well will irrigate. He says each five gallons of water per minute will adequately cover one acre. Thus if a farmer has two hundred gallons well he can successfully water 40 acres with it.

A trip through Howard and Martin counties will reveal some of the serious effects of the long drought. One sees several vacant houses in every community, and others in disrepair housing temporary workers. The few new homes seem to be confined to the larger farms. The little farmer has been lucky to make a living, and had nothing left over for new buildings and repair work.

A few farmers have moved to town but still work their land. This is especially true of people living within a few miles of town.

Ridgway's Opposition To Army Cut In Open

BY B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Pentagon dispute over administration plans to cut Army strength was out in the open today and apparently destined for considerable debate when Congress considers military appropriations and draft extension.

Pressed by members of the House Armed Services Committee for his views on the projected 140,000-man cut, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Army chief of staff, said yesterday he felt it would "jeopardize" national security "to a degree." Previously, Ridgway's objections had been reported, but unconfirmed.

Sitting next to Ridgway, Secretary of the Army Stevens indicated he may at one time have leaned toward Ridgway's view.

"I have adjusted my thinking completely to the balanced program," Stevens said, "and have no higher figure in mind." The Army's civilian chief declared himself "well satisfied" with the size of forces allotted the Army, describing them as "adequate to do the job at hand."

It is the administration's plan to trim the Army from 1,170,000 men as of last July 1 to 1,027,000 by mid-1956. The stated objective is to maintain military forces in balance with economic factors.

As the House committee turned its attention to President Eisenhower's request for a four-year extension of the draft law, Rep. Brooks (D-La.) said congressional concern over the new manpower program is certain to show up in House and Senate debate when the draft bill is considered.

"If the Army is being reduced, people are going to ask why the draft law must be extended four years," he told newsmen.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) said he hoped the committee would have a draft bill ready for the House by next Monday. Despite some congressional concern over the manpower program, the draft extension is expected to pass without trouble.

Vinson told newsmen there would be no committee action now on the manpower issue.

Ridgway went on to say that the manpower reductions over the next 17 months would necessitate a "major reallocation" of U.S. Army forces throughout the world, not just in the Far East.

But Ridgway emphasized that policy decisions are made by higher authority, and he asserted that "whatever the decision," the Army would follow it "with courage and loyalty."

Recruit Benefit Deadline Passes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Persons who enter the armed forces from today on will be ineligible for such war-born veterans benefits as free education and government-guaranteed home loans.

Under President Eisenhower's order, such benefits provided under the Korean GI Bill came to an end at midnight last night so far as new recruits and inductees are concerned.

As things stand now, even those who were in uniform before the deadline would be barred from piling up any more post-discharge education credits. But the bill to remedy this, the Senate is expected to follow suit and the White House has said the proposal is acceptable to the President.

The Veterans Administration said last night persons who enter the armed forces from now on may be entitled to certain peacetime benefits such as medical care, disability compensation and life insurance indemnity.

First Blue Ribbon Awarded At Show

HOUSTON (AP)—The main show doesn't open until tomorrow, but a Whitney youth already has won the Houston Fat Stock Show's first blue ribbon.

The award went last night to John Pelham, 17, whose graded animal won the junior commercial steer contest, heavyweight class.

Other winners were Donald Beerwinkle, Temple, and Cleve Jones, Sonora, middleweight class, and Joyce Brandt, Donald Wanjura and Leslie Kahlden, all of Welmar, lightweight class.

Oilmen Criticize Bill Urged In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Major and independent oil men criticized yesterday a bill forcing the Oklahoma Corporation Commission to set the state's daily oil allowable at 25 barrels on a lease basis.

Witnesses said the move would retard oil conservation, would result in over-production and would bring on market chaos injuring all segments of the oil industry. 81 077 mw650ca 1

City To Have One-Way Streets Soon; Changes Now Being Made

Preparations are fast being completed for changing Third and Fourth Streets from two-way to one-way arteries.

It is not yet known when the change will come, but it should be in the immediate future as Jarbet Construction Company lacks only a little on Fourth Street construction.

When Fourth is completed it will become a segment of U. H. Highway 80, relieving congested conditions on the present Third Street route.

Traffic will be routed east on Fourth and west on Third. The city has already installed some new traffic lights on Fourth Street to meet the demands of the new one-way traffic, but most of the anticipated changes are still on paper.

Parking changes are expected, and a number of traffic signs must be posted. Lanes will have to be painted at intersections to direct drivers who wish to turn either north or south.

A number of changes will have to be effected on Third Street as well as Fourth.

City Manager H. W. Whitney has announced that equipment which the city will install has already been received and is stored pending the change.

The manager does not know just when to expect the change-over, and he announced that Sam McComb of the local highway maintenance department also is in the dark as to the date of change.

Manager Whitney stated that the district highway engineer, J. C. (Jake) Roberts, has assured him that the Highway Department will post all necessary signs.

Whitney said he takes this to mean that the Highway Department will also paint the turn-lanes in the streets. However, this has not been discussed, he said.

Cables to conduct electricity to the new signal lights have already been installed along Fourth Street, Whitney said. All that is necessary is to hook up the stored lights prior to the change.

The one-way traffic lights have already been hung on Fourth where Nolan, Goliad, Benton and State streets intersect. These lights are covered and are not being used.

The one-way signal lights face only three directions on Fourth—north, south and west. There is no light facing east, as such a light would be unnecessary. On Third Street the lights will face north, south and east.

The City Commission ordered purchase of the new lights back in November out of the street improvement fund for which voters approved a $50,000 bond election.

Other intersections on Fourth to get the new one-way lights will be Johnson, Runnels, Main, Scurry and Gregg. Majority of lights on Third Street are already installed, but one side from each intersection signal can be salvaged as only three sides instead of four will be needed.

Lights will be on corner standards instead of hanging in the middle, it was announced. The regular four-sided lights to be removed from intersections downtown will be placed at other busy intersections about the city. Intersections with top priority are Sixth and Main, Tenth and Goliad, and Tenth and State.

Parking on Fourth will be changed to parallel, rather than head-in. Meters will be changed just prior to the time the one-way system is installed.

Signs to be installed by the Highway Department will likely be those described in the Highway Department's manual, Whitney said. The manual calls for signs on corners of all streets crossing the one-way arteries.

The signs can be read on both sides. Consequently drivers going north or south will find a sign on the near corner to their right and the far corner to their left.

The type of signs to be painted in the streets, if any, is not yet known.

Man's 103rd Birthday Doesn't Stop Reading

VANCEBURG, Ky., Jan. 31 (AP)—It was his 103rd birthday yesterday, but Henry Luman didn't let the celebration interfere with his reading habits.

He is going through the Bible again, a task he assigned himself just before Christmas.

"Right now, he's in the Acts," said Mrs. Cora Pollitt, the daughter with whom he lives at nearby Tollesboro.

Polio Victim Is Saved From Coal Gas Fumes

BALTIMORE (AP)—Nancy Baird, 6-year-old polio victim, was overcome by escaping coal gas last night while asleep upstairs but an alert older sister detected the fumes and saved her life.

Five other children in the family were downstairs watching television at the time. Diana Baird, 14, smelled the gas. She called the Fire Department and rescuers revived Nancy. After an examination at Franklin Square Hospital, she was released.

Abner Baird, father of the children, works at night. The mother is in a hospital.

AT AGE OF 40

Blind War Hero Orphan Adopted

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Orphaned at birth, blinded in World War II, winner of the Medal of Honor, Jose Reyes now has been adopted, at 40, by the couple he long has called "Mamma and Daddy."

It was a tearful yet joyful scene yesterday in the court of Superior Judge Georgia Bullock, who approved the adult adoption.

Here is the story of Jose Reyes: Born in Guanavato, Mexico, he grew up in a San Antonio, Tex., orphanage, worked in a railroad roundhouse, joined the Army in 1936, served through World War II in the Combat Engineers, 2nd Division, under the late Gen. George S. Patton Jr. in Africa and Italy.

A shrapnel burst Dec. 24, 1944, blew away much of his face and blinded him. Three years of hospitalization and 30 operations later he was discharged Jan. 31, 1947.

That's eight years ago yesterday. Besides the Medal of Honor, Reyes holds a presidential unit citation, American Defense Medal, Victory Medal, Infantry Badge, Bronze Star, Silver Star and Purple Heart.

"I went for the defense of my country, not medals," he said. At his home in nearby Lynwood, Reyes and his wife Angela, 47, have a flagpole. Every morning he raises the American flag; every evening he lowers it. His German shepherd lead dog is named "General Patton."

Six years ago, Reyes became friendly with nearby residents Leonard W. Greensfelder, 53, a Los Angeles city employe, and his wife Olive Rose, 51. The friendship grew into much more than that.

"He's been through so very much," Mrs. Greensfelder said. We think of him as our son and we wanted him to have security and family background."

Schedule Announced

The Army recruiter, Sgt. William T. Parks, will be in Big Spring each week on Mondays and Fridays. His office hours will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the basement of the post office. The recruiter urges all young men to contact him Friday and investigate the benefits of service in the Army.

Amarillo Rancher Battles Tax Lien

DALLAS (AP)—Amarillo rancher B. B. Carter has asked an injunction barring the government from keeping in force a lien against what he says are oil-rich lands in Reagan County.

Carter petitioned Judge W. L. Thornton to force the government to lift a lien placed on 8,150 acres of land in the Southwest Texas county, on the grounds that a private firm has a superior claim.

The petition alleges Carter and his wife put up the land as security for a $125,000 loan from John Hancock Insurance Co. before the government put a lien on the property for a tax claim.

Carter says the government lien is preventing his leasing the property to Seaboard Oil Co. and Atlantic Refining Co.

Two Given Terms In Bank Robberies

TYLER (AP)—Joe Gore pleaded guilty yesterday to robbing the Tyler Bank and Trust Co. and the Grapeland Bank and was sentenced by Federal Judge Joe Sheehy.

Gore, already under 7-year sentence for robbing a Scottsbluff, Neb., bank, was sentenced to 12 years for the April 8, 1954, Tyler robbery and to 12 years each two counts in the Grapeland robbery. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Gene Brown was sentenced to six years on each of two counts in the Grapeland robbery.

Mental Specialist Due In Priest Case

LEBANON, Mo. (AP)—A specialist in mental ailments may examine Thurman Priest, 48, Grand Prairie, Tex., bookkeeper accused of killing his niece, Jeannette Ernest, 11, of Fort Worth.

Prosecutor Joe Grossenheider said yesterday he would not object to the defense request for an examination by Dr. A. B. Jones of St. Louis.

Priest, who officials say has admitted the slaying, is to be tried this month.

Barrett succeeds George Bryant, who resigned to become president of Jefferson Chemical Co., Inc., owned jointly by The Texas Co. and American Cyanamid Co.

A Bible Thought For Today

Who is wise, and he shall understand these things? prudent, and he shall know them? for the ways of the LORD are right, and the just shall walk in them: but the transgressors shall fall therein. (Hosea 14:9).

Government In The Open

Government in the open is a requisite of freedom and of sustained efficiency in the public interest.

In recent years the tempo of the fight against arbitrary censorship by bureaus and departments of the federal government has been increased. Those entrusted with the perpetuation of the free press had sensed, from having seen what this cancerous practice produced under totalitarian regimes, had good cause to start fighting the practice of withholding or regulating news.

More progress might have been made except for the nebulous line which lies between news in the public interest and that which conceivably might jeopardize the national security. The overwhelming majority of reporters lean over backward not to infringe on security, and in many cases refuge has been taken unfairly by agents of government behind the line of security.

Yet not all the battles are confined to Washington or even to Austin, where there has been a disturbing inclination to hide the facts. The fundamental cry for vigilance is in the community. About us we have examples of officials and boards who have attempted to tell the press what it can and cannot print, what would be good for the public to know or what would not. We have seen too many times when members of officials boards sit placidly through regular meetings and then clandestinely conducted business over coffee cups. All of this disturbs us no little, and it ought to disturb every citizen to the point that he demand of his officials and representatives that the public's business be discussed and conducted in public. Most of those in public life would say amen to that.

Peace By Desire Or Realism?

Gen. MacArthur's Los Angeles speech about war and peace was a classic in the MacArthurian tradition of orotund oratory, and certainly it echoed in men's minds and hearts the universal yearning for a warless world.

But how to achieve that ambition there are many differences of opinion. Obviously if a mere desire and will for peace were all that is needed, there would be peace. MacArthur thinks that if the U. S. would "proclaim our readiness to abolish war in concert with other great powers of the world," the results would be magical.

The abolition of war, as he sees it, would not have to rest on international inspection of armaments. Public opinion and the great gains enjoyed by a world at peace would insure it.

Increased preparedness by alliances, by arming, by peacetime conscription, the general argued, no longer suffice. They merely provoke the other side to go and do likewise.

The controlling factor in a warless world would be public opinion, as the general sees it.

However much one may share the yearning for a warless world, there are several things in the way of its realization. The controlling factor of which the general speaks does not exist in considerably more than half the world today—the half that is determined to bend the other half to its will by force of arms by every known means legitimate and illegitimate. Public opinion has no self-expression where totalitarian authority exists.

It takes two sides to make a war, and it takes two sides to make a peace. We can have "peace" with the Communist world any time we want it badly enough to stick our necks in the noose of slavery. That kind of peace has been available to us right along. Do the Poles, the Hungarians, the Czechs and the Russians and Chinese themselves have peace inside their borders? Yes, the peace of the piper and the caged wild animals.

Another great American general, George Washington, thought the best insurance of peace was a strong preparedness for war. Nothing that has happened in the last 179 years has disproved his wisdom.

Stand On Formosa Area Is Not Clear

The chances, such as they are, of arranging a cease-fire in the Formosa Straits would seem in the first instance to depend upon what the Administration has in mind about the off-shore islands. Certain of these off-shore islands are referred to in the Congressional resolution and are called the "related positions and territories of that area."

The Administration seems to be saying that though the United States is not going to "enlarge its defensive obligations beyond Formosa and the Pescadores as provided by the treaty," the President will probably decide to defend some of the off-shore islands as a way of defending Formosa.

Beyond our legal right to defend Formosa and the Pescadores, which cannot be doubted, the Administration is asserting that it has also a strategic right to defend Quemoy and other islands if it chooses to do so. In this area where it is asserting a strategic right, the Administration has adopted a policy of deliberate ambiguity. Thus there is for the time being no demarcation line at which a cease-fire could be agreed to.

Without a demarcation line there cannot be a cease-fire. In order to have a cease-fire the armed forces of the two sides must know where the fence between them is.

We may ask ourselves whether it was necessary for the President to ask Congress to vote him authority to act beyond the legal line in the off-shore islands. Not.

Potomac Fever

WASHINGTON—like flies to Augusta, Ga., for some rest. In case of emergency phone Admiral Radford. On second thought, phone Radford anyway—he'll supply the emergency.

One typical Congressman says he knows he's heart and soul for Ike's "fight if necessary" program. He's sure his soul must be in it—his heart is beating so fast.

Democrats decide to hold their presidential conventions in mid-August. This being the hottest time of year, it gives the delegates more excuse to stay away from the speeches.

Treasury Secretary Humphrey sells 40-year government bonds. This gives the average guy a gambling chance to get out of debt before his government does.

Democrats move to kill the Administration's Dixon-Yates power contract. This issue has great "Whodunit" appeal. Nine out of ten people think Dixon-Yates is some British butler accused of murder by Scotland Yard.

G.I.: "What are you doing in uniform? I thought you were 4-F." Buddy: "I am. Fight for Formosa first."

Red China may be invited to come to the U.N. and discuss a cease-fire. For an outsider, Red China seems to be giving the U.N. hot-check girl more business than some of the members.

By FLETCHER KNEBEL

I submit, so long as our defensive obligations do not go beyond the legal line of Formosa and the Pescadores. The President has undoubted legal power to repel aggression against territory over which the United States has legal rights, and this power has always carried with it the right to strike out beyond the geographic lines to repel the aggression.

Congress, when it makes a declaration of war, does not specify, as does this resolution, what is to be the strategic plan of the war. No one need doubt that if an invasion force threatening the conquest of Formosa were building up in the Chinese ports, the authority to defend Formosa would carry with it the authority to take preventive measures.

The trouble with this clause is not that it authorizes the President to do certain things that might be necessary if an invasion of Formosa were being mounted. The trouble with this clause is that for all practical purposes it commits him to defend islands that lie outside the legal area in which the United States has rights. The President would have just as much authority in the military sense and he would have a far freer hand in the diplomatic sense if somebody had not persuaded the President to insert the "related positions and territories" clause.

The clause raises also new and serious serious obstacles to the project of truce through the U. N. We do not know, of course, if there is any conceivable arrangement acceptable here to which Chou En-lai would agree. But what was possible would have been wide support among our allies in Europe and among the uncommitted nations of Asia for a clear-cut cease-fire proposal at the jurisdictional line. We cannot expect much support for our strategic claims beyond the legal line. Whatever their military importance may be—and the President did not rate them very high last September—they are a political and diplomatic liability today.

The clause raises also new and serious practical difficulties. The position of the Administration is that we have a strategic right to defend Quemoy, which is less than five miles from the mainland, because we have a legal right to defend Formosa. But it is not we who are in Quemoy. It is Chiang's armed forces. Will they follow the same policy as we, namely a defensive policy? Or will they use the island to raid the mainland and to attack shipping? Unless Chiang is bound to the same defensive policy as we confine ourselves to, we shall be putting the power to make peace or war into his hands. That is a risk against which every precaution should be taken. It is a thousand pities that the Administration has involved itself in such unnecessary and dangerous ambiguities.

It cannot, I believe, be said too often or too insistently that if there is hope of a modus vivendi, it lies in some kind of acceptance by Peking and Washington of the fact that the jurisdictional line is where the fighting has ended. The Senate would serve the vital interests of the United States if it found some way of clarifying the distinction between our genuine rights in this area and our strategic notions.

Before We Release The Forecast—

U. S. Policy On Formosa Not Always Frank

WASHINGTON (AP)—America's Formosan policy has zig-zagged. It has not always been frank. There was consistency behind the scenes, but not in the open, in considering Formosa strategically important. There was inconsistency in defending it.

American military weakness before the Korean War, the result of economizing, was at the root of President Truman's decision in early 1950 not to defend the island against the Chinese Reds. He reversed himself six months later when the Korean War began.

Most of the story unfolded in the 1951 Senate hearings on the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, particularly in testimony by Dean Acheson, then secretary of state; Gen. Omar N. Bradley, then chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; and the late Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, then a member of the JCS.

The Japanese, who took Formosa from China in 1895, had to give it up after World War II. Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists ruled China then.

On June 3, 1945, before the Japanese war ended, the State Department had issued a bulletin. It said no point in the Far East, except Singapore, was so strategically important as Formosa.

Bradley said in 1951 the JCS had "always" felt it was "important" to lose Formosa to a foe, Bradley said, would not force American defenses back to the United States West Coast but would "jeopardize" a U. S. communications between the Philippines and Okinawa.

Sherman said that although the JCS didn't want Formosa in unfriendly hands, the military leadership didn't think this country should send armed forces to hold Formosa because of the "state of the military establishment."

That establishment had been dismantled after World War II. Only a shell was left. In December 1949, just after the Reds had smashed Chiang, the Truman administration was getting ready to tell Congress it wanted to cut military spending to 13 1/2 billion dollars and reduce the armed forces still further from 1,622,917 to 1,432,289 men.

That month the Reds, having driven Chiang to Formosa, seemed to be making preparations to capture it. The JCS recommended a "modest program" of military help for Chiang. The State Department opposed the idea and won out.

On Dec. 23, 1949, that department issued a guide for broadcasters of the Voice of America, telling them to explain to the world that Formosa had no strategic value and wasn't worth defending. Acheson said this was done to save the United States from embarrassment when Formosa fell to the Reds. The real story, as he told it at the hearings, was this:

The United States was too weak to defend Formosa. Truman, backing up the State Department, on Jan. 5, 1950, said the United States would not defend Formosa. On June 27, 1950, two days after the Korean War started, Truman decided to defend Formosa. That has been his policy since Eisenhower's policy ever since.

Specialization Gone Too Far?

NEW YORK (AP)—Curbstone reflections of a pavement plater:

Would you hire a plumber who told you he could get hot and cold water from the same faucet?

Probably not, unless every pipe in your house had burst and all the other plumbers had gone to an out-of-town convention. You wouldn't have any faith in the guy.

But in other lines than plumbing, ranging from psychiatry to international diplomacy, there have arisen specialists who find it no trick at all to get hot and cold water from the same faucet.

Our century has seen the decline of the handy man, who could handle almost any task, and the rise of the cult of the specialist. Offhand I can think of only two kinds of handy men left—wives and bus drivers.

Everybody else appears to want to be a specialist. A specialist has been defined as "one who knows more and more about less and less."

But much of the befuddlement of modern man comes from the fact he leans for guidance on specialists who disagree among themselves on every point except one—that they are all specialists.

Is there any wonder then that educators now worry about what they call an "anti-intellectual" trend in this country?

Is it because the specialists are letting the common man down, and he is therefore rebelling against them?

Specialization is a fine idea in itself. Man's knowledge has grown tremendously. It has been estimated (probably by a specialist in such matters) that no human brain, not even a Harvard sophomoric one, can hold more than one millionth of all the facts that are now known.

The question is whether we aren't in danger of getting overspecialized. Are we concentrating so hard in learning all about the little trees we bump into in our daily life that we aren't learning enough about the great big terrible forest we all live in together?

Girl Gets Apology From Eisenhower For Speech Length

REESE, Mich. (AP)—Elaine Solgat, 16, has writer's cramp and an apology from President Eisenhower to show for talking in her history class.

Elaine is a pretty junior at Reese High School. She had to copy the President's 7,700-word State of the Union message Jan. 7 in longhand as punishment for talking while her history class was listening to the address.

It took her nearly a week and 33 pages. She sent it to the President.

"I thought he might have covered the same ground with fewer words," she said.

Elaine got the copy back yesterday. Written across the top of the first page was this message:

"To: Elaine Solgat—With profound apologies for the length of this speech to one who was given the task of copying it. With best wishes from Dwight D. Eisenhower."

"He's a pretty nice President," Elaine said after getting the reply. "A lot of others wouldn't have bothered with me."

Would Aid Research

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hill (D-Ala.) says he and Sen. Bridges (R-NH) will seek congressional approval of a new three-year program of federal aid for research into the causes of fatal and crippling diseases—such as cancer, heart disease and mental illnesses.

The passenger who leaves New York at 8 a. m. will be in Los Angeles at 6:30 a. m., L. A. time. But even with a helicopter or something better waiting to ferry him into midtown in nothing flat in 1965, the New Yorker probably will be lucky if he can get his mitts on his suitcase and shag a helicopter into downtown L. A. in time for luncheon, Los Angeles time.

Baggage distribution is the biggest and knottiest unsolved problem of aviation past, present and future. Dr. von Braun, one of the world's foremost rocket experts, believes we earthlings will have a manned space station circling our world in an orbit 1,075 miles above us before we finally invent a system that rapidly unscrambles air luggage and delivers it pronto to its owners.

Now TWA is offering a $50,000 prize, to be awarded in 1965 to the person, his heirs or assigns, who best describes within the next six months what air travel will be like in 1985. Answers received by TWA will be microfilmed and stored in Kansas City, to be duly judged thirty years hence.

It is my advice to anyone eager to enter the contest and provide for his future to forget all about predictions as to what aircraft will look like or how they will operate in 1985. This is bound to be pure

Desire To See Snow Is Fulfilled

You may not have realized it but the heavy snowfall here the first part of January brought Big Spring nationwide publicity. Not only were stories carried over the national wires of the Associated Press but pictures by Herald Photographer Keith McMillin ran in many of the nation's leading newspapers.

An aunt in St. Louis sent me a clipping from the Globe-Democrat, morning newspaper there, and remarked it reminded her how I, as a small boy, had wanted my grandmother to bring a bucket of snow with her on her yearly visits to our Rio Grande Valley home.

It never, never snows down there, you know. (If you don't, the chambers of commerce have been remiss.) And I had read and heard of snow, especially at Christmas, so I wanted to find out what the stuff was.

My grandmother was never able to fulfill my request, and as I grew up I forgot about it. I never forgot my desire to see snow fall, however.

When I went away to school at Austin, I looked forward to seeing it snow. For I knew it had fallen there during recent history. Alas, however, both times during my college career that it snowed, it came during the mid-semester interval while I was home. I did get to see the snow on the ground as I returned each time to my classes, and I had the chance to watch it turn to slush.

Later after a couple of years working on South Texas newspapers, I prepared to come to Big Spring. One of the questions I asked during the interview was how often it snowed here.

Last winter I eagerly awaited the first snowfall. At least two times there was a light mantle of white laid over the city, and I went to the office in the morning snow, and in the knowledge that must be secure. "But, no, the Weather Bureau called it a 'glaze,'" and my hopes were dashed.

December, January and February all passed without any snow, and I began to have my doubts I would see any that winter.

March turned the trick however with its surprise fall one morning early in the month. As I was going to work about 7:30 a. m., a light snow was falling. I was tempted to stay home and play around with the stuff like a kid, but prudence triumphed and I went to work as usual.

Still there was a little doubt in my mind as to whether the stuff was snow or not. When others on the staff, longer resident here than I, confirmed that it was snow, my day was complete.

Since then there have been other snowfalls, of course, and I've begun to come to the point where "no snow ever" does appeal as a slogan. But having waited as long as I did to see the stuff, I certainly didn't feel that way the first time.

'Causes' Bring Out 'Lobbyists'

Lobbying in the Texas Legislature has gone through a change, until now probably there are 10 lobbyists for public groups or "causes" to every one for private interests.

The only difference, they aren't paid for their work.

The drives for rural roads, gas taxes, election law changes, teachers' pay raises and school legislation started the modern lobbying procedure, around 1947-9, and in later sessions. About 2,500 Texans swarmed Capitol corridors and legislative galleries on behalf of the $15 million "last mile" rural road bill. Probably 3,000 showed up to press for action on the Gilmer-Aikin program for education and the teacher pay raise bills.

The lobbyist for a particular business or industry has a full-time job during sessions. He usually is a former senator or House member, or at least a well-known lawyer. He stays on the job day and night.

The modern trend in lobbying is to bring in mass pressure groups, with numbers, counting, for one day, or one committee hearing, or one final vote. The volunteers pay their own way. It's sort of a skylark, as well as a crusade, with them. Their job is to call their senator and representatives out and talk to them, with repetition considered the cue to swinging a vote.

This public or citizen lobbying no doubt is one of the healthiest things that has happened to the Legislature.

Many states require the professional lobbyist to register; and some require a disclosure not only of their clients but of the amount of their fees. These reports probably are as truthful as election expense reports.

Texas legislators haven't gone that far. Many bills of the kind have been offered. Usually one is loaded with ludicrous amendments until the author disowns it.

Instead, the Legislature has a rule requiring each person who appears before a committee for or against pending legislation to sign, under oath, a statement naming those he represents. This is required of the spokesman for the WCTU or the League of Texas Municipalities, just the same as the spokesman for an oil company.

Public mass-pressure lobbying pays off. It's here to stay.

How Will They Handle The Luggage?

Science is certainly a wonderful institution, always provided man manages to survive its ministrations. For example, 30 years from now, man will be jetting through the empyrean at minimum speeds of 1,500 to 2,000 miles per hour in aircraft flying at altitudes of 12 to 15 miles and capable of taking off from a standing start, like today's helicopters. Some may even be atom-powered.

Least anyone fear that I have succumbed to science fiction. I hasten to add that all the above information is based on the more sedate predictions of top scientists, engineers and executives in the aviation business. They gathered in New York a few days ago to speak in solemn symposium under the auspices of Trans World Airlines.

By 1985 all flight will be completely automatic and "the pilot will go along only for the ride." These are the words of Hall Hibbard, vice president in the engineering division of Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

It was a rare treat to hobnob even briefly with such men as Mr. Hibbard, Dr. Werner von Braun, chief of the guided missile division of the U. S. Army's Redstone Arsenal, and Dr. F. L. Whipple, chairman of the Department of Astronomy at Harvard.

And it was a privilege to discover that all the major problems of aviation will be licked by 1985; all that is, except one that still stumps the experts. By 1985, they will know how to get the passenger from New York to Los Angeles in 90 minutes. But darned if they have yet figured out a way to get the 1985 customer's baggage to him in less time than it will take him to cross the continent!

The passenger who leaves New York at 8 a. m. will be in Los Angeles at 6:30 a. m., L. A. time. But even with a helicopter or something better waiting to ferry him into midtown in nothing flat in 1985, the New Yorker probably will be lucky if he can get his mitts on his suitcase and shag a helicopter into downtown L. A. in time for luncheon, Los Angeles time.

Baggage distribution is the biggest and knottiest unsolved problem of aviation past, present and future. Dr. von Braun, one of the world's foremost rocket experts, believes we earthlings will have a manned space station circling our world in an orbit 1,075 miles above us before we finally invent a system that rapidly unscrambles air luggage and delivers it pronto to its owners.

Now TWA is offering a $50,000 prize, to be awarded in 1985 to the person, his heirs or assigns, who best describes within the next six months what air travel will be like in 1985. Answers received by TWA will be microfilmed and stored in Kansas City, to be duly judged thirty years hence.

It is my advice to anyone eager to enter the contest and provide for his future to forget all about predictions as to what aircraft will look like or how they will operate in 1985. This is bound to be pure guesswork. One thing only is certain: the baggage distribution will still be a mess.

Let the contestant provide a real solution for this problem in 1985, and the money is his. Man will never feel that the wild has been extracted from the blue yonder until he and his Gladstone reach their destination simultaneously.

Pollution Irks Detroit

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—In Michigan, which describes itself as a "Water Wonderland," water pollution is a costly, growing problem and a threat to friendly relations with Canada. Phenol, the principal constituent of carbolic acid is found in the St. Clair and Detroit Rivers and Lake St. Clair—the sources of water for Detroit and most of southeastern Michigan.

It comes mostly from oil refineries around Sarnia, Ont., says Milton P. Adams, secretary of the Michigan Water Resources Commission. Adams says Detroit has spent $1,400,000 on extra chemicals for its water purification in the past 10 years. But that would be only a drop in the bucket, should Detroit be forced to go to Lake Huron for its water. That would be a 200 million dollar project.

Other cities, too, are having their troubles with phenol and Michigan's attorney general has served notice on Canada the state expects it to pay damages for pollution up to this time and to halt it or continue to pay damages.

Boin-n-g-g-g!

Does the elasticized nylon stocking being stretched out by Mrs. W. D. Hastings. Mrs. Weldon Low holds its mate which shows the size before being stretched. The new stretchy hosiery is catching on in Big Spring and may prove a boon to women with thin legs who have trouble with bagging stockings. They're supposed to keep a seam straight, too.

Nylon Hosiery Assumes A Three-Way Stretch

By CAROL MITCHELL.
Budgets are not the only things stretching these days.
It's a known fact that the stretch nylon socks for men account for 50 per cent of men's hosiery sales these days. Now stretch nylon hosiery for women is rearing its head in local stores.
At least four retail stores here carry these new stockings and all report good response so far. In fact there was considerable demand for them late last fall and one store did stock them before Christmas.
Probably the greatest selling point the new leg wear has is that the seams stay straight all day once they are in place. The stockings hug the legs and prevent any bagging or sagging. The heel height can be adjusted to the individual's taste.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY Dyed Hair Calls For A Lot Of Extra Care-Time

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Helene Stanley has been in show business since she was three and has been under contract to several major studios. But the thing she is best known for, perhaps, is that Walt Disney used her as the model for both "Cinderella" and "Snow White."
"That's quite a contrast to the part I just finished at Allied Artists," she told me yesterday when I lunched with her at a small cafe on Sunset Blvd. "I played a real bad girl in 'Dial 116.'"
"Did you go blonde in that picture?" I asked.
"Yes, but I went back to my natural red as soon as I finished," she said. "Being blonde is too much trouble. You have to spend so much time in the beauty parlor, not to mention the dent it makes in your bank account. And most blondes have real problems with their hair—they can't get permanents and the ends often break off."
"But can't girls with dyed hair give special care to it?" I asked.
"Yes they can, but it takes a lot of extra time," Helene answered. "A good trick is to rub the scalp and hair with castor oil one evening a week, and leave it on overnight. When I did this I wore a shower cap all night to protect the pillow. The next morning I would rinse my hair in warm water—no soap—and allow as much oil to stay on as possible. This seemed to help me more than anything else."
I asked Helene how Hollywood make-up men had improved her appearance the most.
"I think the most valuable help was the way they taught me to work out a balance in my face," she said. "I have a high forehead and a pointed chin, so they advised me to dress my hair in some sort of bang. And they arched my eyebrows in a line to harmonize with my chin."
"If your eyebrows were heavy the way mine were, it's easier to keep them well-groomed with wax," Helene added.

"Do you wax your eyebrows yourself or have it done?" I wanted to know.
"At first I had someone do it, but I watched them and now do it myself," she explained. "The main point is not to have the wax too hot—if it is liquid then you can't work with it. You have to wait for it to be the consistency of fudge about to be whipped. The thing I like about wax is that the heat opens the pores so that the hair follicle comes out and when you continue these treatments the hairs become weaker and weaker until you have less and less to wax off." "You can buy this wax in any cosmetic department," Helene added.
Helene has fabulously long eyelashes. "I have my mother to thank because she used to brush odorless castor oil on my lashes when I was a little girl."

MRS. GEORGE DRAKE, Chicago, Ill., says: "My youngsters' heads ordinary aspirin. They really take St. Joseph Aspirin For Children. They like its pure orange flavor."

The planning session will be held in Big Spring on Feb. 15, and students are planning to attend from approximately 60 schools about West Texas.

Bedner's acceptance of an invitation to attend the meeting was announced this morning by K. H. McGibbon, chairman of the juvenile drivers committee of the Citizens' Traffic Commission.

The program for the Big Spring meeting is being sponsored jointly by the local schools, the P-T-A and the CTC. Representatives from Midland and Snyder were here last week to discuss the coming session.

Liquor Store Door Found Kicked Open

Police said this morning that the door to Simon Terrazas' Warehouse Liquor Store, 401 N. Gregg, was kicked in sometime over the weekend.

Officers discovered that the door was open about 3:30 p.m. Sunday, and they said it had apparently been kicked in or battered open.

A quick check last night indicated that nothing was missing, but Terrazas was to have conducted an inventory this morning to make sure.

Theft of a car radio was reported by Mrs. Lamar Masterson, 1609 State. She said the radio was taken from her late model Ford while it was parked in the business district.

BOMB CASE

he was taking his daughter, 6, to school in Houston at the time the bomb went off.

Heminger said he had no part in the murder plot.

Percy Foreman, Houston attorney, asserted his client is innocent. The other person named in Jack Cordell, 32, held in Brownwood on a check swindling charge not connected with the Weaver case. He was arrested in Oklahoma City for questioning about two attempts to extort $3,000 from Mrs. Weaver's husband in exchange for her killer's picture.

A vital issue in the case still is: "How did the man who actually put the bomb in the Weaver car?"

Officials won't say yes or no. "I don't think they got them all," said John Ramirez, a filling station attendant who watched Mrs. Weaver get in the car. He said officers have not warned him to keep quiet.

"It's quite possible they don't have them all," said a state officer who was one on the first on the scene but has not been asked to help since.

Sheriff Cecil Turner has "no comment" when asked if it is true he remarked after Washburn's arrest that one of the most important participants was still at large.

One report was that officers were looking for a Mexican supposed to have turned down a job of planting a bomb in the Weaver car.

"They haven't found him yet," a sheriff's officer said.

All officers readily said the investigation has been delegated to Dist. Atty. Aubrey Stokes, Texas Ranger Ralph Rohatsch, City Police Detective Sgt. Leo Brazier and Sheriff Turner. Stokes is the "spokesman."

Stokes has refused to comment in any detail on the case. He said he would confer "at a later date" with Judge Joe Mays about calling a grand jury.

Mrs. Weaver's husband, a former Houston architect inclined toward stoutness, said last night he has been instructed by attorneys not to talk about the case. He added, however:

"The sun is shining brightly. My prayers were answered. You'll never know how wonderful it is to have your prayers answered."

Three New Mexico Runaways Are Held

Long said the boy has been accused of stealing an automobile which was abandoned in Vaughn, N. M., Sunday night. The three hitchhiked to Big Spring Monday.

He petitions for compensation at the rate of $25 per week for 401 weeks.

Four Big Springers Enlisted In Navy

IT HAPPENED

A Dog's Life

CHICAGO (AP)—Everybody except Grandma got cold and wet yesterday trying to rescue 11-year-old Memo Bush's puppy King from the Calumet Sag Canal.

The pup, playing with his master rushed onto the ice and fell into the cold water. Memo and a couple of pals, Warren Skoglund, 10, and Jim Alfano, 14, watched him finally scramble on to a floating piece of ice.

Warren and Memo stepped out onto the ice to rescue King. The ice gave way and both boys went into water up to their knees.

Jim took charge and ordered them home for dry clothes. He and a passer-by started out on the ice for the rescue. Both fell in.

Memo's mother, Mrs. Florence Bush, 27, got there about that time and fell in, too. But Memo's grandmothers, Marie Young, 49, who arrived on the scene with some blankets, took one look and stayed on the shore.

The boys finally got a long stick and pushed the floating piece of ice carrying King next to a larger piece.

Counterattack

OMAHA (AP)—Men buy their wives' shoes? Omaha shoe store executives say it's not uncommon and have nothing but praise for the men.

They say the men show excellent taste, pay a little fancier price than women and, said salesman Howard Thompson, "a man takes maybe 10 or 15 minutes to buy a pair of shoes. The average woman takes twice that long."

Six youngsters, aged 14 to 17, were released following their arrest Sunday night at a beer party in a parked car at Ninth and San Antonio.

Juvenile Officer A. E. Long said the six furnished the name of an establishment which they said sold them a case of beer. Operator of the place denied the sale, the officer said. Apparently no charges are to be filed.

Long said the sextet included five boys and a girl. He said the girl was taken home and the boys were released after the questioning.

Ten Fingerprints Checked In Rubinstein Slaying Case

By JOHN BAUSMAN
NEW YORK (AP)—Ten mysterious fingerprints found in the bedroom of Serge Rubinstein were checked today in search for the killer of the millionaire financier and draft dodger.

Discovery of these prints and eight others was disclosed yesterday by Asst. Dist. Atty. Alexander Herman. Six fingerprints proved to be those of the murder victim and two others were useless smudges, Herman said.

Mindful of the 46-year-old Rubinstein's playboy reputation, police are checking the 10 prints against those on file for more than 5,000 night club entertainers.

Although the prints could lead to the person who strangled Rubinstein in his lavish 5th Avenue home five days ago, they also might turn out to be as unimportant as a woman's purse and glove that sparked police interest for a time.

Herman said these female belongings, found in the slain man's bedroom, had been traced to Pat Wray, one of Rubinstein's case society girl friends. She told police she left them there last fall, he said.

Authorities, still baffled by the mysterious slaying, continued to check the more than 1,000 names Rubinstein listed in his notebooks. Reportedly these included names of top Hollywood figures and persons high in Las Vegas, Nev., gambling circles.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Courtland Nicoll yesterday interviewed financier Lee Brooks at a hospital where he had recently undergone an operation. Police were on hand for considering Brooks a suspect in the case, Nicoll stated.

Later in a bedside interview, Brooks told reporters: "Go to Stanley T. Stanley, Rubinstein's only channel to respectable business, and you will see evidence of big deals that could lead to the killer."

Stanley is one of those business associates of Rubinstein who have suggested the slaying was a paid job. "It was a mob job—a syndicate killing," he declared on the day of the murder.

Brooks, who fought Rubinstein in an oil company deal and filed a suit against him for five million dollars, said: "It would serve my purpose better if he had remained alive, as we had an iron-clad case against him."

Three Fugitives Caught At Tempe

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)—With drawn guns, two policemen early today captured three heavily armed fugitives wanted for jailbreak and kidnaping.

Arrested without a struggle were Harley Carringer, 24, of Pocatello, Idaho; Donald Dennis, 17, Delta, Colo.; and Archie Himes, 20, Cedar Edge, Colo.

Officers confiscated seven rifles, several pistols and knives from their car.

They are accused of escaping with a fourth man from a jail at Delta, Colo., and of kidnaping salesman Edgar W. Parrett, 67, in Farmington, N.M., as he drove an auto to them. He later was released unharmed near Lupton, Ariz.

Patrolmen John Boyd and William Gordon said they had heard a police broadcast on the escapees just shortly before they halted their automobile. Boyd said the three men admitted the jail break and kidnaping.

Prime Ministers Wait U.N. Effort

LONDON (AP)—The Commonwealth prime ministers were reported to have decided today to hold off independent efforts to bring about a China cease-fire pending the outcome of action by the United Nations Security Council to this end.

The Security Council voted in New York yesterday to invite Red China to join in talks aimed at halting the fighting in the Formosa area.

Diplomatic informants said the Commonwealth prime ministers now expect Red China to accept the U.N. bid. But most of the leaders in conference here were said to be pessimistic about the prospects of success.

DOG RETURNS WALLET THAT IT BORROWED

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—Frank Hocek, 82, held a light hand on the reins as his horse pulled the ice cream wagon homeward last night.

Perhaps Hocek was thinking of his retirement and move to Weatherford. He had withdrawn his $855 life savings from the bank in preparation for the move.

Then a large dog bounded into the wagon, snatched the wallet containing the money and ran away.

Police were skeptical. A search showed no trace of dog or wallet.

As the cops were about to leave, the dog scampered onto Hocek's lawn and dropped the wallet from its mouth at the feet of a patrolman. The money was still there.

Just as quickly, the dog departed.

Escapée Catches Ride With Officer

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Sidney Wallace Pittman, three-time convict, caught a ride with a Dallas policeman soon after an escape from the Tarrant County Jail, Sheriff Harlow Wright said today.

Pittman, W. P. Moyers of Dallas picked Pittman up near Grand Prairie, Tex., west of here, and drove him to the Waco highway in Dallas, Wright said.

When Moyers was on duty yesterday he discovered the hitchhiker had saved his way out of jail, lowered himself five stories on an improvised rope and disappeared.

Moyers said the fugitive gave him his correct name and said he was "going to Waco."

Small Bomb Turns Up In Penn State Capitol

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—A small, homemade bomb, apparently the work of "a crank" turned up near the main entrance of the State Capitol yesterday.

"At most, there would have been a loud noise" if the bomb had gone off, said State Police Commissioner C. M. Wilhelm. It was capable of little or no damage, he said.

Three Producers Announce 'War And Peace' Film Plans

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—One of the hardest things to find today is a movie producer who is not going to make "War and Peace."
No less than three major movie makers have announced plans to film the Tolstoy classic, first published in English in 1886. It's too early to predict which will get it on the screen first. So far all Hollywood has to go on is the manner in which each has announced his plans to the press.

Texas Solon Has Cotton Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new solution to the cotton acreage problem was proposed today by Rep. John Dowdy of Texas. He admitted it might not work but urged the Agriculture Department to study it.

His plan would help 225,000 farmers who have been allotted five acres or less under the 1955 cotton control program.

Dowdy would have all farmers with cotton allotments of five acres or less plant their land instead to some soil-building cover crop. In return, the government would give them title to two bales of government-owned surplus cotton to sell through regular trade channels.

His plan might help both the small growers and the critical surplus problem, Dowdy said. He pointed out it would reduce the surplus by about a half-million bales and, by taking about a million acres out of cotton production, would work against a further increase in government stocks.

Several senators have introduced bills to boost the national total to 19 1/2 million acres.

Sources close to the situation said there might be a chance of getting a "hardship" increase through Congress but, with the department's stand, might be hard to get Congress to pass and President Eisenhower to sign a general acreage increase.

Sergeant Testifies In Officer's Trial

LAREDO (AP)—A court martial trying an Air Force colonel heard an enlisted man yesterday describe two flights in a military plane to Pennsylvania to repair two half-tracks owned by the colonel.

Sgt. Bobby Herrin said he spent half a day in August, 1952, and "about two days" in June, 1953, working on the half-tracks (personnel carriers) which the government says Col. V. G. Dunn bought as Army surplus.

Herrin did not say, and was not asked, whether he knew the half-tracks were not government property.
Dunn, 49, is former commander of the maintenance and supply group at Laredo AFB. He is charged with wrongful use of enlisted men, government aircraft and tools, violation of Air Force regulations, making a false statement and influencing a witness.

Co-Leaders Of Japan Drifting Toward Break On Peace Offer

By ROBERT EUNSON
TOKYO (AP)—Japan's two top citizens are drifting toward an open break unless someone can get them to agree on how to make peace with Russia.

Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama wants to end the state of war which still exists between Japan and Russia and then talk about the peace terms.

Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu, who signed the surrender aboard the Missouri in 1945 and recalls that Russia struck his country just five days before the end of the war, wants to talk first and sign later.

Unofficial peace talks between Russia and Japan have been going on for the past three months in various world capitals. The most important of these meetings was in Paris between the Japanese and Polish ambassadors to France.
But now the Soviet Embassy in Tokyo, not recognized since the Russians refused to sign the San Francisco Peace Treaty in 1951, has undergone a renovation inside, new paint outside. It has all the earmarks of looking forward to welcoming a new ambassador.
Shigemitsu wants to have an understanding first on such differences as the rightful ownership of the Habomal Islands, which Russia claims, fishing rights in the North Pacific and, last, but not least, the fate of 57,600 Japanese prisoners of war in Russian hands.
Hatoyama and Shigemitsu came to power in December as joint leaders of the newly formed Democratic party of Japan. Their teamwork hastened a feeling of Japanese nationalism throughout the country. Among other things, both leaders promised restoration of normal relations with Russia and Communist China.

But last Saturday, when Hatoyama announced publicly that he had received a note from the head of the unofficial Soviet mission to Japan proposing peace talks, Shigemitsu hit the ceiling.

Japan's Foreign Office had received the same note the previous

Ed Wynn's Third Wife Plans Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—A divorce complaint against comedian Ed Wynn, 68, by his third wife, the former Dorothy Elizabeth Nesbitt, 44, of New York, is ready for filing today.

Her attorney said she signed the complaint, alleging extreme cruelty, yesterday. The lawyer said they had made a property agreement. The Wynns were married in Las Vegas, Nev., July 31, 1948.

Corpus Christi Crash Claims Third Victim

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—A head-on crash witnessed by the police chief claimed its third life yesterday.
Ensign Thomas Campbell, 23, of Oostburg, N.Y., died 25 hours after the crash on Ocean Drive Sunday. Killed outright were Ensigns Robert Sheldon, 25, El Segundo, Calif., and John Broadfoot, 24, Short Hills, N.J. All were stationed at Corpus Christi Naval Air Station.
Police Chief Dick Runyan said he was chasing the car driven by Sheldon when the crash occurred.

Tuesday and was trying to keep it secret, pointing out to the Russians there were a few facts of life to be discussed first.

American observers are wondering at the timing of the Russian offer.

Article 26 of the San Francisco Treaty stipulated that Japan was under obligation to sign similar treaties, before April 28, 1955, with every other former enemy nation who had been a signer of the United Nations declaration of Jan. 1, 1952.

Inasmuch as the peace treaty of San Francisco gave the Kurile Islands to Russia in the form of Japan renouncing her claims to them, perhaps the Soviets are beginning to believe the San Francisco Peace Treaty wasn't such a bad idea at that.

Americans in Japan are beginning to believe that Russia wants to get the Kurile Islands sealed signed and delivered by a separate treaty before the deadline. Otherwise, there is the possibility that Japan, under another prime minister than Hatoyama, might remember the Kuriles once belonged to Japan and would want them back.

Plant Hit By Fire

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—A $60,000 fire fed by highly inflammable materials roared through the Vulcanizing Material Corp. Jack Wingate, an assembly line worker, told investigators a static electricity spark jumped from his finger and ignited fresh rubber cement on a cementing machine.

Harriman Seeks Record Budget In New York State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman today sent a record-smashing $1,345,200,000 budget to the Legislature and demanded tax increases totaling 124 million dollars.

He called for an 11 per cent increase in the state tax on personal incomes, 2 cents a gallon more in the tax on gasoline and 3 cents on diesel fuel, 3 1/2 per cent on unincorporated business earnings and 9 per cent on corporation profits.

Income and unincorporated business taxes will go up automatically on 1954 earnings because of the governor's veto of Republican bills to keep them at present levels. Republican majorities in the Legislature do not have the votes to override a veto.

The other proposed increases would take effect April 1—but not without the approval of the GOP lawmakers.

Harriman, New York's first Democratic governor in 12 years, called for outlays of $107,700,000 beyond estimated state spending in the current fiscal year ending March 31, which is the last under a budget submitted by former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Four Good Reasons Why...

ELECTRIC COOKING IS Clean

- Electric heat itself is clean... clean as electric light. Pans and skillets stay mirror-bright without scrubbing or scouring.
- Electric surface units are flat...with metal to metal contact, heat goes directly into the bottom of utensils, instead of carrying greasy cooking vapors to ceiling or walls.
- Surface units are self-cleaning...spilled foods promptly burn off. Reflector trays beneath units are easy to remove for washing.
- Range surface is easy to clean...needs only to be wiped with a damp cloth to stay spotless.

See your electric range dealer for the electric range that will give you clean, controlled GOOD cooking every single time.

GEORGE GAINSFORD, manager of Sugar Ray Robinson: "If Sugar had answered the bell for the 14th round in his bout with Joey Maxim in 1952, he'd be dead and buried today. He also came close to forfeiting his chance to win back the world's middleweight championship from Randy Turpin. His left eye was so badly damaged that I had made up my mind I would not let him go out for the 11th round. Robinson didn't know that, but he knocked out Randy in ten rounds, anyway."

PEPPER MARTIN, manager of the Big Spring Broncs: "I'll never forget the time Bart DiMaggio (of Artie's) looked up and saw Jim Zapp (of Big Spring) coming to the plate. Bart was pretty fast, you know, and he thought all he had to do was to throw that high, hard one at Jim. He gave it that big windup and let go. Zapp went 'whoosh' with that funny, little swing of his and the ball took off like it had been shot out of a cannon. Jimmy Adair (the manager) said it was the longest home run he'd ever seen."

ART ARAGON, the cocky Los Angeles fighter: "Sure, I'm in great shape. Did three miles on the road this very morning—in my car."

JOHNNY JOHNSON, Big Spring High School basketball coach: "Charley (Clark) was having his troubles in Sweetwater the other evening. He had made only two points the first half and Dale McKeehan (Sweetwater's leading scorer) walked by him and said, 'You're not having a very good night, are you?' Clark gave them fits, after that. Made 16 points the last half."

ART ROSENBAUM, San Francisco scribe: "Quietly and unobtrusively, wrestling has been cleaning its house for seven years. Gone are the warring cliques. Gone are multiple champions. And gone are the masked marvels, the angels, the long hairs and other freaks of the business. For the past five years, a man named Sam Muchnick has been president of the National Wrestling Alliance. There was a day, not too long back, when no self-respecting wrestling promoter would be without his own champion. Every other match was for the 'title.' The Alliance has one king, Lou Thesz, and has further vowed to emphasize wrestling instead of gimmicks. So says Sam Muchnick."

SAM MUCHNICK, president of the National Wrestling Alliance: "There was this alleged former professional wrestler, I think his name is Shurtliff, who appeared on the Omnibus television program and said a lot of wrestling holds are fakes. He tried to illustrate with the toe hold and the Boston crab hold. We have placed $5,000 on the line if this man Shurtliff will go into a ring against Strangler Lewis, who is nearly 70. He's afraid to accept because he knows Lewis will kill him with either one of those holds."

CHARLES CARAWAY, Big Spring Junior High School basketball coach, on why his boys won the recent Odessa Tournament: "Our substitutes came through at the right time."

JESS BLAIR, Washington Place School basketball coach, on why his team has a much better defensive record than the other Elementary League schools: "We've been using a zone defense. The other boys find it a little hard to solve."

Baseball workouts started at the local high school Monday afternoon under the direction of Coach Roy Baird, at which time 23 boys asked for equipment.

Coach Baird and Athletic Director Carl Coleman go to Midland Wednesday to meet with other coaches and work out a schedule for the 1955 season.

Letermen returning include Tommy McAdams, Ronnie Wooten, Frosty Robison, Lefty Reynolds, Calvin Daniels, T. L. Kennedy, Thomas Lynn, Eugene Hall, Ralph Murphy, Jerry Graves, Jerry Barron, Truett Newell and Sidney Butler. In all, 23 boys were out.

Another letterman, Bobby Phillips, will not report until basketball season is concluded.

Lakeview Loses To Sweetwater Washington 5

SWEETWATER (SC) — Sweetwater's Booker T. Washington and Lakeview of Big Spring set all sorts of conference records in their basketball game here Monday night, won by Sweetwater, 107-88.

The score was the highest ever run up by both a winning and losing team and the highest aggregate ever compiled.

Charles Thornton dunked in 40 points for Sweetwater while Willie Miles had 25 for Big Spring.

Big Spring led early in the game but the Sweetwater team was in command at half-time, 41-31.

In other games, Sweetwater's girls won a 35-15 verdict and the Sweetwater junior boys subdued the Lakeview Juniors, 42-20.

In the girls' game, Mary Gilbert had eight points. Cynetha Woods four and Ethel Marie Hill three for Big Spring. For Sweetwater, Cora May Harkey tossed in 21, Emma Lawson 10 and Ruth Williams five.

Lakeview's junior boys were led by Billy Weatherall, who had seven points. B. F. Newton accounted for six, J. T. Kennard three. Robert Allen two and Sam Williams, and Richard Evans one each.

For Sweetwater, Louis Johnson collected eight points, Jimmy Helfin seven, Tommy Jones and George Attaway six each, Bobby White and Frank Williams two each and Jimmy Wilson three.

A game scoring: BIG SPRING (SB) — Willie Miles (25); Hubert McCoy (18); Lieutenant Seagars (21); Earnest Bird (14); Cornelius Price (7); Clarence Williams (5); Alvin King (3). SWEETWATER (107) — Charles Thornton (40); Lorenzo Calhoun (35); Walter Scott (15); Charles Lemmons (11); George Garrett (8).

Aggie Guard Out
COLLEGE STATION (C) — Texas A&M lost one of its top defensive basketball players when Roger Harvey re-injured a knee in practice, Coach John Floyd said yesterday. Harvey, 5-foot-11 guard, was the team's fourth highest scorer.

Home Run Baker And Ray Schalk In Hall Of Fame
By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP) — Home Run Baker who won his nickname by hitting homers off Rube Marquard and Christy Mathewson in the 1911 World Series, and Ray Schalk, the little "Iron Man" who caught 1,760 games in the majors, are the latest additions to Baseball's Hall of Fame.

The two oldtimers, both inactive as players during the last 25 years but retired for at least five years. As a result of the double election, the total membership has been increased to 79. The latest additions will be inducted formally at Cooperstown, N.Y., ceremonies August 25.

Almost 44 years ago they nicknamed Baker "Home Run" after his two homers for the A's against the New York Giants in the 1911 series. He had led the American League with nine homers that year and was to lead again with 10 in 1912, 12 in 1913 and tie with Sam Crawford at 8 in 1914.

From 1908 through 1922, Baker hit only 98 home runs, yet he was the first of the fence-busters. His lifetime batting average is .308.

Schalk, a mite of an athlete at 5-7 and 155 pounds, was one of the first little men to catch 100 games year after year. His mark of 151 games in 1920 was a record for years. He generally was credited with changing the catching staff from a two-man job, equally shared, into a one-man deal with one or two minor assistants.

San Francisco Dons Edge Closer To Cats In Poll
By The Associated Press
Kentucky's Wildcats were atop the Associated Press basketball poll for the seventh successive week today, but there's likely to be some changes made by next election time.

On the basis of games played through last Saturday Kentucky edged San Francisco's Dons 1,031 to 953 points. But more significant was that the Wildcats received only 15 more first-place votes—48 to 33—than the West Coast five, now working on a winning streak of 12 games.

And if everything continues to go smoothly for San Francisco, Kentucky's lofty spot could well be in jeopardy when the nation's sports writers and sportscasters cast their votes again next Monday. For Kentucky lost its second of the season last night and once again it was Georgia Tech that turned the trick, 65-59. That left the Wildcats with a 12-2 season's mark compared to 14-1 for San Francisco.

LaSalle moved up from fifth to third in today's poll but still was far back of the Dons with 541 points. Duquesne, which beat Notre Dame last night, slipped to 493 points.

Williams Ready, Insists Paper
BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams is ready to return to baseball and his role as hitting star of the Boston Red Sox according to the Boston Post.

The Post Tuesday reports under a Miami, Fla., dateline, that Williams' business manager, Fred Corcoran, indicates Ted will report to spring training with the Sox if he gets some coaxing from Club Owner Tom Yawkey and General Manager Joe Cronin.

Williams announced his retirement during the 1954 season effective when the season was over.

Justice Department Acts To Bring IBC To Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department moved at top speed today to bring the International Boxing Club to trial as a monopoly that violates the antitrust laws.

The trial will take place in New York City and a spokesman for the Justice Department's Antitrust Division there said it probably would be sometime before the end of the calendar year—July 1.

The Supreme Court yesterday refused to grant boxing exemption from antitrust laws as it did baseball. The government filed an antitrust suit against the IBC, headed by Jim Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz.

In March 1953, but it was thrown out by Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan of New York, who based his decision on the baseball case. The Supreme Court decision was by a 6-2 vote with Chief Justice Earl Warren writing the majority opinion.

He noted that baseball first was exempted from antitrust laws in 1922 by the Supreme Court. In 1953 the court held that Congress, by failing to pass legislation specifically bringing baseball under the antitrust laws, had indicated it wanted baseball exempt.

But no such situation prevailed for boxing, the opinion continued. If it is to be exempt, "the issue is for Congress to resolve, not this court."

The baseball decision, it said, cannot be interpreted as "a sweeping grant of immunity to every business based on the live presentation of local exhibitions, regardless of how extensive its interstate phases may be."

The minority opinion, written by Justice Felix Frankfurter, said it would "baffle the subject's ingenuity to find a single differentiating factor between other sporting exhibitions, whether boxing, or football or tennis and baseball insofar as conduct of the sport is relevant to the question of antitrust prosecution."

Norris issued a statement saying that the decision merely means that the government must prove its monopoly charges.

"We are confident," he said, "that the court will vindicate our position that in presenting seven or eight championship bouts a year we do not operate an illegal monopoly within the meaning of the Sherman Act."

The government position is that Norris and Wirtz, along with the Madison Square Garden Corp., have been conspiring since 1949 to monopolize the promotion, exhibition, broadcasting and televising of big-time fights.

In the suit which was dismissed, the Justice Department explained its stand this way:

"The utilization by the defendants (IBC) of exclusive contracts with boxers to tie up all major champions and contenders, together with exclusive control of the principal arenas, prevented other promoters from competing in promotion of championship bouts."

"We are seeking to terminate all such exclusive arrangements and to sever all interlocking financial interests among the defendants which contribute to a continuation of their monopoly."

Last year the 10 world championship fights in the United States were promoted either wholly by the IBC or by the IBC in partnership with promoters in other cities.

The government contends that since 1949, when Norris and Wirtz moved into the boxing picture, only two of the 21 championship fights held in this country were promoted by groups other than the IBC.

Coach Dillard Adair Given Movie Projector At C-City
COLORADO CITY (AP) — Coach Dillard Adair was presented with a movie projector by the Quarterback Club at the Club's Annual Football banquet Monday night.

The presentation was made by Walter Grubbs, club president, in recognition of the record compiled by the 1954 team, which won 11 straight before losing to Phillips in the playoffs. This was the best season's record for a Colorado City squad since 1940.

Envelopes containing $50 were presented to Bob Reilly, assistant coach and to Cecil Ellis, "B" team coach. Prentice Martin and Floyd Sampson, Junior High School coaches received $25 each.

Jimmy Drew Cawthon, 200-pound tackle on the Wolves' district championship team, received the "E" for effort award, presented annually by the Colorado City Record, local semi-weekly. Sports Editor Joe Bostright made the Record's presentation.

Peggy Jo Tiller was named as Sweetheart.

Dutch Meyer, Texas Christian University athletic director and guest of honor, spoke to the assembly of 500 parents, football players, pep squad members, coaches and faculty.

TIE FOR 4-A DIVISIONAL LEAD WILL BE BROKEN THIS EVENING
STANTON (SC) — The tie for the lead in District 4-A South Half basketball standings will be broken here tonight, when Coahoma visits Stanton.

Each team has won three times in four starts. Coahoma downed Stanton, 56-52, several weeks ago but later was upset by Seagraves, a team Stanton outlasted last week.

O'Donnell visits Seagraves in the other division action. Both teams are considered out of the running for the championship.

The race for the South Half crown ends next Tuesday. The titlist takes on the winner of the North Half division for the 4-A championship.

Burley Polk has been the chief basket threat for Stanton in games to date but Dudley Arnett and Grady Barr lead Coahoma.

Polk has scored 88 points against four conference foes while Arnett paces the Coahoma team with 64.

Starters for Stanton, in addition to Polk, will probably be Jimmy Henson, Mike Baulch, Corky Blocker and Reggie Myrick.

Those who will probably line up for the opening whistle for Coahoma include Arnett, Barr, Billy Paul Thomas, Norman Spears and Jack Morrison.

The playoffs for the district championship take place Feb. 10-11. At the present time, Sundown is setting a fast pace in that half.

SMU Ponies Upset By Hogs, 85 To 74

SMU, given only an outside chance of holding its share of first place in the Southwest Conference basketball race this week, muffed the chance Monday with an 85-74 loss to Arkansas.

The defeat left favorite TCU alone in first place and favored to add to its lead this week.

The Frogs play Texas A&M Wednesday and Baylor Saturday. They rank an easy favorite over the hapless Aggies and will be picked over Baylor, now tied for third at 3-2.

North Texas State plays Baylor Tuesday night at Waco. The Bears seek to move above the .500 mark for the season.

An ankle injury suffered by SMU center Jim Krebs threw the Mustang attack off balance in the second half, and Arkansas came through with an upset victory.

Krebs, tall sophomore flash, rolled up 14 points in the first half and was going strong in the second when he hurt his ankle in a fall. He wound up with 22 points, high for both sides.

SMU took a 37-36 lead at half-time and rolled it to 49-40 after intermission before Krebs' injury. Arkansas got the lead 67-67 with seven minutes left and kept the margin the rest of the way.

Jerald Barnett led the Razorbacks with 18 points.

The triumph boosted Arkansas' season standing to 9-7. SMU now stands 10-7 for the year.

Mayfield Winner In Thunderbird
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The rich winter golf tour is over in California for 1955, with Shelley Mayfield the winner of the last tournament — a dramatic playoff victory in the $15,000 Thunderbird Invitational.

The handsome blond from Chelope, Mass., by way of Seguin, Texas, defeated heavy-shouldered Mike Souchak and veteran Freddie Haas Monday in a duel that was not decided until the 20th hole.

Haas left the scene on the 18th green, and Mayfield and Souchak fought it out for two more holes, with Mayfield picking up a check for $2,000, Souchak $1,000 and Haas last year's winner, $750.

Knott Quint Wins By 39-32 Tally
GARDEN CITY (SC) — The Phillips 66 basketball team of Knott, sponsored by Chub McGibson of Big Spring, turned back the Garden City Independents, 39-32, in a game here Monday night.

Darrell Shortes of the Phillips team counted 15 points while Targe Lindsey led the losers with 13. Donnie Chapman had nine for Knott.

The Phillips team has now won six straight games.

Knott trailed, 13-11, at the end of the first period but boasted a 19-15 advantage at half time.

The 66ers return to action Thursday, at which time they play in Garden City.

Bronchos Subdue Snyder Bengals
ODESSA (SC) — Odessa's Bronchos trounced a 74-61 victory over the Snyder Tigers in a basketball game played here Monday night.

Roy Davis counted 40 points for the Bronchos while Jerry Taylor paced the losers with 14.

PRESSURE GREAT French Are Facing Crisis In N. Africa

By PRESTON GROVER
ALGIERS, French North Africa (AP)—Flying from ancient Carthage westward across North Africa gave me time to read "King Solomon's Mines," that fable of lost people and a lost diamond hoard—a story which to many people represents mysterious Africa.

Strangely, the mystery is still there, the mystery of people who have brushed aside succeeding waves of civilization for more than 2,000 years and still hold to their ancient ways.

Only in the past 30 years have they really caught on to this new way of life. Now suddenly they want it. Not all of them, but many. And they want it right now.

It was in the early '30s that the change seems to have come. France, which holds almost this whole northwest quadrant of Africa, felt it first in Algeria, where Moslem children began seriously asking to go to public schools.

The demand for a new life, for the kind of life the French have largely reserved for themselves in North Africa, has become a movement, an uprising.

And this winter and coming spring may see a sharp turning, for the pressure on France in North Africa has never been greater—and France has never been so badly prepared to deal with it.

Tunisia on the east and Morocco on the west are at crisis point. Negotiations are nearing completion to give Tunisia "internal autonomy" promised it last July by Premier Pierre Mendes-France. Negotiations dragged on more than five months.

In Morocco, there is a near standstill, with city-bred Nationalists demanding more sovereignty than France wants to give. Terrorists are steadily raising the pressure for action.

In between Tunisia and Morocco lies Algeria, much bigger in area than both the other together, but it is mostly desert or semidesert. It includes part of the Sahara. Its richest areas are along the seacoast.

Tunisia and Morocco are protectorates. They once were independent, or relatively so. Algeria, on the other hand, is a colony which France has declared to be a part of herself.

France has tried in one way or another to absorb this whole region of North Africa into her way of life and she has made a surprising amount of progress. But the odds were against her. There never were enough Frenchmen.

After all, the present population of French North Africa is more than 20 million people. That is almost equal to half the population of France itself. And the population in these three areas is increasing infinitely faster than in France.

Many among the populations in waterfront cities have accepted the French way of life, just as they have sponged up a part of whatever civilization came their way. Inland it is different.

French authority is felt, somewhat, as is French initiative, and the cool impartiality of French justice. But little of this has touched the tough Berber herdsmen in the hills, nor the nomadic tent dwellers in far south Morocco, where the girls dance a sexy striptease on their knees. The tents are not high enough for them to dance standing up.

In Algeria more progress has been made than elsewhere in bringing the country forward. There are more schools. Thirty per cent of the police force is Mohammedan.

There is nothing like that in Tunisia or Morocco. There the police are French. One of the bitterest points of dispute in the Tunisian negotiations was how much police authority to transfer to Tunisians.

Piece Of Airplane Falls, Strikes Child

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Five-year-old Daniel Pohlbel is in a hospital here today with two gashes in his head from a two-pound metal bar that fell from a B25 and plummeted through the roof of his Dayton home.

Officials at nearby Wright-Patterson Air Force Base said the 12-inch bar was one used to close the cover over the plane's retracted wheel. It flew through the roof of the Pohlbel home and struck Daniel as he was watching television.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

When a British king bought this car at the start of the present century, he obtained this Daimler, a German car.

Two years have passed since I wrote about the history of the steamboat and quoted these words of Oliver Evans:

"The time will come when people will travel in stages moved by steam engines . . . 15 to 20 miles an hour . . . A carriage will set out from Washington in the morning and passengers will breakfast at Baltimore, dine at Philadelphia and sup at New York the same day."

Evans, a clever inventor, is honored as the builder of "the first American automobile." After making a steam dredge, he fitted the engine to wheels and the engine moved his dredge through the streets of Philadelphia to the Delaware River.

It was a slow trip, and Evans was held when he suggested 15 or 20 miles an hour as the coming speed of a steam carriage or coach. He lived only 16 years after his test, and failed to see fast-moving steam vehicles come into use.

England was the place where the early steam coaches developed. Many hundreds of persons were transported in these automobiles during a period of 12 years.

The period started 131 years ago, when men named Gordon and James built vehicles which were designed for passengers. Later came the coaches of Gurney, Hancock and others.

Three of Gurney's steam coaches ran for a total distance of about 3,600 miles. By 1833 there were 20 steam coaches carrying passengers on roads around London.

Great Britain might have become the world center for motor cars except for certain foolish persons. These persons were afraid of the machines, and their fear led to laws which halted transport progress. Heavy taxes were laid on the coaches, and the Red Flag Law was passed. A man carrying a red flag as a warning was required to walk or run in front of each steam carriage!

In that way old England lost a golden opportunity to lead the world in motor production. At last the Red Flag Law was repealed, but King Edward VII, at the start of the present century, turned to a German car for his personal use.

Tomorrow: American Motor Progress.

Convicted Slayer Weds Woman Who Financed Appeal

CHICAGO (AP)—A man who hacked his wife to death with a butcher knife six years ago and the woman who helped him escape the electric chair were married in Criminal Court yesterday.

There'll be no honeymoon for the present. Edward Proszewski was hustled off to prison for 14 years. His bride, the former Stella Gubala, 25, went back to her factory job.

Proszewski, sentenced Jan. 17 on his plea of guilty to a charge of murdering his wife, will be eligible for parole in eight years and nine months.

Proszewski was confined to a mental institution in 1948 and in 1952 was adjudged sane and sentenced to death. Stella, who said she and Edward had known each other since childhood, financed his appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court. That resulted in a new trial.

Pipeline Use Is Set

EL PASO (AP)—Vice President M. P. Paret Jr., of the Standard Oil Co. of Texas, said today the 248-mile pipe line from El Paso to Albuquerque goes into operation at once. The million-dollar pipe line, with a capacity of 9,000 barrels a day, will transport diesel oil, kerosene and gasoline.

Wounds Prove Fatal

WACO (AP)—Linda Cleveland, 14, died last night of gunshot wounds suffered in a Jan. 23 accident. The Waco girl was shot when a pistol discharged as a friend was showing it to her. The friend said she didn't know the gun was loaded.

Trial Is Postponed

HOUSTON (AP)—The second trial of former vice squad Capt. Foy Melton on charges of illegally concealing narcotics has been moved back to Feb. 14. Melton was first tried in Brownsville last November. It ended in a hung jury.
