"DRESSING FOR GOLF TO GO TO CHURCH"

Evidently the ability to strike off a sparkling phrase abides with the Louisville Courier-Journal, even though Colonel Watterson has passed on to journalism's valhalla. The Courier-Journal recently caught some Kentucky woman indulging in a stock sample of preparedness nonsense while addressing a club convention. "The best way to prevent war," the lady was quoted as believing, "is to be prepared for any possible enemy." To which the Courier-Journal, after some preliminary remarks about the state of Germany, France and Russia in 1914, went on to say:

Preparing for war to obtain peace is like dressing for golf to go to church. It isn't in character and it isn't done; because for one thing, people are prone to do what they are prepared to do. Nations usually get what they prepare for and they don't get peace by preparing for war.

It will probably be necessary for peace-lovers to say this a great many times before it sinks into the consciousness of a war-nurtured and war-saturated world. But it will never be said more picturesquely and more pungently than the Courier-Journal has said it: "Preparing for war to obtain peace is like dressing for golf to go to church."—Christian Century.

Family Reunion of Vest Family Here This Week

Every member with the exception of one, of the Vest family, which is a pioneer family of Midland, attended a family reunion in Midland during the past week. The group was entertained at the home of Mrs. Mollie Vest McCormick and family. The mother of the group Mrs. Nancy Vest, 83, was the honor guest.

Some members of this prominent family had not been in Midland during the past thirty-five years and expressed their surprise in the decided change in Midland. Only a few of the old landmarks, and old timers are left here, said the guests.

The Vest family has made its home in Midland for forty years, and even after moving from Midland, several members of the family have sent their children back to Midland for school advantages here.

Out of town visitors here were Bill Vest and family of Monohans, Tom Vest and wife of Seligman, Ariz., Ab and wife of Chandler, Ariz., Doc Vest and wife of Carlsbad and a niece Vera Vest Bell and two children from the White Mountains in New Mexico.

From Midland the party including the mother went to Monohans where they will visit a few days and from there they will return to their homes.

High Interest

Of Past Week Here

The past week just closes for social circles in Midland several gay features of in-honor affairs, dances during the Fourth and informal club gatherings.

Monday will be devoted to church organizations; Tuesday to club meetings and bridge parties; Wednesday to club meetings and the first meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union since its organization in Midland and the remaining days of the week there will probably be numerous out-of-door events.

Mr. and Mrs. Macatee Honored at Their New Home

The following is an account taken from the Lovington paper of the entertainment given in their honor:

Mrs. Orren Beaty and Mrs. Luke Roberts were joint hostesses at a shower given Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Roberts in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Macatee, who were recently married at Midland, Texas.

Some seventy guests were present to greet the happy young couple, who had recently returned from their honeymoon.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with cut flowers, and entertainment by local talent consisting of vocal and instrumental music and of readings was furnished to the delight of those present.

A beautifully decorated and artistic ship had been arranged for receiving the presents for Mr. and Mrs. Macatee, and at the proper time it sailed in loaded with appropriate gifts for the young people, and the young bride was made to realize that her "ship had come in."

Refreshments of cake, ice cream and coffee were served.

The social hour was held on the Christian Church lawn. A splendid crowd enjoyed the outdoor games, and the delightful refreshments. The next meeting of the Christian Young People's League will be held August 2 at the Methodist Church.

JEWELS ADD LUSTER TO BEAUTIFUL LUPE VELEZ

Lupe Velez

By MABEL DUKE For NEA Service

In this day of standardization when even feminine fashions demand that every woman be a copy of every other woman, the attainment of individuality is at times difficult.

Since fashion decrees that street dresses shall be short and evening dresses long; that hair, whether long or short shall be arranged close and sleek, and that hats be loose-fitting and of standard shapes, one's only hope in achieving distinction lies in a skillful use of ornaments—the "extras" of the costume which form the keynote of individuality.

"Jewelry, perfume, unusual shades of rouge and lipstick, distinctive eye make-up, the use of fans and handkerchiefs all add personality to one's appearance," states Lupe Velez, whose fiery temperament is complemented by her wise choice of accessories.

"I think a woman should select her jewelry as carefully as she selects the color or style of her gown. Antique jewelry is charming on some women while others can wear heavy, modernistic bangles. But whatever her type, any woman can accent her costume with the right necklace brooch or bracelet.

"One woman I know always wears a cluster of real flowers at her waist, or shoulder, no matter what her costume is, whether street, sports, or formal evening. Sometimes she wears roses, at other times nasturtiums, orchids, verbenas, or poppies, but the cleverest of all was one day when she wore a dark blue sports frock and at the shoulder was pinned three little red ornamental peppers with a green leaf.

"Fans and gay handkerchiefs are charming accessories, particularly if handled gracefully. There is an art to carrying either and it may be mastered by a little practice. Never was a handkerchief in the hand. Hold it only by one corner or in the middle, with the ends loose."

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Cox and daughters returned Friday from Tulsa, Oklahoma City and other points.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Brashear, Midland residents, are touring in Colorado and Iowa. They have been gone several weeks and reports from their state they are having a fine trip.

Do You Know?

1. A ring mold may be very easily contrived to take the place of the regular ring mold. Place a glass fruit jar in a round bowl. Fill the jar with ice or ice water. Pour the gelatin mixture into the space around the jar. When firm, remove ice from the jar and pour warm, not hot, water into the jar; take out carefully.

2. Meat salads are improved if the meat is marinated with French dressing, that is, if it is allowed to stand in French dressing in a cold place for an hour. The excess dressing should be drained off before the mayonnaise dressing is added.

3. A wire corn popper is a convenient utensil for broiling frankfurters. They may be placed in the popper and shaken around until they are nicely browned.

4. French toast makes a nice change from regular toast to serve with the creamed meat dish.

5. The waterless cooker or Dutch oven is ideal for cooking less-tender cuts of meat. A very small flame is required and so this type of utensil may be used to advantage in the summertime.

TIMELY HINTS ON THE PICNIC LUNCH

The picnic and the lunch mean one and the same thing and as picnic means a good time, a good lunch is necessary to make it so; and the goodness of the lunch depends greatly upon the way it is packed.

The summer season should never arrive without a supply of waxed paper in the house, since it is essential in packing the lunch. Every article should be separately wrapped in the paper.

A picnic kit of some kind is almost a household necessity for the family with summertime gipsy habits, and the automobile has made gipsies of us all.

The Joy of Hot Dishes The automobile kit with its many containers for meat loaf, salad, etc., as well as its supply of dishes makes packing the picnic luncheon a real pleasure and it makes eating the luncheon even more so, since one food does not flavor the other. While we may like both cake and pickles, we do not want the one to taste of the other.

The wide necked thermos jug can be packed with hot meat and potatoes and the gravy poured over. It is not at all impossible to take hot dishes to the picnic, if the objective is not too distant. A pan of creamed potatoes and a meat loaf may be taken from the oven just before starting and wrapped first in clean dish towels and then in newspaper and will keep quite hot for a considerable time.

The individual waxed paper containers are nice for packing fruit or potato salad in putting up a luncheon for just one person. With these containers and with waxed paper, there is no reason why, even if packed in a shoe box, the pickles should become too friendly with the cake.

Writer Who Visited Here With Fleet Writes for This Paper

FINDS ROMANCE HERE IN TRUE WESTERN HOSPITALITY, GREAT BUILDING AND CATTLE HERDS

States Appreciation in Personal Letter For Reception Given Flyers While Here for Night Stop

EDITOR'S NOTE: This story, written by a staff writer of the Columbus Dispatch, great Ohio daily, was written especially for The Reporter-Telegram at the request of a staff writer here. Dan E. Smith, editor of the Ohio State Journal, was with the fleet of army planes here recently, and will also write a story on the great air jaunt across continent. The following story is done in two parts; the second, the one which describes Midland, will appear in Monday's Reporter-Telegram.

By GEORGE A. SMALLSKEED
From Columbus to California by air in a "meat-can"—2170 miles in 23 hours and 45 minutes of actual flying time—lost for 30 minutes in a storm—sound asleep while flying between two roaring propellers not two feet away—endless miles of ghastly, barren desert—10,000 feet in the air over the bustling Rockies—then down to the shore of the peaceful Pacific Ocean and the land of sunshine and earthquakes.

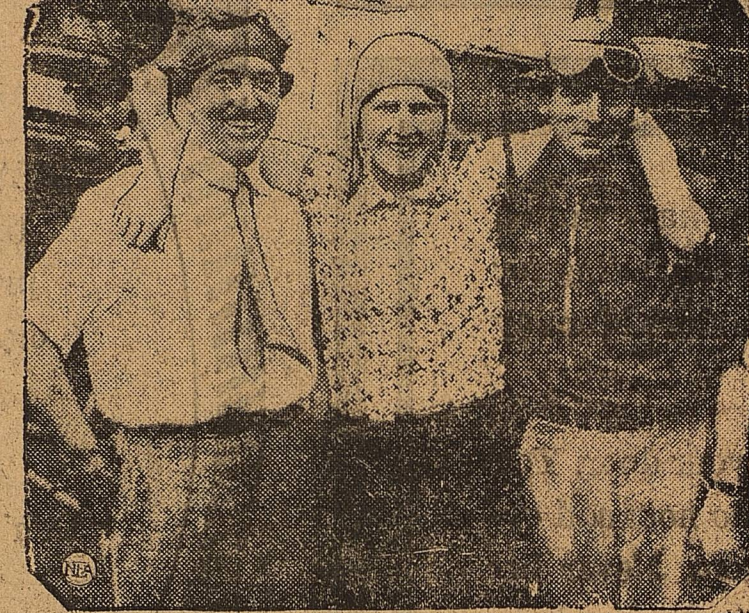

That, if you please, was my greatest thrill all put together.
"How did you ever get to make such a wonderful trip?" was the most frequent question of friends before and after.
"You lucky stuff!" was the main form of congratulation after the explanation.

I have two groups of persons to thank for this experience. First, Capt. C. E. (Red) Black and the Eleventh Army Bombardment squadron officers and men, of which he is the commander. Captain Black, in charge of the night bombers during the war maneuvers near Columbus did Dayton, extended an invitation to The Dispatch to send one of its representatives back to the coast with the outfit.
Then The Dispatch picked me, probably thinking I needed a "rest" after being "shell-shocked" so much during the "paper" war which raged in and near Columbus from May 15 to 25. I got a lot of "rest."

Flew Once Before
Before this trip I had flown but once, and then only for about 30 minutes. I had no fears physically. A person may be alarmed but not "air-stomached," you know.
I am not afraid to admit that I almost faltered in my determination to make the hop what the Eleventh Bombardment outfit poured into me before leaving Columbus about the terrors of the air would have stopped Lindbergh. And I'll admit further that I thought seriously of taking out a whole lot of accident insurance before saying au revoir to Bob Ryder's "vale of tears."

Came Sunday, May 26, and the hour of 2:10 p. m. I was standing up in the "meat-can" of Ship No. 1, leader of the flight of six bombers, piloted by Captain Black and Lieutenant John P. Kenny, co-pilot.
Now let me explain this "meat-can." It is the fore-gunner's cockpit right up in the very nose of the plane. The twin motors on these bombers are mounted in the wings on each side of the fuselage. Flyers call it the "meat-can" because if the plane nose dives at too low an altitude for a parachute jump, it means hamburger for the fellow up front.
Furthermore, if a parachute jump is necessary and feasible as far as

Jensens' Endurance Flight Was A Family Affair

If Martin Jensen had succeeded in his late attempt to set a new world's record for refueling flight, the honor would have been strictly a family affair. Mrs. Jensen was in the Bellanca plane, "Three Musketeers," as co-pilot. Above, left to right, Mr. and Mrs. Jensen and William Ulrich, third member of the crew.

brought him to Dayton by auto. She was telephoning. When we taxied down the field she was waving frantically and tearfully, but it was too late.

Like a Fox Seat
But when it comes to slight-seeing there is no place like the "meat-can" on a bomber. It's like a box seat at the opera or musical-comedy show—plenty of view. The floor is made of glass and the sides of the fuselage are glassed, making it perfectly easy to see while sitting down as well as standing up.

And then when you stick your nose over the front of the cockpit, it leads the way.
I had my choice of sitting in the "meat can" or the rear gunners cockpit, near the tail of the ship. Here the view is impaired by the entire front of the plane, its wings and motors. Besides, when standing up one must not only fight the forward speed of the plane, about 100 miles an hour, but also the terrific slip-stream of the propellers, a total air draft of 200 or more miles per hour.

So the hour of take-off found me in the "meat can," a clumsy parachute strapped around my shoulders and legs, ears plugged with cotton, helmeted and goggled so that nothing on my face but my nose was exposed.

Trip Peels Nose Thrice
That poor nose, like a potato bug, shed its skin three times in two weeks. What a nose!

We, including Frank Walters of The Dispatch, Dan Smith of the Ohio State Journal and Walter Miles, Pathe News man, of Columbus, all guests of the Bombardment squadron, joined the ships at Dayton instead of Columbus, because our parachutes had to be requisitioned from the Dayton airport.
On the field were more than 175 airplanes, all roaring into a warm-up for the trip to their respective fields throughout the country. The war was over and the flyers had just finished a critique trying to determine whether the Red or Blue army air forces had won. Nobody has found out yet.
Suddenly the order came for the take-off. So suddenly, in fact, that Miles did not get a chance to say goodbye to his good wife, who had

Keeping Out The Weeds
The careful farmer cultivates his crops regularly and keeps out the weeds which would rob the growing plants of their nourishment.
The prudent man of affairs saves his money regularly, depositing a certain sum in his savings account. Why regularly? Because the habit makes it easier for him to keep his surplus beyond the reach of the daily temptations for easy and wasteful spending. Those little temptations, like weeds, tend to destroy success.
Are you cultivating your income regularly?

left to do sanely and hence that peculiar frame of mind.

Bound for Scott Field
We were bound for Scott field, 320 miles away. A rear quarter wind helped our speed, but made riding a bit rocky. On leaving Fairfield the ships flew in concentrated formation, being as close as 50 or 75 feet. Soon they spread out, leaving each pilot to cruise without the necessity of watching the ship ahead.
The ceiling wasn't much to brag about, the sky being filled with broken and low-hanging rain clouds. Between 1500 and 2000 feet we scraped the bottom of the lower echelon of clouds and on several occasions plowed through the middle of them.
We roared by Eaton, Ohio, at our right and in 30 minutes snuffed Hoosier air when we crossed the Indiana line and also left the National highway which we had followed almost to this point. The next time I saw the National highway was in Ash Fork, Arizona, a little railroad town, in the desert, where I was stranded on the way home.

Orchestra For Every School In Texarkana Sought
TEXARKANA, Tex., July 6.—(AP)—Establishment of orchestras in every school of Texarkana, Texas, will be a feature of the coming session according to superintendent

H. W. Stilwell. The high school will have a fully equipped uniformed band, while the elementary schools will have organizations dependent upon the available talent.
Joe Berryman, Texarkana musician, has been added to the faculty to have full charge of development of the musical units. In addition, a voice teacher has been employed to develop choruses in each of the schools.
Instruments for which the students will have no use after leaving school will be supplied from school funds. Uniforms for the high school band will consist of capes and caps in school colors. The band will be used at all athletic events and at other school gatherings.

ALL-STEEL BUILT like a SAFE
BUT two months ago General Electric announced the first ALL-STEEL refrigerator ever built. Now this outstanding scientific development of the times has been made available in six popular models.
The all-steel refrigerator cannot warp. It is strong—built to last. The doors, fitted by hand at the factory, retain their close fit. The new exterior baked enamel finish, smoothly white, as hard and durable as porcelain, has the added virtue that it does not check or crack.
Coupled with these advantages is the previous perfection of the General Electric mechanism which is permanently self-oiling, hermetically sealed in a steel casing and mounted up on top, safe from dust and difficulties. Quietly, economically, it constantly maintains the temperature in the refrigerator at several safe degrees below the danger line of 50°. It freezes ice cubes rapidly.
Yet, notwithstanding these exclusive features, these new models are offered at surprisingly low prices and on our plan of conveniently spaced payments. The small family model, at the factory, is priced at $215. New all-steel models in six different sizes at our display rooms invite your inspection.
Listen in on the General Electric Hour every Saturday, 8 to 9 P.M., Eastern Standard Time, over the N. B. C. network of 42 stations.

TEXAS CO. TO EXTEND PIPELINE TO NORTH

Surveyors for the Texas Company are now in the field making preliminary surveys for the extension of the pipeline of that company from Jal to the north, says a recent Lovington story. A tentative survey has been run almost directly north from Jal to a point a few miles south of Monument. Should this location be decided upon two lines will be run from Lovington, the first to the northeast to the Midwest well near Hobbs, and the other almost directly west to the Texas-Lynch well.
A second survey will be run directly from Jal to the Texas-Lynch well in a northwesterly direction. This line will not be laid should a contract be entered into for the handling of the production of the Midwest well.
The extension of this pipeline further to the north will mean much to Lea County in oil development during this year. Many wells are already rated as producers but no oil is being taken out on account of the lack of either railroad or pipeline facilities for transportation.

Foxx tacked five points onto his mark to remain at the top while Bob Fathergill of Detroit, picked up four points and stayed in second position with a mark of .397. Harry Heilmann, another Tiger, who figures on leading American League during odd years? climbed into the first ten for the first time of the season with .351. and three defeats by winning two games. Eddie Rommel worked in two games but failed to alter his season mark which stood at six victories and no defeats.
