SINCLAIR SPENDS FIRST DAY IN PRISON RESULT OF CONTEMPT

Will Be Assistant to Jail Physician During Term

Paul L. Young Heads July 4th Committee

Paul L. Young was named as general chairman of the big July 3 and 4 celebration in honor of the formal opening of the Hogan Petroleum building, at the chamber of commerce meeting Monday night.

Other committees will be named later by the general chairman and the various committee chairmen may choose the personnel of their own committee.

AVIATORS' BARBECUE PLANNED

Report on Drive For Relief of The Poor Made

Midland will again this year have an exhibit at the International Petroleum Exposition at Tulsa. Directors of the chamber of commerce were unanimously of the opinion that an exhibit this year was more necessary than last.

It was pointed out that Midland initiated the idea of town exhibits at the great oil show through a proposal of Ralph M. Barron supported by W. A. Yeager, and so far had been the exclusive exhibitor as town, thereby attracting unusual attention to Midland.

A proposed resolution against increase in oil taxes was referred to Malcom M. Meek, W. A. Yeager and W. Edward Lee for action. The resolution is sponsored by the Oil and Gas Bureau of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The directors authorized the aeronautics committee to give a barbecue in honor of army aviators expected here Saturday. It is not yet certain when the barbecue will be given, as the length of the stop here is still unknown.

Welfare Drive Working W. I. Pratt made a report for the welfare committee, showing that plans for efficient handling of charity cases for the next six months were being carried out satisfactorily.

Following Directors Present Chamber directors present Monday night were Leon Goodman, Geo. D. McCormick, J. E. Hill, J. O. Nobles, M. C. Ulmer, Paul L. Young, Sam R. Preston, W. Edward Lee, Malcom M. Meek, Ralph M. Barron, Judge M. R. Hill, Elliott H. Barron, W. S. Hill, W. I. Pratt, Kenneth E. Ambrose and W. Arthur Yeager.

ATLANTA, May 7.—(AP)—Thomas Miller, former alien property custodian, is reported to have been released on parole today from the Federal penitentiary here, after serving a little more than a year of his 18 month sentence for conspiracy to defraud the government.

JAY BREWER SLASHED BY KEEN KNIFE

'Blackie' Hill Lies In Jail Awaiting Action of Jury

A flashing knife in the hands of J. H. 'Blackie' Hill ended the life of Jay Brewer, 26, at 11:10 last night in the W. H. Ballard Cafe at 121 East Missouri street.

The two had quarrelled about a $7.50 debt Brewer said Hill owed him. W. H. Ballard, cafe proprietor, told the story to a staff member of The Reporter-Telegram at noon today.

'I was in the restaurant when "Blackie" came in,' he began. 'He had never seen the fellow before. He ordered a hamburger and ate it. Just as he asked for another, Jay came in, all covered with grease and announced that he would like to wash his hands before eating, that he had been at work on his car. I told him to come on around to the back. He did so. After he had cleaned up, he came back around to the front and sat down at the counter.'

'Men Start Argument "He never gave his order, though, Blackie and he began talking about various gamblers of the town, saying who were winning and who were losing. They discussed various games and finally Jay proposed that he and Blackie play for money that night.'

'I'll take you on for $1,000 worth,' Jay said. 'Twenty dollars a game and the tablets.' 'I didn't know what he meant by the tablets,' Blackie said that he didn't have the $1,000 but that he could get the backing. 'I want to play at $10 a game and the tablets, though,' he said.

'Spoke of $7.50 Debt "I don't believe you are such a gambler after all," Jay said. "I will gamble with you, but the stakes must be as I say," was the answer.

'The two began to get warm in their argument, and Jay asked Blackie why he wouldn't pay a $7.50 debt he owed him. "Hill was quick to retort that he would pay the debt when he got the money. "I've never beat you yet, have I?" he asked.

'No, but someone has,' came the answer. "And if you can get so much backing as you say to gamble with, why can't you scare up the $7.50 you owe me?"

'That's twice you have hit me up for that money today,' Hill said, and that's enough.

'According to Ballard, the two argued for a while longer. Then Hill is said to have got to his feet without a word and to have walked to a light switch near the door, directly behind the seat where Brewer sat. All at once, he made a spring, grasped the mouth of Brewer with his left hand, and stabbed him deep through the heart and on the left arm with a long, powerful swing. He held Brewer tightly until that man slumped forward on the counter, then turned him loose just as Ballard said, "My God, man! Look what you have done!"

'I Said I'd Kill Him' "Poor old Jay, Poor Jay," Blackie said, looking at the dead man who slid without a mark of life to the floor of the place. "I told him I'd kill him if he didn't let me alone, and he knew it."

'Calmly, witnesses say, he wiped his knife and replaced it in his pocket. A dairyman turned in the alarm to the sheriff. When the officer arrived, all witnesses were in their places and Blackie was on a bench awaiting him.

'Who Did It?' Mr. Francis' "Who did this?" the sheriff asked, eyeing the group.

'That boy there,' Ballard said, indicating Blackie.

'Yes, I did it Mr. Francis,' Blackie said. "I'm sorry, but I don't intend to run away. I told him I'd kill him and I did." These words were said by Ballard to have passed between the two.

'Blackie Was Calm The grand jury, in session today, had not returned a bill of indictment against Blackie at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

GARNER ATTACKS REPUBLICANS ON TARIFF POLICY

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(UP)—An administration tariff bill designed to bring the Fordney-McCumber act up to date was introduced into the house at noon today by Chairman Hawley of the ways and means committee.

The wool schedule is boosted from its present rate of 31 cents a pound to 34 cents on clean content, raw hides and lumber remains free, raw cotton is kept free, no changes are introduced on wheat, oats and potatoes.

Representative Garner, minority leader, opened the Democratic attack on the new bill immediately. He charged Republicans with "quailing in their boots" after seeing the measure and afraid they could not control their own side of the public. Garner said the Republicans planned to open only a few schedules for amendments and to steam roller the remainder of the bill through.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(AP)—President Hoover would be given blanket authority to reorganize the present tariff commission by replacing all of its members at his pleasure, under a new tariff bill reported to the house today by the ways and means committee.

MIDLAND CHAMBER COOPERATES IN MOVEMENT

The executive committee of the chamber of commerce was authorized at the meeting Monday night to cooperate with the agricultural committee in taking whatever action the two committees deemed advisable in organizing a calf club and a lamb-feeding club.

Following a general report by E. H. Barron, chairman of the agricultural committee, Frank Wendt, county farm agent, solicited the aid of the organization in forming a calf club, so that Midland might have an exhibit at the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show. He was assured of co-operation of the organization. Leon Goodman, president, urged that boys be encouraged to feed out lambs, declaring it was a big money maker.

The chamber approved recommendations of the committee as detailed by Barron that a revolving seed fund be created. The organization also approved the recommendation that the chamber endorse notes of boys borrowing money from the banks to purchase seeds. The seed fund so far amounts to only $6, while the note endorsements, all of which are returnable amounts to only $48.

To Give Farm Prizes Wendt's community exhibit plans were approved and the chamber assured him of co-operation in arranging his prizes. The farm agent plans to give livestock prizes instead of money so that the benefits may be continuing. He believes the Texas & Pacific Railway company will donate one prize bull. Aubrey S. Legg, manager of Texas Electric Service, says his company will donate a prize bull to one of the winning communities.

GRASS FIRE AT C RANCH TODAY EXTINGUISHED

Scarcely more than a half section in the 'beef pasture' of the C ranch was burned off in a prairie fire which occurred this morning, according to Midland men who returned from the scene shortly before noon.

Very little wind existed to fan the flames, and the grass was dry only on the tops, hence the first men to reach the scene were able to extinguish the blaze.

The pasture is that part of the C ranch which is operated by Andrew Fasken, in connection with the headquarters ranch.

HOUSE SOLD AT TRUSTEE'S SALE

At a trustee's sale this morning, a five-room frame house, against which there was an indebtedness of $2,300, sold for $875 above indebtedness to Fred E. Joekel.

The property, located on lot 4, block 19, had been owned by a widow, who now lives in another county.

George K. Stayton also made a bid on the property. PORT HENRY, N. Y., May 7.—(UP)—Arthur Schlosser and Edward Hill, entrants in the National Balloon Races which started from Pittsburgh Saturday, were found today nearly exhausted, lost in the woods near Newcomb, N. Y.

They landed Monday morning. This was the last of the 12 balloons to be accounted for. committee that farm acreage be increased at Midland this fall. Lord said he could have brought 10 good farmers here this year from Coke county if he could have found land for them to farm. He declared that Midland county had lost 75 to 100 farmers this year by reason of not having land for them to rent. His ideas were heartily approved by the directors.

PRISON SYSTEM BREEDING GROUND FOR DISEASE MOODY SAYS TODAY

BRYAN, May 7.—(UP)—The Texas prison system was pictured at the East Texas chamber of commerce convention today in the vivid terms with which historians have described medieval dungeons.

The speaker was the red haired Governor Moody, who characterized the Texas system as "the breeding ground for the most loathsome and horrible diseases. Our prison system manufactures instead of reforms criminals," Moody said.

Moody's First Attack Moody began his address by declaring that he was not trying to take advantage of the hundred legislators who accompanied him from Austin.

His address was the first public one of such a bitter attack on penal institutions.

The governor also discussed state highways.

HARMONY PREVAILS BRYAN, May 7.—(AP)—With no active fight apparent either for president or for the next meeting place, delegates to the East Texas Chamber of Commerce expected to make short order of the remaining business of the organization's annual convention today.

Most directors have been re-elected, and Fort Arthur probably will be the next convention city. The election of a president is in the hands of the new board of directors.

Resolutions Presented The address of Governor Moody and the report of the resolution committee were other items on the program. Resolutions urging diversified farming, highway construction at the expense of traffic, industrial expansion and continuation of the business service work which the organization has been doing are expected to receive approval.

E. H. Stin of Bryan and L. H. Gilbert of Texarkana are most prominently mentioned for president. They have indicated that their personal duties would prevent them from serving in that capacity.

HIGHWAYS DISCUSSED BRYAN, May 7.—(AP)—A move for a new deal in the highway tangle was launched here today when presidents and managers of the East and West Texas Chambers of Commerce decided to invite the South Texas chamber to join them in appointing a committee to make thorough investigation and recommendations.

No particular program for committees was agreed upon, but it was believed that the chief purpose will be to prepare sentiment for a constitutional amendment permitting a bond issue.

Sidewalks Before City Delivery—Mrs. Mary S. Ray

Mrs. Mary S. Ray, postmaster, Monday night told directors of the Chamber of Commerce the requirements set forth by the Government to get city delivery in Midland. She said the "fly in the ointment" was lack of sidewalks and street crossings.

Mrs. Ray and the chamber of commerce will jointly ask that an inspector be sent to Midland to specify in detail just exactly what must be done to obtain city delivery. It was pointed out that city delivery would go a long way to lessening the congestion at the postoffice.

GIVE UP CLUE OF JEALOUSY IN HOUSTON MURDERS

HOUSTON, May 7.—(AP)—After a 24-hour man hunt, officers were without a tangible clue to the slayer of Olena Wuenche, 20, and Edward Stone, 21, whose bodies were found near here yesterday.

The theory of jealousy of another suitor was abandoned after police had quizzed the youth who is said to have called frequently at the home of the girl.

ALLEGED MURDERER, INTERVIEWED IN CELL BY STAFF WRITERS, MAINTAINS SAME POISE THAT CHARACTERIZED THE KILLING

'Blackie' Hill, who will probably be indicted for the murder of Jay Brewer before the afternoon is over, was perfectly willing to talk about the killing which happened shortly after 11 o'clock last night, when two staff men of The Reporter-Telegram were admitted to interview him at 2:30 this afternoon.

"I don't know just what happened," Hill told the newspaper men. "He (Brewer) had hit me up for a debt of $7.50, which was for a Ford windshield, before during the day. When he mentioned the matter again in the restaurant, I can't remember how it all happened. I was blinded with hate and anger. I don't know how many times I stabbed him."

When asked whether Brewer had ever threatened him, Hill stated that on two occasions Brewer had threatened his life. Hill said that he has a wife and two small children living here, the youngest of which is three years old. He has been married for nine years, he said.

Hill said that he had worked in a small filling station here at intervals, and that Brewer had employed him.

Hill said nothing about being sorry, when interviewed. He was outwardly composed when he spoke, his voice registering no indication other than his exterior poise. He even appeared negligent. He appeared to be in his early thirties, and is a dark, slender man.

TRAVELING IN ONE SPOT
Captain William Frost, who has traveled by water about as many miles as any man alive, has retired and will end his days on a pension.
During his years as a skipper, Captain Frost has traveled upwards of 460,000 miles.
There is a catch in it, however. Captain Frost's command has been a ferry boat in New York harbor—and his huge mileage was run up entirely in trips back and forth between the New York and New Jersey shores. Not once has his craft poked its nose outside to the open sea.
What a difference that makes to us! If this skipper had put his 460,000 miles end to end, so to speak—if he had compiled them by traveling all over the world in a seagoing ship—we would envy him greatly. There, we would say, is a man who has had rich experiences; he has roamed mightily and has gone to distant lands.
But, as it is, we dismiss him with a few words. He has traveled a long distance, but it has all been in one spot. Instead of envying him we feel sorry for him.
There is more to this business of traveling than appears on the surface, however.
What the traveler sees depends largely on what he has to see with. If he has the right kind of eyes he can make a trip on a ferry boat a genuine experience; and if he hasn't, he can travel all the way to Singapore or Capetown and remain totally uninterested.
People are much alike, wherever you find them. So is scenery. The ocean, after all, is only a great deal of water, sloshing around in a sometimes disconcerting way. A mountain is only a mountain, and a city—be it Pittsburgh or Samarang—is only a collection of houses.
If, in other words, travel means nothing to you but a lot of strange sights, you might as well stay at home—or travel on a ferry boat. For you won't really see anything so terribly startling.
But if you can travel with your mind as well as your body—if you have eyes that can see beneath the surface of things—then travel can enrich you, even if, like Captain Frost, your traveling is all done in one spot.
A street car trip from your home to your place of work can be highly significant, if you can see through the externals. There is a whole world right at your feet—a world that has marvels in it, dragons and demons and magnificent vistas and breath-taking spectacles, waiting your inspection.
It is the world of every-day human beings, every one of whom has an epic concealed about him.
If you can see the world—and you can, by developing sympathy and understanding—your travel will be fruitful, even if it is confined to a ferry boat.

DISARMAMENT RESOLUTION FAVORS U. S.

Charge Russians Were Leaders Of Communist Fight
BERLIN, May 6.—(AP)—The police are today investigating charges of a borough newspaper that Russian Communist leader, aided by three members of the Soviet Army general staff, led the German Communist rioting during the past three days.
The police are in complete charge of the districts where 21 persons have been killed and more than 150 injured in fighting since May Day.
Among the dead are Charles Mackay, English newspaper man.
Purbach, an astronomer, published the first printed almanac at Vienna in 1457, called "Pro Pluribus Annis."

SIPPING FOR A LIVING
There are, in this modern world, many odd ways of earning a living. One of the oddest yet uncovered is that of a Chicago negro, who slipped on a banana peel the other day and landed in jail.
This man, the police learned, had supported himself quite neatly for a number of years by slipping on banana peels. He always had one or more in his pockets; and, dropping one on the sidewalk in front of some store or other business place, he would then ask damages from the owner of the place for negligence in leaving the peeling on the sidewalk.
He had collected, he admitted, scores of times—sums ranging from $10 to $250. This last time, however, someone saw him put the peeling there—and he drew a jail sentence.
The effort to live without working does lead men into queer pursuits sometimes.

TWO COX-MEN BATTLE FOR LEAD OF TEXAS LEAGUE FENCE BUSTERS

DALLAS, Texas, May 6.—(AP)—Larman Cox, hard hitting Ft. Worth Cat outfielder, had 35 points the best of Dick Cox, Shreveport ball buster, in a race for the batting leadership of the Texas League through Thursday's games, in which three players still boasted 400 averages. Claude Robertson, veteran catcher and manager of Beaumont, was in third place. The ten leading hitters were:
Larman Cox, Fort Worth, 447; D. Cox, Shreveport, 408; Robertson, Beaumont, 400; Blackerby, Waco, 397; Sanguinet, Waco, 391; Wetzel, San Antonio, 391; Benton, Wichita Falls, 391; Tate, San Antonio, 385; Eastreling, Beaumont, 383; Whelan, Shreveport, 382.
The Fort Worth Cox also leads in base hits with 34. Whelan had 29 and Blackerby 27. Shreveport claimed both of the leading run scorers, Whelan with 22 and Hutson 20.
Sanguinet, Waco slugger, has pelted seven homers through Thursday to lead the league in that department, with Starr, rookie Shreveport catcher, second with five.
Pepper Martin, Houston speed merchant, promises to give Roy Flaskaemper, Dallas swift, a real race for base stealing honors this season. He had 10 to his credit, compared to five for Flaskaemper, last year's leader.
Earl Caldwell, Waco sensation was the leading pitcher of the league with four straight victories. Dumovich and Thurman, also of Waco, had three victories apiece, and Schelburg, Houston, three; Wiltse, Wichita Falls, led in strikeouts, with 21.

Studebaker Gets Praise From Its Display at Show

Typical of the many enthusiastic comments on the new Studebaker models at the New York automobile show is the authoritative report published by the Standard Statistics Company of New York, according to Carl S. Reeves, Midland agent.
Following a careful survey of the new models displayed at the show, the Traders Securities Service Bulletin published by this company stated: "Through the introduction of the new Commander Eight and improved models of the Commander Six and President Eight series, Studebaker has, we believe, considerably strengthened its competitive position. These models rank in our opinion among the most attractive of the 1929 line."

Fuel Consumed By Ford Plant Is Enormous

The magnitude of the Ford Motor Company's factories in the Detroit area is indicated by the 1928 report on fuel consumption and power production.
Total fuel consumption at Power House Nos. 1 and 3 was 637,404 tons. This is approximately 12,700 car loads of coal, or a coal train reaching 100 miles.
The steam output of the power houses was 11,853,000,000 pounds, an average of 2,000,000 pounds per hour. The kilowatt hours output at the Rouge plant was 536,944,000 and at Highland Park and Lincoln plants 19,347,580, a total of 556,291,580 k. w. hours. This would be sufficient to provide lighting, power, and street railway transportation for a large metropolis.

Miss Rippey Honor Guest at Dinner By Miss Stout

Complimenting Miss Thelma Lee Rippey on her birthday, Miss Allie Mae Stout entertained several friends with an informal dinner at the home of Mrs. B. A. Wall on Monday evening.

Pretty place cards in shades of orange and green marked places for ten guests at the dining table where other appointments reflected the same colors. Five dinner courses, still further emphasizing the green and orange shades, were served.

Climaxing the dinner, the birthday cake was cut and it held novelty favors for each guest. Birthday remembrances also went to the honoree.

Games of bridge were enjoyed after the dinner by Misses Annie Frank Stout, J. Emeline Gaspy, Mae Stout, Messrs. W. W. Lackey, Thelma Lee Rippey, Dora Wall, Allie Preston Bridgewater, Arlie Cassie, Earl Nelson and Dr. D. K. Ratliff.

Y. W. A. Meets For Mission Class

Members of the Young Women's Auxiliary of the Baptist church were guests at the home of Miss Eleanor Connell Monday evening.

The hostess was in charge of the program period which was based on the "Power of God." Misses Virginia Bohne and Elsie Cone assisted the leader in the discussion of the lesson. This was followed with a lever reading given by Miss Stella Mae Lanham.

During the business session, a committee was appointed for the social work of the organization for the coming two weeks.

Mrs. Paul T. Vickers was a visitor at the meeting.

Business Meeting Held at Methodist Church Yesterday

The regular business meeting of the Methodist Women's Missionary society was held at the church yesterday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Earl Moran, in charge.

Committee reports were given with the chief one being on the market to be held Saturday at the Home Furniture company, starting at 9:00 a. m.

The social service committee reported 14 visits made to the sick and approximately 40 garments given to the needy this month.

The nursery for the meeting yesterday was in the charge of Mrs. Lillie Norwood Manning.

Rev. Brown Starts Bible Classes on Women of the Bible

The first in a series of lessons on "Women of the Bible" was started by the Rev. George F. Brown at the regular class meeting of the Women's Missionary society of the Baptist church yesterday afternoon. The initial lesson, on Mother Eve, was taught in a very instructive and interesting manner by the pastor.

Mrs. M. R. Hill presided in the absence of Mrs. J. M. White, president, and at the business hour reports from standing committees and auxiliary presidents were made.

Methodist Women's Market Saturday

Complete announcements were made by the Methodist women yesterday afternoon on the market to be held at the Home Furniture company Saturday morning, May 11, beginning at 9 a. m.

Mrs. J. M. Prothro announced that special boxes of Mother's day candies were to be on sale and if anyone wished these packages previous to Saturday to call 227 and they would be delivered. Other dishes on sale will include dressed hens and friers, angle food cakes and pies.

Mrs. Caldwell Teaches Bible Class on Luke

The Women's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church met yesterday afternoon at the church for Bible study with Mrs. J. M. Caldwell as teacher. The twelfth chapter of Luke was the lesson.

The special subject for study was stewardship under two divisions: The stewardship of the gospel and the stewardship for money.

According to Grace Saxe, whose outline of Luke is studied in the Auxiliary Bible class: "The greatest thing God has committed to us is the gospel. A heathen is a worshiper of false gods, and there are plenty of such heathens in the United States. Unless we are passing on the gospel we are unfaithful stewards."

"If the Christians of America would faithfully pay the Lord His tithe, even Christian work could not be done to exhaust the fund. Every part of the earth could be amply supplied with Bibles, missionaries, educational institutions, hospitals, trained nurses and everything required to give expression to God's wonderful love of the lots world," said Miss Saxe.

Mrs. Andrew Fasken, president of the auxiliary, presented the cause of the "Midland poor relief" and distributed cards to be signed by auxiliary members.

On next Monday the auxiliary will have their annual birthday party at the church. About one hundred invitations will be sent for this affair and a pageant entitled, "Hands Across the Rio Grande," will be presented.

HARDLY WORTH IT

WORCESTER, Mass., May 7.—(UP)—When you buy a newspaper for two or three cents, consider yourself lucky. Joseph Muba paid $2349.52 for one recently. Two men induced him to give them that amount of money to show he was an honest man. In exchange the entrusted him with a package supposed to contain $10,000. When Muba opened the bundle later he found only a newspaper clipped to form sheets the size of bills.

"They're Off" in Style Race at Longchamps

The Longchamps races in France more than ever before are the scene of a style race between all the best Parisian couturiers, all of whom enter their mannikins. Radical changes from last year's silhouette, length and trimmings are striking. The outstanding new point of style were as follows: flaring and longer skirts; natural waistlines; tuck-in blouses; new color combinations; unusual cuff treatment, variety in coat lengths and styles, and close-to-the-neck collars. (Left to right) The nasturtium shades that Paris loves this season were given in the printed crepe of a one-piece frock with high neck, fitted hipline and very full skirt; the orange of the print was picked for the crepe banding that decorates the frock. Voluminous and new was a beige and green ensemble of circular skirt, flaring seven-eighths coat and tuck-in sweater blouse. Three greens join to fleck a large check in the beige wool. For young chic there was a black jacket suit with high-collared tuck-in blouse that was altogether new; the skirt had side pleats that gave it a low flare; the jacket nipped in at the waist and then flared slightly over the hips; the pale grey blouse laced shut with a black cord; the hat of novelty straw, with a little one-sided bandeau, was trimmed with black and white flowers and a matching boutonniere adorned one lapel. For more formal wear a silver grey coat sponsored the princess silhouette, with great fullness at its lower line, a gracefully rounded shape to its front, cut and wider circular cuffs to its long sleeves; the collar was ermine trimmed.

Nazarene Revival To Start Friday In This City

A meeting of the Nazarene denomination will begin in the Presbyterian church Friday night at 8 o'clock, with the Reverend Lee L. Hamrick, Hamlin evangelist, in charge. Prof. Jack Carter and wife, Peniel, Texas, will conduct the singing.

The revival will continue indefinitely, according to the Reverends Amos R. Meador, Post, and Thomas Ahern, Grassland, visiting Nazarene ministers.

"At the close of the meeting we will attempt to organize a church in Midland, the ministers last mentioned said. At present we have only one member here.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

The Homeliest Woman in the World (such a distinction surely deserves capitals) has tossed her rare title to the winds, touched by spring and the desire to win at least an approving glance from The One Man.

This is the story which tumbles forth from colorful backstage land of Ringling Brothers.

The Homeliest Woman is Mrs. Mary Bevans of England, whose world's homeliest face has brought fame and fortune to herself and children for many a year.

The One Man is Alfred, the leopard caretaker—or is it the giraffe?

Anyway, story has it, when The Homeliest Woman saw Alfred, all pride in her title fled. She is supposed to have appealed to a circus colleague to help in winning some sort of favor from Alfred.

And someone or other straightway took her to a beauty parlor, had her given a bob, shampoo with a little fleck of dye in the rinse water, a marcel, a facial, a manœuvre, guided her in buying a spring wardrobe to "suit her type," and lo, Alfred has at least noted her existence and hope springs in The Homeliest Woman's heart.

And the circus, they say, is sending out an S. O. S. for a new World's Homeliest Woman, for Mrs. Bevans will no longer fill the bill.

PRESS AGENTS, EH?
Now I—and perhaps you—may be unduly suspicious, but I am sure we all agree that this is just one of those "swell" press agent's yarns.

When Grandfather Bradshaw was a little body and climbed the forbidden apple tree he wasn't helped down when his frightened eyes turned to contemplate the dizzy heights he had achieved.

His screams brought no succor—even Hiram, the hired man, filling his cup at the pump, merely gazed orchardward with amused eyes and muttered, "That'll learn 'im to let trees alone. I'll go tell his Ma."

But when he hopped up for supper it was with half a dozen scratches and bruises, a bump on his head, and a sleeve torn out of his shirt. He was tired, crying and sick.

But what did his Ma do but turn him over her knee, add insult to injury, and send him to bed without any pie or even a piece of bread and butter.

When Father Bradshaw was a little boy life was life and men were still men and little boys took their bumps as they came, but women were different. So when he climbed the self same tricky old tree that deceived its victims into getting up but absolutely refused to be interested in getting them down, he yelled loud and lustily in the direction of the new sunporch where his mother was embroidering shirt-waists. She hastily called the man who was clipping the shrubbery to get a ladder and save her son.

INJURY— BUT NOT INSULT
Son was saved injury but not the insult. He got a good spanking, cried it off, and was surprised with ice cream and chocolate cake for dessert.

The other day little Johnny Bradshaw III climbed the lone lorn apple tree behind the garage, took a look down when he got to the top and yelled for help. His mother just pulling up to the curb in the car saw hi mand screamed. It took the whole neighborhood to get him down and when he had reached his mother's arms once again he was kissed and cried all over, given a hot bath, put to bed to rest his nerves, and the doctor sent for.

Then Johnny's mother had time to get made. Where was Grandfather? She had left Johnny in his care. Where was he now?

"I saw him climb up, but he had had his orders not to," said Grandpa calmly. "I was watching him from my window."

"And you didn't help?"
"Why, I figured the best kind of trainin' children can get is to let 'em get out of their own mistakes," said he.

Which did not mollify Johnny's mother at all.

FASHION PLAQUE

One Film a Year— And Each a Wow!

The most independent of all motion picture producers and directors is Roland West, whose latest achievement, "Alibi," the United Artists film, comes to the Grand theatre Sunday, May 12, Mothers' day.

West makes just one picture a year, takes months to prepare it and months to film it, and he won't deviate from this custom.

This conservatism has been justified, for all of West's pictures are outstanding hits. Last year it was "The Dove," starring Norma Talmadge; the year before "The Bat," and the year previous to "The Bat" he made "The Monster." He has been directing for years on the basis of one picture each twelve months.

Formerly a successful stage producer and playwright, West entered the film game at the same time as Joseph M. Schenck, now the president and chairman of the Board of Directors of the United Artists Corporation. West directed the first picture that Schenck ever made, more than a decade ago.

West believes "Alibi" is the most suspenseful screen play of his career. It is a powerful story of crooks, laughs, love and night life with an ultra-modern setting and taken from the stage success, "Nightsticks."

Don't forget that Sunday night at the Grand theatre is "Alibi" night.

HONORING MEMORY OF HORACE MANN

Franklin, Mass., Educator's Birthplace, Dedicating Marker

FRANKLIN, Mass., May 7.—(UP)—This town today is honoring the memory of its most famous son, Horace Mann, known as "the father of the American free public schools."

In the presence of national and state dignitaries, a granite and bronze marker was dedicated on a tiny plot of land where the house in which Mann was born once stood.

Mann, who was born in 1796, founded the first normal school in the United States at Lexington, Mass. He was a state legislator, a member of Congress, college president and for many years an outstanding figure in American education.

MAKE WHOOPEE WITH WHILRWIND "FANCY BAGGAGE"

"Fancy Baggage" is the title of the latest Warner Brothers Vitaphone comedy-drama at the Ritz theatre today, for a run of two days, and heralded as the cleverest of the season.

The cast is especially clever, numbering among its members Audrey Ferris, Myrna Loy, George Fawcett, Hallam Cooley, Wallace MacDonald, Edmund Bresse, Eddie Gribbon, Burr McIntosh and Virginia Sales. The story is by Jerome Kingston and the scenario by C. Graham Baker. Join Adolff directed.

Audrey Ferris plays the part of a high-stepping flapper who finds by accident that her extravagances have plunged her father into business complications, which threaten him with a term in prison. With sudden determination she sets out to get the false confession her father has given in exchange for a check for a million to be used to keep her up in her course of living. Complications, thrilling and often amusing, follow, and in the course of her campaign, taxi, yachts, rum-running, craft and revenue cutters play an exciting part, as well as a rival lady and three amorous young men, one of them chief of the rum runners. The greatest trio of gouches of stage or screen—George Fawcett, Edmund Bresse, and Burr McIntosh are featured.

"Fancy Baggage" is tensely dramatic, and combines sense and nonsense in a way quite unique. See it and be convinced.

COLTS NOSED OUT; ABILENE, COLEMAN AND ANGELO COMING

BAD HOP FROM SUBTERRANEAN SINK IS CAUSE

If a team ever had an alibi, the Colts really should be invested in title as a result of the game yesterday with Big Spring. The game was won, but a bad hop from a hole in Big Spring's outfield gave the Herders the break that changed the win into a nose-out.

Abilene, Coleman and San Angelo have three games each and in the order named, over the next nine days.

OIL VISITOR IS INSPIRED TO DO STORY ON CITY

W. M. Peters, oil man with a major company at Eastland who is also connected with the Eastland News, who thinks he will likely locate at Midland within the next 30 days, will run the following authorized interview in the Eastland News:

Stepping from the train in Midland for the first time in eight years I was much impressed with the Southwest Texas town. There has gathered around the place the general air of an oil metropolis.

In hotels, on streets, in real estate offices, banks, everywhere, there are to be seen interested groups of wide-awake people scanning outstretched maps, formulating plans and consummating deals. Perhaps that means continued growth and unprecedented prosperity for the outstanding Southwest Texas town.

As a silhouette group against the sky that is truly western, there are hotel, office and mercantile buildings. But sentinel for the town is the 12-story Petroleum building soon to be completed.

Paved streets, modern structures, abundant water, electric current and natural gas in great supply, have concentrated themselves into making of Midland from a mere town of a few years ago to its present magnificence, self-destined to become the metropolis of the West Texas petroleum fame.

Famous as an aviation and road center, transportation hub, and base for other activities, the town has exceeded the expectation of all those who did not have the vision to plan its future.

To visit the city without meeting the members of the chamber of commerce, the city dads, and the members of the industrial and oil fraternities, would be to miss the real pulse beating beneath the seething exterior.

Every Convenience on New Dirigible

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

LONDON, May 4.—Sometime during early summer the two most gigantic flying liners ever built will slide out of their hangars near London and take trial flights in preparation for long-distance hops to Canada and India, respectively.

When the big Graf Zeppelin sped across the Atlantic to the United States last fall Americans thought they were seeing the last word in dirigible construction. The size, cruising range and luxurious appointments of the big German ship amazed the whole country.

The two new British ships, however, outclass the Graf Zeppelin just as that ship outclassed the U. S. navy ship Los Angeles.

One of the ships—which one has not been decided—will fly to America, probably to Montreal and then Lakehurst, N. J. The Indian trip will end at Karachi.

The R-101, to begin with, is 724 feet three inches long, 131 feet eight inches wide and 140 feet high. Her envelope has a capacity of some 5,000,000 cubic feet of gas, and she will have a lifting capacity of 150 tons. Her maximum speed will be around 70 miles an hour, and she will have a cruising range of approximately 4,000 miles.

In this gigantic sky liner there are stateroom accommodations for 100 passengers and a crew of 8. And it is in the arrangements that have been devised for the passengers that the R-101 stand out as the most amazing dirigible yet built.

Two decks have been built into the hull for the passengers. The gangway, through which passengers will come aboard, is on the lower deck. Stepping on the ship, the passenger will find himself in a wide corridor. Facing a staircase that rises to the upper deck. Forward, the corridor leads to the chart room, control car, wireless room and gallery; aft, it extends past the lavatory accommodations to the crew's quarters and the baggage room. Besides the stairway is a commodious smoking room.

Large Dining Saloon

Ascending the stairway, the passenger will find himself in another corridor which leads across the entire width of the ship. At one end it opens into the dining saloon—a room in which 40 or more people can sit down to dinner at once. On the left are doors leading to the staterooms—comfortable rooms each with an upper and lower berth, looking very much like the staterooms on a good ocean liner.

On the other side of the corridor a door opens into the big lounge. This room is one of the most unbelievable features of the incredible airship. It measures 60 feet long by 32 feet wide, and is lined with easy chairs and lounges. In the center the passengers can dance; music will come in by radio from ground stations. And lining each side of the big lounge is a promenade deck!

The promenade deck is one of those conveniences with which imaginative writers of fiction have always equipped their airships, but which actual flying machines thus far have failed to install. It's here. It is much like the promenade deck of a seagoing vessel. The deck is wide, with steamer chairs along the inboard side. Toward the edge of the ship there rises a railing. Beyond this is the slanting side of the envelope—the fabric replaced, here, by non-splinter glass. Passengers can stroll along the deck, glance down and see the country spinning along far below—but they will not be exposed to the air, nor will there be the slightest chance of any nervous passenger tumbling over the rail and taking a long fall.

The accommodations for officers and crew, and the technical advances that have been made in construction, are doubtless points of greater interest to the professional aviator than the luxurious way in which the passenger accommodations have been designed. Thirty-eight tanks are fastened to the interior framework, to hold the 29 tons of fuel the big ship will carry. Seven tons of water ballast will be carried in emergency bags, which can be emptied instantaneously in case of emergency, and eight tons more will be in special tanks.

Remove Fire Danger

There are five 550 horsepower Diesel engines for propulsion. Each one is carried in a separate car outside of the envelope. Danger of fire has been lessened by the fact that these engines burn crude oil instead of gasoline.

In the very nose of the ship there is a cockpit where a lookout man is to be stationed, while below this there is a room in which the job of mooring to the airport masts can be accomplished. The ship is to be guided and controlled from the control car, which protrudes from the hull below and in front of the lower deck. In the tail there is another lookout station, and on the very top of the huge envelope there is still a third.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

BY FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

The Germans Prepare

Mention was made recently in these columns of the fact that German athletic competition must be reckoned with at the Olympic games of 1932 in Los Angeles. As evidence of how thoroughly the Germans are preparing for those games three years hence, Eric Keyser, United Press staff correspondent, sends the following report from Berlin:

"Though still more than three years off, the Los Angeles Olympic Games are casting their shadows over this country. Everything in German sporting life is viewed from the one standpoint: What effect will the measures we are taking have on the Fatherland's chances of victory in this big event. Or better still: What is the best method to increase our chances?"

"A recent meeting of the German Amateur Athletic Association convened chiefly to draft the program for the coming season, almost naturally drifted into a discussion of the Los Angeles games. And by and by, this topic became the issue of the day. For several hours Germany's prospective preparations for the next Olympics were discussed. It was unanimously agreed that, in order to compete successfully in 1932, Germany must buckle down right now and not only coordinate but subordinate all its activities to this one task.

"Debate and decisions at this meeting bore evidence of a complete change of opinion in German official sporting quarters. Heretofore the German counterpart of the A. A. A. has only most sparingly endorsed international dual meets. The German leaders thought them of small value. The program mapped out for the coming season is a clear reversal of this attitude. Not only have the dual meets with French and Swiss national track teams been again sanctioned, but three more, namely, with England, Sweden and Japan, have been added. The program for all these dual meets are based on the Olympic track and field program. The meet between Sweden and Germany is to become a permanent institution.

"International dual meets, it was pointed out, afford the best training for athletes to become 'point scorers,' to teach them team spirit, and to make them see that in the Olympics second and third places counts as much as an occasional first.

"At the same meeting the Association voiced its agreement with the German Olympic Committee's suggestions to curtail the Olympic program, under which the program would be cut to a fortnight, and all 'side-shows' would be eliminated. The idea of having 'first and second class events, as it were,' is ridiculous it was declared.

"In one respect, however, the Association declared itself unable to support the Olympic committee's suggestions; namely, to cancel the 200 meter event and the 400 meter relay race from the program of future Olympic games. It was not said, but it may be well assumed, that the association's attitude was influenced by the fact that German athletes played a leading role in those two events at Amsterdam. The association has urged the Olympic Committee to reconsider its decision in this respect before it submits, as intended, its suggestions to the next meeting of the International Olympic Board."

SPORT BRIEFS

By R. C. HANKINS

Folks, it looks good to ye sports scribbler to see in the headlines of the dailies of the state the significant words: "Midland Nosed Out 6-5." After a shower of runs that made it look like a rainy season of things seem better.

The fact is, according to league vice president, J. Arthur Johnson, Midland could not get all the play-ers she wanted to begin the season, and they're just beginning to drift in. And the effect in yesterday's game of some of them is apparent.

Yesterday in Big Spring was just one of those things. It will happen to any ball club—and more than several times during the season: a ball fell in a hole in the outfield, enabling Big Spring to chase in a flock of runs.

Monty Wright was "right." He pitched eight innings of as pretty ball as has been seen in the league this year.

While Big Spring was winning its

Early in the twentieth century, the elder Lindbergh and Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, through association with Howard B. E. Cincinnati Saleswoman Reveals Secrets of Her Trade

CINCINNATI, May 6. (UP)—Miss Beatrice Thom, a music record saleswoman, has a novel way to determine the moods of customers.

"When a young man comes into our store I look at his socks," she said, "and if they hang down over his shoes, I know he will want a snappy, very modern love song record. But if they are neat and smooth, I begin hunting for a sentimental ballad.

"When a well-dressed woman of middle-age wants a record I know the chances are she will decide on something classical or semi-classical.

"An older man may want a Stephen Foster melody unless he goes in for loud ties and diamond tie pins, in which case he'll want something faster."

HERE'S A CHANCE TO PICK UP BARGAIN IN CURRENCY

BOSTON, May 7. (UP)—Massachusetts citizens have been offered a big bargain in United States currency. As long as they last, half dollars will be sold to the public by the state treasurer for 50 cents each.

By Act of Congress in 1920 and 1921, 300,000 Pilgrim half dollars were minted as souvenirs of the tercentary of the landing of the Pilgrims. Most of these were sold at $1 each. Coins representing a value of $24,775 remain unsold, however, and the state treasurer has now been authorized to sell these at par.

GIRLS CHOOSE ENGLISH; MEN PICK ECONOMICS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 7. (UP)—English is the most popular subject among college girls and economics among college men, if a survey conducted at Harvard and Radcliffe is an accurate barometer. Twenty-eight percent of the Radcliffe girls are concentrating on English, compared with 16 per cent of Harvard men. Seventeen percent of the Harvard students are majoring in Economics, while less than three percent of the Radcliffe girls have shown preference for that subject.

DIES OF WAR BULLET

TROY, N. Y., May 7. (UP)—A bullet fired from an enemy gun in the St. Mihiel drive in November, 1918, was believed by physicians to have resulted in the death here recently of Cornelius Griffin, 40, World War veteran. Griffin died with the bullet still lodged near his heart. The veteran had been confined to numerous hospitals during the eleven years since the Armistice was signed, but due to the proximity of the bullet to his heart, physicians were unable to operate and remove it.

Aviator's Meteorological Text Has List of Interesting Observations

Red sun at night, sailor's delight
"Red Sun in the morning, sailor's warning."

Besides being a pleasing little fling, that little rhyme has also a practical value, according to P. D. Lambert, assistant operations manager of the T. A. T. Flying Service. He, who has just completed a book on meteorology which will be used as a text in the flying school in training student pilots.

"The rhyme belongs to that class of observations about the whys and wherefores of the earth's phenomena that is often referred to as superstition. In the case of weather, however, man's early conclusion which discovered a certain consistency in the caprice of the weather were often founded on fact, as the study of meteorology or the science of the atmosphere has revealed.

"The old-time community weather prophet might not have known that a certain cloud with a grayish dome, a broken base, and a pinkish tinge was called a nimbus cloud, but he was pretty certain that it would produce rain. Meteorology has, in fact, only collected and classified and systematized what these old prophets have observed, adding certain information that has been discovered by expeditions in the air.

By means of balloons and other instruments, for instance, science has discovered the altitude of the different types of clouds, that the highest cloud having any form is a feathery, lacy cloud known as a cirrus cloud usually about 30,000 feet high. It has found that there are two layers of atmosphere, the troposphere or the lower layer in which currents of air move both vertically and horizontally, and the stratosphere or upper layer, beginning at about 29,000 feet, in which there is only one current and that horizontal. It has discovered, too, that in the lower layer, the temperature decreases one degree for every 300 feet upward.

Science has been useful also in explaining some of the phenomena that men have observed but did not understand. Through the study of meteorology, it is now common knowledge that winds are caused by certain definite factors, such as by two currents of air, a warm current rising from the earth and a cool current descending, and that storms follow an area of low pressure.

The chief service of science has been in collecting weather data that make possible accurate predictions concerning its future state. Through instruments for measuring the temperature, pressure, wind, humidity, clouds and precipitation, weather experts have been able to make weather maps from which fairly accurate weather predictions can be made. Farmers studying these maps which are issued daily by the government weather bureau the farmer can tell whether or not she should cut his hay, when to take it into the barn, and when to rush his cotton picking.

Airplane pilots depend upon these maps in determining when they may start upon a long flight, what route to take, and various other details of the trip. They will avoid an area of low pressure, knowing that there will be stormy weather, or they may follow along the outer edge of the area to take advantage of the wind.

When flies begin to bite, according to the sailor's prediction, you can guess there's rain coming. But flies might go haywire or something and bit from pure cussedness. You can be more certain if you study a weather map.

Lindbergh Paints Picture of Aeronautics in America

Predicts Safe and Regular Air Passenger Service Within Year or Two

AMERICA'S airports, in order to properly serve the ultimate object of aviation, must be located within a few minutes of the center of the cities they are to serve, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh declared before a joint committee of Congress considering the selection of a municipal airport for the National Capital.

COL. CHARLES A. LINDBERGH (International Newsreel)

He emphasized strongly his feeling that America is sorely delinquent in the matter of airport development, and that this delinquency is hampering the progress of commercial air travel.

Airports should have concrete base and asphalt surface runways, should be carefully and evenly sodded, and should be equipped with every possible facility for passenger comfort, he explained.

Colonel Lindbergh painted a glowing picture of the future of aeronautics in America, pointing out that there is more private flying in this country at the present time than in all of Europe combined.

In connection with the location of airports, Colonel Lindbergh expressed the belief that proximity to the business section is the most important item to be taken into consideration.

"If the airport is an hour's ride from the city," he explained, "it takes away most of the advantage of flying time; on a trip from New York or Philadelphia to Washington, the time required going to and from distant landing fields would add so much to the flying time that there would be little advantage over the railroad time."

"Would a distance of 20 minutes be much of a handicap?" he was asked.

"That's reasonable," he replied, "but it would be better if it were possible to have the field even closer."

Lindbergh predicted that in a year or two there will be safe, regular, direct passenger service between New York and Rio de Janeiro or Buenos Aires. He pointed out that even now there is regular service between Miami and Panama.

INCOME TAX DUAL LEVIES EXPLAINED

A bulletin received by the office of The Reporter-Telegram this morning explains the state income tax—dual levies, as follows:

The Texas Legislature in adopting the Sixteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution (Income Tax) ceded this source of revenue to the Federal Government and has no more right to occupy this field until the Federal government abandons it than it has to re-occupy any property it has ceded to the Federal government.

Danger of Dual Levies
A separation of tax sources has become an established custom and a written covenant between Federal and State governments for one hundred and fifty years. The danger of dual levies between Federal and State taxing jurisdictions was recognized by the founders of our government. In debating the adoption of the Federal Constitution, repeated warnings were issued against their use.

Custom Duties
The Federal Constitution gives to Congress the right to levy custom and excise taxes provided they be equal and uniform throughout the United States. (Sec. 8, Art. 1). The Federal Constitution wisely provides that no state can, without the consent of Congress, levy an import duty, thereby setting aside custom duties for the exclusive use of the Federal government. (Sec. 20, Art. 2).

Direct Property Tax
The Federal Constitution prohibits Congress from levying a direct tax upon property there setting aside all direct property taxes for the exclusive use of state governments and subdivisions thereof. (Sec. 4, Art. 9.)

A distinct separation of tax sources was therefore compelled by our organic law and approved by custom until the adopting of the Sixteenth Amendment giving Congress the right to levy and collect income taxes from whatever source. The Federal government must occupy this field to the limit in order to liquidate the war debt.

Jurisdiction Over Life and Property
Life and property have inalienable rights. It is as great an injustice for the Federal and State governments to tax the same property twice for the Federal and state courts as to try a man twice for the same offense. Dual jurisdictions on the part of the Federal and state

Land, containing 480 acres of land, plaintiff further alleging that he has had open and adverse possession under the ten year statute of limitations of said premises for more than ten years prior to July first, 1928 and thereafter said petition further alleges as follows:

That each of the defendants is claiming title to a portion of said premises by reason of a Deed purporting to convey to him one or more lots according to the map or plat of the town of Shafter Lake in Andrews County, Texas. That by reason of such description there is appurtenant to each of said lots a private right of access to the lot so conveyed from the actual settlement on the townsite of Shafter Lake on the North part of the Northwest Quarter of said Section 12, which actual town is not fenced in and is not wholly owned by plaintiff. That none of said lots is entirely surrounded by a tract or tracts owned, claimed or fenced by plaintiff.

That any settlement that may ever have existed on said townsite was in the North part of the Northwest quarter of Section 12 about Block 25 designated as the Court House Square on said plat and is remote from the premises herein sued for. That no use of said premises has ever been made as town property and neither defendants nor their predecessors in title nor any other persons have ever occupied said premises or any part thereof for habitation or as town property of any character. That there has been no necessity or occasion to use the Streets and alleys shown on said map to be on said premises as streets and alleys and same have never been used by defendants or the public or any persons whatever as streets and alleys and plaintiff's possession has not been interrupted by the claim of any persons for the use of such streets and alleys. That if there had ever been any intention of any person of using any part of the premises herein sued for for townsite purposes of any kind, such intention had long since been abandoned by each and all such persons at the time of the beginning of plaintiff's adverse possession herein alleged.

Wherefore plaintiff prays that the defendants be cited to answer this petition, and that plaintiff have judgment for the title and possession of the above described premises, for his damages, for costs of suit and for such other and further relief as he may be entitled to either at law or in equity.

Herein fail not but have before said Court, at its aforesaid regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said Court, at office in Andrews County, Texas, on this 22nd day of April, A. D. 1929.

Clerk, District Court Andrews Co., Texas.

PILOT FLEW IN GERMANY, HAD REAL RECORD

FORT WORTH, May 7.—Thirty days of operation and one minute off schedule!

Such is the record of the T. A. T. Flying Service, Inc., between two stations on the Dallas to El Paso passenger line. It was discovered when the operations report for the month of April was made out.

Between Big Spring and Abilene the scheduled flying time is one hour. Taking the average flying time of the thirty days, it was discovered that the distance was covered in one hour and one minute. Delayed by headwinds and spotted along bytail winds, the pilots managed to keep within sixty seconds of the time allotted for the flight.

The pilots on the line from Dallas to El Paso, via Fort Worth, Abilene, Sweetwater, Big Spring, and Midland, are Homer Rader, Sifia Payne, and Howard Woodall.

Farm Relief Interest Second to Fried Chicken

Can Discern Date of Birth Of Luckless Fowl Instantly

JOB had his troubles, but he would have considered himself a man without worries if he had known Charles Linza McNary, senior Senator from Oregon. Farm relief is the bane of McNary's hitherto untroubled existence.

In the last three years he has coined and considered enough farm relief plans, which, if placed end to end, would stretch twice around the globe and if stacked together would fill the pension office, known as Meigs' Barn. What he does not know about farm relief is not worth knowing.

But all this has interfered with McNary's real life work. It is betraying no confidence to say that McNary is the leading exponent of fried chicken in Maryland in the Senate, if not the United States and contiguous countries. The apex of his ambition is to find the perfect fried chicken. Charles McNary has made more fried chicken forays than all the other members of Congress combined. He pretends to be an automobile enthusiast, but that is merely a blind to cover his arch falling.

He has explored every highway and byway leading out of Washington into Maryland for the only viand that appeases his Methodist preacher's appetite. Sand hunched, rocks, ruts and other seemingly insurmountable obstacles do not deter the senatorial Jason in his quest of the "Golden Fried."

EAST TEXAS CHAMBER IN CONVENTION

BRYAN, May 6.—(AP)—The relation of industrial development to agriculture and prosperity is one of the chief problems before the first day's meeting of the third annual convention of the East Texas chamber of commerce today.

Several thousand visitors are here for the meeting. Business sessions largely routine included the appointment of committees and the receipt of annual reports.

In the afternoon, the convention was paused to hear the annual home town speaking contest.

What type of tires should YOU have on YOUR car?

You drive differently than your friends do, don't you? Some of them are fast, hard drivers? Some use their cars much less than you? Some stick mostly to good roads and travel slow; some go everywhere?

Is it reasonable to suppose that the same type of tire will stand up equally well on different cars under such different speeds, roads, loads and distances? Very well, then, what type of tire will carry YOU safely and without trouble, the way YOU drive and until you trade in your car?

Perhaps a very low price Speedway or a Goodyear Pathfinder will do. Or you may need a Goodyear All-Weather in the regular type. Or possibly an oversize. Or the heavy duty. Let us "take your measure" and fit you out. Depend on this: We won't try to sell you anything better than you need just because you can afford the best. You can trust us.
