TICKETS TO GO ON SALE FOR "CAJUN" SOON

"The Cajun," one of the most popular folk dramas ever to have been staged will be presented at the high school by The Midland Players on Tuesday and Thursday night of next week.

The players have pleased Midland audiences on other occasions, and critics think that the newest play, "The Cajun," will be more successful than former productions. A fine cast is working hard each night. First dress rehearsal will be held within a few nights, and the play will be reviewed at length the following day in this paper.

Mother Seeks Boy Here; Says He Is A Good Musician

Is Allen Early in Midland? The Reverend Thomas J. Murphy, pastor of the Presbyterian church, received a letter from the mother of the young man this morning, saying that she thought it possible that he had come here after leaving without announcement his Waco home April 23.

The boy was described as being 6 feet 2 inches in height, 175 pounds weight, 15 years old (though capable of passing as 18) and as being a good musician and church worker. He wore dark trousers and a white shirt when last seen.

The mother asked that Midland people assist her by writing anything pertinent to her son's whereabouts, to her home at 1401 Columbus avenue, Waco, Texas. The mother's name is Mrs. W. W. Early.

LIONS ESPOUSE CHARITY MOVE IN PROGRESS HERE

Lions who had not intended going to San Angelo convention on May 9-19, changed their minds after Lion President Homer W. Rowe, at the Wednesday meeting, led up to a request that they do so by thematic treatment of the subject "The Lions Club Is Not Merely a Luncheon Group; It Is Organized for Service".

The body voted unanimously in favor of the club assuming payment of an underwritten subscription of $60 to be dispensed by the Welfare committee of the chamber of commerce through the county judge, M. R. Hill, who will investigate all cases of charity before checking against the fund.

Two hundred dollars each month for six months is the object of the committee. The four churches have underwritten $95 each; W. I. Pratt, Rotarian president, underwrote $40; and the Lions $60, makes the remainder already subscribed.

Several speakers spoke of the value in service afforded by cooperation of the Lions Club with other clubs. Each speaker stated that it would be well for Midland to send as many Lions to the San Angelo convention as possible. San Angelo sponsored the Midland organization, "The Largest Charter Membership Club in the World," and still is deeply interested in the body, as evidenced by the placing of Midland on the entertainment committee.

Attempt will be made by those who signed cards saying they would go to San Angelo to make the first day the concentration period for Midland attendance.

Visitors at the lunch were A. V. Edmonson, manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company here; J. O. Everett, of the J. O. Everett Construction Company, Dallas, and a former semi-pro baseball player here; and George Isleib of the Acme Brick Company, who is now stationed in Big Spring.

Marvin C. Ulmer made the motion that the club endorse the underwriting of the welfare fund, and Harry Tolbert, tail twister, seconded it.

SCOUTS SHOW ROTARY CLUB THEIR WORK

Boys' week was fittingly observed at today's meeting of Midland Rotary club, the Rotarians acting as spectators while a group of Boy Scouts and Scout officials provided the entertainment.

The program was under the auspices of the Boys' Work or community service committee of the club, with J. O. Garlington acting as chairman for the day.

The scouts gathered around an improvised camp fire, wherein firewood was stacked in regulation form and a red electric light globe gave the appearance of a blaze. A kettle swung above the fire.

A dialogue between two Indian chiefs, Lloyd McKinney and Conklin Crabb, was given in the Indian sign.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)—Action was deferred again today by the senate inter-state committee on the nomination of former Governor O. B. Colquitt of Texas as a member of the railroad board of mediation.

Colquitt, however, denied the testimony, but the committee decided today it would inquire further into the matter before making the decision.

MIDLAND AIRMAN TAKES FLIGHT INSIDE OFFICE OF THE REPORTER-TELEGRAM, AND UNDER INSTRUCTION

Field-Manager Harold M. Becherer of the Midland airport was given a lesson in flying by a "Ground flyer" yesterday afternoon in the editorial office of The Reporter-Telegram.

"Red" Ferguson had come into the office to report damage done the hangar of the airport in the heavy standstorm and wind. It happened, that Becherer was seated at the city desk at the time, and had just given the report.

"I thought I'd give you the tip," Red began, "as all the fellows at the port are probably too scared by the roof blowing off the hangar to give you a report."

"Do you know this gentleman?" Red was asked. The newspaperman indicated Becherer. "I don't think so," was the answer. "Well, this is Mr. Blackward. He wants to learn to fly some day. Possibly you could give him a few tips

Midland "Tightest City Between The Oceans" at Game Here Friday

Folks, when the Midland baseball club trots out on the diamond at Cowden Park Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock the town will be as tightly closed as the window blinds in Chinatown.

If you expect recreation, you'd better go to the park for it. There will be nothing else open. No place to transact business; no place to buy a Coca Cola; no picture show; no—what have you?

For Midland is going in a body to see those Colts drag at the bit.

C. M. Goldsmith, Elliott F. Cowden, and R. D. Scruggs carried a petition to the merchants of the city this morning and were rewarded for their efforts in a most unusual way. The merchants will close their doors so tight that the place will look like a "ghost city." Nothing will be open but the newspaper office of The Reporter-Telegram and the morgues.

Would you be interested in knowing that the representative City of Midland, the city hall, signed the petition? That filling stations, merchants, theatres, drug stores, public offices, garages, oil companies, real estate offices, the chamber of commerce, lumber yards and numberless other establishments agreed to close "lock, stock and barrel?"

If you're not at the ball park to see the Midland-Big Spring game Friday afternoon, you'll be a lonesome addition to a desolate street scene.

A Chic Frock That Hints of Summer

Infinitely feminine, charming and new in at least three ways is this Paris creation, from Norman Hartnell. First, it is made of sheer, pure white organdie and tulle, than which nothing could be more summery or dainty for a moonlight party. Second, its silhouette is one of the future, the true princess line with a long skirt that trails gracefully behind. Third, it takes the vogue for ruching trim seriously and uses, two, three and four rows of tulle ruching to re-ruffle its flaring, feminine skirt. A double ruching outlines the neck and falls like a lei. This frock would make a stunning bridesmaid style, done in pastel shades and topped by a floppy hat.

Garnish Hints for Cold Meat Dish

Garnishes are important at all times but it is so easy in the summertime to dress up the serving dishes that this way of making our food more appetizing should not be overlooked.

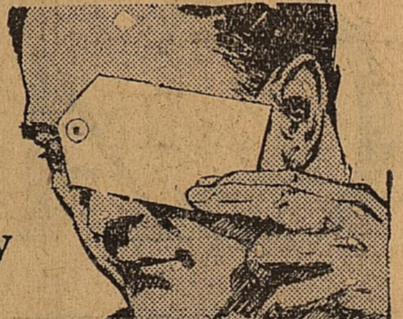

Curly endive with its blended yellow and green leaves makes fascinating little nests for the molded meat salad or the tomato filled with sweetbread salad.

Celery curls need not be alien to

THERE IS ALWAYS GOOD VALUE IN A GOOD USED CAR

Don't let price alone blind you when you buy a used car

Pledge to the Public on Used Car Sales

- 1 Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.
- 2 All Studebaker automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.
- 3 Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used. (It is assumed that the car has not been damaged in the meantime.)

THE price of a used car—as of a new one—is important only the day you buy it. The car itself—the way it rides, drives, looks, and serves—is important all the months and years you will own it.

Your surest way to find out what is inside a used car is to drive it out on the road. That is why every car you will see here today—Studebakers and other standard makes—is backed by the famous Studebaker Pledge which allows you five days' driving trial. The good used car you select here must sell itself to you during five days' actual service or we don't want you to keep it!

The Studebaker Pledge puts the lowest price on each car in plain figures—no one else can get a better deal than you. The Studebaker Pledge gives you a 30-day guarantee on Certified Studebakers. And our Budget Payment Plan lets you pay while you ride.

Come in today. Look over our complete stock of good used cars.

PERFECT DAY SHOULD GIVE BALL CLUBS THE "BREAK" DESIRED

YESTERDAY'S GAME HALTED IN EARLY STAGES BY SAND DUNES AND CYCLONE

Calvin Segrist, seasoned manager for the Colts, can start either of three or four pitchers in the game this afternoon with Big Spring in the neighbor city's park, he gave out in Big Spring this morning.

Andrews was ready to go since he did not have to pitch yesterday. The hectic game was called before the end of the first half of the first inning (if it can be said more explicitly) when clouds of sand made further play out of the question. Midland had chased in a flock of runs and had seemingly cocked ears for a flock more. When the ump walked out and stopped the massacre, Midland basemen filled the corners and only one man was down.

Jones and McCann Ready
Jones or McCann could pitch today, Segrist said, just as well. Both are in good condition, and are opposite side heaters.

Big Spring ceremonies yesterday planned out as per announcement. It was really a pity that the day had to give an unsavory taste to the preparations. Three orchestras and bands were in the grandstand; a veritable carnival parade was staged; and the town was as tightly closed as if its name had been Volstead.

Will Midland Close
Friday, Saturday and Sunday will be spent in Midland. Monday will see a double header in Big Spring. Following these six games between the ancient rivals, there will be nine days in Midland with other teams.

Midland is expected to do no less than Big Spring when, Friday afternoon, the Cowboys journey over to exchange compliments. The merchants of the town are asked to attend the game to the nth man.

SPORT BRIEFS

The writer of this column cannot but refrain from quoting the words of Stanley Norman, writer of the Big Spring Herald's sport column, "Sports on Parade" in beginning the Thursday observations.

"It's a great sight, isn't it, folks?" the sports writer said in his Wednesday evening column. He continued: "Yes, it's truly a thing of beauty to see the Cowboys out there in their clean white suits with blue trimmings scampering around attempting to bite the Ponies on the ear. Never mind, though, it's an old custom among the hardy pioneers of the range."

Now give the Midland writer a chance to say that something evidently went amiss with the Big Spring sportsman's crystal gazing, the first place, we've seen no adhesive tape on the ears of any of the Colts this morning. In the second, the custom of cowboys on the Midland range is to really bite the Colts on the ear, rather than "attempting" to bite them.

Mr. Norman took a crack at Midland's 12-story building "filled with lots of space." Thanks to the publicity, old man, but fact is pretty well known—even in the North and East. You might refer to us as the place where a real baseball team hails from. Season just starting, we have not had so much said about us regards that organization as we would like.

This writer does not mind taking the liberty of addressing his remarks more or less in the direction of our neighbor city's sports writer. He "met" the gentleman over the telephone Tuesday and was extended every courtesy. He enjoys reading the sports column of his friendly enemy. He merely is "getting the jump" while the gun of the starter is still poised.

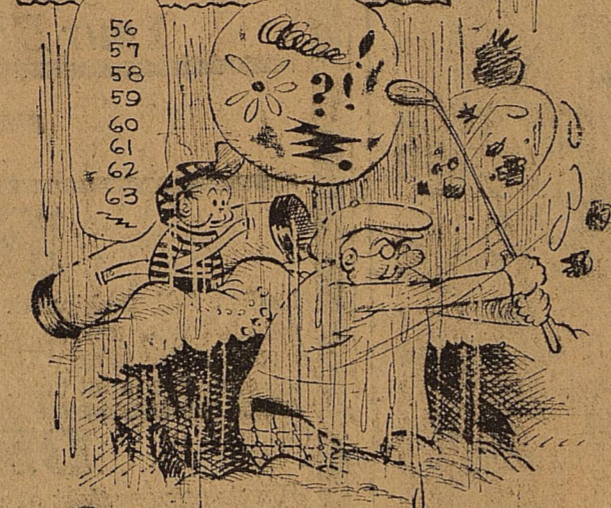

Before we finish with this little matter, however, appreciation must be expressed for the cordial remarks made by Norman when he went on to say: "Disregarding all former remarks, Big Spring sport fans are truly happy to have Midland's baseball team and Midland citizens in this city for the opening game. Therefore, we take the privilege of extending a welcome to our visitors and although we can not truthfully wish you any good luck, we do hope that your stay here is enjoyable in every respect except that of winning ball games."

Now that we are well enough acquainted, I shall drop the formality and say, "Stan, your good wishes and bad wishes sum up into a sporting proposition. You and I will make a little bet, if you don't mind. You like to bite Colt ears, and we express our desideration by unseating Cowboys. Suppose we bet the drinks I leave it to you as to whether we buy them in Midland, Big Spring or Juarez) on the outcome of the games between Midland and Big Spring for the series. There are six of these (games, rather than drinks) coming up in consecutive order. Will Big Spring or will Midland annex the majority?"

Babe Ruth Tells Boys To Get Early Start in Baseball

NEW YORK, May 2.—(NEA)—If you would have your son a star ball player, lay the foundation at an early age—that is Babe Ruth's advice.

"Start the kid young. That's the only way he can get up in the game," he says.

"If a boy wants to be a good ball player, there's no use waiting until he is around 16 and 18. The grade school is the place to start. The neighborhood gang also offers fine training.

"I got my start as a kid. I liked baseball and I played it around home, in grade school and on the neighborhood lots."

Conrad Nagel In "Kid Gloves"

"Kid Gloves," Warner Bros. latest Vitaphone picture, comes to the Ritz theatre today for a fun of two days. The story is a hard-fisted, crackling underworld melodrama with love playing second fiddle to getting in his pennyworth for all that.

Conrad Nagel gives another of his virile performances as "Kid Gloves" Smith, a hijacker, and gang leader. Lois Wilson is cast as a society girl, who, by a light indiscretion finds herself in the whirling midst of a gun battle. It is through this mis-map that fortune puts her in the way of Kid Gloves—and that the fortunes of both are altered.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

BY FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor
"Jolly Boating Weather"

An untold amount of money again has been tossed away by the major league ball clubs due to inclement April weather. Postponements have been numerous, what with rain and cold and wet grounds in the East. The western clubs were somewhat more fortunate but Eastern owners are nursing headaches and consulting the schedule regarding the forthcoming double-headers.

In Boston, Philadelphia, New York and Brooklyn, April showers washed away the chances for games which would have brought thousands of dollars into the coffers of baseball.

Before the next season, the owners and league presidents are certain to get together to discuss the difficulty, and it may be that radical revision of the playing schedule for 1930 will be in order.

Heydler's View

President John A. Heydler of the National League is conservative in most matters pertaining to the national pastime. It is true that he advanced a suggestion for a ten man "nine" which was one of the laughs of the Hot Stove League season, but it is unlikely that he will support the proposal to postpone the opening of the regular playing season until May 1.

"We discussed some such proposition at length last year," said Heydler recently. "It was proposed to postpone the opening of the season a week, but from what the weather has been this spring, it is apparent that that would have done no good.

"Some baseball men thought that the first fortnight's games might be played in the south, but that is obviously impractical when it is considered that the fans of each city are entitled to see each team play 77 home games.

"Spring weather is a hazard, and we baseball men must face it. Good and bad weather run in cycles. Every seven years there is a change."

The Southerners' Handicap

Someone has pointed out that ball players recruited to the majors from the southern leagues are severely handicapped by being called upon to open the season during cold weather customarily prevailing in the north during April. Any club which has a number of southern recruits usually hears numerous complaints to this effect.

It will be found, however, by studying the records, that the winning and losing of ball games in the spring cannot be attributed directly to the weather. When the umpires direct that the game go on, one side has just as much chance as the other, if it has good players, regardless of their home towns.

Vance vs. Hoyt

Speaking of early season winners, the East has two who are consistent, Waite Hoyt, the Yankee Mortician, and Dazzy Vance, blue Brooklyn bear cat.

At the moment, the fans of Greater New York are in the throes of a heated argument as to which of these sterling, right handers is the greater pitcher.

Hoyt's supporters point to his won and lost record, while those who back the Dazzler speak of strike-outs and earned runs.

Certainly it is easier for Waite Hoyt to win ball games, with the Yankees to help him, than it is for Vance. The latter won the first game of the year for his club last month after the Dodgers had tossed away their first five starts. Brooklyn needed twelve hits to beat the Boston Braves 3 to 2 in 11 innings, Vance allowing only six.

In view of the fact that Vance has labored long years with a second division club, going right on winning and hanging up new pitching records now and then, while Hoyt has had the support of "Murderers' Row" during his best seasons, it is probably only fair to award Dazzy the palm.

But Waite Hoyt still is just about as fine a right handed pitcher as baseball has known in a decade.

Radish roses are another attractive garnish. They are made by peeling the radish, which has been washed, in one-eighth inch strips from top to bottom, leaving the bottom end attached to the radish. Drop in ice water and the strips spring away a little like the petals of a rose.

Latest Torch Mystery Has Few Clues

The scene, left, shows the pitiful bundle of clothing found about two miles from the charred body of Westchester's torch victim, Joe Savar, steamfitter, who is pointing to the exact spot. The milk bottle standing near him was partly filled with kerosene which the murderer had used to burn the body.

Some tattered clothes, an imitation snakeskin shoe, and some dental work are the slim clues to the identity of the latest victim of a torch fiend. The finding of nude body of a young girl burned beyond recognition in a brush-hidden spot between Ardsley and Scarsdale, New York, has given the police another mystery to work on. The girl had been strangled to death and her body dragged to the spot where the fiend soaked the body with kerosene and burned it to hide his crime.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton

Grandma walked in to find Billy yelling his head off—on top of the refrigerator.

"Well, I declare! Where's your mother? What does this mean?"

"Is that you, Mother?" called her daughter downstairs. "I guess the only way I can keep that child at home—is to keep him on ice. He ran away again."

"Elizabeth! Have you lost your mind? Come here dear! Now don't cry any more. There, that's better—the idea of sticking you up there where you're likely to fall off and break your neck."

A RUNAWAY BOY

"I was just coming down to get him," said Elizabeth wearily, "he's only been there a minute. But I don't know what to do with him. He ran off twice today and once yesterday. The last time, the children next door found him down by the lake. Yesterday his father had him hanging over the railroad tracks watching the trains."

Grandma fixed Billy with a stern look.

"Why, Billy, I'm surprised! You worry your poor mother like that! Don't you know that you'll get run over or someone will steal you or something?"

"Godness, Mother. There's no use talking to him. I've done everything on earth. I had him tied to the bed-post all day Tuesday, but he hadn't been loose ten minutes till he was gone, and it was getting dark, too. I was worried sick. Dick found him down at the grocery store. He has a big black dog he likes." All this time four-year-old Billy was unimpressed by the things being said of him. He hummed a tuneless little tune and played with a top engine.

GRANDPA HAS A PLAN

It was Grandpa who solved the running away business finally, for it really became a serious thing.

"I don't know much about it," he said, "but there is some real reason in that little fellow's head for skipping off. I think he's just interested in things he doesn't see at home. Instead of toy trains he wants to see real ones, and instead of toy animals he wants live ones. He goes to the lake to watch people feed the swans and ducks. And he goes to the grocery store to see that dog."

"He ought to have a dog of his own, by the way, the other animals, too. That would keep him home for awhile, perhaps. But maybe not long. So I have a plan. I'm going to leave work early every day and come and take him somewhere to see things—the zoo and so on. I believe if I promise him a walk or little excursion each day he'll stay at home the rest of the time."

It worked like a charm.

MEXICAN REVOLUTIONS HAVE COME AND GONE AT RATE OF ONE YEARLY FOR 19 YEARS

Two Hundred Thousand Lives Lost and Property Damage Incalculable—Recapitulation of Rebellions

By GESFORD F. FINE
United Press Staff Correspondent
MEXICO CITY, May 1 (UP)—As the Sonora-Chihuahua revolution nears its end, a glance back over the files shows the outline of Mexican history since 1910 as follows: Nineteen revolutions in nineteen years.

Two hundred thousand lives lost. An unestimated toll of hundreds of million of dollars damage to property.

The recapitulation (round by round) as compiled by the El Universal Grafico:

1.—Francisco I. Madero heads the first movement of a revolutionary nature against the government of General Porfirio Diaz, triumphing after six months of fighting; President Diaz flees from Mexico; Francisco Leon de la Barra becomes provisional president to be succeeded by Francisco Madero. (Began Nov. 20, 1910.)

2.—A revolutionary movement headed by the Liberal Party in Baja California, Coahuila, Vera Cruz, and Chihuahua gets under way in September, 1911. At the end of three months the rebels are destroyed in Chihuahua.

"Social Agrarians" Fall
3.—The social agrarian revolution headed by Andres Molina Enriquez and Alfredo Robles Dominguez is demolished in fifteen days by President Madero (1911).

4.—Pascual Orozco undertakes a rebellion against Madero, starting in the north of the republic. The movement is "suffocated" by General Victoriana Huerta, at Bachimba, Chihuahua. General Jose Gonzalez Salas, secretary of war, one of the rebels, committed suicide following this defeat (1912).

5.—The Maderista government crushes another outbreak begun by General Benado Reyes, also in the north (Nuevo Leon). General Reyes' troops refuse to second the movement and Reyes is captured and sent to Mexico City (1912).

6.—General Felix Diaz captures the port of Vera Cruz by surprise. Two weeks later the Madero government has again triumphed over his enemies (1912).

Zapata's Long Revolt
7.—General Emiliano Zapata begins a movement in the south of the republic which is almost constantly under way for eight years. The Zapata rebellion lasts from 1912 to 1920 when the Zapata chiefs finally agree to the Plan of Agua Prieta.

8.—The rebellion which costs the life of Madero is started by General Felix Diaz, Bernardo Reyes and Mariano Mondragon in Mexico City, February, 1913. It is victorious within ten days and its victory is followed by the election of General Victoriana Huerta (by the Congress) as president.

9.—General Venustiano Carranza after one year of bloody combats, beginning February, 1913, overthrows the government of Victoriana Huerta.

Bloodiest of All

10.—General Francisco Villa, at the head of a powerful army in the north, revolts against Carranza. One hundred thousand are killed in this, the bloodiest of all Mexican revolutions. Villa at times controls the majority of the country but in the end is beaten by Carranzists led by General Alvaro Obregon.

11.—General Felix Diaz in 1919 again leads an army against the Carranza government. After two years of fighting, Diaz is compelled to flee the country.

12.—Generals Obregon and Plutarco Calles (present Minister of War) win the government from the hands of Carranza in a two weeks' long revolution in May, 1920. The rebellion ended with the killing of Carranza in Tlalcalitongo, V. C.

13.—General Pablo Gonzalez rises against Obregon and Calles in Monterrey, N. L., in 1920. He is expelled from the republic after being arrested by the federal forces.

14.—General Francisco Murguía organizes a movement against Obregon which spreads to Durango, Sinaloa, and Coahuila in 1921. Murguía is captured and shot in the state of Durango.

15.—In 1920 General Manuel Peñalaz initiates a rebellion in the states of Puebla and Oaxaca against Carranza. It culminates in the acceptance of the plan of Agua Prieta.

De la Huerta Crushed

16.—Obregon in three months crushes the rebellion started by Adolf de la Huerta in Vera Cruz, Jalisco and Oaxaca in 1923.

17.—With the promulgation of the religious laws in July, 1926, which is followed by the closing of the Catholic churches, the so-called Catholic rebellion get under way in Jalisco, Colima, Michoacan, Guanajuato, Queretaro, and San Luis Potosi. The movement still continues intermittently.

18.—The Calles government destroys the Gomez-Serrano rebellion of September, 1927, in four weeks. Both Gomez and Serrano are captured and executed.

19.—The Escobar revolution, organized in the states of Vera Cruz, Chihuahua and Sonora, begins March 3, 1929.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

The only funny thing about it is that somebody didn't think of it before.

But now there's a book of the-month club for children. A select group of child experts have been gathered together who will sit in solemn session once a month, discuss, examine and dissect all the children's literature published that month, decide which will elevate and entertain the little Johnnies and Susies of the world the most, and the selected volume is wrapped and packed and sent on its way rejecting to the child "whose parents do the right thing by it."

Full-page ads inform all the parents of the world something to the effect that they have not done their duty to the child merely by feeding it spinach, keeping its nose wiped and seeing that its stockings are darned. They are warned that the child's spiritual life, its whole future dependent upon the right start it gets in childhood, is at stake.

THOSE "AWFUL" TALES

We are reminded of the spiritual ravages wrought upon "a little plastic mind" by such "atrocious tales" as that of Little Red Riding Hood; we are reminded of nights of cold terror inflicted upon a child who remembers those horrible tucks of the wolf and the savage cry, "the better to eat you up!"

"And the awful story of Bluebeard, and the bad moral involved in Cinderella, which really points no moral at all because a young girl stayed out late at night—why, she got a prince by doing it and by deception and by being rude and leaving the party in a hurry, without telling her host 'I had such a lovely time!'"

So the only books permitted these precious unblown flowers of maturity will be volumes "personally selected with care and diligence by child experts," and brave indeed will be the parent who dares overlook this "advantage" for its young.

When I was a child the very poor family on our street was scraping the meat bones in order to get one more stew out of them in order that the children might have the decreed child "advantages" of the day in the way of "elocution" and dancing and organ lessons.

Sometimes the mother, literally had no hat at all, but little Mamie was on the elocution teacher's recital program and did a pantomime on little Willie's baptism saying all the words with just letters of the alphabet.

THE TIME WILL COME—

It's no guess, but a safe wager, that in another two or three decades, today's "advantages" ultimately for the offspring, and the sacrifices made in order that they may have them, will seem as insane and the sacrifice at utterly wasted as those which gave hopelessly unmusical Willie his organ lessons.

This juvenile book-of-the-month club which thousands of parents will believe it their bounden duty to pay for, because this is a day which exorcises parents who do not strain every nerve to pay for everything offered their children by the wily commercial world, may have some very fine elements.

But—it occurs to me that practically all our great men and women tell in their own life stories, or it is revealed in their biographies, that they were left to browse in their fathers' ample libraries—libraries primarily for the adult, and not the juvenile mind.

Aside from a criticism of the average parent's foolish insistence on procuring for its children everything offered and said to be good and necessary for juvenile life, is the mild wonder if, after all, when Topsy is just allowed to "grow up, anyway," the results aren't about as good as when too much science is applied.
