CONVOY FLYER FORCED BACK

MODIFIED ORDER GRANTED BONNER; YUCCA IS OPENED

Opening of the Yucca theatre at a special midnight preview Saturday was done through a modification order allowed that day by District Judge Charles L. Klapproth, who previously had granted Dr. C. G. McCall's plea for a temporary injunction against use of equipment in the theatre.

The Reporter-Telegram erroneously left the impression in a story of the Sunday edition that John Bonner, proprietor of the big theatre, was opening it over court orders, whereas Bonner, through his counsel, G. W. Dunaway, secured a modification of the injunction before he opened the doors of the Yucca to the public.

In an interview with Bonner this morning, Bonner explained that Dr. McCall canceled the rent contract on the Ritz and forced a move after refusing to reduce monthly rental. Bonner said it was impossible to pay the rent charged by Dr. McCall during the present economic times and that, after repeatedly trying to get the rent lowered without success, he moved only after a lease cancellation made by Dr. McCall in a letter to Bonner and which Bonner turned over to Dunaway, his counsel.

Bonner said Dr. McCall tried twice to move equipment the Yucca manager had stowed on Yucca property and had to be restrained by police.

The case is set for a hearing before Judge Klapproth Saturday.

Says Ward Play Aids Business

George Buckner, vice president of the Wicket Pipeline company, was in Midland today.

Business of the line has improved recently due to increased development in Ward county, including the bringing in of the Eastland well and various offsets, he said. The Wicket refinery, the only one between Big Spring and El Paso, is in production in that area in two years, he said. Midland looks better from an economic standpoint than most places along the Broadway of America, he further said.

Lions Convention As Dallas in June

DALLAS.—"The Job Ahead" has been selected as the keynote of the second district (Texas state) convention of Lions clubs to be held in Dallas June 5-7. Headed by Julian Hyer, president of Lions International, a group of speakers prominent in Lionism will point the way to greater Lionism. The program of entertainment has been provided which will include theatre and bridge parties for the ladies. The Oak Cliff (Dallas) Lions club has issued a challenge for a ball game to be played by its team against an all star team composed of selected players from other clubs in Texas.

The convention will hold its first sessions Monday, June 6, starting with a governors' conference, which will be followed by a morning inspirational meeting at which Hon. Martin Dies, of Orange, will be the principal speaker. At noon Monday and Tuesday there will be group luncheons presided over by the governors of the five Texas districts. Model programs will feature these luncheons. Monday evening the annual banquet will be held. All sessions will be at the Adolphus hotel.

Unusual interest has been shown in this convention and reservations are being received from Lions in all parts of the state. Several clubs are planning to have every member in attendance. Several contests will be held in which members of clubs will compete for prizes with orations on the accomplishments of their club.

Sam Braswell, chairman of the board of governors of the Texas Lions announces that the convention this year will be devoted to a careful study of Lionism, with definite plans for extending its service and increasing its prestige. C. J. Cramp-ton, executive secretary of the Dallas chamber of commerce, is general chairman of the committee that has charge of the convention.

Hoover Leaves Camp For Desk at Capital

LURAY, Va., May 30.—President Hoover was at home today after a brief but welcome rest in the quiet of his camp in the Virginia mountains.

The fact that the senate is meeting today—Memorial day—was a factor in causing him to return to Washington. Although he is watching developments closely, it was understood that he plans no immediate statement or communication to congress on the billion dollar revenue bill.

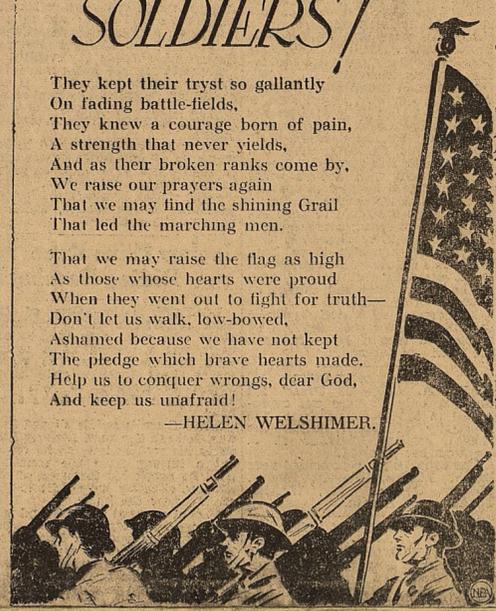

Members of the presidential party returned with the chief executive.

SOLDIERS!

They kept their tryst so gallantly
On fading battle-fields,
They knew a courage born of pain,
A strength that never yields,
And as their broken ranks come by,
We raise our prayers again
That we may find the shining Grail
That led the marching men.

That we may raise the flag as high
As those whose hearts were proud
When they went out to fight for truth—
Don't let us walk, low-bowed,
Ashamed because we have not kept
The pledge which brave hearts made.
Help us to conquer wounds, dear God,
And keep us unafraid!

—HELEN WELSHIMER.

COMPETITION AT THE ODESSA RACE TRACK UNUSUAL

With such horses as Harry M. from the Locklear, San Saba, stables, the Bob Norfleet string from Plainview, a Waggoner stallion and some fast mounts from Eastland, Colorado, Sweetwater and Fort Stockton, Midland ponies were assured of unusual competition this afternoon in the races held in connection with Odessa's Memorial day celebration.

Rodeo events were scheduled to start early this afternoon, with a full program of calf roping, wild cow milking, bronc riding, steer riding, jack rabbit roping and other events. Horse races included the half mile, three eighths, quarter mile, 300 yard race for roping horses and a girls' cow pony race.

Gerard Bloss planned to run George Keith in the half mile, Pete Patterson was to enter his bay horse in the quarter, L. E. Cook was entering Billy B in the three-eighths, Clarence White was running a colt in the quarter, Offie Walker entered Pathfinder in the quarter, and it was expected that Flop Roberts would run Tomcat and Allen Holter would run Cap in the roping horse race.

The rodeo and race meet continues through Tuesday afternoon. The new race track and arena may be reached by driving three and a half miles north of Odessa on the Andrews highway.

Former Midland Pastor in Stanton

The Rev. W. G. Garnett, former pastor of the First Baptist church here, has accepted the Baptist pastorate at the Stanton church.

For the past year he has been instructing at Howard Payne college in Brownwood. He was pastor here about eight years ago.

Mr. Garnett, his wife and four children arrived in Stanton last week end.

Ulmer to Speak On Lay Program

M. C. Ulmer will be the principal speaker at a laymen's program to be held June 12 at the First Methodist church of Midland, Sunday.

Laymen will speak in many churches of America on that date, observed as National Laymen's day.

Valley View Host To Singing Group

Approximately 400 people from all over this area attended the West Texas Singing convention at the Valley View school, southeast of Midland, Sunday.

Dawson county was added to the convention membership. Warfield was selected as the next meeting place.

An arboreal dinner was served to the delegates at noon.

Bonus Army in Washington Today

WASHINGTON, May 30.—A long, tireless journey from the West ended Sunday for hundreds of World War veterans who came to the capital demanding that Congress approve cash payment of their bonus.

Even as trucks of the Maryland National Guard handed the weary, but well-disciplined column over to the District of Columbia, Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, was renewing his insistence that the task of providing for the men was up to congress.

He declared the job "amounts to a matter of getting a federal appropriation or putting these men out."

He had intimated he expected them to depart within 48 hours after their arrival.

Reaching the district limits, the column made its first halt as no transportation to the temporary housing provided the men had been arranged. Governor Ritchie immediately was communicated with for permission for the Maryland trucks to continue the trip downtown.

The legislation for which the veterans are pleading apparently is stalled definitely in the House. A petition seeking to force consideration bears fewer than 100 of the 145 names necessary. Even should the required number be obtained a vote could not be had before June 13, the day before the Republican national conventions opens.

Eppenaer Drilling Co.'s No. 1-A J. G. Allen, in section 4, block 2, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey, had drilled to 3,500 feet in anhydrite. Eppenaer No. 1 Hamm for & Ellis, in section 92, block 1, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey, had drilled to 3,125 feet in anhydrite. Both are in the Wheat field in Loving county.

DAMAGE RESULT OF RAIN, STORM, REPORTED HERE

Rainfall at Midland Saturday night was 1.2 inches, and rainfall in this general area was reported heavy.

At a point on the county road between Odessa and the Elliott Cowden ranch, nine miles west of there, water stood approximately eight feet deep, over telephone posts nailed to the fence. The area that received this heavy rain was three miles wide and five miles long, running north and south.

Only an inch and a half fell at the Cowden ranch house and an inch at Odessa.

Holt Jowell was driving in his car in that area and reported a considerable hail storm which badly damaged the top of his machine.

The hard hail was also reported at Monahans, where a heavy rain fell.

Violent thunderstorms, accompanied by unusually strong electrical disturbances, flashed and poured over parts of West Texas Friday night. The Cosahoma Gin company's plant at Cosahoma was destroyed by fire which followed a "direct hit" by lightning, which, according to witnesses, appeared literally to tear the large building in twain.

Precipitation at Big Spring airport was 43 inch. It was heavier in town.

Red Cross Meet Discusses Drive

A meeting of the Red Cross has been set for 7:30 tonight at the county court room.

Mrs. John Haley, district chairman of the Red Cross, said preliminary plans for the annual roll call, beginning Armistice day, will be discussed. Mrs. C. V. Schuman, district field representative of St. Louis, will meet with the committee.

Committee members notified Friday have been asked to be there tonight.

REVIVAL CONCLUDED

The revival of the Pentecostal Holiness tabernacle was closed Sunday night after running six weeks.

Twenty-five were added to the church, according to O. W. Roberts, pastor. The Reverend Allen of Tulsa spoke at the morning service Sunday on "What Manner of Love the Father Bestowed on Us That We Should Be Called the Son of God." The pastor spoke that night from the scripture, "My sheep hear my voice; they follow me and I have given to them eternal life."

MEMORIAL RITES AT VETS SERVICE HERE IMPRESSIVE

An impressive service at the Baptist church Sunday evening marked Midland's religious observance of Memorial day in honor of the World War dead.

The Rev. Howard Peters, who himself lost a son in the war, spoke to a large audience on "Memory." Other ministers also had parts on the program.

An especially appropriate solo, "Sleep Soldier Boy," was beautifully sung by Mrs. Barney T. Smith.

Early in the afternoon the graves of more than 40 Midland soldiers of American wars were decorated by members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Minister and Wife To S. U. Graduation

The Rev. and Mrs. Edwin C. Calhoun and family left Sunday afternoon for Georgetown, where they will join graduates of their class and participate in the commencement programs of Southwestern university.

Mr. and Mrs. Calhoun were graduated from that university in 1922. This is the first time the class has been together since graduation.

Mrs. Calhoun and the children will leave Georgetown Wednesday for a visit during the month of June with Mrs. Calhoun's mother in Maine.

Mrs. Calhoun plans to remain in the university for the two-week pastors' school. Several outstanding instructors will be present, among them Dr. Gaius Glen Atkins, professor of theology in Auburn Theological seminary, and Dr. Charles Clayton Morrison, editor of the Christian Century, a religious journal.

Mr. Calhoun expects to return to his church June 11.

Phyllis Haag went with the minister and his wife. She will accompany Mrs. Calhoun to Kirbyville.

Boat Commuter Title Claimed

AUGUSTA, Me. (UP)—Governor William Tudor Gardner of Maine believes he's the nation's only gubernatorial speedboat commuter.

Daily he journeys from his estate at Phipps Point to Augusta, the state capital, in his trim speed boat. The Campaigner, usually making the 36-mile up-stream trip along the Kennebec River in an hour. Going homeward, downstream, at night, he often clips several minutes from this schedule.

The Campaigner is 26 feet long, powered with a six-cylinder motor, permitting a speed of 45 miles an hour.

Skipper, the Governor's thoroughbred setter, is a regular passenger on the boat.

Aviatix Declares Men to Be Better Flyers After All

NEW YORK, May 30.—Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, first woman transatlantic solo flyer, thinks it is too soon to say women aviators are as able as men.

She was asked in an interview broadcast from London Sunday if she thought she had demonstrated women aviators are "as good as men."

"No, it's not time for that," she answered, "not for making any comparisons between men and women flying until women fly as men do and on the same basis; until then we shall make no statement as to possible abilities."

"Her voice was a little hoarse," she said, "because she really hasn't stopped talking since she arrived."

In London, she has been shopping for clothes, "which is harder than flying, sometimes," she said.

Unknown Dead Honored Today

Across the Potomac from the nation's capital, beneath three separate tombs, lie the unknown dead of three wars—symbolic of the reverence the country will pay today to those who gave their lives on the field of battle.

One, a nameless soldier of the Revolution, discovered in the course of excavating several years ago, is buried in the churchyard of the Presbyterian meeting house in Alexandria, Va., beneath a white marble monument erected by patriotic societies.

Not far away, in Arlington National Cemetery where generals and privates, admirals and sailors rest with equal honors, the bodies of 2111 unknown Union soldiers fill a common grave marked by a tomb erected in 1866.

The third, also in Arlington cemetery, is the recently completed white marble sarcophagus of the Unknown Soldier of the World war with its simple inscription, "Here rests in honor the nation over, District of Columbia, members of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled American Veterans and the United Spanish War Veterans will join hands with the Grand Army of the Republic in seeing that no veteran's grave in or near Washington is neglected."

Confederate Memorial day will be observed in Virginia May 30 and in Tennessee on June 3. Southern states which honored their soldier dead on April 26 were Alabama, Florida, Georgia, and Mississippi, and on May 10, Kentucky, and North Carolina.

SOCKBALL SEASON STARTS AT SEVEN O'CLOCK TONIGHT

Two games will be played at the Schaubauer diamond, beginning at 7 o'clock, as the Industrial playground ball league begins.

Arrangements this morning were for the Lions-Rotary game to be played at 8 o'clock, Petroleum Drug and Texas Electric at 7. The Reporter-Telegram-Bell Telephone game will be played on some other date.

Originally it was slated as the second game tonight, but the Friday night engagement of the Lions and Rotarians was rained out, hence the change.

Tuesday night offers Midland Hardware and Hooks-Fokus at 7 o'clock and Cowden-Epley and Southern Ice in the night cap. There will be games on Thursday and Friday nights, as well.

It was announced that the 2,000-watt bulbs ordered for the flood lights have not been received, and that 1,000-watt bulbs have been substituted until they come. This light power is not sufficient to dispel the shadows and plenty of errors are expected—especially in the Lions-Rotary game, since players of those clubs have not been practicing.

Mails Letter 18 Years Old

HARRISON, Ark. (UP)—The man who forgets to mail his wife's letters isn't a myth.

Nath Miller has discovered a letter that his wife gave him to mail 18 years ago.

It was found in the back of a roller top desk, together with the little loop of string he had tied around his finger at the time to help remind him to mail the letter.

So this week Miller mailed the letter, as it was addressed to Miss Lucy Harding at Berryville, where she still resides.

PLANES DUE

Five army planes were due to arrive at Sloan field today. The planes left El Paso at nine o'clock this morning. No information concerning them had been received at 1:30.

Sale of Poppies Concluded Today

The sale of Buddy poppies today, concluding a two-day drive to assist needy ex-veterans and their families, was meeting with further success, a member of the committee in charge said at noon.

More than $40 was realized Saturday.

Farmers Catch Wild Dog Pack

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (UP)—Farmers in Center Valley, near here, started a roundup of a pack of wild dogs, blamed for destruction of many chickens in the valley for several years.

The pack is also accused of killing lambs, several calves, rabbits, and pheasants.

Veterinarians believed the pack, reported growing steadily was a "throwback" from dogs which had escaped from their owners and had become "wolfish" when freed from human control.

Broker Falls 12 Stories to Death

CHICAGO, May 30.—E. Bogardus Shaw, 60, retired broker, was killed Sunday in a fall from the window of his twelfth floor home on Lake Shore drive.

His apartment is within five blocks of the home of Edward F. Swift, packer, who was killed in a similar fall Saturday.

Shaw, a member of the Chicago Stock Exchange, was a brother of Walden W. Shaw, long identified with the manufacture of taxicabs and a founder of the Chicago Yellow Cab company.

Servants said that Shaw had complained of feeling ill and was helped to bed. A few minutes later the janitor heard his body strike the concrete driveway adjoining the apartment building.

His widow and brother, who lives in Pasadena, Calif., survive.

RUNNING CASING

McElreath & Suggett and others' No. 1 John Sparks in southwestern Wades county, in section 307, block 37, C. S. D. & R. Ry. Co. survey, was running in 15 1/2 inch casing at 200 feet in quicksand Saturday, and the 20-inch pipe having parted.

FUEL LINE BREAKS HE GIVES OUT

Browne Makes Plans For New Try on Tokyo Hop

SEATTLE, May 30.—Nathan C. Browne, former Texas cowboy, was forced back on an attempted non-stop flight from Seattle to Tokyo late Sunday by the rupture of an oil line in his monoplane, the Lone Star.

Narrowly escaping death in the takeoff from a ramp at Boeing field, blinded temporarily by hot oil and forced to drop some of his precious fuel supply to gain altitude, Browne returned to the field after several hours in the air and immediately made plans for another flight attempt today.

While half a dozen mechanics tore into his plane to determine what caused the oil line to break and to repair a broken stabilizer wire, Browne sought attention for his oil-scalded eyes.

The rudder wire was broken when Browne's plane skimmed through tree-tops after his breath-taking dash down the runway.

Browne expressed the belief his stabilizer would have fallen off before he reached Tokyo, but he pushed gamely on until the oil line broke. He was gone about seven hours and a half and had reached the north tip of Vancouver island.

Browne plans to refuel in midair over the field here tomorrow. A parachute jumper, William Brooks, offered to handle the refueling hose, and then drop off when Browne has enough gasoline for the Tokyo flight.

A GREAT DIFFERENCE

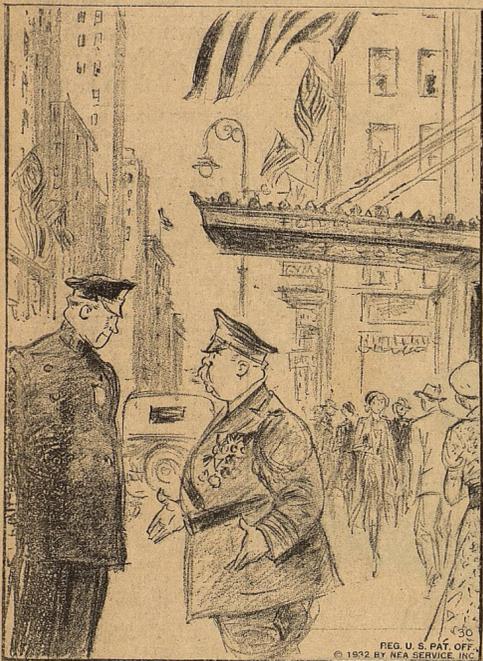

A 23-year-old New Yorker who was born to great wealth and who holds directorship in no fewer than 50 corporations has started out to learn the public utilities business from the ground up. He has taken a job at 50 cents an hour with one of the concerns in which he is a director, and the newspapers have expatiated at considerable length on his praiseworthy determination to get the workingman's slant on things.

His energy and willingness to get his hands dirty are, of course, commendable. But it is an open question, just how much any rich man can really learn by a procedure of this kind.

Try as he will to bridge it, there will always be a gulf between such a man and his fellow-workers. To them, the 50-cent job is all there is; if it vanishes, starvation becomes a real threat. To him, there is always comfort and security in the background. And that makes all the difference. It isn't the job that matters; it's the feeling back of it.

After learning from Science News Letter that the sun has lost approximately half its weight in five million years, it would be equally interesting to find out who weighed it first.

Parks, you may remember, is the fellow who got into the race horse business all at once last summer but didn't stay long. He had a dog horse that was so fast it gave him away, explaining that the animal would have cost him $10,000 if he had held on to him.

NIGHT COURT

CHAPTER V

Mary Thomas had just set young Mike down on the center table and was taking off his wraps when she heard a ring at the door. She finished removing his sweater, set the door down and opened the door. She was expecting a delivery of groceries and stood there in silent surprise as she saw an unknown woman on the threshold.

"I'm so sorry to bother you," said Lil Baker, feigning suppressed emotion. "I live in the apartment next door and— She broke off nervously, twisting her hands together. "May I come in a moment?"

"Why, yes," said Mary, stepping aside. "Certainly." Lil closed the door behind her and stood hesitatingly there without advancing into her room. Mary went to the open bedroom door and closed it quietly.

"My husband is sleeping," she explained. "He works nights. Won't you sit down?" She motioned her visitor to a chair near the table, but the baby in his armchair and herself sat down, staring curiously at her nervous caller who seemed uncertain how to begin the explanation which she knew she should make at once.

Lil at length looked up with sudden courage. "I know I'm a perfect stranger to you, but I'm in so much trouble and I do not know who to turn to. I'm a man just spoke to you down the street, didn't he?"

"Why, yes, I ran into him with the baby carrier. He apologized so much I couldn't make my own excuses for being so careless." "Oh, so that's how it is! Did he ask you any questions about me?"

"I told him yes, a lady had moved in next door to me. That was you?" "Is that all you told him?" "Yes, that's all he asked me." Lil made a little tragic, despairing gesture with her hands. "Oh, it's dreadful to be hunted like a criminal! And just because I want to break away and be decent!"

the baby. "I beg your pardon," said Lil, breathlessly, "but I lost—oh, there it is!" She made a dash to the table and picked up the envelope. "You four."

"Oh, yes. Yes, I found it," said Mary, nervously. "You see, the baby—when you spilled the things out of your bag, it must have dropped out." Lil looked at her sharply and then examined the back of the envelope. It was sealed.

"You found it on the floor?" said Mary. "Mike was probably playing with it." "Oh, that's all right," said Lil, carelessly of me. It wasn't anything important to anyone but myself anyhow. Thank you so much."

"That's all right, I'm glad that nothing happened to it," said Lil. "So am I," said Lil with heart-felt thanks, and she ran quickly out of the flat. She tossed the envelope triumphantly into her pocket. "I know that if I have any straightening up to do I can put it off one more day."

Roy Parks says that a little water on a race track is a good thing. "Race horse men have to have something to gripe about if they don't win," he added.

know how to thank you—" On sudden impulse Mary put an arm around her visitor's shoulder and kissed her cheek. "I hope he never finds you again."

"What a sweet baby!" exclaimed Lil, patting his cheek and trying to look embarrassed. "Goodbye," she murmured to the child, "you've got the best mother in the world."

"I'm going to take a good care of you," said Lil, looking at her with a smile. "I'll tell you to. For five minutes he whispered instructions to her, and then slipped away."

when they say that the government must lighten its purse strings. Officials of 1,100 organizations have been invited to attend the "tax convention." George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, leader in the fight of business to reduce taxes, says that already more than 400 organizations in 30 states have signified that representatives will attend.

Among the organizations that responded were chambers of commerce, farm groups, trade organizations and national corporations. They have been working at cross-purposes to achieve the same purpose, Rossetter explained, and the national meeting here is expected to co-ordinate their activities.

Cisco Files Suit In Football Row

EASTLAND.—As an aftermath of the Hightower eligibility dispute, the Cisco school district has filed suit in district court here against the Oil Belt football district executive committee, the state interscholastic league committee and John M. Mouser of Eastland.

The petition asked the court to set aside the state committee's action in suspending Cisco, high school from the next football race and to restrain the committee from making any football schedule which does not include Cisco. Damages also were asked, $5,000 as exemplary, and actual damages in whatever amount may be proved to have been suffered.

Fred Hightower, a transfer from Tyler, helped the Cisco football team defeat Breckenridge. The game was ordered forfeited to Breckenridge after that school claimed Hightower had been enrolled at Cisco less than 30 days when the game was played. The state committee later suspended Cisco from the next race.

BUSHERS HAND ICEMEN EASY DEFEAT; BENNYITES BEAT MEXES

BUSH TRIBE GETS 12 RUNS, ICE BOYS 2

Doc Ellis and his crew of fence-wrecking Bushers Sunday had little or no trouble with the men of Southern Ice, leading them 12 to 2.

In another game, Bennie Buzz and his farmer nine gave the Mexicans their second beating of the year, the Bushers having given them one upset. The score was 9 to 8.

Doc and his men had clear sailing all the way. Dub Hurst, Fred Girdley, Joe Pylon and Sam Warren had good days with their war clubs, Girdley hitting one of the longest balls ever seen here for a homer and Warren and Pylon failing to hit only once out of their trips to the plate.

Robinson of the Icemen had poor support, but the Bushers bunched their hits well and often.

The Icemen scored both runs in the ninth, one run resulting from the runner on third being hit and the ball rolling clear of the baseman.

The Mexican nine played good baseball despite their loss. They have won six of eight games.

Potential of 76 Producers Drops

Seventy-six producers in the Hobbs field in Lea county, New Mexico, approximately one-half the total number, gauged through tubing only to derive new potentials for the revision of outlets under production, have reported only 739,004 barrels, compared with 869,832 barrels in January, 1931, when the last tests were made. This is a decline in potential of 15 per cent.

Three wells in the south end of the pool while being tested showed water, increasing the number of wells making water to nineteen. One was Midwest No. 1 State in the northeast corner of the northwest quarter of section 15-19S-38E; the others were Prairie No. 2 Crump, in the northeast quarter of section 15-19S-38E and Walker No. 2 Terry, in the southwest corner of the southeast quarter of section 10-19S-38E. Prairie No. 2 Crump had been shut in about a year when opened. It flowed for a few days, then went dead. It began swabbing May 15 and showed water within 500 feet of the top. It probably will be plugged and the allowable for the lease produced. Prairie No. 1 Crump, Walker No. 2 Terry after flowing for five minutes on a three-quarter inch choke showed 13 per cent water. Ten minutes later it showed 2 per cent water. Ten minutes later 55 per cent basic sediment and 5 per cent water. Its testing then was discontinued.

O'Keefe Is Signed By Lucky Strike

The magic carpet, that now famous article which an "O. K." has sent to the four corners of the earth to bring Lucky Strike dance hour listeners the world's best music, will shortly have a new pilot—Walter O'Keefe.

Starting most any day now, this nimble-witted Irishman, will make his first bow to radio listeners, and if his past record in night clubs and on the stage as a "one-man show" is any parameter, he will be radio's newest sensation in less time than it takes to sing one of those amazing songs he's forever composing in his spare moments.

Nineteen fourteen is remembered by most people as the year the war got under way, but to Walter O'Keefe much more important things occurred, for it was at that time that an amateur night in the Poli theatre, Worcester, Mass., disclosed his untold gifts to a waiting world. He admits that the war was a sensation, and this same modesty has never left him. With the drafts of his first lyrical attempts safely in a waste basket, he entered Notre Dame, became the school's official chanter of Irish ballads, class poet, and close friend of Knute Rockne, who tried to steer him away from the stage.

After graduation in 1921, there were newspaper and advertising jobs—then along came infantile paralysis and he was out of the running for a year. A year well spent, apparently, for while lying in bed he continued his lyric writing, adding the final polish to those brilliant, witty songs which were later to set the town talking.

Back on his feet, O'Keefe joined Texas Guinan, only to be lured to Florida by Ben Hecht and J. P. McEvoy. The sand didn't sell, but two songs, devised along the way did. One he hit his stride as master of ceremonies at Barney Galt's club in Greenwich village, New York. His lyrics for a musical comedy "Just a Minute" added more fuel to the O'Keefe popularity blaze—then came his first song hit, "Little by Little" followed by "I Love You." And last season he was one of the bright spots in "The Third Little Show."

With becoming modesty, Mr. O'Keefe defines a master of ceremonies today must be able to juggle, do a tumbling act, be a ventriloquist and give as many imitations as Ruth Draper. He is a one man show by himself who uses his talents chiefly to introduce the less but more specifically talented.

Records credit two Greeks with having written the first comedy play. This is said to have occurred about 560 B. C.

Hooks and Slides

Discussion of that interview Wesley Ferrell, Indian pitcher, gave to the baseball writers in New York, in which he named Joe McCarthy as the greatest manager in baseball, has set the boys in the press boxes all a-flutter.

A day or so after Ferrell made his amazing statement, one of the Cleveland writers asked him on what grounds he based his estimate.

"Because of the way he handles his pitchers," was the young Carolinian's reply.

He Can't Take It

Ferrell, by the way, who is a temperamental young man, is not deeply in love with his home town fans. "These fans burn me up," he said in another interview last year. "They cheer when I pitch a no-hit game and boo when I get knocked out. A baseball fan doesn't understand that a pitcher can't always be right. I never lost a game in Washington until the other day, and they booed me when I walked off the mound."

"Don't you like the Cleveland fans?" he was asked.

"It isn't that. I like a lot of Cleveland people. I've got a lot of friends among the fans here. But it's a helluva note when a pitcher gets booed when he isn't on."

It's a free country, of course, and a man is entitled to his opinions, isn't he? Or, isn't he?

There is a true story. Once upon a time, three baseball writers and the manager of a ball team in the major leagues were riding to the ball park in a taxicab. Strangely enough, they were talking about ball players.

"Who's the best ball player in the major leagues today?" asked one of the baseball writers, out of a clear sky. "Let us say you were starting to organize a big league"

Exit Mr. Ferrell

Then, very suddenly, it happened. The Browns had been nipping the Ferrell delivery sporadically for a couple of innings, cutting down the score to 9 to 4. In the seventh Ferrell wobbled further. The first woman to face him drove out ringing singles.

Then Manager Peckinpaugh wavered to the bull pen, where old Sarge George Connally, he of the rubber arm, was laconically warming up. And Wesley Ferrell was called right out of there!

Mister Peckinpaugh can do a bit of handling himself, it seems. He didn't waste much time after the Browns had indicated they hadn't given up, even with the great Ferrell pitching in front of a seven-run lead.

As Ferrell walked to the bench, the fans gave the Indians' very best pitcher, the young man who has been called "a second Mathewson," a hearty salvo of boos.

Joan Bennett, John Boles at Yucca

Something of a treat for laughter lovers is to be offered at the Yucca theatre Tuesday with the opening of the Joan Bennett-John Boles comedy-romance, "Careless Lady."

Using a series of unexpected situations and sparkling dialogue to keep the fun moving briskly along, Director Kenneth MacKenna is said to have created one of the most brilliant pictures of the season in this Fox films production. The story deals with the complications that follow a New England girl's visit to Paris under an alias. It has been attracting much attention at its showings in other cities.

Weldon Heyburn, Minna Gombell, Raul Roulien, Nora Lane, James Kirkwood, John Arledge, Fortunio Bonanova and other noted personages are in the cast. Buy Bolton wrote the screen play and dialogue from the story by Reita Lambert.

"The World and the Flesh," featuring George Bancroft, plays its last day at the Yucca today. It is a stirring picture of Red Russia.

Conoco Hour to Complete Travel

Bringing to a close this season's series of 26 travel broadcasts, featuring imaginary tours of America's scenic beauty spots, Carveth Wells, noted explorer will conduct his radio audience through Glacier National park of Montana, in his NBC network broadcast Sunday, May 29 at 9 a. m. CST.

In Glacier, Wells asserts, is probably the last unexplored region of the United States, and there are probably many lakes hidden in its wilderness, which white men have never seen. The geology of Glacier, says Wells, is one of the most fascinating attractions; here may be seen the fossils of animals that once lived at the bottom of a deep sea and rocks colored by centuries of the wash of sea water. There are sixty huge glaciers in the park, feeding the lakes which Wells says are unequaled for sheer beauty anywhere in the world.

The park presents many aspects, so that there is the wildest scenery imaginable in parts of it, with marvelous opportunities for roughing it, and for exploration; while, for the visitor whose time is limited, there is 100 miles of paved highway, with comfortable hotels and lodges, saddle horses, and the picturesque Blackfoot Indian reservation adjoining, with Indian guides available for camping and hiking trips.

This final Wells broadcast, sponsored by Continental Oil company, may be heard over an NBC network

Case for Gehrig

It sounded like a pretty fair case, at that. Then the third baseball writer voiced his opinion:

"You can have Simmons and Gehrig. I'll take Gehriging of the Tigers. He's the best workman in the big leagues, he's nobody. He hasn't played as long as Frisch, and hasn't had the spotlight on him in world series like Frisch has, but he's a better second baseman than Frisch or I'll eat all the upholstery in this cab."

"Look at the Tigers. Last year Gehriging was out quite a bit and was handicapped with a faint arm. This year he's in good shape. Speaking of psychological advantages, Gehriging is the guy who gives your ball club just that. He hits the whole club because the boys who play on the same team know they're working with a whale of a ball player. He's good company."

"You lose lots of ball games through second base. Plenty of runs are cut off there, and tight games are won or lost by bum throws or poor fielding. Gehriging is a great infielder. I might stretch a point and say he's the greatest infielder in the majors. Name somebody better. And he might not hit as high as Gehrig or Simmons, but he hits plenty when it counts. And he hits better than any other second baseman in his league."

It Goes to Simmons

There was no more county to be heard from one more vote to be cast. The writer who had brought up the subject in the first place thought for a minute and the only whole club he could think of was the cab. Then he spoke:

"Well, after it's all said and done, considering age, ability, fitness and your psychological advantages, I guess I'll have to take Simmons. If I had to pitch to somebody in the major leagues, I'd rather pitch to anybody else. And he's a smart outfielder, too. He plays nearly as well as Gehrig. I think, though Gehrig has played in a lot of consecutive games."

"I like that argument about Simmons winning ball games all by himself. That's what he has done, won them all by himself. Ask Clark Griffith."

After it was all over, and the boys pitched in the press box to put down the story of another ball game, this baseball writer began wondering how it happened that Babe Ruth wasn't even mentioned. He's a pretty good ball player, too.
