Pepper Martin's Mother Opposed Diamond Career

By W. W. COPELAND

United Press Staff Correspondent

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 9 (UP)—Johnny Leonard (Pepper) Martin's success as a baseball player came in the face of the earnest pleadings of his mother that he become a doctor or a lawyer.

Mrs. George Martin, in her modest home here, today proudly reviewed Johnny's childhood days and the events that carried her son to fame, the hero of the world series between St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Athletics.

The 67-year-old mother knows that Pepper's 12 hits against the Athletics tied the world record for the largest number of hits made by one man in a world series. She knows that he has stolen four bases, more than all the other players in the present series combined. She's proud of him.

Each evening Mrs. Martin reads every word in all the newspapers available. She cannot hear radio accounts of her son's triumphs because the radio announcer "talks too fast."

Lawyer or Doctor
"I didn't want Johnny (she never calls him Pepper) to become a baseball player. I wanted him to become a lawyer or a doctor," Mrs. Martin said. "But it is all right now. He likes to play baseball and he makes good money. He always was crazy about baseball."

Pepper is 27 years old. He was born on Leap year, Feb. 29, 1904, at Temple, Okla., a village of less than 2,000 population in southwestern Oklahoma.

"Johnny carried a baseball and glove with him everywhere he went even when a child," Mrs. Martin fondly recalled. "He thought of little else except baseball."

While still a child his family moved to Oklahoma City, young Martin went through grade school and entered high school where he was a member of the football squad. Tiring of school, the adventuresome lad quit and took a job as a delivery boy for a shoe store.

His history then follows through a period of selling newspapers, but all the time Martin found ample time to play baseball. His mother's home was situated near a sandlot and Johnny took advantage of it.

At Ardmore
His first professional job as a baseball pitcher came in 1923 with a bush-league club at Ardmore, Okla. His name already had become famous in sandlot circles. In 1924 he went to Greenville, Texas, where he played as an outfielder.

He returned to Ardmore in 1922, where he held down second base until the St. Louis Cardinals bought him and sent him to Fort Smith, Ark., where he played shortstop. His sale to the Cardinals was his first contact with a major league club.

His success with the Cardinals has been "up and down." First he was farmed all over the Cardinal's widely spread organization.

"But Johnny knew he would make good," Mrs. Martin said. "He kept fighting and playing baseball because he loved it."

SHANGHAI, Oct. 9 (UP)—Indignation arose over China today at the bombing of Chinchow, Manchuria, by Japanese airplanes yesterday.

Simultaneously Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese minister, left on a destroyer for Nanking, with a note of warning to the Chinese government that it "take prompt and effective measure" to halt hostilities or take the consequences. Two cruisers left Japan today for Shanghai. Eighteen fighting ships already were in the Yangtze river.

GENEVA, Oct. 9 (UP)—The league of nations council was called into a special meeting for Tuesday at the request of China to discuss the Manchurian situation.

Alejandro Lerroux, president of the council, again appealed to Japan and China, to avoid actions aggravating the situation.

TOKYO, Oct. 9 (UP)—Discord between the war and foreign offices over Chinese developments led to the dispatch of General Kenkichi Oshima and Dr. Hashio Yamakawa to Mukden to be liaison officers between civil and military officials.

Woiton Heard By Kiwanians

A classification talk by J. B. Woiton, city engineer, dancing by Dorothy Frost, violin selections by Josephine Winslow, with accompaniments by Margaret Curlee, featured Thursday's session of the Kiwanis club.

D. W. Webber, manager of J. C. Penney Co.'s store here, was introduced as a new member. Garland Woodward welcomed him into the club.

Guests of the day included Dr. C. K. Bivings, E. V. Spence, Mrs. Curlee, Mrs. Billie Gill Frost, Miss Winslow, Rev. M. K. Little, Miss Frost.

The program was in charge of D. H. Reed.

It was announced arrangements were being made by a joint committee of Kiwanians and Rotarians for a Halloween ladies' night banquet the evening of October 29.

Committeemen are: Rotarians Elmo Wasson, Joseph Edwards, Dr. M. H. Bennett, Kiwanians Carl Blomfield, Joe Kuykendall, Hilo Hatch.

Mr. Woiton said that in cities larger than 50,000 the city engineer heads a separate and distinct department of the city government but that in smaller cities he usually must care for water supply, parks and other facilities in addition to drawing plans for any construction work and keeping records of various types.

"It is easy to plan all city facilities in a slow-growing place," said Woiton. "It is when a city grows rapidly and neglects the proper planning of improvements during that growth that trouble is created. In such cases no uniformity in locating buildings and other construction work is afforded. There are times when an engineer is criticised for doing things that are, unknown to the average citizen, perfectly in line with sound engineering."

"I have known engineers who were recognized as among the best to lose their jobs because of public sentiment created by one mistake by a subordinate."

"Six or seven years ago, I understand, it was necessary to cut water off at the reservoir here to make new connections or changes in the business district. Much of our work at this time is devoted to locating 'lost' pipes and valves. "All city officials here are anxious to receive constructive criticism. They will appreciate any suggestion from citizens."

Chest Group Reviews Work Of Past Year

Plan For Coming Year Designed To Equalize Burden

The Community Chest committee met yesterday and discussed the activities for the past year. Chairman Blomfield gave a report showing that all bills had been paid to date and that a little cash was on hand.

It was shown that all the agencies covered by the Community Chest have been fully paid and that the charity had been taken care of. More than $5,000 was issued during the winter to the Salvation Army and charity.

The report of the chairman was approved and the committee voted unanimously to thank him for the results obtained.

It is surprising the number of families and people who have really been taken care of through the Salvation Army and charity work, members declared. Lives have actually been saved, and considerable suffering has been avoided through the work of the Community Chest. The Boy Scouts and Red Cross have also been taken care of by the city and county have cooperated admirably.

Another meeting will be held soon to lay out plans for the next year. One of the matters under consideration was to ask the public to centralize all charity work through one agency. Occasionally undeserving people have continually asked for charity and have been finally turned down, and some individual has helped them. This really, in the long run, hinders the work of charity and encourages laziness and shiftlessness, declared the committee.

It was also declared that Rev. Scott Cotton, Baptist preacher on the north side, did commendable work in handling the Mexican situation through the Community Chest. The records for the Community Chest are open to everyone. The work with the Boy Scouts was very well done.

It is the opinion of the committee that work should be started at once toward getting the fall campaign started and that the actual drive should come in the second half of November. Mr. Blomfield said that plans are being formulated whereby the burden should not fall heavily on any one and that all the employed people in the community will be asked to give a small part of their salary so that the burden will not fall entirely upon the business concerns.

The committee feels that all of the activities intended to be covered by the Community Chest were successfully fulfilled and that all the agencies reported were taken care of, as well as charity, and the work of our community problem was obtained.

It is understood that the business firms last year were not asked to donate to take care of all of these causes nearly as much as they had in the past and that one solicitation handled through the Community Chest is the successful way to take care of our community problems.

Errors Cost Cards Much; Grove 'Right'

Derringer Blows Up In Fifth After Flowers' Miscue

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis, Oct. 9.—Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics stopped Pepper Martin today, took advantage of errors by Flowers and Derringer's blow-up and won the sixth game of the World Series 8 to 1 while Lefty Grove breezed along superbly in the box.

The Philadelphia victory evened the series at three-all, sending the teams into the final game with the prospect that Groves and Earnshaw would be the opposing pitchers in the Saturday classic.

Two 4-run spurts humbled the Cards. The first was started when Flowers threw wild to first on Fox's grounder to open the fifth inning. Miller sacrificed Fox to second. Derringer got wild, walking Dykes, Williams singled, scoring Fox. After Grove struck out Bishop and Haas walked, forcing in a run, Cochrane singled off Frisch's glove, scored one and Bishop was forced in when Simmons walked. That was the end for Derringer.

In the seventh with Lindsey pitching, Bishop led off with a single, Haas sacrificed him to second. Cochrane flied out. Simmons singled, scoring Bishop. Fox singled. Miller was hit by a pitched ball. Dykes walked forcing in a run. Fox and Miller scored when Hafey dropped Williams' short drive to left.

St. Louis scored its only run in the sixth on Flowers' double and Frisch's single.

FOURTH INNING
Athletics—Haas tried to bunt on the first pitch, but he rolled foul. He fanned on a called strike, a fast one down the middle. Cochrane fouled the first pitch into the stands. A drive to left was foul by a few inches. He grounded out, Frisch to Bottomley. Simmons hit a mighty wallop to right center. Roettiger came in fast, made a long dive and came up with the ball for the third out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FIFTH INNING

Fire Prevention Talks Heard By School Children

Students in Big Spring high school and Junior high, meeting in two groups, were addressed Thursday afternoon by Clyde E. Thomas, Fire Marshal Jess Heffernan and Wendell Bedichek, on fire prevention.

George Gentry, high school principal, announced that in a fire drill Wednesday the high school building, housing more than 800 children, was cleared in 50 seconds.

Pupils were urged by Mr. Thomas to develop the mental attitude necessary to form the habit of not smoking and eliminating fire threats.

In addition to the amount of loss in lives and property that they can throughout life, prevent, the habit makes an individual more careful in all things, he pointed out.

The speakers brought out that 65 per cent of fires in the United States last year were caused by carelessness, that 10,000 persons died in 1930 fires and that a home burns every four minutes in the United States.

BIG BLAST FOR SCOTLAND
Scotland is awaiting the report of the biggest blast ever set off in that country. Preparation for the explosion are being made at quarries near Oban. The powder shaft, sunk into the mountainside on the northern shores of Loch Etive, is now completed. This shaft has taken more than a year to construct and contains more than 10 tons of explosives—sufficient to dislodge over half a million tons of granite, which will keep the 300 employes busy for two years. The top of the shaft is more than 500 feet up the quarry face, and its charging was a highly dangerous operation, each portion of explosive having to be carried by the workers over steep grades. The quarries are at present working night and day to supply granite chips for road construction in all parts of the country.

BATTLES OPEN HUNT SEASON
Free fights marked the opening of the stag-hunt season in England this year. They were the result of demonstrations by members of the League for the Prohibition of Cruel Sports, who have condemned all hunting of animals with the aid of dogs as not being humane. One of the fiercest battles was at Exmoor when the Devon and Somerset Staghounds held its opening meet. Members of the League tried to block the hunters, who drove their horses into the crowd. Women and children narrowly missed being trampled on. M. Sharp, secretary of the league, and several others were knocked down. Coats, hats and umbrellas were torn to shreds as hundreds of people fought and rolled in the mud. The battle lasted more than an hour before police could stop it.

Twelve Fort Worth People Are Treated For Hydrophobia
FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 9 (UP)—Twelve persons were under treatment for rabies here today, after it was discovered by department of health officials that they had been bitten by a mad dog two weeks ago.

The dog was a playful, stray dog, that had been adopted by a neighborhood on the north side.

AGED GERMS BLAMED FOR DEATH
Can germs survive 240 years and still be fatal is a question being debated by European scientists following the death of Philip Kurayve, a stonemason, at Kesmark, Hungary. While making repairs and alterations in the ancient Roman Catholic church at Kesmark, Kurayve opened a tomb in which a mother and her four-year-old child had been buried 240 years ago. Shortly after he had completed his work the man was taken violently ill and died the following day. The attending doctor declared death was from infection. As the mother and child are believed to have died from an infectious disease, some doctors are suggesting that the germs transmitted themselves into spots, survived the tomb for nearly two and one-half centuries, and were absorbed into the system of the stonemason.

Three hundred and ninety-five beaves have been canned in Runnels county this year.

Col. Ball Ired By Questioning In Trial For Warrant Forgery

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 9 (UP)—Col. Thomas H. Ball, 72-year-old silver-haired attorney and one-time gubernatorial candidate, jumped to his feet at one point during his trial for felony theft today and objected to an assistant attorney's questioning of a witness by shouting: "I've stood all I'm going to stand of that stuff!"

Assistant District Attorney Vavneh had asked a witness if "any body else except Colonel Ball" got any gain from the navigation district land transaction involved in the case.

Colonel Ball was on his feet instantly.

"Cavanagh," he cried, "I've stood all I'm going to stand of that kind of stuff!"

He resumed his seat a few moments later, visibly shaken by his outburst.

Colonel Ball, gaunt, tall and of distinguished appearance, is charged with felony theft of $222,996.96 from the navigation district, the transaction involved dating back to a time when he was president of the company that sold the land to the district, and was attorney for the district and when Ross Sterling, now governor, was chairman of the port commission.

Testimony opened this morning.

Jim Willis County Man, Wife Drive Ox Team To New York

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 9 (UP)—Driving an ox team to advertise their home town, Fremont (Ox), Jim Willis County, J. S. Myers, his wife, son, Tom, and E. W. Howell were here today on their way to New York.

Their house wagon bears a display of valley fruits and a bale of cotton.

Rev. B. L. Nance, who is holding a revival meeting at the First Methodist church is author of the following:

"Ride The Railroad Train"

Let me have some of your time, I'll try to tell you in rhyme Why you should ride "The Railroad Train" From California to Maine.

First place, it will save you time, Second place, give you peace of mind. It is sure and as very safe— Taking you from place to place.

The men are kind on every hand As you ride over the land. They are courteous each day From the start and all the way.

They've helped to make the nation great— This is true in every state. This is so and all should know They've made civilization GROW.

Owe them more than we can pay And should ride the train each day. Need the railroads more and more Yes, we do, from shore to shore.

Built the towns and country too— Built the older from the new. Without them, what would we be? In our "mind's eye" we can see.

They're the country's best friend And they will be to the end. Now let us give them their dues— And scatter this good news.

If on business or pleasure— In cold, hot or rainy weather— Act with clear head and be sane And "Ride the Railroad Train."

Your auto costs eight cents per mile And this should not make you smile. Pay you little three cents fare. So with the great railroads share.

They'll "take you there 'n' bring you back" Safely over the smoothest track Let me say: "Use your brain Do your ridin' on "Railroad Train."

Air Transportation Progress

THE STEADY increase in commercial aviation's safety factor is strikingly illustrated in the recent report from Assistant Secretary of Commerce Clarence M.
Young.

During the first six months of this year, commercial transport planes flew a little better than 20, 000,000 miles, and nine passengers lost their lives. In the first six months of last year the planes flew less than 17,000,000 miles and killed 22 passengers.

The only thing that stands in the way of a tremendous boom in the air transport business is the fact that the average man still has a faint, lingering fear of trusting himself to an airplane. Let commercial aviation hang up just a few more records like this one and the last traces of that fear will vanish.

Scourge Of Common Cold

DR. JOHN F. BARNHILL, president of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology, expressed the hope that medical science may soon be able to develop a serum that will lick the common cold, and while this little malady does not rank as one of the great scourges of mankind, there is little question that such a remedy would cause about as much general rejoicing as any that medical science could offer.

The common cold—and how apt
the adjective is—causes an incalculable amount of misery. It has an amazingly high economic cost, too, through the number of working days that it takes away from business and industry each year.
Furthermore, it very frequently paves the way for more serious diseases. If medical men can finally conquer it their names should go on the tallest monument that can be built.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

A Great American Passes

Lubbock Avalanche:
THE sudden death of Senator Dwight Morrow of New Jersey, was a serious blow to an illustrious family. Further than that, the American public—or at least that thinking portion of the public—will feel a loss because of the man's unusually fine service to the nation in the short time he has pursued public life.

Among his business associates, both in and out of the world, his powerful banking House of Morgan, death has likewise created a void and many of the giants of business and finance, with whom he has been wont to counsel, will miss Dwight Morrow.

In all these circles there will be felt a poignant loss—but from a national and world standpoint the greatest loss has been experienced by the Republican party.

For Mr. Morrow seemed destined to go far in the GOP. Retiring from international banking only a few years ago, his work as ambassador to Germany was so successful that his election to the United States Senate for his home state was scarcely more than a mere formality of balloting. And since his election to the senate, Mr. Mor-row's prestige has grown by leaps and bounds, in spite of the fact that he made no effort to get into the congressional limelight—in fact he endeavored to avoid it.

Mr. Morrow's name has been mentioned in connection with the presidency, although he openly declared such mention to be "stuff and nonsense" and that he would support Mr. Hoover with all his might. His name has likewise been mentioned, more and more frequently of late, as a possible vice-presidential nominee and close students of national politics have been frank in their opinions that the addition of the Morrow name and prestige would be a boon to Mr. Hoover's chances in 1932.

But be all these things as they may, Mr. Morrow was "in line" for political promotion by his party and by the wet forces of the nation he was regarded as a veritable Moses.

Now death, sure and inscrutable, has played the hand and the picture has been changed, overnight. This strangely affable man who was never a professional politician and who held the respect and confidence of the people in spite of his connection with that oracle of Big Business, J. Pierpont Morgan, has made his exit and his late successes in public life are all for naught.

It goes without saying that The Morning Avalanche does not agree with the political principles approved by the late senator. As an independent democratic newspaper, the chances are that his candidacy for any office would not coincide with our ideas along that line.

But because he was a leader of no mean proportions and because he has served his country gallantly and well, we salute the bier of Dwight Morrow proudly. He was an outstanding American and, after all, what greater tribute can be paid any man—what difference does it make now whether he were Democrat or Republican, a wet or a dry?

But Ambassador Forbes has a ation. He has much background information gathered since he first went to Tokyo which should prove valuable to Secretary Stimson.

In fact, Stimson was so eager to get Forbes' viewpoint that the ambassador rushed to the state depart-and five years from the time he left Harvard he was made chief of

Since 1899 he has been a member of J. M. Forbes & Co., bankers.

His post in Tokyo is one of the most important American diplo-

It has been vacant since 1929,

London naval conference when William Castle, Jr., undersecretary

Tuberculosis in Children—I
It is the common impression that tuberculosis is essentially a disease of adults.
In a sense, this is correct. The disease in its active form is found more frequently among the grown-up than among children.
Tuberculosis, however, is a peculiar disease in that it may smoulder for a long time before it breaks forth in its acute form.
Considered in this sense, then, tuberculosis may be said to be more common among children than among adults.
However, we differentiate between the infections with the tuberculosis germs found among children, and the active disease found
among adults.
For not all, in fact, only relatively few of the cases of infection ever develop into the active form of the disease.

SAM
BY FREEMAN LINCOLN

ETIQUETTE REGARDING FISH
ON the threshold stood Nelson Aldersha, his hat in his hand and behind him was the small, and obviously terrified figure of Martha, his wife.
There was absolute silence. Sam realized later that the silence lasted for more than a moment, but at the time it seemed interminable. He seemed to be her habit in times of crisis. Sam noticed small things. She noticed that one of Nelson's shoelaces had been broken and was clumsily knotted together. A button was gone from the left sleeve of his coat. He needed a shave and there were dark shadows under his eyes. It was obvious that Martha had been crying.
"Hello, Nelson. She spoke calmly. Though her half-brother had merely come home from a day at the office. "How are you?"
"Hello, Sam. He nodded gravely. "May I—that is, do you mind if we come in?"
He took a half dozen steps into the room with Martha at his heels. Sam went around behind them and closed the door. Then she turned toward where her stepfather was standing. "Fourth," she said quietly, "Nelson is here. Aren't you going to speak to him?"

Fourth, with his broad back toward her, made no sign that he had heard. He was shading directly in front of Eugene Frye, and now he began to talk as though he were continuing an uninterrupted conversation. "I could hardly believe it," he said in a loud artificial tone, "but the man was intoxicated. Mrs. Frye. He was hardly able to put two sensible words—"
"Fourth," Sam stamped her foot. "Don't be ridiculous! Don't pretend that you didn't hear what I said!"
"Ah," Fourth turned slowly and faced the little group at the front door. His normally florid face was a dead white and his Adam's apple was twitching, but he managed a correctly apologetic little bow. "You'll pardon me, Joan, but Mrs. Frye and I were in the midst of an interesting conversation. You were saying?"
"Don't be ridiculous!" Once more Sam stamped her foot. "Here's Nelson, Fourth. Aren't you going to speak to him?"
Fourth's bright blue eyes regarded his son dispassionately, as though Nelson were some not particularly interesting biological specimen. "Speak to him?" he murmured. "Of course. How are you, Nelson? Thoughtful of you to drop in."
Fourth bowed gravely and, turning his back, once more began to converse with the widow Frye. Nelson looked at Sam. "Something tells me we'd better be going," he said wearily.
"Nonsense!" said Sam hotly. "You're going to stay right where you are. Not only that, but we're going to put an end to all this childishness right here and now. Sit down, Nelson, please. You sit down, Martha, too."
When the pair had seated themselves on theavenport Sam walked over to Fourth. "Fourth,"

she pleaded almost tearfully, "please don't be so hateful."
"Hateful?" Fourth looked down at her and shook his head sadly. "You asked me to do something, Joan, and unless I'm mistaken, I did it. Is that being hateful?"
"It is, and you know it! You didn't really speak to Nelson. You just said how do you do and turned your back. You mustn't act that way, Fourth. You must talk to Nelson—and to Martha, too!"
"Must I? That's an interesting idea. When I come to think of it, it might be amusing, too." He smiled gently. "I might, for instance, ask Nelson if he is thinking of going in for larceny in a really big way."
"Fourth!"
"Yes," Fourth continued smoothly, "that would be an interesting topic to discuss with Nelson, but his wife might be more difficult. It wouldn't be tactful, I suppose, for me to show an interest in her father's business. He shook his head. "That might sound fishy."
"Fourth!" Sam gasped and took an involuntary step backward. Before she could recover herself, Nelson was at his father's side.
"Be careful what you say!" Nelson was blurring furiously. "Be careful what you say, do you understand? You can insult me all you like, but you'd better not make another remark like that about my wife! If you do, I'll—"
Fourth ignored him. He turned to the widow Frye, who was a frightened huddle in her chair. "It seems a shame," he said to her regretfully, "to bring this delightful visit of yours to an end, but I am afraid the time has come when I had better take you home."
In absolute silence Fourth assisted Eugene with her coat and then put on his own. Sam, in a sort of daze, was unable to find words even when the widow stood at the threshold on the point of departure. Fourth Aldersha seemed to be the only one who had complete control of his faculties.
"I won't be gone long, Joan." Fourth glanced absently at the room as he prepared to close the door behind him. "You might open a window or two, if you don't mind. It seems stuffy in here." He nodded. "Yes. Just a bit stuffy."
When Fourth returned, three-quarters of an hour later, he found Sam seated alone on theavenport staring stonily at the embryo of the fire. She did not look up when he came in, nor did she speak. Fourth took off his overcoat and threw it on a chair. Then he glanced about him, sniffed, and began to pace up and down with long strides.
After a time he stopped in front of Sam and thrust both hands deep into his coat pockets. "My God, Sam," he demanded hoarsely, "what am I going to do? I can't stand this. I can't stand it!"

Fourth leaves the house Sunday to commit suicide. Sam can get no news of him.

Tuberculosis in Children—II
These children usually give a history of very close contact with an active case of tuberculosis. It may be that the father, the mother, or the nurse or maid, suffered from tuberculosis and was the source of infection for the child.
The child was invaded by so many germs that its resistance was overpowered. Such cases are not uncommon, but they are not the rule.
More common is the slow smouldering process, in which the invading germs are met with stubborn resistance, and the issue is undetermined for years.
This condition gives rise to what is now termed the childhood type of tuberculosis.
In this type of tuberculosis, there are no outstanding signs or symptoms. The child does not cough, lose weight, have fever, or manifest any of the evidences of disease commonly associated with the adult form of tuberculosis.

PRINCE'S NEW BOAT
Tests of the Prince of Wales' new speed boat showed that it responded satisfactorily at all speeds. The craft has an airtight chamber on each side which, it is believed, makes capsizing impossible. Sufficient space is allowed for the driver to lie almost at full length on an air cushion, and this gives a low center of gravity which also makes for speed. There is a special water-cooled silencer and the maximum speed is about 40 miles per hour, but the craft is designed for cruising as well as racing. The tests were made by speed-boat experts on the Edgbaston Reservoir, Birmingham, England.

HOUSEWIVES PRAISE COFFEE THAT NEVER VARIES IN FLAVOR

Hills Bros.' Patented Roasting Process Insures Same Fine Flavor in Every Pound

One thing that wins lifetime friends for Hills Bros. Coffee is its unvarying flavor. The same exquisite taste comes in every pound. There are no disappointing variations to make you want to switch! This is due to a patented roasting process—Controlled Roasting.
As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow... a little at a time... so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—this patented process that roasts evenly, continuously... a little at a time. Automatic control assures an exact roast for every single berry.

How different from ordinary bulk methods! Such roasting depends upon human abilities; and men make mistakes. But Hills Bros.' Controlled Roasting process doesn't! It keeps Hills Bros. Coffee totally free of variation. The same delicious flavor—always!
Hills Bros. Coffee is fresh, every time you buy it. For air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of Hills Bros. vacuum cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale! Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trademark on the can.
Hills Bros. Coffee, Inc., Kansas City, Missouri.

Try These Menus Sunday And Enjoy a Day of Rest

Sunday meals should be planned very carefully, so that they may include attractive and nourishing foods, and yet will not force you to spend too much time in the kitchen. Breakfast, of course, should be a rather substantial meal—to tide the family over until dinner, which is served rather late in most households. For the main feast, I am suggesting roast leg of lamb, since most women find a roast more practical on Sunday, and the leftover lamb can be sliced and served cold for supper the same night, or made into a savory meat pie or hash for Monday's dinner.

You will be pleased to find how easily and quickly all the meals shown here can be prepared—and your family will be sure to like them, too!

Youth Kills Self To Prevent Trial On Prohibition Charge

John Mikekska, youthful McLennan county farmer, ended his life near here late yesterday rather than answer to federal authorities on a prohibition charge.
Mikekska, arrested in a liquor raid, was granted permission to change his clothes and a moment after he entered his home officers heard a shot. They found him wounded with a discharged single barreled shotgun nearby. Leaving the room to summon a doctor, they heard another shot and returned to find Mikekska dead from a second wound.

Little Girls Play With Rattlesnake, Calling It A New Kind of Dollie

BRAZOS, Oct. 9. (UP)—Evelyn Sue Crawford and Joeline Hamilton, little girls, thought it a new kind of doll and covered it up "to keep it warm" in a bed at their doll house.
They were angry and surprised when DeLavel Plester, an older friend, noticed the "new doll" and smashed it with a rock.
Plester recognized the "doll" as a young rattlesnake with one rattle and a button.
The children were unharmed but their mothers were reported near collapse.

Don't Quote Me

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. (UP)—One lively hour of President Hoover's White House financial conference this week will go down in the memory of those participating as the "Second Battle of the Morning."

There really wasn't any first battle because last June Mr. Hoover shot his one year German moratorium proposal across the bow of congress so suddenly that even Senator Borah didn't have time to cook his gun. He had to throw up his hands along with almost every one else in a quick surrender to a White House charge which brought a hopeful cheer from a depressed world.

But Mr. Hoover should have known he couldn't catch the enemy off guard a second time. They were several in congress who knew a thing or two. They have been leveling their eyes on Mr. Hoover since the hearing rumors for several days.

They scented some sort of a "plot" by international bankers, and felt that the bankers had convinced Mr. Hoover of the merits of this banking program.

Emergency So these senators and congressmen went to the White House conference ready for an emergency. It soon came. Mr. Hoover read off his banking proposals and there were general nods of approval.

"Now gentlemen," he continued, "we come to the question of international obligations."

"Will you please read that again, Mr. President?" Senator Borah asked ominously after the moratorium proposal was read.

Ah. They were right. The whole business was out.

"That looks as if it implied our approval to anything you agree to with Premier Laval," Borah said. "It does imply that," replied Mr. Hoover looking more uncomfortable every instant.

Against It "I'm against debt cancellation," blurted out Rep. John Garner, house minority leader. Half a dozen others joined in. Under-secretary of Treasury Mills and Governor Meyer of the federal reserve board came to the president's aid. But they were overpowered.

"Let's rewrite the statement," suggested some one. Then with pencils they labored over the text for nearly an hour. It couldn't be made to satisfy the objectors. The cigar smoke was choking everybody. Finally Mr. Hoover decided it was hopeless and he said he would ask for no commitment. He would content himself with announcing that he would discuss the debt matter with Premier Laval. Congress could act as it saw fit afterward.

Strecher bearers retired in humiliation. They had expected to carry out several senators. It was just their luck that the battle ended in a draw.

which he recently was released. Mr. Mills was arrested after he aroused suspicions when he returned here yesterday under an assumed name. Officers found a gun on his person.

Mills told officers he wanted to be returned to the state hospital. He previously had been adjudged of unsound mind. He started walking out on the highway when arrested.

But 100,000 Acres Of Old-Growth Pine Left In East Texas

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—Out of about ten million acres of original longleaf pine timber, Texas has only 100,000 acres of the virgin, old-growth timber left, according to E. O. Siecke, state forester.

A comprehensive program of reforestation and forest-protection work is now under way covering 8,000,000 acres of timber land in 38 counties. Of the area, 1,600,000 acres lie in seven protection units, in which intensive protection is given.

In East Texas there is a system of steel fire lookout towers, tree cab lookouts and telephone lines, manned by patrolmen and forest guides. In the other 4,000,000 acres, a lookout or extension patrol system is carried on.

During 1930 the forest protection service dealt with 3,048 fires that burned over 244,536 acres, or 3 percent of the protected area.

The state forestry program includes: State control of all cooperative measures to conserve timber and encourage reforestation.

Encouragement for private capital to sponsor reforestation growth on cut-over lands. A special system of taxation is proposed for the areas dedicated by citizens to growing timber for future uses.

Texas ranks seventh in timber production, with an annual cut of a billion and a half board feet. The state has 100,000 acres left of original long-leaf pine, 400,000 acres of short-leaf loblolly pine, and 250,000 acres of hardwoods. Second-growth timbers covers 8,224,000 acres, and there are 3,350,000 acres more of cut-over land potential to the growing of timber.

Prison Plant Gets Several Contracts From State's List

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—Bids of the Item Printing company, Huntsville, on state printing, were declared lowest on several items as the board of control Wednesday continued tabulation of the bids.

Bidders said it was an "open secret" that the work done for the state by the Item Printing company is done in the state prison printing plant at Huntsville, managed by former Rep. S. E. Barnett.

The prison plant will probably receive a larger share of the state printing, under these awards than it had last year, the bids indicated. The Thrift Bookbinding company, Austin, owned by Lee Thrift, was declared low on book re-binding, a contract that will amount to several thousand dollars during the year.

FALSE TEETH MYSTIFY NATIVE

False teeth owned by one of a party of missionaries was a great mystery to natives in New Hebrides, according to Pastors Stewart and Truner, leaders of the party, on their arrival recently at Sydney, N. S. W. Only from a great distance would the natives dare to watch the removal and replacing of the teeth. They finally decided that the feat was "magic" and the missionary a witch doctor. The party also reported that feasting and dancing are the chief social outlets of these strange people. As many as 700 pigs are slaughtered for a single feast. In one small island dancing grounds were found every mile. "Our arrival caused quite a stir," the missionaries declared. "The women and children ran off and hid themselves, while many of the men, who were looking upon white faces for the first time, uttered deep groans of consternation."

This And That By Mark

A letter from our good friend G. E. Walker, superintendent of the Pecos Institution informs us in no uncertain terms that the Bovines are going to have some tough going Saturday aft. The Eagles, according to the Prof., have shown a world of improvement since their season's opener which they lost to the Austin Hi team of El Paso. "We held the McCamey Badgers to a close score and we plan to do even better than that in our game with the Steers," Mr. Walker said.

Fans will be assured of a fighting club, for Coach Withers has the reputation of getting more than the usual amount of fight from his men.

Another added attraction will be the presence of the Pecos pep squad. About 35 good looking girls comprise this colorful noise-manufacturing body.

The Bulldogs of Midland and the Stanton Buffs will stage their annual battle this afternoon on the Midland gridiron. The odds favor the Doggies, but odds mean less than nothing to the Hydemen when the opposition is furnished by the Midland school. Midland should win, but a real ball game will be staged for the fans before the Buffs are conquered.

The world series is resumed today in St. Louis with Earshaw in the box for the A's we look for the series to go the route and for Grimes to come back tomorrow and take the final game and the championship of the world for the Cardinals.

In addition to trying to win the game today the Mackmen are going to do everything possible to stop the series sensation Pepper Martin. Personally we look for the Pepper to establish a new record for safeties today when he collects at least one bingle.

Mickey Cochrane has said that he does not know what to do with Martin. "We have thrown him everything but the bat bag and he has plastered it," Cochrane said.

With the war clubs of Simmons, Fox and Co. in action this p. m. the Cards are in for a busy session.

Texas is all set for the game with Rice Saturday. The memory of the only defeat of the '30 season is fresh on the minds of the Longhorns as the hour of battle draws nigh. No overconfidence will enable the Quins to slip up on the orange eleven this year. A conference victory will be chalked up in the win column for the Steers when all is said and done Saturday aft.

The fighting cadets from Aggie land should split the Iowa eleven tomorrow p. m. in Dallas. Any team that can hold the powerful Green Wave of Tians to one touchdown is worthy of consideration. The Aggies have been the under dog long enough and we look for the boys to turn in a win tomorrow.

Coach Bristow has expressed his self as wondering whether or not the Steer backs are hard to stop or whether they just look that way. He makes the point in a sermon according to the Steer mentor, but they look plenty easy to stop any day.

Warden White didn't get a bit. He has ordered lights out and radios silent at 9:30 o'clock. Amos 'N Andy go on the air at 10, since standard time was restored.

When lights faded last night, the convicts set up a din for their radio favorites. Cat calls and screams blended with clanging gongs and screaming sirens. Warden White talked, but it was Amos 'N Andy the convicts wanted to hear.

Quiet came about 4 a. m., when the prisoners had yelled themselves into exhaustion. There was no violence.

Self-Styled Preacher Held On Swindling Charge

DEL RIO, Oct. 9. (UP)—R. W. Anderson, self-styled preacher and civic leader, was sentenced here to 132 days in jail following his conviction on a charge of swindling.

He was indicted on three separate counts. Complaints were sworn out by F. L. Childs, a hotel man, after Anderson is alleged to have left a trail of bad checks.

My WINNING PLAY

Washington State college, last year football champion of the Pacific coast, plays California October 17.

In the following article, the second of a twice-weekly series, written by leading football coaches themselves, "Babe" Hollingbery of Washington State explains what he will have in store for the Bears.

It is an original offensive method evolved from Hollingbery's 20 years of experience, and should have plenty of surprises for "Navy Bill" Ingram starting his first year on the coast as coach of California.

By O. E. "Babe" HOLLINGBERY (Head Football Coach, Washington State College) PULMAN, Wash. (AP)—Coaching systems vary a great deal on the Pacific coast with most of them employing shifting offenses.

The basic play of my system has been the same for the past 22 years that I have coached. The system is based on a thorough knowledge of fundamentals and perfection of execution.

No shift is used. I've always attempted to balance our play from every formation with passing, power and deception.

My system is not patterned after any of the well known particular styles, but is a product of my own playing experiences and deductions from the contacts I've had with football during the last 20 years.

The system has been fairly successful against the various innovations that have sprung up because it is based primarily on sound and exacting fundamentals.

I've always used an unbalanced line offense with ends in and out as one or two wingbacks at the discretion of the quarterback.

The position of my key man in the backfield is somewhat different from any other system I know inasmuch as the principal ball-carrier occupies the second position which is farthest back from center.

In this way I have two men who are equally effective and deceptive in passing, running and faking.

In stalling any one particular game as the best example of the execution of our system I would select the University of Washington contest played in Pullman two years ago. With the score 13-0 against us, Archie Buckley, our quarterback, by perfectly alternating the two key backs, completely deceived the opposing defense and, using cutbacks and spinner plays, managed to pull the game out of the fire 20-13.

The winning play was a spinner which drew the defensive center through the line where he was swept out from the side by a half-back, the spinner man taking the ball through the hole for a winning touchdown.

Of course all such plays are made good through proper use of other plays leading up to it.

I expect the key men of the offense this year to be George Sander, right half; Phil Sarboe, left half; and Stanley Colburn, fullback. They become key men when they play number one or two positions in the backfield. Sander is a junior and the other two sophomores.

They are, therefore, new to this competition, and it will be a matter of time to determine what their inexperience means to the system's success.

Sweetwater, presiding elder of the district, was postponed from last Sunday a week ago, on account of the revival. He will visit the church Monday evening and conduct the fourth and last quarterly conference of the year.

Back 3 sweeps center to left, and Back 1 completes spin and bucks through hole.

Members Deny Attacks On State Tax Survey Body

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—Reps. F. C. Weirner and E. M. Barron have joined in a charge that "propaganda attacks" have been started upon the work of the joint legislative tax committee even before the committee can undertake its task.

They renewed their declaration that "industry has no need to fear the work of this committee. We intend to make it constructive and to avoid doing anything that will lay additional burdens upon the industry that has borne its just share of taxes in the past."

Rep. Weirner said the committee had been accused of writing bills without holding hearings, and of planning to hear only those favorable to the income tax bill.

He insisted neither of the committee was well-founded. The committee with bear numerous people inviting many representatives of business, the oil industry and other industries, and also holding open hearings for all interested people to attend, he said. Bills will be drafted in the light of information from these hearings.

Rep. Weirner, former tax commissioner, said his group is willing to take both the reports of the Texas Welfare committee of 1912, or the recommendations of the joint tax survey committee of 1929, as the basis of all its work. These bodies, made up wholly of business leaders, recommended the income tax, Mr. Weirner insisted, and the adjustment and levying of taxes in line with present views of the committee.

Mr. Weirner proposed, as a member of the committee, a strong delinquent tax statute, aimed to relieve distressed property-holders so far as possible, permit them to clear title of their homes and farms, and to encourage rather than endanger farm and home-ownership.

He and Barron were co-authors of the new tax bill, just approved by Gov. Sterling to waive penalties and interest on back taxes which Atty. Gen. James V. Allred has declared void.

Besides his being a United States senator, and beside his renown as the father of Mrs. Lindbergh, Dwight Morrow held the respect and appreciation of Texas because of matters local to the state.

Texas has hundreds of miles of line bordering Mexico. Mr. Morrow proved a true friend of Texas and the Southwest in his successful efforts to build better friendship between the two nations that meet at the Texas border.

DEAD SEA WORK PROGRESSES

Recovery of mineral deposits from the Dead Sea has become active, and nearly 300 men are now engaged in construction and exploitation work. Great progress has been made in the last year in preliminary construction work, including factories for the extraction of potash and drying stations and sheds. About half a square mile has been formed into pans for the evaporation and concentration of the waters from the Dead Sea. Potash probably will be the principal product for some time, but other yields are expected later. As the work progresses a railway from the sea to Belsan, through the Jordan Valley, probably will be constructed to transport the finds.

BEAUTY PARLOR FOR MEN

A beauty parlor specially for men has been opened at the International Sportmen's Club, the headquarters for millionaires of all nations in London. The parlor is part of the beauty salon for women. The men sit in masculine-looking leather armchairs in an all-white room and have their nails manicured by a clever Chinaman. The room has been so arranged that shy clients can slip in without being seen by women friends. This Chinese beauty expert is also kept busy lacquering dark red the toe-nails of the women members before they swim in the bath adjoining. Toe-nails are considered most important with a sandal vogue in sight in the Riviera.

St. Andrews, Scotland, famous home of golf, will apply to Parliament for a Provisional Order to enable it to impose charges at the 1933 Open Golf Championship and other leading golfing events. Dallas Man Held For Shooting Wife DALLAS, Oct. 9. (AP)—A charge of assault to murder his wife, Mrs. Katherine Wiseman, 35, was filed today against Travis W. Strong. He was arrested yesterday after his wife had been shot twice probably fatally with a pistol. Policemen and a stepon captured Strong after the shooting.

CHIC SALE OF 'STAR WITNESS' CREATED THIRTY-FIVE ROLES

Charles (Chic) Sales, who, with Walter Huston, is featured in "The Star Witness," the Warner Bros. production at the Ritz today and tomorrow, during his vaudeville career has created thirty-five picturesque roles—among them being Granpa Summerill, a flute-playing Civil War veteran. This is the character which is woven into the thrilling story of "The Star Witness." The foxy old gent, on a forty-eight-hour leave from the Soldiers' Home—frees his kidnapped grandson, foils the thugs and gives a tip to the cops.

POLICE WAR ON SMUGGLERS

German police have started a determined effort to suppress smuggling from Belgium which has grown to serious proportions this year. Recently they followed a truck carrying smuggled coffee from the border into Aix-La-Chapelle. In a wild ride through city streets the police fired on the truck, and in the battle which followed two bystanders were wounded, one of them fatally. Pedestrians thought that a Nazi-Communist battle was being fought and fled for their lives. Although wounded in the leg, one of the smugglers attempted to escape, but was arrested later in a public house, where he had taken refuge. Three tons of coffee were found in the truck.

BUSES ROUT IRISH ROADS

Competition from buses and trucks has forced three railway systems in County Cork, Irish Free State, to cease operations, ac-ording to reports from Cork. They are the Cork and Muskerry Light Railway, the Cork and Macroom Railway and the Cork, Blackrock, and Passage Light Railway. Hundreds of railwaymen will be thrown out of employment. The railways were independent of the Great Southern and Western Railway, but were taken over under the amalgamation plan passed in the Free State Chamber of Deputies. The Macroom Railway was one of the best paying propositions for Irish stockholders, and for years paid a dividend of 6 per cent, but after amalgamation the stock dropped to a sixth of its former price.
