A Proclamation

Realizing that at this time one of the most vital needs of Midland is a thorough renovating and beautifying of the city, and in keeping with the national program of observing a clean-up campaign at this season of the year, I do hereby proclaim the week of April 21 to 27, inclusive, as Clean Up Week in the clean up campaign, approaching warm weather demands the elimination of filth for the prevention of disease, the constantly increasing population of Midland makes it expedient that yards and vacant lots

be cleaned and beautified; and Midland will profit greatly from united efforts of the citizens in carrying out a successful program of promoting cleanliness and of Midland are exhorted to give their undivided attention to making Clean Up Week a success.

The purpose of the Little Theatre is, fundamentally, educational. It seeks to promote a democratic and discriminating appreciation of the best in the theatre and its sole purpose is to utilize and develop, in fruitful and profitable fashion, talents in its community that otherwise would have no opportunity of expression. It is not its purpose to accumulate money, but to be selfsupporting and to put its earnings into beneficial civic use by producing better plays, encouraging literary and dramatic talent, and educating and entertaining its com-

PROFESSORS' SALARIES

College professors themselves are chiefly responsible for their low salaries, according to a committee of Yale professors which has just completed a survey of the subject.

The professorial habit of increasing the number of professors in any given college or university as fas as new funds become available, says the committee, makes low salaries inevitable. Its report warns that such salaries will never go up until the number of professors stops going up.

The professors might well take a tip from organized labor. Union men long ago found that a surplus of men means a reduction in pay. The same thing, apparently, holds good in the cloistered halls of higher learning.

Each year the experts give their choice for the major league flags No matter how well founded, they are but individual opinions. The Baseball World this year features something new, the consensus of sport writers in all parts of the nation as to the races. Newspaper men numbering 400 and representing every paper in every town that has a professional team, were asked to name their choices, and 315 of them responded. Here are their votes tabulated. Eight points were given for first place, seven for second and so on down the one for eighth, th popularity of a team being shown in the final column.

PARIS. April 13.-The mantle of Marshal Foch seems likely to fall on the capable shoulders of the man whom in life he trusted most. General Maxime Wevgand. In death the influence of the great leader is being felt in high military and government circles in an endeavor to apportion the work he did.

General Weygand long had been recognized as Foch's right hand man and a movement now has been started to make him a Marshal of France and give him Foch's place as President of the Allied Military Commission, which has charge of making sure that the military clausof the Treaty of Versailles are fulfilled. The commission, composed of English, French, Belgian, Italian and Japanese officers, reports to the conference of Ambassadors and during the past few years Fooh had giver much of his time to this work. Recall Foch's Regard

If-General Weygand is given these honors, it will be recognition of two important considerations. He has undeniably proven his military genius, but perhaps more important in the eyes of France now is the memory that Foch loved him.
