Suspect Detained In Robbery of Wink Check Exchange

ROBBER GOT $2,000.00 IN DRUG STORE

Officers Here Have Not Been Asked to Look for Robbers

WINK, Aug. 22.—(P)—A check exchange in a drug store here was held up by a masked man today, who escaped with approximately $2,000.

A suspect is being held by officers here. An accomplice is said to have joined the robber at the door of the drug store.

Officers at Midland have not been notified to watch out for the probable robbers, it was advised by Sheriff A. C. Francis when questioned by a Reporter-Telegram representative this afternoon; hence it is believed that the man held there must be regarded by Wink officers as the actual robber.

Wink, oil field town in the heart of the Winkler County oil fields, does not have a bank; and check exchanges are said to do a large business in the handling of money, cashing checks for business houses there. They often keep large sums of cash on hand for this purpose, according to reports.

Schleicher County Well Has Salt Water

The Phillips Petroleum Company's No. 1 J. A. Whitten, which for several days appeared to be Schleicher County's first producing well, filled with 3,000 feet of salt water at a depth of 4,985 feet Wednesday afternoon, according to reports reaching here today.

Seventh barrels of 35 gravity sweet oil was swabbed from the well last Saturday at 4,929 feet and on drilling deeper salt water was encountered. Last Thursday the well slopped over twice and sprayed oil to the crown block, after which a six-inch pipe was landed at 4,915 feet.

This location is on section 35, block 11, T. C. R. R. survey.

Maniac Attacks, Kills Policeman

MONTGOMERY, Ala., August 22.—(P)—One policeman was shot to death and another was wounded, in what appeared to be an attack by a maniac, as they patrolled down their town beats today.

The attack occurred as officers Rex Wright, 38, and William Smith, 48, emerged from their automobile. Wright was killed instantly, a bullet piercing his chest, after he had been felled by a blow on the head from a heavy instrument.

Joseph Choate, 26, was arrested at the scene after calmly informing officers that "he did it all."

17 Days 'til RAYBURN REVIVAL

Windshield stickers, printed in red letters, bearing the words "Rayburn Is Different" have been printed by the publicity committee of the Rayburn Evangelistic Campaign.

These stickers are in the office of The Reporter-Telegram, and will be given to all who are interested in arousing interest in the approaching revival, to be put on the windshields of cars.

"Rayburn Is Different" is a good slogan from every angle, having been used successfully in various places where Rayburn revivals have been held. It arouses curiosity on the part of those who are not familiar with the plans for the meeting; keeps up the interest of those who do know about it; and impresses upon the public the fact that Rayburn is really different, and that a powerful revival is soon to be held.

Call and get your windshield stickers.

Makes Record

AMELIA EARHART Miss Amelia Earhart of New York, established what aviators believe a new record, when she flew here from El Paso today in two hours and twenty-eight minutes.

WOMEN FLIERS AT ROTARY LUNCHEON AS GUESTS TODAY

An honor which will fall to probably no other Rotary Club was enjoyed at noon today by the Midland Rotarians, that of being host to fliers in the national women's air derby. Fliers who reached town in time to attend the meeting were Ruth Nichols, Amelia Earhart, Phoebe Omlie, Gladys O'Donnell, Ruth Elder, Vera Walker, Thea Rasche, Neva Paris, Mrs. Keith Miller, Louise Thaden, Mary Von Mack, May Hazlip.

The nationally important fliers were introduced to the Rotary Club by Paul T. Vickers, who in his speech referred to Midland's air-mindedness, its unique airport, and to the airport which is the only issued by a city. He told visiting fliers they were welcome to the nth degree.

Short speeches were made by Miss Ruth Nichols and Miss Ruth Elder, prior to their departure for the airport. Miss Nichols said that she regards Midland, on her various trips here, as the gateway to the "land of her dreams," the west. Miss Elder expressed the appreciation of all the fliers for the hospitality of the Rotary Club.

Fred Wemple, Rotarian who has been absent for the past few months, was welcomed back to the club. Visitors included Herb Wolcott, Rotarian of El Paso, Vernon Floyd of Navasota, Walter P. Jennings of Abilene, Mr. Thomas of the Curtis airplane factory. Misses Lindsey, Tanner and Shaeffer, and Mrs. Russell, of Midland; and Mrs. Marshall Brown and Miss Betty Davidson who were on the program.

These two popular entertainers sang popular songs, Mrs. Brown at the piano.

A. C. Caswell, manager of Hotel Scharbauer, was elected a member of the Rotary Club today. Pasteurized milk and ice cream molded in the shape of a Rotary wheel were served as special favors of T. W. Long, manager of the Snowwhite Creameries.

DALLAS, Aug. 22.—(UP)—Home brew was blamed by a mother for the actions of her booze crazed husband who last night beat her with his fists and a broom, then lacerated the legs and back of his 19-months old baby with an ice pick. Police found 75 bottles of beer in his house. The husband, C. C. Glass, was not found. Doctors say that the mother and baby will recover.

Derby Fliers Taking Off from Santa Monica

This is how the planes in the National Women's Air Derby looked as they took off from Santa Monica, California, en route to Cleveland, Ohio. Of the 20 planes taking off originally, there were 14 still in the race as they took off from the Midland Airport shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Miss Bobbie Trout, shown at the bottom of the picture is down in California on account of motor trouble. She is still expected to come through here, although not competing in the race.

RACER WHO DAMAGES PLANE AT PECOS TODAY, SAYS SHE LOVES TO FLY

EDITOR'S NOTE: A series of stories will be run in The Reporter-Telegram, quoting famous fliers in the derby race as the give their reasons for flying. The girls, all of whom settled their ship to Sloan Field at noon today, were glad to talk and had no hesitancy about answering any question asked them. The first story is given by Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, of Long Beach, Calif., who was in second place in elapsed time when the fliers reached El Paso for a night stop. Incidentally, Mrs. O'Donnell overshot the Pecos field en route here this morning and slightly damaged her lower wing.

GLADYS O'DONNELL

Over in Long Beach, there is a woman, young, pretty, fairly bubbling with the joy of living. She is Gladys O'Donnell, known far and near as an exemplary "safe and sane" pilot. Her story is more like a bit of fiction than an actuality in every day life.

"Why do you fly?" "My goodness, what a question!" said Mrs. O'Donnell, for therein is the story. She is married and has been for several years; in fact, she ran away from high school to become Mrs. O'Donnell and after arranging that little affair, she returned to her high school, graduated with honor, and since then has both hated and loved aviation.

"My reasons for flying cannot be told in a few words," announced Mrs. O'Donnell. "When I was married in 1922, my young husband was an automobile salesman. Then he became interested in aviation and soon he learned to fly. I objected strenuously, but he always argued that flying was the coming mode of transportation, that airplanes in average conditions and with average experienced pilots were far safer than automobiles.

"I could never agree with him about flying although I made several flights to please him. It was this way until Lindbergh flew to Paris, and five minutes after I had heard over the radio that Lindy had landed in France, I asked my husband to teach me to fly.

"Greatest Reason in the World" "In half an hour, I was up in the air. An hour later, I was handling the control stick under his direction. A month later, I soloed, and now I am the happiest woman in the world," she declared with emphasis.

Another story was clearly indicated. Before the exceedingly attractive young woman had opportunity to think of something else, she was asked to explain just what she meant by her allusion to happiness. "I am my husband's partner in (Continued on Page 4)

Midland is 95 per cent covered by The Reporter-Telegram, a recent survey shows.

AMELIA EARHART GAINS BY FAST FLIGHT FROM EL PASO; 3 SHIPS DOWN

Phoebe Omlie, Gladys O'Donnell and Miss Earhart in Merry Race for Honor; Ruth Nichols First Twice

Fourteen women pilots, entrants in the first aerial cross-country derby for women, took off at Sloan Field at one-minute intervals, beginning at 2:11 this afternoon, after a series of landings, the first of which was 10:44. The pilots had arrived in Midland in the order given the planes which took off at El Paso this morning at 6 did not reach Midland. "Poncho" Barnes having to turn back to El Paso because of motor trouble, and, subsequently, after reaching Pecos, smashing three wings when her plane struck the abutting rear of a parked automobile on the field. Blanche Noyes, whose ship caught fire when taking off for Midland through the carelessness of a spectator who dropped a cigarette butt in the young flier's baggage compartment, was expected in shortly after three o'clock, the damage having been repaired. Edith Fultz, who had to land en route here from El Paso, was expected at any minute at Pecos. The planes will make a night stop in Fort Worth after a refueling landing at Abilene.

EASY TO INTERVIEW

West Texans, especially the "old timers", have long been hard to interview, largely because they have held traditional characteristics of not desiring to seek publicity.

GETTING OUTDOORS

One of the most promising signs for a more healthy nation in the future is the great spread of the fad of spending more time outdoors.

The automobile, of course, has done much along this line. Before motor cars began to jam the highways, millions of children in the cities failed to get the amount of real country fresh air and sunshine that they should have.

But now with the ownership of automobiles so widely distributed, the number of families who cannot get their children away for brief periods at least from the comparatively impure air of the cities has greatly decreased.

More people are spending vacations at outdoor camps than ever before. Golf courses, swimming pools, tennis courts and other playgrounds are crowded. The army of "tin can" tourists is increasing from year to year.

Nature provided a wonderful land for us to live in, but many of us have been too long in discovering that fact.

Reporter-Telegram Blanks

Orphan Angel, who wants to see the publicity about pajama wearing stopped, writes another letter to the editor, in which he refers to "airing the pajamas" every day in the paper.

If he wants to see the publicity stopped, he is getting in some good work toward keeping the publicity going, writing the editor a second letter on it.

Pajamas were not made for street wear, and it is hoped that this publicity will encourage some man to wear 'em so that this argument will be settled automatically.

Headline in Star-Telegram today, "Druggists Pick Snyder Man at Session." Maybe he had been tarred and feathered prior to that time.

An Indiana woman says it peeves her for a house to house salesman to put his foot in the door so she can't close it until he finishes his sales talk. Any time a salesman pulls that on us, he is going to be a good customer for some peddler's foot-ease.

How aviation is affecting agriculture is described by a Kansas editor who says that crop prices are going to be better because the large number of landing fields is reducing farming acreage.

Ambiguity cropped out in a Reporter-Telegram headline yesterday, saying "Marriage Law Has Reducing Effect." Can this be construed to mean that engaged couples pine away waiting for the three day limit to be up, or that marriage itself, with the drudgery of housework, brings on lightning in weight?

The news item yesterday from Austin, telling of the insurance collector who was beaten over the head with a hammer, should be a lesson to bill collectors. The item said that a man was held, but no charges had been filed. It's likely that officers are looking in the statutes to see if there is an open season on collectors.

AIRING THE PAJAMAS
Dear Ed:
You can hardly imagine the consternation that was in evidence when I got home last night. Little Orphie jumped on the running board of my flivver with a copy of The Reporter-Telegram in his hand and was muttering something that I didn't catch immediately.

I finally got the kid to control himself and asked what was ailing him.

He said, "Daddy, Old Ed has surely slipped one by you. He got you all told on that pajama business you wrote him about."

Ed, you don't know how chagrined I was to hear my own kid say that, and then to read your answer to my earnest letter asking your cooperation in putting a quietus on the pajama question insofar as the newspapers are concerned.

You have openly declared that you will air out pajamas in your column daily. That's a whole lot of air, Ed, and I'm afraid your old age will go against you in the long run. But have your way about it.

If you wish to see people running around with pajamas on for street wear, just keep on writing about it and before long you'll see your wish come true.

Sarcastically yours, Orphan Angel.

STRUTTING IN PAJAMAS

TEXARKANA, Tex., Aug. 22.—(P)—Pajamas for street wear may create a riot in some towns, but in Texarkana they would be just some more pedestrians. On certain streets there are those who have strolled year in and year out, bedecked in nothing more than the modern substitute for the nightgown.

From one end of the street to the other, they strut their stuff, creating no more sensation than a man in overalls. They are convalescents of a railroad hospital and they believe in fresh air.

TYPICAL RACIAL REPLY

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 22.—(P)—Because a Mexican was walking through Market Plaza and dragging a long string with a loop in it, Detective Bill Carver now has a valuable bird dog at his home for which he is trying to find the owner.

When Detective Carver first saw the dog he was fastened to the string held by the Mexican. Carver's suspicions were aroused, and he asked the Mexican what he was doing with such a fine dog.

"I don't know," the Mexican replied. "I never see him before. He just put his head through my string as I was walking through the park."

The Mexican was relieved of his follower, and now the detective is trying to locate the owner.

Texas leads all the states in variety of bird life with nearly 600 different species.

Cracking Process To Be Demonstrated

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 22.—From T. N. T., the explosive which leveled villages in the World War, to carbon tetrachloride, the liquid in fire extinguishers, and from the beautiful tints of modern dyes to Bayers 505, the specific cure for sleeping sickness, runs the range of products derived from the gas used in our homes.

For the first time in its history, the International Petroleum Exposition will present a comprehensive display of all of the products of natural gas, October 5-12. This exhibit is being collected by the Bartlesville experiment station of the United States bureau of mines, with E. J. Dewees and E. L. Rawlins in charge.

How the cracking process, by which the composition of natural gas is scrambled, breaks down the carbon black and starts the chemist on the great field of coal tar products, will be explained in simple terms by attendants at the bureau's booth.

Some of the best-known products are benzene, toluene, naphtha, chloroform, carbon disulphide, acetone, carbon tetrachloride, ether, ethyl alcohol, methyl alcohol, ammonia, formaldehyde, benzol, ethylene glycol, iron carbonyl, methyl chloride, phosgene.

In medicine the products of natural gas, derived through the chlorination of the methane or other methods, have brought out the most powerful artillery against disease germs. Doctor Ehrlich was the first to use a coal tar "ring" to clamp in a particle of arsenic. After 606 experiments Ehrlich produced "salvarsan," which deals instant death to spirochaetae pallidum, the scourge of ages. Doctor Bayer, after 505 experiments, produced the aniline compound which alone has been successful against the disease transmitted by the tsetse fly.

Chloroform and ether are the older anaesthetics and are being superseded by better hydrocarbon products. Some of the newer anaesthetics are injected into the blood stream and while the patient feels no pain during the operation he is perfectly conscious and does not feel the slightest after effects.

Methyl chloride is used in modern refrigeration. When this gas expands suddenly it absorbs a great deal of heat from its surroundings and causes the temperature to drop sharply. Carbon disulphide and carbon tetrachloride as well as benzene and naphtha are highly valuable as solvents.

Toluene is converted into trinitrotoluene, commonly known as T. N. T., a terrific explosive. Phosgene is probably the most deadly gas known. Formaldehyde arrests decay and is a powerful disinfectant. Ethylene glycol is being used to cool airplane motors, and iron carbonyl is the substance which makes gasoline red and takes out the carbon knock.

Many of the products mentioned are the starting place for a new range of products. For instance, methyl chloride may be hydrolyzed to produce methyl alcohol and this last may be converted in other compounds.

On the aesthetic side, the coal tar industry not only makes the best dyes, but also fine perfumes. The poison gas, phosgene, and castor oil, produces concentrated essence of violets.

"Mother Knows Best" Picture Has Carefully Chosen Types

Those who have read the Edna Ferber story, "Mother Knows Best," visualized on the screen by Fox Films, will recall that a vaudeville duo, "Ben and Bessie," were very colorful characters in the development of the story.

In the picture, at the Ritz Theatre today, Joy Ashburn and Stuart Erwin portray the roles of the song and dance team. It is of interest to know that Joy Ashburn is a recent recruit from Broadway musicals, including "Scandals" and "Follies," while Erwin was featured in the original production of "The Show Off" during its original run on the big street.

In "Mother Knows Best" the leading roles are enacted by Madge Bellamy, Louise Dresser and Barry Norton. The scenario is by Marion Orth, who adapted "Street Angel" to the screen, and the direction by John Blystone.

COLTS TAKE DOUBLE-HEADER TO REGAIN TIE FOR LEADERSHIP

TEAM HAS SERIES WITH ABILENE; GAME TODAY

BIG SPRING, Aug. 22.—Midland evened matters with Big Spring here yesterday afternoon, taking both ends of a double header. The first contest was a one-sided Col affair going to that outfit 12 to 2. Mustangs squeezed out a 5 to 4 triumph in the second with free tickets issued by Miller and some hard breaks playing important roles.

pointed in the failure of the national women's aerial derby to reach Midland, a night control point, as planned. K. E. Ambrose, chairman of the aeronautics committee of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, Wednesday said Midland appreciated the care exercised by El Paso officials in keeping the fliers out of danger.

"Midland would have done the same in such case," he said, referring to the El Paso night stop Wednesday.

The mayor of El Paso wrote the following explanation of El Paso's attitude in keeping the race there over night, in answer to investigation made here of reports claiming weather was good in Sierra Blanca:

"I am reliably informed however that some of the fliers refused to go further in the high winds even before rain began to fall, and it is my judgment that they and all parties interested have acted in good faith.

R. E. Thomason, Mayor, El Paso.

Brookhart Calls Committee to Meet
WASHINGTON, August 22.—(AP)—Senator Brookhart, chairman, today issued a call to the senate patronage investigating committee to convene here Monday and hear evidence pertaining principally to Texas, where the committee conducted a hearing early in the summer. He declared to discuss the nature of the meeting.

Fred Strang, Fort Worth oil operator, will be given a hearing.

SPORT BRIEFS

We played two, won them both; Ballinger played one and won it, naturally. And the Colts are on even terms to the fraction with her rival. This can be accounted for when it is remembered that Midland was one game behind in the total number of games played, having missed a tilt with the Cowboy aggregation early in the season—a Sunday game being washed out by an early summer gusher.

Briggs tried the iron man stuff and did well. In the first game, pitching against Hellums and Dobbs, he let down Big Spring with two runs on five hits. The errors were made to help the Colts count 12 runs on 12 hits. No errors went into the black column.

In the second game, the boys did not get to Miller so well, collecting only five runs on seven hits. They made two fielding errors. Briggs started the game with that old indomitable spirit that had allowed only eight hits in two games pitched before. But he weakened and Gene Moore had to relieve him. And, folks, you know what it means to have Lefty in there.

Big Spring drummed out four runs on six hits in this last game. One error went up on the board against the Cowboys.

Big Spring hurt Midland bad in this series. The Colts went leaping around the Cowboys' bunkhouse, expecting to clean them as they have done everyone else save Ballinger this last half. But the Cowboys prefer to take their cleaning under the showers, and halved the series. Only a day or so before the visit of Midland aspirants, Ballinger had fallen by the same wayside, allowing Midland to take a game and a half steal toward marginal honors in the percentage column.

The Cowboys had eaten venison and found Bear steak not so bad. It must have been decided by the mentor of the Cow Prodders that Horse meat would go just as well. And the carcass of the Equine organization bears mute testimony that the lasso' bunch from the city 40 miles down the highway have good teeth.

Six more games—and what CAN'T happen in that time! Midland takes on the Abilene team three games here, beginning this afternoon, and then Coleman—winner of the first half. Both teams will try to put the crimp and the cockle burrs in the tails of the hard pressed Colts, as well as distemper, rickets, sway back and other assorted troubles unknown to Mr. Job, who had no baseball team on his hands when he was so sorely tried by Auld Hornie.

Who will win the first last half, survive the merciless strain of the last two series? It remains to be seen. Ballinger entertains the Goat and Sheep land chambermaids during the next three games and ends the last three as guests of the same dispirited team. The team should finish well. Can Midland do the same? Again it must be said—Quien sabe? Who knows?

Here's some more about the Midland manager's trouble in Big Spring. The account serves to show how sports writers over the league consider such affairs—how they pan the manager and, at the same time, take up for him by panning the crowd:

Old John King ran amuck during the Big Spring-Midland series which closed yesterday, or else some fans at Big Spring ran amuck. It is hard to say just which happened in view of the somewhat vague reports emanating from the Howard County metropolis.

At any rate John tried to eject a spectator in the opener of the series Monday, and in turn was charged by more spectators and a few home athletes. An unofficial statement has it that the act was repeated Tuesday with more violence and that one of the participants actually produced a cut-throat, but King seized the weapon before any harm could be done.

Despite the lowly position of the Cowboys in the league standings, the series with Midland brought out the customers and probably did something to replenish the coffers of the club's treasury, which long have been at low tide. J. D. James says that he passed the Big Spring ball orchard Tuesday, and that from all appearances, there was standing room only.

The crowds and the animosity were a good sign that all baseball interest has not been lost, although the bum's rush or the attempted bum's rush on John King under any provocation does not reflect a high grade of sportsmanship among the athletic-following element there. King, however, is nothing of a Sir Galahad on the field, in spite of being a good hearted and peace-loving gink while on the street and in civilian attire. Despite his reputation for pugilistic ability, it is some wonder that he is not "chosen" more often for his unethical tactics on the diamond.

Big Spring's series victory may prove responsible for Midland's failure to win the second half, and the fact that his team was going down probably got under John's skin to such an extent that his actions brought on the break in diplomatic relations and actual skirmishing.

Stanley Norman, Big Spring Herald sports writer, must be depended on to give the dope on the Big Spring series. Stan goes to great length to tell of sportsmanship of the rail birds, a tiff between one of the birds of doubtful plumage and Midland's manager, John King. But read for yourself:

IT'S TOO BAD
A regrettable incident occurred Monday at the opening game between Big Spring and Midland. It was regrettable from two standpoints. In the first place, it's too bad an enemy athlete can not come to Big Spring and be accorded the same courtesies we expect our representatives to receive in foreign territory.

AN INFESTATION
In the second place it's too bad John King is infested with the spirit to make such a helluva fuss over every decision or break that is not favorable to his cause. Not only is it too bad, but his constant beefing becomes more ludicrous than an 8-year-old kid's argument when those who know King realize it is done largely for show purposes.

TWO SIDED YARN
There are always two sides to every question. When John King marched out of his left field position and attempted to order a Big Spring fan out of the playing field he undoubtedly had some motive. The facts of the incident, so far as we are able to learn, are that King had been the object of continuous cussing from the rail birds perched on the free bleachers. Furthermore, the evidence seems to show, King had not only been the object of a scathing cussing, but was receiving or in the vicinity of reception, some well aimed rocks tossed in as periods to remarks.

THE OTHER SIDE
The other side of the story is that King was stepping entirely out of his rights as a ball player ordering anyone out of the park. If some one was foolhardy enough to take a stand immediately in front of King while patrolling the left pasture or playing in any other position, it is not his duty, right or vested privilege to issue an exit command. The proper procedure is through the umpire and through him alone. So far as we know the Midland skipper did not call Ballanfant's attention to his annoyances in left field. That's where King erred and if he doesn't know it, we will take this opportunity to say that his high and mighty position as manager of the league leaders does not include a commission to take pokes at Big Spring fans regardless of the offense.

CONTINUED STORY
To continue with the story, the unpaid daily customers along the left field wall have no business in that position. If the pleasure of witnessing the ball game isn't worth fifty cents, the best course to follow would be in the opposite direction from the ball park. It's downright disgusting to see half the daily crowd perched along the fence tops enjoying the same sights and enjoying the same privileges, except a comfortable seat, as those planking down the half dollar

STAY IN STANDS
A word to Big Spring fans about dashing into the playing field at the slightest provocation seems in order after yesterday's incident. If Umps Ballanfant had exercised his full authority, he could have forfeited the game to Midland without another play. If the boys and girls want to dash through the main entrance and exit to see a little bout outside the park, that is their business, but when an argument occurs on the field of play, remember the fans' place is in the grand stand.

A LUCKY BREAK
After the field had been cleared, Ballanfant was severely criticised for allowing King to continue in the game. The fact of the business is that Big Spring was lucky to be allowed to continue and eventually win the contest.

"MOB RULE"
The gang that charged King and his adversary in left field all had something to say and there is always someone ready to say something back. Before the disturbance was finally quieted a half dozen or more fights were on the verge of breaking. That's what always happens when the "mob" tries to take charge of matters.

UP AND AT 'EM
Most of the Big Spring players were content to occupy their places on the bench when the war broke out, but a few of the boys were up and at 'em. One of the first Cowboys to reach the scene was Grover Seitz. They say Seitz has cleaned out numerous Panhandle amusement places just for entertainment.

NONE OF THIS
Our only fear at this time is that the same spirit will hang over into the amateur sport season. If there is anything that will soon give a city a black eye and one that will last far longer than it takes to acquire the shiner, it is to mob an official, visitor or opposing player with an amateur team. Such things are taboo throughout the country and we feel sure that nothing similar will happen during the Steer football and basketball seasons. Let's hope not at least.

And here's what Prexy Anderson thinks of the comparative strength of Midland and Ballinger in a play off with Coleman:

It looks to us as if the winner of the second half championship in the West Texas league will win the play off also. Coleman, the first half winner, has been considerably weakened by sending Lee Stebbins and Steve Myers to the Fort Worth Panthers. Jack Holloway is not quite so dependable at the bat as Stebbins and can not be nearly so good a fielder. For Stebbins played his position better than any other first sacker in the circuit.

We would say that Coleman will have a better chance against Ballinger than against Midland. A Coleman-Ballinger series would resolve itself into a matter of pitching, and the Bobcat hurling corps is still good enough even without Myers. It lists Kowalk, Habert and Hinson, right handers, and Flop Harris, a southpaw. Against Midland however, the Bobcats would have to match extra xase hit for extra base hit, and against the all-slugging Col outfit, the three or four Coleman swatsmiths would be at a disadvantage. Cam Best, Joe Moore and Holloway will be the main offensive threats of Coleman in any series. Abilene fans will probably disagree, having seen Buddy Bryant drive out so many doubles and triples at Gardner Park. It so happens that Gardner Park is Bryant's favorite playground. He does not do so well elsewhere around the circuit.

Dawson, the shortstop, is a washout at the bat, and Third sacker Hal Crumpton is not much better. Buck Carpenter, second baseman is also hitting under .300 and so is Tex Moore, the catcher. Even Holloway was not included in the .300 circle in the last average released. Pitted against Coleman's three batsmen in the group of higher percentages would be Kallina, Boken, King, Lewis, Flowers, Cheeves, and Stagner. Col regulars; the leftiest figure in this group is .457, and the lowest is .322. Ballinger has Sealing, Bean, Dockery, Kirtrell, Fant and Lynch over the .300 mark, although Sealing with the best percentage, is batting only .341.

SCHOOL CENSUS FOR TEXAS SET AT 1,430,000

AUSTIN, August 22.—(UP)—Approximately 9,000 names have been stricken from the state scholastic census, reported to the state department of education, because of duplications found.

After deductions, the scholastic population is approximately 1,430,000, compared with 1,403,000 last year.

Under the state school aid apportionment ordered yesterday, each school district will receive $17.50 per capita for children shown in the scholastic census.

This means the distribution of more than $25,000,000.
