BREEDER-FEEDER MEET ADVERTISED FOR SEPTEMBER 7

Secretaries of chambers of commerce, county farm agents and farmers and ranchers keenly interested in the breeder-feeder movement are being invited to the conference to be held in Midland Sept. 7.

Now, this conference won't be like the ordinary ones held in the past, Wm. A. Wilson, Marfa, who is calling the meeting at Midland, says we will get down to brass tacks.

Bring a few—say three or four of your best farmers and three or four of your best ranchers (or as many as you wish for that matter if they are interested).

CHARGES CREAGER Washington, Aug. 26 (UP)—Charges that R. B. Creager, republican national committeeman and other republican leaders in Texas have received money improperly out of oil fund cases and receiverships were made before the Senate patronage investigating committee today by Fred Strang, Fort Worth oil promoter.

FOUR ARE DEAD 27 INJURED AS WEEK-END TOLL

Six persons who yielded to the lure of the highway are dead and 42 others injured in a series of automobile accidents in Texas over the week end.

Miss Katharine May White, 19, of Dallas, died after the car in which she was riding with six others overturned near Arlington.

Garland Pent, 39, was killed when his machine left the highway near Waco.

Floyd Beebe, 12, of Granger was killed when a truck in which she was riding, upset.

A collision at a street intersection in Dallas cost the life of W. R. Hide, 45, of Camey Spur.

Two were killed and 15 injured in and near Houston. S. P. Tindall, 35, died after an auto crash at Pasadena while A. H. Taccuard, 61, was fatally injured near Waelder.

OFFICIALS OF BROADWAY ASS'N. ARE GUESTS HERE

Importance of Midland as a night stop to officials of the Broadway of America Association is seen in the fact that H. L. Birney, the president, Mayor R. E. Thomason of El Paso, and County Judge E. B. McClintock of El Paso, accompanied by J. L. Metcalf of Fabens, registered here at noon today with the expectation of spending tonight at Hotel Scharbauer after officiating at the Iatan Flat celebration.

The dignitaries were guests at noon of Mayor Leon Goodman, and departed soon after for Big Spring. They will meet the Midland delegation tonight at Iatan Flat where the new stretch of concrete road is to be formally opened to the public.

INTEREST IN COMING REVIVAL MADE STRONGER BY SUNDAY NIGHT MEETING

Interest in the Rayburn evangelistic campaign, to begin here Sept. 8, was enhanced considerably by the meeting last night at the First Christian Church, participated in by members of various churches here.

It was announced by W. I. Pratt, general chairman of the plans for the meeting, that G. W. Otteson, advance man for the revival, will be in Midland Saturday night in time for the week's work preceding the meeting itself.

In a letter to Mr. Pratt, Mr. Otteson advises that the tabernacle should be started next Monday, and all volunteer "saw and hammer"

TWO STATES TRY TO SETTLE ROW OVER BOUNDARY

AUSTIN, Aug. 26—A vigorous protest against Texas ceding any territory to Oklahoma was voiced before the legislative boundary committee, meeting here today for a conference with the Oklahoma committee.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 26 (UP)—A legislative committee which was authorized to confer with Oklahoma officials on adjustment of the boundary line between Texas and Oklahoma met here today on call of Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, its chairman.

Today's session is the first the committee has held since a recent visit to Oklahoma. At that time a poll of the committee showed seven of its members against transfer of any Texas soil to Oklahoma.

The territory involved is now organized as a part of Oklahoma but running of a new survey lines at direction of the United States Supreme Court shows that it properly a part of Texas. It has been considered a part of Oklahoma, forms part of Oklahoma counties, and has been paying Oklahoma taxes.

Texas committeemen declare that they do not wish to disturb the right of the occupants to retain the property but they want it to become a part of Texas. Oklahoma has offered to buy the territorial rights, pointing out that great confusion must necessarily result through a change after the long treatment of the ground as a part of that state.

Midland Girls Back From Trip

A tale of how two girls, unassisted and unaccompanied, made a 7,510 mile trip of the east and southeast, was told by Misses Lenora and Myrtle Whitmore Friday night when they returned from an eight-week vacation.

The two young ladies are school instructors, Miss Lenora, a former society editor of a former Midland daily, teaching English at Alvin, and Miss Myrtle teaching at Midland's north ward school.

The two went into 13 states, visited nine state capitals, "none of which were on par with Texas' state house," every large city north of Florida, saw the principal educational places and features over the country visited, went through 45 colleges and universities, and saw many places of historical interest.

Among the colleges and universities visited were: Vanderbilt, Peabody College, University of Virginia, Washington and Lee, Virginia Military Institute (one of the oldest schools in the country), Williams and Mary (first school to be established in America, being founded in 1693), Annapolis Naval Academy, Georgia Tech, University of Georgia, University of Louisiana, Tulane, University of North Carolina, and John Hopkins.

At each school, the two girls talked with professors.

Some of the things to be remembered longest, however, were: Geo. Washington's and Robert E. Lee's names in Christ's Church at Alexandria; St. John's Church at Richmond, where Patrick Henry delivered his famous "Give me liberty or give me death" oration; the James-town settlement; the house at Yorktown where Cornwallis made his headquarters during the English king's fight for a lost cause, and the remembered cannon hole in two walls; Andrew Jackson's old home Nashville; James Madison's home at Monticello; and the famous gig in which he attended the second meeting of Continental Congress and drafted the Declaration of Independence.

Among other things to be remembered were: the Spirit of St. Louis, monoplane in which Lindbergh flew the Atlantic; many models of airplanes of the olden days, at the Smithsonian Institute; new model craft at Annapolis; Mammoth Cave; Endless Caverns in Virginia; the Natural Bridge, with its 175-foot arch; the shipyards at Newport News; the Federal Prison at Atlanta; six states from the top of Lookout Mountain; the highest peak of the Appalachians, Mount Mitchell; the ferry at Hamton Roads; the longest concrete bridge in the world; Lake Ponchartraine, and many other things.

The girls visited relatives near Lake Junaluska, close to Nashville. They carried no gun—"and were not excited, eve once, on the journey," they said.

ON LAST LEG OF WORLD GIRDLING JOURNEY; HAD FAST TRIP TO OCCIDENT

Midland Warned To Be On Lookout For Craft Which Is Expected To Return Via El Paso, Midland, Kansas City

"Watch out for the Graf Zeppelin over Midland," a crisp message set to Midland by the United Press advises. Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the big craft, has not definitely stated his route for the return to Lakehurst, but has set 11 o'clock tonight as the time for departure of its final leg on the round-the-world flight.

On suggestion of K. E. Ambrose, chairman of the aeronautics committee of the chamber of commerce, a wire message was addressed by the chamber of commerce today to Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of Graf Zeppelin, asking that liner to pass over Midland and thus escape the possible danger of flying over the northern route altitudes.

Eckener had made a statement which showed a possibility of leaving a dozen men of the Zep's crew in Los Angeles and flying back to Lakehurst via the Rocky Mountain route.

A letter addressed Eckener, and delivered to him in Los Angeles before the takeoff, said that by flying the southern route through Midland, the commander might have the advantage of low altitudes and his full crew at the same time.

Ned Watson Finds Shots Follow Song

When Ned Watson gave assembled cowboys a little exhibition of guitar playing one night after services of the Bloys' Revival near Ft. Stockton, he played the wrong selection, he admits.

Getting away to a good start on "The Battle of Shiloh," Ned suddenly ducked and the air was split by a quick succession of revolver shots. One puncher, evidently believing that a bit of drumming was necessary, was trying to help.

Is Bulldogging In Danger By New Law?

DALLAS, Texas, August 26 (UP)—Rigid enforcement of the state law against prize fighting has raised a question of what is to be done with bulldogging and roping contests that usually form a part of the fall fairs in Texas.

The same article that prohibits a prize fight prohibits a contest between a man and a bull or any other animal. This knocks out bulldogging, one of the great events of rodeos.

Roping of any animal is forbidden in another article of the same chapter of the Criminal Statutes. It provides a fine of from $100 to $500 for any person who participates in such a contest, either in competition with others or alone, as a trial of skill "for money or prize of any character or for any championship, for anything of value, or upon the result of which any money or anything of value is bet or wagered."

Just as the anti-prize fighting law came into the light at Dallas recently when an attempt was made to stage the Kober-Trammel fight, so the anti-rodeo law is likely to attract attention in Dallas, for reports have it that a noted rodeo manager has been signed by the State Fair of Texas for the coming fall.

More than a dozen people from Midland left early this afternoon for the celebration incident to opening the Iatan Flat road. The group left by automobiles, furnished through sponsorship of the chamber of commerce.

BULLETIN FLASH

(AP)—The tentative route of the Graf Zeppelin includes El Paso, Midland and Oklahoma City.

Associated Press warned the Reporter-Telegram by special wire this afternoon to give special coverage to that press service Tuesday in case the great German liner passes over Midland as a definite point in its itinerary from Los Angeles to Lakehurst.

GET NEWS HERE

Midland people may find out the approximate hour of the Graf Zeppelin's flight over this city Tuesday by consulting the bulletin board outside the Reporter-Telegram office.

The bulletins will give the tentative route of the big bag over this area, expected time of arrival, and all relevant details, including time of arrival at other cities enroute here.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26—Concluding one of the most spectacular flights of all times, the non-stop hop across the Pacific, the Graf Zeppelin was nestled to a mooring post at Mines Field here today. It landed at 5:36 this morning, four hours after it first appeared over Los Angeles.

The actual crossing from Tokyo was made in less than 75 hours, but the Graf was forced to wait until daylight to tie up. A crowd of 75,000 persons who remained at the airport all night cheered wildly as the nose of the great bag was made fast to the post.

EQUALITY ON THE ROAD

A vacation motor trip through the American countryside leads to a number of interesting conclusions—among them the thought that the rich man's advantage over the poor man is growing smaller every year.

Fifteen years ago, cross-country motoring was a recreation confined largely to the well-to-do. It took a fairly expensive car to stand up under the daily grind of long-distance driving. Traveling expenses were heavy. If the poor man tried such a trip he had to put up with many kinds of discomfort, strain his financial power to the limits and miss many of the spots to which the rich man's car carried him.

Today there are millions of tourists on the summer roads. Automobiles of every price and model, bearing the license tags of every state in the union, whirl by in a dizzy procession. There are old cars, new cars, cheap cars, expensive cars, fast cars, slow cars—all spinning over the roads, bearing their owners in pursuit of one of the finest forms of recreation available.

Among this army of autos, the cars of the poor man far outnumber the cars of the rich man. Rich man and poor man, in fact, are equals on the open road. The poor man can go anywhere the rich man can go, and can enjoy anything the rich man can enjoy.

The same good roads are available to each. The same scenery is open to each. The man who paid $800 for his car can go just as far and just as fast as the man whose car cost $5000. He can enjoy precisely the same sights and sensations. It is only in the unimportant trimmings of the trip that he is outclassed.

The rich man, for instance, rides in slightly greater comfort. He stops at expensive hotels, while the poor man pays a dollar for a room in a private home—or, perhaps, pitches his tent on some free camping ground. The rich man, perhaps, eats better food along the way and buys more souvenirs and keepsakes in the towns he visits. Otherwise the two fare exactly alike.

There is a new sort of equality to all of this. The fabled democracy of America is being made more real by it. No longer are the beauties of mountains, seashore and upland lakes reserved for the enjoyment of the well-to-do. Any man with a three-year-old flivver and a few spare dollars can have his fill of them.

This is the thing that the automobile makers have done for us. The huge, sprawling factories of Detroit, Flint, Pontiac and Toledo are playing a vital part in a new development in American life. They are opening for the average man the gateway to a freer, wider existence—and, in the doing of it, breaking down the old distinction between rich and poor.

Mrs. Willebrandt Gives Opinion on Prohibition

An article has been written by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt for the Women's Christian Temperance Union and was published in the Ladies' Home Journal in July. The writer is well-known to Midland people as she landed at Sloan Field several times recently since accepting a position as Washington counsel of large aviation interests. Her former position was Assistant Attorney General of the United States and has had the distinction of serving under three presidents in the highest office of any of her sex. When she retired of her own accord she received "the warmest praise given this administration to any public servant leaving office," said the Washington correspondent of the New York World.

On May 29th Mrs. Willebrandt became a member of the Dallas W. C. T. U. and in her article of this national organization she says:

"We do not argue with an electric current, nor does history tell us that we can successfully stop with protests the forward urge of a great idea. Underneath the politics of prohibition and the argument over sumptuary legislation still can be felt the ground swell of influence from Father Mathew. There can be felt, too, the influence of the little band of women who at about the same time, in Hillsboro, Ohio, at saloon after saloon knelt on the street in front of their doors to pray for higher power to help them abolish liquor licenses. Father Mathew stimulated Neal Dow to father the prohibition law of Maine, and the little band of women has grown into the mighty force for consecrated devotion to prohibition known as the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of the world.

"The ribaldry of the cocktail shaker, the exchange of home-brew recipes and the florid eagerness for false stimulation from what is almost always questionable liquor are rapidly fading from the picture of social hours in Washington," declares Mrs. Willebrandt. She continues:

"It is as much below a cultured woman's dignity to give justification, or explanation, of the legality or quality of liquors as it would be to make excuses about the freshness of the meat and vegetables which she serves. The aim of every hostess is to have her table appointments, flowers, home and food all a delightful background for the enjoyment of her guests may find in one another. Nothing but the companionship is an end in itself."

"It was Theodore Roosevelt who dared, in a social drinking period, to announce: 'There isn't a thought in a hoghead of alcohol. There isn't an idea in a whole brewery. Nothing of merit has ever been written or done under the inspiration of alcohol. It stupefies without invigorating. And its effect upon the brain is to stagnate thought.'

"It is growing stylish to be interesting, to have done something unusually well, observed life and public affairs, read understandingly, or at least to be interested in those who have."

"It has come to be more of a social achievement to establish the reputation for successful entertainment without cocktail, highball or liquors."

To some, they have furnished both conversation and excitement. Granted a reliable bootlegger, liquors of course make the evening's entertainment easy—but, as is true with most easy things which cost only money, the entertainment is also cheap and below the standards prevailing in the highest Washington circles.

"Not so many years ago it was uncommon in certain well-meaning Congressional circles to attend big dinners given in semiprivate suites at prominent hotels where liquor, claimed to have had some devious legal origin, was openly handled by the waiters and served to jesting guests. I doubt if there is a single hotel in Washington today where the management would permit such a thing to take place.

"Some officials—petty and high—used frequently to urge guests to partake of their liquors as an especial treat, brought—'Oh, yes, legally,' they would laughingly aver—from a recent trip abroad, by means of that convenient 'freedom of the port.' Since the pathetic results in loss of public esteem suffered by several officials who sought and misused the privilege, 'freedom of the port' is no longer a boasted pedigree for social liquors."

"An innate forthrightness has eliminated cocktails from certain distinguished households."

"We are, I say, a boisterous, childish people but, like the overindulged child, society loses appetite for the thing that causes woe."

"Drinking isn't worth it."

"It may have been clever and smart to serve a thing forbidden and costly if the dregs in the glass were not so repulsive and disillusioning."

From 1875 to 1918 only 10 women were executed for murder in America.

COLTS OUT PLAYED BY COLEMAN, BUT RETAIN LEAD OVER BEARS

BALLINGER LOSES TO SHEEP VALETS BY TOP HEAVY SCORE; STILL HAVE CHANCE TO TIE LEAD

The hard slugging aggregation from Midland was fame before the slants of Flop Harris Sunday, and the fans who went over to the city of the first half champs had to lol in the shade of a 11-2 Coleman decision. The Coleman pitcher let Midland hit only six times, and these only at scattered intervals.

Briggs, Blake and King could do little with Coleman batsmen, giving up 16 hits. The game was featured by an absence of home runs, however. Holloway was the hitting star, collecting four hits out of that number of times to toe the plate.

Coleman played different brand of baseball from that which has characterized the team during the past few days. The team played for the breaks and got them.

Midland retained its 2 game margin over Ballinger, however, the Bears losing to the Sheep Herders, 12-6, when Eubanks got stingy with hits and his mates, headed by Wiley, pounded Borgman and Parker's offerings all over the lot. Ballinger by winning two while Midland drops two can tie Midland's average and force an extra play off.

Midland is paying for her ball club, and expects to get entertainment from watching it play. If the team is colorful like that of Ballinger, the team will make expenses and even get into the business column of the ledger. If not, it will eventually slump into the red. Ballinger, the only team in the league with the real, honest-to-goodness pep and pepper and talking spirit, is the only team to make any money to speak of this year. And that's that.

Midland is for its ball team, but Midland wants to see some animation out there. Very few fans are in attendance as it is; have been attending in very light numbers only in the Ballinger series. Why did they get out in such numbers to see that series? It's the sports writer's opinion that they went to see the peppy Ballinger team just about as much as our own. And that kind of decision is had for the Colts. Why not make the fans come out to see the Colts?

If it takes it, why not have a bench manager who will MAKE his team talk it up? It might be better.

Midland waited until the seventh inning to do any notable work Friday, even after Flowers had hit a home run in the first inning in a 4 run lead. There were some bad muffs, including a prize one by Manager King. Several notable boots were made on the infield. The stands were amazed at the playing, not especially at the score—for all teams must lose—but at the absolute lack of feeling that was being put into play.

The sports scribe is not trying to undermine a good team; in fact, he has absolutely given much space to team play when he didn't have the time to devote to it, having other duties connected with the city desk besides sports. But he is one of the public and today is reflecting the views of the public. He wants to see the team go forward to the championship of the league, and knows that it can do so. But he likewise knows that listless playing has done more to lose games than general inability. And he will continue to score the team so long as this play continues, criticism notwithstanding.

Now this is off the proverbial chest, and let's get more constructive.

Friday's changing up of the percentage column in team standing went like this: Midland disproved the theory advanced lately here that the eighth rather than the seventh is their lucky inning, and scored six runs in the seventh frame to edge out the comfortable lead of Abilene to win, 10-9. Big Spring got Lybrand in the same inning of the Ballinger game, scored three runs, tied it up in the eighth and, in the ninth, scored four when A. Carter parked one with the bases reeling full. Coleman lost, 7-3, when Hinson was touched at all periods of the game. The Angels went into proximate distance of Abilene in fourth place through the win.

Suppose we do some comparisons on the Friday games. Abilene batsmen toed the plate 42 times for twelve hits and nine runs; Midland 41 times for 17 hits and 10 runs; Big Spring 42 times for 15 hits and 8 runs; Ballinger 38 times for 8 hits and 4 runs; San Angelo 36 times for 11 hits and 7 runs; Coleman 35 times for 9 hits and 3 runs.

Praxy Anderson is to be accredited with two rather interesting paragraphs in his "Morning Muse" Saturday morning. One is directed at the freedom of the press spelling Robert Boken's name in different ways; the other concerns Midland, Ballinger and Coleman in such a manner as to be interesting to all followers of the game. Here they are:

Dallas has bought a couple of shortstops, the sale having been announced day before yesterday.

PERSONALS

One of them is Wayne Winkle of the Waco Cubs. It is hard to tell just who the other is, although he is the awkward looking, but hard hitting and fair fielding young man who now covers the shortfield for the Midland Colts.

In the batting order that Manager King of the Colts gives out daily to the scribes, the Midland shortstop is Robert Boken. A special story from Midland to the news this week announced that Robert Baker had been said to Dallas. And yesterday a wire story from Dallas announced that Robert Bickers of Midland had been purchased by the Steers.

At any rate, Robert is due for a tryout with Dallas in the Texas league, and whatever his name is, once you have seen him, it won't be hard to identify him a second time.

The same act by the Coleman Bobcats in their final three game series with Midland would work to the double advantage of the Coleman management. By copping the series with the Colts, Coleman would almost knock Midland out of the playoff; and it isn't hard to guess that, for several reasons, Coleman prefers meeting Ballinger in the championship series. At the same time, a series victory over Midland would be certain to arouse Ballinger's respect for the Bobcats.

Our good friend Stanley Norman, sports writer of the Herald in Big Spring, ran an off-sized caricature during the Big Spring-Midland series, purporting to connote a jockey riding a colt. Aside from the jockey looking rather far-fetched as a cowboy, and the equine too much like Jehabod's Gunpowder to be a Colt, Stan had the temerity to describe the animal as "a Colt, Pony, Mustang or Mule"—or what have you? We wouldn't have thought it of you, Stan. THE ANIMAL IS, FOR ALL ITS CLUMSY APPEARANCE, THE LEADER OF THE WEST TEXAS LEAGUE.

Stan is a good scout. He is obliging at all times. It is often that ye Midland sports writer has to call over to Big Spring and ask for a lift on some particular story, and Stan always drops things to be of assistance. Naturally, this is appreciated—and to the degree that the Midland scribe feels safe in taking personal liberties with his contemporary. Stan got back at more than one scribe in this area recently when he said he was about to run short of copy since the other writers were picking up his stuff to reproduce in their papers. The copy in question concerned the bit of fisticuffs between John King, Midland manager, and a rail bird in Big Spring.

Lee Stebbins, first baseman from West Texas, whose hitting and fielding have been a big help to the Panthers lately, is coming to Coleman.

Stebbins will not be able to stick with the Fort Worth club the remainder of the season. He must be returned to Coleman to participate in the West Texas League play-off series. Coleman won the first half of that race.

Stebbins isn't any green hand at the business of baseball. He is 26 and has been around semipro and Class D loops for several years, long enough to learn what it's all about.

He may hurt Midland for his sport manifests itself not only in fielding and hitting, but in team leadership and talking it up.

Mr. George Cowden of Fort Worth arrived in Midland this morning and may be here the remainder of the week. She is returning from a week's visit in El Paso.

Guy Crosslin of Dallas is a business visitor to Midland today. He is a relative of O. W. Ligon and family, and has a large number of friends among former Baylor University students. He was formerly a star quarterback on Baylor's football team.

R. C. Hankins visited in Abilene Sunday having met his mother there from Ft. Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelo Adams have returned from Aomene where they spent several days visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hanley of Ballinger have returned to their home after visiting in the home of their daughter, Mrs. C. E. Trammell for several days.

Harry Goodman of Ft. Worth is a business visitor in Midland today.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sykes have returned to their home in Ballinger after visiting her sister Mrs. Forehand.

A. L. Basse, business man of San Antonio, was in Midland today transacting business.

John Smith spent the weekend visiting friends in Snyder.

H. B. Rouse, oil man of Dallas, is in Midland transacting business for a few days.

W. W. Larkins, clerk at the Scharbauer Hotel, in leaving tonight for Ft. Worth and Mansfield where he will visit relatives for a few days.

Mrs. Jax M. Cowden and daughters Halle Jean and Dorothy are expected in Midland tonight from their home in San Angelo. Misses Cowden will be guests of Miss Helen Hargret Uimer while here and honorers at social affairs.

Clyde Ingham of Tulsa, Oklahoma, is in Midland visiting his sisters Mesdames L. B. Pemberton and L. A. Arrington. He will also visit on his father's ranch near here.

Harry McCarty visited friends in Lamesa Saturday.

FORMER COLT STILL TIED FOR FIRST PLACE IN TEXAS LEAGUE HOMER PACE

DALLAS, Aug. 26.—(P)—The three-cornered battle for homerun honors in the Texas League remained at a standstill last week, with Sanguinet, former Colt of Waco, Bennett, Wichita Falls, and Easterling, Beaumont, each credited with 25 round-trippers.

A slump by Fred Bennett, Wichita Falls slugger, during the past week enabled Dallas' two Moores, Jimmy and Randolph, to occupy the spotlight in the batting scramble. Jimmy climbed into a tie with Bennett for the swat lead with an average of .375 through Thursday's games. His fellow pasture patrolman, Randolph, banged out his 204th hit of the season and went into third place with a .362 average. Eddie Moore, Fort Worth, with 190 safe hits, is Randy's closest rival in total knocks.

Other leading batters were: Lapan, Wichita Falls, .359; Blackerby, Waco, .358; Langford, Shreveport, .353; Rosenthal, Dallas, .346; Bomowitz, Fort Worth, .338; Hanson, Beaumont, .335; Starr, Shreveport, .335.

Eddie Moore still was far ahead of the field in triples with 25. He is just short of the league record of 26 set by Ike Boone in 1924. Bennett had rapped 11.

Larry Cox regained his lead in doubles by running his total to 44. Randy Moore had 43 and Si Rosenthal 42. Whelan of Shreveport had scored the most runs, 120, closely pursued by Eddie Moore, with 119. Bennett had 113 tallies.

Pepper Martin, Houston speedster, ran his stolen base total to Shreveport, his closest rival. Martin promises to pilfer 50 sacks this year.

Due principally to the clouting of Randy and Jimmy Moore, Dallas went into the lead in club batting, also in total hits and doubles. Shreveport led in runs and stolen bases.

George Payne's 23rd victory, scored over Houston Thursday, put the Spudder ace far ahead in games won, but Collard, Shreveport, and Rhem, Houston, both undefeated, top the pitching percentages. Andy Messenger, Wichita, had struck out 121 batsmen, and Owens, Shreveport, had toiled 278 innings.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Jung and Marvin Beauchamp of Ft. Worth arrived in Midland yesterday for a visit with their parents Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Beauchamp.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. France of Dallas spent the weekend with her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Rogers. Mrs. Rogers returned to Dallas with her daughter this morning.

Wilton Orson spent the weekend in Midland from the Orson Ranch near Stanton.

Mrs. David M. Ellis and her parents Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Willingham visited friends in Stanton Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Frye have returned from Dallas where they have been visiting their sons.

Mrs. T. D. Gilbert of Lamesa spent Sunday in Midland visiting friends.

Messdames Ernest Broughton and R. M. Gregory of Odessa were visitors in Midland Sunday afternoon.

"Hop-Hop" Game Spells Yo-Yo Doom

SPORT BRIEFS

It is hard to see, in view of the fact that the Colts move like figures in a dream or in a funeral cortege, how they win ball games. The Colts are winning games—not a doubt of it. But they're not proving to be the hell-bent-for-leather type of players that keep the grandstands roaring for them. It would be much easier for the team if they would talk it up and thus get the stands talking with them.

Friday's game was pathetic in some respects. True enough, Midland won, and the credit for the win should be accorded, but there were many disgusted fans in the stands when the seventh inning came up. "What are they doing out there now?" fans would cry. And—"Will they jerk another pitcher, now that another error has been made by players?"

Midland fans do not beef about losses—if the losses follow hard playing and a valiant attempt to convince the stands that the team is talking it up, putting in the old pep, and trying to take the breaks by making them. But the Colts have not been playing like that lately. If they had the tiniest fraction of pep shown by the Ballinger aggregation they could sweep the rest of the teams of the league aside as though they didn't exist. It's largely psychology that wins ball games, and Ballinger takes advantage of it. And that's the reason those boys with only a mediocre team made it hot for Midland during the entire second half.

Errors made in the outfield Friday resulted in dragging out pitchers and replacing them. That isn't baseball. Why not take out the erring man? And why not, for the love of all that is psychological, don't more than two or three men talk to the pitcher and encourage him.
