Baseball Fight to Be Carried to Commissioner Landis

OFFICIALS HERE STATE MIDLAND WAS SLIPPED A RAW DECISION BY PREXY

Thomas, Meek And Johnson In Arms Over Statements Made Through Press By Snodgrass And Leon Shields

A fight entirely eclipsing the one conducted by the Midland Baseball club as it edged its way step by step up the baseball ladder to supremacy in the West Texas League, is to be waged with the greatest officials of organized baseball by officials of the local club, it was announced by President Arch Thomas and Secretary M. M. Meek, and Arthur Johnson, local vice-president of the West Texas League.

Branding statements issued by President Snodgrass of the West Texas League incident to "Midland's defaulting" of the championship as "small and sympathetic" alignment with the Coleman club, winner of the first half of the season, the local officials are preparing an appeal to Baseball Commissioner Landis, to go through the medium of J. A. Farrell, secretary of organized baseball.

Associated Press reports in morning editions of state dailies provided the follow up reason for this morning's decision to enter the appeal at once, a decision arrived at formerly when Coleman's president, Shields, refused to toss a coin for deciding where the seventh game of the tied up series would be played. Local officials say that a "gentlemen's agreement" had already provided for this settling of the emergency, as is done in every department of organized sport.

The remarks given to the morning press over Texas relative to Midland's failure to do the right thing meant the seventh game are untrue, Meek and Thomas said to a reporter this morning. They referred to the following excerpt: "Mr. Arch Thomas, president of the Midland baseball club, approached me Sunday upon my arrival in Midland and asked to see Leon L. Shield, president of the Midland club, and see if he would agree to play the fifth game, scheduled at Coleman Tuesday, in Midland. He said that if Mr. Shield would agree to the change, he (Thomas) would agree to play the sixth and also the seventh games in Coleman, if necessary."

"I told Shield what Thomas wanted and sent him to see Thomas. Thomas to make the change, because the umpires announced during the progress of Sunday's game that the Tuesday game would be played in Midland instead of Coleman. That proved to me that Shield had agreed to Thomas' wishes."

No Agreement "Thomas and Shield could not come to an agreement Wednesday, so the Coleman club asked me for a ruling and I ruled that the game was to be played in Coleman. I based my ruling on the only agreement of which I had any knowledge. I told Manager King after the moot game to have his team at Coleman today, and so informed the officials of the Midland ball club by telephone Thursday morning."

Associated Press gave in a separate lead to the story this morning the following explanation of the status of the Midland-Coleman relationship: "The seventh and deciding game of the play-off series in the West Texas league was awarded by Umpire Carson to the Coleman team after the Midland club failed to show up at the Coleman baseball park Thursday."

"By a reported agreement between officials of the clubs, the sixth and seventh games were to be played in Coleman after officials of the Coleman club had consented to play the fifth game, scheduled for Coleman, in Midland last Tuesday."

Horn Tells Of The Swiftess Of World

Dr. Paul W. Horn, in a speech made before the Midland Rotary Club Thursday, gave an illustration to show the swiftness with which the world is moving.

He said that Art Goebel, on a recent visit to Lubbock, exhibited his famous plane, The Woolaroo, explaining that the ship is now two years old and is to be put in a museum, being old and out of date.

He also told of a statement he made in the presence of Goebel that he had never been up in a plane, and was immediately extended an invitation by Goebel to take a flight. He accepted on the weakness of a man should not let weakness interfere with keeping up with the age.

"The man who keeps in touch with the world today must move rapidly," he said in his speech. He said that everyone should have new experiences, and should do some things he does not enjoy.

CONVENTION HAS LARGE ATTENDANCE

Representatives Are Here From Number Of Churches

With approximately 100 active B. Y. P. U. workers present, the annual convention of Baptist Young Peoples' Union of the Big Spring Baptist Association opened here Thursday night, the services being held at the First Baptist Church.

Following the registration of visitors, devotional exercises and welcoming addresses, the group heard an eloquent and inspiring address by the Rev. Sam Morris, field secretary of Simmons University, whose subject was "a young man in his life work," using references to Christ's life to illustrate.

Special music, committee appointments and other details of the convention kept the group busy until shortly after 9 o'clock when a watermelon feast was served at the rear of the church, on the lawn.

On Friday morning, Rev. Morris again addressed the convention using the subject "consecration," illustrating with examples from the life of Daniel.

T. C. Gardner, state B. Y. P. U. director, led the various conferences of the convention, and delivered an address on "laboring together with God."

There were approximately 100 present at the Friday morning session, 75 of them being from out of town churches, including Big Spring, Coahoma, Stanton and others. Contests in memory work, and Bible drill, were conducted.

The program as outlined in a recent issue of The Reporter-Telegram was followed in detail. The convention continues throughout today, closing with an evening meeting at the church.

MIDLAND'S WORK IN RAIL MATTER PROVES SUCCESS

Midland's recent strenuous efforts as one of the intervenors in behalf of the Texas and New Mexico Railway, subsidiary of the Texas and Pacific, on building from Winkler County to Lovington, N. M., is believed to have been a strong factor in the recommendation of Examiner H. C. Davis of the Interstate Commerce Commission that the road's application be granted.

The decision gives to the T. and P. subsidiary the right to build into Lea County instead of allowing the Santa Fe lines to do so from Lubbock.

At the hearing held in Lubbock on April 1, Leon Goodman of Midland was a star witness. Midland presented 10 pleas of intervention prepared by the Chamber of Commerce secretary and by W. Edward Lee of Midland. This was a larger number of intervention pleas that was filed by any other intervenor and attracted state wide publicity for weeks.

Commenting on the decision of Examiner Davis, the Fort Worth Star Telegram today makes the following statement:

The recommendation of Examiner H. C. Davis of the Interstate Commerce Commission, that the application of the Texas and Pacific Railway to build a line from Cheyenne, N. M., to Lovington, N. M., be granted, is in line with an intervention filed by the Fort Worth Freight Bureau in support of the T. and P. application. Ed P. Byars, manager of the bureau, pointed out Thursday morning.

Examiner Davis' recommendation was announced Wednesday in Washington and if followed out will (Continued on Page 6)

WEST TEXAS DRY GOODS COMPANY LOSSES MORE THAN GRAND AND BAKERY

Officers Here Working On Theory That Big Ring Of Burglars Were Responsible; Abilene Robbed Last Night

More than $2,100 was this morning reported filched from Midland business establishments by undetermined yeggs last night and late yesterday. The West Texas Dry Goods company, heaviest loser, stated through its manager, A. P. Baker, that entrance effected through a skylight resulted in a loss of approximately $2,000 in costly merchandise and a small amount of money.

The Grand Theater reported to the sheriff's office that $11 had been taken yesterday from a cash drawer, and the T. Patterson Bakery had $78 taken from a table drawer under the establishment's cash register.

The burglar had attempted to get a larger amount of money at the Grand during the noon hour while Manager J. S. Bonner was at Rotary club lunch, evidence showed, but had been thwarted.

Mexican Suspected The $78 taken from the bakery had been placed there for deposit. The manager, T. Patterson, said that a Mexican had been in the place shortly before the money was taken. After buying fifteen cents worth of food, the Mexican departed, Patterson said. "I am sure that this is the man the sheriff wants," he said to a staff writer this morning.

The dry goods robbery was evidently perpetrated by one who either knew the stock of the store, or one who has a definite knowledge of the value of merchandise. It seems. Of all the goods selected, only the most valuable was disturbed, the long list of goods taken from this store were: 15 ladies coats and dresses, 10 new model suits, 10 hats, shoes, hose, underwear, purses, $300 in late fashion gloves and $15 in cash from a cash register.

JUDGE IT ON ITS MERITS

President Hoover's suggestion that the various states take over the 190,000,000 acres of public lands now held by the federal government is a proposition that needs serious consideration.

It is rather unfortunate that wets and dries, in many cases, are tying the thing up with prohibition. It has been suggested that this may be a "feeler"—a prelude to suggesting that the individual states take over, in the same way, the matter of prohibition enforcement.

Those who see it in this light will, of course, judge the public lands proposal by their prohibition sentiments. If they are wets, they will favor it; if they are dries, they will oppose it.

But the question is so important that it should be considered strictly on its own merits. It will be disastrous if a major policy like this should be decided on because of its supposed connection with an utterly unrelated issue.

INSPECT YOUR AUTO

The importance of having the family auto inspected frequently for mechanical defects is a thing most of us overlook. We take it for granted that things are safe enough—and, sometimes, discover that something is wrong only when it causes disaster.

The Baltimore Automobile Club and police recently stopped and inspected as many autos as they could lay their hands on. Of 193,354 cars inspected, the found more than 31,000 that needed brake adjustments in order to be perfectly safe. Eight thousand had unsuspected defects in the steering gear and nearly 40,000 needed adjustment of lights.

Those are small matters, perhaps—but the yare just the sort of thing that can cause "unavoidable" accidents. Having a mechanic check the operation of your car every so often is essential to safe driving.

MISSING GIRLIES OF FRANCE OFTEN FOUND AT BOTTOM OF SEINE RIVER; 4,000 A YEAR LOST SAYS SURETE GENERALE

By N. REYNOLDS PACKARD
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS, Sept. 5.—(UP)—What becomes of more than 4,000 French women who mysteriously disappear every year from their homes in France?

That is the question which members of the Surete Generale—the Scotland yard of France—are constantly seeking to answer. Sometimes there is no answer, but often it is to be found in the bottom of the Seine, among the decomposed bodies of a morgue, beneath the sod of a lonely forest or in the depth of a well.

Many of the girls, however, are not found dead but clues indicate that they have become victims of an international white-slave traffic which exploits pretty young girls. They are generally induced to leave France on glib promises of fabulous salaries as shop girls or mannequins in some South American country.

Efforts to locate these girls are generally made difficult owing to the fact that frequently they tell no one of their plans, just disappearing. Many of them do not live with their parents and there is no one to report their absence. Perhaps months afterwards some neighbor or acquaintance will become worried and inform the police of the disappearance.

To complicate the task of finding these some 4,000 women who disappear annually, is the fact that the list of missing is ever accumulating. Every year there are large numbers of those reported missing who are never found. They must be carried over to the next year and be kept for reference when some unknown body comes to light.

It is estimated that every year hundreds of bodies are fished from the rivers of France. The Seine probably carries in its currents the secrets of more crimes than any other estuary in the country.

Farmers working in their fields contribute largely to the finding of murdered women. Hunters in the forest also come across the remains of persons assassinated, perhaps years gone by.

The task of cataloguing the dead in the morgues of France is the most gruesome of all such work. Here the bodies of all such work, as possible on stone slabs, constantly washed with disinfectants while pyramids of coffins are kept nearby to bury such victims when they are identified or else given up as an wails himself. "The people had a mind to work." That tells the story; that is the great message that comes to us from the life of the ancient home.

Modern Zion is no different. Especially does the welfare of a democracy depend upon the popular mind to work and the co-operation of all in securing and maintaining the commonwealth. What well building in modern America? What existing walls are weak and in need of strengthening? Where can we find our appointed tasks, and give our service in the common need and responsibilities?

The world needs Nehemiahs; but it needs also the willing hands and the ready feet to answer at the trumpet's call.

eternal enigma. Although many of these mysterious disappearances are clarified and result in the arrest of the guilty, there always remain a large number unsolved. According to the published statement of a former chief of the Surete Generale there is a crime committed very day in large cities like Paris the author of which is never discovered. There is approximately one monk to every family in Siberia, where members of the clergy are numerous. It's hard to settle down after the vacation but sometimes harder to settle up. India is practically a soapless country.

Section 10: THAT in all matters pertaining to an appeal to the Board of Adjustment the persons aggrieved or dissatisfied may have the right to make such appeal, provided the same is made in the manner hereinabove stated, and in addition

Section 11: THAT wherever the term "person" is used in this ordinance the same shall mean any person or persons, association of persons or corporation or their agents, or any servant or employe of any such person or corporation.

Party in Honor Of Bush Elkin Who Leaves For School

Friends of Mr. Bush Elkin were guests at his home Thursday evening to bid him farewell before his departure for Baylor College in Chattanooga, Tenn., Sunday night. Hostesses for the evening were his mother, Mrs. F. F. Elkin and a sister Miss Jennie Elkin.

Dancing afforded a pleasant evening for the guests during which time the hostesses served punch. Climaxing the evening the guests were directed to the dining room where a huge birthday cake was cut. This was also in honor of Mr. Elkin, whose birthday is soon.

About twenty couples were guests at the Elkin home for this delightful affair.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

And now comes the startling information that it is grandmother and not the flapper who has made the beauty business the sixth industry in these United States.

The flappers, it seems, go in for suntan powders and the fads of the moment, but it is the older women who take everything on the beauty bill of fare from facials to pedicures.

All of which is quite as it should be, and shows that women are using the inside of their heads as well as doing right by the outside.

It is after 35 that a woman can no longer get by on sheer youth, as she can in her teens, when her figure is straight and she can put on any little ready-made dress and look adorable.

After 30, the question of upkeep is not merely a matter of vanity for a woman, but a matter of holding on—maybe holding her job—and keeping up appearances of being well groomed and smart when she is no longer pretty and youthful.

Hair, complexions, figures, and faces, respond to intelligent regular care, and the modern woman knows it. And most of them, who are wage-earners themselves and have their own money, would rather have this upkeep attended to by a specialist, at a regular time, than depend on themselves.

There is something very restful about a good facial massage, and a smart hair cut and a becoming finger wave give any middle-aged woman a better outlook on life. The psychology of always being well groomed and carefully dressed is invaluable. Many a good opportunity has been lost because of woman's lack of confidence, and nothing gives her the confidence that well-manicured finger nails, a becoming hair cut and a French hat impart.

If grandmothers are averaging $50 a year on cosmetics and on beauty culture, they are making a good investment. And that is probably why you see so few of them sitting around the fireside.

Cooking Supper Out of Doors

BY SISTER MARY

As a chill comes in the air after sunset, what is more fun than cooking supper outdoors?

A big roaring fire makes light and heat if the dark catches one and food cooked in this same fire tastes much better than the same food cooked at home.

If possible, the fire should be built an hour or two before time to get supper, for a huge bed of coals is necessary to roast corn, apples or potatoes successfully.

The coffee should be made at home and taken in thermos bottles, for it's well nigh impossible for the amateur camper to make really good coffee over a camp fire.

To roast corn, string the ears, unhusked, on a strong wire. Thread the wire through the heavy end of the corn. Pull this chain of corn into a circle, fastening the ends of the wire securely together. By this time the fire must be burnt down to a great bed of coals. Open the coals and in the very center bury the corn. Heap the coals back over it and let roast half an hour. The potatoes are buried around the edge in the hot ashes.

After the corn is buried, the heavier limbs that have not burned out are piled back over the fire and these keep the coals alive and furnish heat to roast the wieners.

Long sticks of green wood are sharpened into smooth points for impromptu forks on which to roast the wieners. The wieners are slipped long fashion over the point and are held over the coals until the skin bursts. Turn frequently to roast evenly on all sides. Put between long buttered rolls to serve.

Then—the Second Course

By the time the first course of wieners and rolls is finished, the second course of corn and potatoes will be ready. Pull the potatoes from the ashes. The jackets may be covered with ashes but the inside is delicious with plenty of butter, salt and pepper. Either sweet or Irish potatoes are good.

Then comes the corn. A long handled rake is perhaps out of the question, but long forked sticks can be found in the woods and answer the purpose. Rake the coals away and pull corn from fire. Remove from wire and serve in the husks with butter. Each ear of corn is put on a flexible paper plate which acts as a shield and prevents many a grease spot on coat or frock.

BOOTLEG KING HOME CALLS FOR A PALATIAL SET IN "PROTECTION"

What probably is one of the most elaborate "interior" sets ever built for a motion picture will be seen in Fox Films' production of the newspaper drama, "Protection," which is Saturday's attraction at the Ritz Theatre.

It measures 150 feet in depth, taking in the hallway, reception room, library, private bar and a sumptuous solarium in one shot of the camera. The set is constructed so that it can be photographed from neither end and from any desired angle.

"Big Jim" Dunning, king of racketeers, played by Ben Hewlett, stages an elaborate party for the mayor, amidst these luxurious surroundings—the interior of his newly acquired mansion on exclusive Pine Island.

Silken apels, gorgeously gowned women, a champagne orgy and free distribution of thousands of dollars worth of gifts—give some idea how affluent bootleg kings conduct themselves socially.

"ORGATONE WAS JUST WHAT I NEED- ED," SHE SAYS

"I Got to Where I Couldn't Eat Anything and Wasn't Able to Rest At Night, But Am Relieved Now," Says Brownwood Woman

Mrs. L. A. Bradenburg of 505 Melwood Street, Brownwood, Texas, in her statement regarding the benefits received from Orgatone, a few days ago, she said:

"I have just taken one bottle of Orgatone and am greatly pleased with the results in my case. I just haven't felt like myself for seven years. I scarcely had no life or energy about me, and my appetite was very poor and suffered terribly from indigestion. I just got to where, I couldn't eat anything without suffering and having intense pains in my stomach afterward. Gas would form on my stomach and I felt depressed and down hearted and just had to force myself to do my work. I had nervous sick headaches, and at times I couldn't get any sleep at night. I felt that my condition was getting worse and needed something to build me up.

"Orgatone was just what I needed to bring me out of it. It seemed to go right to the spot, and I could tell a change in my condition right after the first few doses. I'm not nervous like I was and, plenty of sound, refreshing sleep every night. I eat anything I want now, and am not bothered with the severe pains in my abdomen anymore. I seldom have a headache, and feel like doing something, and have more vim and energy. Orgatone is a good medicine and I am glad to recommend it because it has given me relief."

Genuine Orgatone may be bought at Midland, at the Midland Drug Company.—Adv.

NOW GLAD SHE HEEDED ADVICE OF HER FRIENDS

"I am so happy over the wonderful benefits received from Sargon that I will always be grateful to my friends and relatives who insisted that I take it.

"For many years I suffered with stomach trouble. Everything I ate caused great distress. I even thought I had heart trouble. Bilio-sness caused such dizzy spells at times I thought I was going blind. I had awful pains in my back, legs and arms and was so nervous I hardly ever got good sound sleep. I was always taking some strong laxative for constipation, but never got any real relief.

"Finally I started Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills and my relief was almost immediate. My appetite is now splendid. I never suffer with indigestion and those terrible pains have gone. The pills regulated me perfectly and relieved my bilio-sness and constipation.

"I could talk all day and never praise Sargon half enough."—Mrs. Julia H. Mata, 2101 Commerce Street, San Antonio.—Adv.

Romance Of Old Days Oil Game Reviewed

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 6.—Back yonder in the old days when a "break-out gun" meant something to quell riots with and "rundown tanks" meant booze-saturated derelicts, the oil game was red meat, meant only for hardy, adventurous spirits with abounding optimism and a gargantuan sense of humor.

Or, again: "Remember when T. B. pawned everything he had to keep the drillers at work. When it looked like the end had come T. B. went to the bankers and found that their experience was exhausted. Figuratively, he was thrown out, to come upon some of his men bringing him the news that his well had blown in and was throwing oil over the prairie."

this into the pioneers' story of their life work. This year's exposition is held Oct. 5-12. When the old timers meet they will elect new officers and members and name a Grand Old Man of the Oil Industry for 1929-1930. The officers of the association are, Joseph H. ("Uncle Joe") Evans, president; James Amm, New York capitalist, vice-president; Omer K. Benedict, vice-president of the First National bank, secretary, and Arch W. Leonard, vice-president of the Devonian Oil Co., treasurer.

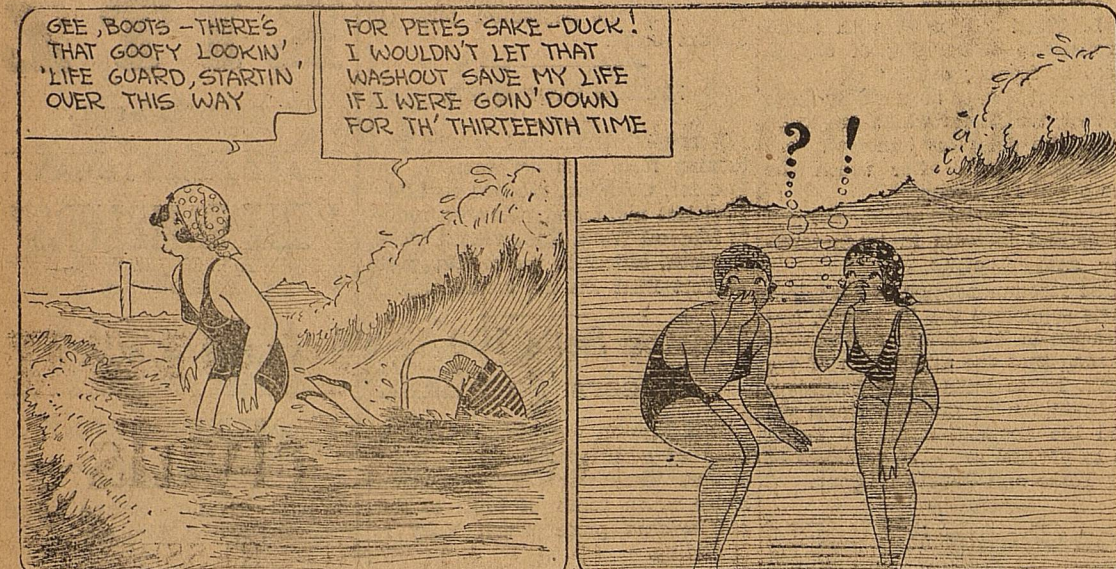

bringing to light old timers who have faded from the scene. Two large gold medals upon which are stamped the likeness of the Drake derrick, have been prepared for the grand old man of the oil industry of the world, and for Tulsa's most popular pioneer, Joseph H. Evans wears the Tulsa award for last year's exposition. Bronze medals of the same type will be distributed to the new members, according to custom. Barney E. Horrigan, independent oil refiner, is chairman of the committee in charge of the old timer activities.

rick, a reminder of the rig which was first to bring in an oil well, in 1859, in the United States, is being fitted up as a club room for the pioneers and a number of valuable old photographs and prints have been brought to Tulsa to be hung in this club room. Everyone who knows an old timer of the oil and gas industry who is not a member of the exposition's association, is urged to send in a ballot with information about the prospective member to Barney E. Horrigan, chairman of the old timers' committee, international petroleum exposition, Tulsa, Okla.

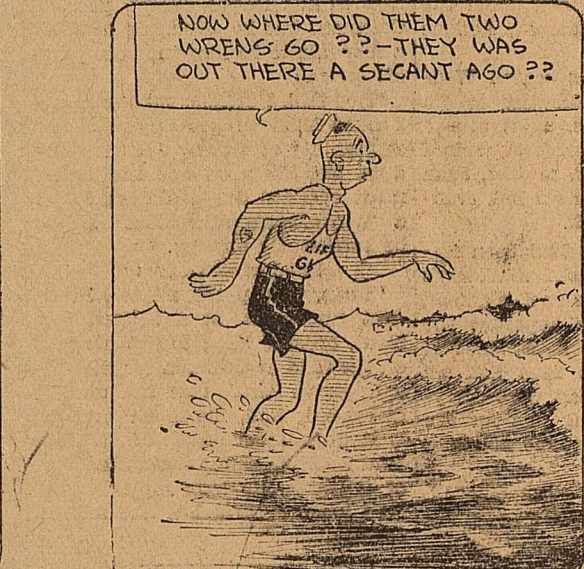

Five hundred dollars was paid in New York recently for a strip of land two-thirds of an inch wide. It extends north and south 60 feet parallel to Park avenue, and from there easterly for 80 feet 2 inches.

HIGH SCHOOL GRIDDEERS START; TEAMS UNKNOWN QUANTITIES

PURPLE AND GOLD DOGS OF MIDLAND DO NOT LOOM AS CHAMPIONSHIP THREATS; NEW COACH

Prospects for a high school football team in Midland this year do not assume the magnified importance calculated to cause grid candidates of other schools of the county to toss at night with bad dreams of broken noses, knocked down hips, disjointed shoulders, smell of liniment or visions of plaster paris.

Coach Barry appears to have little that might qualify the word material. A few members of the non-qualifying squad of last year, three or four men who have played some here in the past, and a few indeterminates—that is the best that can be said of the club which will trot out in uniform Monday afternoon to begin assembling hot sun, September dust and grass burrs, skull practice, sore muscles, bumped heads and those other little matters that go to make up the hot pourri of football.

New Coach In Charge

Coach Barry has not met all his charges yet. His idea of individual strength of the candidates has been gathered from former Coach D. D. Shifflett, who has resigned his post of athletic supervision the better to prosecute work attached to the office of principal of the high school. The men, however, are only slightly promising, however willing they are. Weak last year, the team has not profited from loss through graduation, nor gained perceptibly from annexing of new material. As an aggregation, the eleven is startlingly tinted with that ultramarine tint of green apparent so often in young prospects.

NO CAPTAIN ELECTED

This year's grid captain has not been named. Dennis Fleenor, last year's captain and fullback, is out of the lineup. The weight of carrying on must rest on less experienced, and considerably less broad, shoulders. While no official dope has come out of the ranks of moleskin candidates, it would be the guess of this scribe that Cy Foster will captain the eleven. He appears to be about the right temperament for the job, and is a clean-cut, hardworking and well-liked young fellow. And a pretty fair player, at that.

Odessa and Pecos Watched

From unofficial reports, Odessa and Pecos stand out as having the nearest conception of what opposition would look like, although Odessa lost most of her men by graduation. Pecos, always an unknown quantity, is in the race—that much is certain. Last season, Pecos sprung a surprise on the Odessa crew, district winners, by knocking them on the place where their helmets should have been perched, 2-0. A big score in view of the fact that the boys from the other bank of the river had been termed as set ups with grooves leading to each individual player in the football alley.

Midland took instant fright at the threat. Odessa was going like a house afire, and to get a royal dry cleaning at the hands, or educated boot of a black, of the little brown men from the West was too much for the cleated warriors shaking under the purple and gold standards of Midland.

Pecos Unknown Quantity

But Pecos had played over its figurative head and Odessa got on the little boys at a latter session with a flurry that reminded one of the reception of a cripple at a chiropractor's conference.

So far, so good. But Midland's gridiers still shook in their oversize shoes. They had not had their baptism in the pinwheels and stars that was to come with the Pecos game. When it did come, the boys climbed all over the lads west of the Pecos, and paved the way for a second place percentage in the district.

Odessa is not expected to step in anyone's bowed-up anatomies this season. And Stanton may have nothing but the name of the club that held the Midland boys to a scoreless tie last year.

Rests With Coach

It's a patent theory that is more or less a working principle, however, that says teams of the class boasted in this district may take a turn at upsetting the proverbial dope bucket. And Coach Barry, who knows his football, is a believer in taking advantage of every break. Whether he will find the crack in the sedate surface of the opposition's experience, size, man power, speed or general what-not remains to be seen. He has, in the past, built up fighting machines around narrow shoulders, slender legs, mid-get-sized boys who were conceded little at the beginning of the season. It is not inconceivable that he will do the same for Midland.

Good Men Gone

Of last year's squad, few men return to the early season callisthenics. Bill Morgan, side-stepping, bull-necked, wide-striding safety man and back is lost to an indeterminate school (judging from Bill's own lack of certainty in naming it). Red Hill, who could kick a football as far as Ed Kallina could hit a screeching fence ball, and plough a line as though he had scarifiers fitted over his ears, has gone to don the moleskin at McMurry. Troy McGee, a man who could have learned to utilize his speed, has joined the Colorado camp.

Dennis Fleenor, who knew the

What's A Cigar In The Ear? Fan Asks

Harvey Sloan, oil man, and manager of Sloan Field, Midland Municipal Airport, didn't mind a small thing like a hot cigar touched to his shirt a few times during a ball game.

"I beg your pardon," said a sports writer sitting at his elbow. "That makes about the fourth time I have burned your shirt with my cigar."

"Don't bother to worry about it," Sloan said. "I'm as excited as you are. If you can't find a place to dump the ashes, put 'em in my pocket."

Sloan looked away after a quizzical grin, back to the ball game. A moment later, during a lull in the game, he turned back to make an explanatory statement.

"Just thought I'd explain my mentality," he remarked. "It's a good ball game, you see."

PLAN FOR FINANCING NEW COURT HOUSE IS EXPLAINED

Rotarians Thursday were given an opportunity to learn in detail the plans for building and financing the proposed new court house for Midland county, explanatory talks having been made by County Judge M. R. Hill and District Judge Chas. L. Klapproth.

Architect's drawings of the exterior and of the basement and four floor plans were displayed, an explanation of the basement and first two being made by Judge Hill, and that of the two top floors by Judge Klapproth.

Judge Klapproth explained that he was not advancing argument for or against the bond issue, but was commending the commissioners for their untiring work in arriving at a definite plan for a building having the minimum of waste space, and he described minutely the excellent arrangement of the district court room, jury rooms, etc., and the fourth floor which is to be occupied by the jail.

The plan of financing the proposed court house was explained in detail by Judge Klapproth. He stated that the state law requires counties to render property for taxation at 100 per cent, but that no counties in the state actually use the full rendition plan.

Several years ago, he said, the Midland County commissioners, last night that umpire Carson's decision would be upheld. It was his understanding, he said, that the contending pilots had reached a "gentleman's agreement" to play the final game at Coleman Thursday. He said he had ordered Manager John King of the Midland club to have his club there.

Midland is getting some adverse publicity because of some of the press releases resulting from the "muddled" series, baseball men here say. One of the characteristic stories of this nature is pointed out in the following taken from "The Morning Muse, published under the by-line of Prexy Anderson, Abilene sports scribe:

When Midland was beaten Wednesday afternoon, allowing to tie up the playoff series, a lot of the boys raised their eyebrows; raised them a little higher, in fact, than they had when Coleman had evened the series at 2-all.

The slugging Colts had been figured to topple Jack Holloway's Bobcats in about four or five games, but when it became apparent the series was to go the limit, some of the more suspicious fans had an idea King and his clan were carrying the Bobcats along just for the extra gate receipts to be collected by the longer route.

Midland's default yesterday definitely cleared up that charge, but the Big Idea of the ponies' default has not been definitely established here.

John King's club was something more than Class D so far as offensive power is concerned, but its latest move is far below Class D. At any rate, the forfeiture of the final game of a championship series furnishes the best story that has broken in this circuit since J. McAllister Stevenson was breaking out on the baseball newspapers during the summer of 1928 with his startling decisions.

Anderson's Statements

So far as we know the act furnishes something entirely original in the history of the game. Games have been forfeited before for the non-appearance of a team, but never when the winning and losing of a pennant hinged upon the outcome of that game. Perhaps King wasn't reasonable for the run-out, but as manager of the club, he gets credit for it until other announcements are forthcoming. Depend upon that old boy to do something that wasn't expected. Winning or losing a series by 4 games to 3 would not have been enough of a sensation, so John and his boys check out and leave the Bobcats to worry about getting the pennant they have won.

That seems to dispose of the baseball situation in these parts for the year, anyhow, and there will be nothing further to distract the attention of the football fans.

BRANDS STATEMENTS

"As to any agreement ever having been reached between Leon Shields and me relative to the sixth and seventh game in the playoff series being played in Coleman, Shields could never be approached to make any different agreement than that which was determined in Ballinger on Sunday before the Midland-Coleman playoff began," Arch Thomas, president of the Midland Baseball club, said this morning.

"The agreement made before all six officials of the various teams in the West Texas League was that the first three games should be played in Coleman, by virtue of that club's having won the first half of the season. The next three were to be in Midland. In case of a tied series at the conclusion of these six games, a coin was decied upon as a medium of deciding the seventh and deciding game. All organized baseball is conducted in this manner, and to go counter to tradition is distinctly a lack of appreciation of the finer points of the game.

"Apparent" A Bad Word

"I cannot see now President Snodgrass can afford to use the word "apparently" in basing his supposition that there was an agreement other than that already mentioned between the two disputants. It seems to me that when he takes position against one of the clubs that he should KNOW whereof he speaks.

"Another thing Shields refused to do which looks peculiar to every club in the league except, possibly Coleman, was his declining to allow a schedule to be made for the play-off series.

"Red Hill, Ballinger manager, and I asked Shields repeatedly about the advisability of making out the schedule, but Shields made the agreement outlined above and said that a "gentleman's agreement" should be sufficiently binding.

Snodgrass Orders

"Then, to cap the matter, President Snodgrass, at a belated moment, ordered King to put his men on the field at Coleman for the seventh game. King's men had already disbanded, and, inasmuch as King is at work under orders of the Midland Baseball club, rather than that of Coleman, he took my orders to load his men in a bus and set sail for Midland.

open a new trade territory of considerable value to Fort Worth, Byars said. The proposed line of the T. and P. will connect the rich oil and gas fields of Lea County, N. M., with Fort Worth on a one-line haul, Byars explained.

Potash to Be Hauled Potash from Lea County will pass through Fort Worth for export probably from the port of New Orleans, he pointed out.

Fort Worth's intervention in behalf of the Texas and Pacific was filed after the Santa Fe filed an application, which in part sought to build a line which would have paralleled the T. and P. line for 50 or 60 miles. The case was heard in Lubbock on April 1.

The T. and P. in its application sought permission to extend its line, which is now in operation between Monahans, Texas, and Cheyenne, N. M., to Lovington, by passing through Jal, Copper, Henry, Eunice, Nadine, and Hobbs. This line was to be built by the Texas-New Mexico, a subsidiary of the Texas and Pacific Railway.

The Santa Fe countered with an application seeking to extend its line from Seagraves through Gaines County to Lovington and also to build a line from the southeast corner of New Mexico, the location of Cheyenne, to Henry, N. M.

Fort Worth opposed Amarillo and Panhandle towns supported the application of the Santa Fe, but Fort Worth opposed it, due to the fact that the T. and P. extension offered Fort Worth a

PLANS COMPLETE BREEDER-FEEDER CONFERENCE HERE

Plans are "all set" for the Breeder-Feeder conference here Saturday, according to representatives of the U. S. Bureau of Commerce and to farmers and ranchmen who are expecting a large gathering of visitors in the same industries.

The program as printed in this paper Thursday will be followed in detail, and it is expected that the round table discussions brought out in the question box conducted by A. L. Ward will meet with much constructive exchanging of experiences in feeding cattle.

The barbecue to be given by John M. Gist, tickets for which are to be issued the delegates tomorrow, will be held at 1:15, after which the group will reconvene.

substantial increase in trade territory, Byars declared.

The recommendation of Examiner Davis supported the T. and P. application in its entirety and recommended that the application of the Santa Fe to build from Seagraves to Lovington be granted. Davis vetoed the application of the Santa Fe to parallel proposed trackage of the Texas and Pacific Railway.

Lon Chaney Pile's Big Locomotive In Picture

Lon Chaney—railroad engineer. The famous star, behind the throttle of a plunging iron monster, plays one of his greatest roles in "Thunder," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's epic of the railroads, coming Sunday to the Grand Theater. As "Grumpy" Anderson, veteran of the line, Chaney figures in a vivid adventure on rails, in an original play by Byron Morgan, directed by William Nigh, who directed his "Mr. Wu." Phyllis Haver plays the heroine, and James Murray, Francis Morris, Wally Albright, Jr., and others of note are in the cast. Chaney drove an engine on the Chicago Northwestern line more than six hundred miles during the filming of the new picture, and the Mississippi floods form a vivid and spectacular background for the rapid fire play.

Dallas Cotton Market

Trading in the cotton market at the morning session was comparatively quiet, and while there was some further selling on continued rains, in Texas the offerings were light. Following Thursday's heavy liquidation, on opening prices were 3 to 7 points higher, followed by October in New York selling at 19.02 December 19.37, and March 19.59 or 15 to 16 points net higher. In noon calls, the list was steady.
