Court Action in Boll Worm Fight Believed Not Advisable

Martial Law Requested by Borger; Moody Orders Captain

HAMER GOES TO AUSTIN FROM COURT

Borger Newspaper In Editorial Stated Effect Bad

BULLETIN AUSTIN, Sept. 24.—(UP) Martial law has been requested by Borger citizens today, according to announcement by Governor Moody.

Unfavorable Publicity BORGER, Sept. 24.—The Borger Herald Monday carried an editorial denouncing the unfavorable publicity given this city by Rangers, whose accusations of a "crime ring" and conspiracy, the newspaper says, have not been proved.

More Rangers Arrive Chief Deputy Sheriff Jim Crane here Sunday night issued a statement in which he said that "if the murderer of District Attorney John A. Holmes was done by a gang, we're pretty sure to get the guilty parties, but if it was done by an individual, it may be some time before we can clear up the case."

Moody Awaits "Advice" AUSTIN, Sept. 24.—(P)—Martial law for Borger seemed near today. Governor Moody said the advisability of sending state troops to "clean up" the Hutchinson county oil town, scene of the assassination of District Attorney John Holmes, is being investigated.

Four Rangers Arrive BORGER, Sept. 24.—(P)—Four Texas Rangers who arrived here yesterday, bringing the total to eight in the city since the assassination of John Holmes, left today for Amarillo where they were to testify in Federal district court in liquor cases.

New Work For Boy Scouts Outlined

At a meeting of the Boy Scout council Monday night at the chamber of commerce, Scout officials heard reports outlining work over the last few weeks, plans for the future, and a delineation by Claude Crane of a new troop to be organized under the auspices of the First Baptist church.

GROUP OF 110 MEN AT BANK TO HEAR EVANGELIST

Speaking for a few minutes to business men and others who gathered at the first National Bank at 10 o'clock this morning, Dr. James Rayburn used for his subject "The Man Who Didn't Care."

"The man who is serving the world can put in every minute of his time, but some day he is going to let loose of it. It isn't good business for a man to give all of his strength, time and effort to something he is going to let loose of in a few years, instead of giving some time to what will continue for 10,000 years," he said.

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED IN LITTLE THEATER WORK At a meeting of directors of the Little Theater in the directors room of the First National bank Monday afternoon, remaining plans required for setting off the present season of the club's activities were completed.

At a meeting of directors of the Little Theater in the directors room of the First National bank Monday afternoon, remaining plans required for setting off the present season of the club's activities were completed.

A patron's committee composed of Mrs. Clarence Scharbauer and M. C. Ulmer will visit those interested persons in the city who do not desire to "play in" but who would like to materially contribute to the Little Theater work.

Other committees were: lighting and stage effects, Dewey Ross; program committee, M. F. Peters; properties, Miss Fannie Bess Taylor; costuming and make-up, Mrs. Leon Goodman, Mrs. S. M. Warren and Mrs. Margaret Clark.

It was decided that plays to be given, together with approximate dates for each, would be as follows: "The Whole Town's Talking," Oct. 25, a strong comedy on Dec. 14, "The Banshee," Feb. 5; "Sun Up," March 28, and "Peg O' My Heart," May 2.

Mrs. George Abell, last year's able director of the Midland Players and last week named director of the Little Theater, accepted that directorship when asked by the directors.

AID FROM CONGRESS IS ASKED

Have Hopes Of Relief After Next Meeting Worm Commission

Final draft of resolutions subsequently adopted by the assembly at Odessa, Monday, discussing measures of obtaining relief for farmers in the alleged pink boll worm infested area, was made by Lee Satterwhite of Odessa, Paul T. Vickers of Midland, Carl Rountree of Lamesa, Penrose B. Metcalfe of San Angelo, C. T. Watson of Big Spring, and Wm. A. Wilson of Lamesa.

Resolutions Passed The resolutions finally adopted have four main points, asking Congress to share equally with Texas in reimbursing farmers fully for their losses, asking Congress to investigate and determine whether or not the regulations in this area are necessary, asking the legislature to pay all of the amount of the losses or in any event the difference between the actual losses and that part paid by Congress; and asking that a meeting of the pink boll worm commission be held to investigate the conditions with the idea of lifting the regulations if possible.

The resolutions, in full, as finally adopted, follow: "Resolution passed by a meeting held at Odessa, Texas, Sept. 23, 1929. Whereas, there has assembled in Odessa, Texas, on the 23rd day of September, 1929, a gathering composed of representative farmers, chamber of commerce officials and business men from a large section of the State of Texas, to consider the pink boll worm situation in Ector, Midland, Martin, Glasscock, Dawson, Howard, Gaines, Upton and such other counties as may be affected by reason of government quarantine and regulations, and whereas it is the sense of this meeting that the act passed by the Forty-first Legislature providing for the reimbursement of the farmers who may be penalized by reason of compliance with the quarantine of regulations is a fair and just law and whereas, there are now available no funds to provide for this reimbursement of the farmers and ginners affected, now therefore, be it resolved that we petition the Congress of the United States through our Texas members therein to appropriate a sum equal to one-half of the total cost of reimbursement of the farmers and ginners for their expenses resulting from compliance with the provisions of the pink boll worm regulatory measures, and be it further resolved that the Congress of the United States be petitioned to have made an investigation of the so-called affected area to determine if regulatory measures now in effect are necessary and should be continued, and be it further resolved that the Legislature of the State of Texas be petitioned to appropriate a sum sufficient to reimburse the farmers, ginners and compress owners for the necessary expenses incurred incident to quarantine or regulation due to so-called pink boll worm infestation, and be it further resolved that copies of this resolution be furnished to each

Mexican Flier Is Found At Apulco BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 24.—(P)—Colonel Roberto Fierro, Mexican flying ace, missing since he took off from Mexico City yesterday in Mexico City-Kansas City air derby has been found at Apulco, unharmed, 100 miles from Mexico City, a radiogram from the Mexican Aviation Company's station there said.

Allan Holder, Midland man, who is one of the big shots of the West Texas Fair in roping contests this afternoon, will go to Tex Austin's show in Chicago next, and then to Madison Square Garden where Johnnie Mullins is to stage his New York show.

Holder and his famous horse, Coondog, dun colored mount which is recognized as the best roping horse in the country have taken first money in five out of 13 rodeos this year. The rider took first place in roping at Sioux City, August 22 to 25.

At Senate Probe Into "Big Navy" Lobby

HARDWARE MEN TO ATTEND MEETING AT BIG SPRING

Midland will be well represented at the district meeting of the State Association of Hardware Dealers at Big Spring Wednesday, according to an announcement made today by Geo. D. McCormick, manager of the Midland Hardware and Furniture Company. Leading hardware dealers of West Texas are expected at the meeting.

Mexican Flier Is Found At Apulco

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 24.—(P)—Colonel Roberto Fierro, Mexican flying ace, missing since he took off from Mexico City yesterday in Mexico City-Kansas City air derby has been found at Apulco, unharmed, 100 miles from Mexico City, a radiogram from the Mexican Aviation Company's station there said.

Allan Holder, Winner Of First Money In Several Rodeos This Year, At W. T. Fair

Allan Holder, Midland man, who is one of the big shots of the West Texas Fair in roping contests this afternoon, will go to Tex Austin's show in Chicago next, and then to Madison Square Garden where Johnnie Mullins is to stage his New York show.

Mrs. Wheeler Made Head Of Teachers

Midland County rural teachers met at Midland High school, Sept. 6, and organized the Midland County Rural Teachers' Association. Mrs. Marshall Wheeler was elected president and Mrs. R. Jones secretary.

Parole Granted To Vernon Man

AUSTIN, Sept. 24.—(UP)—Governor Moody issued a general parole to Charlie Byrd, who had been given a five year sentence, in Wilbarger county in 1928 as the slayer of Sam McClendon. The furlough that had been granted to Wilbur Ellis, serving two years for forgery from Bexar county, was revoked upon the report that Ellis had engaged in a drunken fight at McAllen.

Endurance Fliers Pass 108 Hour Mark

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 24.—(P)—The endurance flight of Lieutenants Walter Peck, and Lawrence Genaro in the Indianapolis Flamingo continued today. At noon, the aviators had been in the air 108 hours. They must stay in the air until October 7th, to beat the present record of 420 hours.

SAN MARCIAL IS AGAIN BESEIGED BY RIO GRANDE

ALBUQUERQUE, New Mexico, Sept. 24.—(P)—The rain swollen torrent of the Rio Grande today held San Marcial, New Mexico, virtually in a state of siege. Hundreds of volunteer workers after an all night vigil were believed today to have staved off the major menace of a broken levee, but backwater from the river was standing in the streets.

C. C. Tells Farmers Where Pickers Are

Midland farmers may get cotton pickers out of Big Spring or at Brady, the chamber of commerce has learned. An influx of Mexican labor from the south is coming into the heavier crop section of Northern Texas through Big Spring and Brady.

Kidnapped Youth Is Found At Robstown

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 24.—(P)—The statewide two weeks search for 4-year-old Juan Ramon of Robstown kidnapping victim, ended today when the child was found and Massimo Ramirez, 15, alleged kidnapper, was placed in custody. Ramirez drove Juan's father's truck away not knowing the child was in it. The truck was recovered, the boy found yesterday, and Ramirez was taken into custody today.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR COURTHOUSE IN SHORT TIME

Final status of the courthouse bond election held in the county Saturday shows that the number who balloted in favor of the new $295,000 structure led opposing voters by a majority of 160.

It is thought by County Judge M. R. Hill that the old courthouse will be moved from toward the latter part of November and that work on the new house will begin about the first of December. Much progress should, therefore, be made by the first of the year on the new house.

Cotton Flats Has New School House

When the Cotton Flat community school opened Monday under supervision of Mrs. Bettie Lou Wheeler students had a chance to see what the modern school policy of the county means to them; they entered a new $4,000 two-room brick building, rather than the small schoolhouse of last year.

Said Rogers Jury Misunderstood Judge

LOCKHART, Texas, Sept. 24.—(UP)—Some of the jurors in the recent trial of Becky Rogers at New Braunfels misunderstood the judge's charge, Prosecutor Fred Brundell said here today. "I understand that some of them thought they were charged to acquit if they found the defendant of unsound mind at the time of the trial," he said.

McLemore Dies On Operating Table

DALLAS, Sept. 24.—(UP)—Bert McLemore died today on the operating table of a hospital at Palestine, following an automobile accident. He was a resident of Irving, Dallas county, and was scheduled to go to trial early in October charged with the murder of Austin E. Ferguson, 50, Irving grocer. Ferguson was killed in a grocery store several months ago and McLemore later surrendered and was charged with the crime.

NUEVO LEON MEXICO IS RENDEZVOUS

Cattlemen Of W. T. To Meet Here Thursday

Cattlemen of Amarillo, Sweetwater, Albany, Odessa and other Texas cattle centers will converge at Midland Thursday night as a concentration center for a trip to Marfa and thence into Old Mexico to the state of Nuevo Leon, where they will attempt to interest ranchmen of that section in establishing a bull market which would be of immense mutual benefit to Mexican and Texan cattlemen.

WOULD CAUSE EXPORT The Midland chamber of commerce is at work this afternoon trying to influence a good representation of Hereford breeders to Nuevo Leon, believing that such a representation would result in large export movement of Midland county herd bulls to northern Mexico, where bulls from this section are at present highly valued.

anyone interested in making the trip if those persons will make registration there in plenty of time for applications to be put through. If as many as three Midland persons go to the Mexican meeting, the cost to each will be only approximately $10 or $15 each, it was announced from the chamber of commerce today.

TAKING MIDLAND COUNTY ON A TRIP
The demonstration trip being staged by Ira F. Lord, who is to visit various Texas fairs as a representative of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, showing products from Midland County farms, handing out literature and information about Midland County as an actual and as a potential farming country, will undoubtedly result in the bringing here of additional farm families.

In fact, Ira Lord is taking Midland County on a trip, exhibiting it to farmers in their own home towns. Instead of waiting for visitors to come to Midland, he is making the visit and is showing what opportunities await the new citizen here.

The Chamber of Commerce has done a good thing in making arrangements with a real dirt farmer to go into the other farming sections and preach about Midland County.

ASKING CONGRESS TO PAY

Farmers, business men, chamber of commerce representatives and legislators who met in Odessa Monday and decided to petition Congress for aid in remunerating farmers for their losses by reason of pink boll worm regulations used good judgment.

Information brought out at the meeting was to the effect that the state's action in refusing aid to the farmers for last year's losses was the result of federal government influence.

The probe asked for will give Congress an opportunity to learn first hand just how the pink boll worm is affecting this part of West Texas, and whether or not the restrictions are justified.

When federal men are finding worms, it is the federal government's part to help the state remunerate the farmers who sustain the financial loss.

OIL CONSERVATION OUTLOOK BRIGHTER

E. B. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum Institute, predicts that the problem of over-production which has been unsettling the oil industry for the past three years, will be solved within the next year. "There is greater harmony and willingness to cooperate today between large and small units of the petroleum industry than at any previous time in the history of the industry," he declares.

"Gasoline and petroleum products' consumption in the United States has outstripped even the vastly increased production. The ration of increase in use of gasoline and products is relatively at the rate of two for one, compared with the current increase in output.

"For the first time there is positive assurance that the immense natural resources of petroleum, which the United States possesses to a greater extent than any other country in the world, will be conserved for the use of generations of our people beyond the power of the present generation to estimate."

The oil industry has been searching diligently for means to curb excessive production. Texas has evolved a method of pro-rata production and California has in force a plan designed to stop waste of natural gas. Production sufficient only for current needs would leave crude oil in its natural storage place and save the cost of expensive storage above ground. A nation-wide conservation program is the only way our invaluable petroleum resources can be preserved, and the public assured an adequate, fair-priced supply of oil products to meet future needs.

"ON TO TULSA" AIRPLANE RULES ARE ANNOUNCED

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 24.—Rules for the "On To Tulsa" air derby, staged in connection with the International Petroleum Exposition and Congress here October 5-12, have been announced by L. S. Reagan, chairman of the contest committee.

All airplanes entered must be owned or leased by any company or individual actively engaged in the oil industry. Entrants may leave from any point not less than 500 miles distant from Tulsa, and in time to cross the finish line at the International Petroleum Exposition grounds southeast of Tulsa between the hours of 11 a. m. and 6 p. m. October 5. The contestant's departure for Tulsa must be duly witnessed by a Western Union representative, and the time of departure wired Western Union collect to the contest committee.

The pilot with the highest figure of merit on the formula: wing area in square feet times the cube of the miles per hour flying time divided by the cubic inch displacement, will be given first place. First place carries a cash prize of $2000 and the silver International Petroleum Exposition trophy which stands 42 inches high. Second and third places carry prizes of $1500 and $1000, respectively.

Entries will be accepted up to 6 p. m. by L. S. Reagan, First National Bank, Tulsa, Okla. The derby is sanctioned by the National Aeronautic association and is conducted under the rules of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale. Pilots eligible are those holding department of commerce, F. A. I. certificate and annual sporting license. All airplanes entered in this derby must carry an approved type certificate and hold license thereunder, or have a restricted license issued by the department of commerce. The derby is open to any type of plane, cabin or open cockpit, single or multimotor. The entrant may do anything to step up the performance of his plane, so long as nothing is done in violation of the regulations of the department of commerce or the F. A. I.

Farmer May Study Wife From Angle of Her Material Value And Discover New Truths

If any mathematical mind has ever begun to figure out the material value of a house wife, he must continue his computations until the value to a family from a well conducted canning kitchen is determined, says Miss Genavieve Derryberry, home demonstration agent.

"The modern American housewife, with her array of foods to be preserved, glass jars, and the necessary pressure cooker, puts up from a few to sometimes a few hundred jars of fruit, vegetables, and meats every year. "Any one of these attractive jars, with its tasty contents, may be worth $1,250, in addition to its potential health and happiness stored up for family feasting in the winter. This sum represents one first prize of $250 and the grand prize of $1,000 in the National Canning Contest for American housewives and girls being held in Chicago.

"There are three first prizes for the three classes of fruits, vegetables, and meats. One of these will be awarded the grand prize of $1,000. In addition, there are other prizes ranging from $5 upward, making a total of over 200 cash awards for preserving skill. "Undoubtedly, there are many jars on various pantry shelves, or in the

Neon Sign Company For Midland Soon

R. R. Dameron, who will establish the Neon Southwestern Sign Co. here at once, making his office in the old Hogan office building, 214 N. Colorado St., is ready for business this week.

Dameron chose Midland as a site for his business only after a close survey of all towns of the surrounding area. He has equipment on the way here from New York, and from Tulsa, Okla., where he was connected with the Tulsa Neon Sign Co. He will solicit orders and build signs to order.

Mr. Dameron, who was assisted in getting his location here by the Chamber of Commerce, will be joined by his wife within a few days, he plans. He will begin work with a crew of three, and plans to expand into an organization of eight assistants within a comparatively short time.

Daily Cotton Market

Dallas Cotton Market There was good recovery in the cotton market on opening due to the minis correction of 300,000 bales in the governments' gaining figures, together with the relative strength of the Liverpool market and further rains in the eastern belt. Opening prices were 11 to 18 points higher in New York, while in New Orleans they were 20 to 27 points higher, with New York later adjusting the differences. October in New York selling to 13.33, December 18.87, January 18.78 and March 19.05, or 13 to 21 points net higher during the first hour. However, the advance encountered southern selling and a partial reaction, but enough buying was in evidence on outlook for further rains in the eastern and central belt to sustain a general market. Noon calls showed trading list 11 to 17 points over the previous close.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

George Bernard Shaw, self-termed "expert on sex appeal," made the statement the other day that the only method of creating sex appeal is by clothes.

"The voluptuous woman of the 19th century was a masterpiece of sex appeal," said the savant. "She was clothed from the crown of her head to the soles of her feet. It was amazing. Everything about her except her cheeks and her nose was a guilty secret about which you had to guess."

"Women have taken a large step toward nudity and sex appeal has vanished."

It seems to me George Bernard Shaw has slipped up on his premise, which is a pre-supposition that what is beauty or sex appeal to one generation may be the same to another.

Shaw grew up in the Victorian age, his first romantic dreams were concerned with one of the thoroughly upholstered ladies of that day. He probably still thinks of feminine beauty in terms of curves and of sex appeal as something which creates a furtive guilty feeling.

Standards of "It"

Why should the young man of today, brought up in the age of the flat-chested, scantily clad, straight-forward, boyish little flapper, have any romantic ideas about the "Diamond Lil" figure of the Klondike days? It seems to me just as natural for one of today's youths to argue that no woman with a rigid corseted figure, rats in her hair, a bustle and an artificial manner could ever attract him in the least.

This whole question of one generation's trying to set standards for another is the same one that is at the basis of the old question, "Why children leave home."

Whether it is ideas on locomotion, sex appeal, what constitutes a good dinner, or style in dress, the years bring such changed ideals that what was accepted as correct yesterday may be all wrong tomorrow.

Therefore, it is only the rare occasion when one generation can set standards for another. Even morals and religion change, proving that nothing in life is static and absolute. It is a brave person, therefore, who defines criteria for himself and then declares them universal.

Perhaps of all the pies made, pumpkin is the most popular. It's almost the only variety commonly included among party refreshments and it seems such a personal kind of pie! Everybody has his own very definite ideas of just what a pumpkin pie should be from color to taste.

Little Theater Work Started In Colorado

Other towns of the surrounding area are adopting the Little Theatre movement as Midland begins work on the first production for the new season, "The Whole Town's Talking."

Colorado is the latest to join the popular movement. The organization of the "Tiny Theatre Players" was started this week by Roy Hester, municipal band director. The organization already has six charter members, including Director Hester, Misses Mary Broadus, Beatrice Logan and Hazel Costin, and Messrs. Clyde Haney, and Wayne Clifton. Several other men and women are wanted.

The first play, "The Girl and a Million," a farce-comedy in three acts, will be produced on Tuesday night, October 1, at the high school auditorium.

The group is already working on this play and as soon as the cast is completed regular rehearsals will be conducted.

Speaking of the organization of the Tiny Players, Mr. Hester said: "Numerous cities, towns and villages throughout the United States are organizing Little Theatres. Colorado is no different than the rest, only in one way. Our club will be known as 'The Tiny Theatre Players.'" The charter has been opened and closed. We have six charter members. We wish to have seven women and nine men. At present we have three women and three men. Work has already started on the first production.

"We plan to produce one play each month, giving Colorado the best comedies and dramas that can be secured."

Unclaimed After A Murder Charge

AUSTIN, Sept. 23.—(UP)—Mrs. Maud Long Kingsville, arrested Friday on a warrant send from Kingsville, is still unclaimed, by Kleberg County officers. She is making no attempt to obtain her release, saying the charge against her is groundless. She is charged with murder.

1 tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon baking molasses, 1-2 teaspoon ginger, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 2 to 2-1/2 cups milk. Mix sugar, flour, salt and spices. Add to pumpkin and stir until thoroughly blended. Add molasses and egg well beaten. Mix well and stir in milk. The amount of milk depends on the size of the pie dish. Turn into a pie dish lined with plain pastry. Put into a hot oven for ten minutes to set the crust. Reduce heat and bake in a moderate oven for 60 minutes.

This amount of filling will fill a pie dish seven inches in diameter at the bottom and 1 1/2 inches deep.

Fluffy Pumpkin Pie. Three-fourths cup sifted pumpkin, 3-4 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 1-2 cups milk, 1-2 cup cream, 1-2 teaspoon ginger, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-8 teaspoon salt. Beat yolks of eggs with sugar, salt and spices. Add pumpkin, milk and cream and mix thoroughly. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and fold into first mixture. Turn into a pie dish lined with pastry and bake as in preceding recipe.

If a highly spiced pie is liked, more spices can be added to either rule.

Everyday Pumpkin Pie. One cup sifted pumpkin, 3-4 cup sugar (granulated or light brown).

YOUR CHILDREN

One day a lady received a letter. She read it and laid it aside—re-read it and laid it down again. Her brows drew together in a puzzled frown. All morning she went about her work with that look of bewildered irritation.

It was in the letter, of course, something vaguely disconcerting about the letter. But what? She picked it up a third time and read it through. It was an answer to an inquiry of hers to a cousin in Chicago.

What Was Wrong. June came in from school. "Here's Aunt Helen's letter about our living-room mantel," said her mother. "Want to read it?"

"Humph! She's like our teacher. Every other word is 'your.' That new teacher says 'your this' and 'your that' just as though she was too good to stay in the room with us. She can't say, 'Take out books,' it's 'Take out your books,' 'Take your seats,' 'Study your lesson.' You'd think she didn't want to associate with us. Aunt Helen's got the 'your's' too. She sniffs all through this letter. She talks about 'your house' and 'your family' and 'your plans' and 'your mantel, till I'd think—"

"You're right," laughed her mother in a relieved voice. "It's been bothering me too. But I couldn't lay my finger on the trouble. You've got it right, though. I never thought before how mean that word could sound. Now run off and wash your face. I mean wash up for lunch. Honestly, I believe I'll cut that word out of my vocabulary for good."

London County Council Is World's Greatest Landlord

Here's a sample of residences being built for Londoners by the municipal government. These apartments and two-family houses are built at city and state expense, then rented at very low rates. The photo shows a street in the town of Becontree.

BY MILTON BRONNER

LONDON, Sept. 24.—While municipal housing projects remain pretty much of an experiment in the United States, the system has proven itself a whale of a success in London.

The London county council, already rated as one of the greatest landlords in the world, has built outright the complete town of Becontree, of 60,000 population, and now is starting to build the town of St. Helier, with a contemplated population of 40,000.

In this regard, there is only one other giant municipality which rivals it, and that is Vienna. There the Socialist city government has been erecting handsome apartment buildings and one and two-family cottages to house the people.

300,000 Tenants

But with the completion of its present plans, the London county council will find itself the landlord of about 300,000 persons. It already has spent $135,000,000 for apartments and houses, and has provided $80,000,000 more for the same purpose.

As far back as 1851, Parliament passed legislation allowing the various British municipal authorities to clear out unhealthy areas and carry out improvement schemes; to deal with individual insanitary houses; and to build new houses for the working classes. In 1886 the greater part of the government of huge London was placed in the hands of the London County Council, which is elected by the people.

This body ever since has been tackling especially the question of finding homes for the steadily growing population. And it has been particularly active since the war, because all building was practically stopped during the great contest.

In America practically no houses are built for dwelling purposes by the municipal governments. In Great Britain the towns not only do so, but the British government, out of funds placed at the disposal of the Ministry of Health, assist in this work. Thus, for some houses it gives the L. C. C.—as the county council is popularly known—as much as $45 per year for 40 years. The L. C. C. began by building municipal lodging houses all over town, where for a small nightly fee homeless men and women could find a bed and room. It now has accommodations for 1,890. The next step was to erect flat buildings in various sections.

It soon began to broaden its activities by buying tracts of land on the outskirts of London which could be reached by trains and underground railways. Then it went even farther. At Becontree in Essex, it purchased a huge tract of 2,770 acres. Part of this land was reserved as a public park for the residents. Another part was reserved for playing fields. Sites were reserved for shops, schools, churches and public buildings. Houses and flats were put up, the rental of which runs from $2.50 to $6.25 per week.

26,000 Homes Built

Two churches already have been built by their congregations, and others are in contemplation. Six schools now are open and three more are being constructed. The town already has 12,700 houses and flats, with a population of nearly 60,000. Plans have been drawn which will bring the number of houses and flats owned there by the L. C. C. to 26,000 with a resident population of nearly 150,000.

This constitutes the greatest municipal housing undertaking in history. The only thing comparable to it is the city of Gary, Indiana, mainly built by the United States Steel Company.

Becontree is to the northeast of London. The L. C. C. now has brought to the south of London a tract of 843 acres, where 10,000 houses and flats are proposed, with a population of 50,000. Like Becontree, it is to be a model garden town

"TIME, PLACE, GIRL," TURNED INTO GREAT VITAPHONE PICTURE

The "Big Game"—an institution in every American community with a stadium big enough to support a college—the thrilling riot of color—the feverish, milling throng—the uniformed rooters—the stunts—the frantic cheer leader working himself into exhaustion—the hysterical co-eds screaming for victory—the dizzy freshmen trying to usher and watch everything on the field at the same time—the old grads taking a drink to the every yard of gain—or loss—the usual nose-diving aviator who terrifies everyone in the stands, the long run by the star through a broken field—

All of this with its real voices and sounds has been captured for the screen for the first time in "The Time, the Place and the Girl," the Warner Bros. Vitaphone all-talking and singing production of the famous musical comedy success by Hough, Adams and Howard, which Howard Bretherton directed.

The songs, dialogue and action that made the production such a great stage hit are rendered by Vitaphone.

The story opens with a college background. Grant Withers is the football hero who becomes everything but heroic bond salesman. Rivals for his favor are Betty Compson and Gertrude Olmsted. The picture, which comes to the Ritz Theatre today, includes in its cast John Davidson, James R. Kirkwood, Bert Roach, Vivian Oakland, Gretchen Hartman, Irene Haisman and Gerald King. Robert Lord adapted the story.

with public parks and playing grounds. It is to be named St. Helier, after Lady St. Helier, an Alderman in the Council, who for 20 years has given much of her time to social work.

EMPRESS ZITA TO MOVE FROM SPANISH EXILE

By WILLIAM H. LANDER, United Press Staff Correspondent.

BILBAO, Spain, Sept. 18.—(UP)—Zita, once Empress of Austria and Queen of Hungary, is again about to move her place of exile. After seven years of residence in the little Basque village of Lequeitio, her court is being broken up and with her eight children and a small part of her retinue, she will move to Belgium. The occasion for the change results from the fact that Archduke Francis Joseph Otto, Prince Imperial and heir to the throne of Austria-Hungary, is ready to enter Louvain University and several of the other children are to be enrolled in Belgian schools.

Every one of the 4,486 inhabitants of Lequeitio is genuinely sorry that the royal family is leaving, for it has been popular throughout its stay here. It is possible that Zita and the children may visit the Basque fishing town next summer, but the change of residence is definite. There are many reasons for the change—for one thing, Lequeitio is very damp and for a long time it has been known that the climate did not agree with Empress Zita; besides, keeping up a court which on the average includes 60 persons is expensive business, especially for practically penniless exiles. These two factors, and possibly many others, caused the decision for change, and the beginning of the school term in the autumn was decided upon as the best time to effect it. The elder children will go to school in Belgium, and the mother and smaller children will live together modestly in some small village.

It is understood that Empress Zita and Prince Otto will be the first to move, to be followed a little later by the rest of the family.

Hunting Accident

The long and peaceful stay of the royal family in this neighborhood was nearly marred by a hunting accident late in August, which for a while threatened to assume serious proportions. Young Count Adolfo Lucchesi, son of Zita's sister, Princess Beatrice Colomba and Count Lucchesi Palli, Prince of Campofranco, was struck by a bullet accidentally discharged from the gun of Archduke Felix, Zita's 13-year-old son. He was brought to a clinic here at Bilbao, in a serious condition, but in a few days the wound responded to treatment and a quick recovery followed.

Seven years ago, shortly after the death in the island of Madeira on April 1, 1922, of her husband, the former Emperor Charles I, Zita came to Spain upon the invitation of King Alfonso XIII. She at first went to the royal palace of El Pardo near Madrid, where her seven children, who had been living in Switzerland, joined her.

On May 31, Elizabeth, a posthumous daughter of the Emperor was born at El Pardo. Later that year the family went to San Sebastian, and then moved into the palace of Uribarren (a word in the Basque language which means "In the town"), which formerly belonged to the Countess of Torregrosa, in the picturesque seacoast town of Lequeitio. Uribarren Palace was purchased by an association headed by Count de Urquijo, known as "The Uribarren Beneficent Association," which granted its use to the Empress for as long as she cares to use it. When she definitely leaves it, it will be used for some beneficent foundation.

Financial Status

The Empress had a hard time making ends meet when she first established her residence at Uribarren. The village fishermen, learning of this, would go to the palace every morning, laden with baskets of their best fish. Later, the situation of the court improved, but in the last few years expenses have been mounting too high, and Zita has decided to make further economies. Uribarren became an expensive proposition because the town has no good hotels, and all visitors perforce had to become guests of the palace.

Besides, the children had various tutors; Benedictine priests were on hand; courtiers, relatives and servants served to swell the number of residents to approximately 60. Chauffeurs there are none, as the only motorcar the family has is an old Hispano-Suiza which many years ago belonged to the Spanish royal family, and when used is driven by a soldier of the Engineering Corps. There are three policemen detailed to guard the palace—their work is not strenuous.

The Empress has led a quasimonastic life during her stay here; she rarely leaves the palace grounds except for strolls with her children, or to visit the nearby church, which she does faithfully early every morning. On Saints' days, when there is a procession, the entire family participates, and their devotion to the Catholic Church has endeared them to the citizens of Lequeitio. The Empress invariably dresses in a severe mourning. She is extremely cautious to avoid any political entanglements, and during her entire stay in exile has not granted a single newspaper interview. On the other hand, she is personally very affable, and has many devoted friends.

WOLFS BRING PRIZES

LOCKHART, Texas, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Caldwell county citizens are $12.50 richer for each wolf scalp and $2.50 richer for each wolf pup scalp they obtain.

Depredations of the wolf in the southern and southwestern parts of the county recently caused the county commissioners to set these prices on their heads.

The liberal bounty is expected to increase the interest of the organized wolf club in the county. Wolf hounds have been very effective in the work of ridding this section of the pest.

The Old Sock is out of Date! AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

That ancient prejudice which hoarded gold with the fanatical zeal of the miser has vanished. Under the sheltering wing of AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE flourish thousands of banking institutions to which the individual safely entrusts his wealth.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful, corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"I Am Innocent!" Maude Raines Says

EDITOR'S NOTE: Maude Raines has written her life story for The Reporter-Telegram. For several days she has had an individual installment run. She has reviewed her life through poverty and had health and to her contact with the strong arm of the law. The story is printed as she wrote it, behind the bars of the county jail.

I had lots of people from everywhere all over the state come to see me, several from Louisiana. I was called the woman champion of Arkansas, so the day I left jail I turned my key over to the sheriff. He looked so dum struck. I love them. They were my friends, so one night I decided I would have some fun, or that was what we called it. I got in a car and went 60 miles an hour across Red River. I knew a man that was making whiskey so I put two more boys in the car and I dressed up in military colored duck and a big Stetson hat. We could not find the still so we decided we would search the house. I called the lady to the door and I told her we wanted to search the house. She said, I know you. It is in there in the dining room. Go get it. I told her to be at the courthouse next day. I heard later that she was there, but could not find anybody that wanted to see her. The sheriff laughed and asked me what I had been in. The Bible says raise your children up in the fear and (the word could not be made out) of the Lord. They will not depart from it when they become old. And the prodigal son did return home. So, on Sept. 9, 1927, I decided to go back home. My brother had never heard from me and he mourned me as dead. It was six years since he had seen me. I was still on drink and dope so I went to Hot Springs and stated my case before the board, told them I was tired, to cure or kill me and it did not make any difference. So they cured me. But the agony of the torture, oh the torture of the very old hell I suffered. But I toughed it out. Where there is a will there is a way. I had the will and I made the way so I went home and looked like a ghost. But I soon got stout. My darling brother never did know my trouble. My children was in a private school at that time. I would not keep them. They were in South Texas. I sent them to a convent just as soon as I found out what I had married. So I stayed a few days with my brother and left and went to my baby. When school was out I carried them to San Antonio to undergo an operation for tonsils and adenoids, so I worked and went to see my babies every day. (TO BE CONTINUED)

LOUGHRAN LIGHT BUT STRONG FOR BOUT WITH JACK SHARKEY

'NATURAL WEIGHT' FOR FIRST TIME IN CAREER

When Tommy Loughran steps into the ring with Jack Sharkey, Thursday night, he will be fighting at his full weight and, consequently, strength for the first time in years. He has the frame of a heavyweight, and he has weakened his strength and speed each time he made the light-heavy margin of 175 pounds.

Many wonder how Loughran can combat the heavier Sharkey with any expectation of winning. In the first place, he is a better boxer, but his weight may tell as weight did in the memorable McTigue-Sharkey fight of 1927, when the lighter McTigue shot blows at a dizzying pace until the last rounds, when he tired and lost to the Lithuanian.

Loughran, however, should be able to stand the trip through the 15 rounds. The Sharkey who rushed like a bull from his corner to pound relentlessly at Dempsey's defense has passed, possibly in the wake of those two dangerously low body blows and the finishing left of the old Manassa mauler.

Tommy will weigh almost 190. That puts him close within the weight of his heavier opponent. His fight will probably be the rushing, swinging, shooting variety, the bit of color he always manages to inject into one of his bouts.

Sharkey, on the other hand, has chosen in his latest fights to fight as he chooses. With Young Stribling, he played a waiting game and won—though by an uncomfortable margin, and after Stribling was overcome by injuries received more during training period than in the fight.

There is one thing which is certain, however. When Loughran steps into the squared circle with the Lithuanian, he will have 99 44-100 per cent of the crowd with him. Which may or may not mean anything.

SOUTH STARTS GRID PRACTICE FOR A BIG YEAR

By JAMES M. KERR, United Press Staff Correspondent.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 23.—Preparation for Southern Conference football activities is under way since candidates for the majority of the conference teams have reported for preliminary practice.

Some of the 23 member colleges and universities will not open the playing campaign until October 5 but today all of the elevens had opened training.

The race for southern titular honors probably will be led this year by Georgia Tech, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee and Florida. Florida promises one of the best squads in years. The wisecracker figure the outsiders as follows: Tulane, Duke, Mississippi, Clemson, Kentucky and South Carolina.

Sharkey and Loughran Toil For Battle

Serious business, this training for a fight, the winner of which eventually may be crowned world's heavyweight champion. Jack Sharkey, left, was engaged in rope-skipping to develop the old staying power in those legs. The talkative Bostonian is doing his training in Orangeburg, N. Y., Tommy Loughran, right, imagined he saw the map of Sharkey on the big bag and was whaling away viciously when the camera man dropped in at his camp at Harvey's Lake, Pa. An inch taller and considerably broader and thicker, Loughran has grown in recent months. He'll weigh around 187 when he enters the ring with Sharkey at Yankee Stadium, New York, Sept. 26.

from Maryland to Florida, approximately 1,200 gridiron performers will assemble for an onslaught on the title held by Georgia Tech.

Plenty of opposition for the national champions to worry about seems to be around the corner.

Practically every team below the Mason-Dixon line boasts a difficult schedule, including many inter-sectional scraps. Chief on this list is the Georgia-Yale encounter at Athens, Ga., October 12.

Other battles outside the conference appear on the list, but they lack the color promised by the staged-in Georgia holiday meeting, Yaled in a romantic southern setting.

Comparatively few teams in the south were hit by graduations. The coaches therefore are predicting a big season for Dixie football.

Vanderbilt, Sewanee, Mississippi, Aggies and Auburn are looked to for considerable noise also during the season.

MODERN TREASURE HUNTERS

QUIDAD LERO, DURANGO, Mex. Sept. 24.—(P)—A company has been formed here to dig for a gold treasure said to have been buried by the notorious rebel chief Pauchio Villa on the hacienda San Carlos on the outskirts of town.

Villa, hard pressed by federal troops, is said to have secreted a fabulous sum in gold coins at the hacienda.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By GEORGE KIRKSEY, United Press Sports Editor.

Ol' Tom Zachary

One of the biggest surprises of the 1929 major league season was the sterling comeback of Ol' Tom Zachary, veteran southpaw who was saved from the minors a year ago when the New York Yankees claimed him on waivers from Washington.

Zachary is one of the most colorful players left in the majors. He is a ball player's ball player. He chews tobacco. He likes to pitch. He plays the game hard.

During the winter Zachary goes into seclusion up in the mountains of North Carolina, where newspapers seldom find their way and there are no telephones and telegraph wires.

Once a scribe asked Zachary how he found out what was happening in a place like that.

"Well, I go up to the country store," he replied, "get me a box to sit on, pull out my bowie knife and start whittling. I jes' keep on whittling till I've heard all the news from the boys and then I go back home."

Zachary broke in with the Philadelphia Athletics in 1918, playing under the name of Zach Walton. He won two games and lost none. After the war was over he joined Washington. One day when Zachary was warming up for Washington, Connie Mack recognized his delivery and inquired if he hadn't been with the Athletics.

Zachary denied he had ever pitched for the Athletics, but Connie Mack was skeptical. He tried every way to make Zachary admit he had played under him but the Carolina southpaw stuck to his story.

Zachary never likes to talk about the time he played with the Athletics. "The least said about that, the better," he always says when asked about it.

Zachary won the first 11 games he pitched for the Yankees this season, beating Cleveland four times. He has a perfect world series record, having won three games and lost none. He won two games in the 1924 world series for Washington and he beat the Cardinals last fall for the Yankees.

Which one?—Until the Belmont Futurity, Boojum was rated the greatest two-year-old of the year. Then his stablemate, Whichone, went out and beat Boojum in a short seven-furlong race in 1:19 3-5 on a dead track. Boojum finished fourth.

Jockey Burke, who rode Boojum, thinks his mount would have won the race if he had run straight.

"He was going along easily, when all of a sudden he made a slant for the outside rail. I couldn't stop him. I've never ridden a faster colt than Boojum or one that is a greater bully."

There are many competent turf experts who believe that Boojum is the greatest horse and will come into his own next year as a three-year-old.

Horsemen have long known that Boojum had the makings of a great horse, but they had slightly overlooked Whichone.

Harry Payne Whitney, who owns both colts, carried some friends to see the pair one day. When the trainer brought them out, one of the visitors asked:

Which one is Boojum?

"That's Boojum there," he replied.

"What's the other one's name?"

"Well, we'll call him Whichone."

On the Gridiron

Paul Stagg, son of A. A. Stagg, is trying for the quarterback berth on the University of Chicago eleven.

Colgate has stored 500 pounds of salt in the gymnasium to toughen the skin of the football candidates.

The Georgetown University squad trained on the beach at Ocean City, N. J., to harden the players' leg muscles by plunging through the sand.

Clair Sloan, Nebraska halfback, spent the summer digging ditches for a power company.

Duke University is going to have a great football team.

The big game for the Southerners is with Pittsburgh, October 5.

WASHINGTON TO VIEW IMPROVED GRIDIRON TEAMS

By WILLIAM W. CHANCE, JR., United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(UP)—If early training sessions, wealth of material and enthusiasm of players have an influence on final results, colleges in this section should enjoy a banner season in football.

A check of training activities of Georgetown, Maryland, Catholic, Virginia, and George Washington Universities showed each team progressing rapidly in preparation for the 1929 season. There is not a single coach who doesn't believe his team's prospects look better this year than last.

Georgetown, having recently returned from its training camp at Ocean City, N. J., is putting the finishing touches on its unique "scrambled egg" play, designed to throw the winning aspirations of opposing teams into reverse. With every man in excellent physical condition and plenty of material with which to fill four varsity positions left vacant through graduation, Coach Lou Little and the team are looking forward enthusiastically to the opening game with Mt. St. Mary on Sept. 28.

Maryland Veteran Team Coach Curley Byrd of Maryland U. was given a lucky break this year. He only has two positions to fill in the regular eleven, nine of last year's team having returned this season. In addition to his seasoned regulars, Byrd has several strong reserves and plenty of timber from the 1928 frosh squad. With this talent the Old Liners are anticipating a great improvement.

STREET SWALLOW HORSE

BROWNVILLE, Texas, Sept. 24.—(P)—Benjamin Plumb nearly lost his horse here the other day. He was driving "Dobbin" down an alley in the business district, when the ground gave way, burying the horse to the neck. The ground had been weakened by the rain and the horse fell into an old main. It took considerable labor and time before the horse was extracted.

Down South: Tech, Alabama, and Tulane Look Tough But Bill Alexander Warns Against Pencil's Trickery

By WM. M. BRAUCHER, NEA Service Sports Writer.

Don't trust a pencil and a piece of paper too much in figuring the possible winners of the Southern Conference championship this year.

For, if you take the word of Bashful Bill Alexander, Georgia Tech's modest but mighty coach, pencil and paper are likely to play some mean tricks on you as far as reckoning conference strength is concerned.

"We used to be able to sit in our office about the middle of September and figure on four or five teams we had to beat to win the title," says Alexander. "Now it's all reversed. Four or five teams can be written out of the running. I would say the others have about equal chances for the title."

That seems to leave the situation open to the experts and one guess looks to be about as good as another.

Coach Russ Cohen at Louisiana State likes Alabama. Coach Wallace Wade at Alabama likes Georgia Tech (and who wouldn't?). Some of the others say that Bernie Bierman's Tulane Green Wave is going to be the dark horse of the conference. And all through the camps of the south, resounds the warning to fear Florida.

You hear more about these four teams than any others, despite the fact that several of last year's leaders have lost stars that cannot be replaced, while some of the door-mats of 1928 have suddenly taken on the aspect of steam rollers.

The great unbeaten Georgia Tech team of 1928 sustained severe losses. Coach Alexander faces the season with a problem of replacing Peter Pund, all-American center. Two of the best ends in the south, Wadley and Holland, have been lost, but Sid Williams, Tom Jones and Ed Herron are expected to fill in nicely. Williams, from last year's freshman squad, is expected to star. Alex will have a nifty pair of tackles in Vance Maree and Frank Speer. Speer, all-American tackle, left the team last season just before the Alabama game because of scholastic difficulties, but he has been reinstated.

That Tech Backfield In the backfield Alex faced the problem of replacing Father Lumpkin, who is playing pro football this year. Tech has, however, in Thomas, Mizell and Dunlap three backs who are far superior to any three backs on a southern team. If Alexander can find a field general one of his biggest tasks will be solved.

Brooke and Westbrook at guards and Rush at center have been tried and found not wanting. Bill's line may not be as great as that wall of last year, but the conference will find it plenty tough.

Dunlap is one of the best passers in the south, and a kicker, too. Tech has plenty of strength in the punting department with Mizell's and Dunlap's toes.

Despite the ravages time has made in the 1928 championship aggregation, Tech has some splendid reserves from last year, and will be hard to beat.

Alabama, at this writing, looks to be hard to beat. In Tony Holm, the Crimson Tide has probably the best fullback in the conference. An operation on John Suther's injured shoulder is said to have fixed it up so he can play this year. Suther is a great ball carrier. In the backfield also is Captain Billy Hicks, a great little field general and runner, and that elusive person, Monk Campbell, the spin-play specialist.

Also, in Vines, Boykin, Long and McRight, Coach Wallace Wade has four backs to enable him to use his system of playing a blocking back who is not supposed to carry the ball.

Wade has no great line worries. His first string line ought to satisfy anybody, but he is just a little fretful of reserve strength. Step-ups from the freshmen have not been so good. Another item the Alabama coach must develop is a passer. Holm may be brought around to where his passing is satisfactory. Wade will need a passer to beat Tech.

With 19 letter men, Alabama has a formidable enough crowd. The great need is reserves.

Florida and Tulane look to be more dangerous to Tech's chances of repeating its conference triumph than Alabama. That is, of course, provided Alabama does not develop new reserve strength to help that great first string eleven.

Florida has a powerful forward wall. Vansickle, all-America end, is back. At guard there's Jimmy Steele, who also was mentioned on several all-America selections. "Cannonball Clyde" Crabtree, all-Southern quarterback, has returned. Everybody in Florida is talking about "Monk" Dorset, 203-pound halfback, built like Joe Guyon. He can run and throw. Red Bethea and Royce Goodbread are also

High school football has taken another step farther, this time with the acquisition of Jack Irwin, young boxer who is expected to prove a power to the backfield versatility of the Bull Dogs. Irwin is powerful and fast on the get off. He has a deadly straight arm and can tote the ball with seemingly grace.

One of the beautiful things about young Jack is the fact that he works at his studies—and passes 'em. It is not always so with an ambitious athlete. Some of them let their passion for football exclude that for their studies.

Irwin was working for the Palace Drug Store in the afternoon. He had an arrangement with Max Kirschbaum, co-proprietor, whereby he was to work in the afternoons after school. But Kirschbaum, a former Forest High, Dallas, griddier, readily agreed to pay his employee the same amount of salary and give him up in the afternoons.

"This sort of thing is seldom found in a town the size of Midland," Coach Barry said. "When the business men combine to give boys a chance it's a good thing for the school and for those who work for them."

The club goes to Colorado Friday. The club coached by Big Jim Cant-rill already holds a victory over Odessa although it was barely eked out. It may be that the Bull Dogs can take the lads from the east to a cleaning.

Virginia Poly sounded a warning to the others last year by losing only one game. Clemson, South Carolina, Kentucky, Maryland, Virginia Military and North Carolina State are nobody's scrubs. Four teams that finished at the bottom of the ladder last year, Washington-Lee, Virginia, Sewanee and Auburn, may upset the dope this season by jarruping the leaders.

Duke is the new 1929 member of the conference. The Blue Devils have three conference games. Louisiana State, North Carolina State and North Carolina. A more representative schedule will be booked for 1930. The team dedicates a new stadium with the Pitt Panthers. October 5 and will have to be very good to get past that one. Other spots on the schedule that are not so alluring are games with Villa Nova and Boston College, two of the undefeated teams in the east last year.

Smidt's Frogs May Flash This Season

FORT WORTH, Sept. 24.—Coach Francis Schmidt's Texas Christian University eleven have entered their third week of practice here still unknown quantity. Last Saturday saw several of the Southwest Conference teams in action, but the Frogs did not have a game scheduled. The dopsters have picked the Christians to finish anywhere from first to last.

The season will open for the Frogs next Saturday when they meet the strong Hill Billy eleven from Daniel Baker in Fort Worth. The following week the Purple-clads take to the road for their first game away from home. This will be with Simmons University, on a neutral field at Breckenridge.

A few days ago Coach Schmidt was asked which of the ten games T. C. U. has scheduled he thought would be the hardest. His reply was, "All ten of them."

Which the fans have interpreted as meaning that no game will be looked upon as merely a practice tilt, and that the Frogs will go into every contest ready to fight to the limit.

The physical condition of the squad is perfect to date, and squad members report that they are "on" to Schmidt's style of play. Although there will not be a dazzling offense flashed in the opening game, there will be a sufficient variety of plays to give the spectators their money's worth.

Schmidt is expected to use his entire squad in the opening game, in an effort to find his best winning combination.

T. C. U. defeated the Billies 21 to 0 last year, and all indications point to another victory this year, but there is no such thing as a "set-up" in football.

1,200 AT T. C. U.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 24.—(P)—Texas Christian university, opened its fifty-seventh year this week with approximately 1,200 students enrolled.

At the formal opening chapel civil leaders of Fort Worth spoke to the student body. They were Mayor William Bryce; Jack Hott, secretary of the association of commerce; Ellison Harding, president of the association of commerce; A. P. Barnett, president of the Texas Air Transport, and Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Star-Telegram.

Fifteen new faculty members have been added at T. C. U. this year, including new heads of two departments. These latter are Mrs. Helen Fouts Cahoon, head of the voice department and Dr. W. C. Smith, head of the Sociology department.

Captains 1929

In his first year as head coach at Michigan, his alma mater, Harry Kipke will be aided materially by a smart captain and field general. He is Joseph Truskowski of Detroit, shown above. The Wolverine leader is 22 years old, six feet tall, weighs 190 pounds, and last year was one of the best ends in the Western Conference. Truskowski is expected to show up well in the open style of game Kipke will put into the conference race. Incidentally, the Michigan eleven may be one of the best in the middle west this fall.

Captain Billy Hicks of the University of Alabama Crimson Tide is one of the few southpaw passers in the game. With Captain Hicks, Alabama is expected to have one of the best backfields since the days of Brown, Hubert and Gillis. Hicks is a great little runner and field general, and is one of the 19 letter men in whom Coach Wallace Wade is placing almost his entire dependence for a successful team this season. Captain Hicks is the signal caller for the team.
