Anglo-American Conference May Result in Naval Cut

MACDONALD AND PRES. TOGETHER

Good Relations To Be Keypnote In Letters

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(P)—President Hoover and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald returned today in the belief that their intimate talks in the solitude of the Virginia mountains had cleared the way for a better understanding between the United States and Great Britain.

The first tangible result of their conversation was the announcement of invitations to Japan, France, and Italy to join the American and British governments in a conference to limit their sea power as a further step toward world peace.

Hoover and MacDonald issued the following statement, "We have frankly reviewed all questions which might cause friction among our people. Gratifying progress was made and the conversations are continuing."

MacDonald addresses congress in joint session, attends the president's dinner, and remains at the White House overnight.

The MacDonald visit signalizes agreement between the United States and Great Britain for complete naval equality. In a statement to the House of Commons July 25, MacDonald announced the two governments had agreed on parity. Battleship parity had been agreed to at the Washington arms conference in 1921 but this was the first unqualified statement pledging Britain to complete parity.

Few Details Unresolved Weeks of negotiations resulted in announcement a few days ago that the United States and Great Britain had practically completed the application of the principle of equality to the cruiser strength of the two powers which has been greatly out of balance in Britain's favor. Only a few minor details are yet to be adjusted—principally whether the United States shall build 21 8-inch gun cruisers or 18 such, plus several smaller cruisers which Britain holds is adequate.

This agreement is tentative depending upon the willingness of Japan, France and Italy to hold their programs down to a proportionate scale. The agreement also must be ratified by Congress and by

Aerial View Of Great Riot Which Almost Ruined Prison

Before suicide and murder ended the attempt of barricaded convicts of the Canyon City, Colo. prison to force their way out of the walls through threats of killing all guards imprisoned behind barriers with them, this is how the greatest Colorado outbreak of all times looked. Cells No. 1 and 2 were burned, as were the chapel and dining hall, where the riots started. The penitentiary is almost a total loss.

BEDFORD TO HELP PERFECT PROGRAM WEST TEXAS BODY

Midland is represented on the committee of seven outstanding West Texans appointed by A. M. Bourland, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, to study the needs of all sections of West Texas with a view of outlining a program of work that means more constructive work.

E. G. Bedford of this city has been appointed on the committee, along with C. E. Coombes of Stamford, who is chairman, Judge A. H. Britan of Wichita Falls, Judge J. D. Hamlin of Farwell, W. P. Hallmark of Dublin, Hunter Metcalf of Marfa, and Ray Nichols of Vernon.

Lackey, superintendent of schools, spoke before students at four chapel exercises.

Polecats Quite Tame When Handled By Midland Man Who Has Started A Zoo

Henry Thomas, 924 South Baird, has a private zoo at his blacksmith shop in the downtown section. Possums, ground squirrels, prairie dogs and, would you believe it?—two of the much feared little animals with the broad white stripe down their backs.

Thomas, while working in his shop looks out at his animals. "They give me a sense of satisfaction that I couldn't feel otherwise," he says. "They are cunning, always up to some peculiar trick known individually to them. There is lots to be learned by studying animal psychology."

Thomas went around to the cage containing the 'possums and skunks. "See, the little kitties are all right," he said, picking one of them up in his arms.

While everyone stood back to see the result of the zoo owner's temerity, Thomas ran his hands over the black and white cat, which lay passive as though it were a lap dog. "You see, I've had an operation performed on the musk bags of the animals," he said. "At first I had six skunks, but everybody wanted one when it was learned that the animals were not offensive. I sold four and retain a male and female for my little zoo."

The two 'possums are seemingly drowsy, dumb fellows, Thomas pointed out, but they play all sorts of tricks on each other. One of these claims Weatherford as his home, the other was caught in a woodpile near the Williams-Miller gin. Both are males.

A bunch of kangaroo rats, and prairie dogs occupy another cage. The prairie dogs, for a long time tame, have become bad about biting the fingers of the inquisitive lately. Thomas ascribes their insatiable appetite for fingers to their having been teased by small boys. "I throw a handkerchief into their cage each day," the owner said. "The cunning squirrels drag it into their den, make it into a bed which they use religiously every morning in the warm sun. Cleanliness in the family is a daily observation with

San Antonio barely crossed the $100,000 mark, but Fort Worth and Dallas dropped back into the five-figure class. Tabulations for the week follow:

OIL ACTIVITY IN HOBBS AREA NECESSITATES MARKING ROADS

Activity in the Hobbs, New Mexico, oil area is on the increase, according to representatives of companies with offices here, a number of proposed locations having been made within the last few days.

The Walker No. 1 Terry well on section 10-19-38, producing on last report 1,000 barrels of oil daily; and the Humble producer which had the rig fire and which is deepening to find greater production, have been responsible for a number of offset locations. The new area is about a mile south of the Mid-West Capps producer.

The Walker No. 2 will be located in the southwest corner of the southwest corner of the southeast quarter of section 10-19-38; and the Mid-West has the rig up for an offset to the west, and is to have a location offsetting to the northwest. The Shell Petroleum Corporation has a proposed location on the Thorpe land, offsetting the Walker well to the north; and in the northwest corner of section 35-18-38, a location on state land is proposed by Lancaster.

ANXIETY IS FELT OVER CANON CITY

Two Revolvers Found In Penitentiary In Colorado

CANON CITY, Colo., Oct. 7.—(P)—Fear hovered over the Colorado State Penitentiary again today, bringing tense anxiety to the routine of rehabilitating the battle scarred institution.

Coincident with the commitment of a second convict to solitary confinement, officials discovered two revolvers hidden in a coal pile. One official said he was certain that five convicts have arms.

A statement was printed in a Denver newspaper quoting an ex-convict as saying he is willing to expose a dope and liquor smuggling ring that is operating within the prison. He further charges that Boon Best, former warden, was killed because he attempted to break up the smuggling.

Midland Mufflers Rigidly Inspected

Many drivers of automobiles have not complied with the law regarding operation of cars without mufflers, or with open cut-outs, according to County Judge M. R. Hill. He calls the attention of the people to the following information about that law:

Any person operating on any public highway or street in this state a motor vehicle or motorcycle which is not equipped with a muffler, or which is equipped with a muffler cut-out, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, or by confinement in the county jail not more than ten days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

State inspectors have been in Midland recently in regard to negligence of the public to obey the state law. Judge Hill said, and will return within a few days, at which time a rigid inspection may be made.

"Many people are misinformed on one matter," Judge Hill said. "They think that an exhaust tube as long as eight feet precludes the necessity of having a muffler. They are wrong. Their mufflers must be joined."

AMENDMENT TO VOLSTEAD ACT IS INTRODUCED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(P)—An amendment to the Volstead act to make the purchase of intoxicating liquor beverage purposes prohibited under law is proposed in a bill introduced by Senator Morris Sheppard, democrat of Texas, sponsor of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The proposal would make the purchaser equally punishable with the manufacturer or seller of intoxicants. Sheppard said the amendment is necessary because of the recent court decision which held that the purchaser is not liable in connection with the act of transportation.

REPRESENTATIVE WEBB OF ODESSA TO FIGHT ISSUE

Land problems, including vacancies, excess lands, validation of outstanding titles and the venue of suits affecting titles are to be discussed by Senator Small, Representative Storey and Judge Coombes; and Representatives Henry S. Webb, Odessa, Carl Rountree, Lamesa, and Penrose Metcalf of San Angelo will sponsor legislation designed to remedy a situation brought about by areas said to be infested by pink bollworms, when the W. T. C. C. meets in El Paso.

Representative Webb also gave out from his home in Odessa last week his intention to fight the Sterling road plan, in case the W. T. C. C. should favor that plan.

CRASH VICTIM A NEPHEW OF MRS. ERIKSEN HERE

When a wing of his five-place ship buckled, Lt. Jack Brooks, Dallas contractor, and three of his companions, Leon Lynch and Allen Powell of Centerville and Marvin Botter of Teague, fell to their death Sunday afternoon, according to a telegram received here by Mrs. Ed Eriksen from her brother, D. S. Brooks, father of Lt. Brooks.

Mrs. Eriksen left for Dallas this afternoon, to be at the funeral. The wing gave way at an altitude of 1,500 feet and the ship shot to earth with the disabled wing folded back over the cockpit. The nose of the ship was buried deep in the earth.

All were believed to have died almost instantly. A call was sent to Madisonville for an undertaker, and pending his arrival the bodies are held at Leona.

Reginald M. (Jack) Brooks, 28, was considered one of the best flyers at Love Field, having received his transport pilot's license in 1923 and having flown nearly 5,000 hours. He was a native of Dallas.

He had taken off from Love Field Sunday morning for Leona on a business trip in connection with work of his company, of which he was vice-president, the B. F. Construction Company of Love Field. Excavating and highway work is their line. His plane is a Ryan J-6, five-place ship, powered with a nine-cylinder Wright Whirlwind motor.

Information received in Dallas was that the left wing came off at 1,500 feet. His survivors are his wife, Mrs. R. M. Brooks, 4210 Haskell Place; two sons, Rex Brooks and Jack Brooks of Dallas; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Brooks of Carthage, Mo., now en route home, where the company has some work under way, and after they had spent several days in Dallas; two brothers, Earl Brooks of Dallas and Fred Brooks of San Saba, and three sisters, Mrs. C. L. Barton of Centerville, Mrs. Grace Luth of Winona, Miss., and Miss Nola Brooks of Los Angeles.

PENN GETS VALUABLE PRODUCER

Holds Attention Of Oil Fraternity Of This Area

"They're pretty much excited out there," was the comment of a Midland oil man when he returned from the R. R. Penn and Humble Oil and Refining Company's No. 1 Kloh-Rumsey well 14 miles west of Odessa this morning.

The well cleaned itself out this morning after the bailer had run about 100 feet into the fluid which had filled the hole to 3,400 feet in 36 hours, and made a head of from 150 to 200 barrels in 10 or 15 minutes, blowing oil over the derrick and on automobiles and people nearby.

The well, located on section 7, block 44, township 3 south, Ector county, is attracting the attention of oil men of the entire Midland area today, and has been watched closely for the past three days as oil was rising in the hole.

It is three miles northeast of the Texas Company-Connell well, a small producer. The Humble Oil and Refining Company owned the well originally, but gave R. R. Penn interest to drill it.

The pay was topped at 3,715-18 feet, and the hole was then deepened to 3,720-25 feet and was shut down. It filled to 3,400 feet in approximately 36 hours, and when the bailer was lowered 100 feet into the fluid this morning it was blown out and the well cleaned itself out, flowing the 150 to 200 barrels of oil in 10 or 15 minutes.

The Kloh-Rumsey or T. & P. Railway Company section, is on the R. L. York ranch. Mr. York owns alternate sections. The block of acreage is owned two-thirds by the Humble Oil and Refining Company and one-third by R. R. Penn and others.

Eldon Is "Oiled" Millard Eldson, here from his Teacounty, N. M., ranch, was one of the "innocent bystanders" at the Penn well west of Odessa this morning when it flowed over the derrick and sprayed oil over the surrounding territory. Eldson drove into town with his automobile and his clothing saturated with the liquid gold, and was proudly displaying himself and his car to friends on the streets of Midland.

A GREAT PROGRAM ENDS

The Rayburn Evangelistic Program ends tonight, as far as the actual preaching is concerned; but the effects of the program, and the benefits to Midland accruing from the month's work, will go on indefinitely.

Literally hundreds of Midland people have pledged themselves to conduct their lives on higher planes as a result of the Rayburn program, and this will be felt in Midland throughout the coming years.

Dr. James Rayburn, and his assistants, Mr. Otteson and Mrs. Stover, have won a place among Midland people and they will be missed greatly after their departure tonight.

Midland citizens will convene at the revival tabernacle tonight for the last service of the Rayburn program.

A THRILL OR A SPECTRE

Midland people should take into account that as a part of the nation they are observing this week "Fire Prevention Week."

When the fire siren is heard, and the clang of the fire truck resounds through the streets, the average citizen gets a thrill and perhaps even enjoys the feeling.

Contrast this, however, with the feeling you would have if it were your home or your place of business that the ravaging fire has attacked.

The thrill is all gone, and instead of it you face a grim spectre of destruction, and sometimes of accident or loss of life.

Look over your premises. Remove every possible fire hazard, and help the people of Midland and of the whole nation to reduce fire losses to the minimum.

PROMOTING COMMUNISM

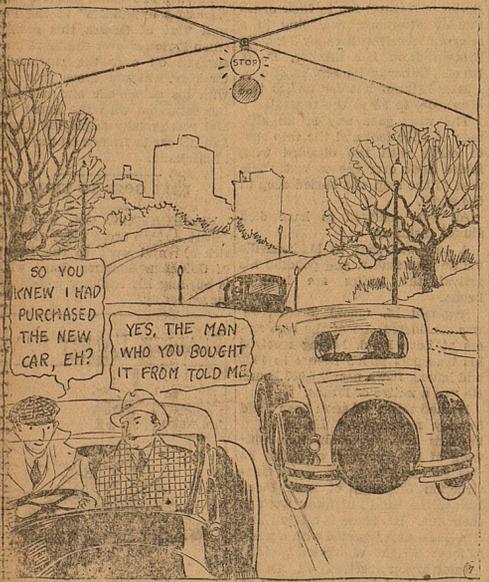

If the leaders of the North Carolina mobs that have been attacking the textile strikers are really trying to promote the cause of Communism and social unrest in this country they are doing a magnificent job, and should receive the instant congratulations of Moscow.

If, on the other hand, they are trying to preserve our established political and economical order, they are fearful bunglers and should be called off the job without delay.

You can think as you please about the rights and wrongs of the Carolina textile strike. Certainly there are two sides to it. But for the flogging of the strike leaders and the killing of a defenseless woman there is not a shadow of a defense.

What is more important is the fact that this mob violence will do more to win converts to the Communists' banner than anything else that could have happened. The ignorant fanatics who are responsible are playing directly into the hands of the strikers.

SUPREME COURT TO HEAR COSDEN OIL LEASE SUIT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—After an all summer recess the supreme court will convene Monday with Chief Justice Taft and all of the eight associate justices expected to be present.

No controversy of outstanding national importance is presented among the 455 cases awaiting action, although some are of great local interest. For two weeks the court will devote its entire time to deciding which of the 200 petitions for review and cases on appeal, accumulating during its absence, present questions it must consider on their merits.

Cases from Texas to come before the court include: Location of monuments to mark the 100th meridian as the boundary line with Oklahoma.

Effort by the government to convict former Representative Harry M. Wurzback of the 14th congressional district of unlawfully using contributions from federal office holders in his campaign for re-election, the indictment having been set aside on the ground that the federal law did not apply to primary election.

Proceedings by water-front companies and warehouses at Texas ports to set aside rates on cotton fixed by Interstate Commerce Commission, which they claimed gave upstart competitors an illegal advantage.

Right of William Cade to a part of the money received from minerals and mineral rights on land he owned with others in Galveston, Chambers and Jefferson counties. He claims to have reserved his mineral rights when he sold his other interest to C. T. Cade.

Claim of Joseph W. Cline and others against J. S. Cosden and the Cosden Oil & Gas Co. of either $15,000 or $125,000 for oil and gas taken by them under a sublease on lands in Coleman county, owned by G. M. Gray and wife, Cline and his associates having been granted a lease by the owners. Cosden and the oil company contended they had paid $132,000, and the circuit court of appeals decided against Cline and his associates.

Effort to set aside the settlement of the estate of John S. Sankey, who died at Fort Worth, in November, 1921, on the ground that after his death, a daughter, Jacqueline, had been born who was entitled to participate in the estate.

Attempt by the Texas Power & Light Co. and the Texas Electric Service Co. to prevent Fairbanks, Merce & Co., from interfering with their business in Seymour, Commerce and other places in the state, it being contended that Fairbanks, Merce & Co., had induced the repudiation of valid contracts held by the two Texas companies.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 50 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relieve food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mr. James F. Campbell, of 1012 W. Fifth St., Little Rock, Ark., says: "I had bloating after eating. My rheumatism was so bad I could hardly raise my arms. Now I can eat anything and do a good day's work."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

Penitentiary In Demand By Cities

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The penitentiary system is NOT the homeless waif, kicked from pillar to post by communities that do NOT care to have it, it has developed in recent weeks as the Centralization Commission goes about the business of recommending a site for the new plant.

Huntsville, home of the central walls for 81 years, does not want to rid itself of the unhappy "industry." Houston has let it be known that it will protest construction of the central plant in the vicinity of Austin, where a majority of the Centralization Commission hopes to have the legislature put it. Other communities have made a bid for the penal institution.

Last winter when the prison centralization and relocation measure was being debated in the Senate, virtually every Senator who could gain recognition offered and had passed an amendment specifically exempting his community from consideration from the site.

Latest developments indicate that there will be a hard-fought controversy in both houses over the recommendations of the commission. There is clearly outlined opposition within the commission and as a result there will be two recommendations, one to build the central plant near Austin, and one to put it on property now owned by the State.

There is considerable sentiment in the legislature against purchasing new acreage for the plant. Representative S. E. Barnett of Greenville this week announced that he would join hands with those who object to putting the prison system elsewhere than on property now owned by the state.

While Governor Dan Moody's present plans are to submit the commission's findings and recommendations to a special session of the legislature early in January, he will be advised by some of his friends to alter them and if possible hasten the session to dispose of the matter before next year's political campaign gets under way.

They argue to the governor that to delay the legislative session until January would merely give some of

Ft. Worth-Midland-El Paso Air Route Will Include Breckenridge, Grima Says

Announcement that Breckenridge will be a regular stop on Southern Air Transport's Ft. Worth-Midland-El Paso passenger line beginning October 7, was made through a letter received here from Victor F. Grima, general traffic manager of this second largest subsidiary of the $200,000,000 Aviation Corporation.

"Inclusion of Breckenridge will not disturb our schedule in the least, nor will it affect our rates," Mr. Grima said, "for the simple reason the legislators an opportunity to "play the game for what it is worth" in the impending campaign.

For this reason Governor Moody is known to be inclined to get the matter through as quickly as possible and if the commission's report is completed in time he doubtless would favor convening the special session about November 15.

Even then, the legislature, if it cared to do so, could take advantage of the issue for political purposes, it has been pointed out.

The situation is fraught with possibilities and could be a major issue in the gubernatorial campaign. Unless the legislature takes action that Governor Moody feels will be to the best interests of the state he is apt to veto all legislation and either to take the problem to the people himself or get in behind some candidate who will espouse his plans.

Preliminary plans are reported under way for piping Texas natural gas to Chicago, indicating the belief on the part of the promoters that the Panhandle gas supply is ample for many years.—Texas Commercial News.

The westbound plane, which leaves Dallas at 10:45 and Fort Worth at 11:05 a. m., will reach Breckenridge at noon, Abilene at 12:40, Sweetwater at 1:05, Big Spring (where luncheon is served) at 1:45, Midland at 2:35 and El Paso at 4:15 p. m., although this last is Mountain time. Similarly, the eastbound plane, which leaves El Paso at 10 a. m., Mountain time, arrives at Breckenridge at 4:05 p. m., and leaving there at 4:10 p. m., arrives at Fort Worth at 5:10 and Dallas at 5:30 p. m.

"Sometime ago we told the people of Breckenridge that we would make it a regular stop just as soon as its airport was made adequate," Mr. Grima said. "This has now been done, with clearing of a wide north and south runway 2500 feet long."

Odessa Man Does Not Recognize Ector County; Says He Hails From Russia

ODESSA, Oct. 7.—A small man with a noticeable foreign accent dropped into the newspaper office here Thursday, and announced that he was "from Odessa" and wanted two copies of the local paper to send back home. Upon inquiry, the puzzled editor learned that the gentleman was a native of Odessa, Russia, the famous city on the coast of the Black Sea for which the West Texas town was named.

The visitor gave his name as Harry Wineberg, now a resident of Detroit, Michigan, while on his way to California he passed through this city, and noticing the sign bearing the name of his native city on the newspaper office here, stopped off to investigate the matter. He commented on the fact that

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

A man was explaining to me a new idea he was sure would fill a much-needed want in our present day existence.

He proposed a furniture exchange, like an automobile exchange—you could turn in your last year's furniture and buy this year's models, allowing a certain percentage for wear and depreciation.

Said he: "A man takes pride in driving the newest model in a car, and to have the newest improvements on it. He likes other people to know that he is progressive.

"Now why should his wife use the same furniture year after year, when never and handsomer pieces are being turned out? Why not exchange a dining room set when one is tired of it, and have the latest style?"

"There are folks today using the furniture they bought when they started to keep house a quarter of a century ago. They aren't wearing the same clothes, are they? This is an age of progress."

WHAT ABOUT ANTIQUES?

"Do you think women want constantly to be changing?" I asked. "Don't you suppose they get attached to their possessions, and care for them? And don't you know that many women, who can buy antiques just because they like the mellowness and the association that only time can give?"

"That's all right," he agreed. "We could have antiques, too. A woman could change her antiques when she got tired of them—the point is, people want to change. They want variety. This is an age of progress." The man was thoroughly sold on this idea; he is a clever promoter, and I shall not be surprised to see him put the idea into effect, and start an effective program of advertising that will make women self-conscious about their furnishings, and as unwilling to be out of style in consols as in coats.

THE HUMAN SIDE
This recalled a sad scene I once witnessed, of a little old lady, unassertive and bewildered, whose furniture was being disposed of by two daughters who had all the assurance she lacked.

"You are too old to live alone, mother," said one. "You can have a room at my house and one at Grace's and you can spend your time between our homes as you will."

"And we will call in the second-hand man to dispose of all this heavy, old furniture. You won't need it any more. I should think you would be glad to see the last of this heavy black walnut stuff, that needs a truckman to move. And these old carpets—at our homes you will have nice clean hardwood floors and rugs—"

And so they went on. And between them, they completely transplanted the old mother from the possessions of a life time, quite disregarding the heartbreaking appeal of her agonized face. The daughters meant well, and thought they were being sensible in dealing with a sentimental old lady.

They could not, or would not, realize that that black walnut furniture had been bought piece by piece in a day when they represented the stability and beauty every housewife craved. It had been saved for, shopped for and cared for. It was the background against which the family drama had been played.

LOVE OF OLD THINGS

Some people have a definite attachment for things as well as for people. An old rocker in which a mother has rocked her babies one by one, and that has stood in a certain spot for years, is something more than just wood and cane.

This old sense of association is dying out in this fast age, when we move into a new apartment often, rent our homes, and refurbish every few years. Maybe the time is not far ahead, when we will buy our furniture, as we do our cars, and turn back the old models each year—but I hate to see it come.

McCormick Attended Frigidaire Meeting

During the first eight months of 1929 there were 114,367 more household Frigidaires purchased than during the same period last year, according to Geo. D. McCormick, local representative, who has returned from a district convention at Galveston.

"Frigidaire was the successful bidder on 70 per cent of all government electric refrigeration business, and sold 80 per cent of all electrically refrigerated ice cream cabinets purchased during that period," he said.

Thus far, he said, the ice cream industry has purchased more than $75,000,000 worth of Frigidaire products and 85 per cent of all mechanically refrigerated soda fountains use this equipment.

Chain Store Buys Office Safes Here

Purchase of two steel safes from the West Texas Office Supply Company here was made this morning by a new chain store in Midland, the United Dry Goods Stores, Inc. One of the safes is for the office at Midland and the other for Big Spring, according to L. L. Caver, manager here, who told A. E. Horst, office supply dealer, that he is buying everything he can at home.

Many Contribute To University Research

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 7.—Reports to the Texas Bureau Review, monthly bulletin issued by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas summarizing the business and industrial activities in Texas, now come from some twenty-five classes of business and industry, according to Bervard Nichols, editor. Subscribers to the bureau total approximately 5,000, an increase of nearly 20 per cent during the past year. Department store sales, textile mill activity, bank debits, cement industry, commercial failures, new corporations, labor statistics, power and utility reports, lumber activities, livestock conditions, fruit and vegetable shipments, and farm reports are included in the Review each month.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton

There are numerous causes for disobedience. When a mother goes to a specialist for advice on the subject and asks point blank, "Why don't my child obey me?" it will be practically impossible for him to be of service until he finds out by careful questioning of both mother and child every intangible detail of living conditions and their attitude to each other.

To enumerate some of these causes here may be of help to mothers who are likewise distressed over their children's insubordination.

First of all, let me say that perfect obedience is very rare and sometimes mothers set too high a standard of behavior, particularly women of little experience with children who fail to realize that children learn by mistakes.

Obedience Isn't All

To begin with, one of the commonest causes for disobedience is the fact that parents are inclined to consider it the sum total of everything. They get into the habit of thinking that there can be no other relationship between themselves and their children but "obey me." Children tire of it. What they tire of is their disregard. It is only human nature.

Second, if children try reasonably hard to satisfy parents about obeying them, but never get any credit, only more orders, more scolding, and still more laws to obey, they get discouraged and stop trying to be good altogether after awhile. They adopt the "what's the use" attitude.

Third, there is the hit and miss command. Sometimes a mother says to do a thing or not to do it, in a half-hearted fashion while she goes about her work, and never stops to see whether her order is carried out. She may go on for this way for several days, then suddenly come a day when her interest clutches.

She notices that she isn't being obeyed and Buddy gets a smack- ing.

But if she blows hot and blows cold in her attention this way, be sure Buddy is going to take a chance.

Scolding Can Be Overdone

Constant scolding causes disobedience. Children lose respect for the scolding mother in the sense that they cease to hear her. Incessant sound soon ceases to register. They don't hear her when she scolds and they don't hear when she issues orders. If they hear they attach no importance to what she says, for they know she'll scold anyway.

Sometimes children deliberately disobey until something is offered them to be good. "Do this and I'll give you a nickel." "Be quiet and I'll give you a piece of candy." What could be worse? The child thus bribed never learns to obey.

To give him a little unexpected reward once in a while is legitimate, however. It shows appreciation of his effort to do the best he can.

Honesty in directing children and interest in their affairs, on the part of the parent, and confidence and trust on the part of the child are needed for obedience. Justice, consideration, consistency and reasonableness, one part each, make a very good recipe.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

kidney trouble. This is backed up by statements of local people who have used this treatment and are loud in the praises of it. Below is a statement made by Mrs. S. M. Cozzer, of 1123 N. Seventeenth, Abilene, Texas.

"For over a year I have been in a very bad condition from stomach troubles. For about a year everything I ate soured and formed gas. I had pains and cramps in my stomach that would make me miserable for an hour or two after every meal. I was very bilious and dizzy and had severe headaches. I was weak and nervous and was in a general run down condition.

"I heard so much about Orgatone I decided to try it and before I had taken the first bottle I felt greatly relieved and since I have continued to take it I feel perfectly well, never felt better in my life. My stomach is in fine shape and I can eat anything I want and never suffer with pains and cramps like I used to. My dizzy and bilious spells are gone and I haven't had a headache since taking Orgatone. I'm not nervous as I was and I sleep fine every night. Orgatone is a good medicine and it has certainly helped me and I know it will help others who give it a fair trial." Genuine Orgatone may be bought at Midland, at the Midland Drug Co.—Adv.

ODESSA SCHOOLS HAVE EQUIPMENT THAT COSTS MUCH

ODESSA, Oct. 7.—Odessa now claims one of the best school systems, especially as regards the high school, between Fort Worth and El Paso. With the recently finished $145,000 high school plant, furnished with equipment valued at $25,000, school authorities here say the schools are in shape to care for twice the present enrollment.

With the best equipment for home economics, and manual training obtainable, the Odessa school has been designated one of the 12 special vocational schools in Texas, and experimental work in home economics will be used as the basis of future statewide programs by the state department, it is claimed.

All the courses offered in the larger schools of the state, including four years of science, commercial training, manual training, glee club and choral club work, as well as community singing are offered here. The school also has a special department of public school music for the grammar schools.

Along with the best of equipment the system claims a faculty far above the ordinary. All the members of the high school faculty have college or university degrees and all have at least a part of the work required for a masters degree. The superintendent has both M. A. and B. A. and has had 20 years of experience in his profession supplemented by wide travel.

The school has in the past few years drawn recognition from the state department and from colleges of this area. It won special mention for advancement in the last issue of the state department bulletin. The high school has 22 1-2 accredited units of affiliation and is asking for 3 1-2 more this year. It is on the accredited list of the Southern Association of Colleges and is one of the 12 special vocational schools in the state. A recent bulletin from the state department shows that 515 schools in Texas have a larger annual enrollment than the Odessa high school, but only 14 have more accredited units of affiliation.

The latest improvements and additions to the school plant made since the beginning of this term, include the terracing of the lawns for both schools, the laying of more sidewalks, and general landscaping. The grammar school has also recently installed $438 worth of equipment for visual instruction by means of lanterns and slides.

The Texas public school system comprises 1,000 independent and about 7,000 common school districts with school property valued at $179,200,598. —Texas Commercial

TEXAS UNIVERSITY LIKE AN HEIR WHO CANNOT CLAIM HIS LEGACY

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 7.—(UP)—With an estate valued at $200,000,000 the University of Texas is like an heir who cannot claim his legacy.

As a result the "richest university" is still partly housed in frame shacks erected on its campus. Elaborate plans to equip it in the style to which its wealth entitles it have been made by the Board of Regents, but the change will have to be a gradual one.

The wealth of the school lies in land, with which it was endowed by the Republic of Texas. The endowment provided that only the income from the lands might be used and that was made the sole fund for providing buildings. Texas courts have held that oil is part of the land itself. Therefore the immense oil deposits that bring royalties to the University of Texas come under the same rule.

To date the royalties on oil have amounted to nearly $12,000,000 and they are coming in at the rate of approximately $200,000 a month. Under the law this income itself cannot be used. The annual income accruing from investment of the monthly income is all that may be used for buildings. Until this year, only Texas state and governmental bonds have been available. The last legislature amended the law so that at the present Texas city and county bonds and district bonds may also be purchased.

Many plans are being studied to hurry construction.

One proposal is to permit the regents to pledge the annual income from the invested fund to pay off a bond issue for immediate building. A difficulty is that when Chief Justice C. M. Cureton of the State Supreme Court was attorney-general of the state, he advised that this could not be done. Succeeding attorneys general have advised that it could not be done, but it is feared that bond buyers would be shy of such bonds until a court decision indicated whether Judge Cureton had changed his view or if legal means to meet his objections had been found.

A partial relief was given by the last legislature when it authorized building or dormitories on University of Texas land to be paid out of rentals. Insurance companies are now dickering with University officials and are expected to erect such dormitories.

Only a small part of the University's land is under oil lease. Most of it is still leased only for grazing purposes. Five thousand acres in three counties was advertised for oil lease on Oct. 1. Bonuses totaling $165,000 were paid for 3 year leases and in addition the University will get from one-eighth to one-sixth of all the oil that is produced. Earlier oil leases have netted the university only an eighth of the oil, without any bonus.

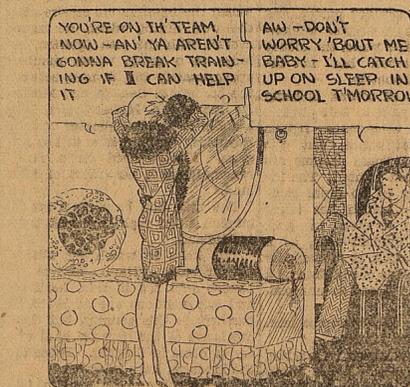

Disposal of this acreage leaves more than 1,000,000 acres still unexplored for oil. It was R. L. Bates, attorney for leading oil companies who testified at a recent legislative hearing that the prospective value of the land is $200,000,000.

The latest building plan calls for eight dormitory buildings, an administration building, a building devoted to history and classical languages, a new engineering building, a new department building, a business administration building, a general class room building, a new library, a women's gymnasium building, and a student union building which is being erected jointly by the University and Student Union contributions. Estimated cost of these buildings is $3,500,000.

TEXAS UNIVERSITY TO PLAY PORKERS ON HOMECOMING FOR OPENER

Odds Favor Athletics in Citadel of Cubs, Dope Seems to Say

TEXAS AGGIES VS. KANSAS AGGIES PROMISES TO BE HARD TILT TOO; TCU VS. GENTS

With the high school trying to get a game for an open date which has showed up in its schedule, chief football attention of this section of the state has turned to an intersectional game which has as one of its participants another Southwestern conference squad.

Texas university goes over to the invincible home ground of the Arkansas university Razorbacks on homecoming. A. & M. college plays an intersectional tilt with the Kansas Aggies at Dallas.

Other southwestern schools and who they play: SMU gets Austin College, Friday, at Dallas; TCU plays Centenary, Shreveport, Saturday; Baylor takes on the St. Edwards Saints, at Waco, Saturday, and Rice plays Southwestern at Houston, Saturday.

Texas Injured

With all non-conference starts under their belt, and a tough conference schedule ahead of them, the 1928 conference champions will settle down to a week of hard work and plenty of it as they start preparation for their first conference clash with the University of Arkansas Razorbacks at Fayetteville, October 12. The Texas game has been designated homecoming day for the Porkers, and in the past the Razorbacks have trimmed any invading team on that date.

Injuries have hurt the Texas forward wall of late, and the reserves have been getting plenty of work. If the injured linemen come through as they should this week, the Steers will be able to present a fairly strong wall to the powerful Arkansas eleven. From all reports, the Arkansas eleven have the heaviest line of any club in the conference and their line power plays are going to be plenty hard to stop by a lighter and less experienced line. Brown, Burnett and Beatty are the only veteran linemen that Texas will have to start the fray with, though "Ox" Emerson and Henry Mills are squadmen from last season and may get a start. Baumgarten, a sophomore guard, and Nick Garoura, a junior member, have been handicapped by injuries and have not had a chance to really show their ability as yet.

The backfield supremacy will rest with Texas, as the locals have the best backfield in the loop with Shelley, Perkins, Rees, Beular, Meadows, Beard, Elkins, Laughlin and Brown to pick from, though Lewis Weaver should recover from his injured shoulder by that time and be in the lineup. Weaver can outkick Shelley and Perkins, and Snag passes with the best of them. A week of secret work will be dished out to the Texans, with the heads, a freshman squad, offering them opposition in scrimmage this week. The first year men will be drilled in Porker plays and use them on the Varsity eleven, while the Varsity will perfect their plays for the Porkers.

Although its development is comparatively new, Texas is fourth state in the production of gypsum with total sales value of $3,094,145 last year. New York, Iowa and Michigan led Texas.—Texas Commercial News.

TCU SQUAD OLD ENOUGH TO BE ABLE TO VOTE

FORT WORTH, Oct. 7.—More than three tons of football brain are available for use by Coach Francis Schmidt of Texas Christian University. This figure represents the combined weight of the 37 members of the Varsity squad to whom numbers have been assigned.

The average weight is 169 pounds, Phil Handler, guard from Fort Worth who is playing his third year, topping the squad with his 206 pounds, and the fleet-footed Kenneth ("Football") Moore from Dallas, playing his first year at half, bringing up the rear at 140 pounds. The average height of the Frog players is 5 feet, 10.7 inches. If all 37 men could stand each on each other's shoulders, the combined height would reach 218 feet. The tallest player is Roy Eury, Fort Worth, playing his last year at end, who measures 6 feet, 3 inches. Leo Butler, Holland, guard, stands but 5 feet, 6 inches.

The T. C. U. squad is old enough to vote, for the average age is exactly 21 years. The combined ages of the 37 total 777 years. Three of the players are 24 years of age, Howard Baxter, end from Dallas; Virgil Roberts, fullback from Stephenville; and Ralph Walker, end from Cleburne. T. W. Roberts, Waco, playing his first year at end, is but 17 years old.

The average number of years played on the team is 1-9. Nine men are playing their last season for the Purple and White—Noble Atkins, Crystal Falls, center; Milford Barr, Kaufman, tackle; Cept. Lester Brumblow, Jacksboro, guard; Roy Eury, Fort Worth, end; Howard Grubbs, Kaufman, quarter; Phil Handler, Fort Worth, guard; Robert Moore, Van Alstyne, center; Robert Moore, Graham, tackle; and Ralph Walker, Cleburne, end.

Fourteen players are making their first appearance this season on the Frog Varsity squad. These are: T. W. Carpenter, Waco, end; Hubert Dennis, Memphis, half; Aubrey Elkins, Waco, tackle; Harlos Green, Fort Worth, fullback; J. W. Hinton, Cleburne, quarter; Stan Lambert, Temple, guard; Gordon McMahon, Cleburne, guard; Kenneth Moore, Dallas, half; Ray McCullough, Bryan, end; Ralph Ridgeway, Fort Worth, guard; Paul Snow, Winnboro, half; A. D. Weatherly, Panhandle, guard; Vance Woolwine, Fort Worth, quarter; Hal Wright, Fort Worth, half.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By FRANK GETTY, United Press Sports Editor

Still the National Pastime

The eve of another world series finds the attention of the nation fastened once more upon Chicago.

Two years ago, it was a battle for the heavyweight championship of the world which focussed thoughts of sportsmen on the Windy City.

A year or so earlier, the annual football game between the Army and the Navy made Chicago the center of attraction.

More recently, Johnny Farrell and Bobby Jones fought to a dramatic finish in the open golf championship there.

When all is said and done probably more Americans are interested in the outcome of tomorrow's engagement, and that of the entire series, than in any of the other major sports events which have brought the nation's attention upon Chicago.

Interest in baseball no longer is paramount in our larger and more sophisticated centers, but finds its way into the smaller, simpler spots where men love sport for its own sake.

The Limitations of Baseball

An established, seasonal, tightly organized sport, baseball is less elastic than other forms of athletics which have been growing so rapidly in popularity in recent years.

Whereas prize fighting, stimulated by the wizardry of the late Tex Rickard, has advanced to "million dollar gates" and $550,000 purses, and prize fighters have become millionaires within a few years, the money involved in baseball has not increased proportionately.

More money, of course, is being spent for and paid to ball players, and increasing attendance figures undoubtedly justify this, but the profits of the national pastime are not so very much greater. The increase has been in no sense comparable to that which has taken place in boxing, or even in golf.

While as for football—well, as a profitable attraction, it makes poor old baseball look as out of date as a buggy whip and about as unnecessary these days.

But all this is only by comparison. "First in the Hearts . . ."

Once the teams swing into action tomorrow, thoughts of all other sports will be banished for a couple of thrilling hours, at least.

It is doubtful if sport holds a moment fraught with a more intense thrill than that instant of hesitation—the pause in the pulse of the pastime—just before the pitcher of the home club sends the first ball of the world series whistling down the groove to the plate where the enemy's lead-off man is nervously waiting.

Baseball's inadaptability to expansion has choked the sport financially, but its very failure to change has been a factor in retaining the public's affection.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Reports today said 25 persons drowned when the Norwegian steamer "Haken VII" sank off the northwest coast of Norway last night. The steamer "Sanluca" rescued 58. Details are lacking.

Former Midland Boy With Border Patrol

E. L. Hunter, formerly of Midland and now with the border immigration service, was in Midland with G. C. Dennis, also of that service Sunday afternoon and this morning. Hunter, son of J. H. Hunter who left Midland for Uvalde in 1917, joined the immigration service after the war, during which he served overseas with the 40th Division, belongs to a group which numbers approximately 800, divided between the borders of Canada and Mexico. He married a Midland girl, Miss Manilla Reynolds, daughter of John Reynolds, who now lives in Los Angeles. Hunter lived on a farm-ranch, 15 miles northwest of Midland.

The men had been on a special mission when night overtook them in Midland.

"We have to watch for aliens," Hunter said. "Those natives of Mexico who are literate, healthful and not seditious are admitted by passport to this country, but there are many of the opposite kind who try to come in illegally. Those are the kinds we guard to watch."

The patrol guardsmen also told of underground running of Mongolians, one of the chief worries of the patrol.

"As for the skunks, I have found the best use for them that I have heard. In the house, they are death on rats, cock roaches and other objectionables. What they don't eat they kill, and there's little pre-amble on their part. They consider killing rats and mice a game, and stage numerous tricks in pursuing their rules."

Thomas has lately had correspondence with New Mexico game wardens relative to getting a pair of tassel-eared squirrels. He wrote Pinos Altos, Silver City and Santa Fe. Letters in return said that he would have to have a permit from the state game warden before getting the animals, but a subsequent letter said that, in case the animals are to be used as pets, no permit would be necessary.

Thomas, who has had owls, ravens, hawks, and other birds, as well as a badger, in his "zoo," plans to build a larger enclosed place for his animals and birds. He will then start adding to his collection each month, he says.

Daily Cotton Market

DALLAS COTTON

Trading in the cotton market during the morning session was very quiet, with fluctuations narrow, being largely an evening up affair in preparation for the government crop estimate Tuesday. According to advices it appears to be technically long in anticipation of a reduction in crop figures, there being little liquidation in evidence.

While the hedge pressure was light, spinners are said to be uneasy over the outcome of the report, while trading interests are apparently not satisfied, as is reflected by the comment of the Garside crop estimate of 14,494,000 bales.

The market opened steady, one to five points higher, and after a range in fluctuations of four to seven points, the active list on the noon calls were two to five points over Saturday's close.

Additional private crop figures were released during the morning, including the Commercial Appeal at 54.5 per cent normal with a crop estimate of 14,971,000 bales; Proctor and Gamble 54.1 per cent with crop estimated at 15,025,000 bales.

FT. WORTH LIVESTOCK

The estimate is 1800 miles greater than the present long distance flight record.

SPECULATION IS SLOW OVER THE LAST OF WEEK

The annual carnival of curves and base smacks opens Tuesday and Wednesday between the Cubs and Athletics, but a lull in betting and speculation has resulted during the week-end.

While there is no doubt of the colorful drawing power of the two clubs, interest over the Saturday-Sunday period centered in great international clash of moleskin clad warriors.

Despite preponderance of football news in newspapers of the country, however, the weather has been decidedly in favor of a baseball classic, rather than football. The series has been a sell-out from the gate standpoint.

The entire series can be seen played on The Reporter-Telegram's Playgraph board. Drive by the plant this afternoon and see the board, mounted on the roof of the porch in front of the editorial and business offices.

The Cubs came back Sunday to help enliven the pre-series situation as well as to play the closing contest of the season against the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Athletics, after winding up their American League campaign with the Yankee outfit that they dethroned, will arrive Monday afternoon, along with a number of official delegations and the vanguard of the crowd of close to 50,000 expected to jam Wrigley Field to its capacity for the opening game, which starts at 1:30 p. m. Central Standard time.

From all indications the American League champions will be slight favorites at the outset, despite the fact the Cubs, opening on their home grounds, present a seasoned, hard-hitting lineup regarded as the best the National League has sent to the post since John McGraw's Giants ruled the baseball roost.

It is a strange situation to find so much pro-Athletics' sentiment in Chicago, among the experts, in spite of the unquestioned hometown enthusiasm of the big body of fans that has cheered the men of Gen. Joe McCarthy to the pennant. In brief, the reasoning seems to be based on the ground that the American League is at present the stronger of the two circuits, that the Athletics outdistanced the Yankees, who have won the last two series in straight games, and that, therefore, the Mackmen hold the edge.

Wagering quotations here fluctuated Saturday around 6 to 5 on the Athletics, with even money, however, accepted on the opening game regardless of whether Mack sends the right handed George Earnshaw or the left handed Mose Grove against Pat Malone, conceded to be the Cub pitching choice.

Enough "dope" has been spread in the last few weeks by the players and managers as well as the experts, to settle half a dozen World Series arguments. Apparently two league presidents and Commissioner Landis are the only ones connected officially with the affair not so far enlisted as byline writers.

Based on this comment, as well as the cold figures, there is not much to choose between the series rivals. No matter how opinion may go, it is the consensus that the battle will go at least six games and probably the limit of seven. Yet that was the general expectation in each of the last two years.

Much importance is attached to the opening game, with the Cubs keyed up before a home crowd, their heavy guns trained to pierce the defense of the A's. Much confidence, too, is placed by the National League partisans in Malone, the iron man. If the Cubs get off to a flying start, under such circumstances, they may be as difficult to stop as a steamroller going down hill. On the other hand, the A's would be encouraged doubly by an opening victory, especially if Grove should do the Cub-taming and thereby destroy the impression that McCarthy's men are death on left handers.

The series schedule calls for the first two games at Chicago, Oct. 8 and 9, the next three at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, October 11, 12 and 14, the remaining two, if necessary, at Chicago, Oct. 16 and 17. All games are 1:30 p. m., Standard time, Central in Philadelphia. Nationwide hookups will broadcast the play-by-play.
