Bodies of More Than 50 Sailors Are Recovered Today

Boats Detailed To Salvage Wreck Of Ferry

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—(UP)—The cold green waters of Lake Michigan gave up their prey stubbornly today, relinquishing one by one the bodies of more than 50 sailors who went down on the Grand Trunk car ferry Milwaukee.

There was still no trace of five bodies known to have gone down. The hulk of the ferry was found.

Today airplanes were winging above the choppy waves in search of victims. The body of Captain Robert McKay was recovered. His creed was "Ferry always run, damn the weather." Coast guardsmen believe the ferry floundered off Wind Point where the storm struck with the most fury. Waves were crashing over a 20-foot lighthouse.

BOATS ATTEMPT SALVAGE MILWAUKEE, Oct. 25.—(R)—A dozen bodies today marked the resting place of a Lake Michigan steamer and revealed the fate of a crew of 54. Each encased in a lifebelt, they floated among wreckage from their ill fated ship, the grand trunk car ferry Milwaukee.

SHELL PETROLEUM OFFICIALS HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

A group of Shell Petroleum Corporation officials, including President U. Dab Daley and Vice-President George Williams, production manager, both of St. Louis, E. G. Allen, general superintendent of the central division, Dallas, and Lord Bearstead, stockholder and son of Lord Bearstead, one of the founders of the Shell corporation, London, Eng., left Midland this morning for the Yates field, from which they will go to Houston and New Orleans after looking over properties of this section.

The officials were met in Poyte Thursday by C. W. Alcorn, state official of the Shell corporation. Alcorn accompanied the group to Poyte this morning, according to D. T. Ross, mechanical engineer of the Midland office of the Shell Corporation.

Lord Bearstead joined the party Thursday night in Midland, coming in on the night train from California.

Rollins and Allen were in Midland recently as passengers of the Golden Shell Fokker trimotor flagship of the company.

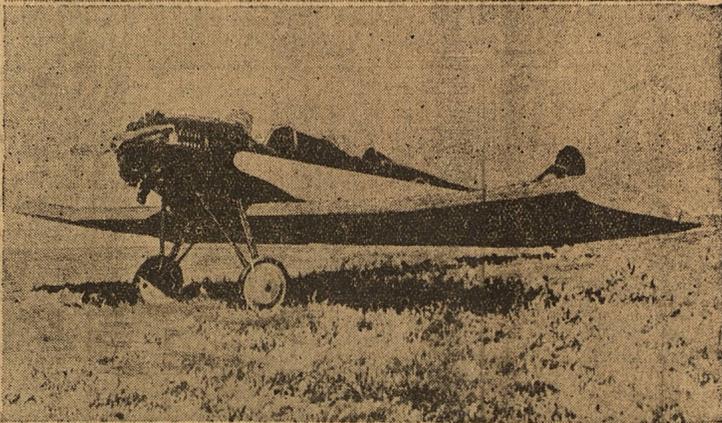

Golladay Heifers Now On Full Feed

S. O. Golladay, who pastured 200 head of heifers through the summer, allowing them to run a few hours a day on a large field of sudan, has these cattle on full feed now and is finishing them for market.

The cattle have been on full ration of cotton seed meal, commercial fattening feed, and ground Manco maize stalks for five days. Golladay expects to have a load ready for market without 40 or 50 days.

He selected more than 100 tops out of the herd of heifers to keep, and is fattening the tail end of the herd. On account of the dry weather, the sudan field aided greatly in keeping the heifers in good flesh during the summer, and they have made a great deal of growth.

Montana Airman Lost In Flight Across The Atlantic

Picture shows Urban F. Diteman Jr., and his low wing Barling monoplane, the Golden Hind, in which he attempted to fly the Atlantic. The hopoff was made with an utter absence of advance publicity, and a most nothing was known of Diteman's plans. The start was made from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, at 12:15 p. m., St. John's time. Mrs. Diteman, in Billings, Mont., seemingly was the only person beside the pilot who knew of the adventure. The plane carrying 165 gallons of gasoline, had for its destination London, a flight of approximately 2,350 miles. Nothing has been heard of it or of the flyer since his takeoff.

Lovely Costumes, Riotous Humor To Be Seen Tonight As Little Theater Plays

"The Whole Town's Talking," about the Little Theater tonight, according to Mrs. George Abell, director of the premier production of the new amateur play season here. "Tickets are going fast today, almost beyond expectation," she said. "Those people who wish to get reserve seats must do so at once, as most of the reserve section has been taken."

Tickets will be on sale at the box office of the theater at 7 o'clock. The curtain will be raised promptly at 8:15. The Little Theater will always begin its productions exactly as announced during this season."

Early morning rehearsals have been held two days this week in the theater in order that the stage of the theater could be used. All other rehearsals were held at the "Home of the Little Theater," in the Masonic Hall. The players did not necessarily require the rehearsals, for the play has been ready for production for almost two weeks. The director merely wanted stage directions and properties used to advantage, hence the morning rehearsals at an hour when the theater was not being used.

The cast of the play is ready, as are all properties. The play itself is thought to be the most clever ever attempted in Midland. Little Theaters over the country have staged "The Whole Town's Talking" with extraordinary success. The director believes the play will be the most successful she has directed, and she has a notable string of them to her credit, including some in Midland, among them "The Brat" and "The Valiant" and "The Ca-jun." One of these, "The Valiant," was invited to enter the National Little Theater tournament last year.

The "first nighters" are certain to be delighted with this play, as well as the costumes worn by the feminine members of the cast. Gowns and creations were selected from the Kaydelle Shop, with the exception of a white evening gown worn by Mrs. Margaret F. Clark, who plays the part of a famous motion picture star.

Miss Adelle Marcus, daughter of a wealthy manufacturer in the supporting lead, wears four costumes during the night. The first is a Hunter green tuck-in suit and a tan and brown jersey. In the second act, there is an English green wool gorgette with pleated frills of egg-shell crepe and, in the last act, a crimson moire evening gown.

Mrs. S. M. Warren and Mrs. E. W. Anguish appear in lovely sports dresses, with hats to match. Mrs. M. S. Peters wears a navy blue gorgette in the first act and a simple little tan crepe morning dress in the second. She is indeed lovely in the third act as she appears in a black chiffon dinner dress.

Mrs. Margaret F. Clark, in the role of the movie vamp, is stunning in one of the new silhouette dresses of black crepe, long and fitted in princess lines. This gown is a new arrival at the Kaydelle Shop and much interest is being shown in the long skirts. Miss Marcus came to Midland last February from Wichita Falls to open the Kaydelle shop. She is a member of the Little Theater, and had "played in" and directed productions in Wichita Falls before coming to Midland.

General Conditions In Midland Good

The summary of weather reports, range and crop conditions of this district for week ending Oct. 22, as sent out from Amarillo by the Weather Bureau of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, shows the following:

Light to moderate showers occurred over the district except eastern and southern portion of West Texas. Temperatures continue generally above seasonal (average). Weather continues favorable for livestock and ranges, which are reported in fair to good condition generally.

The warm weather with cloudiness and moderate showers has been beneficial to sown wheat. Row crop harvesting delayed somewhat by showers. No frost yet.

EL PASO TOLD MIDLAND INTERESTS: MUCH PUBLICITY GIVEN BY PASO PRESS

Midland's chamber of commerce secretary, Paul T. Vickers, has been described as being that sort of fellow who, "if he should be thrown into a desert would bob up with a story on someone's front page," has written several stories for each of the El Paso newspapers relative to Midland and its possibilities.

The following story which ran in The Times under the heading "Midland People Interested in Oil, Farm-

OLD CLOTHES DRIVE FOR POOR TO BE STAGED BY ROTARY CLUB

Definite action on a proposal by the president, Malcolm M. Meek, was taken Thursday by Midland Rotary Club, to hold an old clothes drive for the benefit of needy people in Midland.

Meek has seen the drive conducted successfully every year in a city where he formerly lived, and his system makes the drive highly effective.

"DUSTY" WALLER, RESIGNED HOTEL MANAGER, HAS WAY OF ADVERTISING MIDLAND; PUTS SIGNS IN JUAREZ

When "Dusty" Waller, former manager of Hotel Scharbauer here, goes to El Paso on a visit El Paso newspapers give him personal mention in a "streamer" across the top of a page. On the occasion of his visit there this week as a delegate from Midland to the W. T. C. C. convention the news caption read: "Dusty Waller Returns. 'Flying Hotel Man,' formerly manager of Hotel Hussman, Delegate Here."

Under a two-column photo of "Dusty," a long story was run, one which filled the page. Part of the story is herewith produced:

MIDLAND, Texas.—H. W. "Dusty" Waller, former manager of Hotel Hussman and erstwhile manager of the famous Forked Lightning Dude Ranch of Tex Austin at Rowe, N. M., will arrive in El Paso on the opening day of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention via airplane together with the delegation from Midland, Texas, where he is now manager of the beautiful Hotel Scharbauer.

Waller, beside his national circle of admiring fellow hotel men, numbers among his personal friends such figures in aviation as Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Art Gobel, Brock and Schlee, Amelia Earhart, Phoebe Omie and many others. Col.

Lindbergh, on two of his visits to El Paso, was "Dusty's" personal guest, sharing his apartment at Hotel Hussman rather than occupy a private room.

"Dusty" Waller is advertising Midland in his own way, according to a letter to The Reporter-Telegram from an El Paso newspaperman.

"A group of us, (newspapermen, hotel managers, chamber of commerce officials, fliers and others) went over to Juarez for a time, and—honestly—Juarez was more like Midland than it was Juarez—Dusty Waller in a ten gallon hat had been over and strung Midland signs and banners everywhere. There was a sign of the Midland airport, Scharbauer hotel, Petroleum building, cattle scenes, and what not.

"Dance floors in Juarez looked like airdrome terraces, what with the 'Midland, Air Center of West Texas' signs up and other banners scattered about."

"Dusty," as he is known to everyone in El Paso, is one of the most picturesque and colorful figures El Paso has produced since its earliest days. Coming to the city at an early age from his ranch home in New Mexico, "Dusty" formed the friendship of M. B. Hutchins, manager of "The Lodge" at Cloudcroft. His first position in the hotel business was as key clerk at The Lodge in Cloudcroft. He later came to El Paso and started as key clerk at the Paso del Norte, rising swiftly from that position to assistant manager, which position he left to join the Orndorf Hotel as assistant manager when that hostelry was opened by R. Burt Orndorf. When the property was acquired by the Hussman interests, he became manager of the hotel and occupied that position until his resignation late in 1928 to become manager of Tex Austin's Dude Ranch.

Waller, though young in years, is old in experience, and is regarded by authorities as not only the youngest man to have attained national importance as vice president of the Hotel Greeters of America, but also as one of the most astute hotel men and showmen in the entire United States. His success in bringing almost unaided, to El Paso the national convention of the Hotel Greeters of America in 1928, early marked him as a figure of national

ABILENE IS AFTER NEXT CONVENTION

Deficit Of $18,000 Lies Ominously In Background

EL PASO, Oct. 25.—(P)—The policy and work of West Texas Chamber of Commerce for 1930 stood forth as major subjects for consideration when hundreds of delegates assembled today in Liberty Hall, with the $18,000 deficit this year ominously in the background.

There was still a distinct rumbling of dissolution or reorganization of the chamber.

Talk revolved around the deficit and the waning interest of the past several months. Abilene is the only contestant for next year's convention.

The Midland exhibition booth at the El Paso meeting of the W. T. C. C. convention is attracting much attention for several reasons. It was the first booth to be erected, in the first place, and is filled with attention-challenging exhibits. Thousands of persons have wandered past it and looked at the oil painting of the Petroleum building, the photos of the airport, cattle, farms, schools, business houses, and other pictures exhibited.

Paul T. Vickers, Midland secretary of the chamber of commerce, was a guest at the governor's luncheon held in honor of Governor Moody, back from a hunting trip in Mexico. The secretary was present as a director of the Broadway of America, best all-weather highway across the continent.

Speaking of Waller, it's almost inconceivable the way he has stretched Midland publicity around hotels of El Paso and cafes of Juarez. Being well known by everyone over the El Paso area, he has succeeded in doing an incalculable amount of good through his representation there.

E. G. Bedford, on the committee shaping future work for the W. T. C. C. and a member of the resolutions committee of the organization, spoke at a meeting of secretaries. Paul T. Vickers presided at the meeting. Bedford planned to have a luncheon for the secretaries in order to tell them about the Mid-Continent Royalty Owners Association.

Large Crowd Met Ft. Worth Special

More Midland people met the Fort Worth special train, bound for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at El Paso late Thursday, than at any other town or city on the route, according to statements made by some of the visitors while they were here.

The long special arrived here shortly after 7 o'clock carrying two bands and a large number of Fort Worth citizens, and spent 20 minutes at the depot. During this time the bands were playing constantly and the Fort Worth visitors fraternized with Midland people. Many souvenirs were given out.

The Midland high school band and the pep squad met the visitors, giving music, yells and songs during the time the crowd waited for the train. No formal speeches were made.

ELECTED BAR HEAD

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Henry Upson Sims of Birmingham today was elected president of the American Bar Association at its 52nd annual convention.

WALLER MANAGER OF NEW HOTEL TO GO UP IN EL PASO

"Dusty" Waller, popular hotel man who is well known throughout the entire country, announced just before leaving Midland for El Paso Wednesday as a delegate to the W. T. C. C. convention, that L. E. La Fon, former manager of the Lubbock hotel, would succeed to the management of Hotel Scharbauer.

Waller's resignation was to become effective immediately upon arrival of La Fon, who took charge this morning.

"Dusty," whose life reads like a novel, will return to El Paso to supervise construction of a great apartment hotel to be built in an exclusive residential section overlooking miles of country across the Rio Grande. He is to be manager of the new structure, which will be built on lines quite different from anything in the Southwest. When completed, the apartment hotel will have tennis courts, handball rooms, natatoriums, gymnasiums, stables for at least ten blooded horses, and other distinctive features.

"There's something I want to get over to everyone in Midland," the genial hotel man said before taking a N. A. T. plane with E. L. Nelson, N. A. T. district passenger agent, for El Paso. "In all my life I have never wanted to express appreciation of any people as I do these people in Midland. From the mayor and various city councilmen, through the secretary and membership of the chamber of commerce, airport officials and attaches, the air fraternity, the editor and writers of The Reporter-Telegram, owners of Hotel Scharbauer, and so on down to the very night porters of the hotel and the men who sweep the streets—I have nothing but appreciation to state. The fact that I am going to El Paso does not in any way reflect upon my appreciation of Midland. I hope to be in a position there to be host to Midland in El Paso as Midland has been to me in Midland.

"I wish for Hotel Scharbauer all the good fortune possible to a modern hotel such as it is, and extend the same wish to the new manager, Mr. La Fon, of the hotel and to every Midland inhabitant."

Dusty says the co-operation of Midland has meant much to him, that Midland has an expression of collectively saying: "What can I do for you?"—not necessarily: "How do you do?" He is now in El Paso still boosting Midland, putting up publicity in El Paso and Juarez, and representing Paul T. Vickers pro tem as a director of the Broadway of America highway commission, which body meets simultaneously with one of the meetings of the W. T. C. C. convention being held there.

"Dusty" was born on a ranch in the Pecos valley of New Mexico. He is married, Mrs. Waller and little daughter, Ann, living with him in the Scharbauer here. The manager started hotel work as night clerk at the famous Cloudcroft, N. M., Lodge, after having gone to school at Carlsbad, N. M., El Paso, and at the El Paso A. & M. college. Successively, he was key clerk at the Paso del Norte hotel in El Paso, mail clerk, cashier, night clerk, room clerk, chief clerk, then assistant manager.

He resigned to become assistant manager of the New Orndorf hotel, which position he held at the time the hotel was acquired by the Hussman interests, whereupon he was advanced to the post of manager.

In November, 1928, "Dusty" placed his resignation, effective Jan. 1 of this year, in order to take over the assistant management of Tex Austin's famous Forked Lightning ranch, a "dude ranch" which has attracted national prominence.

He was there until he took over the management of Hotel Scharbauer. That he is still "going up" is evinced by the new position he has

JURY OUT MORE THEN 23 HOURS

Former Secretary Of Interior Displays Little Emotion

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Former secretary of the Interior Albert Fall was found guilty today of a charge of receiving a bribe of $100,000 from E. L. Doheny, millionaire oil man, for the lease of the Elk Hills naval oil lease in 1922. The jury recommended that Fall be shown mercy.

The jury had been out 23 hours and 60 minutes, and the verdict was given after seven ballots had been taken. The verdict was handed down nearly eight years after Fall had received the money from Doheny, a friend.

Fall showed little emotion when the verdict was read, but his wife sobbed. Defense attorneys gave notice that they will present a motion for a new trial and a motion arresting judgment.

When the verdict was read, Doheny made an impassioned outburst of rage. "The jury didn't try the case," he said, "the judge tried it."

HUDSPETH WRITES THAT AIRLINE IS TO BE DISCUSSED

The Interdepartmental Committee on Airways will hold a hearing in the Post Office Department in Washington at ten o'clock on the morning of November 25, 1929, to consider the advisability of establishing a civil airway along a southwestern transcontinental route. According to a letter from Claude B. Hudspeth, to The Reporter-Telegram. The letter quotes W. Irving Glover, second lieutenant postmaster general, and continues:

"In the event you or any of your constituents desire to present views in the matter, an opportunity will be afforded to do so at this hearing, or they may send such letter or position as they may desire and the same will be given proper consideration."

The southwestern route referred to means a line through El Paso, Midland, and Dallas from Los Angeles, chambers of commerce along that line believe, and a movement for getting the route designated as been launched for several months. An effort will be made to heavily petition for the line.

TWO SIDES TO THE GAME LAW

There are two angles for observing the new game law amendments, according to statements made and letters sent to the Reporter-Telegram editor.

Two ranchmen said yesterday that they are strong for the law, as it is the first time they have ever had control of their own pastures.

However, the complaints which have been made to the editor have not been from this source. Every land owner is granted his right to post his pasture, and hunters who want to abide by the law are seeking only to hunt in the pastures where they have permits.

What they object to is the clause, said to be in the law and said to be the basis of arrests, whereby a hunter can be arrested and fined just because he has a gun in his possession in a pasture where he doesn't have a permit to hunt.

It is the contention of the editor that in many cases a hunter will have to go through other pastures to get to the one where he has a permit. As it has been brought to his attention, a hunter will do well not to get caught with a gun before he gets to the pasture where his permit is good. If he is caught, whether shooting or not, he is said to be liable for arrest and fine.

Many believe that they could beat the law in courts higher than that of the justice of peace, but who wants to have to hire attorneys and go through a few courts just to carry a point about his hunting privileges?

The average law abiding citizen does not want to be arrested at all. He doesn't even want to be stopped and questioned as it puts him in the light of being under suspicion.

A repeal of the clause making it possible to arrest a man with a gun, whether hunting or not, just because he is in a pasture en route to the one where he has a permit, would go a long way toward maintaining the respect of the law abiding citizen for the other clauses in the law. The Reporter-Telegram favors a repeal of this clause.

IT'S INTERESTING, ANYWAY

The Senate's investigation of Lobbyist Shearer's connection with the shipbuilding firms may not be able to establish definitely that gentleman's exact status as a paid propagandist, but it is, at least, uncovering some highly interesting facts.

It is rather noteworthy, for instance, that American shipbuilding interests raised a $143,000 "slush fund" to lobby through Congress the Jones-White marine act which was designed to put the government's shipping business in the hands of private interests.

It is, also, rather interesting to contemplate the virtuous indignation of the shipbuilders who insist that Shearer was retained by them at Geneva simply as "an observer." Our shipbuilders must be prosperous, indeed, if it is worth $50,000 to them to get from a private reporter precisely the same news that they could get for three cents a day in any good newspaper.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—After the first large crop of lobbyists had forced through the Assumption bill with the aid of heavily interested congressmen and officials, thereby enriching the speculators, both lobbyists and speculators turned their attention to the rich lands to the west.

Manufacturing and other special classes needed no special lobby to aid them in the early days. Wealthy, propertied men occupied the seats of congress, and were able to legislate for themselves as a class. But there were many enterprising persons who saw great opportunities in the new country and these either hired lobbyists or came to the seat of government themselves. Most of the land in the northeast had already been taken when the Assumption went into effect, but vast areas remained in the south and the middle and far west.

A Lot Of Bribery
Companies of distinguished citizens, largely composed of traders and bankers, employed bribery and corruption on a large scale, the evidence shows, either to get land grants or have favorable laws passed or to evade existing laws regarding remuneration as was often done with connivance of Land Office officials. There were no laws tending to help the small settlers. Everything did help the speculators who wanted to sell small lots at exorbitant prices.

In carrying out this great work, both in Congress and the legislatures, the old lobby dug itself in.

There were many protests at the big land grabs, but cupidity defeated indignation. Nevertheless, there were some promoters once who arranged a land split with certain members of Congress and who were actually brought to trial at the bar of Congress when the deal was publicly disclosed. But a Philadelphia lawyer argued that the land grant bill had not been passed and so no punishable offense had been committed. He won the case.

Lobbyists in the Georgia legislature, representing a group of Boston and southern capitalists, obtained millions of acres of land and bribery became such an important issue at the next election that the people chose an almost entirely new legislature which rescinded the sale act in 1796. The land was later ceded to the federal government.

The New England Mississippi Land Company had bought a million or so acres from an original buyer and although it paid little or no part, even of that amount, the prominent Boston capitalists forming the company lobbied for 11 years in Congress for indemnification. They finally got $1,000,000 from the treasury. The supreme court, which early showed a penchant for sustaining grants and franchises obtained by bribery and fraud, ruled that the legislature's original contract could not be revoked.

Bribery obtained many bank and other charters in this early period. The canal grant provided a big job for the lobbyists. Various interests wanted canals built and they would stimulate trade. The job of the lobbyists was to persuade federal and state governments that the promoting companies should be given both the appropriations to dig canals and the canals themselves.

The government began to hand out canal land grants in 1824. The Wabash and Erie Canal Company obtained 326,000 acres in land grants in the next ten years and various others received lesser acreages. Congress gave away a total of 4,224,000 acres for the canal projects, mostly in Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Few Canals Were Dug
The fundamental object of most promoting companies was plunder and to get rich quick. They asked for second, third or fourth appropriations and stole most of them, whether made in money or land, by indirect methods. Many of the promoters had little intention of building canals. One company dug a worthless little ditch and by fraudulent surveys made its congressional grant cover 100,000 acres of rich copper land in Wisconsin. The government never got them back.

For years lobbyists devoted themselves to obtaining grants of "swamp lands" which generally turned out to be valuable mineral, agricultural, timber or grazing lands.

But these early lobbyists, it would appear, were only pointing the way for the great era of lobbying and corruption which was about to be launched by railroad companies.

Science Divided As To Age Of Meteor Crater That Is One Of The Wonders Of Arizona Desert

One of the most unusual sights in northern Arizona is the "Shell Hole," or meteor crater that is situated near the town of Winslow. This immense hole in the ground which was evidently made by the falling of a meteor thousands of years ago is four thousand feet across at the pit of the crater and 600 feet deep. In a mine shaft that has been sunk by scientists to get at the body of the meteor lies under tons of sand the conglomerate mass that is believed to be the meteor itself. Inset is Joe Miller, a Navajo Indian guide with a piece of the meteor which he found at the bottom of the mine shaft. The town of Winslow has profited to a great extent by the presence of the crater, as it lies near the great Mogollon Plateau, which is one of the most beautiful sights in Arizona and attracts thousands of tourists every year.

SECTION 4. All ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance or any part thereof are hereby repealed.

SECTION 5. The fact that there exists an urgent need for more adequate traffic control to protect the lives and property of the citizens of the City of Midland, creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the rule requiring the ordinances be read on three several days be suspended and the same is done, and this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage as provided by law, and it is so ordained.

Passed and approved this 15th day of October, A. D., 1929.

Unusual Features At Presbyterian Group Conference

Eleven women from Midland were present when the group conference of the Presbyterian Women's Auxiliary met in Colorado City Thursday...

The regular program that had been planned was given and also added features, chief among which were a talk by Dr. P. C. Coleman, moderator of the Presbyterian Senate for the State of Texas...

Dr. Coleman spoke on "How Much the Senate Appreciates the Work of the Women in the Presbyterianial." The ladies were fortunate in securing Dr. Coleman for the day as he gave many helpful facts...

Mrs. Richardson, dressed as an old-fashioned lady, talked on the importance of taking the church paper. While Mrs. Richardson brought out many interesting points, she also brought many laughs as the stingy wife of Deacon Plinchpenny, as she called herself...

A lovely lunch and dinner were served to the ladies by the Colorado group.

Next October it is planned to hold the conference in the new church in Big Spring which is now under construction. The members are looking forward to this event, as the church will be unusually well fitted for the meeting.

The members present had an interesting afternoon of bridge in which Mable McCormick had high score, and Mrs. Sneed won the cut prize.

The talks and score cards suggested the Halloween spirit, as was also carried out in the party plate luncheon served after the games.

The members present included: Mesdames Mabry Unger, Snead, J. S. Hornbeck, and Misses Daisy Lindsay, Mable McCormick, Wirtur Ragland, Ira Crouch, Mary Garrett, Lucille Peirey, Mozelle Downing, Benny Belle Gilchrist and the hostess.

The Club made plans to hold all future meetings in the Petroleum Club in the Scharbauer Hotel with some member acting as hostess each time. Miss Ragland will entertain at the next meeting.

Doesn't It Simply Slay You?

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

We get another glimpse of life behind the shutters of the purdah—at the child wives, matrons, concubines and slave girls of India in Margaret Wilson's new book, "Trousers of Taffeta."

This author, best known for her prize novel, "The Abie McLaughlin," went to India as a missionary after her graduation from the University of Chicago.

She associated happily with those who "live without clocks, without money, without newspapers, without reservation, without intelligence, and without despair," and finally left India because she said if she had not, she would have died quite futilely of compassion.

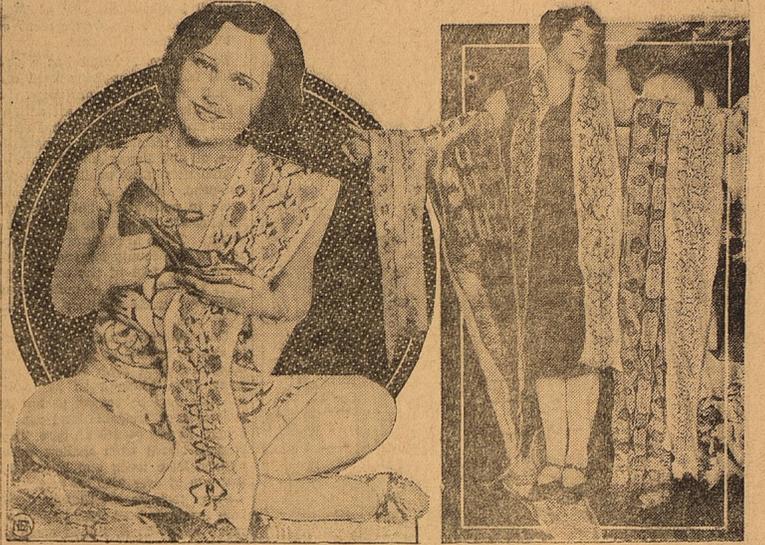

MEN LIKE GODS Recently she returned to India and wrote back to a friend: "I have long lost most of my patience with Indian men, but I have never been able to say anything as devastating about them as one said to me. It was this: "The reason that you of the West don't understand our family life is that you have no conception of our religion. In our religion women are taught from infancy to think about their husbands as their god."

"The fatuousness of that remark to me seems almost sublime. It is not entirely true, to be sure. Not all modern-minded Indian men require their wives to think of them as gods, but many of them encourage such an attitude and nearly all of them tolerate it. Anything more distasteful to a decent western man is hard to conceive.

"He would feel instinctively what Indian men never seem capable of discovering—the insincerity of such worship. He would know that he might go on to the end of time demanding such adoration, and never getting it.

"It is my opinion that Indian women are quite as enthusiastic

"GERALDINE" SHOWS NOVEL CAFE SCENE

A trip to Catalina so that he might take a voyage in the glass-bottomed boat which is one of the features of California's famous resort, preceded Edward Jewell's work on designing set for the Pathe comedy, "Geraldine," said to be one of the best laugh-makers of the current screen season.

A subterranean room modelled after the oceanic wonders seen through the glass-bottomed boat is a unique feature of a "Ship Cafe" scene in the picture. Seaweed and replicas of various fishes comprise the decoration of the room, which opens into the cafe proper on one side, and on the other three is hung with specially prepared metal cloth to give the effect of water.

The orchestra is stationed in this unusual chamber. The "Ship Cafe" erected for the picture is modeled after the hold of a ship.

Eddie Quillan is featured in "Geraldine," and Marion Nixon plays the title role. The picture, which shows at the Ritz Theatre, Saturday, was directed by Melville Brown, Gaston Glass and Albert Gran complete the cast.

Houston Payne, employed by Norbert Bros., is reported ill and unable to be at work.

YOUR CHILDREN

One of the greatest drawbacks in child training is the fact that so many parents differ from each other in ideas of discipline and treatment. The father believes in one method of handling, the mother another, and chaos reigns.

Also they may have very good ideas of child training in general but fail to take into account the very certain fact that all children are different. These two things are great handicaps in bringing up a family.

That no two children act alike we know as certainly as that they do not look alike. Their minds and temperaments differ as greatly as their features and build. Even twins, exact counterparts of each other, may be as different in disposition as the poles.

And so it comes to this: it is not only necessary for parents to adopt a special policy in training each child, but also necessary for them to agree on that policy and not be pulling in opposite directions.

When Child is Unhappy Suppose that Peter is not doing well. He is not getting along in school and he's surly, silent, uncooperative, easily made angry, and in a general unhappy state.

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

By DOROTHY HERZOG HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23.—Bumped into Clara Bow at ye Famous plant, Clara, with her reddish locks curled and harum scarum, and quite long, too. The locks, of course. In her next flick, "Station CXY" (letters subject to challenge), Clara's gonna have long hair, or semi-long, which may or may not be a hirsute item.

Her trip abroad has been postponed until December, with the Bow travel cry: "St. Moritz of Christmas." She won't marry Harry Richman until her return to the U. S. A. At this penning, it is very possible that the marriage will materialize. Clara fears to think the world of this Richman boy. Says he isn't 'at all selfish. Always thinking of her, bringing her flowers and what-nots. Thoughtful. Quite unusual in Hollywood, where the male element, for the most part, consider their presence sufficient to capitalize hospitality to the nth and more degree.

Should Harry's initial talky meet with popular approval and result in his going movie as a business, his marriage to Clara will not interfere with her career, though he wants her to give up pictures when she becomes Mrs. Richman. Should he, on the other hand, return to New York and the stage and his night club, his likely Clara, as R. will depart Hollywood and make her residence in Manhattan. Famous has a studio there.

At all events, there's the situation. Clara looks better than this scribe has seen her in many a day. She has lost weight, too. Takes strenuous exercises every morn. Setting up. Boxing. Steam baths. Ambitious. I call it.

Lita Basquette know a piece of scandal. Concerning her small daughter, Lita, who is all of three years old. In their apartment house lives Douglas Scott, also three years old. The two are almost on the verge of publicly announcing their engagement. Lupe the Champ From distant Florida travels the news that Lupe Valez, locationing with "Hell's Harbor," is rapidly rounding into championship checker form. Lupe's secretary initiated her into the intricacies of the great American sport and Lupe has devoted herself assiduously to "technicalizing" her game. She has beaten everybody in the troupe and it is to be expected that in time she will hurl a challenge to the checker champion, whoever he or she may be.

Some weeks ago this bureau printed dark suspicions concerning Dorothy Mackall and a "some one" in the neighborhood of Hawaii. Through devious sources now comes alleged verifications of the suspicions. To wit: That when the Mackall traipsed to Honolulu some months ago, she met aboard ship—the Malolo, I believe—an officer who illustrated romance. Or it may have been the moon or the balmy, salt-tanged air. Or the lovely sunsets and the lovelier nights. That's conjecture. But at all events, my informant speaks mysteriously of radiograms and telegrams exchanged 'twixt the two. Methinks you breeze whaffs romance. Ah, well.

Serenalities: Janet Gaynor has purchased a home in Honolulu, said to have cost around $6,000. She is honeymooning over there with her brand new husband, Lydell Peck, and so delighted with the island that she plans to vacation on it between pictures as a steady diet. . . . Some talk that Marceline Day may hit New York to appear in a play. She has had several legit offers. . . . A truck load of lemon meringue pies being unloaded at the Hal Roach studio for no good purpose. . . . And Eddie Dunn, of that lot, clean shaven for a change, announcing that he is "Between Bears". . . . Erich Von Stroheim has a strong yen to make a sequel to "The Great Gabbo". So strong that he has suggested to author Ben Hecht that he write the yarn. . . . Ruby Nail Polish is becoming the rage, though heaven alone knows why. . . . And—that's all.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Text: Mark 2:18-28

And the disciples of John and of the Pharisees used to fast; and they come and say unto him, Why do the disciples of John and of the Pharisees fast, but thy disciples fast not?

And Jesus said unto them, Can the children of the bridechamber fast, while the bridegroom is with them? as long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast.

But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then shall they fast in those days.

No man also seweth a piece of new cloth on an old garment; else the new piece that filled it up taketh away from the old, and the rent is made worse.

And no man putteth new wine into old bottles; else the new wine doth burst the bottle, and the wine is spilled, and the bottles will be marred; but new wine must be put into new bottles.

And it came to pass, that he went through the corn fields on the sabbath day; and his disciples began, as they went, to pluck the ears of corn.

And the Pharisees said unto him, Behold why do they on the sabbath day that which is not lawful?

And he said unto them, Have ye never read what David did, when he had need, and was a hungered, he, and they that were with him?

How he went into the house of God in the days of Abiathar the high priest, and did eat the shewbread, which is not lawful to eat but for the priests, and gave also to them which were with him?

And he said unto them, The sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath;

Therefore the Son of man is Lord also of the sabbath.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Oct. 27. Recreation in Community Life. Mark 2:18-28.

By Wm. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of The Congregationalist. The general title for the lesson is "The Christian View of Recreation."

It is largely under the influence of Christian leaders and welfare workers who have either been themselves actuated by Christian motives or who have been under Christian influence that the widespread movement for supervised recreation has developed in modern life.

I have in mind at the moment a man now associated with an international movement for recreational and helpful activities for underprivileged boys. I have followed the history and career of that man since the days when he was a pioneer in boys' work, building up in the midst of such criticism and no small opposition one of the largest boys' organizations in existence at that time, and transforming through the years of his work a section of the city that had been notable for youthful offenders into a district where police court activities were almost unknown. This man's motive and purpose arose directly from his Christian character and vision. He loved boys and devoted his life to them because he believed in the fatherhood of God and in the leadership of Jesus.

Modern and Widespread It would be a great mistake to claim that all such activities have been directly Christian in origin and motive. There are many agencies for healthy recreational activity that have no direct or indirect connection with Christian auspices. I emphasize, however, the relationship of Christian activity today to the developed programs of recreation for the young and for the community life of many places because this is in many respects a development of Christian interest that is as distinctly modern as it is widespread.

There was probably little recreational activity of a modern sort in the time when our Lord was on earth and gave his teachings and example. The recreation of those days as it existed in city life followed more the lines of the brutal exhibitions in the arena. The play instincts of the people were mostly perverted into these brutal and terrible exhibitions with which Christians had probably nothing to do except in later years when as victims they were thrown to the lions.

What is, however, significant about the teaching and example of Jesus is that he set new valuations upon life and apparently encouraged his disciples and the masses in habits and attitude that are in harmony with the highest recreational ideals. A busy farmer once remarked to me how strange it was that so many people in the time of Christ seemed to have nothing to do but were willing to follow him about in the fields and by the lakeside listening to what he had to say. Jesus, apparently, never rebuked those who thus came to hear him. He never preached to them an ideal of hard work or told them that they ought to be off about their tasks. Instead of that he challenged the ordinary values which in the minds of many, then as today, have been associated with success.

He called the man a "fool" who had attained such great prosperity that he needed to pull down his barns and build greater, but who had never taken into account the fact of the insecurity of life or had realized that that very night he might die and leave all these things that he had built up. He inculcated in the minds of the people the gospel of rest, a gospel certainly of service and devotion and of fairness, man with man, but a gospel that in its very essence is at the opposite of the scramble for wealth and power, sense. Economists of modern day have practically ignored life and death as factors. They have dealt with forces and statistics, with dollars and cents, and the size of factories and machines; but they have paid relatively little attention to the deeper factors of life which undoubtedly have large economic value. We have never quite sufficiently taken into account the values that Jesus placed upon the various phases and factors of life. We have never realized the extent to which even on the very lowest plane of life—the economic plane—Jesus was a master of common-place relation.

The Question of the Sabbath Our lesson deals in a fundamental way with these elemental matters of value. Jesus challenged customs and habits which the people were following without much thought of their real significance. He asked pertinently what the Sabbath was for, was it really a day of rest and relaxation? or was it an additional burden on men of demand and duty?

So he challenged even the very nature of law, and pointed out that the function of law was to preserve life and to make it more glorious, not to curb and destroy life. Jesus never taught that the end justifies the means, but he did teach that means are of no value except as they are related to ends, and that it is the real purpose of life that determines its meaning and its practice from day to day.

as well as present wealth of this community lies in its agriculture, which includes both farming and cattle raising, in the development of Midland as one of the outstanding oil headquarters city of West Texas, and in the development of Midland's famous airport.

To be sure, Midland has a few small factories supplying local demand, and is fast growing as a whole, and is an amusement and medical center, but these assets are incomparable to agriculture, oil and airway development.

Midland's farm wealth is mostly potential. There are only 40,000 acres in cultivation, but there are another 360,000 acres to go in cultivation. These figures corroborated by two county farm agents who know every foot of the county. At least 1,000,000 acres of undeveloped Midland's trade territory are in farm land.

The virgin farm land in this county can be bought as low as $18 an acre, and good farm land further away from Midland in adjoining counties may be bought as low as $10 per acre. Irrigable land can be bought as low as $40 an acre. This land, irrigated from shallow wells, returns from truck and melons at the rate of over $600 an acre.

Many farmers at Midland have paid for their land with their first year's crop. T. E. Bizzell came to Midland five years ago with practically nothing. Now he owns five farms. He paid his improved farm out the first year with cotton, grain sorghums, garden produce, melons, chickens, milk, a few fattened calves, and fruit. Men who have been renters all their lives in high priced farming areas become home owners at Midland in a year's time.

Midland is known all over the world as a Hereford beef cattle country. More live beef cattle are bought and sold in the lobby of Hotel Scharbauer at Midland than any other one place in North America. The country is now being developed as a feeding area, and a bright future for making the rancher and farmer more money through the breeder-feeder movement is seen.

The Midland airport is now one of the best known in the south. Practically all army and navy planes traveling the southern transcontinental route stay at Midland. Captain Ira Eaker has re-fueled at Midland six times. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has landed at Midland three times.

The Midland field is thoroughly equipped with every modern airport device needed. H. M. Becherer, field manager, is a licensed mechanic as well as a licensed transport pilot. Harvey Sloan, manager of the airport, installs new up-to-date equipment as fast as it is on the market. The field is adapted to wet weather landings, as well as dry weather. The fact that Midland has a 250-room hotel with 250 baths, six other hotels, a 12-story petroleum office building, a six-story office building and other small office spaces has rapidly made Midland the outstanding oil headquarters city of the West Texas Permian basin and eastern New Mexico.

Other assets which brought representatives of 55 oil companies to Midland are: Good roads to the oil fields, modern city conveniences, excellent living conditions. Early after the "play" started in West Texas, the Midland Chamber of Commerce set out to build Midland as an oil town, and that organization brought a score or more of companies to the city.

Midland is growing steadily as an oil city. Companies are realizing it is poor economy to have to spend an extra day on the road and pay car expenses on an extra 270 miles of travel, when they can locate their offices in Midland and leave home in the morning, spend the day in the field and be back at home in Midland for the night. The magnificent Hogan petroleum building is steadily filling with oil companies. It was designed specially for the needs of oil concerns.

This trio—oil, agriculture, airport—promise much for Midland.

Midland has grown from a dusty cow town to a modern, prosperous, ambitious energetic growing city mainly because of the quality of the Midland people. The citizens of Midland built Midland, only one great impetus was given Midland by outside capital—the Hogan building

And that wasn't altogether outside capital, as most of Hogan's family is living in Midland most of the time. Men like Clarence Scharbauer who built the de luxe Hotel Scharbauer of 250 rooms, Dr. J. B. Thomas who built the six-story Thomas office building, men like Mayor Leon Goodman, who is also president of the chamber of commerce at a personal sacrifice of time, and many others who not only talk for Midland but work for Midland.

These Midland boosters, and it is evident nearly all are boosters when it is seen that over 600 people belong to the chamber of commerce, work for Midland as well as talk. It is unpopular in Midland not to belong to the chamber of commerce and help boost the city, Midland business men are practically 100 per cent members. The Midland people have a southwest-wide reputation as doers.

Directors of the Midland Chamber of Commerce who work hard at city building are: Leon Goodman, J. O. Nobles, Aubrey S. Legg, R. M. Barron, J. E. Hill, W. I. Pratt, E. H. Barron, K. E. Ambrose, Sam R. Preston, W. Edward Lee, Malcolm M. Meek, M. C. Ulmer, Dave Smith, W. S. Hill, W. A. Yeager, Dr. J. D. Young, Paul L. Young, Judge M. R. Hill, George D. McCormick and Clarence Scharbauer.

most constant pain in my side. I had rheumatic pains in my limbs and it seemed like every joint in my body ached. It got so bad, I could hardly walk. My liver wasn't active and my whole system seemed full of poisons. My husband was taking Sargon and I saw it was doing him worlds of good so I decided to try it.

"I can eat anything I want now and my stomach never bothers me. That terrible aching in my side is gone, and there isn't a rheumatic pain in my body. Sargon Pills regulated my liver and drove all the poisons out of my system, without nauseating or upsetting me in the least. Of all medicines I ever tried, Sargon and the pills are the only ones that really give me lasting results."—Mrs. J. E. Green, 2218 Cedar St., Dallas.

Crude Output Is Up 65,000 Barrels

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 65,000 barrels for the week ended Oct. 19, totaling 2,903,200 barrels, says the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute.

Refineries representing 94.9 per cent of the estimated daily potential refining capacity, operating at 85.1 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average run of crude oil to stills as 2,798,800 barrels. LIKE LIGHT LITERATURE

FORT WORTH, Oct. 23.—Texas Christian University students prefer College Humor, Red Book, Liberty, Collier's and the Saturday Evening Post for their magazines, a survey of news stands near the campus reveals.

Good Housekeeping is another favorite of the girls. Both sexes like Photoplay. Faculty members choose Harper's and Current History, according to the news stand operators.

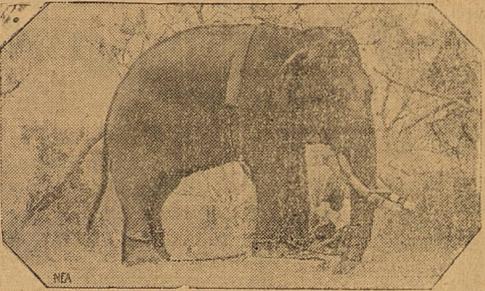

How They Executed An Elephant In Texas

THE DEATH MARCH—Here's Black Diamond, circus elephant who ran amuck and killed a woman and tossed a keeper over a box car at Corsicana, Texas, being led to the scene of his execution near Corpus Christi, Texas, heavily chained between two members of his tribe.

IN CHAINS AND FETTERS—Taking no chances on a second outbreak by the crazed mammoth, circus men hobbled and fettered Black Diamond with nearly a ton of chains, as this remarkable close-up shows.

READY FOR THE FIRING SQUAD—This picture shows Black Diamond as he was being anchored down by a keeper, just a few moments before a squad of riflemen emptied their guns into his body.

Needs Windows; Takes Neighbor's

BRECKENRIDGE, Tex., Oct. 24. (UP)—Police here are now convinced that the old saying "there is nothing somebody won't steal" is true in every respect.

A call answered recently revealed that two windows had been stolen from a residence here. Upon investigating in the neighborhood the windows were located neatly serving their purpose in another man's house.

THREE WEEKS FROM HOME

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24.—Imagine being a college student and so far from home that it would take three weeks to reach that place should you become homesick!

Tadashi Tomimaga, graduate student in Texas Christian University, whose home is in Tokio, Japan, is in just that situation.

"But I don't get homesick very often," Tomimaga says, "for I like T. C. U. so very well."

When asked why he came so far to attend school he answered:

"Most of all for the new experience, and because I heard that your students were friendly. I knew I'd need new friends in a strange country, and I haven't been disappointed."

Tomimaga is one of a number of T. C. U. students who are a great distance from their homes. Two girls in T. C. U.—Miss Lena Smedley and Miss Lamar Griffing, live in Jacksonville, Fla.

Miss Thelma Reed is from Kansas City, Mo., and Miss Leta Luysters is from Linnetts, Mo. Miss Louise Richards came from Oakman, Ala., to T. C. U.

MOTOR CAR DOCTORS

The legislature created the patrol and the men are now being picked. They will be put into service about Jan. 1.

DECLARING RESULTS HAVE BEEN AMAZING

"I Gained In Strength And Health Since Taking Orgatone, Troubles Are All Gone," Says Plainview Man

For several years I have had an awful trouble with my stomach. Everything disagreed with me and after meals I would get that puffed bloated feeling and belch up my food sour and undigested.

Orgatone was recommended to me, by a friend, and it has not only relieved me of my troubles, but has built me up amazingly. I have taken three bottles and my stomach is now in good shape.

Some Wolf Hunt This! Dogs Lost, Hens Killed, Sabbath Sleepers Bothered And--

NEWPORT, Tex., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Residents of Clay and Jack counties will talk about the annual meeting of the Cross Timbers Wolf Hunters' association when the long winter evenings call for reminiscing in the cozy warmth of crackling wood stoves.

The two-day hunt was declared the most successful and in some respects the most unusual the association has staged.

Eighty-five hounds, including 25 curries by Oklahoma members, were set loose in the rough country surrounding the camp.

The dogs ran a wolf into a farmer's chicken house on the West Fork of the Brazos near Jacksboro and in the fight that followed a number of chickens were killed.

When the sun was peeping over the post oaks in the Rocky Point community some of the hounds raced into the settlement so close on the heels of a big gray timber wolf they were running him by sight.

About 15 dogs were lost during the races.

THE TATTLER

A white headed fish is in love with a red-headed Soph—Boy! They are a match!

We wonder what the rest of that note said that one of our freshmen, Phyllis Haag, received from M. D. Johnson.

Do you know that we have a senior who has taken a fancy to visiting a certain two-story house just north of the South Ward School? He says it is business, and I guess it is because one of the good-looking freshman girls lives there.

Jean Verrier and Lloyd Long were out riding Sunday in Lloyd's car. Jean had a very pleasant expression on her face. Lloyd seemed pleased, too.

What do you know about Georgia McMullan's receiving letters constantly from A. & M.

We wonder about all these long distance telephone calls that Miss Hetner receives from a town in Northwest Texas.

We wonder what Mr. Shifflett was doing parked by the side of a certain new stucco house near the Country Club.

We hear Miss Solomon is engaged. Maybe that is the reason Mr.

FOOTBALL NEWS

The Bulldogs are determined to win over Wink today. The boys have now made about every mistake a new bunch can make and have profited by those mistakes. They feel that they are now properly seasoned and ready to settle down to playing football instead of blowing up.

James White has been down with the flu all week and in addition has a severe "charlie horse" in his kicking leg, so he will not be in the line-up Friday. The Dogs will sorely miss White's punting Friday, but hope to make up for that loss by putting up an offense fight that will make punting almost unnecessary.

If Pecos defeats Stanton and the Dogs win over Wink, the local team will have a new lease on life and the district championship. Midland would still have to defeat Odessa.

PECOS AND STANTON ALL READY FOR DECISIVE CLASH TODAY

PECOS AGGREGATION GIVEN 14 POINTS BY SOME HERE; STANTON IS ATTRACTING OTHERS

"All ready!" said reports coming out of the Stanton high school football camp this morning as the little town to the east breathed fast in anticipation of the game this afternoon with the Pecos eleven for deciding of the best team in the district interscholastic football race.

Pecos Pepped Up
Pecos gave optimistic reports over telegraph. "We are convinced this game will be a hard one," the coach of the husky team from the Pecos valley said, "but we are resolved to strike hard and decisively. No injuries. If we lose it will be because we didn't measure up to the standards of the Stanton team. We will have no alibi."

Stanton tapered off Wednesday afternoon. The club is in fine spirits and should make the Pecos boys extend themselves.

Midland Plays Here
Midland does not expect much fight out of the Wing aggregation at Cowden park this afternoon. The game will likely end with Midland totting the pigskin for another touchdown at the last minute, with Wink playing in the backwash of a 36-0 score.

To do this, however, the Bulldogs must snap out of it and do something they haven't done this season, play for a win.

"Dusty" Waller

prominence in the hotel business. He added further to his laurels by placing Hotel Hussmann firmly in the front as aviation headquarters for fliers in El Paso, and made the name a synonym for comfort and hospitality throughout the ranks of the winged world.

He was instrumental in having erected atop the Hussmann the first aerial beacon of large beam candlepower in this section of the country, and secured the licensing of this beacon by the department of commerce.

Waller is now manager of Hotel Scharbauer. A new, modern 100-room addition to the still new hotel, gives the Scharbauer a capacity of 250 rooms. Each room contains features rarely found outside the largest cities including ceiling fans, running ice water and automatic Serv-Doors.

In Midland Waller is once again on the path of the hundreds of birdmen who are his friends, and is taking an active part in the development of the aviation possibilities of his new home, as he did in El Paso while a member of the Aero club of El Paso.

Waller was among the first men in the southwest, outside of aviation circles proper, to fly from El Paso to the east, as a guest of Milton Bacon, and Larry Fritz, secretary and chief pilot respectively, of the Maddux Air Lines. At the dedication of the El Paso Municipal Airport, "Dusty" went to Maria and flew into El Paso as a guest of one of the entrants in the National Air races of 1928, "stealing a march" over other hotel competition in El Paso.

Waller has often been compared to P. T. Barnum not as a "Prince of Humbugs" but for his unceasing ability to make success out of defeat, and for his trained sense of values in showmanship. He is credited with being instrumental in bringing to El Paso in 1928 no less than 10 of the 23 conventions held here that year, among which were the Greeters, National Pi Kappa Alpha, W. B. A. and many others.

tion won by the government in those growing out of the celebrated Senate oil investigations. The government has recovered the leases, but Fall is the first person connected with the leases to be convicted.

Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts announced, following the verdict, that he would move to bring to trial in January a similar indictment against Doherty. The trial can not be started in December because the holidays would interrupt.

Fifteen minutes after the verdict was rendered, Fall was taken to his Mayflower Hotel suite where he has lived since coming here from El Paso three weeks ago. He has been on trial since October 7. His illness at one time threatened to cause a mistrial.

Stock Market Gets Better Play Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Heavy buying came back on the stock market today, caused by reassurances of business leaders. The market got away to a million share day. Today there was a better tone despite the occasional uneasiness. Some stocks were boosted 19 points.

be made to get the old clothes. People will be solicited to give to the cause such useful clothing, especially for children, as they do not need and will not use.

Then, on a certain day, all of these bundles of clothing will be placed on the front porches to be collected by volunteers who will go around with their cars to collect them.

To Sort Clothing
The clothing will be placed in a building and will be sorted, allotting proper kinds and sizes to people needing them, as revealed in the survey.

All wash clothing should be clean, it is pointed out, although it will not be necessary to have wool clothing, such as suits and coats, cleaned before the collection is taken.

It is planned that the committee of women will meet early next week to formulate plans for the drive.

taken. The former manager was an active member in all things promoting civic enterprises, a flyer who has had many hours in the air with noted aviators. He was a member of the conventions committee of the chamber of commerce and secretary of the Aero club. While here, many flyers of the country, army, naval commercial and civilian, stopped at Sloan field just to visit with him for a few hours.

Gets Profit On Peas Planted With Maize

J. E. Wallace, who farms across the lane north of Cloverdale, has demonstrated the value of planting a row of peas to each two rows of maize.

The maize was found to produce as much grain as if all of the field had been planted maize, and the row of peas to every two rows of maize was practically a profit.

The field provided much better pasture, as both stalk and peas were used for pasture after the maize had been headed, and all the peas needed for table use, for seed and for canning were grown.

El Paso Papers Praise Gist Bull

Gist cattle go over big with El Paso newspaper men, a three-column cut running in the El Paso Times Thursday having the following explanatory lines:

"Below is President Lad, three-year-old Hereford bull owned by J. M. Gist and his son, Marcus, who are shown in the picture. President Lad has been shown at various state fairs in the north and has won the grand champion title in all shows entered.

"Gist, who is president of the Texas Hereford Association, has 19,000 acres of land in West Texas used in the raising of white faced cattle."

Believes June Is Time To Plant Feed

Frank Wendt, county agricultural agent, believes that farmers in Midland County will do well to plant their feed crops not earlier than June on account of the fact that there is often dry seasons through the summer.

Feed which is planted early takes a fast growth and is up to an advanced stage when the dry weather halts its growth, then when the rains come later in the summer it is too late to benefit the crop.

Late feed, however, holds its own through the dry season, then when the late summer rains come it takes a good growth and makes a better yield.

One farm club boy, whose feed appears to be in the running for a prize, planted his crop three times before he got a stand, and he has a well developed crop.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

Duke Keeps On
Sixteen years ago this fall a tall husky negro walked up to the coach of the Clinton high school football team and told him he wanted a job as tackle.

The coach looked the lad over and sent him to the locker room to get togged out. When he appeared on the field the youngster was given a tackle berth on the regular eleven. From that day, he never missed a moment's play during his high school days.

Four years later he enrolled at the University of Southern California, was the coach there. It was in 1918 when all students, including freshmen, were eligible for the varsity team.

The negro came up to Jones and told him he wanted a tackle job. "What's your name?" queried Jones.

"Duke Slater," replied the youngster. Jones looked him over, got him in a football suit and put him on the first team. For four years Slater held down the job, being taken out only when injured.

Critics gave Slater credit for contributing much to the success of Aubrey Devin, Gordon Locke and other football mortals of Iowa.

When Slater graduated he said he was through with football. But the professional teams went after him—this time without Slater asking for a job—so he signed up with the Chicago Cardinals.

The other day when the Cardinals opened their season, there was a

John Tyler Frogettes Take Aggies Into Camp

FORT WORTH, Oct. 22.—Enough brass to make a molten image of a handsome Aggie" exclaimed a sophomore boy as he watched Texas Christian University co-eds pass out of chapel Monday, displaying numerous trophies of having also conquered the Aggies.

The T. C. U. girls have "gone military." Coats and waists are displaying shining brass pins and buttons of various kinds.

Some of the girls prefer engineers, other like cavalrymen; while quite a few seem satisfied with infantry. Field artillery has a good representation and a few signal corps emblems are to be seen.

Officers' insignia, however, are scarce. Any girl on the campus that has one is considered "good."

than an ordinary living. He doesn't want a permanent job, and even refuses one when it is offered. Although well past sixty, Willie continues his wanderings and says he will until the end.

TRAMP PRINTERS YET

ODESSA, Tex., Oct. 24.—(P)—Although the day of a tramp printer is almost gone, towns along the Bankhead highway, on the southern route to California, still get occasional visits from these odd fellows, when they make their trips south for the winter. One of the most famous of the vagabond masters of the stick and case, Weary Willie Waterhouse, of Walla Walla, Wash., comes through this part of the country almost every year.

Old, broken, bleary-eyed, and bent, Weary Willie Waterhouse shuffles along, catching rides from town to town, stopping occasionally for a day or so, to help out in a country print shop. He travels yearly from coast to coast. He usually gets work, and seems to make enough for more

AGGIES CONQUERORS TAKE MATADORS BY HORNS IN LUBBOCK THIS WEEK-END

FORT WORTH, Oct. 22.—The Texas Christian University Horned Frogs, tired and sore after their 13-to-7 victory over the Texas Aggies, took only a light workout Monday while the reserves were scrimmaging the freshmen.

There are no serious injuries in the Frog camp, but practically all of the men that played Saturday have bruises and sore muscles.

There is almost certain to be something of a let-down after the Christians' sensational victory over the Farmers, but as it is three weeks until T. C. U. meets another conference foe, Coach Francis Schmidt believes a little relaxation will do his men good.

The Frogs journey out to Lubbock next Saturday for a contest with Texas Tech. Sports writers over the state are unanimous in their predictions that the game should be an easy go for the Frogs, but Coach Schmidt is not taking any such attitude.

"Every game is a hard game," is his motto, and he does not intend that his charges shall be slipped up and betrayed by overconfidence. The Matadors have journeyed to Fort Worth for the last three years, only to go down to defeat after a hard battle. Last year Tech was the first team to cross the Frog goal line.

On the other hand, the Frogs rolled up their largest score of the season in that contest, carrying off the victory by a 28-to-6 count.

This year comparative scores give the T. C. U. a decided edge on the dope. The Frogs handed Daniel Baker a 61-to-0 defeat, while the Hill Billies managed to come out on the long end of the score, 6 to 2, when they met the Matadors. The latter game, however, was played in the mud.

Tech will be out to make the best showing possible against T. C. U. next Saturday. The Matadors are knocking at the door of the Southwest Conference and it would not hurt their chances for admission a bit to make a creditable showing against the Frogs. This situation, coupled with the fact that T. C. U. has nothing particularly at stake, may produce some surprises.

Cotton Crop Is Now Half Picked

With more than 2,500 bales of cotton ginned here, and with indication that the crop is practically half picked, it is believed that the total for the year will run between 4,000 and 5,000 bales for Midland County.

Farmers, apparently, are experiencing little difficulty in getting their crops gathered as rapidly as the cotton matures, although there has been no great influx of pickers. The crop has matured slowly, and the farmers have picked as much of the cotton as possible with their own labor and a few extra pickers.

Frost Damage To Feed Negligible

Feed crops in Midland County suffered practically no damage as result of the frost early Thursday morning, it is believed by Frank Wendt, county agricultural agent, after a survey this morning. Very little indication of the frost was noticeable even on the late feed, and he believes that November 1 will be soon enough for cutting much of the crop. Some of it could be cut now to good advantage.

Roy Tillman says his potato vines were hit pretty hard, but his feed sustained little or no damage. He farms five or six miles north.

W. E. Wallace, whose place is four miles west of town, said the frost did no damage to his feed, and very little to garden products.
