While a check-up has not been announced of the exact number of "first nighters" who attended the Little Theater's first presentation of the season, "The Whole Town's Talking," Friday evening at the Grand theater, a packed house received with evident enthusiasm the Anita Loos-John Emerson three-act comedy.

Three hundred and twenty-one laughs were counted during the evening, following close on the record of 374 which greeted it at Columbus, Ohio, at one time.

More than 70 persons had to remain outside the auditorium of the Grand until the first act was over, due to the rule that no one can be seated during the playing of an act. The curtain rose promptly at 8:15, as will be the custom throughout the season.

VALUE OF DIVERSIFICATION

The value of diversification in West Texas, as in other parts of the state, has been emphasized this year. In spite of a somewhat disappointing crop year, this part of the state is in fair condition, and much of the better condition is brought about by at least a degree of diversified farming.

The need, however, for great diversification, is brought out clearly both where it is practiced and where it isn't.

Farmers who are selling eggs and dairy products, and who sold vegetables or fruit through the summer, and who are feeding a few head of cattle, hogs or sheep, have money coming in where the one crop farmer is probably trying to figure how he will pay out for the season.

Midland County needs more diversifying farmers like the young man living 10 or 12 miles out east of town who traded his car for some laying hens.

THE MISTAKE OF LOUIS

A Chicago newspaper reader writes to his editor to protest against an editorial which condemned the Carolina "night riders" who used guns and whips in their arguments with the Communist textile strike leaders.

Every man is entitled to his own opinion about the Carolina strike, of course. But this writer makes one remark that is worth noticing, because it seems to be held by a considerable number of well-meaning citizens.

"Was communism," he asks, "ever checked by means other than physical force?"

Let's dig into history on that one. When Louis XVI was king of France, there came to Versailles one day a ragged, footsore delegation of peasants and workmen. They weren't exactly communists—that term hadn't been invented then; they were very poor, very hungry and out-at-the-heels, very poorly schooled and very, very sick of grinding poverty and bleak misery.

They came to Versailles to protest—to call upon the king to make their lot a little bit lighter, somehow; to see to it that they could earn enough money to live decently and avoid starvation and cold.

Louis, king of the French, was unapproachable. Only the rich and well-born might come near him. And Louis, unlikably for himself, was persuaded that you could only deal with that sort of thing with physical force.

So he built a gallows 40 feet high and proceeded to hang the ringleaders—"agitators," you might call them—in front of the assembled multitude. And then he dispersed the rest of the mob with his Swiss guards.

It was just about a decade after that that the French revolution boiled over. Louis, caught in the whirlpool, was led to the scaffold and beheaded.

Perhaps the parallel isn't quite exact, but it comes close enough. The underlying attitude is the same in each case.

Louis had the tragic old notion; the notion that the way to deal with social discontent and unrest is to suppress it ruthlessly, rather than treat it fairly, find out what is the cause of it and see if that cause can't be removed. He learned, too late, that his way is precisely the way to make that unrest ten times as intense and violent as it was before.

Now this country is several million miles removed from any danger of a revolution. There isn't the slightest chance of one here. But the man who declares that the only way to handle communism is by using physical force has the wrong idea.

It happened in another county. "Judge, can you tell me why I am under arrest?" "Sure, you are under arrest because the game warden pinched you."

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Although the old-fashioned Washington lobbyist continued its vicious and insidious ratchets through the last century, various checks upon its influence developed and the extent to which it was able to create general corruption by widespread bribery gradually became modified.

Two of the most powerful lobbies of the present day were born in this period, the dry lobby and the labor lobby.

As early as 1881 the American Federation of Labor had begun a campaign here demanding enforcement of the federal eight-hour law for mechanics and laborers on the public works. At that time the federation was also working on state legislatures for child labor laws, though it did not seek a national child labor act until some time later.

Get Little At First
Labor's power grew slowly, however, and for many years it had to be content with such minor crumbs as measures excluding Chinese coolies and forbidding entry to European workers under contract. It could do nothing to stem the great incoming tide of other foreign labor.

The Anti-Saloon League opened its national legislative office here in 1899 and at once began to supervise the introduction and watching of bills, lobbying before committees and among congressmen, directing the sending of petitions and personal communications to members and other methods. In a very short time the league lobbyists were showing results, claiming credit for the army canteen law of 1901 and many subsequent measures.

Meanwhile, great industrial and financial groups, instead of relying entirely on lobbyists, were more inclined to encompass the election of men to the Senate and House who were already pledged to their interests. They had always been able to keep certain men in the Senate especially, first because state legislatures were easily bribed and, second, because the six-year term of senators rendered them more immune to popular sentiment than the two-year term congressmen. There came to be "steel senators," "coal congressmen," "meat senators," "timber congressmen," and "railroad members."

The tariff lobby with the aid of controlled senator won a memorable victory in 1894 when the Democrats had the White House and both Houses of Congress. The House bill put sugar, coal, lumber, iron and wool on the free list and slashed rates on cotton, woollens and linens. But the Senate, thanks to a few Democrats, made a high tariff bill out of it and Cleveland had to let it become law. A congressional investigation subsequently produced unsavory evidence concerning the pressure of interested groups on specific schedules and gave impetus to the movement for popular election of senators.

Lobbyists had comparatively thin pickings under Cleveland, however. Although he had a Republican congressional majority against him, in his first term, he vetoed bills that came along with the smell of graft, including many pension measures and a huge pork barrel river and harbor bill. He went further and wrested more than 80,000,000 acres of public lands illegally obtained from more or less corrupt land office officials in previous administrations.

Between Cleveland's administrations, however, the lobbyists made something of a cleanup in 1890 with the McKinley tariff bill. The sugar lobby of 30 years ago managed to obtain an ample bounty on sugar produced in this country. (The sugar bounty proposal has been revived in the 1929 tariff fight.)

Expert railroad lobbyists appear to have pulled off their last large coup in 1900. They had lost none of their astounding nerve.

"Dreams don't come true all by themselves—you make 'em come true. Your ship isn't apt to come in when the tide's going out. One action of yours is worth a thousand promises from the other fellow."

The Place Where It Is Entirely Safe To Trade

The Union Pacific, Central Pacific, Northern Pacific, Kansas Pacific, Southern Pacific and Pacific railroads had been handed $140,000,000 in cash and more than 100,000,000 acres of land by Congress. There were 45 other railroads to which the government had given subsidies. It was estimated that the total land grants to railroads covered area equal to that of New England, New York and Pennsylvania. Land grants in each of several states were the equivalent in area of three or four smaller states.

On the World's Airways :

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
United Press Aviation Editor

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(UP)—The law-makers of 39 states have turned their eyes skyward and charted out a legal course for airplanes and their pilots.

In only nine of the 48 states does "anarchy of the air" still exist and they, Federal officials believe, soon will join the other in passing regulatory legislation.

Nineteen states and Alaska require fliers and planes to obtain Federal licenses; ten more demand such permits of pilots doing commercial work, six states require either a state or Federal license for all aircraft and airmen; six require state licenses; and only nine have neglected air legislation altogether.

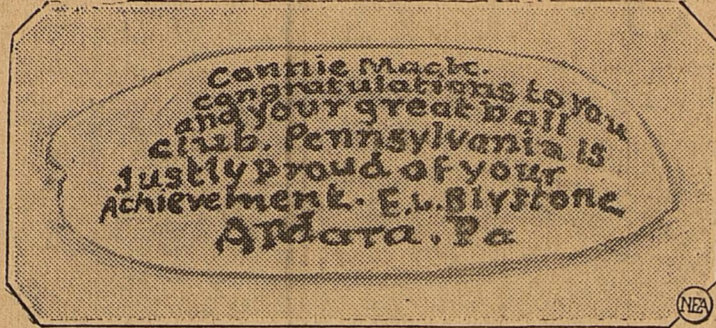

Three weeks of experimentation on a model of the big seadrome to be "planted" of Bermuda by the Armstrong Seadrome Company were begun last week on Chesapeake Bay near Cambridge, Md.

Conditions simulating Atlantic waters are found there and the seadrome's backers to determine by the test what reaction of waves and winds would be on the full-sized model.

The "toy" seadrome weighs 2,200 pounds, is 36 feet long, and is made on a scale of 1-32 of the size of its larger brother.

Plans of the Armstrong Seadrome Company, which is understood to have heavy financial backing, include the placement of these artificial islands in a string across the Atlantic. Hotel and hangar accommodations will be provided. Thus it will be possible to divide the Atlantic flight into a series of short hops. The first of these seadromes will be placed near the Bermuda Islands and airplane service, according to a previous announcement, of the company, will be maintained from there to New York.

All Written On A Grain Of Rice

This is undoubtedly the smallest tribute that could be paid to Connie Mack—a message written on a tiny rice grain congratulating the Philadelphia Athletics manager on winning the World Series. Above you see a photographic enlargement of the grain, less than five-sixteenths of an inch long and glued to an ordinary visiting card, which E. L. Blystone of Ardara, Pa., sent to NEA Service, news feature syndicate representing The Reporter-Telegram, to be forwarded to Mack. The message was written under a microscope.

"Making little ones out of big ones" can be applied to things other than rocks. To airplanes, for instance. The model airplane building vogue has given rise to a great demand among youngsters for materials of which real planes are made. The Ryan aircraft corporation reports a group of boys assembled at its doors each Saturday afternoon, ready to drive bargains for a quarter's worth of balsa wood or a square foot of wing fabric. And, it is said, they don't leave empty-handed.

An American novelist, Col. Polan Banks, author of "Black Ivory" sailed for Europe recently to study aviation country clubs in England and on the continent. A strong movement to popularize these flying clubs for civilians interested in aviation as a sport is underway in this country. Several already have been organized.

What corresponds roughly to a "rumble seat" in an automobile has been developed by the Savoia-Marchetti Company on their new S-55 seaplane. The ship has a capacity of 14 passengers and two pilots, two of the passengers' seats being placed in the hull. They are enclosed in a clear vision cabin and face the tail.

This arrangement is said by its maker to be an innovation in airplane design.

Pure Food Show Important Event In Midland

The Pure Food Show, which is sponsored by the ladies of the Christian Church, to be held week after next, promises to be something of unusual interest to Midland people.

The show is to be held on the first floor of the Petroleum Building next door to the Petroleum Barber Shop. The ladies promise that if you pass along that street you will not be able to miss seeing it.

This is something "different" for Midland and is the first of its kind to be attempted here. It will last three days and is for the benefit of the church.

Among many special features to be seen the baby show to be given from 3 to 5 each afternoon, and the Style Show to be held each evening are outstanding.

Midland women are urged to enter their babies in the Better Baby Show, as the best medical service available is to be secured to examine the children, and the merchants are giving a worthwhile prize each day to the best boy and the best girl, six in all.

The first day, babies from 1 month to 1 year will be judged, the second day, babies from 1 to 2 years and the third day, babies from 2 to 3 years of age.

Mrs. Jack Kuykendall is chairman for the Better Baby Show and if any information is desired, she may be found by phoning 304.

Each night the Style Show will begin at 8 o'clock. Each merchant is to furnish his own models. Further details of this phase of the Pure Food Show will be furnished later.

The ladies report that the merchants are showing wonderful co-operation, and many of them have already made plans to buy floor space for a booth in which they will display their products. Free samples of food will be given away to visitors each day.

Grocery stores, Dry goods stores, bakeries, and in fact, every business or organization that can be thought of will have booths.

Added attractions to be featured will be announced soon. This show is one of the largest undertakings Midland has seen for some time, and will be a splendid advertisement for the town.

Mrs. Dewey T. Ross Honors House Guest

One of the most attractive parties of the fall season was given Friday afternoon when Mrs. Dewey T. Ross entertained in her home on West Illinois Street in honor of her sister, Thyra Dickenson of Ft. Smith, Arkansas, who is here to spend the winter.

Floral and house decorations carried out the Halloween color scheme.

At the close of the bridge games, Mrs. George Abell was awarded the prize for high score, a hand painted sandwich plate. Mrs. A. S. Legg for second high, which was a Dutch gold dinner gong. The cut prize, a silk pillow, was taken by Mrs. Jack Hazeltine, and the honor guest, Miss Dickenson was given a gold bracketed perfume bottle.

After the awarding of the prizes, a daintily arranged salad course was served to the following guests:

Mesdames Dewey Stokes, George Abell, A. S. Legg, Jack Hazeltine, W. R. Lake, C. W. Alcorn, A. B. Loscamp, J. T. Clark and her guest, Mrs. M. A. Finney of Odessa, Robin Willis, John M. Shipley, Bedford Taylor, T. M. Combs, Misses Lois Patterson, Lula Elkin and the honoree, Miss Dickenson.

Meeting of "Trail Hitters"

The "Trail Hitters" Bible Class met with Mrs. J. H. McClure Friday afternoon in her home on 620 S. Colorado Street.

Only a few members were present, and a short program study was held with Mrs. Carl Reeves reading the 24th chapter of Matthew, and those present taking part in a general discussion.

Engaged!

By Maud Thomas

No matter how many jewels a girl may have, there is none so highly prized, nor so lovely as the engagement ring. Not that it must be a stone that will be the envy of all who may stop to admire, for it may be but a wee sparkle. But that sparkle catches some of happiness and shines with such a steady reflection of the love-glory that is hers, that it cannot be mistaken.

It's the symbol of the love which is never to end. The circlet which binds two hearts together in the dearness and sweetness of Love's own bondage. So don't smile when you see the left hand being used to prominently display the ring. Remember that once you, too, were the proud possessor of a brand new engagement ring—and wish them all the happiness of the love which they have found!

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
© 1929 by NEA Service Inc.

A noted child specialist of the west, addressing a teacher's meeting last spring, said that the school of the future that continued to disregard the character development of children, and closed its eyes to the difference in mind and temperament would be guilty of "educational malpractice."

The letter interested me, not because of her personal grievance against the schools—I hear that often enough—but on account of her point of view concerning her children. They are pushed and jerked and flamed around until they are so nervous and confused that even the doctor shakes his head when I have to call him. * * * Speed all the time, whipped if they don't pay attention, or miss words or talk. Have we gone back to the dark ages?

Light Hasn't Dawned
If all her letter says is true, and from the tone of it I am inclined to think so, I'd say decidedly we have gone back to the dark ages, or rather, we haven't seen the light yet.

This is no dissertation on corporal punishment, by which we generally mean whipping, but it is a protest against schools that will permit scolding, knocking about and abusing children until they are, as this mother says, "bewildered and nervous!"

She goes on to say: "I know a lot of wonderful teachers, but I think the whole trouble is in not considering how well a child's brain is developed and how much he can understand. The teachers have to teach too many things in a short time."

Unconsciously she has made a case out for the teachers as well as her mistreated children. Are the children the only ones who are "bewildered and nervous?"

Are we really expecting too much of both children and teachers? Are we crowding our curriculum to the breaking point? Are we losing perspective in our mad chase for results? Certainly, we're making too much of a god of marks. Can harassed teachers, trying to attain a well-nigh impossible goal, do their best work?

Children Are Different
And last of all, are we taking into account, as she says, the difference in children? I believe that is the weak spot of the whole system.

I am convinced that the specialist was predicting an absolute certainty and that grading in the future school will have to be done according to ability and the stage of mental development. Not by age and marks. All children do not develop mentally at the same rate although they may reach the same goal in the end.

Let us hope that there will be no more bewildered children who have to have doctors, nor harassed, driven teachers, who are, alas, sometimes driven to abuse. The school will be a happy place then, and not a place to be dreaded, as it is too often the case now.

Two giant airships to be built for the U. S. government will be 785 feet long and will carry a crew of 40 men each, as well as five scouting airplanes.

Cinema shows are now given on most of the big Atlantic liners, and have proved very popular with the passengers of all classes.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

By SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

Cool mornings make many mothers feel that children of school age should have a hot drink of some sort for breakfast. Coffee being taboo for growing boys and girls, just what to serve brings more or less of a problem.

A cereal drink served with hot milk may appeal to older children, but young children from six to ten or twelve years of age need a drink containing more actual food value than the cereal beverage unless it is made wholly of milk.

Cocoa, which is really chocolate with some of the fat extracted, makes an excellent flavoring for the cup of hot milk suitable for the juniors' breakfast.

Their Chemical Action
Although cocoa does contain a substance which is related to the caffeine in tea and coffee, when it is used merely as a flavoring for milk there is not enough of this substance present to cause any stimulating effect.

Cocoa itself contains fat, starch and protein, and when whole milk is used and sugar is added, the result is a drink of high food value, nourishing and wholesome.

Since cocoa contains starch, care must be taken in the making of the drink. Thorough cooking is necessary for the starch but undesirable for the milk, so it should not be added to the cocoa until this has been well cooked.

The "skin" which sometimes forms on top of cocoa is the albumen of the milk coagulated by heat. Care in not overheating the milk does much to prevent this. Beating with a Dover beater after the milk is added, increases the smoothness of the drink and removes the "skin" if the milk was allowed to scald.

Chocolate and cocoa may often be used interchangeably, but cocoa is easier to digest and makes a better beverage for children especially.

Individual Cocoa

(For Children)
Three-fourths teaspoon cocoa, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2 tablespoons boiling water, few grains salt, 1 cup milk.

Mix cocoa and sugar in a small sauce-pan. Add boiling water and cook and stir until a thick syrup. Add milk and salt and heat but do not let scald. Stir constantly while heating. Serve at once.

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

By DOROTHY HERZOG
HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—The "New Orleans Frolic" kumppu were waiting for Will Rogers to put in an appearance. At least William Collier, Sr., George Jessel, Walter Catlett and George Olsen were. So the four played cards during the wait.

An extra persisted in looking over Collier's shoulder at his cards; which is murderously annoying to a player. Collier stood it as long as he could. Then:

"Did you ever hear the ham story?"

The extra stammered he never had.

"It's the story of the actor who starved to death with a ham hanging over his shoulder," replied Mr. Collier.

And the best faced extra fled . . . Jack Pickford is Europe-bound. Stay, indefinite. From all reports he is headed for Baden Baden in Germany, to take the baths. Quite a long jaunt for a bath.

Whoops!
George O'Brien walked into a local haberdashery shop and requested the salesman to show him some belts.

The salesman looked calculatingly at the husky George and remarked: "About a thirty-nine?"

"I don't want it for my chest," flared O'Brien. "Make it a thirty."

West." Before departing, however, Mr. Rose wrote three new songs for Fanny which will be incorporated in her second United Artists celluloid, story yet to be selected.

Phew!
Warren Hymer is a young actor tryin' to get along and not doin' so badly with a check waiting him each week at the Fox pay window. And he has a Pierce Arrow but that isn't so worse, or wasn't until—

"Tother eve he dashed out of his house in a big hurry to go somewhere. He stepped on the self-starter and mooseyed on his way. As the car warmed, however, a terrific odor emanated from it. Hymer jerked on the brake, leaped to the street and waited at a safe distance for the explosion. Nothing happened. With handkerchief pressed to nose, he investigated.

And found—that some joker had arranged a pound of ripe Limburger cheese on the exhaust manifold. Ergo, the car is at the fumigator's and Hymer is in search of the joker.

Screenalities: The servant problem was too much for Fanny Brice. She's moved into the Roosevelt . . . Zazu Pitts trailed to Santa Cruz for a lil' rest. And got it . . . Patsy Ruth Miller (Mrs. Tay Garnett, silvousplait) lunched with Mrs. Paul Sloan at Ye Montmatre. And looking very trousseau-ish, too . . . Ernest Lubitsch and Paul Stein talking things over at the noon hour. Mr. Lubitsch smokes very long cigars, which is apropos of nothing . . . Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Hughes can always be seen montmatreing, usually tet-a-tet, at high noon. And were . . . Bob Vignca, the director has become an ardent bridge fan . . . George Fitzmaurice, with his favorite wire-haired fox terrier, strolling across ye United Artists lot . . . And—that's all.

Olive Dyes—

Well, men, whether you did before or not, it's time for you to start preferring Olive Borden. Ye, the vivacious young actress has "gone blond"—but it's only for art's sake. Melville Brown, who is directing Olive in "Dance Hall," concluded that three-fourths of dance hall girls are either blondes or red heads and he wanted Olive to really look her part. So the peroxide bottle was pulled out and the girl's brunet tresses quickly disappeared.

STANTON LANDSLIDES PECOS INTO BACKGROUND IN 20 TO 6 WIN

Wink Intercepts Pass in Last Quarter to Tie Midland in Game Friday

BUFFALO ELEVEN BIDS HIGH FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP; SCORES IN FIRST SIX MINUTES

Six minutes after the whistle blew to start the gold and black jerseys of Stanton high school charging in a fast straight line toward their black and gold rivals from the Pecos valley Friday, more than a thousand fans went wild as they realized that on a close decision Stanton had scored a touchdown and that the club would probably throw a bomb into the prospects of Pecos for a district championship this year.

And Stanton did. The game wound up 20-6 for the neighboring town.

Start Early
When Stanton scored in the first six minutes Pecos was rendered furious. The score came about when Pecos received the kickoff and fumbled. A Stanton Buffalo pounded on the oblong sphere, and a dash crushing line plays and a dash around end from the five yard line by little Epley, field general, and the ball was over for the counter.

Epley scored the next touchdown in the same way. A series of line drives, perplexing spin plays and short bullet passes carried the Stanton line to the Pecos five-yard line. Epley sprinted across the marker behind perfect interference for the second trip.

Epley Big Gun
In each case, Epley passed to Pollock, right end for the added point.

Hawkins, giant fullback, had a big day, breaking through the line as though it were paper. He scored the third touchdown by straight hammering tactics. He failed to make the try for added point.

Pecos scored on a pass over the touchdown line. Several times the club, led by speedy backs, edged down to the Stanton five-yard line, only to be held by the furiously fighting Stanton line.

Enthusiasm at the game was abetted by the uniformed pep squads of both schools, and the half was a regular pep jubilee. Competition of the pep squads was pronounced as between the rival aggregations. The greatest crowd ever to see a football game at Stanton was present.

Odessa In Way
Stanton is conceded to have a hot chance at district honors as a result of the game. Friday's game was the first that marked a score against the Buffaloes in official competition. The team goes to Colorado this Friday, and on the next again resumes official play, taking on Odessa at Stanton. Odessa is conceded to have the second best team in the district, late reports say. The Pecos coach gave out that Odessa has been held up because of injuries all season, but that the club is stronger than Pecos.

An interesting feature of the Friday game was the fact that Stanton made only one substitution, Pollock going out because of injuries and Wade Moffet taking his place at right end.

"When I got out of the ship, there wasn't but one Mexican left in camp," T. J. said, and that was one of the young officers who had been awake. He was fully dressed and in his mad rush to get out of the path of the plane, he tripped over his sword.

biggest income from salaries and wages.

GOOD MAYOR
Indirect vote of people of Midland shows that Leonard Goodman is the city's chief citizen. He is mayor and is president of the Chamber of Commerce.

When Goodman decided to run for mayor he resigned three times as president of the Chamber of Commerce. Each time the directors unanimously declined to accept his resignation.

Goodman is said to be the biggest individual buyer of live beef cattle in North America. In the last 12 months he and his associates bought 60,000 head. Goodman is a graduate civil engineer and was a major in the engineering corps during the World war.

POTENTIAL FARM LAND
Greatest potential wealth of Midland is in farming. The Midland Chamber of Commerce is carrying on a campaign now to get more farm land developed. Land can still be bought at Midland from $18 to $25.

Illustrated literature was recently issued by the chamber of distribution among farmers of the state. Low payment plans on the land, make it so easy to finance, that many farmers who have been renters all their lives elsewhere become home owners in Midland in a short while.

SCHOOLS RATE HIGH
Public schools at Midland are among the highest ranking in Texas and are the highest ranking in the West Texas Permian basin oil fields.

The Midland schools have 33 credits of affiliation with the University of Texas. The city now has seven school buildings, three of which are new. W. W. Lackey has been superintendent at Midland for 23 years. The school population increased about 20 per cent last year.

FINISH PAVING
Paving costing $200,000 will be completed in Midland this year. This is in addition to approximately that much more in use for several years. The city owns its rock crusher and is procuring rock at so little cost that the $200,000 will pave a vastly greater number of blocks than would ordinarily be the case. Midland is wasting no paving on unused street width. The paving is being laid on the theory that 10 feet is wide enough for one traffic lane and 20 feet for passing traffic, with eight feet on each side of the street for parked cars.

BANK ON CATTLEMEN
Cattlemen have always been and still are a bulwark of strength at Midland. In fact, a large part of the city of Midland was built by cattle money.

Midland cattlemen are among the chief supporters of the Chamber of Commerce. They believe in their city, know their business and work at the job of citizenship. The civic, religious and commercial leaders in Midland are cattlemen.

Probably more live beef cattle are bought and sold in the lobby of Hotel Scharbauer at Midland than any other one point in North America. One man and his associates bought 60,000 head in 12 months.

Many cattlemen having ranches as far as 110 miles away in New Mexico make their homes in Midland. The city is growing as a cattle town. Cattlemen from the east, south, north and west, are moving to Midland to educate their children and establish their permanent homes.

Eddie Blacher and Max Kirschbaum have been in Midland for three years, operating the Palace Drug store, near the postoffice. Formerly they owned a grocery store in Rotan.

The new store will carry a full line of drugs, magazines and periodicals, hot and cold drinks and sandwiches.

BURRIS ERRS IN PASSING WHEN IN LEAD

Wink held Midland to a 6-6 score Friday afternoon, further greasing the skid for the weak Bulldogs who have failed to win a game all season. Indication of the game's hard fought surge from one side of the field to the other is not found in the scores, however, and Midland completely outmost of the stages of the game.

There was always a Wink defense thrown out when times became bad for that team, however, and Midland could score only on an intercepted pass, the fast Burris sparing one and tucking it under his arm for a flying trip down the field that brought the sidelines to its feet early in the game.

Secre A Thriller
Wink made its touchdown in a sensational fashion, within two minutes of the close of the game. Burris, who has played heady football most of the time, got "hay in the hat" at the last minute. With the game already sewed up, he elected to pass. On a lateral toss, a Wink man slipped in, snatched it, and made a thrilling run of the distance to the marker to ruin Midland's chances of winning the game, same chances evanescent like smoke.

Midland plays Odessa Friday at Cowden park. The team from the west of Midland is expected to easily win. It is conceded to have the second best eleven in the district. Following Friday, Pecos, another hard team to beat, will be in Midland on Armistice Day, Pyote in Midland Nov. 16, Nov. 22 an open date, and the season finishes in Pecos, Nov. 28.

TEXAS FORGES TO LEAD OF S. W. CONFERENCE

DALLAS, Oct. 26.—(P)—As a result of its 30-0 victory over Rice today, Texas university went into the lead in the Southwest conference race with two wins and no defeats. The Longhorns will go into next week's game here against Southern Methodist University without having had their goal line crossed.

Two teams were definitely eliminated from the race by Arkansas' 14-13 victory over the Aggies at College Station.

Baylor's stock slumped considerably by its 27-12 defeat at the hands of Centenary. Both Texas and TCU had previously beaten the Gentlemen.

TCU maintained its perfect record by beating Lubbock Tech 22-0. Neither the Bears or Frogs play a conference game next week.

SMU set the stage properly for its conference tilt with the Longhorns next week by overwhelming Mississippi university, 52-0. The Mustangs used second and third string men in the last half.

Standing: Texas won two, lost none; TCU won one, lost none; Aggies won none, lost two; SMU won none, played none.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Sports Editor

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Sports Writer

Bob Shawkey, newly appointed manager of the New York Yankees, is the tenth manager to be at the helm of that prosperous ball club. He is the third pitcher to take the reins.

Clark Griffith, first Yankee manager, was a pitcher. He lasted four and a half seasons and when he retired in 1908, the Yanks—or Highlanders, as they then were known—were in the league cellar. His place was taken by Norman Eberfield, the Tabasco Kid. Eberfield was hampered by team jealousies and in 1909 the management shifted again. This time George Stallings, later to be the "Miracle Man," of the Boston Braves, came in.

Stallings brought the team up to second place in 1910 but stepped out before the end of the season. Hal Chase served out the unexpired term and also was the leader in 1911 when the Yanks finished sixth.

Then came Harry Wolverton, who had won a Pacific Coast League pennant. The breezy Wolverton was a flop in the East and the Yanks were a bad last in 1912. Then Frank Chance was engaged. He too failed to make good. He quit one day in 1914 in the middle of an argument and Roger Peckinpaugh was appointed acting manager.

The following winter the club was sold to Col. Ruppert and Capt. Huston and they selected Wild Bill Donovan, another pitcher, to lead the club. Donovan never got the team above fourth place and it was not until 1916 when the late Miller Huggins was engaged that the Yanks started toward success. It will be remembered that under "Hug" the team won six league pennants and three world series.

From early indications the winter is going to be a tough one for hold-outs. Two of the most persistent holdouts of last winter, Paul and Lloyd Waner, are among the first players to sign their 1930 contracts with the Pirates.

Faul slumped way below his 1927 form last season and there has been much talk of the elder brother being traded away. In 1927 Paul batted .370. Last year he batted .336, a drop of 34 points in his batting average.

Dazy Vance, another of the prominent holdouts of last seasons, had a bad year and he is not likely to have much luck holding out for $25,000 this season unless he is traded to the Chicago Cubs—which is one of the hottest tips of the hot stove season. Even Wrigley may not be willing to pay Vance any such fabulous salary.

Max Bishop, Athletics' second baseman, was another of last year's holdouts. Since Bishop batted only .232 the past season, he can ill afford to dictate terms to Connie Mack this season.

From many sources there comes information that ball player's salaries will be slashed all along the line by the magnates this winter. Some of the more prominent stars may be forced to accept smaller salaries than they did in 1928.

One of the reasons why Harry Heilmann, veteran Detroit outfielder, was waived out of the American League was that none of them wanted to take over his high-priced contract.

"The Whole Town's Talking" Is Greeted by Large First Night Crowd

LITTLE THEATER PLAY IS WELL RECEIVED

By MRS. AUBREY LEGG

When Anita Loos, albeit one of the most solvent of modern scribblers, makes a play, boisterous evenings are at hand for theatregoers. It is one of the major discontents of the reviewer not to be able to commend, unequivocally, from the standpoint of dramatic value, "The Whole Town's Talking," premiere Little Theatre presentation, but the local cast at the Grand theatre Friday night managed to convert it into a thoroughly happy theatre evening. Despite inconsistencies of character and banality of plot, the Midland Theatricals concocted a farce, lively and engaging and genuinely honest.

Mrs. George T. Abell was the director and the company from the charming Mrs. Marian F. Peters to the "Lythe" and competent Mrs. J. T. Clark, Mesdames Walter Angus and S. M. Warren, the inevitable Loos "girl friends," Miss Lotta Williams, the indispensable maid, Paul Osborne et al was a delight.

The scandalous title of the play is drawn from a "happy, hectic, Hollywood" episode in the life of the artless Chester Binney, impersonated by Mr. R. C. Hankins who portrayed convincingly Chester's countryfication of thought and action.

Mr. D. H. Starling stirs one from somnolent inertia by the graceful power of his elocution in his representation of Henry Simmons, surly captain of industry and mildly philandering husband who contrives to wed his charming and sophisticated daughter to the safe and stolid Chester. Ethel, done with the rhythm and subtlety of a fine and earnest impersonator by Miss Adele Marcus, displaying the usual feminine perversity, returns from a series of "educational" and "artistic" adventures with a suave and gentle-mannered man-about-town, Mr. Roger Shields of Chicago and Paris, in tow. This role, glittering in its varnished exclusiveness, accomplished manner and accomplished grooming is done by Mr. Tom Patterson and shares first honors with that of Sadie Bloom, a Bowery queen and erstwhile skeleton from the lurid past of the rustic Chester and played by Mrs. Dewey T. Ross.

Giant Flying Hotel Makes Successful Flight

A close-up of the mighty Dornier flying boat, DO-X, which broke all records by taking up 169 persons at Altenrhein, Switzerland. Note the size of this craft, with its twelve 500 horsepower engines in line. It is reported the giant air bird will try a trans-Atlantic flight in the near future if additional tests prove it is able to negotiate the long hop.

Complications arising from the selection of a reigning cinema star as one of Chester's "adorada," in preference to the conveniently deceased Mona Lisa, include the arrival of an ex-pugilist fiancée of the actress. Mr. S. M. Warren, as the picture director-prize fighter is the "glass of fashion and the mold of form," with the face of a Greek god, but manner convincingly pug-nacious.

We are asked to believe that with the timely assistance of the father in superimposing upon Chester a sufficiently vicious past, the beautiful Ethel succumbs to his pathetic charms, so we stifle our skepticism in the matter and mentally assist him from the chandelier to assume the posture of the "killer" over the prone bodies of his antagonists.

In this first presentation of the Little Theatre as a civic organization, the Midland dramatic group demonstrated assuredly that the drama, even if the moron of the muses, can be made vital and vibrant on the local boards.

Seek To Stabilize Rubber Production

By ARCH RODGERS

United Press Staff Correspondent LONDON, Oct. 24.—(UP)—Almost a year after the removal of the British Stevenson Plan, under which Great Britain attempted to restrict the world output of rubber, another attempt to stabilize rubber prices has been started in Amsterdam.

Curiously enough, the attempt is being made by the Dutch Rubber Growers' Protection Committee, which was formed in 1923 to work for abolition of the Stevenson scheme. The Dutch committee now is asking the British producers to co-operate in creating a selling organization which would pool from 16 to 20 per cent of the total output of standard quality sheet rubber and establish a minimum sales price for a specific period.

The Dutch committee estimated the consumption in 1930 at 850,000 tons, which would leave a shortage under production of 30,000 tons. A reserve pool of 45,000 tons is therefore proposed, which would be ten per cent of the production of the British, French and Dutch colonies.

The committee has issued a circular which expresses regret that there is no institute capable of furnishing reliable figures on rubber production. This circular recalled that the financial aspects of the situation had been the main objection to forming a central selling organization, but indications of a better market in 1930 have induced several large producers to join hands.

It was estimated that producers outside the selling organization would be unable to meet the world demand so that prices would be higher. The association would not be created as a permanent body. The scheme met with favor in London and Amsterdam, where the market was quiet and firm.

Shorthand is now a compulsory study for the 600 men of the Sheffield, England, police.

STORY BRINGS SADDLE

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 26.—As the result of a story told at an ex-students' banquet in Boston, Mass., last March 2, the University of Texas has been presented with a riding saddle that once belonged to Santa Anna, Mexican general of the Texas Revolutionary days, according to Mrs. M. A. Hatcher. The saddle has been in the possession of Mrs. W. H. Brown of Boston for many years and was secured for the University through the combined efforts of Dr. T. L. Terry, Capt. E. H. Pentecost, Dr. E. C. Barker, professor of history in the University, and John A. Lomax, Jr., Texas ex-student.

Conditions of the gift were that the saddle should be placed in the university library or in the state library temporarily and ultimately placed in the Museum of Texas History. The saddle is of unique construction, being made of reinforced plaster of paris, covered with a fine grade of white leather. The pommel is decorated with a silver design in the shape of a basket, while the girth and stirrups are covered with embroidery worked in silver thread.

Japanese girls are now being permitted to proclaim their charms over the wireless from the stations in the flowery land; they invite inquiries from possible husbands. The consumption of beer per head of the English population, before the revolution of Oliver Cromwell was 90 gallons; it is now less than a quarter of this.

DIXIE LEE BEST OF FIFTY SINGERS IN FOX MOVIE TONE

Dixie Lee, charming New Orleans youngster who scored a sensational hit on Broadway in the "Varsity Drag," number of "Good News," makes her musical revue screen debut in the William Fox Movietone Folies of 1929, first picture of its kind, opening today at the Ritz Theatre.

"Why Can't I Be Like You?" was written by Con Conrad, Sidney D. Mitchell and Archie Gottler.

Miss Lee was selected from among fifty applicants from the New York stage as the best "Southern Blues" singer for a role in the Fox Movietone Folies. She was born in Harriman, Tenn., November 4, 1909, and received her early education there. She then attended the Sophie Wright School in New Orleans. In 1925 her family moved to Chicago. Her first interest in theatricals was developed when she won a singing contest held at the Hotel Sherman there. Miss Lee is a petite blonde type, and is an accomplished dancer.

HAMILTON TO TRIAL MONDAY FOR MURDER

WEATHERFORD, Tex., Oct. 26. — (P) — Charged with murder for slaying his daughter's husband, R. H. Hamilton, a former member of the commission of appeals for the Texas supreme court, will go to trial here tomorrow, probably on a self-defense plea.

Hamilton shot his son-in-law, Tom Walton, Jr., when the youth went to Hamilton's office to tell of his marriage to Theresa, Hamilton's 19-year-old daughter. As Walton entered the office he said to a stenographer, police declare: "If you hear some shooting you'll know I've been shot." Shortly thereafter four shots rang out. Young Walton, 21, died a few minutes later.

At that time, May 4, Theresa was ill at Austin where she and her husband attended the University of Texas. Her mother was with Theresa, and when Hamilton was indicted Mrs. Hamilton said: "It is better that he should be indicted. Now the thing can be settled for all time."

Hamilton made few statements. Immediately after the shooting he told newspapermen "I had rather be dead than kill a man but I had to protect my family." His lawyer subsequently said: "Hamilton had been threatened. If Walton and Hamilton's daughter are married Hamilton did not know it. In fact, we will deny it." Records showed Walton and Theresa were married at Georgetown in February.

Hamilton, while opposing the marriage as long as Walton was in school, had said he would not object when Walton finished. The marriage, he said, was made without his knowledge.

Mrs. Tom Walton, sr., knowing Hamilton would object, had sent her son to Hamilton's office the morning of the shooting to tell of the marriage. Her son slain, she was prostrated and for a time dangerously ill.

Hamilton waived examining trial and was released on $20,000 bond. When his case was called in court Theresa, with her mother, was present. Hamilton's attorneys, contending Amarillo newspapers had created such sentiment against the jurist that he could not obtain a fair trial in that region, successfully fought for a venue change and the case was transferred to Weatherford.

Hamilton's counsel since have emphasized the self-defense angle, making slight reference to Hamilton's statement that "I had to protect my family."

Considerable attention was attracted to the case because of Hamilton's prominence. Both Theresa and young Walton were well known at the University.

HAS THREE WIVES
LAREDO, Tex., Oct. 18. — (P) — It takes a brave man to have three living wives and be divorced from none of them. But such is the case here in Laredo; and the man is about 60 years old. Santiago Perez was arraigned in justice court on a charge of bigamy, and bound to the grand jury.

During the examining hearing, it developed that Perez had three living wives—one in Mexico and two in Laredo. He married wife No. 1 in Lampazos, Mexico; he married the other two in Laredo. All are said to be living and in good health, and when Perez faces trial for bigamy.

New Proration Rules Put Into Effect As Oil Company Lines Refuse To Buy More Oil

By C. T. WATSON
BIG SPRING, Texas, Oct. 27.—All wells in the west extension of the Howard-Glasscock county field which has had the major part of the oil play for the past two months and where the largest discoveries are being brought in was put under new proration rules here yesterday when E. E. Andrews decreased the potential for all wells west of the Big Spring-San Angelo highway, from 75 percent to 40 percent on account of pipe lines refusing to purchase the oil. The cut is simply a pipe line adjustment to comply with the maximum amount the pipe lines would use daily said Mr. Andrews. The pipe lines refusing to purchase more oil each day than their storage capacity. The Shell and Humble lines, two of the major pipe line companies operating in the field are unwilling to construct more storage in the field and their pipe lines are handling all the oil that can be delivered through various outlets. The biggest production of the week was the Schermerhorn-Oil Company-Phillips No. 1, located 330 feet from the north line and 330 feet from the east line of section 23, block 33, township 2 south, Texas and Pacific Railway Company, survey, which tested 2,034 barrels on 24-hour test. This is the largest potential ever made in the field with three inch tubing. This well is offset on the west by Kirby, Atlantic and Black Arrow and on the north by the Sun Oil Company.

Other wells in this extension completed and added to the list of producers, and given official tests this week were the Sun Oil Company No. 1-Phillips off-setting the Schermerhorn on the north, located 330 feet from the south line of section 14, block 33, township 2 south, T. & F. Ry. Co. survey.

Continental No. 1-Kloh et al, 990 feet from the north line and 330 feet from the east line of section 13, block 33, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, Kirby Atlantic & Black Arrow's No. 1-Phillips, 2,310 feet from the west line and 330 feet from the north line of section 23, block 33, township 2 south, Texas and Pacific Co. survey.

Lyon Oil & Refining Company No. 1-Baker in the west one half of the northwest quarter of section 23, block 33, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey. Locations for Howard County reported this week are: Godley Oil & Gas Company Hooks No. 7, 2,440 feet from the north line and 1,050 feet from the west line of section 140, block 29, W. & N. W. Survey. Rigging up with rotary, Humble Oil and Refining Company-Clay No. 6,330 feet from the south and west lines of Section 138, block 29 W. & N. W. survey, digging slush pit. Gulf Production Company-Clay No. 9, 330 feet from the north and west lines of section 155, block 29, W. & N. W. survey.

California-Doral Roberts, lease No. 1, well No. 4, 2,197 feet from the east line and 1,650 feet from the south line of section 137, block 29, W. & N. W. survey, moving in rotary.

Dallas Cotton Market

DALLAS COTTON
Cotton futures fluctuated around previous closing levels in early dealings, with moderate activity. Prices were steady, although at opening an easier position existed. Commission house support and buying in Liverpool and the continent, especially in the near months, helping to create a firmer tone. Support was also furnished the distant months by week end short covering. Optimistic statements concerning economic conditions of the country by leading figures brought support into the stock market and commodity markets.

U. S. Troops Stage Maneuvers On Mexican Border

Practice makes perfect, and 6000 American troops along the Mexican border are getting plenty of practice in the art of warfare. Above, a squadron of "Brown" troops engaged in the "Brown-White" skirmishes near El Paso, Texas, is shown as it charged across the desert against its theoretical opponents in the annual military maneuvers. Below, left, a "White" crew of artillery gunners is shown in action. At right, Brig.-Gen. Walter C. Short, commander of the "White" army, is pictured conferring with Colonel S. Field Dallam (right), umpire of the make-believe war.

ROTHMOOR COATS

There's certainly a lot of dash to the new Fall Styles

Rothmoor Coats have become a national habit, not by luck, but through merit, every little thing about them is perfect, marvelously exact and fine. The foreign wools are rich, distinctive and exclusive, the furs northern trapped, deep pelted, luxurious, and the needling so fine, so precise, that Rothmoors never lose their famous style lines.
