Fun With Flowers—

Here's A Way To Make A Bouquet In A Bottle For Table Center

No. 1—If you are one of those people fascinated by a ship in a bottle you'll be equally amused with our "bouquet in a bottle." Fill an interesting, clear bottle—be sure you get one with a small neck—with the heads of flowers such as daisies, gallardia, etc. Put them into the bottle head first as illustrated. The limiting factor is the side of the daisy center as compared with the bottle opening. The petals will bend forward or backward taking up practically no room at all. Once they are in the bottle the flowers resume their normal shape and look so large that everyone wonders how they were put in. Fill the bottle completely to get an aquarium effect as sketched in the upper left. Or fill the bottle only half full and the flowers will float as shown in the upper right.

Indian Artifacts On Display Here

Artifacts varying in age from several scores to several hundred years are included in the collection of Indian and stone age items on display here now under the auspices of the Howard County Museum association.

R. B. Selvidge, who assembled the collection during his many years among the Indians of Oklahoma, is in charge of the display and explains its many points. A share of the proceeds will go to the local museum, and Selvidge said he was attempting to secure additional items for the museum.

The show place is north of the Big Spring Hardware in the Estes building, and hours are from 8:15 a. m. to 6 p. m., said Selvidge.

Although Indian items are his specialty, he also has many other curios of by-gone days.

Highlights of the display are a stone mortar and basket sifter; a wooden mortar which differed from the stone in that grain was crushed through pounding; buffalo horn and wooden spoons, clay bowls, polishing stones, stone mosaic pattern, war clubs, tomahawks, stone knives, skinning stones, stone axes, an unique totem pole, a spear flag, stone hoe, pioneer plows, guns, etc., and a batch of photographs of Indians.

Selvidge claims 61 years among the Indians and spins many interesting tales about his collections.

Early Map Of Area Found At Colorado City

COLORADO CITY, July 1. (Sp.) A map of Texas as it was in 1878, before there was a Colorado City and before West Texas knew anything of civilization except cow and buffalo camps and an occasional fort, has been brought to light in the vault at the Mitchell county courthouse.

The map was found by workers carrying on a county-sponsored Work Progress Administration project for re-working old papers in the vault. It was with papers filed in connection with a suit brought by the State of Texas vs. Bacon and Graves of Houston, representing the HATC railroad. It involved land in this area.

Not a town or a settlement was known in Mitchell county. Big Spring was marked in Howard county, but it was the spring, not the town. Taylor county was shown with one town—its original county seat, Buffalo Gap.

Tom Green county extended from the western borders of Runnels and Concho counties clear to the western edge of the state. Most of what is now El Paso county, however, lay at that time in the territory of New Mexico. Texas at that time did not have its familiar western tip.

Indeed, the whole area of Texas extending south from Andrews, Martin, Howard and Mitchell counties and west from Runnels, Concho, Menard, and other counties in a southern line with these was covered by four counties—Tom Green, Pecos, Presidio, and Crockett. Tom Green's territory alone covered what is now fourteen counties.

County Clerk James Harrington has had the map framed and will keep it on display in his office at the courthouse.

Texas New Governor Product Of Old West

COKE R. STEVENSON

By HOWARD G. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, July 2 (AP) — Coker Robert Stevenson, governor-designate of Texas upon the basis of unofficial returns from Saturday's election which will send Governor W. Lee O'Daniel to the United States senate, is a product of the frontier before the rough edges were smoothed away.

After nearly 40 years as legislator, lawyer, rancher, hardware merchant, hotel owner, warehouse operator, auto agency proprietor, newspaper publisher, janitor, freighter and banker, the 58-year-old official still smacks of the west. Indicative of pioneer conditions, he grew up short on formal education, going to country schools only seven years for a total of 22 months, but very long on knowledge of how to get ahead in life.

For the last two and a half years, he has been lieutenant-governor, having been elected to that office in 1938 and re-elected in 1940. Previously he served 10 years in the house of representatives, and is the only man ever chosen speaker twice in succession.

The oldest of eight children in the family, Stevenson "began work" at the age of 14, trying "about everything."

After holding various ranch jobs, he acquired six horses and two wagons and "started freighting" between Junction and Brady, a distance of 85 miles. He was 18 years old.

The young freighter would camp in the open at night and cook his meals over a camp fire, which served a triple purpose. It supplied warmth on chilly nights, heat for cooking and light for study. He had ordered a set of books and undertaken to learn bookkeeping.

A year and a half passed and the ranch people organized a bank in Junction. It opened on June 7, 1908. "When I heard about it, I went around and asked for a job as bookkeeper," Stevenson continued. "The president laughed at the idea of a freighter being a bookkeeper, but said that, since no negroes were in the town, he could use a janitor. I took that job, although it only paid $20 a month and I was making $40 or more at freighting."

A month later something happened to the bookkeeper, and Stevenson offered to fill the gap. The president asked if he could "take off a trial balance." "I told him I could," Stevenson said.

In March, 1908, when 20 years old, the cashier resigned, and the bank board of directors were willing to give Stevenson that position. His age, however, was an obstacle. He was not old enough to make the necessary bond.

District court was in session, so he hurried over, talked to the judge and his disabilities as a minor were removed. All in the same day he was made cashier.

Presently he appeared before the San Antonio court of civil appeals, passed the examination and was admitted to the bar.

Under agreement with the bank directors, he "practiced a little law on the side," talking care not to "alienate some good customer of the bank."

Feeling an urge to enter politics and pressed by friends to do so, he ran for county attorney of Kimble county, was elected and served from 1914 to 1918. Then he was county judge until 1921.

His real estate properties have expanded hugely, and now include an 8,000-acre ranch on which his home of natural rock is located. The ranch is 17 miles southwest of Junction.

In 1928 the incumbent representative from Kimble county retired from the legislature, and Stevenson was elected to the place, making the race, he said, "because I thought the ranch people needed representation." Four times he was re-elected for two-year terms.

After his second term as speaker, Stevenson returned to his seat on the floor as an unadorned representative.

In 1938, he was elected lieutenant-governor after a hard campaign. He was re-elected in 1940 without difficulty, receiving 797,784 votes, compared with 150,723 for Alton M. Mead of San Angelo and 113,841 for Charles Lavergne Souersville of Dallas.

Stevenson gives his wife much credit for his political successes. Not only her abilities as a campaigner, but also her wide acquaintanceship, he says, have been big aids to him.

NEW OIL BEATS
five other big-name brands in
TORTURE-TEST
Endures Sizzling Death Valley heat for 13,398 MILES ON ONE 5-QUART FILL

How this Certified Record can spell new Oil-Savings—new Engine Safety—for You

You get the oil that outlasted 5 other highly reputed brands by 74% to 161% in Certified Competition, when you change to this proved-in-advance new oil named

CONOCO Nth MOTOR OIL
—Popular-Priced

Your own engine can be fortified by new Conoco Nth motor oil right today, at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. But before going on sale this new oil proved that a regular 5-quart fill could establish startling extremes of endurance, engine protection and miser-economy.

Fantastic Death Valley brings Your Evidence

Death Valley seems to shimmy—like heat at your furnace door. And down on this desert impartial observers watched 6 identical stock cars, at 57-mile speed, torture-testing 6 quality oils, including new Conoco Nth oil. No let-up, day on day, till each oil gave out and junked its engine.

Even the best competitive oil in the test was outlasted 5,683 miles by new Conoco Nth oil. And one "rival" was outlasted all of 8,268 miles by new Conoco Nth oil. Certified.

All this New Economy how?

America has long known Conoco best for making it possible to give any engine OIL-FLATING... lubricant that can't all quickly drain down, but must stay FLATED UP—alert against wear in advance—not waiting till oil-flow starts. OIL-FLATING comes from a rare synthetic... man-made under the Conoco Germ Processed oil patent. And Conoco Nth motor oil still brings OIL-FLATING—but not only that...

In addition this new oil brings Conoco's latest synthetic—Thialthene inhibitor. It inhibits—controls—the effect of foul "leftovers" produced by every engine's normal firing. Otherwise uncontrolled oil spillage could easily start. In oils that let this spillage start, it spreads like a rumor—gets worse, faster and faster. But now that's nipped in the bud by Thialthene inhibitor, in new Conoco Nth oil... U. S. Patent 2,218,132. This oil stays more like its own good self. Then your engine will, and that saves oil... as demonstrated by the long life of Conoco Nth in pitiless Death Valley.

You'll never give your own engine such a "trial by torture." You wouldn't pass up your regular time for draining. Authorities say, "Don't!" But you can know that Conoco Nth outlasted other big-name oils by as much as 161%... Certified. So you can see your change of big Summer savings in changing now to new Conoco Nth at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Co.—Pioneers in Bettering America's oil with Synthetics

CERTIFIED I hereby certify that the Death Valley Test and related work were thoroughly and fairly conducted. Engine Destruction occurred in each case at the mileage stated.

Stamford Rodeo Plans Complete

STAMFORD, July 2.—Final preparations have been completed by the committee for the opening of the twelfth annual Texas Cowboy Reunion here Thursday on July 2, first of the three day show, and officials are looking forward to a most entertaining one of the largest crowds in Reunion history.

Advance ticket sales, hotel reservations and the number of entries in the rodeo and other contests indicate that this year's attendance will equal and probably exceed any in the past.

New features added this year include trick and fancy roping and riding acts in the arena as a part of the rodeo performances, and a demonstration of square dancing and other old-time steps by the Stamford Square Dance Team on a floodlighted platform in the center of the arena at each night performance of the rodeo. This, it is predicted, will be one of the highlights of the three night performances.

The second annual official show of the American Quarter Horse Association will be held during the Reunion, and many entries of quarter horses already have been received. This show was inaugurated by the American Quarter Horse Association last year at the Reunion.

Approximately a dozen chuck wagons from ranches throughout West Texas, and their cook crews, will be here to assist in feeding the thousands of visitors.

Conservation Board Meets

Supervisors of the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation district studied sub-division of the district into five areas at their regular monthly meeting in Stanton Tuesday.

Under the new law, the district is to be broken into smaller areas from which supervisors will be elected. Plans are to have one election in one sub-district each year, the term to be for five years.

At the parley Tuesday, the board approved 20 agreements with the Garner-South and from the Ulmer Lake areas. Also discussed was the opening of a SCS office in Stanton, a move awaiting official announcement by the SCS.

Two meetings at which district planning methods and means of enlisting support in conservation program will be talked were set. One will be Thursday at 8:30 p. m. in the home of Ben Miller, R-Bar, and the other will be Saturday at 4 p. m. in the county agent's office with J. A. Bishop, Bill Satterwhite and W. H. Wise participating.

It was the old story of an electric iron being left on, firemen reported after making a run to 2001 Runnels street Tuesday evening. Heat of the iron had ignited a wall, and in turn fire spread to the ceiling. However, flames were brought under control before doing much damage.

R. E. Martin, who lives in the Coahoma area, says cotton fleas hoppers are getting plenty bad. Worst part, he adds, is that there is a shortage of dusting equipment and the damage may be done before equipment can be had to combat it.

Cotton Stamp Plan Advances

Cotton order stamps, on which hinges the inauguration of the cotton stamp program here, have been received by the AAA office, it was announced Wednesday.

As soon as compliance checks are completed, the issuance of the order stamps will be started. In turn, these may be exchanged by the holders for domestically produced and processed cotton goods at approved drygoods and other stores.

Amount of the stamps initially requisitioned was $4,462.50. As compliance shows more entitled to order stamps, they will be requisitioned by the county AAA office.

Another development at the AAA office was the distribution of 47 wheat parity payment checks totaling $1,347.

Markets At A Glance

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—The buying side of the stock market had a better following today and such groups as steels, rails, farm implements and industrial specialties pushed ahead fractions to a point or more.

Some sections were unresponsive to the turn and volume or around 400,000 shares, while an improvement over Tuesday, failed to indicate a break in the apathy of buyers and sellers.

Stocks retreated from their best levels under some late profit selling. Closing with some gains were U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Case, International Harvester, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Anaconda, Dupont, Union Carbide, Santa Fe and Pennsylvania. Commonwealth & Southern preferred jumped several points on the announcement of plans for its retirement in connection with the company's integration. Standard Oil (NJ) and Pepsi-Cola reached new 1941 highs.

Grain

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—Medium sized mill orders and purchases of previous short sellers helped to lift wheat prices almost a cent at times today.

However, the market could not hold all its gain in the face of hedging sales associated with liquidation of old and new "free" grain and selling inspired by forecast of the largest domestic harvest in a decade except for that of 1938.

Wheat closed 1-5-3-4 higher than yesterday, July $1.04 1-4 - 1-5, September $1.05 1-8 - 1-4; corn 3-8 lower to 1-8 higher, July 73 3-8 - 1-2, September 75 3-4 - 7-8; oats 1-8 off to 1-8 up.

Cutting Of WPA Rolls Is Studied

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—State administrators of the Works Project Administration tackled a huge WPA employment reduction job today.

They met with Howard O. Hunter, WPA commissioner, in an annual two-day session, faced this time with the necessity of cutting the rolls about 400,000 to a level of 1,000,000 for the nation.

A spokesman said the WPA appropriation bill passed by congress Monday allotted $875,000,000 for the program in the fiscal year which began yesterday. This would permit employment of about 1,000,000—a figure suggested to congress by President Roosevelt as a desirable average for this fiscal year. The preceding fiscal year appropriation was $1,250,000,000.

WPA employment nationally averaged 1,700,000 in the last fiscal year until spring when reductions brought it down to about 1,400,000 by June 30. The spokesman said the added 400,000 cut would be effected "immediately," possibly within a week and "surely" by July 15.

An example of how the reductions will be made nationally was furnished last week when George H. Field, Chicago regional director and acting Illinois state administrator, announced the Illinois July quota would be dropped from 95,000 to 65,500, an all-time low since the WPA program began.

H. F. Malone To Take Over WPA Recreation Work

H. F. Malone, who has been associated with the district WPA recreational office for the past year, is to return here as supervisor for Midland and Howard counties, it was announced Tuesday evening by Mrs. Mary Berry, district supervisor.

He will replace Malcolm Bridges, who is entering private employment, said Mrs. Berry. Bridges succeeded Malone when the latter was transferred to San Angelo last year.

Both men have had a big part in the development of Big Spring's recreational department. It was Malone who first organized it, and Bridges further expanded the program. Retrenchments this year made it necessary for Midland's program to be operated from here and Bridges added this to his work.

Under the new and curtailed WPA budget, however, it has become necessary to reduce the district and area staff, Mrs. Berry pointed out.

Wool Market

BOSTON, July 2 (AP) (USDA) Trade in wool was very spotty on the Boston market today. The occasional sales were mostly of small volume. Prices generally were mostly about steady to firm. Scattered sales of fine Australian wools were closed at prices inclined to the low side of the range $1 to $1.05, scoured basis, including duty. Twelve months Texas wools received an occasional request and while offerings were firmly quoted at $1.05 to $1.10, scoured basis, sales were mostly on wools offered at prices on the low side of this range.

See by the papers that the Country club is going to repeat its all day Fourth of July funfests at the clubhouse. Those that attended last year will remember what a success it was then. The line of activity runs from dancing to ping pong, and horsehoes to just visiting.

That the young people's Christian conference is being a large success was proved here yesterday. JACK STIFF who had planned to go to Buffalo Gap today got word that the camp was full-up. And according to the folks here, "full-up" means 150 persons.

The rule may be "helping the farmers and the crop but according to Mrs. H. W. WRIGLEY, it is making her mud bound at her home, 1801 Johnson...

The SUSANNAH WESLEY class members are planning on a chicken barbecue and have postponed their regular Friday meeting until next week on account of the July 4th holiday. The exact date will be announced early in the week.

Maybe it is something we ate but just couldn't help but hope that Big Spring people would all survive the day Friday. At least take it easy, folks, and remember, it's not the only day when you can celebrate. Which will be all the notes for today from your AUNT POLLY.

Jailer Locks Self In Jail By Error
 CANYON, Tex.—Prisoners laughed, Night Watchman Jim Cheyne fumed—it was embarrassing to say the least.

 He fired and whistled, fired and whistled until his gun was empty. He finally was freed by Officer Oscar Gamble.

21-Year-Olds Likely To Get Early Calls

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Selective service narrowed its age limits today with the blanket deferment of all men 28 years of age or older not now in training.

The effect of the order was to make only those from 21 through 27 liable to a year's duty with the army in the future, and it increased the likelihood of an early call for many of the 750,000 young men who registered yesterday.

The blanket deferment order was issued yesterday as local boards throughout the country were concluding the enrollment of the men who have reached 21 since the first registration last October. This second enrollment went off smoothly and apparently without major incident.

Brigadier General Lewis B. Hershey, deputy selective service director, who issued the instructions, said he acted at the request of congressional leaders in anticipation of final congressional approval of legislation which would have the same effect.

The order affects approximately 8,000,000 men between the ages of 28 and 36—or almost half of the 16,500,000 who signed up last October when all men between 21 and 36 were required to register.

Although the original rolls were cut almost in two, authorities said that there would be no comparable reduction in the number of potential trainees. Some, indeed, thought that yesterday's 750,000 new registrants probably would provide about the same number of military qualified men as could be found among the millions newly deferred. Furthermore, it was said, the youth of the new registrants made them better reserve material for the future after their year's training.

New Officers Take Places In Lions Club

Schley Riley and other new officers of the Lions club were installed officially at a club banquet session Tuesday evening in the Bettles ballroom.

In the absence of H. C. Pender, Lubbock, newly elected district governor, Joe Pond, a past district governor, conducted the installation.

He also presented Burke Summers with a past president's pin as Summers handed over the gavel to Riley, Dan Conley, secretary, presented pins to more than a dozen members for records of 100 per cent attendance during the past year.

Entertainment for the occasion was furnished by Maurine Rowe and Wanda McQuain, club sweethearts, with Mrs. Anne Gibson Houser at the piano. Major L. W. Canning of the Salvation Army urged club support in the effort to subscribe to the Howard county quota for United Service Organizations. The affair Tuesday evening was a "ladies night" event.

Oil Control Bills In Hands Of Governor

AUSTIN, July 2 (AP)—While federal officials considered ways and means of coordinating all production and transportation, the biggest oil producing state in the union—Texas—had cut its aggregate daily yield 85,000 barrels today.

Pending in the office of Governor W. Lee O'Daniel were bills making permanent the state's production laws and amending them toward prohibition of possible discrimination between fields on allowable production allocation.

Under procedural rules, the governor, if so minded, must veto the bills today or they will become law automatically. If vetoed, the legislature could not override the gubernatorial disapproval.

Texas crude production dropped 85,000 barrels daily to a total of 1,347,928 yesterday when the July statewide production order became effective.

Railroad commission engineers calculated that assigned but unproduced allowances would reduce the actual yield from last week's 11,662 barrels daily over the U. S. bureau of mines market demand forecast to 23,221 under the federal agency's 1,324,000 estimate for July in Texas.

Among the most far-reaching moves of the Texas legislature, now apparently near the end of its general session, were adoption of the two bills now on the governor's desk, a bill placing wells which lift oil by gas pressure under the marginal wells statutes and rejection of a plan to create an appointive conservation commission thus stripping the elective railroad commission of its regulatory powers.

Texas membership in the interstate oil compact was renewed and the legislature killed a bill permitting use of natural sweet gas, now used for light and fuel purposes only, in the manufacture of carbon black.

Fish Gets Away—After Pulling Man Overboard Into Sea

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., July 2 (AP)—Add big ones that got away. F. J. Weasling of Hermann, Mo., fishing off St. Petersburg, baited a big hook on a heavy line "just to see what I catch."

A huge fish snatched the bait, gave a yank, and overboard went Weasling. Still hanging onto his line, he went under, came up sputtering a moment later.

"I tried to hold on," he told Capt. Walter Craft, "but he got away."

Giant Locomotives On Order
 SALT LAKE CITY, Utah — Forty mammoth new locomotives will be placed in service on Union Pacific railroad lines within the next year to care for increased transportation resulting from national defense needs, railway officials announced recently. Twenty of the locomotives will enter service this summer.

Canada has at least two army divisions (80,000 men) stationed in Britain.

Final Unofficial Count Gives O'Daniel 1,095 Vote Margin

Johnson Says He Will Await Final Canvass

DALLAS, July 2. (AP)—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, who three years ago was plugging flour on a radio program with hillbilly music and songs of his own composition, appeared today to have defeated Lyndon Johnson, young new deal congressman, by a narrow margin in a special senatorial election.

After trailing through the earlier stages of vote counting, O'Daniel polled 1095 votes more than Johnson on the basis of complete unofficial returns announced by the Texas election bureau late yesterday.

Although Bob Johnson, election bureau manager, said the returns from all the state's 254 counties had been carefully checked, he warned there was still a possibility of error.

Congressman Martin Dies, chairman of a house committee investigating un-American activities, and Attorney General Gerald C. Mann lagged far behind O'Daniel and Johnson in the senatorial contest—

one of the closest statewide elections the state has ever conducted. Of the 871,095 votes tabulated by the election bureau, the final count showed:

O'Daniel, 175,368.
Johnson, 174,273.
Mann, 140,853.
Dies, 80,901.

The bureau said it would issue no more reports unless corrections were necessary.

The death of Andrew Jackson Houston, who was named by the governor to serve as senator until a special election could be held, occurred two days before balloting started. Houston, 87, was the son of Sam Houston, one of Texas' most famous heroes.

Johnson declared at Washington, where he went by plane yesterday, that until the "canvass is complete, I have no statement other than to thank my loyal friends and supporters who did so much toward helping me get my message to the people of Texas."

Refreshments With Punch Make Warm Summer Days Seem Cooler

AP Feature Service

For refreshments on warm summer days, there's always fruit punch. It's cooling, refreshing, and at home in any crowd.

Here's a recipe that makes a full gallon:

1 1/2 cups sugar, dissolved in 2 cups tea infusion (pour 2 cups boiling water over 8 teaspoons tea)
1 cup lemon juice
2 cups orange juice

2 quarts iced water or ginger ale or charged water
Orange and lemon slices for garnish

Cool tea. Combine ingredients. If served over block of ice in punch bowl, use less water. To serve a larger number, have sugar, tea and fruit juices mixed in correct amounts to refill punch bowl as needed. Orange blossom or jasmine tea adds flavor. This recipe fills 16 eight-ounce or 32 small punch glasses.

Cotton Oil Man Suggests Check On Flea Hoppers

L. W. Bramblett, field representative for Sweetwater Cotton Oil Co., Wednesday reported widespread damage over the area from cotton flea hoppers and suggested measures to control the insect.

Coinciding with those made by County Agent O. P. Griffin, Bramblett's suggestions were to examine each week terminal buds when plants have only six to eight leaves; if flea hoppers are present in damaging numbers, small, blackened dead squares less than one-quarter of an inch in size will be observed and young flea hoppers will be seen at the terminal bud.

Bramblett said sulphur dusting (10 pounds to the acre or 12-15 pounds in older cotton) should begin when damage is observed in one out of every 10 consecutive plants or when 20 hoppers are present on terminal buds of 100 consecutive plants.

Sulphur, he added, will hold good for a week if not washed off by rain. It should kill young flea hoppers within 24 hours after application if not washed off. This year they are particularly destructive since cotton is tender and growing fast.

An apparatus has been perfected in Australia by which pure water can be obtained from the human breath.

Strom Closing Out Home Appliances; To Remain Here

Announcement has been made by Carl Strom of the discontinuance of the home appliance store here bearing his name.

Strom stressed, however, that he is not leaving Big Spring, and said that he would make an announcement later as to plans for future activities. Strom, with his wife and daughter, came here four and a half years ago, opening the home appliance store. The family has erected a handsome residence on the outskirts of Edwards Heights.

"You couldn't shoot the Stroms out of Big Spring," said Carl. "We'll be around for some time, and will still be connected with the city's business life."

The Strom store has announced special offerings in connection with the closeout.

The helium-filled giant, which has a capacity of 65,000 cubic feet, is being developed along with several other balloon types as part of the nation's defense effort.

In The Groove—Joe DiMaggio, swinging on a 3-2 pitch in the fifth inning of the first Red Sox game in New York July 1, hit safely to bring his hitting streak to 43 straight. Dominic Ryda was pitching; Frank Flynk, catching, and Bill Summers, plate umpire. The Yanks won, 7-2. In the second game, Joe cracked out a single in the first inning to run his streak to 44 straight and tie Willie Keeler's major league record set in 1897.

Chick Evans Performs In Colo. Open

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 2 (AP)—Chick Evans is the Old Man River of golf. He keeps on rolling in his mid-voiced leisurely way. The friendly Chicago veteran, former National Open and amateur champion, is here competing for the 24th year in the Western amateur championships. Nobody still playing competitive golf has been at it as long as Chick. He first played in the Western in 1906, long before most of this year's contestants were born. He has won it eight times, including a four-year streak ending in 1922. Evans shot a respectable 39-36-75, five over par on Broadmoor's mountain-framed fairways in the first leg of the 36-hole qualifying tests yesterday which placed him in the top third of the slim field of 63. Another such performance today seems sure to land the veteran in the match play bracket of Defending Champion Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., and the low shooter for 36 holes. Evans at 71 was Ward, Harry Todd of Dallas, who won the Western two years ago, and John Sumner, Oklahoma champion from Oklahoma City.

The Tulsa Oilers slid a little farther down the Texas league ladder last night while the Shreveport Sports, who recently took second place from the Oilers, broke even with the Exporters at Beaumont. Beaumont won the first, 10-7, then lost 6-3. The Oilers dropped a 7-6 decision to the Dallas Rebels in a contest at Tulsa for their fifth straight loss. Rain forced postponement of the Fort Worth at Oklahoma City and San Antonio at Houston games.

Staggs Drops Freakish tilt To Ward, 8-5

Automen Pile Up 8-Hit, Victors Held To Weak 2-Hit Display

A freakish victory was scored by the Montgomery Ward softballers last night as they took an 8 to 5 count over the Staggs Automen in a Major city league game.

Freakish in that Staggs Daylong and Carroll limited the Wardmen to a weak two-hit showing yet had to give up the night's honors by a three-run margin, despite the eight-hit showing made by the Automen.

Ward's first score came across the plate when Burns, given a stroll by Daylong, was driven over by Red Womack's two-base hit. In the third stanza the Wardmen marked up three runs without getting a base hit, the scores coming in as the result of a series of errors and walks.

Then, in the fifth Ward piled up four runs — with one hit made during the entire inning. Again, three walks and an error accounted for the runs. Carroll took over in the fifth and held the Wardmen well in hand during the remainder of the evening.

Carroll and Daylong led the field in the hitting department, both acquiring a brace of hits during the show.

Big Spring marked up its first scores, a pair, when Schulze hammered out a single to drive in Peto Zmitrovich and Jack Lindsey. Zmitrovich had hopped the apple to land on first and Lindsey was given a stroll by Sullivan. Then, in the seventh, Eddie Stevens got a long looping hit into right field to tie A. Zigelman over the plate. Zigelman had pounded Sullivan for a single to get in scoring position, and had been advanced around the course by Schulze's sacrifice.

But, it was in the ninth that Lamesa made his threat against the Big Springers lead.

Sam Scalling got a single to lead off the number one leg—Kirby Jordan, Lamesa's ace slugger, came up to bat to test out Schulze. With little ado or flourish, Jordan laid the wood to the ball, blasting it across the right field fence, then followed Scalling over the payoff plate for a brace of runs.

Schulze proceeded to settle into his usual cool game and struck out McCoy, Bennett's swing at the ball finally nestled in Larry Drake's glove. Then Schulze retraced the side and ended the ball game when he retrieved Tinsley's pop.

Schulze batted 1.000 during the evening's engagement. In two times at bat he connected for singles, and advanced Zigelman with a neat sacrifice to wind up his work.

Russians Believe War Will Be Long

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Soviet Russia indicated that it expected a long war today by proceeding with preliminary negotiations for the purchase of vital supplies in the United States.

Informal officials here said that Russian representatives to this country undoubtedly are aware that, with few exceptions, delivery on any purchases they make is bound to be long deferred. Because of this fact, they believed that the Russians were thinking in terms of a long-range program.

Lookin 'em Over

WITH JACK DOUGLAS

Starting time for the Major-Minor city softball league nightcaps has been moved back to 8:45 p. m., Malcolm Bridges, director of the circuit activities has announced. The closing games have been starting at 9 o'clock but Bridges said this hour caused a gap between the ending of the first game and the beginning of the second, thereby causing the show to wind up at an unseemly hour and adding to the city's lighting bill.

We've always suspected that Manager Jodie Tate had a soft place in his heart for the gentlemen in the blue serge suits. Now we know it. Uncle Jodie, too, has done his bit toward the business of calling 'em right or wrong.

Umpire Levine, the stocky little guy currently very much in evidence on the Roberts Field diamond tells of a game in which he and Jodie did the officiating.

This particular phase of Jodie's past occurred in the Cotton State league down in Louisiana. He and Levine aroused the ire of the ardent fans of Jenrette, said fans becoming so disturbed over the condition of the ump's eyesight that they decided to make a closer observation. In fact, the fans were so interested in our Jodie's and friend Levine's peepers that they had gone to some length telling them where they should go with their eyes.

Well, Jodie and Levine, realizing the heartfelt interest which the fans had taken in them yet being a couple of bashful fellows who did not care to unnecessarily take up the hometown people's time, modestly removed themselves from the field when the fans started to make a closer inspection of them.

When the storm and fury had abated somewhat, Levine discovered that he was perched on the fence while the fans milled around below. Was Levine deserted by Jodie? He was not—there, only two blocks away was Brother Tate—resting on top of a barn.

Mr. Levine and Mr. Tate found the higher altitudes so beautiful they did not return to the headquarters at Lafayette until the next day.

C. L. Rowe's golf game is on the upgrade—or something else is. Brother Rowe is now shooting 38 and 39 over the Country Club course, he affirms. Rowe takes time off from his job of filling part of the fuel needs of this neck of the woods long enough to get his usual 18 holes of divotting experience each day, yet is on hand for a bit of baseball from the spectators' angle every night the Bombers are home.

George Choate is just about the most faithful fan the Big Spring Bombers have. George can be seen sitting behind the screen about ten feet from first base every night the Big Springers show their wares to the homefolks.

He is living proof that if one really wants to see a game of ball they can turn out because George has to travel in a wheel chair, yet he gets there just the same.

If the Bombers want to recognize a list of their number one fans, we certainly suggest George Choate.

Jack Lindsey came near to delivering a baseball believe it or not Monday night. In reality all that was possible so far as actual credit was concerned was a double play.

One out had already been counted against the visiting Lamesa Lobos, but when J. L. Haney shot in a fly to Lindsey on second to complete a double play, Lindsey heaved the ball to Eddie Stevens on first base.

If the one out had not already been credited, the play would have been a triple—something for the book in its own right. But, the runner who cut back over second in an attempt to regain lost ground had failed to tag up. If Lindsey had merely patted the sack with his foot, and had conditions been right, he would have wound up a triple play all by his lonesome.

Lindbergh Pleads For 'Independent Destiny'

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2 (AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh, denouncing Russia and European entanglements, pleaded for "an independent destiny for America" amid prolonged applause at an overflow mass meeting sponsored by the America First committee here last night.

The audience roared its loudest approval when Lindbergh declared: "I would a hundred times rather see my country ally herself with England, or even with Germany with all her faults, than with the cruelty, the godlessness, and the barbarism that exist in soviet Russia. x x x"

TEXAS LEAGUE'S Centerfield Spot Is A Toss-Up

DALLAS, July 2 (AP)—The North's choice for the center field position in the Texas league's sixth annual all star game at Beaumont July 18 is a toss-up.

Of the four regulars covering the garden, two, Paul Eastering of Dallas, a three-time all-star, and Ford Garrison of Fort Worth have been used at no other position. Mirell Platt of Tulsa and Thurman Tucker of Oklahoma City have played fewer games but have been placed at center for two-thirds of the season to date.

Platt has had the best year on offensive so far but there is little to choose between the Oiler, Eastering and Garrison at bat. Tucker can be discounted because he has been hitting much too lightly for outfield class in 1941 but he is far and away the loop's leading base stealer and high in scoring figures. Tucker is the only south-side hitter in the quartet.

Yanks Batter All Comers To Extend Lead

DiMaggio Ties All-Time Major League Record

By The Associated Press

The Yankee streak that you probably haven't heard anything about is a five-game winning streak—and it may turn out to be more important than Joe DiMaggio's sensational string of hits or the club's chain of home runs.

The New York Bombers are ridding the strong and the weak alike these days. Their double victory, 7-2 and 9-2, over the rugged Boston Red Sox yesterday gave them a record of nine wins in their past 10 games and increased their American league lead in spite of the fact that the Cleveland Indians won last night at St. Louis.

Joe DiMaggio, whose hitting has captured the fancy of fans to such an extent that a record of 53,833 turned out at Yankee Stadium for what otherwise would have been a drab mid-week double-header, lived up to everyone's hope.

He made two hits in the opener and one in the five-inning nightcap to tie Willie Keeler's all-time major league record of hitting in 44 consecutive contests in 1897, when fouls didn't count as strikes.

The Indians have been showing some of their expected doldrums and last night Manager Roger Peckinpaugh fined and suspended Roy Weatherly, one of the league's best centerfielders, for not hustling.

The Tribe tore into the St. Louis Browns for a 10-4 triumph, with Hal Trosky and Fitcher Al Milnar hitting home runs and Jeff Heath having a perfect turn at bat with four hits.

The Philadelphia Athletics whipped the Washington Senators, 10-1.

Detroit downed the Chicago White Sox, 5-1, with Paul (Dizzy) Trout pitching three-hit ball and not allowing a run after the first.

The St. Louis Cardinals gained exclusive possession of first place in the National league again by plastering an 11-7 defeat on the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Brooklyn Dodgers dropped a 6-4 decision to the Phillies when Stan Benjamin singled with the bases loaded in the ninth.

The downtrodden Boston Braves came through with a 6-4 victory over the New York Giants.

Let Us Hope That O'Daniel Makes Texas A Good Senator

On the basis of nearly complete, unofficial tabulations of Saturday's special election, it appears that Governor W. Lee O'Daniel is to become Senator O'Daniel from Texas.

Editorially, this paper had supported the man whom the government edged out in the closest race in Texas political history. This was done in the belief that Texas would be best served by the man we supported.

A few hundred more people said with their ballots that they favored Gov. O'Daniel than agreed with our point of view. The difference was negligible but it was a difference, and apparently it was sufficient for elevation of the governor.

Notwithstanding honest doubts, we hope, for the sake of Texas, that we were wrong, and that the governor will prove to be effective as a senator. We hope that he will industriously apply himself, if and when he goes to Washington, and that he will take hold of the many serious tasks with a due sense of responsibility as befits one aware of the full significance of our national crisis.

In Washington, he will find himself in a different political stratum. It will be like going from the bush leagues to the majors. Unless he is willing to take in the same spirit he gives, he will find it a bewildering big jump. For the sake of harmony and effective news, we hope that the idea of "twisting tails" and "calling the roll" up there will prove to be just so much political propaganda, and that he will go to work modestly and in a spirit of cooperation with our other representatives from Texas.

Under our democratic system, the people of Texas have expressed a choice. We have an inclination or desire to circumvent that choice and hope that it is for the best.

army muller over this ad—ordered a dozen changes until it hardly said anything—and finally agreed to okay it subject to last minute revisions. The harassed manufacturer tried to explain that national advertising campaigns were planned weeks or months in advance—that magazines had to lock their ad forms a long time ahead—that national advertising to newspapers can not be sold and planned on 24-hour notice. OPM, which had the last word, was adamant.

"But I tell you it can't be handled that way," said the manufacturer. "If you won't agree to my proposition, suggest another."

What he got was a suggestion that he just drop the whole thing altogether and carry on with his usual advertising.

If you hear about a New Jersey producer jumping into one of his own acid vats, he said to me, don't be surprised.

A Reversal of Form

Washington Daybook—Defense Work Upset Output? Advertise the Fact

By JACK STENNETT

WASHINGTON—There is an odd kind of censorship going on which, probably because of the flow of big news, rarely is mentioned.

Manufacturers who hold defense contracts, it seems, have to submit to the Office of Production Management, army or navy, all advertising which mentions in any way that they may not be able to deliver this or that because their national defense commitments or priorities have taken this or that off the market.

For obvious reasons, I can't name names—but this came directly from a manufacturer. About two months ago, he wanted to explain in a national advertising campaign that for a few months it might be hard to get his particular patented article but that if customers would just bear with him for a short time he would be back in the production groove.

For two months OPM and the Acids bring up another choice priorities yarn that is floating around the capital.

In the early days of national defense (before OPM) a big chemical company that turns out a product which is 98 per cent a chemical that is important to one vital defense product sent a representative to Washington to offer to curtail the manufacture of this nationally-advertised item until it would be necessary for defense.

The representative was given a run-around and sent home with the assurance that the government could do without him and his company very nicely, thank you.

That was about a year ago. Today, the same company, with a government contract and under government orders, is buying back its product from wholesalers and retailers—in many cases at a premium—and going through the expensive process of taking out of it the 5 per cent extraneous chemicals, trying to avoid a national shortage of that vital 98 per cent.

Causing The Thunder

Couple a big number of such stories with the testimony before congressional committees that government cantonnements have cost us hundreds of thousands of dollars more than original estimates—that a year ago there was ridiculous waste and shipments, even to unfriendly nations, of vital materials (steel and scrap iron are examples)—and you will see why a lot of thunder is rumbling over the heads of national defense agencies today.

Something To Remember

One encouraging thing came to me the other day from one of the outstanding production chiefs of the World War. He said: "I know that you are going to find grave errors in judgment and many examples of serious waste—but if you will just go back and search out the idiocies and criminal greed and extravagances of 1917 and '18, I think you will see that we have progressed and that public demands and public scorn will drive the red tapeworms, the grafters and the fifth columnists out of the pasture in time to save the crop."

Day of Death Foretold

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — One month before she died, Mrs. Elsie R. Beck, formerly of Philadelphia, was able to predict the exact date of her death. When the 83-year-old woman died June 8, an obituary notice written 30 days previously was found stating that day for her passing and directions for her burial.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds—Cecil DeMille Changes His Costume But Not His Act

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — DeMille has changed his costume, he has changed his title and picture, but he has not changed his "act."

The customary DeMille boots and riding pants were abandoned when he began this one—he now works in mufti, with an eyeshade to complete the effect.

The picture this time is "Reap the Wild Wind," another swash-buckler with a Florida Keys setting in antebellum days. Paulette Goddard is the heroine, in curls and crinoline, and Ray Milland, John Wayne, Robert Preston, Raymond Massey are among the hovering males.

The act! Still the same DeMille routine, ever interesting to watch, as today on a scene in Milland's boat, about to be invaded by ruffians with Shanghaiing intent.

The boat is in the studio tank, with real waves ripping gently shoreward to merge with painted ripples on the huge beach cyclorama—real as life until a propan stands up midway, watching, and rests his elbow on a wave.

his voice penetrates to every corner of the stage. Thus all, including visitors, may have a fingercup seat on the Master's Mood.

The Mood, at the moment, is not pleasant. It is impatient, and the voice is barbed with irritation. From Olympus are hurled verbal thunderbolts at the humans below. The monologue, during rehearsal, goes something like this: "You, Romanoff, are sprawled there—NO! NOT THERE—there! No, HIGHER! Fall, now—NO, NO, NO! There, that's it. . . . And you, Mr. (Victor) Killian, over here—hold that thing (a forked spear) as if it were heavy—it isn't a toothpick, you know. . . . Now, action . . ."

Business of the scene, bodies sprawling, Paulette wielding her weapons, DeMille again, irritation rising: "No, No, NO!"

To Paulette, his star, with sarcasm: "DARLING, you must have been born on an express train! Take your time! REGISTER! Let the audience see everything you do. I don't know how to get this through that skull of yours—unless I knock it in." That's a last resort—but it IS a resort!

De Mille goes on. "Hurry—hurry hurry. Time is precious. Not that, No, over here! Get up, Romanoff! Mr. Killian! Yes, yes, yes. No, NO, NO-O-O!" The gods are angry. Olympus rages. DeMille is making a movie.

THE SACRED DAGGER

By Rita Mohler Hanson

Chapter 20
Missing Dagger

"That sounds rather grand," murmured Anne. "I'm young, but am I bold?"

The others laughed. "I think," said Beth, "that the Nagaras mean you and your husband."

Everyone suddenly looked self-conscious. Anne and Philip had not spoken a word of their personal affairs to each other. She decided at once to take them all into her confidence.

"Then I'm in a difficult situation," she said.

"We'll marry at once, if you wish," offered Philip hastily.

She gave him her friendly smile. "I don't suppose I'm legally free."

She told the story of the marriage plot in Arishar and the Emir's subsequent scheme. "But I didn't die in the desert as he had hoped, and I still possess the dagger."

Diana was laughing softly to herself. "Imagine Blaze Sherwood coming to the rescue of a damsel in distress! Did you think of the idea or did he?"

"I did," said Anne steadily.

"Where's he gone — to Russia for a quick annulment?"

"For all I know."

Philip looked at her sharply. "How did he happen to be on the plane with you?"

"His plane had crashed on the desert. He's an old friend of the pilot and wanted a lift to Chuka."

"Sounds like a conspiracy to me," observed the doctor.

"Absolutely," agreed Philip in irritation, turning to Anne. "You gave him a place in the prophecy."

"He'd have no rights," Anne protested. "He'd merely be helping father win. What he wishes is to prevent this expedition's securing Shya-Nago. He told me so."

Philip began pacing the floor. "I agree with Sherwood this far, that we never should have mixed up with the Nagaras. I sometimes doubt if Shya-Nago exists, except as a myth. And if it does, it's outside our original purpose. It's not the thing we were sent to do. We are making finds here that are good, and that's enough. I begged Doctor Willard to leave this thing alone, but he wouldn't listen to me. Now we see Sherwood at the bottom of your parents' being held prisoners. We don't know all the details of the prophecy," he paused. "It is not the policy of the Nagaras to free their prisoners unless they happen to fulfill this fool prophecy."

Anne stared at him in terror.

"You mean father's and mother's lives are really in danger then? When do we meet these natives?"

"We don't know yet," answered Larry Huff. "We're supposed to wait for a delegation to come and conduct us into the mountains. But I don't believe you need to worry about Dr. and Mrs. Willard, with a black look at Philip. "It's my opinion they'll make the grade. The Chinese authorities in Chuka warned us that we'd never live to establish the camp. When we did survive the Commissioner gave us a few soldiers to act as guards."

Doddap Speaks

As he talked, trying to bring things back to a lighter vein, Anne observed that the lama had edged inside and squatted down by the door counting his beads.

"Blaze Sherwood's spy," she thought. And then her feeling for the little man softened. "That was not true, for in his fashion Doddap served the spirit and not the person. He looked up and their eyes met. They smiled at each other. It was a rather surprising experience."

"Doddap," she demanded, "are my parents well and safe?"

"They are well and safe."

She smiled at the others. "Silly of me," she said, "but I do feel comforted."

Diana was the one who asked about the dagger. "Where is it?"

"In my suitcase," answered Anne reluctantly. "The priest warned me that no one else should touch it."

"That's just silly superstition," asserted Larry. "Won't you let us see the weapon?"

Anne heard herself repeating Blaze Sherwood's words. "Since we're mixed up with these people perhaps we should respect their taboos."

"Yes, indeed, in their presence," agreed Philip. "But not when we're apart from them. I'm extremely anxious to see that knife."

"I think Miss Willard is right," interrupted the doctor.

Larry looked at him in surprise. "Do you believe that stuff—that there are psychic forces in objects?"

"For certain people, yes. I say, do as these natives ask us to do. Respect their taboo."

"In their presence we shall," repeated Philip impatiently. "But now—"

"Let me open your suitcase and look for it," said Beth.

Anne consented reluctantly, and Beth opened the bag and made the search. The weapon was not there.

"It has been stolen," declared Larry instantly.

"The natives are afraid of it," Anne reminded him. "Even Pete wouldn't touch it. He asked me to put it into the bag myself."

"Did you do so?"

"I can't remember," she answered slowly. "I know I took it in my hand and placed it in the leather sheath attached to the belt. It had been lying exposed on a bale of silk. Pete shut the bags. He said he would bring me the rest of the things from the tent in a larger plane. I rather expected him yesterday."

Man About Manhattan—Tucker Tells What High Life Is Really Like

Editor's Note: This is the third in a series on New York night clubs.

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Night club! The words conote gaiety, wine, entertainment! Come on, let's go!

Let's go to the Rainbow Room, one of the Big Seven in New York. It's high. It's 65 stories above the sidewalks of New York. Sixty-five stories make 600 feet. But these elevators go fast. They get you there in 36 seconds. They're the fastest elevators in the world. They go 1,400 feet a minute.

Feel that pressure against your ears? Just like a plane. You have to swallow to get rid of it. The elevator operators, like the airline hostesses, ought to provide you with cotton, or chewing gum.

"Rainbow Room to the right," cries the elevator operator, sliding back the door.

Garden In Sky

You turn right, and you walk into a vast open lounge that has small botanical gardens behind plate glass walls. In these gardens are walks of real flagstones, and ivy, and dwarfed shrubs, and fountains.

You can stand in this lounge and see the whole, painted fantasy of the city at night. . . . Millions of soft, twinkling lights, and Central Park, and the river smoke and the haze. . . . You can read neon signs and you can look down and see uninterrupted streams of little toy automobiles, far below.

Then you turn right again, and you come to the Rainbow Room itself. I suppose its name comes from its colors, for its decor is soft rose and gold. The rose is faint almost a blush, and there are vases on the tables that remind you of the crystals used by mystics.

High Jinks

There is a chandelier as large as a Christmas tree suspended above the oval floor. This floor can revolve, when they want it to. Sometimes they place a piano on the rim of the oval, and a girl sings and plays while the floor revolves. . . . In this way, she passes right by you, and sings just to you. It's almost like getting a personal letter.

When the show goes on you see just about everything there is to see in the finest of sophisticated supper club talent. . . . You see the finest of ballroom dancers, the name teams, the Raye and Naldi's. . . . You see Paul Draper, who is the greatest tap dancer in the world. . . . You see the clowning Hartmanns. . . . You see hillbillies, magicians, even table tennis experts putting on a match. . . . Not all at once, mind you. . . . But that is the level, and a high level it is.

And there are the always entertaining orchestras. . . . Now you swing it, now you rumba. . . . One moment it's Tin Pan Alley, the next it's gourds and chants and the inexplicable rhythms of the West Indies on a soft summer night.

That's the way it goes, along with the food and the wine and the service.

Yes sir, that's it. That's night club! New York! (Tomorrow: The rise of the Rhythma.)

Manhattan itself gives the Rainbow Room a setting of sparkling Jewish. Entertainment here is on a very high plane—a 65 story level.

 A soon as this celebration is over work begins on the "Goddess of West Texas" revue for the first of August. Many other features are on the summer festivity schedule for this resort city.
 America's largest food crop is corn.

 terday. Maybe in some way the belt and weapon got rolled up in the rug.
 Phillip glanced at the lama. "This lama may have taken it." They searched him promptly, bringing to light from the voluminous blouse effect of his gown a wide assortment ranging from the little skull drum to the chunk of cheese wrapped in an old goatskin. But the Nagara dagger was not there.
 "Doddap," said Anne. "You're a diviner. Tell us. Where is the knife?"
 He stiffened and a blank look spread over his face.
 Slowly his chin sank to his breast and his whole body began to shake.
 "He's going into a trance," whispered Beth excitedly.
 Doddap opened his eyes and looked at her, his quivering stilled. "I cannot see," he said, "you spoiled it. I cannot see."
 Anne remembered his sly little game with Mackey and the eagle's claw and surmised that he and his magic of fetish and trance sometimes had as much fun with the white man as the white man with his magic of electric torch and phonograph got out of the native. She felt now that Doddap knew something he would not reveal.
 "What does he do around here?" she asked.
 "The principal thing he does," growled Phillip, "is to come back when we chase him off. I've forbidden the servants to feed him or give him a place to sleep."
 "He's got that hunk of cheese to eat," interrupted Beth. "and he spends his nights before the door of this tent. I stumble over him every time I come into look at Anne."
 "Why didn't you tell me that before?" Phillip asked sharply.
 "I'm sure the little fellow is harmless."
 "I'm not sure." He turned. "Anne, could he have any connection with Gregory Sherwood?"
 "I understand Dr. Sherwood once lived in his monastery," she admitted.
 Phillip spoke. "We'll put him in the prison hut tonight." He called a soldier.
Hiding Place
 The lama caught Anne's eye and made a sly motion with his hand towards the native rack along the circular wall where her bag had rested. She understood as plainly as if he had spoken.
 "The little busybody," she thought. "Still, he has more foresight than I." She felt relieved that these white men had been denied the opportunity to break the Nagara taboo.
 The gathering broke up. It was bed time for people who rise to work in the early morning hours.
 After the camp became quiet, Anne rose. It a candle, examined the native rack and then, among the felts in the tent wall behind found the outline of the belt and sheathed knife. A good place to leave it, she decided. She had donned slippers and great coat when her door opened and Beth came in. Anne began to explain.
 "That harmless little priest—"
 "He's all right," laughed Beth in a low voice. "I just stepped over him as usual to get in here."
 "Why—I thought—"
 "So did Phillip, I guess. The guard house is locked securely but empty. I went and looked. Now you hustle back into bed. You want to gain all the strength you can for that trip into the mountains. Cheer up. I'm betting Mr. Mackey will appear tomorrow with the dagger if he's not in jail." She tucked Anne in.

"But the difficulties ahead of us," sighed Anne. "Whatever I do I must not fall father and mother, yet I have made a mess of things so far. They're getting old, though they don't seem to know it. This strenuous, dangerous life they lead—"
 "They're wonderful," cried Beth, sitting down on the side of the cot. "We've got youth, but they've got something better. I guess it is the spirit. It makes them ageless. Just as the Nagara prophecy demands, they two together are one scholar. I don't think you need to do any worrying about the outcome." Beth leaned forward. "I'm so excited about you and Blaze Sherwood," she confessed. "Did he—"
 "Now, Beth," warned Anne, and gave her a little shake.
 "Well, I think he's way ahead of—I mean it tickles me to death your beating Diana's time with him—even if nothing ever comes of it. The reason she's with this expedition is because Blaze Sherwood's in Asia."

Bishop Bans Love Lyrics
 BRADFORD, Eng. — The Bishop of Bradford, Dr. A. W. S. Blunt, has imposed a strict ban on the playing of profane music at church weddings. "It is indecent," he says in the Bishop's Messenger, "to secularize the atmosphere of a church wedding by the introduction of love lyrics of the stags and drawing-room."
