Freight Boat Collision in Fog Today Takes 24 Lives

AUTOMOBILE CARGO WAS ON SENATOR

Is Fifth Disaster On Great Lakes In The Last Ten Days

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Two freight boats, the Marquette and the Senator, collided 30 miles from here today, the latter sinking with the loss of 24 lives.

Three of the crew of the Senator were picked up by the Marquette which stood by. A dense fog covered the lake.

A large part of the Senator's cargo consisted of automobiles. Wireless reports from the Marquette said that despite the damage she was able to make Sheboygan.

FIFTH IN TEN DAYS

The disaster which happened today marks the fifth which has been brought to the attention of the country during the past ten days, fog, wind, and flood conditions having conspired to snuff out more than 100 lives.

Late reports did not give exact information as to the cause of the collision, but verified the loss in lives and hinted that property loss and damage was greater than first reports indicated.

Says Should Defeat Congressman Garner

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP)—John Henry Kirby, president of the Southern Tariff Association, testified before the Senate lobby committee today that he thought Representative Garner of Texas, House Democratic leader, should be defeated for congress because of his attitude toward fiscal legislation.

Kirby said he didn't believe J. A. Arnold, secretary of the association, or R. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman of Texas, sought to have C. C. Belcher, who was not identified further, run against Garner.

The chairman said Creager wrote Arnold that he believed Belcher could make things hot for Garner and was "sorry we could not get Belcher into this district."

THINK JEALOUSY WAS MOTIVE IN KILLING OF TWO

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Jealousy is believed by police to have been the motive in the fatal shooting last night of Miss Belle Crow, 18, and her escort, William Bird, 21, in front of the girl's rooming house as they alighted from Bird's car.

Five bullets were fired from a parked car as the couple walked arm in arm up the walk which leads to the door of the house.

Two men were arrested early today by officers. One was released and the other is being held in jail for further investigation. The couple had been keeping company for several weeks.

STATE'S OBJECTION SUSTAINED

Daughter Of Partner Says There Was No Struggle

WEATHERFORD, Oct. 31.—(P)—Efforts of the defense to show that R. H. Hamilton and his son-in-law, Tom Walton Junior, struggled in Hamilton's Amarillo office just before Walton was shot were frustrated in Hamilton's murder trial today.

R. B. Hood of the defense asked Ed Holloway, Amarillo police department fingerprint expert, "From the lines the bullets followed and from the spots they penetrated, would you say that the person who fired the revolver had been in a scuffle?"

District Attorney Thomerson objected and District Judge Carter sustained it.

Witnesses were sent to the witness chair today to attest to the good character and reputation of Judge R. H. Hamilton, from the time he was young until the present. No sooner was this phase of the testimony finished than the defense again raised the all important question of whether Tom Walton was shot in the back or in the front.

Roy Slay, embalmer, said it "looked like the bullets entered the front." He admitted that he had made no examination of the body.

Thomas H. Taylor, president of Howard Payne College, testified to Hamilton's character. The defense, through Holloway, Amarillo detective and fingerprint expert, apparently attempted to show that there was a struggle in the office where Walton was shot.

Said Pair Scuffled

The only eye witness to the fatal shooting of Tom Walton said that Walton was slain after a scuffle with his father-in-law, R. H. Hamilton.

When she first took the stand, Florence Hendricks, daughter of Harry Hendricks, Hamilton's law partner, declared that she was in the office where Walton was slain when he entered.

On cross-examination, she declared that she did not see Walton make any move of any sort before he grappled with Hamilton and the first shot was fired.

BABY GIRL IN COWDEN HOME

RENT LAND NEEDED TO LOCATE FARMERS SEEKING TO MOVE HERE

Farmers of West, East and Central Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana are sending out an S. O. S. call for farm land to buy or rent at Midland.

Letters are pouring into the office of the Midland Chamber of Commerce from farmers who want to rent or buy farm lands in Midland. Thursday morning's mail brought four inquiries and several arrive each day.

But where will they go? There is a dearth of available farm lands in Midland County, as investigation discloses. It is a startling fact that comparatively little raw farm land is on the market, even for purchasers with money. True enough, a buyer with plenty of money can find plenty of land by searching for it, but few land owners are those who want land complain.

C. of C. Active

A combination of circumstances is believed responsible for renewed interest in Midland farm lands. The immediate response is directly traceable to activities of the Midland Chamber of Commerce. Three of the four inquiries received Thursday, for example, referred to publicity sent out by the Chamber of Commerce.

However, this publicity is merely to focus attention on Midland. The interest in West Texas farm lands is due to the spreading knowledge that cotton can be raised in West Texas much more economically than in the boll weevil areas. Lands in the older settled farming areas have become so high priced and so non-productive that owners of the land can not even pay interest on their investments, they say.

In addition to West Texas lands being more productive and lower priced for cotton farming, West Texas offers an extraordinary market for garden, dairy and poultry products. The good market is attracting much attention.

Second Farm Trip

The Midland Chamber of Commerce has already sent Ira F. Lord out for 10 days advertising Midland farm lands, and now has Lord out on another ten days' journey telling people about Midland farm lands. This fall the Midland chamber and the Texas Electric Service Co. and the T. & P. railroad spent considerable money on farm fair prizes, calculated to improve conditions for farmers already in the county. Every week a large amount of publicity and frequently magazine publicity is sent out by the Chamber of Commerce advertising the Midland farm lands. In fact, Midland, Lubbock, Dalhart, and Amarillo are the leaders in West Texas in advertising farm lands.

But these efforts at exploiting Midland farm lands are nullified to some extent by failure of land owners to offer their raw land, and by their failure to make lands easily available. Many of the farms bought in Midland County have been bought by men who came here as renters. A half dozen men have been in the office of the Chamber of Commerce this week hunting places to rent. Several of these said they had money to buy farms, but they wanted to rent the first year to see how they liked the country.

Need Rent Land

More rent land is needed. If Midland people want Midland developed as a farming country, they must have more land grubbed and make it available for rent, leaders in the movement to develop Midland as a farming country, declared Thursday. There is little value to bringing in farmers, if there is no land to offer them.

Bale To Acre On One Midland Farm

One of the sub-irrigated valleys in Midland County will make a bale of cotton per acre this year, according to J. M. Towery. The land is three miles north of Midland. Towery, who farms the land says the five or six acres in a draw on the place will average a bale per acre.

C. of C. Directors Will Meet Nov. 9

PRICES RALLY

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(P)—Stock prices rallied spectacularly at the opening of today's market which was delayed for two hours to give harassed brokerage employees an opportunity to rest. Many issues showed gains.

the re-discount rate, crops are far more valuable than was expected, late rains have assured plenty of winter weeds, credit is far better in Midland than in many surrounding towns and cities, and deposits show that there is a general, rather than temporary increase.

"Naturally, being a part of the national money tree, Midland banks must feel a sympathetic quiver when great fluctuation is happening on Wall Street; our response to this fluctuation is comparable to the leaf of the tree in regard to the trunk, however," one banker said. "Our feeling of the movements during the recent frenzied selling on the New York stock market, with accompanying selling on the Chicago stock market and the New York curb, has been negligible."

A TALE FOR HISTORIANS

One hundred years from now historians will be eagerly digging back into the past, trying to find out just what sort of civilization existed in the United States in the year 1929.

When they do, it is to be hoped that there will be some newspapers of 1929 preserved for their inspection. An ordinary front page can sometimes tell more about the state of society than a whole volume of careful sociological treatises.

Take, for instance, the story concerning one of Chicago's recent murders.

Two young street corner loafers got two girls—soda fountain clerks, they happened to be—and went out for a joy-ride. They stopped at the girls' apartment and drank considerable gin; then they sallied forth.

Another automobile happened to pass them—an ordinary, peaceable citizen driving home from work. This driver cut in a little too close ahead of the joy-riders, and the young toughies got sore. They trailed the other car. Finally, when it stopped, they stopped too; and one of the young men got out, went over to the other car, and coolly shot the offending driver to death.

Then the joy-riders went on with their spree quite as if nothing had happened. They went to a friend's apartment, had a chicken dinner and indulged in more drinking, gay and unworried. At last it grew late. The girls went home, and the two young men went back to the streets to commit a few robberies.

The police got the story from one of the girls. She told it, the newspapers said, "between giggles." She happened, incidentally, to be the mother of three children. Where her husband was, and why, was not stated.

There you have the story. Historians of the future can make of it what they please.

Be assured that it will speak volumes to them. It will give them a very clear and graphic picture of certain phases of our city life in the year of prosperity and grace 1929. And that picture will not be a flattering one.

We are fond of saying that our up-to-the-minute society is going somewhere very fast. Undoubtedly it is. But a story like this one out of Chicago makes one stop and wonder if the ultimate destination is going to be as beautiful and lovely as we like to think.

SHOOTING AT A TOOTHACHE

A workman in the town of Santander Spain, awoke the other night with a toothache. He paced the floor for a while, cursed in elegant Spanish, and did the other things that toothache victims do; but all were futile. So, at last, he got out his revolver, stuck it into his mouth and shot the offending tooth to kingdom come—incidentally inflicting a grievous wound in his cheek.

The reporter who wrote the cable dispatch describing this incident remarked that this Spaniard had more courage than most sufferers with toothache. And that is a statement with which we would like to take issue.

It a toothache is bad enough the sufferer will do anything. How many of us have not, at times, reached the stage where we would gladly use a revolver on the offending member? Many or most of us, beyond a doubt.

There are two maladies that lift a man beyond himself: toothache and seasickness. The Spaniard's action is perfectly understandable.

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

Two Midland negroes were discussing birds, mules, fish and other animals, and one of them told a story about a bird mule. A negro was going hunting and asked a farmer if he had a bird dog. The farmer told him he didn't but that he had a bird mule.

After considerable bartering, the negro bought the mule and started hunting. When he found some birds and started to shoot, the mule "humped up," as the negro said, diverting the aim of the huntsman.

Going back to the farmer, the negro complained and was informed that that was how the mule "sets birds."

The negro rode on and came to a small shallow lake. The mule again "humped up" and wouldn't walk into the water. Riding back to the farmer, the negro again complained. "I forgot to tell you," the farmer said, "but that mule sets fish just like he does birds."

The same negroes were discussing social affairs. "I can't seem to get no gal at all," one said. "They take my line, eat my bait and then get clean away."

Wednesday evening was good weather for ducks but bad for hunters. When a party went to get some ducks that were reported to have come down from Omaha, A. P. Baker's car chose to straddle a high middle and all four wheels spun in the air. Most of the time from then on was in an effort to get the car back on the ground.

Barney Grafa went along after being assured that he would not be liable for going through the wrong pasture.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Nearly everyone who writes about lobbies in Washington gives voice to the assumptions that we all believe the institution of the lobby is something new and then attempts to astonish us by proving otherwise.

Your correspondent is not going to suggest that the customers of this newspaper are as ignorant as that, but after diligent research he hopes to be able to set down more concerning the antiquity and history of lobbies than has ever been gathered together before. The unanimity with which writers have neglected this subject is nothing short of astonishing and no more than a general outline can be given because lobbies out after the people's money have nearly always been accepted with the greatest equanimity.

From the Beginning There never has been a time since the establishment of this government when the lobbyists were not on the job in the national capitol.

They have taken goodness knows how many billions of dollars from the American people through their grabs of land, natural resources and profitable favors. Any complete history of lobbies, including those which have worked on state legislatures, would take ten times the space of the large encyclopedia.

It is often pointed out that the modern day lobby is far smoother and more respectable than the lobby of the last century. That's a fact and it's just as well. If the old lobby's tactics hadn't finally been modified the White House would now be occupied by a member of the power trust, the Capitol and the Lincoln Memorial would have been moved to some billionaire's back yard and the customs houses would all be in the hands of some enterprising corporation.

The time came when there wasn't much left to steal and competition became so keen that lobbyists began to checkmate each other. But until Congress and the legislatures had given away most of the country and its natural resources there were lobbyists on hand of the very type to grease the legislators and speed the process. Today there isn't much left except power sites and those are being handed out as rapidly as possible.

"The Fathers" believed in direct action. At the outset they did their own lobbying when it was necessary instead of hiring someone. Alexander Hamilton led the first congressional lobby in the fight for the funding of the national debt and the assumption by the federal government of the state debts. The people with money had bought up this paper from the people who needed money for as low as 10 cents on the dollar. Members of Congress were among the speculators and the others came rushing to the scene to exert pressure.

"I do not know that pecuniary influence has actually been used," wrote Senator William Maclay of Pennsylvania in his journal, "but I am certain that every kind of management has been practiced and every tool at work that could be thought of."

Put Through a Deal The "assumption" measure was first defeated. But meanwhile another lobby had been urging the building of a national capital along the Potomac river and after the Hamiltonian lobby had conceded the latter project Jefferson and other southerners were finally persuaded to agree to "assumption." The speculators, many of whom had bought up the paper from uninformed soldiers and planters on the basis of inside information, cleaned up.

After that the speculators and the lobbyists turned their attention to the land and began the long but thorough campaign to loot the public domain.

Justice Is Not Blind! AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED. Justice is no longer dispensed by ignorant and individual domination. Another ancient prejudice stands convicted by AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE which insists that a jury "twelve good men, tried and true" decide the facts. "toasting did it" — Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos. YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted." "TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way. Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women. "It's toasted" No Throat Irritation—No Cough. # 400 ROOTERS GO TO ODESSA GAME FRIDAY; JOUST A TOSS-UP

NEITHER TEAM IS INSPIRED IN ITS PLAY

Odezza is giving Midland six points in the Friday game there between the two high school elevens. Sudden shift in the betting was due to the injury of Quarterback Whittenburg, three year man who struck despair in to the hearts of a fighting Midland eleven last year, and swept the club on through the season to championship.

The dope on the game is not particularly revealing. Midland may win; Odezza may. There are many who would be surprised in either

Southwest Conference Sees Opening of Finishing Rush

TEXAS UNIVERSITY AND SMU TO MEET AT DALLAS FOR SIGNIFICANT GAME OF YEAR

After five weeks of comparative quiet along the conference front, the firing will become intense this Saturday along the Dallas sector when Texas and S. M. U. clash in their annual tilt on Ownby Oval turf. Texas is leading the conference race, having played and won a pair of conference games, while the Ponies jumped close to the forefront of contenders for the title with her overwhelming 52-0 win over Oile Miss last Saturday. While Texas and S. M. U. are tearing at each other's throats, the rest of the conference teams will be having more or less a holiday. Arkansas is the only other conference team up against a tough foe, as it meets L. S. U. in a go allowed to count as a conference game in Shreveport.

The Steer-Pony tilt will get all the attention from scribes, fans and coaches, as both teams will reach down into the bag of tricks and pull out everything they have in an effort to win. It was back in 1918 that the Steers last whipped the Ponies, winning 32-0 that year. For the next five years, they didn't meet on the grid, and since resuming relations in 1924, the Steers have not won a single game. Several times Texas has apparently had the stronger team, but the Mustangs would rise to their heights and best the Orange and White in tight finishes.

Texas Strong
This year finds Texas with one of the strongest elevens in the history of the school, and Littlefield has brought his squad along so that they'll be ready for the Ponies in this year's clash a they've never been ready before. Every member of the squad is in perfect physical shape and will be keyed to the proper mental condition before game time.

Texas Tech will give the Baylor Bears a chance to recover a small bit of their prestige lost when the Centenary Genis ran roughshod over the Bruins over at Shreveport last weekend, whipping the highly touted Bruins 27-12. The Bears and Matedors appear as one of the big attractions of the Cotton Palace exhibit at Waco, and marks the first invasion of Waco by a Lubbock eleven. The Bears should win this game handsly without ever putting out very much, though the Matedors are a tough lot. The Bruins are laying for their conference go with Texas the following Saturday.

Other Games
Rice plays host to St. Eds, and the game promises to be a corker. Mesgher, head coach at Rice, was once big boss of the Saints, and Al Sarifin's gang will be out to treat their old mentor as rough as possible, which usually means beat him. The Owls have a fighting eleven, and the meeting of the two clubs will be well worth watching. Both are adept in the use of the Notre Dame shift, and Houston fans are likely to get a bit sea sick in their efforts to keep up with the varied attack of the two teams.

The Aggies will have a chance to wreak vengeance on the Sam Houston Teachers at College Station this week-end for past injuries. The Farmers started off like champions but met reverses at the hands of T. C. U. and Arkansas on successive Saturdays, both conference games. We expect that the Teachers will be wishing that the Aggies would pick on someone else before Saturday's clash is over.

T. C. U., the third outstanding eleven in the loop, has another easy foe in the Denton Teachers and should breeze in easy for their sixth win of the season. Cy Leland, a lightning back, should add quite a few points to his season's total.

Dallas Cotton Market

Trading in the first half of the session in cotton was comparatively quiet and featureless. The market reflected a generally steady undertone. Following a small initial decline, prices sold slightly over the previous close, with trade interests offering good support, while hedging was negligible. Cables were lower than due and opening prices were from 2 to 8 points lower. December in New York selling at 18.05, January 18.22, and March 18.50, or from 2 to 8 points lower. However, there was a good demand for contracts from trade sources, and scattered covering, with some outside buying developing on unfavorable weather conditions over the cotton belt, but there is a growing disposition to await the approaching census bureau ginning and crop figures. Noon calls were steady, 1 to 5 points net higher.

RANGER PORT CELEBRATION

RANGER, Tex.—(UP)—An elaborate celebration commemorating the first anniversary of the Ranger Airport, will be held here November 10-11.

An air meet, with approximately fifty planes entered will feature the program for Armistice Day, Nov. 11. A variety of prizes are offered for the competing airmen. The Cisco Lobos and the Ranger Bulldogs will meet in a football game in the afternoon.

These Frogs To Be Seen

Out of the brilliant array of sophomore talent prominent on Southwest Conference gridiron this year, the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs point with pride to these three men, who will perform against the North Texas Teachers in Fort Worth Saturday.

BABY TACKLES GHOST!
Childish imagination gave way for a moment to Sherlock Holmes investigation Wednesday evening when Ann Waller, four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. "Dusty" Waller, gave a Halloween party for several of her little friends, in the apartment of Misses Elizabeth and Wilda Peters.

Billie Mack Meeks, seeing his little companions' fright at a leering burning face in the garden, went out, tackled the moving sheet-clad figure, and came proudly back into the room with a jack-o-lantern in his small hands.

The party was given for Billie Mack and Francis Mae Meeks, Lillian and Julian Unger, Deane Oldridge, Francis Kerrigan, Jay Harriman and Little Frederick Hagan.

PERILS BACK "STARK MAD" IN VITAPHONE

"Stark Mad," Warner Bros. latest special production opening at the Ritz today, details the adventures of an expedition which sets out for the Central American jungles to find a lost hunter.

A mad hermit, a gorilla, haunted ruins of an ancient temple, mysteriously closing doors, disappearing floors and other of the paraphernalia of fear—make "Stark Mad" one of the creepiest and at the same time one of the most amusing of all pictures of its character.

H. B. Warner, Louise Fazenda, Jacqueline Logan, Henry B. Walthall, Lionel Belmore, Claude Gillingwater, Andre Beranger, John Miljan, Warner Richmond and Floyd Shackleford are in the cast. Jerome Kingstom did the story. Harvey Gates the adaptation and Lloyd Bacon directed.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By FRANK GETTY United Press Sports Editor

WHAT PRICE SPORTSMANSHIP?
To my mind, the most striking single sentence in the Carnegie Foundation's report on proselyting in colleges and universities was the following:

"At Canadian universities, sportsmanship prevented any such abuses of the code."

If that isn't a reflection upon sportsmanship in these, our own United States, then one never was penned. Here we are seeking remedies for evils such as the recruiting and subsidizing of star athletes at our universities. Right over the border, where they surely cannot be such a very different race of human beings, they have the answer right at hand, in a single word: "Sportsmanship."

Playing to Win
Once the game begins, each side should strive to win. Before it starts, however, the ethics seem to be somewhat different. You must not go out and "get your man" before the academic season opens.

"Why not?" ask some collegians, with sincere interrogation. The football game doesn't begin with the opening kick-off. It began long before that as a test of strength on the gridiron between two schools.

"It did not begin in the dressing room before the game, nor on the practice field. It began rather with the selection of material for the team. Alumni and undergraduate loyalty—sometimes faculty loyalty, as well as the idea of a winning football team; in such things as these, and pocketbooks, of course, as a necessary evil, the game began."

Certainly, if you want a winning football team, you must make sure first that all the good material hasn't drifted inexplicably to rival schools. It boils down to a question of: must you win? The answer from all sides is emphatic: Yes!

The Coach's Part
It seems to me that more mud is slung at the paid coach than he deserves.

After all, he is hired to coach football and to get the best results from the material at hand. Usually he manages to inspire the youngsters under him and instill a spirit of loyalty which is not without its merits. But he is a hired hand, expected to teach the boys football, and it is a question of self-preservation. If he doesn't win, out he goes.

The coach, therefore, need not be troubled so much by these same ethics which have kept Mr. Carnegie's investigators with their noses in other folks affairs for three and one-half years. The coach is rather in the position of the manager of a big league ball club, who is always on the alert for possible material in the minors and ready to compete for it with his rivals.

Errorgrams

(1) In the game of biting a swinging apple, the apple should not be grasped in the hand. (2) The pumpkin at the left has no nose. (3) In the little girl's conversation pumpkin is spelled incorrectly. (4) The boy at the right should not be peeking over the blindfold, when pinning the tail on the donkey. (5) The scrambled word is SUNDAY.
