Five Hundred Cars to Take Part in Armistice Day Parade

BALL GAME WITH PECOS DURING DAY

Armistice Services To Be Held Sunday Following

The greatest parade ever held in Midland will observe Armistice Day when 500 cars filled with high school students, the high school band, football men, business men and others wind over city streets.

School children will be massed in four sections, each group representing one of the four city schools. W. W. Lackey, superintendent of the city school system, said this morning that, in order to have that number of automobiles in the parade, the school's part would average only ten cars to the room in the system, a comparatively easy thing.

Football with Pecos The high school band, composed of from 20 to 25 boys and girls, will be on a special truck.

A football game in the afternoon will be played between Midland and Pecos, at Cowden park. For this occasion 300 Pecos students and rooters will be present in a section, Pecos reports say.

Regular Armistice services will not be held on Armistice day, but will be held over until the following Sunday, Sam K. Wasaff, commander of the Woods W. Lynch post of the American Legion, indicated this morning. Full particulars of this memorial service have not been worked out, but a committee will make later reports, Wasaff announced.

American Legion Drive Simultaneous with the Armistice celebration, the American Legion will begin its membership drive. A letter to Wasaff from O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander, explains to the local commander the necessity for dispatch in working up this campaign. The letter follows, in part:

"We have 5,543 disabled comrades who are being deprived of proper care because of a lack of facilities within the Veterans' Bureau organization. A hospital bill, looking to the proper care of these men, must be passed immediately. Congress meets on December 6th. It is the Legion's responsibility to pass the proper kind of a hospital bill. With a small membership, we will have little influence. With a large membership, our influence will be great.

"And here is the crux of the whole matter: We need and must have a large and active membership immediately. Armistice Week is American Legion Week—November 11th to 18th, inclusive. Let's begin now—not November 11th. Let's make 'proper hospitalization' for our disabled the battle cry from now until November 18th. Let us say it with members rather than with words. A large membership on November 18th will have a most wholesome effect on Congress in behalf of our hospital program.

Bodenhamer Writes "And here is another thing: A special citation for most distinguished service will be given to your post, provided you secure a 1930 membership equivalent to the number your post had at the time of your department convention this year. I want your Post to have one of these certificates. I want the honor of signing and delivering one to your Post. Such a citation, properly framed and placed on the wall of your club room, will be an honor to you as well as to your Post. Such would please your Department Commander also.

"Remember this—I am counting on you and your Post for a big membership by November 18th. I am looking forward to signing a citation in honor of your Post's service. Help me do this for the Legion and for your disabled comrades."

WALK; DRINK; WALK

BLANDFORD, Dorset, England.—(UP)—The most popular event of the outdoor season was a race in which competitors walked three times around the village, stopping at the end of each lap to drink a pint of beer at an inn.

Northcutte is said to have threatened recently county officers in addition to Brecheen.

STOCK MARKET IS FRENZIED TODAY AS NATION SELLS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(UP)—The nation started selling stock on the market again today and sent prices down. More billions were clipped from market values. It was unexpected. Steel broke, and prices went down along the list from five to ten points. The market was frenzied.

"Mould Your Own" Say Inventors Here

Three Canfield brothers, A. R., C. L., and P. A., read the farm diversification theory and made an observation which was due to become analogous from the mechanical standpoint.

The three men are showing in Midland today something which not only will save the farmer money, but will give him something to do in the winter which will be of vital benefit later on, in case he expects to build a new residence or out-houses.

They have a combination brick, block and tile machine which will make six bricks each thirty seconds or one block a minute. It is operated manually, by either one or two or three men. As many as 7,000 brick may be made in a day by two men, the inventors say. A matter of inventor psychology is found in the fact that while the machines are manufactured in quantity in the north, the inventors prefer to carry the brick-makers themselves rather than send them over the country by agents.

"We want to see how the invention is accepted by the people," A. R. Canfield said. "After we have completed our tour of all the states, eight of which we have been through already, we will erect our own factory. At present the brick-makers are being manufactured for us. The machine is simple and is surprisingly small for the work it will do. Weighing possibly 300 pounds it has apparent mechanical advantages for those who would 'mold their own.'"

EARLE B. MAYFIELD MAY BE THE "JIM FERGUSON" OF GUBERNATORIAL RACE

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 6.—(P)—Former United States Senator Earle B. Mayfield has not entered the governor's race formally, but his friends evidently have literally shoved him in, if one is to take the general distribution of cards advocating his nomination and election as indicative.

"We ask you to vote for Earle B. Mayfield for Governor, in the Democratic Primaries 1930," reads the card which has been pretty generally disseminated. Continuing, it reads: "He is the ablest and best informed on government affairs of any man in the race.

"He knows more about economics and transportation and their relation to the farmer, labor and public. He never advocated or voted for anything that was not for the public welfare.

"He is a gentleman, a worthy citizen and a statesman. "He is the only logical solution for taking the taxes off our homes, farms and small business.

"These cards were printed without Mr. Mayfield's knowledge." So many people have Senator Mayfield informed in "confidence" that he intends running for governor that his intentions are not a secret any longer. It is taken for

DEMOCRATS WIN VICTORIES OVER NATION TUESDAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(P)—Virginia returned to the Democratic fold in yesterday's gubernatorial election by a majority of more than twice the size of that which carried it into the Republican column in the presidential election a year ago.

New York City re-elected the Democratic mayor, James Walker.

Besides these victories, the Democrats repulsed the Republican drive to capture the Kentucky state legislature.

Chicago voters placed the Democratic of a coalition ticket in office.

Constable Released On Murder Charge

LAREDO, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Constable Duke Carver of San Antonio was released on $10,000 bond today, and returned to his home to prepare his defense against a charge of murdering General Lucio Blanco on the night of June 17, 1922.

"Booze Party" Data Before Grand Jury

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(UP)—More details of the now famous "Wall Street Booze party," perhaps containing the names of some Senators, are scheduled to be submitted to the federal grand jury today by Senator Brookhart. It is said that some who were at the party may be called. Brookhart was asked to tell the jury a part.

granted here that his formal announcement will be made in a course of a few weeks.

It is even widely talked that he is at work on his platform and that when he turns loose his announcement which will release the planks on which he will base his candidacy.

There are many in political circles, who recalling former Gov. Ferguson's advocacy of the re-election of Senator Mayfield in the run-off last year believe that Ferguson is planning to espouse Mayfield's candidacy.

They believe that Ferguson's statement of recent release in which he gave out a tentative platform for use in the event he should become a candidate (strongly hinting that he might make the race) was for the purpose of working up interest among his followers so he could more easily deliver them to someone of his choosing.

Ferguson has repeatedly said that the "next governor of Texas" has not yet been announced. That means he does not choose any of eight who are avowed candidates: Oscar F. Holcombe, Houston; E. G. Senter, Dallas; Thomas B. Love, Dallas; Miss Katie Daffan, Ennis; Barry Miller, Dallas; T. N. Mauritz, Ganado; W. Gregory Hatcher, Dallas; and Charlton Brown, Mineral Wells. (Continued on Page 6)

Pecos Bombards With Poem Lines

Pecos has the Midland high school students' of poetry "in the air" because of a bit of doggerel verse printed under the title of Odds and Ends in the Pecos Enterprise.

This, from standpoint of purity is called names at the high school, names which classify the work as that of a village blacksmith, even though the pretentious by-line of "Pall Mall" is affixed to the lines. Pecos evidently wants to win the Midland game, and there's no secrecy, according to Pall Mall, about that very thing happening.

The poem, the product of the Pecos school of poets (to put it in the local high school's jargon) follows the brief account of Pecos losing to Stanton last week:

Well, we got tromped last Friday by the Stanton Buffaloes, who wallowed their way through the Pecos line for three touchdowns, and two of the extra points. The Eagles threatened to score several times, and once by main force and awkwardness carted the pigskin across the line. Nevertheless, we left part of our scalp on Stanton's belt, by virtue of the 20-6 score, and the less said about it the better. The long ride, the rain, the strange field and all played havoc with the Eagles, and the one bright spot in the whole affair was the passing of Moorhead and the pass-grabbing of Mully Brocat.

One faint hope glimmers feebly on the dark horizon, however. If Odessa tromps the cocky Buffaloes, we have another whack at 'em. So, bust 'em, Odessa! More power to you!

"We have a game coming up with Wink, and if a few football players we don't ride rough-shod over eleven cotton-pickers — well, let's burn the town and bury the ashes.

Here's our battle song: The school our team is out to beat, Is Midland! The team who'll go down to defeat Is Midland!

The farm hands whom we'll give the gate Are our worst rivals in the State; To them we sing this Hymn of Hate: "Beat Midland!"

The only foe we recognize Is Midland!

Regardless of their weight or size, It's Midland! We'll fight in snow or rain or mud, We're out to swamp them like a flood, We're out to win—we're out for blood.

"Beat Midland!"

We'll take a hundred—maybe more To Midland! The team that won't make one lone score Is Midland!

We'll snap their line like a piece of string, We won't let them do one darn thing; This is the war-cry which we sing: "BEAT MIDLAND!"

Head Texas Doctors Died At Brownwood

BROWNWOOD, Nov. 6.—(P)—Dr. Joe D. Dildy, 60, president of the Texas State Medical Association, died at his home here last night, apparently of a heart attack.

HOLT RECEIVES 25 HEAD BULLS FROM CHEYENNE

O. B. Holt received shipment Monday of 25 head of young bulls from Cheyenne, Wyoming, having bought them when he was up there in September.

The bulls were bought from the well known herd of J. M. Carey and Brother, and are a uniform strong of bulls, well shaped up to fit in with the recognized quality of Holt's cow herd.

Before trucking the young bulls to the ranch, Holt fed them for a day or two at the home of Mrs. O. B. Holt Sr., on West Wall, and many local ranchmen looked the animals over.

The Holt cattle, on account of the use of quality registered bulls with practically a pure blood herd of cows, bring top calf prices from corn belt feeders each year.

Six Killed In German Crack-Up

GODSTONE, SURREY, England, Nov. 6.—(UP)—The tri-motored Luftansa passenger plane, with eight persons aboard, including Prince Eugene Von Schaumberglippe, crashed today.

Six bodies were recovered from the wreckage which caught fire when the plane crashed. One passenger and one crew member were injured.

The prince, co-pilot, was injured seriously. The plane was en route from Croyden to Amsterdam and Berlin when it hit bad weather. The visibility was poor, and the pilot had evidently attempted to return to Croyden and crashed into a clump of trees.

A young woman nearby saved the life of the German prince. His face was burned almost beyond recognition.

JUNGLE HEAT IN LIONS PROGRAM WARMS BEASTS

"Big Boy" Williams' interpretative mimicry of Sousa's band, a German band, of a banjo, and of a saxophone-trumpet-bass horn solo; Lee Satterwhite, former speaker of the house of representatives, who spoke briefly of interesting incidents which happened at Austin, and of football and community relations; Miss Leona McCormick's reading to Miss Lillie B. Williams, "Lions Club Sweetheart," piano accompaniment "That Old Gang of Mine," formed the program put carefully together today noon by John Hix and B. J. Jackson, at the Beast's regular luncheon.

Altogether, the program was possibly the most entertaining ever held by the Lions. The Lions club orchestra and the high school band were present and there was as much music as one could imagine. Both the orchestra and band show much improvement.

The Reverend J. E. Evans, pastor of the First Christian Church, pronounced the invocation. Lions had several guests, Messrs. Williams, Lion Thomas Inman, Peters, Lee Satterwhite, Barney Graf Jr., and Davis, and Miss Leona McCormick.

It was announced that the Mothers Culture club will work with the Lions on the matter of attempting to hire a school nurse for the city system, each body finding themselves doing the same work as the other. Definite reports are to be made on the drive next Wednesday by Lions Rowe, who took Lion Haver's place when that minister moved to Raymondville, Bobo and Whitehouse.

Lions Graf, White and Hyatt were named as committee to make recommendations relative to aiding the high school band uniform fund. Lions were asked to give every assistance to the band of Lion Chairman M. C. Ulmer, who highly praised the musical organization in a brief speech.

The matter of a Lions club float in the Armistice Day parade was given over to the directors of the club after lunch. A letter was read from the Raymondville chamber of commerce, which praised the Reverend Boone, new minister of the Methodist church, who exchanged pulpits with the Reverend Stanley Haver. The letter suggested that the minister would be a vital help to the American Legion, having a notable record as an overseas veteran.

Miss McCormick was called aback to the floor after giving her reading, and came back at the Lions with a delightful skit of a lispng girl.

Weather Reported Bad On Cotton

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(UP)—The government weekly weather report today said that killing frosts had fallen over eastern Texas and the weather was reported unfavorable for picking and ginning.

BIG LIONS IN TEXAS

LAREDO, Tex.—(P)—American hunters in quest of big game need no longer journey to faraway Africa to get their "quota" of lions, for the "king of the jungle" abounds on the Mexican border.

In addition to several mountain lions killed during the past few years on the Gates ranch of Webb county, now comes one killed on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande by two Mexican hunters.

Juan J. Urteaga and Adan Campos of Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, recently decided to take their annual hunt in the mountainous country between Nuevo Laredo and Monterrey. They had gone about 20 miles south of Nuevo Laredo when they left their car on the side of the highway and walked toward a dense chaparral. A short distance away a big Mexican mountain lion stalked out of the brush. Both fired bullets into the animal and killed him instantly. The lion was brought to Nuevo Laredo.

Pratti is chairman of the Christmas committee of the chamber of commerce, it was announced by that organization this morning, being elected for his success in directing that work last year, when the country from Fort Worth and Dallas to Los Angeles praised the decorations of the Midland streets. CHARGE IS DELIVERED BY JUDGE

Blood Stained Coat And Pistol Lay Before Jury

WEATHERFORD, Nov. 6.—(P)—The jury is listening today to eight hours of argument before deciding whether R. H. Hamilton was justified in shooting to death his son-in-law, Tom Walton, Jr., May 4, in Hamilton's law office at Amarillo.

On the table in front of the jury was the blood stained suit the husband of Hamilton's 17-year old daughter, Theresa, wore when he met his death. Nearby lay the revolver with which four shots were fired into Walton during what Hamilton, as witness, declared as "a mortal battle" over the possession of the weapon. Judge J. E. Carter read the charge to the jury when court opened today.

Scene Is Tense

WEATHERFORD, Nov. 6.—(UP)—A moment overshadowing any other dramatic intensity since Hamilton went to trial was reached today when Judge Carter read to the jury the charge and Special Prosecutor Hugh H. Cooper began his argument.

The judge in his charge defined murder, and described its punishment. The scene was tense. The judge made plain that "no actual danger" appeared but "only apparent danger" to the defendant.

The judge warned spectators against demonstration when the verdict was rendered. Hamilton watched unemotionally. Cooper insisted that Hamilton knew Theresa was married and said that was his motive.

HOOVER SENDS TO SENATOR JOHNSON HIS APOLOGIES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(P)—President Hoover sent a letter to Senator Johnson of California today saying "an accident" caused the Senator's name to be omitted from the list of guests to the White House dinner last night in honor of Ambassador Dawes. Hoover wrote that directions had been given Monday to send invitations to all members of the foreign relations committee, but "an inadvertence" occurred somewhere which accounted for the omission of one to Senator Johnson. Failure of Johnson to receive the invitation had been the talk of the Senate.

HARD-BOILED JURIES

The American jury seems to be getting hard-boiled at last. There was a time—not too long ago, either—when our jurors seemed to be kindly, sentimental men and women who could not bear to deprive a fellow man of his life or liberty.

This seemed to be especially true of certain classes of the population. A rich man was almost certain to have his sins looked on with forgiving eyes. A beautiful woman could count quite surely on being told to go and sin no more.

But this seems to have changed lately.

In the past month we have seen the following things: Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior and confidential pal of the Doheny millions, is convicted of accepting a bribe—and this by a jury in Washington, notorious for its tenderness of heart toward the peccadilloes of sinful men—and, also, in the face of impassioned remarks about the healing air of New Mexico, and magnificently arranged wheel chairs and tearful relatives.

Mrs. Alexander Pantages, wife of a multi-millionaire, is convicted of manslaughter, merely because she drove her auto over an unlucky Japanese. She faces a prison sentence of one to ten years.

Her husband, the extremely wealthy theatrical magnate, was convicted of assaulting a girl dancer, in spite of every effort his high-priced counsel could make. He faces a much longer term in prison.

A youthful Chicagoan known by the pleasing name of Baby-Face Willie Doody, who used a revolver rather recklessly on his freebooting forays, went before a Chicago jury, was convicted of first degree murder and now faces the electric chair—and this in Chicago, which only a few years ago found itself unable to convict two gangsters who murdered a policeman in broad day light before half a dozen witnesses.

Maybe these developments were accidents, so to speak—exceptional cases in the orderly functioning of the great American jury system.

But maybe they were straws showing which way a new wind is blowing. Maybe the general public, from which juries are drawn, has grown highly weary of our long list of acquittals. Maybe the indiscriminate flood of forgiveness which our juries used to show has palled on us.

MAKING THE NATION SMALLER

Seven transcontinental highways, as part of a road system penetrating every section of the country, would be provided for in a bill which, according to announcement, is to be introduced at the next session of Congress.

Whether or not this project ever becomes a reality, it is indicative of the steadily increasing importance of highways in our development as a nation. State and state and city and city are bound together by smooth, shining pavements. They are necessities of modern life, an integral part of business and social relations.

The time is near when practically every community, no matter how small or isolated, will have contact with the outside world through the medium of a paved road. To the farmer, as well as the city-dweller, highways are basic commodities which pay for themselves many times over. Good roads have made the United States smaller.

Looking His Gift Horse in the Mouth!

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The Caraway committee can continue its lobbying investigation until the Capitol dome crumbles and it will not discover anything more important and relevant than the fact that business gets what it wants in Washington. There is nothing new or strange about that.

Lobbying is only one phase of the game. It's a game between politicians and business interests of "You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours." There would be no lobbyists here if there were not politicians susceptible to pressure or persuasion or glad to obtain the lobbyist's aid. Aside from straight lobbying there are at least two other important phases to consider.

Under Political Debts

1. A large number of senators and representatives come here already bound to aid special interests which are going to want favors in Washington. Through their own business connections, through their indebtedness for campaign funds and other support or through the political organization which controls them with special interest, their position is such that they don't have to be threatened or persuaded.

2. Many or most government officials and members of Congress look forward to business careers after leaving the public service. A large number are promised lucrative jobs with corporations before they step out. Some of them openly court these jobs by granting favors to special interests while in the government service. The higher their position in the government the more important favors they can dispense and the bigger the jobs they can expect in private life.

All men in positions of public trust do not administer their jobs with a view of future remuneration, but there are innumerable examples.

The exposure of Senator Bingham of Connecticut, who had employed an official of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association as his secretary and took him into secret meetings of the Finance Committee to work on tariff rates for manufacturers, furnished a shining example of how business ties up with politics and legislation. Bingham asked the Manufacturers' Association for one of its men and he got him. He arranged to meet the president of the association at the office of J. Henry Roraback, Republican boss of Connecticut, one of the state's most prominent business men and a power magnate.

Down here Bingham represents the Connecticut manufacturers and power interests. But in that he is no horrible example. He has been belabored because he had the nerve less so are the corporations which employ them.

But there are enough temptations and enough men to succumb so that you can realize why, in Washington, prosperous business interests get most of the breaks.

One Massachusetts high school is said to have a football field but no class building. Well, they're starting the right way, anyhow.

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

Arkansas, the printer's devil, after long and strenuous labors on the newspaper side of the house, has been promoted to the job printing department. After serving there two weeks, it was decided that in emergencies he could wait on trade at the front, whereas he had always been under strict orders not to let a customer get a glimpse of him.

One of the emergencies occurred. While the others in that department were busy, a lady school teacher came in to buy some onion skin paper. Ark thought a moment and then suggested to the teacher that in view of the fact that some school boys chew paper wads, they might become offensive if they should get hold of onion skin. He recommended that she buy some other kind of paper.

A visitor to the office of Crump, Meek and Bedford asked to see Mr. Bedford. Malcolm Meek, who was in the reception room, said "Just walk through that door on your left. Don't even take time to knock." The visitor, a familiar figure in Midland, opened the door and walked into the cloak room.

The school boy who plays tackle against Bill McKinley should be declared ineligible just before the game through the efforts of the Society for Prevention of C. to A.

Anyone planning to buy a new car should do so before Monday, the 11th, as there will be a parade of 500 automobiles.

Regarding ELECTRICAL APPLIANCES
FOR many years this Company was concerned with only one problem—that of delivering dependable and economical electric energy to the home.
Then the electric appliance—of one type and another—began to play a very important part in electric service to the home. This condition brought a further and deeper responsibility to this Company—that of supplying the proper kind of electric appliances to its customers.
An electric appliance for the home should do certain definite things. First it should be efficient; that is, give the most service for the least cost price. Second, it should use the least amount of electric energy in operation, and should stand up for the longest period of service.
It became necessary, then, for this Company to adopt a very rigid policy in the matter of selecting and offering appliances for sale to its customers. So, throughout the years this Company has maintained a testing laboratory through which each appliance must pass with creditable performance before it is offered to our customers.
You can depend absolutely on the appliances which we offer to you through our stores. Each one is the best of its kind. They have been carefully tested for quality, workmanship, economy of operation and are backed by the reputation of this Company, as well as by the manufacturer of the various appliances. Enjoy the fullest use of electric service with the best of electric appliances.

The subject for the afternoon was the study of the Eastern Mountaineers. The Episcopal church does a great amount of work among these people, establishing schools and churches.

Various phases of their life were discussed, the conditions they live under, the work the church is doing among them and other things.

Mrs. Finley and Miss Emily Bird Smith each had a special topic and gave it in a very interesting and thorough manner.

Plans for selling the church calendar were taken up in a short business meeting.

After the regular program, a social hour was spent, when the hostess served light refreshments to the group.

The all day meeting of the Presbyterian Auxiliary to be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Turner at 224 North B Street Thursday promises to be a day of good fellowship and every woman in Midland who prefers the Presbyterian Church is urged to come. The meeting will begin promptly at 10 o'clock, when the review on the mission study book "The Crowded Ways," will be taken up. A free will offering for home missions will be taken.

At noon, a turkey luncheon will be served by Circle Two of which Mrs. J. M. Caldwell is the chairman. The association of this hour will mean a great deal to those who are present.

Mrs. W. A. Barton of this city left today for a visit to Denton.

HOME CANNING EXHIBITS SHOW EFFICIENCY MIDLAND FARM WOMEN

Three exhibits of home canned fruits, vegetables and meats were seen in the farm cellars of Mrs. Irwin Graham, Mrs. B. T. Hale and Mrs. J. T. Bell Monday afternoon by the chamber of commerce secretary, the Reporter-Telegram editor, the county agent and the home demonstration agent, Miss Genevieve Derryberry in whose department the work was done.

Mrs. Graham had used a pressure cooker before, but it was the first year for Mrs. Hale and Mrs. Bell. All of them showed splendid results, with the number of cans ranging from 150 to 756 each.

The 756 cans were the results of Mrs. Graham's efforts. It is believed that few farm homes in the state have stores of home canned products that will excel those of the Graham home in the eastern part of Midland county. The canning was done at a total cost of $27.00 for labor and jars, the fruit and vegetables being either grown on the farm or obtained through exchange of home grown products.

Under the list of fruits, Mrs. Graham canned the following: grape jam 14 quarts, plum jam 11, pear jam 10, grape jelly 8, plum jelly

10, apple jelly 7, pear 14, apple 10, tomato 6, peach 10, grape marmalade 5, peaches 20, apples 12, grapes 10, plums 16, grape juice 8, vegetables: kraut 22 cans, peas 108, sweet potatoes 50, mustard greens 41, pumpkin 22, hominy 30, okra 78, beans 68, corn 230; meats: turkey 14, chicken 16, soup stock 10, sandwich filling 14; other vegetables: pickles 18 quarts, chow chow 20, corn relish 10, pepper 8.

Thanksgiving Concert To Be Given By Orchestra

An especially good rehearsal was reported at the practice of the Eucharmonic Orchestra in the Crystal Ballroom of the Hotel Schabauer Monday evening.

Although several of the best members were unable to be present because of illness and business reasons, the directors felt very much encouraged at the results of the practice.

Plans were made for a Thanksgiving concert, but the time and place were not definitely decided upon.

Robert Ames, a Broadway-like gone talky-at present, "They Knew What They Wanted," with Vilma Banky and Edward Robinson—has been married five times. That's apropos of absolutely nothing.

Bob Armstrong's past comes back to haunt him. When Bob graduated from eighth grade grammar school in Bay City, Mich., he delivered an oration on "A Plea for the Immigrant." As though that were not enough, he insisted that his mother buy him a white vest for the occasion, which she did. But Bob lost courage at the crucial moment and buttoned the beautiful representative of haberdashery out of sight.

Miss Mary Pickford, writes Mr. Stockman, "is president of the Motion Picture Relief Fund, and it is for this organization that she intends to sponsor a charity ball probably early this winter. It will be held in Los Angeles." This bureau, in its clumsy fashion, stated it would be held in New York.

Whiteman's orchestra played several numbers, including the "Rhapsody in Blue." One of his musicians solo-ed "Yankee Doodle" on an automatic pump, believe it or not, and a good time had by all.

Pure Food Show To Open Thursday Afternoon

"All ready for the Big Show. Right over this way. Only ten cents admission to the big features. Lots of free exhibits."

Not in the actual words of a ballyhoo barker, but in the mute expression of the beautiful booths which have been arranged by the merchants of Midland, in the unique exhibits and the arrangements for the special features of the Show, are words like this screamed at the passerby who walks along Texas avenue and sees in one of the big windows of a first floor room in the Petroleum Building these evidences of the Pure Food Show, which is to open its doors to the public at one o'clock tomorrow.

All available floor space has been taken by the merchants for their booths, which fact proves the wonderful co-operation they are showing.

The Baby Show, the Style Show, the Cake Contest, are features, the Country Store, where large sacks of flour, buckets of lard and many other valuable products have been donated by merchants to be sold for a dime each.

Free samples will be handed out to each visitor to the Pure Food Show. One may receive everything from buttermilk and tea to the dessert from the hands of those in charge of the booths.

This Show, sponsored by the ladies of the Christian Church, has been prepared for in "grand style." For weeks the women have been working on it, as well as the merchants of the town and their helpers. It is one of the biggest things of its kind and the only one that Midland has ever had. All who have had a hand in its preparation have shown a fine spirit as boosters of Midland, as will all those who attend the Show.

Announcements Thursday

There will be a style show, with models from the Acorn Store, West Texas Dry Goods, Hsasen Co., Kimberlin Bros. and the Kaydelle Shop at the Pure Food Show to be held in the Petroleum Building, which will begin at 8 o'clock. This Show is sponsored by the ladies of the Christian Church. 10 cents admission to the style show will be charged.

The Delphian Club meets with Mrs. S. B. Cragin at 3 o'clock. Besides the regular study on Greek comedies there will be an important business meeting, and all members are urged to be present. Mrs. R. The Junior Orchestra meets in the Watson Studio at 7:30.

The Country Club will have their regular bridge party at 8 o'clock in the clubrooms.

WHO VERIFIED THIS?

BETHANY, Mo., (UP) — In Northwest Missouri the horses have horse sense. Near Hopkins, Al Hall, a farmer, noticed two strange horses having luncheon in his alfalfa field. How they got there was a puzzle, as a rope connecting their halters was not more than three feet in length.

As he approached and spoke they moved away to a barbed wire fence of the usual height. One stood still with its head toward the other, and alongside the fence. This gave the other freedom enough to jump. When it was on the other side it accommodated in the same manner, and both trotted away.

Bingham..A the Senate's Adventurer

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Before the days when Senator Hiram Bingham stepped into the national spotlight by hiring a Connecticut manufacturers' agent as his private secretary to help him frame the nation's tariff bill, he was known to his colleagues in the U. S. Senate as a mildly irritating but highly interesting man. Irritating, because he had been a Yale professor, and his highly intellectual discourses to his fellow senators always, somehow, sounded faintly like the remarks of a patient professor to his class of students.

And interesting, because this silver-haired solon was, undeniably, a man who had had many big experiences, including dangerous explorations in the little known tropics and the flying of airplanes in France in war time.

Thus, while the other senators did not always love him as a brother, they could never ignore him. Whatever he might be, no one ever accused him of being a nonentity.

Adventure Fills Life
Senator Bingham's life story, indeed, is full of color and incident, chiefly because he has always been a man who lost no time in going after whatever it was he happened, at the moment, to want.

To begin with, he comes from New England aristocracy. His lineage goes back on this side of the Atlantic, to 1635, when the first Bingham's settled in Connecticut.

Born in Honolulu
The senator's father was also a missionary, spending much of his life in the distant Gilbert Islands, translating the entire Bible into the native language and giving the natives a literature by writing down all of their myths and traditions in their own language.

The present Hiram Bingham was born in Honolulu in 1875. As a boy he worked on a sugar plantation. The family moved to America while he was in his early teens, and he worked his way through Phillips Andover Academy and Yale.

While he was at Yale the Spanish-American War broke out. He was ready to enlist in the Rough Riders, but his father persuaded him to wait for the second call. The war ended before the second call came, and Hiram lost out. He vowed that next time he would not wait.

Graduating from Yale, he went to Harvard as a teacher of Spanish-American history. His marriage early in the century, to a wealthy New York heiress, removed him from the pressure of financial worries, and in 1906 he gave vent to his desire for adventure by going to Venezuela and Colombia to explore the route that Bolivar the Liberator had followed in 1818. Bingham traveled 1000 miles through steaming jungles, had trouble with hostile Indians, was harassed by a suspicious Latin-American government as a suspected spy—and, on his return to the United States, wrote a book about his adventures.

Yale then made him a professor, and he followed a stay-at-home life for a time. In 1911, however, he went back to South America and made a genuine name for himself as an explorer, discovering the lost Inca city of Uticaco, capital of the last Inca emperor, and penetrating into a considerable area of totally unexplored land in the Andean hinterland. He came back to America to find himself relatively famous.

An Aviator in France
In 1916, returning from the border, Bingham decided that the United States was going to get into the European war very soon, and that it would need an air corps very badly. He took flying lessons from Glenn Curtiss, qualified as an aviator, and on the declaration of the war was appointed by the War Department to organize the school of military aeronautics. He worked feverishly, establishing eight flying schools, from which more than 17,000 aviation officers were graduated before the war ended.

This done, he was sent to France to command the great flying field at Issoudun, a position he filled with distinction until after the armistice.

Is Elected Governor
At all events, Bingham came back to America, and after traveling in the Pacific region for a time went to Connecticut and plunged into politics, being elected lieutenant governor and then governor. Barely had he won the latter election, however, when Senator Frank Brade-gue died, and in a special election Bingham was chosen to take his place. He served only a short time as governor before resigning to go to Washington.

Senator Bingham, silver-haired, healthy and active, is the father of seven sons. He is still deeply interested in aviation, flies often, and not long ago aroused attention by flying from Connecticut to Washington in an army dirigible.

NEITHER FERGUSON NOR LOVE BELIEVE NAMES WILL BE HELD OFF THE BALLOT

AUSTIN, Texas.—(UP)—Former Gov. James E. Ferguson is confident that his name cannot be kept off the Democratic primary ballot as a candidate for governor next July. Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas is equally confident that his (Love's) name cannot be legally kept off the ballot.

Love's case presents a single problem of whether he can be denied a Democratic ballot place because he supported President Hoover against Alfred E. Smith.

In 1928, Love's name was barred from ballots in many counties because of his avowed intention to support Hoover. Love, however, points out that the situation will be different in 1930. In 1928, he was barred for existing opposition to the party's candidate for president. In 1930, the charge against him will be past failure to support the party's nominee.

Love, while here to meet Attorney General R. E. L. Robbitt, insisted that a man cannot be barred from the ticket for past action.

"I am a Democrat, and promise to support the nominees in the primary," is the ballot test by statute. The Ferguson case dates back to his impeachment sentence which barred him from thereafter holding state office. It was held that he could run for U. S. Senator, because that is a national and not a state office. Upon Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson's election to the governorship, she "pardoned" her husband. The legislature also passed what was called the amnesty bill, and Ferguson claims his right to hold office was restored by that measure.

The question has been raised as to whether removal of the stain of impeachment by Mrs. Ferguson for her husband was legal. The right to pardon a person for such purposes has never been claimed for the judiciary branch of government, and because he stands whitewashed by both the executive and legislative branches, Ferguson doesn't think his name can be kept off the ballot.

That it is now planned to make Jim Ferguson the candidate and not Mrs. Ferguson is already apparent. He said recently that he is not yet ready to announce a decision, but that many requests that he run are being received in response to his announcement that he might do so.

One petition from Cleveland, Texas, bore 400 signatures. Cleveland has a population of 1500, according to the Texas Almanac.

Winnboro banker, entered the July Democratic primary against him. Republican influence in Texas was still small then, and when E. B. Creager, Brownsville, Republican national committeeman from Texas, ran as Republican candidate against Ferguson in the general election, he received less than 50,000 votes.

The second term had hardly gotten under way when murmurs began. The Legislature prepared to meet of its own volition for impeachment proceedings. Lawyers advised that the right of the body to meet in special session except on call of the governor was doubtful. Confident, Ferguson swept aside his technical advantage and personally challenged the impeachment by issuing a call for the special session. After stirring times, he was impeached and found guilty, and left the governor's mansion in October, 1927.

Lieutenant Governor W. P. Hobby succeeded Ferguson. In an attempt to be put back in 1918, Ferguson received 217,012 votes and Hobby 461,749. Again in 1920 he was a candidate, organizing the American party and running for president. In 1922, he received 127,071 votes for U. S. Senator in the Democratic primary. Early in 1924, it became apparent that he proposed to again enter the race for governor. His right to be on the ballot was challenged.

Ferguson then sprang his most famous political surprise by putting Mrs. Ferguson forward as a candidate, and announcing that he would be her "political adviser" if she was elected.

That campaign made history. Mrs. Ferguson rode into office on a tide of sentiment against the Ku Klux Klan, and overwhelmed Felix Robertson, the klan candidate, in the second primary.

How Governor Dan Moody entered the political spotlight is still fresh in memory. Moody's road investigations as attorney general made him a natural opponent when Mrs. Ferguson sought re-election. He defeated Mrs. Ferguson by the heaviest vote ever cast in Texas.

Other prospective candidates are showing up for the 1930 race. If Attorney General R. E. L. Robbitt's war on the alleged bootleg ring in Texas receives the state interest for Dan Moody's war on floggings aroused, it might carry him into the governor's chair.

That Clyde Sweeton, Houston, may enter the race was the one development of the week as political reports filtered into Austin.

The definite announcement that he will run for state commissioner of agriculture has been made by Rep. J. J. Olson of Yostum. Rep. A. H. King, Throckmorton, also has indicated that he may be in the race for that office which Commissioner George B. Terrell has announced he will not seek again.

WINNIPEG.—(U P)—Col. O. D. H. McAlpine and his party of seven aerial explorers have been rescued from Canada's barren wastes, but it will take a month for them to reach civilization, according to estimates Tuesday.

Interest was centered today on a secondary search which was instituted by William Soence and Rou-

During a trial in a French court a man laughed so loudly that he was objected. Maybe the French are copying our system of picking juries.

HAWKINS' ELIGIBILITY IS CAUSE OF ERUPTION ALONG THE PECOS

T. C. U., Baylor or Texas? Scribes Over State Are Taking Their Choices

STANTON, LEADER IN DISTRICT, MAY FORFEIT GAMES IF PECOS IS ABLE TO PROVE CHARGE

Rumors of ineligibility of Stanton high school's football team through the record of Fullback Hawkins, who is alleged to have "made up work in summer school," have burst into a roar with superintendents of the district getting letters from Pecos high school, letters which are said to be an expose of the scholastic status of the eastern town's scoring age.

Superintendent W. W. Lackey of the Midland public schools said this morning when called that he had received "one of the letters." Asked whether the reports which have been drifting over the district during the past two weeks were in the letter, he replied that they were.

Midland has one of only twenty 12-story skyscrapers in Texas, according to a report received here. There are 316 "skyscrapers" in Texas, according to a survey just completed by the Texas Public Service Information Bureau. Twenty Texas cities have buildings of ten stories or higher completed or under construction, the list including Midland, Abilene, Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Galveston, Houston, Laredo, Lubbock, Mineral Wells, San Angelo, San Antonio, Temple, Texarkana, Waco, Wichita Falls and Port Arthur.

MIDLAND 'SCRAPER ONE OF ONLY 20 OF KIND IN TEXAS

Houston has the tallest, the 37-story Gulf Building, San Antonio's 35-story Smith-Young Tower is the second tallest, Dallas has the greatest number, thirty-four. If the affair was to be changed to a sort of round robin, there would be no focus point. It would be about as interesting to baseball fans in general as the "Little World Series" or the Chicago city series. These have a local appeal but not a general one.

Mayfield—

In the event Gov. Moody does not definitely decide to become a candidate for a third term, either R. S. Sterling of Houston, chairman of the State Highway Commission, or Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt, is certain to get into the field.

Ferguson may not be planning on endorsing Mayfield, but many believe he does not intend running himself, but throwing his support to someone else.

Fawkes Day Held In England Tuesday

LONDON — (UP)—Continuous explosions of firecrackers were heard and flames from huge bonfires were seen in all towns and villages in England Tuesday, throughout the afternoon and evening. It was Guy Fawkes Day, the 324th anniversary of the frustration of Guy Fawkes' plot to blow up King James I, and his assembled members of the houses of Lords and Commons.

All day thousands of children, a large percentage of whom had not the faintest idea who Guy Fawkes was, paraded the streets with rude, home-made effigies of "Guy," with the object of collecting sufficient funds from passers-by to purchase a stock of fire crackers for the evening's celebrations. The pleading, "Please remember the Guy," was handed out to everybody met on the street.

None of the effigies bore any resemblance to Guy Fawkes, but most of them were made up to represent some unpopular international or public figure, a famous murderer or rogue, Father's or brother's old suit and hat stuffed with waste paper, shavings or any inflammable waste material formed the basis of most of the "Guys," and the guy whose headgear was a discarded tail hat was a great drawing card to its paraders.

The principal celebrations were reserved for this evening, when, as darkness set in, thousands of huge bonfires were lighted, rockets whizzed into the air and the guys were thrown into the flames amid the explosions of crackers of all kinds.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

No World Series?

Baseball, of all sports, gets the most free advertising in the press. And on the occasion of the world series, this promotion exceeds all reasonable bounds. More is written about the world series than about each pennant race. The reason is that these few games are something upon which writers and fans can concentrate.

Do away with the world series and you will rob each pennant race of half its interest. One cannot blame John Heydler for proposing some new method of demonstrating that the National League is stronger than the American. Certainly the world series haven't proved that. But it does seem as though John cannot have been entirely serious. Maybe he just was mad.

Comparing the Leagues President Barnard's assertion that the American League is 20 per cent stronger than the National probably contains an element of exaggeration. The results of the past three world series cannot be a basis for such a remark, since the results of the past three world series demonstrate that the American League is 99 and 44-100 per cent stronger than the National.

Mr. Heydler points with pride to the performances of some of the rising young players in the National League as evidence that his circuit is just as good as any other. The solution seems to be to get the Phillies into the world series.

While the world series have been one-sided of late, the National League winning only one game in three years, they provide a climax to the regular season, concentrate attention upon the national pastime for a while, keep people talking baseball and generally are good for business.

Fred Wemple, Theory-Breaker, Opens Fire On Peter Who Left A Gate Open

Fred Wemple, apostle of the old vocabulary being re-introduced into the ranks of dice-shooters, as a result of a Blossom physician losing a bet to him recently when The Reporter-Telegram used the word "cogged" as relating to fraudulent "bones," breaks into the public eye again by virtue of a bit of symposium in poetry.

The poetry attempts to prove a little matter which has possibly bothered more than one husband, and is called "Who Opened the Gate—Two Ideas." Fred submitted the following angles he has gleaned from the public print over a number of years, with a classic little joke on Former President Grover Cleveland:

The Good Old Way
Some years ago David Barker, a distinguished poet in the state of Maine, after the birth of his first child, wrote and published the following pretty poem:

One night as old St. Peter slept,
He left the door of heaven ajar,
When through a little angel crept,
And came down with a falling star.

One summer, as the blessed beams,
Of morn approached, my blushing bride
Wakened from some pleasing dreams
And found that angel by her side.

God grant but this—I ask no more,
That when he leaves the world of pain,
He'll wing his way to that bright shore,
And find the road to heaven again.

John G. Saxe, not to be out done and deeming that injustice had been done St. Peter, wrote the following as St. Peter's reply:

Full eighteen hundred years or more,
I've kept my gate securely fast,
There has no "little angel" strayed,
No recreant through the portals passed.

I did not sleep, as you supposed,
Nor has a "little angel" left,
And gone down with a falling star,
Go ask that blushing bride and see,
If she don't frankly own and say,
That when she found that angel

TCU HAS BEST CHANCE TO REMAIN ON CONFERENCE TOP THIS WEEK, DUE TO EXPECTED EASE WITH RICE

The big thing in Texas football circles this week-end is the apparent nearness of top clubs to the brink of the precipice. Several standings are doped to be materially changed in the Sunday papers.

TCU and Baylor will have a chance to keep atop the conference or, in case both these leaders lose, which is unlikely, Texas U would hog the top rung.

On Friday the Texas conference leaders may get "let down" by lesser teams. Scheduled games and percentages: Southwest Texas Teachers vs. Southwestern U. at Georgetown. The Nov. 11 card is: Daniel Baker vs. McMurry at Abilene (T. I. A. A.) Abilene Christian vs. Texas Tech at Lubbock.

West Texas Teachers vs. New Mexico Military Institute at Canyon. Sam Houston Teachers vs. South Texas Teachers at Huntsville. North Texas Teachers vs. East Texas Teachers at Denton (T. I. A. A.)

T. I. A. A. standing:
Team— Won Lost Tied Pct.
Sam Houston 2 0 0 1.000
North Texas 1 0 0 1.000
Southwest Texas 3 0 1 .875
West Texas 2 1 0 .667
Abilene Christian 1 1 1 .500
McMurry 1 1 0 .500
East Texas 0 2 1 .167
Step. F. Austin. 0 3 1 .125
Sul Ross 0 1 0 .000
Daniel Baker 0 1 0 .000

However, the Christians hold the edge in games played since 1923, the year that T. C. U. graduated into the Southwest Conference. They have won two or three games played since then.

In 1914 the Frogs made their first invasion of Houston and the two teams battled to a scoreless tie. In 1915 they went back for another game. This time the Owl eleven humbled the Frogs 33 to 3, after the Frogs had used up their energy on the long trip down to Houston the night before the game.

In 1916 the Owls came to Fort Worth to play the second tie game, the score ending 7 to 7. In 1917 Rice came through with a 26-to-0 victory on Rice Field. Relationship was broken after that year until the Frogs entered the conference in 1923.

That year the Frogs won their first game 6 to 0. Blair Cherry picked up an Owl fumble and raced 60 yards for the only score of the day, though the punting of the great little Herman Clark was partially responsible for the victory.

The Owls avenged the defeat the following year when they nosed out a 7-to-3 victory after a 35-yard field goal by Johnny Washmon had apparently brought another victory for the Purple.

The two teams resumed their rivalry again last year, with T. C. U. coming through with a lucky 7-to-0 triumph. Lucky, because the lowly Owls literally fought the Frogs off their feet for more than three quarters. Cy Leland took a pass from Grubbs near the end of the game and went over for the only score of the afternoon.

The Owls are considered no better this year than last, but the Fighting Frogs remember that no matter how lowly they seem to other teams they manage to play their hardest football games against Purple teams. At least no team has ever played the Frogs so closely and fiercely as have the Owls. Saturday Clark Field will see another battle such as the ones that have been fought in former years.

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 6.—Gloom that permeated the Texas Longhorn football corral early in the week with the announcement that they manage to play their hardest football games against Purple teams. At least no team has ever played the Frogs so closely and fiercely as have the Owls. Saturday Clark Field will see another battle such as the ones that have been fought in former years.

State Refuses To Pay Its Mistake

SAN ANTONIO, Texas.—(AP)—Although it took four years of Anastacio Vargas' life, the State of Texas has not recompensed him for the time he spent in jail away from his wife and two children as their chief support.

Convicted of the murder of Louisa Garcia, Vargas was first given life imprisonment and, after the first trial was reversed and remanded by the Court of Criminal Appeals, on a second hearing the jury directed that he be put to death in the electric chair.

Four hours before the death penalty was to have been exacted Governor Moody granted a reprieve and later commuted the sentence of life imprisonment. A few days ago Acting Governor Barry Miller gave him an unconditional pardon.

Judge W. W. McCrory, who presided at the trial of Vargas, and other Bexar county officials who investigated the case, petitioned the governor to pardon Vargas, having been convinced that he was innocent of the crime laid to him.

When Vargas was released and went to his little one-room home

Plainview Farmer Hardly Had A Well Day in Four Years

Wants Everybody to Know About the Good Orgatone Has Done Him—Gains Daily

"I was determined to try Orgatone after hearing and reading about the good results it was accomplishing so I bought a bottle and began taking it and the results are I have gained in health and feel better than I have in four years." This is what C. J. Spragner, residing on rural route, Plainview, Texas, said.

"I had suffered from indigestion and stomach trouble until it just seemed as if nothing was ever going to help me at all. In fact, I hardly knew what it was to have a well day in four years until Orgatone straightened me out. I had gotten to where I couldn't eat anything without suffering from it. After every meal gas would form and bother me all sorts of trouble. Cause me all sorts of trouble.

"I was in a very bad run-down condition and had practically no appetite at all and what I did eat would sometimes turn as sour as vinegar on my stomach. No one but those who are troubled with indigestion knows how I did suffer, and although I had tried every thing I knew of nothing seemed to reach my case or do me any good.

"I kept on going down hill and the day I started on Orgatone I was suffering from the same old troubles. I commenced to feel better in a few days after I began taking Orgatone and have gradually picked up ever since. I now feel like my old self once more and have not only gained in strength but can eat anything I want and as much as I want without it bothering me in the least. My constipation is broken up. I sleep like a dog and simply feel like a different man."

Genuine Orgatone may be bought in Midland at the Midland Drug Store.—Adv.

Mr. E. H. Heard is now in charge of our Pastry department. Mr. Heard has had thirty-five years experience and is one of the best Pastry men in the southwest. Mr. Harvey is still making that good Malted Milk Bread and Perfection Rolls. In view of the fact that Midland people are now patronizing our home Bakeries to the exclusion of foreign products we are determined that they shall have the best. A few weeks ago the state food inspector after an inspection of our plant congratulated us for having one of the cleanest places he had visited. We invite every Midland lady to just step in and look at our products first door north of post office.
