Public Utilities Have Two Billion To Spend

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(P)—A construction and maintenance program of nearly $2,000,000,000 for the coming year was outlined to President Hoover today by spokesmen of public utilities of the country. This program calls for an expansion of more than $100,000,000 over the expenditures of last year. The report was received with gratification by Hoover as material contribution to his plan for continuing business progress after the fall in stock market prices.

NEGRO SENTENCED TO JAIL; STRUCK A WAGON MONDAY

A negro, Willie White, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $200 in county court Tuesday when evidence showed he drove a car belonging to Andy Smith, another negro, into a wagon driven by Alfred Atwood, farmer who lives south of Warfield, about 4:30 Monday afternoon.

The negro was charged with having driven the car while intoxicated. Both Atwood and O. E. Stovall, Llano, Texas, man who was riding with Atwood, swore the negro acted as though he was drunk.

In the collision, Atwood was knocked into semi-consciousness, his farm wagon splintered and a horse hurt badly. The negro's car was badly smashed.

An examining trial was held after the negro had been sentenced for the offense of driving while intoxicated, that of car theft. Results of this trial were not announced.

Smith said he had driven his car, a 1928 model six-cylinder coupe, to a negro hotel for the night. While he was inside, White drove the machine away, ostensibly to steal it.

Neither of the white men saw the machine strike the wagon.

When arrested by Sheriff A. C. Francis, White had a concealed knife in his shoe.

No Bids Received On Old Court House

Due to no bids having been made on the masonry in the old court house, Midland county judge, M. R. Hill, will be faced with removing the building at the expense of the county, he said this morning.

Razing of the structure will begin in about two weeks, when court is out, Judge Hill estimates.

Masonry torn from the building will be sold in whole or small lots, Judge Hill said.

Miss Haldeman-Julius, pictured here as she appeared in a recent theatrical performance, says she and Aubrey Roselle, her companionate husband, are still happy, whereas many other couples who have married since they did have sought the divorce courts.

"Tiger" To Rest In Tomb He Chose Four Years Ago

Georges Clemenceau, the "Tiger of France," will be buried in a tomb erected under the guidance of his own hand. This exclusive picture shows the gravestone erected secretly by Clemenceau four years ago on his estate in southern France. It is deep in the woods and so completely surrounded by trees that few people have ever seen it and only a small number knew of its existence. The grave of his father, shown at the left, is directly beside the spot the "Tiger" picked for himself. A cameraman for NEA Service and The Reporter-Telegram was allowed to take the picture only after he had promised Clemenceau it would not be used until after his death.

Santa Claus Will Not Drop In Parachute

"ONE DUCKING IS ENOUGH FOR ME," HE SAYS

When He Flies To Midland On December 4

When St. Nick circles Midland twice on December 4, emblematic of his visit on that date and of one to come on Christmas morning, he will not descend by parachute—no sir!

Santa will make a nice roll down the fairway of Country club's fairway in one of the latest airplanes added to his fleet. In Texas he does not use a sleigh, save at periods of heavy snow. The old gentleman is more modern than ever before.

Now take, for instance, the exciting time he had the other day.

Santa was flying in his monoplane over a northern state. He wanted to drop in and see some of the children of a particular village. Telling his pilot to fly down to 1,000 feet, the old man who is known and loved internationally, strapped a package of toys and presents to his body and opened the door of the cabin.

Leaping over the side, he pulled the rip cord of his parachute. The pilot chute snapped out and he whistled Santa started drifting down to earth.

All would have been well had it not been for a cross wind which blew his chute over toward a large river. Tugging at the shrouds of the parachute did not slip the "blotch" enough, and the old man fell in a river. The cold water went over his head, but Santa has been living for a long time and will continue, in spite of little things like rivers.

He climbed out on shore and gave the children his present, but told them he would land in his plane in Midland, rather than jump over the side.

Here is a telegram received from Santa this morning:

SUBDUING THE "SODOM OF THE PRAIRIES"

The tale of the taming of Borger, the wild town of Texas, whose recent record of 30 murders and general lawlessness gave it the name of the "Sodom of the Prairies," is reminiscent of the colorful days of the past when "the six-gun made all men equal."

The Texas rangers subdued the Borger "wild men." The Minneapolis Tribune, in commenting on the Borger situation, resurrects a legend of the rangers. "It has to do with one Espinosa, shooting pride of bandit bands," the Tribune says. "Espinosa flipped a quarter of a dollar in the air with his right and with the same drew his revolver and blew it to bits before it touched the ground. He met a Texas ranger who shot him three times while he reached for his gun."

"The record of the Texas rangers has proved that a man who believes in law and shoots straight may be a bulwark in the constitution of the nation and the state. As the best men at every affair of sidearms such men have been invaluable to every state in the West. Their psychological effect is greater than a regiment of cavalry or a company of machine guns as the record proves."

"Colonel Sam Houston and Davy Crockett were the first exponents of the applied psychology of shooting straight and seldom in Texas. The spirit of the ranger is a heritage of the Alamo. Borger is its latest beneficiary."

One wonders what effect a little straight shooting by our citizens would have on the criminals who infest our country. Perhaps a little more of the spirit of the rangers and a little less of the spirit of the professional law-passers and reformers, is needed to clean up the American underworld.

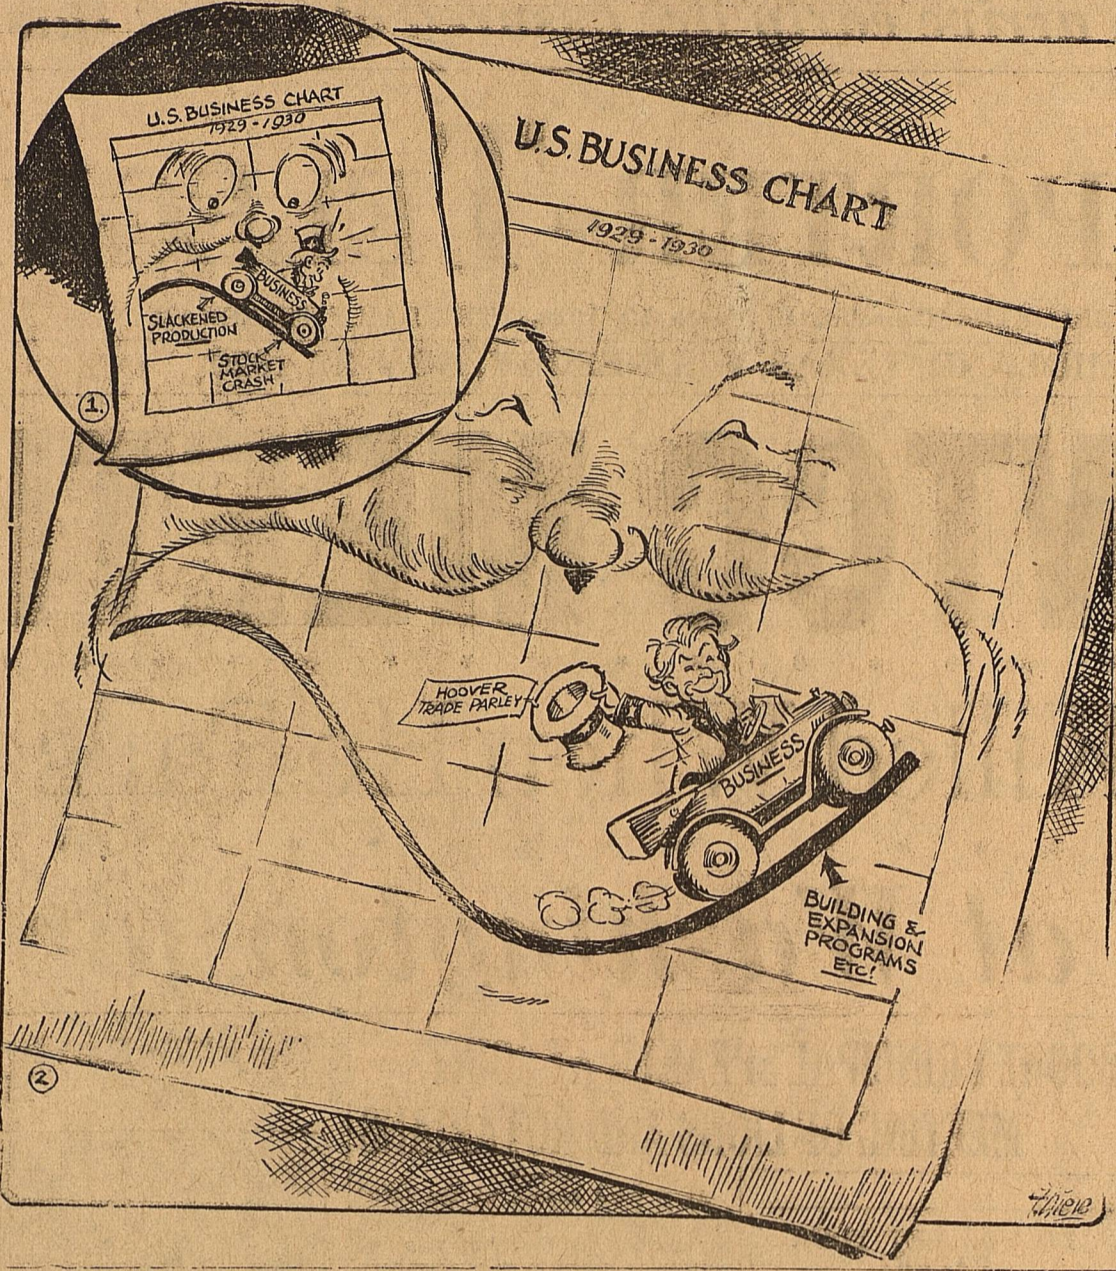

WHEN THE TORCH IS APPLIED

The majority of people do not know all that happens when the torch is applied by unscrupulous men or women who burn property to gain the insurance. They do not know the probabilities occurring or the potential hazard that the fire may spread, as it often does—they do not know half of the story of arson!

Arson fires are more dangerous than others, both to property and to life, as quick-burning material is placed so the flames spread with the utmost rapidity and obliterate all traces of how the fire was started. Oftentimes kerosene or gasoline is used, causing an explosion that scatters fire in all directions and endangers human lives. The flames spread so rapidly that people are frequently trapped and have but little chance to escape. Rapid destruction of the property follows. When the flames gain such headway there is also great danger of their spreading to adjoining structures before the firemen can check their progress.

Incendiarism is a national problem, which, however, has a state application, for if we had uniform laws in every state, in accordance with the requirements of the Model Arson Law, committing arson would become too dangerous for the criminal. Let us hope that the state legislatures which have not yet passed such a law will see the necessity for doing so.—Safeguarding America Against Fire.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — The Senate coalition of insurgent Republicans and Democrats which has been wrecking the Republican tariff bill has taken plenty of credit for fighting the battle of the voiceless American consumer and it might be supposed amid all the clamor that the voiceless American consumer was about to escape unscathed.

As a matter of fact, the coalition has merely been seeing to it that he is soaked only once in the same place instead of twice. That is, thanks to the coalition, the industrial rates voted by the House are being scaled down while agricultural rates are being maintained or increased. While the tariff bill as written by the coalition would mean no increased prices on manufactured goods for the consumer it presumably will mean increased prices on food and other products from the farm.

Very little complaint has been made about this prospect because it is argued that industry has always heretofore received the much greater share of tariff favors at the expense of agriculture and the one thing the Republican party and its candidate did promise was tariff revision for the farmer's benefit. Nevertheless, here and there a distinct squawk is heard and they would be more frequent and louder if the consumers were organized or had anyone to represent them as such in Congress.

Just before adjournment Senator Walsh of Massachusetts read to the Senate an editorial from the Boston Post, which has the widest newspaper circulation in New England, citing an estimate that each New England family of five would pay about $3.50 a week more under the new tariff rates on foodstuffs as fixed by the House. The case of butter was mentioned. The House fixed the duty on butter at 14 cents a pound and there will be an attempt in the Senate to boost that to 20. The editorial concluded that, as a result, housewives would be compelled to turn to oleomargarine, to the loss of the western butter markets.

An example of the kind of appeal that can be made for the consumer when it comes to tariffs on foodstuffs was supplied by the lobby which worked for Cuban sugar companies here. By judicious expenditure of money and lavish distribution of propaganda, so much public indignation was created over the proposal to boost the duty on sugar to three cents a pound that it is now very doubtful whether the beet and cane sugar interests, which sought aid through the bill as one branch of suffering agriculture, will get anything at all.

Any tariff measure which finally becomes law is bound to contain stiff rates on agricultural products. It is true that the tariff can't benefit the raisers of the major agricultural commodities which are exported in large quantities—such as wheat, corn, hogs, and cotton—but there have been many other crops on which the farmers have sought added protection.

If there is any new tariff law, there will be increases on such farm products as livestock, potatoes, milk and cream, flaxseed, meats, cheese, butter and various vegetables.

Considerable anguish over the agricultural rates has been expressed both in Canada and the Argentine, whose exports will be the hardest hit. But although threats are heard in those two countries to buy more from England and less from the United States in case the rates are established and these threats may actually come to something, the domestic consumer is inside the tariff wall and can't retaliate. He must pay the price or go without.

Everyone agrees that the long-suffering farmer should get better returns. At last he has people in Washington who are working to see that he does. The farmer waited a long time for that. But the long-suffering consumer probably will wait forever.

The Town Quack

chants will stay with me, I ought to have it all paid for by December 24, 1930.

This is the beginning of the season that is surely disastrous to Town Quack. The season will end about December 26—It's an open season on husbands and pocketbooks.

T. Quack Jr. has already picked out his things for Christmas. He doesn't want much. Only a bicycle, shotgun, football, new suit, $50 in gold and a trip to Europe is all that he has asked for up to date.

Now for the rest of the family—well, I'd better not put that in print. But if the Federal Reserve banking system and all the mer-

I have always taken great pride in the fact that I am what may be termed as a "free-lancing" Lion Chaney. I can twist my body and my face into practically any position which I desire.

Junior has sat for hours watching his dad make funny faces for him.

Mrs. Quack doesn't like for me to do that. "Daddy Quack, don't you think the kid has enough hand-leap from having taken after you without your teaching him to make such terrible faces." That's the spirit that could put out a raging forest fire.

Here is the worst blow, however. I walked into the United Dry Goods store Tuesday afternoon to buy a piece of elastic with which to make Junior some things to hold up his stockings.

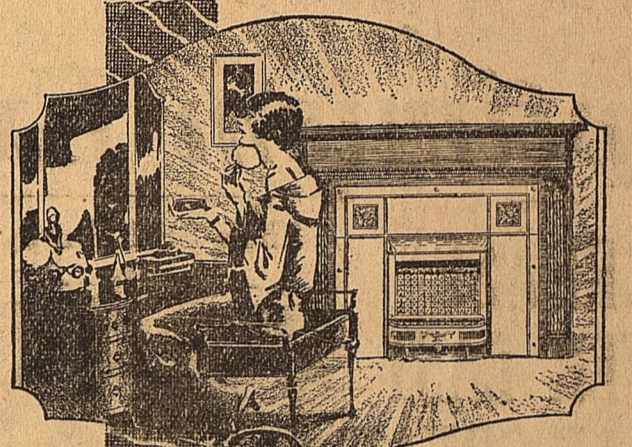

J. T. Brashear was the fortunate one to give me service. (Midland people are so eager to see this great Town Quack person that you'll do almost anything for him.) Well, old Town Quack has taken down his flag as a maker of funny and peculiar faces.

That fellow Brashear beats 'em all. He twisted that mug of his into every possible position. He actually scared me.

Once I thought his eyes were going to jump out of his head—and when that was just over his ears began to fold up like these ancient flowers that you read about.

I am going to take Junior down to United to see the master face maker of the world.

Old Brashear should be cutting capers on the stage instead of gods on the counter.

MISS CORDILL AND MR. MYRICK WED IN BRIDE'S HOME THIS MORNING

Miss Quinnie Cordill and Mr. William Clinton Myrick were united in marriage in the home of the bride this morning at 8 o'clock.

The house was prettily decorated with chrysanthemums arranged in a simple style.

Miss Cordill was lovely in blue crepe romaine, with accessories in corresponding shades.

During the ceremony, the Misses Katherine and Lillian Dunaway softly played the "Melody of Love."

Immediately after the couple were wed, they left on a short honeymoon trip to Austin and San Antonio.

The bride has been a resident of Midland for twelve years, and for the past few years has been head of the commercial department in the Midland schools.

She is a member of the Christian Church, and is active in all work in the church.

Mr. Myrick is connected with the insurance firm of Glass and Myrick, and graduated from Midland College here.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. L. Adams and Mrs. W. O. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude White Honored With Shower By Friends

Members of the J. O. Y. class of the Baptist Church met at the home of Miss Eleanor Connell Monday night, surprising Mr. and Mrs. Claude White, who were recently married in Dallas.

Class mates came as country relatives, coming to visit the new bride and groom.

Some of the costumes dated back as far as 25 years and were the cause of much merriment.

Mrs. J. M. White was voted the most courted "gal" and was awarded a handsome box of snuff, which she graciously presented to the bride.

After various amusing games and stunts, the "kinfolks" decided to unpack the old fashioned trunk which they had brought along, and Mrs. White was asked to help with the unpacking.

When she was able to speak, Mrs. White heartily thanked each one and said she was never before so glad to have a visit from her "country kin."

Refreshments of mince pie, cheese squares, and coffee were served to the following guests:

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. White, Misses Annie Frank Stout, Allie Mae Stout, Mable McCormick, Bertha Swartz, Stella Mae Lanham and Lois Walker, Messrs. Jerry Urvan, Butler Hurley, James White, Preston Bridgewater, Archie Willingham, T. M. White, Rev. and Mrs. Brown, and the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. Claude White.

After the guests had been served, Miss Stella Mae Lanham gave a novel reading on "How to Manage a Husband." Miss Lanham was dressed in her mother's wedding gown, and gave an excellent rendition of the poem.

New Teacher For Belmont Bible Class

The study of the book of Exodus was completed by the Belmont Bible study class when they met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. G. F. McCargo.

Mrs. Thomas D. Murphy was elected teacher of this meeting to replace Mrs. Florence Richardson, who is unable to keep the class because of ill health.

The time of meeting was also changed from Tuesday until Friday, as it was only by doing so that Mrs. Murphy could accept the place as teacher.

Nine members were present yesterday, and a very interesting study was reported.

The next meeting will be on Friday, December 6, at 3:15, with Mrs. R. H. Mask on 1208 S. Main Street.

Local Girl Active In College Circles

Miss Ann Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Smith of Midland, a student in Texas Woman's College, will spend the Thanksgiving holidays in Fort Worth.

Miss Smith is a sophomore in T. W. C. and is active in the Young Womens Christian Association.

She sends home enthusiastic reports of the enlargement program that is being sponsored by the college. The campaign is being waged for the purpose of endowing two chairs, one honoring Carl Venth, Dean of the Fine Arts Department, and the other honoring Mrs. Mary L. Hargrove, former professor of Bible, and of providing funds to acquire additional equipment to meet the growing needs of the college.

1912 Bridge Club Meets

Four tables were arranged for bridge Tuesday afternoon at the meeting of the 1912 Bridge Club in the home of Mrs. Terry Elkin.

Love's Wishes

WHAT a lot we have to be thankful for! First, for all the beauties of the world which have been given us for our delight and enjoyment.

Rest, Proper Make-Up And Care Are Secrets of "Eyeful Beauty"

EDITOR'S NOTE: With the startling new fashions have come "New Modes in Beauty." They're discussed intelligently, interestingly in a series of six articles which Claire Luce, world-famed American beauty, has written for The Reporter-Telegram and NEA Service.

There is as much truth as poetry in that old expression, "Eyes are the Windows of the Soul."

Nature, of course, plays an important part in bestowing that rare gift of beautifully shaped and expressive eyes upon a favored few. But there are a great many things that all of us can do to keep the eyes in healthy condition and to improve upon nature if necessary.

Eye-strain is the one bugaboo we must all avoid if we are to keep the whites clear, and no matter what color or shape the rest of the eye may be, if the whites are blemished with streaks of red, it makes for discomfort and unsightliness.

Reading is necessary, of course, if we are to improve our minds—but this should be done under favorable lighting conditions, at home, or where one can relax—and not in moving trains and busses.

We would throw up our hands in horror at the suggestion that we would leave our face or hands unwashed, yet the eyes—which serve us more than any other organ and are subject to the dust and grime of city streets or country roads—are often allowed to go by neglected for years at a time.

Find Time to Rest the Eyes

The girl who is subject to eye-strain because of working under poor lighting conditions, should rest her eyes at all times when traveling to and from work.

may be nearer the goal of our ambitions and dreams; thankful for the happiness we know in working for our loved ones and giving them the best that is in us.

Monte Blue Comes In "Skin Deep," All-Talking Gang Hit

That the ideal combination of star, director and story, has been found by Warner Bros. in "Skin Deep," the all-talking Vitaphone production for Monte Blue, which will be presented at the Palace Theatre Thursday and Friday.

"Skin Deep" has to do with the life of a gangster—his gold-digging, dancing wife—his pals and his foes—all enemies of law and order.

It presents the underworld denizens as human beings with definite impulses which lead them into the search for happiness and contentment. There are many thrilling episodes in "Skin Deep" but it does not put its dependence on gun-play but rather on truth of characterization and tenseness of situation.

Monte Blue has already scored in talking picture and this latest Vitaphone product shows him at his best. There is not a moment when he does not register and interest his audience—first as the scarred victim of his wife's perfidy and society's vengeance and then as the man physically and mentally remade. The supporting cast includes Davey Lee, Betty Compson, Alice Day, John Davidson, Tully Marshall, John Bowers, Georgie Stone, and Robert Perry.

YOUR CHILDREN by Olive Roberts Barton © 1929 by NEA Service Inc.

Don't give a child everything he wants. It is about the cruelest thing we can do. Cruel, not only because life is a rather average affair, and the law of compensation is bound to be in evidence at some periods in his life, handing him disappointments that he can't cope with, but because people aren't going to like him.

Nobody likes a spoiled child when he is little. They will like him less when he is big.

Nor is it fair by mere weakness on our part and sheer spineless inability to say "no," to allow him to grow up into a miserable, unhappy being, ruined by his own sense of expectancy. This habit of wanting things and getting them grows. It gets to the point where there is no satiation. What then?

I know a family with three children who handed their youngsters the earth with their monograms on it.

They were lovely, normal, lovable children when they were little—there were two boys and a girl. I predicted trouble when their mistaken parents insisted on making them "receiving stations" for everything they could scrape up money to buy.

Not only that, but they couldn't and wouldn't say "no." The word "must" was torn out of the dictionary. They were regular "yes" parents.

I hadn't seen any of the children for several years—then I saw two of them one day in the early fall. The history of those years was written all over their faces. One of the boys flung in with an open letter in his hand. He was going to college and had learned that he couldn't have a room to himself.

"I won't go a step to the old college!" he shouted. "A fine place you and Dad picked for me. I told you I wouldn't go."

"Hush, Bob! You ought to be glad you're going. Try to be grateful. It's a splendid school."

"Grateful. Huh! It's you ought to be grateful. I can't see why I couldn't have gone some place I wanted to where they don't work your head off."

Takes What She Wants His sister, 15, came in and demanded the car.

"I can't let you take it," pled her mother. "You have no license and your father would be frantic if he thought you'd taken it again after last week. You might have an accident and hit somebody. Please, dear!"

First Picture of Great Atlantic Tidal Wave That Brought Disaster and Death to Coast

Monday's earthquake in the Atlantic, which shattered one-third of the cables to Europe and shook huge steamships from far north to as far south as Atlanta, is reported to have resulted in great loss of life and property on the coast of Newfoundland and Labrador. A steamship putting into St. John's, Newfoundland, reported that 18 people had been reported killed at Lord's Cove and Lemarline, and nine had been killed at Kurin Island with great loss of property washed into the sea. A photographer happened to be at the seashore near Boston, Mass., when the great wave struck there.

Artist Leo Biederman graphically illustrates the horror and tragedy that struck at several small fishing villages along the southern coast of Newfoundland when the great tidal wave swept down upon the coast. Mountains of seas, a hundred feet high, swept nearly thirty persons to their deaths while scores of fishermen's huts were destroyed. The tidal wave is believed to have been an aftermath of the several earth tremors reported from New England to the northeastern regions of Canada.

LABOR AUCTION STILL HELD IN FRANCE YEARLY

By STEWART BROWN United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Nov. 27.—(UP)—A labor market, where farm hands are auctioned off to the highest bidder, still exists in France.

Unlike the slave markets of old, French farm laborers willingly take part in the annual auctions. There is nothing inhuman or forced in their sale of their own bodies for a stated period of toil for they get the sale money minus a fee for the auctioneer.

As witnessed at the annual "Foire aux Valets," or Workman's Fair, at Chateauroux, the farm hands consider it a banner day of the year because it brings new employers, new surprises—and often more money.

On the day of the fair each autumn the laborers come in from the farms to the central town in search of new employers for the coming year. Except in the minority of cases where the workers prefer to wait until they are met by employers, nearly all seek new places each year.

Many of them are engaged before the actual auction starts. Others prefer to wait until they are placed upon the auction block and the farm owners bid for their services for a period which is usually set at eight months.

If the worker is young and physically well built he mounts the platform with pride. He flexes his muscles in a manner intended to impress the watching prospective employers of his high value as a farm hand.

Old Dye Their Hair The laborers especially try to make an impression upon the farm owners who they know to be good masters. They know and curry the favor of the farm owner who does not work his men too hard and who furnishes them with comfortable quarters and good food.

The show of prowess is highly amusing to sightseers who gather in the square to watch the proceedings. The laborers are dressed in their best. The old men, who feel the years slipping away and wish to hide the fact from would-be employers, dye their hair and straighten up their shoulders to appear young and more powerful. If they succeed in impressing, they are sure to obtain a couple of hundred francs more for their services than they would otherwise.

This year the auctions showed that the average hire price for a period of eight months has advanced from 200 to 300 francs over the previous year. Women as well as men are sold, although feminine labor brings only about half the price of male.

A first class laborer, sold on the auction block for eight months toil, is worth about $120 or $125, while second class workers, those who are slightly weak, old, or notoriously lazy, bring about $100 for the period. Master shepherds are worth about $85 for the period while the price for male farm cooks varies according to their local reputation for good cooking. Farm girls, even the prettiest, seldom hire for more than $55 or $60.

American Women Will Not Wear Corsets Nor Long Trailing Skirts, They Decide

By DOROTHY MAHONEY United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(UP)—When Little Julie Wachtel burst forth in indignation against return of the long skirts and the drawn-in waist line at a meeting of the Athletic Club of the Jersey City W. W. C. A. she had no idea she was starting a nation-wide movement, but such seems to be the case.

The other girls agreed with the opinion that "while the showing of the knee is sometimes ugly, there is surely some way of arriving at a happy medium, whereby the skirt will modestly conceal the knee but at the same time not prove an incumbrance."

Letters were addressed to some 2,000 W. W. C. A. clubs throughout the country, and Hazel Krantz, general secretary of the Jersey City branch told the United Press that they had "sure started something."

change style movement and are becoming active in a very definite way, according to Miss Krantz. "What we particularly abhor," said Miss Krantz, "is the return of corsets and the long unhealthy, incumbrance skirts. This change in style is not being brought about by any industrial or economic era, but merely by the dictates of Paris."

"The American women now have their independence and we intend to assert that independence. Just because Paris says we shall return to the 16-inch waistline and the ankle-length skirt, does not make it a fact. We American women intend to use our own judgment as to what we shall or shall not wear."

"When it comes to the pulling-in of the waistline plus the long skirts which sweep up the dust and dirt of the streets, we consider that the time has come to fight," she said. A beauty expert recommends yawning exercises. To be lovely, go to grand opera.

Says Orgatone Restored Brother's Health When Every Thing Else Had Failed

Mrs. Ethel Townsend, residing at 1320 Avenue A talks interestingly of the benefits her brother M. C. Townsend, has derived from Orgatone. In a conversation with an Orgatone representative a few days ago M. Townsend said:

"My brother suffered from stomach trouble and had no appetite in a general run-down condition. His food would not digest properly and caused him much distress. For the past several months he has not been able to eat the simplest kinds of food without suffering," he said. He was in a general run-down condition and got to the point where he had practically no weight at all. I can hardly understand how he lived he ate so little and he was nervous for a long time before he began taking Orgatone—he couldn't get a good night's sleep. He was tired and worn-out all the time and hardly felt like he could keep going.

"He has now taken three bottles of Orgatone and has improved wonderfully. He says he feels stronger and I can tell from the difference in his looks and the way he gets about that Orgatone has done a great work for him. His appetite is fine and he can just eat anything he wants and it doesn't hurt him one bit. The gas has stopped fermenting on his stomach and he looks like he has gained several pounds in weight. His nerves are in good shape and sleeps soundly every night and I can recommend Orgatone because it has restored his health when all other medicines failed to do him any good. A medicine that does so much for suffering people is worth recommending to the public and it's a pleasure for me to tell what I know about it."

No. 1 Baker Stands 1,200 Feet In Oil

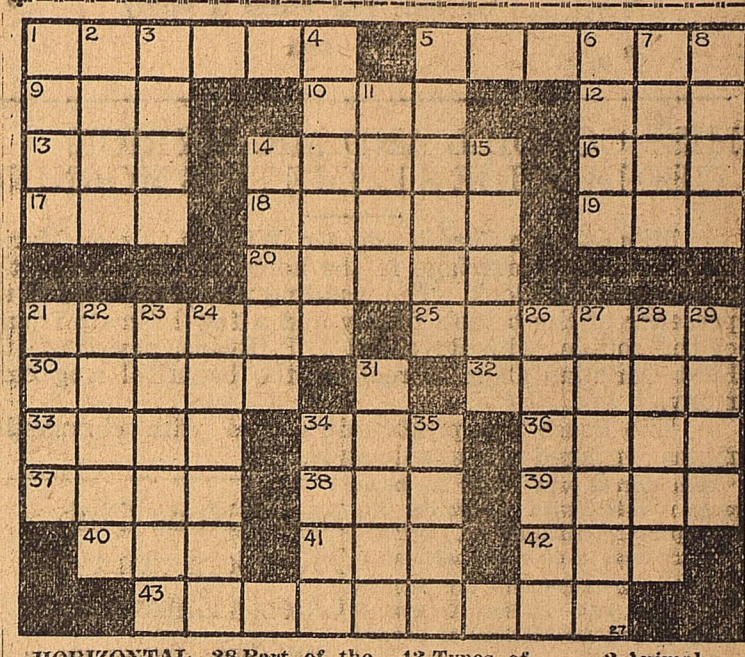

BIG SPRING.—Another producing oil well in the Phillips-Coffee pool of northern Glasscock county seemed assured this week as Kirby Oil company, Black Arrow Oil company and Atlantic Oil Producing company's No. 2 Baker was reported with 1,200 feet of oil standing in the hole from pay topped at 2,170 feet and drilled to 2,185 feet.

No. 2 Baker is 980 feet from the north line and 330 feet from the west line of section 23, block 33, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey and is an east offset to Lion Oil and Refining company's No. 3 Coffee in section 22. The well is also just south of the same interest's No. 1 Baker which rated a potential production of 800 barrels in production tests.

Drilling will probably continue in the well to a second pay usually found in the area, but operators had made no definite announcement concerning this development.

CAMP FIRES OF INVADING MARFA TEAM BURN ON THE HORIZON

Final Polish Put On TCU For Saturday Game With SMU

TEAM TAKES GREAT WORK-OUT THIS AFTERNOON IN ODESSA; MARFA EXPECTS WIN THURSDAY

With Marfa's circus tucked away for the night in Odessa, the bivouac fires of the enemy on the western horizon, and tomorrow only a day off, the tongues of this section of West Texas move more freely in speculation on the outcome of the Turkey Day game between the eastern and western football winners of District 8, Interscholastic Athletic league.

Marfa, heavy, fast as a whirlwind, untamed as a jungle creature, worked savagely on Odessa's gridiron this afternoon. The club does not know what it is to taper down for a scrap. Tough, leathery, strong, indomitable, these lads swept down the rock-strewn gridiron at Odessa as though a game were miles and days removed from their schedule.

Four College Men Killed At Crossing

CANTON, N. Y., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Four youths, believed to be St. Lawrence university students, enroute home for the Thanksgiving holidays, were killed at a crossing near here today when their car was struck by a train.

Three of the dead were identified to be Nelson Lobbell, Raymond Beardslee and W. B. Anderson.

An Ohio man, reciting poetry to a woman, shot her in the leg accidentally. She ought to be grateful for the relief, anyway.

Act Of Chess Davis And Group Knock 'Em For Loop Here; Company Is Good

Chess Davis, Dolly Taylor, Buddy Ryan and Joe Sarani, do their stuff in a manner quite different from the casual troupers, at the Grand theatre this week.

All of the act, cut down through illness of two members who did not reach Midland, is suggestive of "big time," which has been played by each.

The "original Chess" is one of those likeable fellows who is a product of the transition of the stage from the good old days to the present mechanical moment. He was an intimate friend of Raymond Hitchcock, knows more directors and producers on the West Coast than you can shake a stick at, and is a buddy of Will Rogers.

Dolly Taylor wears clothes in her act, can you believe it? And she is good. Surprising beauty and good stage appearance—and a' that. She can dance and sing—altogether a versatile little person.

Now Ryan is a dancer who knows his steps, and is a descendent of more dancers than the Duncan sisters. He brings the house down.

Joe Sarani is well known to the Midland radio public, his piano having tinkled successively over Dallas radio stations for nights in a row here.

The way the act went over has caused critics to say that the evolution from the good old stage troupe to the mechanical devices which are in such international usage is a sign of retrogression on the American theatre's offering.

SELL-OUT IN BIG STADIUM IS ASSURED

FORT WORTH, Nov. 27.—Coach Schmidt of Texas Christian University has been putting his men through intensive workouts this week in preparation for the Horned Frogs' last game of the season. Most of the workouts have consisted of scrimmage and dummy scrimmage against the freshmen, who have been drilled in S. M. U. plays. Although the first-year men have played their last game, eleven of them volunteered to come out and work against the varsity this last week of practice.

Coach Schmidt is not confining the scrimmage to work against S. M. U. passes, but it is conceded that this department of play is the Mustangs' strongest. The Morrison machine has always been noted for its sensational open style of play, and this year is no exception. The Ponies have also developed a strong running attack built around such linemen as Hammon, Saunders, and Powell, and such backs as Mason, Gilbert and Hopper.

Frogs Get Right The Horned Frogs have also been polishing up their own attack by running their plays at a defense similar to that used by the Mustangs. Now that Howard Grubbs is off the sick list, the Christians are again at full strength, and, barring injuries in practice, will go into the game Saturday in as good a condition as they have been in at any time this season. Their workouts in the early part of the week have been held in cold drizzly weather, but it is hoped that the sky will clear up the latter part of the week.

Additional seats have been added at each end of Clark Field, and from all indications there will be a crowd of more than 20,000 at the game. All tickets have been sold except some of those in the end zones, and those are expected to be taken long before the game.

LAMESA PRIMED FOR GAME WITH RALLS GRIDDERS

LAMESA, Nov. 27.—With the championship game of Class B, district two just around the corner, the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes report that the team as a whole has never seen better days, with each individual player in the pink of physical condition. The titular scrap between Ralls and the locals is marked on the calendar to take place here, Saturday, November 30. Coaches McCullum and Elm both state that the team is galloping through the preparatory maneuvers with grace and ease and plenty of speed. Signal work, tricky plays and tackling have occupied the training menu for the Tornadoes during the first part of the week.

Lamesa's opponent for the district championship of this section was decided at Floydada Monday when Ralls and Lockney met there in the semi-final tilt.

SOUTHERN METHODIST

Down here in the great sandy plains of the southwest, the Southern Methodist Mustangs are rearing and fighting for an untamed season.

When the Morrison-coached eleven runs into the Purple Toads of T. C. U. Saturday the S. M. U. outfit will have a chance to find whether the proverbial cockle burr is fastened under their saddle blankets or not.

Three ties loom against the background of the Mustangs this season, but no one can gainsay the fact all these games were different from those mother would want Little Rollo to play in. Howard Payne, the Nebraska bunch and Texas unicolm Powell, 183-pound center, is the outstanding performer. Powell was chosen All-Southwestern pivot man last fall and apparently has cinched the berth again this season. Dutch Winter, 206-pound fullback, truly is a wild horse let loose when he is handed the pigskin for a lunge into the line. He has played a tremendous part in the success of the Mustangs this year.

Southern Methodist encounters the Texas Christian eleven in Fort Worth November 30. Morrison is confident his fighting aggregation will go untamed by either of the remaining opponents, although those Frogs have won all their starts this year.

The Passing Years Cannot Silence The Spirit of Thanksgiving

Though the mode of living has greatly changed since the time of Plymouth Rock, the human heart is given to the same measure of thankfulness as the New England Pilgrims of long ago.

In its dispensations Providence is more varied and munificent now than then, and there are many good things available to us that were unknown to the forefathers. This of itself increases our blessings, and makes our Thanksgiving Day all the more inspirational.
