It is a fine of $1 faced by all motorists who leave their cars parked longer than two hours on downtown streets.

"Too many folks think we do not mean it," John Lemond, Chief of Police, explained, "but every time we are compelled to send Miss Woods after them, the fine will be doubled."

FUNERAL OF JUDGE GILMORE HELD EARLY THIS AFTERNOON

University Rejects Bids On Andrews County Leases

With only two bidders for leases on University land in block 14 Andrews county, the Texas-Pacific Coal and Oil Co., and the George F. Getty Petroleum company, both of Fort Worth, the lease board rejected all bids after 45 minutes consideration Tuesday.

Bids, given in detail in yesterday's Reporter-Telegram, offered bonuses of from $10 to $50 an acre on seven of the 26 tracts advertised for sale.

The land offered for sale was from one to five miles south of the Deep Rock well in Andrews county, which is regarded as the discovery well of a new pool.

Lack of bidders at a sale which should ordinarily produce offers of several hundred thousand dollars in cash bonuses for the University permanent land is attributed to the demand of the lease board for a one-eighth royalty, instead of the one-tenth which is universally used in the oil business, except in isolated instances where peculiar circumstances govern—as for instance the Texas Gulf Coast where single acres out of the small pools have shown recoveries of above 1,000,000 barrels per acre, contrasted with smaller recoveries which are the rule in West Texas.

"Too Much for Traffic" Oil producers have freely stated since the Andrews land was offered for sale with a sixth royalty it was "more than the traffic could bear." They have expressed themselves as feeling that if the one-sixth royalty is paid the University would be established throughout the oil business, and would hit the producing branch of the industry just as much a blow as if the gross production tax was increased from 2 to more than 6 per cent. Leading independents have declared that this would complete the ruin of the oil producer. No information was offered by members of the board as to when the land would be reoffered for sale.

Jailed Following Shooting At Dance DALLAS, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Carl Chance was held in jail today pending the filing of charges in connection with the fatal shooting of Ray Chandler last night.

The bullet struck Chandler in a scuffle over a pistol, causing his death. Fifteen couples were in the party. The trouble with Chance was unaccountable. Chandler was found dying in a woman's arms upon the arrival of officers.

Parole For Cook Is Recommended

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 22.—(UP)—The Kansas City Journal and Post said today that the federal parole board "acted favorably" upon the parole of Dr. Frederick Cook, erstwhile Arctic explorer who is serving a 14-year sentence in Leavenworth prison for misuse of the mails.

The paper said that the board "has recommended to Attorney General Mitchell that Cook be paroled."

NAVAL POWERS TO RE-CONVENE IN MORNING MEETING

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The success or failure of the London naval conference will depend to a great extent on the attitudes of France and Italy.

The powers meet Thursday morning as a continuation of the meeting left off Tuesday, when the British king addressed the plenipotentiaries of the nations.

Some sort of compromises will be necessary if the conference is to come to agreement.

The French are prepared to make demands to which England and the United States will find it extremely hard to agree; and Italy, in turn, is ready to outline a program that will make the French emit loud cries of protest.

France has three main demands: First, that the conference's decisions will not be final, but will be merely preparatory for the League of Nations general disarmament conference, at which the whole question of disarmament by air, sea and land will be discussed.

Second, that the abolition of a larger number of cruisers than the 5-5-3-1.75 battleship ratio accepted at the Washington conference would allow.

Third, that the abolition of the submarine must not even be considered.

The Italian attitude is not quite so plain, but it seems apparent that it will consist of two points: First, that the Italians will be willing to join America and England in a move for the total abolition of the submarine.

Second, that Italy must have naval parity with France.

In these five points there is enough material to tax the best brains in the conference to the utmost.

The first French demand will undoubtedly be unacceptable to the United States, in view of the United States' abhorrence of cooperation with the league.

The second French demand will not go down well with either the United States or England, especially England.

The third French demand, of course, cuts squarely across the (See NAVAL POWERS, on page 6)

Found Dead in Office Chair Tuesday Afternoon

Funeral services for City Court Judge J. M. Gilmore were held under the auspices of the Masonic order this afternoon at 2:30, at the residence of the family at 605 North Loraine street. The city official died of heart failure late Tuesday afternoon, at his desk.

The Midland lodge No. 623 A. F. & A. M. had charge of the service. The Rev. George E. Brown, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated.

Palbearers were: Percy J. Mims, Ralph Barron, Fred Middleton, D. L. B. Pemberton, M. D. Johnson, and W. H. Williams.

Relatives Here Among out-of-town people to attend the funeral services and ride in the procession to Fairview cemetery, where the body was interred, were Will Orenbaum, brother of Mrs. Gilmore, and his family, Big Spring; Mrs. Clara Canteloni, sister of Mrs. Gilmore, Lubbock; and H. L. Cantaloni, Lubbock, nephew of Mrs. Gilmore.

An inquest was held soon after the body was found by J. C. Hudson, who rushed to Judge Gilmore's office following information supplied by a youth named Basham who said he looked through the front door of the judge's office and saw "the judge's face black resting forward on his knees."

Inquest Conducted County Judge M. R. Hill, who conducted the inquest over Judge Gilmore, who has conducted such inquests in the past, pronounced death due to "natural causes."

Hudson said he went to the office of Judge Gilmore immediately upon being notified by Basham and that the judge's face was still warm. He said it must have been about 4:30 when he went into the office. Death could not have been more than 15 minutes before, he believes.

No One With Him He called Dr. W. E. Ryan who made an examination and pronounced Judge Gilmore dead.

The last persons to see Judge Gilmore alive were E. B. Patterson, of the water department, and another man who was with him. The two passed the city judge's office about 3:30 and observed through a window that the judge was coughing. Each remarked on the matter.

Judge Gilmore lived at 606 North Loraine street with his wife. He had been in Midland for almost 20 years, friends at the residence following the death said. He had worked for the city in various capacities. Formerly he had done interior decorating and painting.

Held Various Offices He was a bookkeeper in the city hall for a time, these friends said. He was made mayor, then city judge. He was justice of the peace and coroner at the time of death, and was a candidate with County Judge M. R. Hill and C. C. Watson for the office of county judge.

Judge Gilmore was a devout member of the First Christian church, a 32nd degree Mason, being secretary of the Blue lodge chapter and council.

Dr. John B. Thomas, who has been Judge Gilmore's physician for years, said the judge had had no heart attacks in the past.

There are no survivors in the immediate family, but there is a niece and two nephews in the north.

Coyote Chorus To Be Heard No More

Coyotes by the scores are about to yelp their last yelp in Midland County.

Representatives of the U. S. Biological Survey, department of predatory animal control, are in Midland to begin poisoning operations. They will start work first on the Hutt ranch. Other ranchers who have already signed for the poisoning work are: T. O. Midkiff and Billy Bryant.

The poisoning is done at no cost to the land owner except for bait. The bait costs about 25 cents per section. W. D. Fundebunk and F. A. Hammond are doing the work here for the government.

They want to get in touch with all ranchers who have coyotes. Ranchers who wish to get the free service of the government in this work may have their arrangements made through the Midland chamber of commerce or County Agent Frank Wendt.

COUNTRY CLUB TO VOTE ON PLAN TO CHANGE BY-LAWS

Chairmen for standing committees were appointed at the directors meeting of the Midland Country Club Tuesday night by the president, J. B. Wilkinson, on motions passed by the directors.

As a result, Elliott F. Cowden is chairman of the entertainment committee for the year, Dr. W. G. Whitehouse heads the house committee, W. S. Hill is chairman of the building and grounds committee, and Harry Tolbert is head of the greens and sports committee.

Following the recent action of stock holders in voting to exclude all non-members from the golf links, it was voted to hold another stock holders meeting on Friday, January 31, at 7:30 p. m. in the club house, at which time an amendment to the by-laws will be proposed and voted on, regulating possible use of the golf links by temporary members.

Letters to the stock holders will be mailed within the next few days, according to Bert Ross, secretary giving in detail the plan to be voted on, and all stock holders are asked to be present at the meeting or to send in proxies to the secretary.

Community Chest To Be Espoused Here

A move is on foot among charitable organizations of the city to establish a community chest fund to carry on in an efficient way the work among the poor; it was brought out at the meeting of the Lions today at noon in the Hotel Scharbauer dining room.

If plans work out, the Lions and Rotary clubs, combined with the charitable organizations of the various churches and the city, will establish a permanent fund, and employ a capable person to take care of all phases of the work. A fund of that sort is badly needed in Midland, according to the Lions.

A committee was appointed to look into the possibilities of the matter.

Judge Caldwell gave the principal address at today's luncheon, bringing out as his main theme the ethics of Lionism.

President M. C. Ulmer expressed the regret of the club at the loss of Judge Gilmore as a member, and appointed a committee to draft a resolution of regret. This committee was composed of Judge J. M. Caldwell, Claude Crane and Homer Rowe.

Another committee, composed of Homer Rowe, John Hix, Harry McClintic and W. Edward Lee, was appointed to attend the funeral of Judge Gilmore today as club representatives.

TRAGEDY OCCURRED IN OHIO

Believe Driver Of Bus Failed To Hear Train

CLEVELAND, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A crash between a school bus and a fast mail train cost the lives of at least nine small school children and a bus driver near here today. Three children were injured, and two of them died after being rushed to a hospital in ambulances which had been rushed to the scene from Berea.

The dead are Don Taylor, driver, William Davidson, 10, Rita, 9, Dorothy 11 and Vincent Zeltenski, 9; Vernon Davidson, 7, Evelyn Kaltenback, 7, Jacob Walter, 12, and Juanita Walters 9.

The train struck the bus in the middle, scattering bodies and wreckage along the track.

The crash was the fourth big tragedy in Ohio within three weeks.

INVESTIGATION MADE

BEREA, Ohio, Jan. 22.—(UP)—County prosecutor Ray Miller opened the investigation and sent three investigators with instructions to gather photographs and all evidence of wreckage from the un-cleared bus. The windows were covered with frozen moisture.

It is believed that John Taylor, driver, failed to hear the fier. The crossing is guarded by only a wood warning sign.

John Hand, engineer, saw the bus too late, and his brakes screamed vainly.

MAY REQUIRE ALL WEEK TO SELECT BRADY CASE JURY

AUSTIN, January 22.—(AP)—The theory that all the week will be required to select the jury to try John Brady for murder was concurred in today by Judge J. D. Moore.

Scores of witnesses who reappeared, after being sent home Monday, were dismissed until Monday morning.

Brady remained, along with his wife in jail. G. B. Highsmith, father of Leliah Highsmith, whom Brady is accused of slaying November 9, walked the streets, keeping his own counsel.

The jurors selected thus far, W. L. Wright, J. R. Keltner and A. A. Mohley, were together in the court house room.

Judge J. D. Moore said that if the new venire of 200, ordered for the trial, is exhausted without a jury being obtained, "We'll keep on calling them."

OUR POLITICAL GROUPINGS

The editor of Collier's Magazine sat down the other day to find out how many political parties we really have in the United States today. He made out a list something like this:

Progressive Republicans, Grandy Republicans, the Larger-Minded Republicans, the Hoover Republicans, the Southern Democrats, the Al Smith Democrats, the Western Progressive Democrats, the Democratic-Progressive-Republican Coalition Party—

And then he quit in despair.

Probably you can think of three or four more classifications; and the matter is complicated by the fact that some people belong to two or three of these groupings at once.

The whole situation emphasizes anew our need for a new political alignment. If the present chaotic situation in the Senate helps to bring such a thing about we shall all be better off.

CLOSING A SPEAKEASY

Here's a sidelight on prohibition that probably doesn't prove anything to speak of, either way, but that is rather interesting nevertheless.

Cleveland recently had a big garment-workers' strike. Some 5000 men and women were called out, and extra details of police were on duty patrolling the streets where the factories were located.

It happened that there was a certain speakeasy near one of the big factories. After two days of the strike the proprietor of this speakeasy closed up. There were too many police around.

But don't rush to conclusions. He wasn't afraid of being pinched. You see, these extra details of police got to dropping in on him and drinking his liquor—the weather was very raw—and of course he didn't dare charge them anything for what they drank. So his profits vanished and he closed, to reopen when the strike should be settled.

As we say, that probably doesn't mean a thing. But isn't it interesting?

THE TRAGEDY OF A MISTAKE

No tragedy in years has been more startling than the one reported recently from Athens, where 40 children were blinded when attendants in an eye clinic injected a powerful acid into their eyes by mistake.

"By mistake"—those two words are what makes this tragedy especially poignant. One can imagine the youngsters, going to the clinic to have their eyes tested, some of them gaily expecting to be relieved of defects that has hampered their sight—suddenly, inexplicably, made blind for life.

A simple mistake can cause more misery in this world than outright malice. The world has grown so complicated that a mistake can be frightful in its consequences. The tools that we use have sharp edges. Misused, they can be more dangerous than anything less civilized ages ever knew.

Taking Orders From the Rear Seat!

WASHINGTON LETTER

Despite All the Uproar About Prohibition, It Is Becoming Apparent That Congress May Ditch Practically All of President Hoover's Program for Better Enforcement.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Such sincerity as there may be in Congress is about to be tested in its action on the administration's new prohibition enforcement program. Up to the time this program was presented by the president, the National Commission on Law Observation and Enforcement, the attorney general and the secretary of the treasury, everyone here appeared so rabid or panic-stricken on the subject that any such program presented seemed rather certain to be made into law as soon as Congress could jam it through. The dry majorities in both houses are so enormous that it is a platitude in Washington that the dries can have anything they want.

Program May Fail
And yet, on Capitol Hill, one encounters a feeling of grave doubt as to whether more than one of the administration's major recommendations will be enacted during this long session of Congress. That one is the purely administrative matter of transferring control of enforcement from the Treasury to the Department of Justice. The proposal is an old one and there is no very good reason why it should not have been acted upon years ago.

But after all the recent orgy of ballyhoo one finds some of the staunchest and most important Anti-Saloon League men in Congress doubting seriously whether any other legislative action will be taken on prohibition in the near future.

The shouting and the tumult are dying down and it has to be proved whether all the noise meant very much. The government has spent 10 years proving that prohibition can be enforced as well as other laws only by extraordinary drastic measures. There are those who think that the recommendations before Congress are very far from sufficiently drastic. Bishop Cannon has suggested a $200,000,000 appropriation and Dr. Clarence True Wilson of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals recently favored use of the army and the navy to enforce the law. But here you have Congress shying away even from a few changes in administrative detail and court procedure.

The important angle is that even some of the most enthusiastic dries are openly objecting to the merits of the proposals, especially in the Senate. The commission's recommendations for the trying of many violations before the United States commissioners has come in for especially hard knocks, with much worry about the danger of limiting the right for trial by jury. But this proposal is of great importance, for Commissioner Doran himself has said that it won't do any good to hire more prohibition agents, until the courts are speeded up.

Even the proposal to transfer enforcement from Treasury to Justice will encounter a jam in the Senate of greater or lesser significance. The administration and the commission recommended retaining industrial alcohol control in the Treasury, but Senator Borah and others who hold that alcohol diversion constitutes a grave problem insist that such control also be shifted to the Justice Department.

The idea of unifying border patrols under the Coast Guard is op-

FARES CUT ON AIRLINE HERE; LINE NOW COMPETES WITH RAILROAD PRICE

Wanna go places and see things from an altitude of several thousand feet, speeding along at 100 miles an hour as you do so, and keep away from traffic noises, dust and other nerve-racking influences the while?

If so, you may go by plane just as cheaply as you would yesterday have gone by rail.

S-A-T, largest subsidiary of Aviation corporation, and which flies planes to Midland from east and west each day, announces effective this morning passenger fares reduced to 5 1-2 cents per air mile between all points on systems it controls.

Here is what you would pay to fly from Midland to other points over the country: To Big Spring, $2.50, Abilene $8.03, Breckenridge $10.78, Dallas $17.49, El Paso $14.41, Fort Worth $15.79, Houston $29.49, Sweetwater $5.60 and to Waco $20.41.

The Aviation corporation can take you any place in America, practically. And fares over its various subsidiaries are correspondingly out. "Fare and not fear" has cut down air traffic, according to Bob Smith, one of the traffic men of posed by those who dislike to make the guard an out-and-out enforcement agency, including the Coast Guard itself, which has always disliked being known as the "dry navy." The proposal to convert policemen into federal prohibition agents is also opposed by some dries, strangely enough, by reason of dislike for encroachment of federal bureaucracy and objection to clothing cops with too much power.

Somewhat it is always easier to pass drastic legislation after an election. Many Republicans from wet states much prefer enacting these proposals, if at all, after the congressional elections. Not only would that procedure be less dangerous to the thin, paper Republican majority in the Senate; it would also give everyone a chance to feel out the sentiment of the country.

Tired Hitch Hiker Catches Plane Ride

Red Pelly was not only ambitious, but utilized a well-rounded degree of self confidence when he hit Midland Sunday bound for El Paso.

The 16-year-old boy, fatherless and motherless, wanted to get to the border city so that he could get employment. He has relatives there, but preferred not to receive aid in his trip.

Lee Jones was driving to the airport. A red-headed trichin accosted him and asked for a ride to El Paso. "But that will help a lot," the boy said when told Jones only planned to drive eight miles. "Do many planes stop here? All right, that settles it; I'll just catch a ride through the air. I never went up, but I can fix it."

And he did "fix it", even while the onlookers at the port laughed at the chance.

Approaching the pilot of a small biplane, the boy simply crawled into a cockpit of the ship and announced his readiness to fly to the west. The pilot's face showed successively surprise, more surprise and finally a conviction that resolved itself into relieved laughter. He had a mechanic spin his propeller and the two took off.

Red waved to the crowd as the ship banked over the field hangar.

Until a few days ago, I always thought the letter "X" was used to mark the spot where the body was found, but I understand the Rotary club is planning to start tomorrow on a Friend X movement.

When a Rotarian gets a letter signed Friend X it will be a little like one signed with the Black Hand or three K's, the exact identity of the sender will not be revealed. Look's like somebody is going to have some fun.

Wish I was a Rotarian. I would write letters to a bunch of fellows in the club, signing all of the letters Friend X, and would get a lot of dope off my chest. For instance, Aubrey Legg, I would tell him like Tanlac Strange did, that he is such an electrical wizard that his very suit of clothes is charged.

And then I would write to Percy Mims, as follows, "Big John, if you don't leave the price of a cup of coffee in the alley, 10 steps due south and west from your back office window, I'll oppose you for alderman at the next election, signed, Friend X."

I would write to Doc Pemberton and say, "Doc, you may not give me a pain in the neck, but I'd hate to let you pull my teeth."

To John Howe I would write, "As a plumber you are a good lecturer on travels in Mexico." But, I forgot, the editor did say that John put him in a plumbing job five years ago that stayed plumber, and he has been able to take his bath every Saturday night through the cold weather.

I don't know how this Friend X business will work out, but if I was a Rotarian I would take advantage of the opportunity to write letters to the members without signing my name. It wouldn't surprise me if Malcolm Meek takes some mean cracks at Jim Finlayson now that he has a chance. Jim is so big that Malcolm hasn't been telling him

Importer Says This Theory Of Parrots Having Fever Is The Bunk—Asks Proof

BROWNSVILLE, Tex.—(P)—To W. A. "Snake" King, bird and animal importer, "there's nothing to the parrot fever."

"I know parrots," he said. "Each year I import several thousand. I never heard of a case of parrot fever. There isn't any such thing as a disease peculiar to parrots."

"In recent years we have made all sorts of tests with them—we have given them every sort of food, even bad food, and yet they develop no illness. Why, they'll even eat sticks."

"Now it is known that down in the wilds of Brazil and elsewhere in South America there are some deadly poisonous plants. If a parrot has brought death to someone in Europe or in this country, it was not because the parrot was suffering itself from some strange and horrible illness on which parrots have a copyright. It was because on its claws it brought the poison of some of these plants."

He challenged the public health service.

"I defy them," said the importer, "to show me a real case of what they call parrot fever. I will gamble that it is a case of claw or bill poisoning—something which may result to the claw of a lion or any animal or bird sometimes."

"I would also gamble that if these federal health men ran across the same case of parrot fever four months from now they would not know what it was."

Fake Peddlers Not Only In Midland

Peddlers who deceive people through high-powered sales talks and who fool people on various advertising schemes, such as road maps, church and baseball calendars, time tables, etc., are working in East Texas as well as at Midland. Here is what a Dallas News editorial says about these fake peddlers:

Complaint comes from Mount Pleasant in the form of a letter from the chamber of commerce at that place, and to the effect that that section of Texas is being besieged by gentlemen with advertising schemes of questionable value. These gentlemen are not crooks, as The News gathers from information at hand, but they have a natural and hearty interest in their own welfare financially, and considerably less interest in making sure that Mount Pleasant and other towns get value received.

The experience in such matters is that enterprises of the sort drift naturally to those places where business conditions are best. That probably accounts for Mount Pleasant's acquiring so numerous a delegation in advertising. And the business men of Mount Pleasant will doubtless be equal to the occasion and able to cope with these alluring offers.

Advertising is worth while in Mount Pleasant and other towns thereabout. But Mount Pleasant has her own media of advertising, and the fact that these have prospered through the years is at once evidence of their service and a guarantee that they will still be there when time comes to check up on results obtained. It is an unpleasant but highly worth-while duty of chamber of commerce officials to discourage fly-by-night schemes for carrying money out of town with no adequate return to the donors of the money. And in this duty they should have the co-operation and support of local business men.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Mrs. Ratliff is getting along splendidly and will have to remain in the hospital only a few days.

Big Spring Grid Field To Be Moved

BIG SPRING.—The location of the football field will be moved to the high school grounds due to a decision reached here in a meeting between the school board and two committees, representing the athletic council and the chamber of commerce. The bleachers erected on the old field will be torn down and moved to the new location, said Shine Phillips, chairman of the athletic council. Other subjects discussed at the joint meeting were crowded housing conditions existing in Big Spring public school buildings, and immediate relief urged by Superintendent Blankenship and the beautification of the high school grounds.

Of the 28,805 "notable living men and women of the United States" named in "Who's Who" in America (1928-29), men of science comprise 30.4 per cent, lawyers 15.2 per cent, and physicians and surgeons 7.3 per cent.

Moisture Makes The Plains Expect Crop

LAMESA.—Indications at present are that the lower South Plains will see an excellent crop year in 1930, following the recent moisture that has been soaking into the soil. Snow and sleet from varying depths of from three to five inches has melted and seasoned the ground, insuring a healthy cotton and feed crop. January has received more moisture than usual this year, in the opinion of farmers who are preparing ground early for an early planting.

FONDUES? ANYBODY CAN MAKE THEM BY THESE NEW METHODS

Fondues are "perfect" dishes because you can have most of the nutrition elements in them and they are also delicious for-luncheon or supper. Those who have hesitated to serve them need no longer be afraid, because the University of Minnesota home economists have developed some simple methods which any cook can use.

moderate oven (375 degrees F) about 40 minutes. Test by inserting sharp knife in center—it will come out clean when done. Serve immediately. (If baked in individual cups, bake for a shorter period—20 to 25 minutes.)

One egg may be omitted in this recipe and 1-2 teaspoon baking powder added. This recipe makes 5 servings.

Variations Cheese Fondue—To the fourth-ration recipe add 1 cup grated cheese after the egg yolks are added. Cook slowly until cheese is melted and the eggs are thickened.

Vegetable Fondue—Add 1 1-2 cups finely-chopped spinach or carrots (chopped fine or diced in very small pieces) or other vegetable just before the egg whites are added. If corn is used it need not be chopped. All vegetables should be as dry as possible as too much liquid will tend to make the fondue soggy.

Fish Fondue—Add 1 1-2 cups cooked codfish just before the egg whites are added. Salmon, lobster, or any other cooked fish may be used, but do not shred it into very fine pieces.

Vet Destitute; All Buddies Will Help

A man who has three children, has lost his wife, and is destitute, is the object of a subscription fund being raised by the American Legion. The man fought in the American expeditionary force but has suffered the loss of his wife, cannot find work, and is stranded in Midland without food for himself and three small children.

The Legion is asking each of its members to pay 25 cents into a fund which will tide the man over until warmer weather will allow him to continue work on the court house, where he was engaged before cold weather forced discontinuance of work there.

The man is at a tourist camp here. He has been in Midland for only four or five days. Contributions should be made to the financial secretary of the legion. Women's clubs have bought groceries for the man and his children, a legionaire said.

EIGHTS AND SOUNDS OF DERBY IN FILM

On account of its human quality and its numerous thrill, "A Song of Kentucky," Fox Movietone all talking romantic comedy drama, now playing at the Ritz Theatre, is one of the most vitally interesting pictures to reach the screen in a long time. It is a story of love and intrigue and has a race track background. Joe Wagstaff, who, until recently, was prominent in New York musical comedy, and Lois Moran, beautiful and talented screen star, are co-featured in the leading roles.

One of the high spots in the production is the actual running of the 1929 Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, Louisville. These special scenes were made by Lewis Seiler, the director, his assistants and the principals at the historic course.

Supporting Wagstaff and Miss Moran is a cast of favorites that includes Dorothy Burgess, Douglas Gilmore, Hedda Hopper, Herman Bing and Edwards Davis.

Mrs. F. W. McGuire of Odessa was a Midland shopper yesterday.

Harry Tolbert of Midland is in Dallas attending the National Cleaners and Dyers convention.

Miss Ruby Burnett was in Midland a short while this morning enroute to Peecos from her home in Big Spring.

Miss Rose Strickland has returned from Coleman where she has been visiting her father, who is ill.

Fred Snyder of Lubbock is a visitor in Midland today.

Miss Bertha Lewis, formerly of Midland, has recently moved to Amarillo.

casting office. As it was I got a good but small part in "Words and Music." What counted even more than that, however, was that I got a start in pictures.

Frances started her study of dramatics when a senior at Hyde Park High School in Chicago. When she first enrolled in the class, according to her own story, she was afraid to even speak lines before the other students. But by the time the term ended, also according to her own story, she would do anything from standing on her head to delivering an eulogy on Shakespeare.

Then she entered the University of Chicago and continued her study of dramatics for another two years. Then she and her mother came back to Los Angeles, Frances' native city.

"With the amount of time I had spent studying dramatics, I thought I should be able to get somewhere in pictures," declared the actress. "I already have told you how I got my start and that really is the most exciting part of my career to date. I haven't advanced very fast but I am not the least bit discouraged. I am learning something new every day I work and want to keep on doing just that for some time yet.

"To be truthful, I don't want a big break yet. Of course, I want to be a star some day but I want enough background to be able to hold my own once I start doing big things. I have seen too many of these overnight stars who played in one or two pictures because they happened to be of the particular type desired and then dropped from sight completely. If I ever do reach the top, I want to stay there for a while."

This tale of Frances could scarcely be termed a Cinderella yarn. She hasn't blossomed forth sufficiently for that yet. It is more of the story of a girl with ambitions and ability who has set a goal for herself and is exerting every effort to reach it.

In our opinion the electric lights are just a step ahead of her. And apparently Fox executives have similar ideas. At least just before we wandered on to the set where she is working in "Movietone Politics of 1930," we heard it whispered about that she soon is to be put under contract.

And, we might add, contracts aren't being handed out by the big studios to girls who have been in the show business only six months unless they have something.

WELL, IT'S HERE

LAREDO, Tex.—(P)—The Laredo district's peach, pear, plum, apricot, almond and other trees are covered with blossoms.

The blossoms began to appear following the light rains and sunshine at the beginning of January.

None of the citrus fruit trees are in blossom, but if warm weather and sunshine follows a good rain they, too, will be putting out blossoms. Should a hard freeze come between now and the beginning of springtime and premature blossoms succumb to the cold and prove detrimental to the production of the trees for the coming season.

Extra—A College Girl Acts In "College Girl" Films!

Frances Dee

BY DAN THOMAS NEA Service Writer HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—She heard that the Fox studio was about to start work on a college picture, so Frances Dee breezed over and applied for a job. And, strangely enough, she got it. That was last July. Today the pretty co-ed has advanced to the point where she is ready to make the best of the first real break that comes her way. "I didn't know a thing about pictures then," Frances laughed as she recalled the first trip to a film studio. "A friend told me that Fox was getting ready to start a college picture so I thought that since I had been a college student, it would be easy to get a job. I didn't know then that most of the movie college girls had never even been through high school. "Perhaps it was best for me that I was ignorant, because otherwise I never would have gone near that

A tip . . . from Andrew Carnegie

ASKED to explain his phenomenal success, Andrew Carnegie blandly attributed it to his ability to get men to work for him who knew more than he did.

And that's a formula for success. Nobody who is really successful does all the work himself. He employs other people's minds and efforts.

Do you do the same in the intricate business of running your home and taking care of your family? You can, quite easily.

You can employ specialists in diet; you can serve the master dishes of famous chefs; you can have the advice of style authorities in selecting your clothes, or whole electrical laboratories in buying household appliances, by reading the advertisements.

All the newest knowledge—knowledge millions of dollars and years of effort have won—is contained in the advertisements.

If you will use the advertisements in this newspaper as Andrew Carnegie used men who knew more than he did, every dollar you spend will be spent wisely, economically, and will return full measure of satisfaction. That's the way to be a success in the greatest business in the world—making a home.

It pays to read the advertisements

OPPONENT FOR BASQUE WOOD-CHOPPER TO BE SELECTED FRIDAY

CROP OF FIGHTERS PREPOSSING IN NO DEGREE

(Associated Press)
 BOSTON, Jan. 22.—Whether it will be Jimmy Maloney, South Boston ring, giant or Armand Emanuel, Pacific coast heavyweight, who will meet Paulino Uzcudun, on the same card with Jack Sharkey and Phil Scott at Miami next month, will be decided at the Boston garden on the night of January 24.

The Maloney-Emanuel bout is expected to pack the garden with the biggest crowd this season and draw the attention of fistic fans throughout this country. This bout looms up as one of the most interesting heavyweight matches Hub fans have seen for some time.

Emanuel Optimistic
 Emanuel, 22-year-old heavyweight flash, has always insisted that he could take the measure of the South Boston heavyweight and in his lone appearance in Boston, when he decisively defeated Jack Gagnon, he greatly impressed the fans. The coast boy, one of the cleverest heavyweights in the ring today, is reported to be an exact duplicate of Tommy Loughran, and Maloney has always diplomatically dodged a bout with the Philadelphia ring star.

Maloney, determined to break the jinx that has been following him when pitted against opponents with dangerous left hands, on the other hand is equally sure of making short work of the Californian. At his Wamest camp, Jimmy is ironing out his one weakness, that of being more or less a target for a left hook. Emanuel has proven to Bostonians that his left hook is loaded with dynamite.

Maloney Works Hard
 Maloney is working out twice daily in preparation for the bout and does not intend to allow Emanuel to block his way to meeting the Spanish woodchopper at Miami. Marty Gallagher, Washington heavyweight, Jack Dorval and Tom Kirby are among Maloney's sparring partners. In his last bout here with K. O. Christner, Maloney showed great advantage when he defeated the rubber tire man from Akron, Ohio, over the ten round route.

With Emanuel's speed and cleverness, plenty of action is looked for when they meet. Maloney will no doubt enter the ring as a favorite due to his big following in this city, although there is a feeling in local boxing circles that there may be an upset.

Naval Powers

Anglo-American desire to do away with the submarine.

Demands Vary Widely
 The first Italian demand, on the other hand, lines Italy and France up on opposite sides of the fence; and the second Italian demand is sure to bring sharp opposition from France. The second Italian demand, incidentally, will not be highly acceptable to Italy, either.

Of the three French demands, the most cherished is the last. It is a curious fact that whereas the French Parliament, the French press and the French public are deeply enamored of the submarine as the country's best naval weapon, French naval strategists are looking upon it with a cool eye. Admiral Castex, the leading French naval tactician, recently published a book declaring that the submarine is utterly unable to dispute supremacy with the surface ship, and French naval leaders generally share his views.

TCU INVADERS THE SOUTH IN SEARCH OF WARM WEATHER

FORT WORTH.—The Texas Christian University Horned Frogs, working hard for their first invasion into South Texas, have been handicapped this week by the extremely cold weather. Although the basketball gym, where their daily workouts are held, is heated from morning till night, the zero weather has made it hard for Coach Francis A. Schmidt to keep his cagers "hot."

Daily Market Report

The cotton market continues with marked time. Trading was very limited with price changes during the morning session extremely narrow. While there appears to be an underlying bearish sentiment, pressure is restricted by what possible action may develop from federal agricultural bodies recently organized. Official ginning figures released on opening Thursday also tend to check trading. Cables came as expected. Market opening steady, unchanged to 7 higher. March, New York selling at 17.38, May 17.60, July 17.73, or 4 to 5 points net higher during initial trading. During remainder morning range of only 2 to 3 points. Noon calls were quiet but steady 1 to 3 points net higher.

FORT WORTH, Tex.—(P)—Establishment of a new student loan fund at Texas A. & M. Rotarians tomorrow will hear a program by the club fellowship committee, and at this luncheon there will be inaugurated the Friend X plan. Under the friend X plan, each Rotarian will be a "good Samaritan," to some other member of the club for a period of five months or the name Friend X, but his real identity will not be known until the five month period is up.

Good deeds will then be described by each Rotarian and the name of Friend X for each member will be made public. Questionnaires were mailed to each member to secure information for use in the Friend X program, and cards were filled out by the president's secretary and filed in his office.

BIG SPRING LETS CONTRACT FOR A 37 MILE GAS LINE

BIG SPRING, Texas, Jan. 22.—(P)—Contract for construction of a 37 mile, 8-inch gas line from Big Spring to the South Plains Pipe Line Company's 10-inch main has been executed between the Consumers Natural Gas and Power Company and F. G. Hoffman and Company of Dallas, the successful bidder. Cost of construction will be more than $250,000.

For two years since Big Spring started its unprecedented growth the gas supply has been inadequate and during the recent record cold wave the undersupply reached an acute point. The increased supply will be sufficient to serve a city many times larger than Big Spring. It will come direct from the Panhandle gas fields near Amarillo.

But the French are continuing to build submarines; their figures indicate that they already have the strongest submarine flotilla in the world. French submarine tonnage is listed at 82,249, with the United States second with 80,979 tons; furthermore, the French submarines, on the average, are larger and more powerful than the American subs.

France now has the world's greatest army and the world's greatest military air forces. Obviously, this wealth of armaments is not aimed at either the United States or Japan. The only other possible enemies for France are Germany, England and Italy. Anglo-French relations are good; and Germany has almost no army, although her navy is growing and she has a great fleet of commercial planes. But Italy—well, Franco-Italian rivalry may prove a big stumbling block for the conference.

The French insist they must have many cruisers and submarines to protect their Mediterranean communications with their vast empire in North Africa, whence they draw food, raw materials and army recruits. They also point out that France has a large and growing merchant marine which needs protection.

On the other hand, the Italians also have an African empire; less large and less well-populated than France's but important nevertheless. And the Italians—who like the French, openly discuss the prospects for a Franco-Italian war—insist that their navy must be equal to the French navy, so that Italy cannot be cut off from her African communications.

Need Two Fleets, Says France
 But France points out that this is impossible. The French, in fact, claim that they really need two fleets; one to safeguard their interests in the Mediterranean, one to look after their interests and shipping in the Atlantic and the English channel. If French and Italian naval strengths were exactly equal, they say, Italy would really be the stronger, because part of the French force would have to be kept out on the high seas. So France has been suggesting that the Italian navy be kept exactly equal to the French Mediterranean fleet.

To Italy, however, this kind of equality would be quite unacceptable. The Italians are quick to point out that in case of war France could quickly bring in her Atlantic fleet and have a considerable superiority. They also say that they have a merchant marine that is rapidly growing in size and importance, and that in case of war they would have to keep the sea lanes open for the hundreds of thousands of Italians in Brazil, the United States and elsewhere who would come home to fight.

Allied With Others
 Nor is this all. France and Italy are jealous of each other's African empires, and they are at cross purposes in the Balkans. France has made allies of Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania; Italy has cultivated the friendship of Bulgaria and Hungary, and has made Albania a firm Italian ally. Albania, incidentally, is starting to build a navy, which in case of war could be counted in with the Italian forces.

All of these issues will have to be threshed out at the London conference before a five-power agreement can be reached. This outline indicates how involved a problem the conferees face.

According to the National Geographic Society, Fodwin-Ansten, also known as K2 and Dapsang, is the second highest mountain in the world. It lies in Kashmir in northern India and is only about 100 feet shorter than Mt. Everest, the highest in the world.
